EASTLAND COUNTY MORE THAN DOUBLES MAY QUOTA IN THE PURCHASE OF BONDS, STAMPS

Ranger leads county in purchase with a total of $64,282.50 which is more than the county quota

Once again Eastland county has gone over the top on the sale of War Bonds and Stamps according to figures just released. With a quota of $50,400 for the county for the month of May actual sales totaled $107,024.50.

Following is the report released by Cyrus B. Frost, Eastland county chairman for the sale of Bonds and Stamps:

"Our quota for May in the War Finance Drive was $50,400, and under the rulings of the Treasury, at least for the present, that quota, as well as the June quota which has been set at $50,400.00, has to be raised from Series E Bonds Alone.

During the month of May we sold $52,524.50 of Series E Bonds, $50,000.00 of Series G Bonds and $50,000.00 of the two per cent bonds which were so popular during the April special drive in which the county sold more than One Million of all classes of War Bonds. So for the month of May we actually exceeded our quota of $50,400.00 by the sale of Series E Bonds alone, and the total sale of all War Bonds for the month of May was $107,024.50.

The fiscal year ends June 30, 1943, and for the twelve months period ending June 30, 1943, it was first the desire of the Government that Series E, F and G Bonds be sold to a total of Twelve Billion Dollars. Of course, the Series E Bond has been the regular bond with the people and a large per cent of the assigned quota for the year has been made up out of the sale of these bonds. But just at this time it would seem for the months of May and June that we are going to have to make our county quota from the sale of Series E, F and G Bonds in addition to buying a considerable quota of F and G Bonds in addition to the Twelve Billion sales for the Nation may be accomplished by the end of June 30th. In other words, we have got to do just a little more for the month of June than we have been doing if the Nation as a whole reaches its quota of Twelve Billion and, of course, we do not want to fall in this as to our part.

So, as County Chairman, I would suggest to you who have already bought your full quota of Series E Bonds for the calendar year 1943 that you have surplus money to put in bonds go ahead and purchase as many of the Series F and G Bonds for June as your bank accounts will stand. In this connection, it is to be hoped that beginning with the new fiscal year of July 1, 1943, that our quotas will again be assigned on a basis of Series E, F and G Bonds as these bonds have all been advertised and popularized together and they all are popular bonds with the people. We feel sure that the Treasury Department will see fit to again combine these bonds for our quotas beginning July 1, 1943.

Sales broken down are as follows:

Ranger	$14,282.50
Cisco	12,567.05
Eastland	10,032.50
Rising Star	8,130.75
Gorman	4,481.25
Carbon	1,393.75
Olden	898.75
Desdemona	202.70
Pioneer	17.65
Scranton	10.50
Okra	7.00
Nimrod	.10

In addition to the above, Rising Star bought $5000.00 worth of Series G and Ranger bought $50,000.00 worth of two per cent bonds, which makes the total of $107,024.50.

Our boys and girls continue to do a good job at the front. Some of them are not going to return home. We must not let them down either in life or in death!

Pennsylvania Mines Reach An Agreement With John L. Lewis

WASHINGTON, June 9 (UP)—John L. Lewis broke the solid front among Appalachian coal operators Wednesday night and reached a tentative agreement with Central Pennsylvania operators representing approximately 10 per cent of the nation's production.

The Central Pennsylvania operators headed by Charles O'Neill, who previously had been spokesman for the northern Appalachian operators, withdrew from the conference.

Lewis and O'Neill announced at a joint conference that they had reached an agreement which they thought they could put into writing by Thursday.

Meanwhile the remaining northern operators and the southern operators announced they would not meet with the UMW Thursday but would attend the public hearing called by the War Labor Board on the wage dispute.

O'Neill said the Central Pennsylvania group would send a representative to the hearing and report they had reached an agreement with the union.

O'Neill and Lewis declined to reveal the terms of the agreement on the amount they agreed on to settle the basic issue of portal-to-portal pay.

Lewis said the same terms would be offered to other operators in the Appalachian field.

"I have no doubt it will be accepted unless there is political and financial interference," he said.

He called the agreement a constructive solution for the whole problem.

Asked if the UMW would be represented at the WLB hearing, Lewis said the union officials would be attending the Appalachian conference at 10 a. m. This he was consistent with his adamant attitude in refusing to deal with the board or recognize its jurisdiction.

O'Neill said the agreements would be submitted to the board for approval. When Lewis was asked if the union would submit it to the board he said it would be approved by all authorized government agencies, by those agencies which must approve price adjustments to cover wage increases.

O'Neill said he regretted the need to withdraw from the Appalachian conference and said it was motivated by the liabilities accruing under the LB order.

WILL BE DOUBLED AGAIN BY SEPTEMBER, SAYS OFFICER, AND READY FOR PRIMARY OBJECTIVE

Simultaneous announcements say battle of Atlantic improved as aerial battle of Mediterranean pushed —American and British air strength will be great enough by the end of the summer to accomplish their primary objective—knock out German industrial and military targets and make a "tactician's dream come true," Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker said today.

The chief of the U. S. Army Air Force in Britain said it had been doubled since March and would be doubled again by September. By Autumn it will be carrying its full share of the offensive against the Axis, Eaker said.

Simultaneously an authoritative source said in London that the Battle of the Atlantic had improved to a point at which periods of many days elapse without the torpedoing of a single Allied ship.

The optimistic reports came as the Allies pressed their aerial offensive against the Axis outposts in the Mediterranean, smashing relentlessly at Pantelleria and Sicilian airdromes.

REDS TAKE BIG TOLL IN RAIDS ON AIRDROMES

Six Raids on Eastern Front Net Destruction of 150 to 160 German Planes.

LONDON, June 10 (Thursday) (UP)—Striking at six key German airdromes on the eastern front Tuesday night in its campaign to break up preparations for a giant enemy offensive the Russian air force damaged or destroyed between 150 and 160 planes at a cost of twenty-one of its own craft, the Moscow radio reported Thursday.

Radio Moscow revealed also that the Germans had thrown seventy planes, in three waves, against Volkovo, eighty miles southeast of Leningrad on the Leningrad-Moscow Railroad, and said that twenty-four of them had been downed.

Attacking by daylight Tuesday in a blow at the anchor position of the Russians along the Volkhov River front, the Germans met a wall of antiaircraft fire and powerful fighter plane resistance, Moscow said, with the result that damage was confined to four houses. Two Russian planes were lost, it was said.

Russian and German reports agreed that the eastern air front war was approaching its crescendo in preparation for the summer campaign.

Germany, in a Berlin radio broadcast, reporting a big raid on Oranienbaum, sixteen miles west of Leningrad, inadvertently revealed that the Russians now hold that strategically important town on the coast opposite Kranstut fort and naval base on Kotlin Island, in Kronstadt Bay.

It has long been believed that the Russian line extended only to the vicinity of Peterhof, twelve miles west-southwest of Leningrad and six miles from Oranienbaum.

In their Tuesday night raids, radio Moscow said, the Russian planes attacked not only airdromes but adjacent fuel and ammunition stores.

United Press Moscow dispatches had revealed that the Germans were speeding up their offensive preparations in the important Bryansk-Orel sector at the hinge of the southern and central fronts.

Germany in its latest attacks was striking at the Leningrad front, Volkovo, and the Gorki armament works 250 miles east of Moscow.

A German broadcast recorded here, complaining that President Roosevelt's stern warning against gas warfare, was completely uncalled for hinted that Germany was preparing to attack Russia on a great scale from the air. There is a surprisingly large German air fleet in Russia, the broadcast said.

The dispatches said that the Russians were concentrating the heaviest weight of their unprecedented raids on this area, in an attempt to disrupt German plans.

WASHINGTON, (UP)—Flying Fortress heavy bombers, escorted by fighter planes, have again bombed the Japanese air base at Munda in the Central Solomons, the Navy announced today.

Meanwhile, the war in the Southwest Pacific is about to enter the offensive phase for the Allies, it was believed as Prime Minister John Curtin announced that Australia no longer is in danger of invasion and can now be used as a base for both "limited and major" operations against Japan.

VALLETTA, Malta, (UP)—The belief grew among observers on Malta today that the Italian island fortress of Pantelleria will be forced to capitulate.

Curtain's statement, issued shortly after a strategy conference with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, marked a complete change in his attitude from one of pessimism to one of undisguised optimism. For the past year, he had warned periodically that Australia was in grave danger so long as the Allies devoted their greater energies toward the European war.

Students Learn Construction Of Glider Wings

DENTON, Tex. (UP)—Industrial arts students in the North Texas State Teachers College workshop are busy on a new form of laboratory learning—they are building a glider wing.

With needle and thread, glider and saw, the men construct the glider wing to meet specifications, then tear it apart or rip holes in it, so they can start all over again bringing it back to perfection.

Throughout the progress of the course, the students have made trips to a local flying field to study gliders, and when the present major project is completed, the boys will have a thorough knowledge of glider care and construction, the class instructor points out.

Army Chaplains Give Lives To Save Seamen On Convoy

The four United States Army Chaplains who gave their lives so that seamen of the Army Transport Service might live to carry on are shown here. 1. Rev. Clark V. Poling; 2. Father John P. Washington; 3. Rev. George L. Fox; 4. Rabbi Alexander D. Goode.

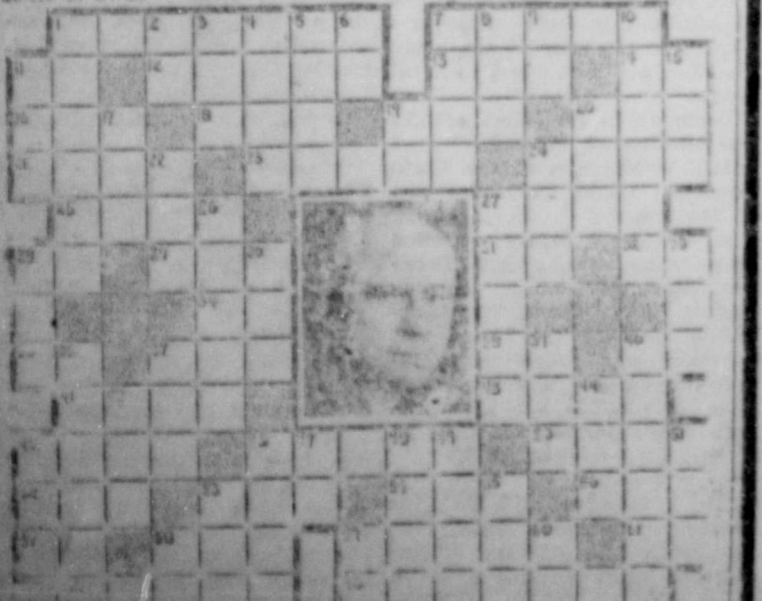

WASHINGTON, June 9.—As thousands of American churches prepare to take part in "Flag Week," June 13, there comes from the files of the War Department, Office of the Chief of Chaplains, a tale of stark heroism, love for fellow man and love for flag and country unrivaled in the patriotic annals of the United States.

Surrendering all hope of saving their own lives, four young Army Chaplains, a Catholic, a Jew and two Protestants aboard a torpedoed vessel in the Army Transport Service, insisted on giving their own lifebelts to four seamen, joined hands as they stood upon the unsteady deck of their sinking ship and prayed as the last lifeboat drew away in a heavy winter.

The chaplains were seen no more; the sailors reached havens of safety, and the story of these self-sacrificing men of the church was partially told by one of the saved men, Daniel O'Keefe, a 19-year-old seaman of the United States Merchant Marine Service. Eventually the few facts of the heroic episode were gathered by the office of Chief of Chaplains, Brigadier General William R. Ar-

SERIAL STORY Beth Carter, WAAC

BY LORETTE COOPER

WOUNDED CHAPTER XIX

A SOLDIER stepped in from the spotting room across the hall. He laid a piece of paper before her. He had crossed that hall every 10 minutes all afternoon, and laid a similar piece of paper on the desk top; but none previous to this one had the necessary information.

Beth read it. She was sure everything was all right. She turned briefly to the tactical plan again.

She knew what was going on miles away, even though she could not see it. A Japanese bomber force estimated at 20 planes, had been right, down to the plane was approaching from the northwest.

Beth picked up the field telephone and rang the switchboard. She said the fateful words into the mouthpiece.

"Enemy aircraft approaching. Never Never Wrong. Twelve—One Two, Twelve—minutes away. Twenty—Two Zero, Twenty—in number. Repeating: Enemy aircraft approaching Never Never Wrong. Twelve—One Two, Twelve—minutes away. Twenty—Two Zero, Twenty—in number." Beth caught her breath.

Then she continued. "Man the guns and fly the barrage!" She heard the individual emplacement commander check back. As each did so, she said, "Check." When the last one had reported, she hung up the field telephone.

She had sent these men into battle. Beth looked at her watch. It had taken three minutes to obtain all the reports. There had they're not hitting anything important and the anti-aircraft guns have bagged a couple of planes. Then he was gone.

HER attention was attracted by one of the planes. It had begun a dive toward the far end of the cove. When it was 500 feet above the beach it exploded.

A cloud of smoke arose from far down the island. Beth wondered whether it came from a downed plane or from a bomb hit on an installation. Then her attention went back to the battle.

Now there were only three planes in evidence. They circled high overhead. A bomb crashed down from one of them, and it was dangerously near the headquarters area. It was evident that they had discovered the heart of their target.

One of the planes pulled into a dive, a steep dive that pointed its nose directly at the headquarters section. Beth stood rooted to the island soil, watching the plane grow larger as it came down. Two more were getting ready to follow it in.

The diving bomber came closer and closer. Suddenly it jerked around as though an unseen hand had been laid on it and crazily swept over the area to crash and explode 200 yards beyond.

The bomber had hardly crashed before she saw a balloon float higher and then away. The balloon's mile of steel cable had trapped the Jap bomber. The great flying elephant was moving lazily skyward, its mooring cut by the impact.

The other two bombers hesitated and circled at the sight of their mate crashing. The hesitation was brief but it was long enough for the American gunners.

Beth saw pieces of debris fall. She moved to the shelter of the steps. Then something, a fragment of a shell struck her. She stumbled and fell and instantly lost consciousness. A trickle of blood ran from the wound in her scalp onto the sand.

How to Defrost Your Electric Refrigerator Quickly

You can save time and keep frozen foods from thawing by using a quick method of defrosting your electric refrigerator. Consult your refrigerator instruction book for a defrosting method recommended by the manufacturer, or try suggestions below.

1. Turn the control switch to "off" and remove everything from the freezer compartment. Wrap frozen foods with several thicknesses of paper and put them on a refrigerator shelf. They won't thaw out in the short time required for defrosting.
2. Fill a pan or baking dish with hot water and place on the bottom shelf of the freezer compartment. Do not use the quick-release type ice trays for this purpose, as they usually are coated with a thin film of wax that will wash away in hot water.
3. Clean the food compartment and racks with a solution of one quart of cool water and a teaspoonful of baking soda. By this time, the layer of frost should be melted from the freezer compartment, which also should be cleaned with the soda solution.
4. Wipe the refrigerator dry and refill the ice trays. Old ice cubes collect food odors and sometime acquire a stale taste. Then turn the control switch to "on".

NEA Washington Correspondent

CERTAIN smart California dealers are credited with a new cut-throat trick to beat the maximum ceiling price on potatoes, but they may not get away with it. The case is interesting though, because if it checked, the racket might have spread to other food commodities. It shows the ingenuity of some of these operators in evading price regulations, and it's a good example of why all bureaucrats are gradually going nuts trying to keep ahead of the chisellers.

Edson

The story begins with Maximum Price Regulation No. 271, covering potatoes and dry onions. The onions are just for seasoning as far as the story goes, potatoes being the principal dish under discussion. MPR 271 sets specified dollar and cents ceiling prices on potatoes at the country shipper level, packed and loaded on a carrier, plus specified fixed markups for transportation to market, plus wholesalers' and retailers' profits, given in the end a maximum price for consumers. But at the beginning, the ceiling is an F. O. B. price at the growers' shipping point.

Out in the California potato country, certain slick citizens read over this regulation and they say, "Hmmm! What's to prevent us from buying potatoes in the ground? There isn't any ceiling price on potatoes in the ground. So we could buy the potatoes before they're dug, before they're sacked."

As a smart dodge to beat the price ceilings, this is about as neat a trick as the Office of Price Administration enforcement officials have run into yet. It isn't legally wrong perhaps, but it is a technical evasion of the OPA regulations prompted only by greed, and the most vicious kind of war profiteering.

Now consider part two of the story, or what happens next. OPA enforcement officials hear about this slick evasion of their order 271. They decide to issue an "interpretation" of the order which will stop further sales of potatoes in the ground at higher than ceiling prices. Hooking up their 118 regional offices on a teletype circuit, they send out from Washington their interpretation to the effect that sales of unharvested potatoes above the country shipper's ceiling price violate the letter as well as the spirit of MPR 271 and should be prosecuted because such buyers are in effect country shippers selling to themselves as intermediate sellers, and therefore their net costs may not exceed the country shipper's maximum price plus the cost of transportation to the customary receiving point.

Just to play safe, OPA decides to issue a revision of MPR 271 to tighten up this and other loopholes in the original potato order, and to incorporate the interpretation.

OPA lawyers send this revised draft over to the Food Distribution Administration for their checkup. FDA potato experts keep it a couple of days, then send it back with a lot of reasons why the revised order is so good, too, and a lot of suggestions as to what will have to be done to make the order workable.

Eventually, a revised potato order will be issued which will control these smart guys who are so clever at finding ways to evade price regulations. But here you have a perfect example of just one of the headaches which daily confront the much-maligned bureaucrats who on the one hand are trying to encourage production of more potatoes while on the other hand they're trying to keep prices under control and prevent inflation.

"They don't talk about sacrifice. They talk about getting the job done. All they're asking of us is to give them a lift."

Uniform Currency Suggested As A Fifth Freedom

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—Adoption of a uniform currency, abolition of all trade barriers and customs tariffs within Europe and permission for any European citizen to emigrate to any country on the continent to work were advocated by Northwestern University professor of economics Dr. Paul Haensel as the best method of eliminating the chief causes of Europe's wars.

Haensel, 65, who is scheduled for retirement as professor emeritus from Northwestern University in 1943, has taught at the University since 1930.

The Allies must recognize, he said, "that no matter what nations or boundaries are restored or created, the Europe of the future must not be divided into separate economic units."

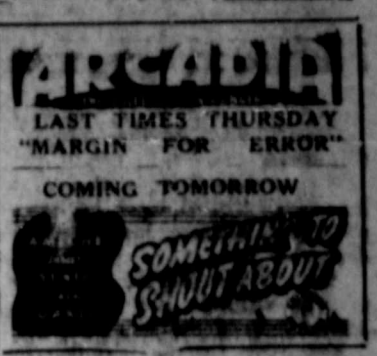

"After the war Europe will have most of her industry destroyed or worn out and her former economic relations uprooted. A new life will begin and it must be based upon the principle of free trade between all nations on the European continent outside of Russia. Russia would be excluded from this condition since it would be incompatible with her fundamental economic system."

In foreign trade with other countries, the European nations must adopt the policy of low tariffs, not over 20 per cent ad valorem, Haensel stressed.

The establishment of a free trade system would be simplified by the creation of a uniform European currency, he said.

"The most advisable form would be the so-called gramor or ogold currency which is based on the unit of one metric gram or of one troy ounce of fine gold," he explained.

Haensel recommended that in addition to adopting the four freedoms of the Atlantic Charter European nations add a fifth freedom, "namely the freedom and right to emigrate from the country of birth and allegiance."

This freedom, he said, would involve the right of travel with out passport visas and to engage in any industry or profession on equal terms for all citizens of any European country everywhere within the European boundaries.
