Battle For Okinawa Now In Last Hours

Sgt. Fonville

Late Soldier

Just how their son, Sgt. Harvey L. Fonville, met his death on the battlefields of Europe has been told to Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fonville in a letter received from the chaplain who was serving their son's company at the time.

The chaplain stated that his company was attacking enemy held positions near the town of Schatz, Germany, late in February. They were subjected to heavy machine gun fire and in moving forward to knock out an enemy gun, Sgt. Fonville stepped on a mine that exploded and wounded him. One of his buddies, seeing that Harvey was injured, attempted to reach him and render aid but he accidentally set off another mine which exploded, killing the injured sergeant instantly.

The chaplain stated that he was given a dignified funeral and interment was in a United States cemetery somewhere in Holland.

Sgt. Fonville had been awarded the Silver Star for gallantry in action and the Purple Heart which was awarded him for wounds received previously.

He entered the service on October 26, 1943 and on November 17, reported to Camp Wolters for induction. He later took training at Fort Riley, Kansas, in the mechanized cavalry, at Ft. Jackson, S. C., and Camp Van Dorn, Miss. He landed in France early in December 1944 and was killed in action in Germany on February 23, 1945.

He was a graduate of Ranger high school and before entering service he was employed by the Piggy-Wiggly store and at the time of his induction was employed by the A&V Store.

He was a member of the First Baptist church and also attended B.T.U. and the J.O.V. class. Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Miss Maxine Fonville, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fonville of DeWittsburg and Mrs. J. J. Wooten of Strawn.

Infantrymen To Give Bond Show At Camp Wolters

CAMP WOLTERS, Tex. — Mineral Wells is to be invaded Monday night by a platoon of combat infantrymen, who will put on the Army Ground Forces presentation of "Here's Your Infantry," at Miller Field, west of town, at 8 p. m. Admission is free.

There are 25 "Here's Your Infantry" teams touring the country during the current War Loan Drive, to help in selling war bonds, to show the people of America that the decisive factor in warfare is the ability of the Infantry to fight its way in, eliminate the enemy, and hold the ground, and to focus public attention on the necessity for a redoubled war effort to defeat Japan quickly.

The program itself is in three parts. The first consists of 13 exhibits of Infantry weapons, equipment and ration. Infantrymen who have used the weapons in battle and have lived for days on the rations are in charge of the display. The exhibit will be shown in downtown Mineral Wells Monday afternoon.

The action part of "Here's Your Infantry" is to be performed on Miller Field. The basic Infantry unit, the rifle squad, is built up graphically into a platoon by the addition of more riflemen, machine gunner, mortar men and rocketeers. As a climax, the Infantrymen, all combat veterans, are formed into a combat patrol which reenacts an attack on a Japanese pillbox. The moments of tense silence as the Infantrymen crawl from position up the full length of the field, the sudden thunderous explosions of mortar shells, the sharp, staccato bursts of machine gun and rifle fire, are all a prelude to the final rush over barbed wire on a "human bridge" and the wiping out of the pillbox by jets of flame-throwers. It is a true-to-life projection back home of Infantry in action overseas.

The field on which the assault is carried out becomes an area in the Pacific through the effectiveness of suggestion. The audience is transported to the battlefield and before its eyes the Infantrymen crawl and crawl, tangle with the enemy, and use their weapons to deal out death. Blank cartridges, tracers, dynamite charges and smoke grenades add to the concept of battle. Under the careful supervision of a demolition expert they convince the audience that the attack is real.

The units taking part in "Here's Your Infantry" were trained at the infantry school, Ft. Benning, Ga. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Secretary of the Treasury asked Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, Commanding General of the Army Ground Forces, to organize the teams which are now touring the country. Said the Secretary of the Treasury concerning the teams which participated during the Sixth War Loan Drive, "I do not think that we have ever received more spontaneous reports in praise of a single promotional operation. In every case the return of the unit (to the community) for the next drive was requested."

BRITAIN SEES NO CHANGE IN AIR CARRIER

LONDON (UP) — "Postwar air transports will not, as has been popularly supposed, be jet propelled nor will they be helicopters," was the opinion recently expressed by Lord Sempill one of Britain's pioneer airmen and former chairman of the Royal Aeronautical Society.

In Sempill's opinion, air transports in the immediate postwar years will be similar in design to those in use today for military purposes. The comfort and convenience of passengers will be studied and the planes will be air-conditioned and pressurized. Cabins in these machines Lord Sempill said "will be insulated more thoroughly against extremes of temperature and also against noise and vibration. There will be fully equipped galley with electric cookers so that hot meals may be cooked for the passengers."

Medium-type transports will weigh some 35 tons and carry some 40 passengers seated or 20 if sleeping berths are provided and cruising at around 230 miles per hour. The largest class of transport, Lord Sempill said, would carry some 150 passengers "but this number would be reduced to 120 for long flights where the provision of some 20 per cent of berths would be necessary. Such a craft would weigh just under 100 tons and would require four pilots, three stewards, two radio operators, a navigator, and an engineer. It would cruise around 280 miles per hour.

In the five years after the war with Japan Sempill estimates some 100,000 round trips will be made annually across the Atlantic. At the end of 19 years, in his opinion, this figure will be doubled and will constitute about half of international air travel. Britain also has her eye on the enormous possibilities presented by airborne freight. A new long-ranged freight carrier to compete on world air routes was recently announced by one of Britain's leading aircraft manufacturers. It is the Handley Page "Hermes" which, as a civil passenger flier, has already been announced.

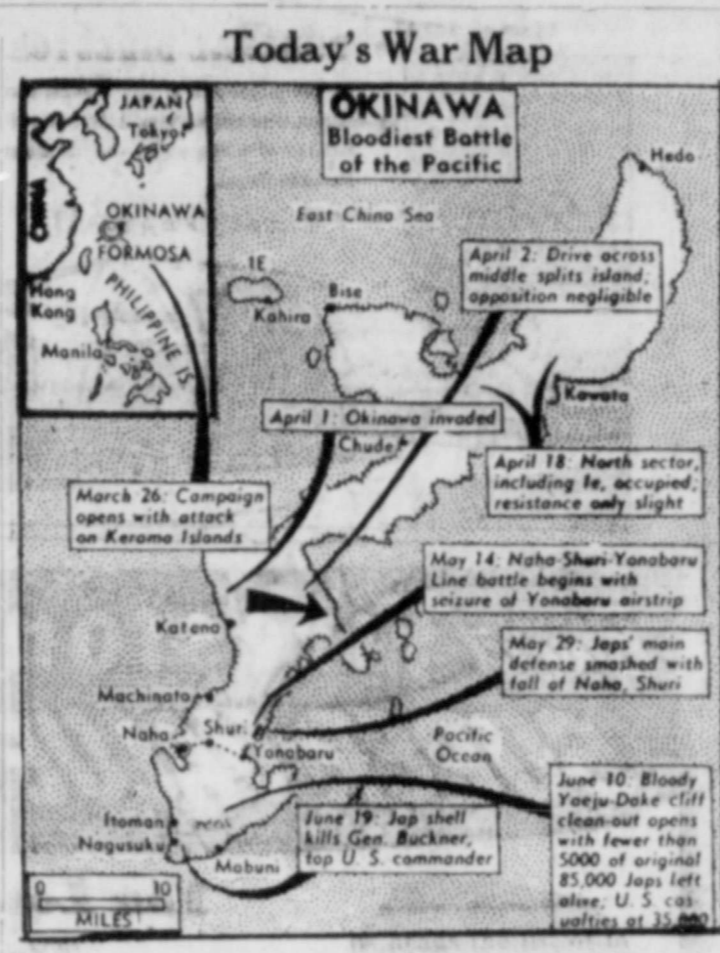

The new freighter is of the same big-scale dimensions as the air liner but its fuselage has been strengthened to take bulky, heavy freight through specially-fitted doors, opening outward, giving an entrance of nine feet four inches by five feet nine inches. Although this aircraft is designed for a maximum level speed of 337 miles per hour, it can at 240 miles per hour carry 1,800 pounds for 3,040 miles. At the slower speed of 194 miles per hour, the mileage with the same payloads are further increased. The main freight compartment has a capacity of 3,000 cubic feet and in addition there is a further 120 cubic feet of freight space available in two holds on the under side of the fuselage.

Galloway Not To Accept Offer Of Ranger C. of C.

R. V. (Rip) Galloway who Monday night was elected manager of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce told the Times today that he will not accept the position as he had already made other connections before the place was offered him.

Galloway stated that he has accepted a position with the Connelley printing establishment of Eastland and will take up his duties with the organization on July 1. He expects to move his family back to Eastland and their home there is being prepared for their occupation.

Galloway stated that while he appreciated the offer from the Chamber of Commerce that the Eastland offer was a much better proposition and that he could not afford to turn it down.

The Battle of Okinawa now heads the list of bloody Pacific Island operations, with 10,000 Americans killed and 25,000 wounded against more than 80,000 Japs killed. In set shows initial attack on Kerama Islands, while the larger portion shows invasion of Okinawa and stages leading to mopping up operations in the Yaeju-Dake area. (NEA Telemap.)

GI in Philippines Finds Parents, Freed By Yanks

With The 7th Infantry Division in the Philippines (UP) — Sgt. Walter A. Flint, 25, Los Angeles, a member of the Purple Heart and Silver Star, received two letters in three years from his parents, interned in a Japanese prison camp, so he set about contacting them when he got to the Philippines.

From the letters he believed they were interned on Luzon in Santo Tomas. After fighting at Leyte he won permission to fly to Luzon and attach himself to any fighting unit battling for Santo Tomas.

He received a letter from his grandparents at home, the morning his plane was to take off, saying the Flints had been transferred to Mindanao.

He joined the fighting at Santo Tomas hoping they were mistaken, and found his parents had been transferred to Los Banos, another Japanese prison camp. Flint hitchhiked to the front in time to join the attack on Los Banos. When he arrived his parents had been transferred again, this time to a camp previously taken by Yanks.

He arrived at last at the camp whose name was not given, to find his parents eating their evening meal.

Christmas Gift Bring Dividends

CAMP WOLTERS, Tex. (UP) — A Camp Wolters private sent a Christmas present to his wife, and now he's making money from it. The present was a model of a soldier, all bent over, carrying "the weight of the world" on his back. The soldier called his model "Joe Invictus."

"My wife thought the model was so good that she began making hard plaster copies of Joe," he said, "and placed them on consignment in stores of Mineral Wells. They seem to be selling very well."

NEW DEVICE IS BOON TO UNIFORM STEEL

INDIANAPOLIS, (UP) — A six-foot pipe-like instrument is supplanting eyes of highly experienced steel workers in gauging open hearth furnaces temperatures in Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp's Gary works. The more uniform quality steel that results has proved a great boon to the nation's war effort.

Scientific name of the instrument is "pyrometer," or fire measurer. Its appearance is similar to a bazooka and it directly measures temperatures of the white-hot molten steel.

Before Fred L. Collins and Carl Osland, research experts at the Gary works, invented the device, the eyes of the millmen were the most skillful check on furnace temperatures.

An open hearth melter can make a fairly accurate estimate by observing the activity of the reaction between slag and metal, the brightness of the slag's surface, or the brightness of the metal when poured into a liquid cooling spoon.

But, these methods rely on the talents of a single, highly trained man. Yet, the quality and composition of poured steel must be uniform, subject to no variations.

Hence, for years, steel research men have tried to perfect a pyrometer. Heretofore, all failed. A pyrometer is used to read temperatures at their peak. A metallic nose, on the end of a long, tubular pipe, is submerged beneath the slag in the bath, measuring the temperature of the mass.

Back in 1936, E. B. Soeman, assistant research director at one of the corporation's laboratories, conducted a comparison study of the methods for determining temperatures of molten metal in open hearth furnaces. The system that seemed the most promising, was that of Collins and Osland.

Of the many mechanical methods tried, few attained any success. They were unable to stand up under the extreme heat or rough usage by the millmen. This happened to the first Collins-Osland invention. Their latest innovation, perfected in 1940, is now in use by the corporation's many steel mills, but its performance is a military secret.

RAF To Continue Ariz. Air School

MESA, Ariz. (UP) — Despite the defeat of Germany, Britain still continues to operate Falcon Field on the desert near here to train pilots for the Pacific war.

RAF Wing Comdr. A. B. Rogers squeaked local V-E Day rumors that training would be halted at the field where thousands of British cadets have earned their wings. The rumors were spurred when the U. S. Army Air Forces recently closed Thunderbolt fields Nos. 1 and 2, near Phoenix.

French To Ask British Aid In Syria, Lebanon

PARIS The French consultative assembly voted unanimously last night to ask the government to negotiate a Franco-British Alliance to complement the present Franco-Russian Alliance.

The action came shortly after General De Gaulle had told the assembly that Britain was attempting to oust France from Syria and Lebanon.

He extended the Leven states were incapable of governing them selves without outside help.

FEW REMAINING JAPANESE FACE ANNIHILATION

PEARL HARBOR (UP) — Japanese forces on Okinawa—what there was left of them—faced slaughter, suicide or surrender today as the campaign entered its closing hours.

Scores of enemy soldiers leaped into the sea from the cliffs on the island's southern tip. Many surrendered, more than ever before in the Pacific war. The rest waited in their foxholes and caves until Americans fell upon them and killed them. There were few left and the victory was all but won.

Strong winds swept across the Japanese homeland and fanned the fire set by Superforts in their attacks on three cities over a dozen hours earlier. It looked as if the Superforts would not have to bother any more with the cities—Shizuoka and Toyohashi on Honshu and Hukuoka on Kyushu.

Japanese broadcasts reported that minesweepers had started to work clearing Balikpapan Bay, perhaps preliminary to an invasion of the rich oil area on Borneo's east coast.

Another Tokyo report was that a fleet of over 200 American transports was massed in the Seram islands, 20 miles southwest of Okinawa. There was no speculation about where they might be going.

The Japanese also said they had sighted two Allied task forces near Miyko island, 200 miles southwest of Okinawa.

On the Chinese mainland, the Japanese were on the verge of losing another highly desired base as Chinese forces drove into the suburbs of Luochow in South China. One Chinese column was three miles from the airfield used as an American bomber base.

Sugar Shortage Will Cut Down Coca-Cola Supply

The supply of Coca-Cola in Ranger definitely will be affected by further curtailment in the supply of sugar after July 1st because the manufacturer of that popular drink will not compromise with the use of substitutes. However, an equitable system of rationing will be maintained in Ranger during the shortage, according to R. A. McDaniel, Manager of the Texas Coca-Cola Bottling Company, Eastland.

"The O. P. A. announced today that the allotment of sugar to industrial users would be cut to 50 per cent of the sugar used in the third quarter of 1941, effective July 1st.
"I am informed that this sugar shortage is world-wide and not merely national and is directly attributed to the confusion in the production and distribution of sugar occasioned by the war," said Mr. McDaniel.

"Sugar is absolutely necessary in the manufacture of Coca-Cola. We cannot and will not use sweetening substitutes, and there fore will not compromise with the integrity of Coca-Cola. Therefore when sugar is short there must be a shortage in the amount of Coca-Cola, but you can be certain that the quality of Coca-Cola will remain unchanged.

"My company is committed to play fair with our Government and obey its regulations in both letter and spirit; to maintain the quality of our drink and to maintain an equitable distribution system to serve all our customers equally and that we will do.
"We still have a war to win and that comes first, but we will attempt still to get you all the Coca-Cola that is possible and what we have will be available to all. I ask only that if your dealer does not have Coca-Cola available on the day because we will keep our distribution up on a regular basis although the supply will be curtailed."

Flowers, Frills Hit At GI's Show

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — Turn in your slacks for a set of finesses Miss and Mrs. America. GI Joe likes you frilly.
That was the attitude, at any rate, for an appreciative group of combat veterans at Thomas M. England Hospital here, who played auditors recently to a showing of New York Institute fashions.
Judging from applause, it would seem that Joe goes for:
Flowered hats; colorful, feminine daytime dresses and filmy, full skirted evening gowns. A lace bridal gown with a four yard train topped with a long tulle veil was greeted with rousing approval.
The soldier patients did not show enthusiasm over:
Many-styled shirts, knee length shorts and tailored slacks.

Developer and Top Producer of Synthetic Toluene

Baytown Ordnance Works, designed and operated for the Government by Humble, was the first plant in the world to make toluene synthetically from petroleum. Forty-five days before Pearl Harbor the first shipment of toluene was made; and since that time Humble has produced toluene for at least one out of every two bombs used by the United Nations. For this feat Humble has five times been awarded the Army-Navy "E". This is one of the four important FIRSTS* in Humble's war production record. Research and development in progress long before the war, backed by Humble's vast resources made possible these achievements. From this same combination of research and resources come top quality products for your car.

- ★FIRST to produce a billion gallons of finished 100-octane aviation gasoline at one refinery
- FIRST in crude oil production
- FIRST in U. S. production of toluene for TNT
- FIRST in transportation of oil by pipe line

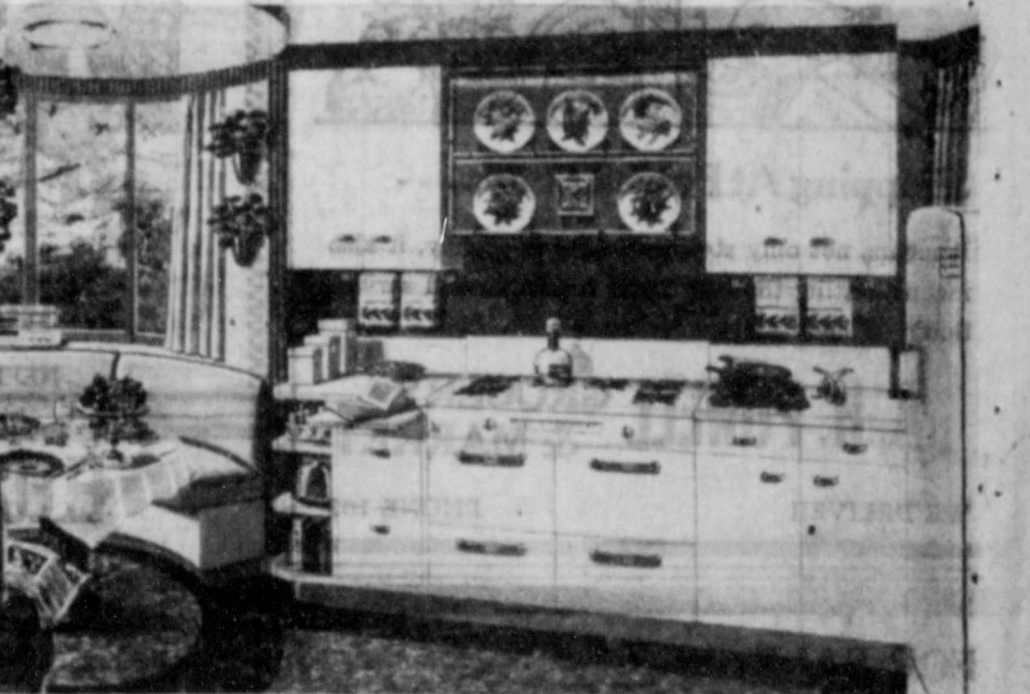

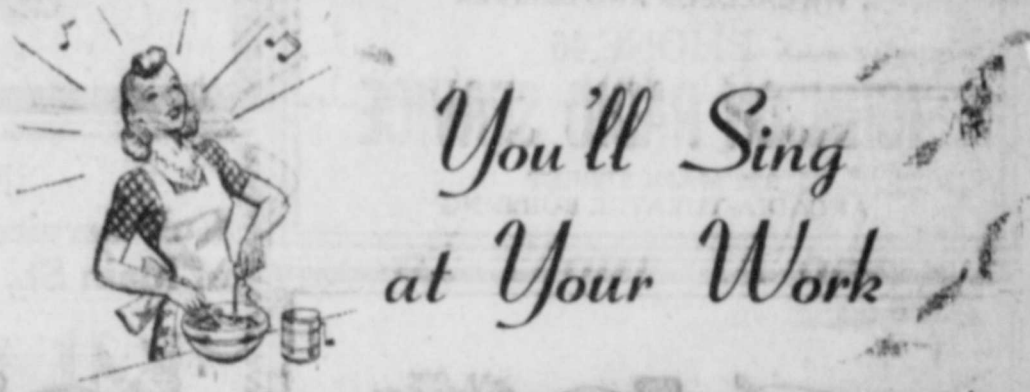

SCIENTIFICALLY DEVELOPED PRODUCTS

Esso-Extra, Humble 997 Motor Oil, and other quality Humble products are the culmination of years of intensive research, development and constant improvement.

Look for the Humble sign when you shop for your car's needs. Behind that familiar red, white and blue oval lies the experience of a great name and a great organization.
