SENATOR PLANS AUDITOR FOR CAMPAIGNS.

BRITISH DIET BETTER THAN BEFORE WAR

By RICHARD A. KENDRICK
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Tex., Dec. 30 (UP) — Creation of an auditor of elections, empowered to supervise state and district candidates, election expenses, is provided in a bill which Sen. Karl Lovelady of Meridian will introduce when the 48th Legislature convenes Jan. 12, 1943.

Lovelady's proposal is that candidates deposit their funds of campaign together with all contributions with the election auditor. When candidates desire to spend money, they will draw on the money which they have deposited with a voucher.

Candidates, the bill provides, must designate their campaign managers and he with the candidates must certify all expenditures which they have made or of which they have known knowledge. Maximum expenditures are also set out in the bill, with candidates for U. S. Senate and for governor limited to $10,000.

State office seekers and U. S. congressional candidates are figured at $5,000. State senators would be permitted to spend $1,000, while aspirants for the Texas House would be allowed an outlay of $300. Courts of Civil Appeals candidates could spend $1,500, and district attorney and district judge candidates could use $600.

Candidates for county offices in counties with more than 30,000 population could not expend more than $500, while lesser populated county political aspirants would have a $300 ceiling. All other candidates would be limited to $100, Lovelady proposes.

Candidates may spend as much as they desire on U. S. postage stamps, as the bill excludes from campaign limits. Exemptions are allowed also for money paid for ballot filing and fees to pay the auditor.

However, these amounts must be reported in a final expense statement.

County auditors or county clerks would have similar authority to that of the auditor of elections in regulating county office seeker's expenses under Lovelady's proposal.

The bill stipulates that the auditor of elections must be at least 25 years of age and a certified public accountant. He would be paid out of a fund made up of two and one half per cent of all candidates' funds deposited with him, with a maximum salary of $5,000 yearly.

Penalty for violating the law would be not less than one nor more than two years imprisonment in the state penitentiary.

Court action for state candidates who feel aggrieved would be in Travis County district court with appeal to the Court of Civil Appeals as final.

Sir John said that mothers and children are also the first to get fruit juices made available by occasional imports of oranges under lend-lease. Mothers get a dozen eggs a month, whereas the average Britisher is allowed only one a month.

"We think that their diet is much better than before the war, and we observe a definite improvement in the health of our women and children," he said. "Consequently we took measures to give them complete priority on milk at half the price."

Sir John said that mothers and children are also the first to get fruit juices made available by occasional imports of oranges under lend-lease. Mothers get a dozen eggs a month, whereas the average Britisher is allowed only one a month.

The invasion of Denmark, the Low Countries and France cut off the United Kingdom's normal source of dairy products and bacon, he said. Moreover, the surrender of France necessitated longer hauls by fewer ships under constant danger of enemy submarines and planes.

"Lend-lease shipments from the United States did much to save the situation," Sir John said.

Canadians have sacrificed their normal consumption of bacon to a considerable degree, he said, to afford people of the United Kingdom at least a portion of their favorite breakfast product.

FORMER 'DUST BOWL' GROWS BUMPER CROP

TOPEKA, Kan., (UP) — Farmers of Western and Southwestern Kansas, who refused to leave their land even during the worst days of the drought when much of the region was classed as the "dust bowl," have been completely vindicated in their faith, the Department of Agriculture reports in releasing statistics which show that that area produced a bumper crop of wheat last year.

Last year Kansas produced one of its largest—and probably its most profitable wheat crops in years. And about half of that wheat came from land formerly classed as part of the "dust bowl."

Millions of shelter belt trees have been planted on the plains to help prevent a recurrence of the dust storms of 1934 and 1935 but agricultural experts said that the chief factor in returning the dust bowl to fertility was ample rainfall.

OLD ARGUMENT TO BE SETTLED NEW YEAR DAY

DALLAS, Dec. 30 — A long-standing argument on the relative merits of Southwest and Southern football gets the acid test and answer here New Year's Day when Texas and Georgia Tech, 2 of the nation's finest teams, meet in the Cotton Bowl Classic.

Texas, completing a ten game schedule with eight victories, goes into the game an underdog. Georgia Tech's fine record of nine victories in a suicide schedule has definitely installed the visitors from the deep South as favorites.

A wide-open ball game is predicted by both head coaches, D. X. Bible of Texas and W. A. Alexander of Georgia Tech. The two are old friends and have been swapping plays for many years, with the result that they might find some of their own stuff being used against them from time to time.

Both teams employ a similar type of play and each boasts a heavy line and a backfield built on speed.

Although no personal duel is likely to develop, spotlights of the game are expected to fall on big Roy McKay, Texas' all-around backfield performer who knows all the tricks of the trade in handling the pigskin, and upon Clint Castleberry a slight freshman with a bigger-dipper hip-shaking manner of running and a dazzling left-handed pass.

The bowl is not sold out and tickets will be available at game time, although a section reserved for service men will be well-filled far in advance, as a result of a campaign conducted in Dallas and Atlanta to provide service men in this area with tickets for the classic. The tickets, subsided by many people throughout the states, are to be distributed through U. S. O. headquarters here.

Soldiers' Mess Has Versatile Cooking Staff

CAMP SWIFT, Tex., (UP) — Cooking has an international flavor at Company C, 79th Ordnance Battalion, Camp Swift. The four company cooks are from four foreign countries, and the mess officer is from a fifth.

William de Haan, born in Holland, formerly was a cook in the Dutch army, and has been employed in hotels and restaurants around the world. Jimmy Hoo, born in Canton, China, cooked for the British soldiers in Hong Kong before moving to New York.

Amedee Sargent is a native of France, who fixed meals for the French army before he came to the United States. When the war broke out he was head chef at a well-known New York hotel. Theodore Hormann, born in Germany learned the baking art in Bavaria and in 1928 came to New York.

All four cooks from the company mess were employed in New York when they entered the army.

To complete the international picture, Lt. W. J. H. Thomas, the company mess officer, is a native of Wales, Great Britain.

More Raw Milk Is Required By Dairy Industry In Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. — The Texas dairy manufacturing industry required two and a third million pounds more raw milk during November than in the same month a year ago, according to records of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

It took $1,233,000 pounds of milk in November to produce 2,659,000 pounds of creamery butter, 1,323,000 gallons of ice cream, and 713,000 pounds of American cheese, the report showed.

Increasing diversion of raw milk from cheese production to meet the increasing war-time demand for fluid milk was noted in a 52.8 per cent decline in cheese output from November, 1941, it was pointed out. Butter production increased 4.4 per cent, ice cream 136.6 per cent.

DR. BOSSWELL APPEALS FOR COOPERATION IN CURRICULUM CHANGES

(Editor's Note—The following article was written by Dr. G. C. Boswell, in the interest of the changes planned for the school curriculum.)

In order to meet the needs of our government and fit our young people in an all-out war it will be necessary for our curriculum to be slightly changed at mid-term. It is our plan to make the changes as gradual as it is possible to do. We need to keep in mind that we need to train the young men to make better soldiers, to improve their chances for a specialization job and promotion, not only in the Army but in civilian life as well. However, it will require the wise judgement of school administrators, board members, and citizens, together with the alertness of students, to bring about a clearer and better understanding of just what our educational program aims and objectives for the young life are to be.

We are anticipating changes in our curriculum that will give a stronger physical education course for high school students both boys and girls. We are anticipating for seniors in high school shop work, machine work, radio and automotive-mechanics. Along with these courses certainly we desire to stress business administration such as typing, business law and the science of aviation.

In the past it may be that your son or daughter has not had an inclination to take these specialized studies but we are asking that you have a conference with your children or child and find what he or they really want to do, for this will mean a saving in time, not only for high school students but for the faculty members and money as well and at the same time will prepare the young life for a greater work in this time of emergency.

Every boy and every girl who goes to grade school, or high school or junior college should put forth every ounce of energy to make and to do the highest type of work. Reward will come to those who are prepared. This is no time for quitters, slackers, or people who are indifferent but it is a time when every person, young and adult alike should put their shoulders to the wheels of progress in order that the greatest efficiency may be maintained and that we may assist the men who are on the firing line, and the ones who will soon be there in providing the strongest, the most intellectual soldiers such as America has already produced.

Our freedom will perpetuate among our enemies, that desire for higher standards of life such as American people have attained and who are unselfish in their attainments and desire that the whole world may be made a better place for people in all walks of life to live.

As Superintendent of Public Schools and President of the Ranger Junior College, I solicit your

SOLDIER'S KITS BEING MADE AT SEWING ROOM

Mrs. Arthur L. Murrell, production chairman of the local chapter of the American Red Cross, announced today that the sewing room has again been opened, following the holiday closing, and that work is now being done on the khaki comfort kits for soldiers.

It was stated that Ranger's quota is 50 kits. These will be made here and then sent to Eastland where they will be filled with such articles as sewing kits, razor blades and toilet articles. The money to furnish articles for the kits was raised locally and amounted to $50. The kits will be sent to our soldiers.

It was stated that Ranger's

AXIS ARMIES UNDER SEVERE PRESSURE ON AFRICAN AND RUSSIAN BATTLE FRONTS

Axis armies today were under severe pressure on the Russian and African fronts with the Fighting French Desert Force moving up from Lake Chad, approaching Tripoli from the south and threatening to hem in Germany's North African forces on three sides.

The tempo of the North African fighting increased as the Germans made their first air raid on Casablanca where there were casualties among the Moroccan population. But the German position in North Africa became increasingly weak as the Axis admitted that British armored patrols were operating south of Tripoli. This indicated that General Sir Montgomery may have executed another flanking movement in an attempt to cut off the retreat of the Afrika Korps from Tripolitania into Tunisia.

An American tank, motorized infantry column was said to be within 40 miles of a Tunisian city which is 190 air miles west of Tripoli.

On the Russian front, the Red army in an unbroken 48-hour advance was threatening Elista, capital of the Kalmyk Republic, southwest of Stalingrad.

Front dispatches said that the Red Army in the middle of the Don sector had pushed into the northeastern section's rich industrial and mining section of Voronezh and is now 50 miles west of the Rostov-Moscow railroad.

Within the last 24 hours the Red army has driven 15 miles beyond Kotelnikovsk and captured 11 towns and two district centers.

The Russians are now in a position to swing the left flank column into the drive for Rostov.

In Washington the navy announced that American planes were keeping up a barrage on Japanese positions in the Solomons.

CONSUMPTION OF NEWSPRINT ORDERED CUT

WASHINGTON—The WPB acting on the recommendation of its newspaper advisory committee, today ordered consumption of newsprint cut back to the amount that was used to meet the needs for net circulations in 1941.

This will have the effect of reducing consumption an average of 10 per cent below current levels, WPB said.

Bureau Reports Improvements In Texas Business

AUSTIN.—Major business factors of Texas unanimously improved during November, to reach a composite index of 171.8 the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports.

This index, composed of payroll rolls, employment, freight car loadings, runs of crude oil to refineries, stills, department store sales and electric power consumption, was 8.3 points above October and nearly 60 points ahead of November, 1941.

Electric power use led the advance—22.1 points over October, and 80 points above November a year ago. Payrolls gained 9.4 points over October, employment 2 points, carloadings, 8.3 points, crude runs 2.1 points and department store sales 3.2 points.

Argentina's Foreign Office said in a formal statement issued today that the British government "deplores the policy of Argentina in remaining in diplomatic relations with the enemies of humanity."

Medical Division, U. S. Office of Civilian Defense. Blood plasma storage is being built up constantly and arrangements for rapid transportation of it to the scene of an emergency are being made with the cooperation of the Civil Air Patrol. Of general interest is the fact that OCD blood plasma was used in treating many victims of the recent Boston fire.

WARM RECEPTION

CHAPTER XXVIII

"QUICK! Straighten things up! Oh, hurry, everybody, hurry! The dinner table—I had everything set. The chairs—my clothes—Oh!"

Nancy Hale was incoherent but she was working furiously.

Automatically the others pitched in. The living room looked like a wreck one moment and looked neat again the next. In spite of Blythe's and Duane's fight with the two detectives, things hadn't been broken. The detective called Ed went over to the window and peeked out.

"So that's them, Ed!" he said. "I know them two. By gosh!"

"I don't get it," Duane Hogan began. "Do you mean to tell me, Nancy, or Bly, that you—"

Nancy looked desperate. "I tell you we haven't time to talk now! Duane, dump those clothes back in the closet. And Scooter's toys. I've got to get an apron on and look calm! Don't you understand? Calm!"

"But how can—"

The detective spoke again. "Mrs. Hale's right. Help her go through with it. We got to have proof! Evidence, see."

"Yes! Oh, Duane—you and Blythe. Come with me!"

Frantically now she began to hear all of them right back into that same clothes closet!

First she pushed Duane in. Then Nancy. Next the two detectives themselves. All the while she was stage-whispering instructions to them.

"You must be absolutely quiet! They're coming around the building. They'll be careful so nobody will see them start up the stairs. You get back in the closet. Way back! It's big. They used to store gym equipment there. Back against the wall, all of you! Remember the gamblers were to hide in there, too, and they may come snooping, so you—"

"Mrs. Hale, you make 'em talk again, see!" a detective asked. "Make 'em repeat what they said to you before. Everything! And don't give 'em no chance to harm you. They'll have guns that ain't loaded with blanks!"

"Sh-h-h-h-h-h!" warned Nancy. Next moment the closet door closed.

BLYTHE could feel the utter strangeness here. For the second time in 15 minutes she was in this place, this time with two other men. She could see their presence even if she could see nothing. She could hear Nancy tripping around outside, obviously in last-second arranging of details. Her own thumping pulse was likely to give everything away, Bly felt.

All at once, then, everything else went still.

Nancy could be heard no more.

The detective named Ed was still breathing a little heavily from his exertion with Duane. But Duane himself, backed against the closet wall, was like a man of iron.

Slowly, surprisingly—and deviously—Blythe realized that Duane's arm was completely around her! She could feel the rise and ebb of his own slow breathing as he held her to his side. His muscles were tense. A sturdy draggy—it may actually have been two minutes—and then she felt Duane stirring.

"You all right?" he whispered, right at her ear.

For answer she squeezed back on the hand that held hers.

"I couldn't have stood it, he whispered, "if you hadn't been. If any harm had come to you!"

Good old Duane! The best friend a girl ever had.

"Bly."

"Yes, Duane."

"They—I don't hear them yet."

"No."

"I want to say—Bly—it seems to me the time has come for me to say what I've wanted to say. I have to ask you something."

"Nancy was innocent. Duane! Don't you understand? She was in the kitchen for ever so long. It was horrible. But she wasn't trying to do anything mean, instead, she was—"

"I wasn't talking about Nancy."

"What?"

Nancy's footsteps again were tripping nervously around outside.

One of the detectives felt back through the darkness and touched Blythe in warning to be still. But Duane didn't know that.

"Bly," said he, whispering ever so low, right at her cheek, "You had the courage . . . to come up here alone! To try to—"

"Sh-h-h-h-h!" the detective ventured, just in time.

The extent of the Eighth OCD Region includes the states of Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

A unit of plasma is 250 cubic centimeters or about one pint and represents the contribution of one individual to the OCD medical program. Many persons have made more than one contribution to the plasma banks.

Cities in this five-state region where the plasma reserves are now located:

Texas—Corpus Christi, Coldspring, Dallas, Decatur, Galveston, Houston, Harlin, Terrell, Tyler, Beaumont, Fort Worth, and El Paso.

Louisiana—Alexandria, Lafayette, New Orleans, and Shreveport.

Oklahoma—Chickasha, Claremore, Cordell, Enid, Holdenville, Muskogee, Oklahoma City, Pawhuska, Ponca City, and Woodward.

Arkansas—Little Rock.
