BULLDOGS TO CLEBURNE FOR GAME TONIGHT

The Ranger Bulldogs will play their second game of the 1945 season at Cleburne tonight when they meet the Cleburne eleven.

The Cleburne team is given the edge over the Ranger team but if the Bulldogs hold them as they did the Poly team the game should be a good one. Though stated as a "fast scoring" game, the Cleburne griders only defeated Cleco by one touchdown and first one team and then the other scored touchdowns.

Coach Jimmie Marshall stated today that it is doubtful if Frankie Ford will be able to play tonight and Sammie Elder will likely start the game in Ford's place. Wayne Perry was also on the doubtful list and if he is unable to go into the game Laquay will play in his place.

Officer Wants Something Done About Japanese

WASHINGTON (UP)—Lt. Cmdr. Samuel A. Newman, who spent nearly four years in Japanese prison camps, recommended today that Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, and "men who have suffered as he did" be placed in charge of postwar Japan.

Newman said he had "no hopes that the coming generations of Japanese would be anything but inhuman beasts."

"I know I'm prejudiced, so I want to say right off I want to see something done about the Japs," he told newsmen at a press conference.

A. E. Newman, father of the Navy officer, lives in Texas City, Texas.

College Classes Name Officers For The Year

Classes of Ranger Junior College in meetings Thursday named officers for the year and made other plans for activities.

The freshmen class chose Miss Billye Jeanne Crawley as president, Miss Myra Sue Lee, vice president, Miss Carolyn Ducker, secretary, and Miss Jean Roberts reporter.

The sophomore class named Archie Tucker president, Miss Cleis Hames, vice president, Miss Lanella Rose, student council representative, Joan Brockman, secretary-treasurer and Doris McCrum reporter.

Sophomores also discussed plans for a get-acquainted party and named a committee of Mary Orr, Barbara Getts, Luke Morton, and Robert McCallip to complete the plans.

Mrs. Homer Heatley, who was named sponsor of the class, supervised the meeting.

Senate Approves House Bill On Enlistments

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate military affairs committee today endorsed a house-approved bill to encourage voluntary army enlistments but eliminated one-year enlistments for men already in service.

As amended by the Senate committee, the bill would provide that those already in service may re-enlist for 18 months. Others would be offered a choice of two-year or three-year enlistment.

Picknickers Uncover Indian Village Site

DARBY, Pa. (UP)—Three amateur archaeologists recently went on a picnic near Darby Creek with nothing in mind but food and rest.

Then they got to thinking. If their picnic spot was so pleasant to them, would it not have been equally agreeable as a stopping place for Indians?

They began digging. The hunch paid off. The picknickers uncovered the remains of a winter village used by the Senni Lenape (Delaware) Indians in hunting expeditions in the 1600s.

The excited amateur archaeologists dug up arrowheads, knives, a clay pipe, scattered Indian griffin-gorn and broken pottery in the shelter.

Officials at Penn University Museum thought so highly of the find, they sent archaeologists to look further into the site.

A skeleton of a 35-year-old woman was found. Then they uncovered finely polished ornaments and pottery vessels and bone awls.

The entire exhibit, representing relics of the first Indian shelter to be excavated in this area, is now on exhibit at the museum. Officials said the remains are sufficient to enable them to reconstruct a picture of life in the shelter.

The picknickers who were credited with uncovering the cache were J. Frank Sterling, Broadall, a telephone repairman; Paul Delgrigo, Kirklyn, employed by a wholesale distributing firm, and W. W. Yenny, Springfield, a war plant expeditor.

High School Seniors Elect Year's Officers

Members of the senior class of Ranger high school have selected officers for the year.

The officers were named at a meeting held Wednesday and are as follows: president, Junior Arterburn; vice-president, Dorothy Lewis; secretary-treasurer, Frances Bankston; and reporter, Jack Parrish.

A committee was named to make plans for a senior party to be held Monday night, September 24.

40,000 Sewing Machines To Be Made This Year

WASHINGTON (UP)—About 40,000 pre-war type sewing machines will be manufactured in the last three months of 1945, the War Production Board said today.

The estimated production will amount to approximately 20 per cent of the pre-war total per quarter.

The machines will not be rationed.

SAYS JAPAN DOOMED AS WORLD POWER

TOKYO (UP)—Japan will never again become a world power, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today in an interview with Hugh Baile, president of the United Press.

"Japan industrially, commercially, militarily and every other way is in a state of complete collapse," MacArthur declared. "Her food supplies are scarce and she faces conditions in this emergency that may well become catastrophic. Her punishment for her sins, which is just beginning, will be long and bitter."

The Supreme Commander told Baile that war criminal trials will commence very shortly. Japan's army will be absolutely abolished by Oct. 15. The remnants of Japan's navy are doomed to destruction except "minor specimens which may be retained for scientific or museum pieces."

Henry Ford II Heads Great Motor Company

DETROIT (UP)—Henry Ford II, 28, today succeeded his grandfather as president of the Ford Motor Company and head of one of the world's greatest private fortunes.

Henry Ford, the 82-year-old founder of the sprawling automotive empire and vast other holdings, resigned the presidency for the second time. He turned over the presidency to his son, Edsel, in 1918, but returned to the helm in June, 1943, shortly after Edsel's death.

Houston C of C Booking Many Conventions

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—Ted Sieferth, Convention Director of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, says he has started work on 47 convention applications which are on his books for 1946 and 1947.

Monroe Johnson, Director of the Office of Defense Transportation, revealed that all ban on conventions would be lifted on October 1.

Sieferth said that the conventions would each draw about 300 delegates. When the 47 Houston convention have been completed, more than 13,000 persons will have visited Houston.

"We can now go to town and put Houston back on the map as a great convention city," Sieferth said.

War Properties Sales Method Is Announced

FT. WORTH — In a vast new program designed to release several hundred million dollars worth of surplus automotive parts, Director William S. Bradley, of the Office of Surplus Property, Department of Commerce, today announced a new sales method paralleling the standard manner of sales to dealers in this line.

This manner of sale, it is believed by officials of the Department of Commerce, will move the vast stocks of spare parts to the public within the shortest possible time, and will be an effective means of bringing in a gap from war-time shortages to eventual post-time manufacturer and distribution.

The parts offered are all-inclusive, embracing practically every type made.

Sales will be made to distributors and wholesalers, dealers, service garages, and fleet operators. Shipments are to be destination on Government Bill of Lading.

The dealer qualifies through the Regional office serving his state by submitting evidence of his type of business and financial stability to establish credit.

Inspection and sealed bids, which have gone with surplus buying of auto parts in the past, can be eliminated now that large stocks of standard items are available. Purchases will be at a fixed price and the minimum order for parts that can be accepted is $500 net after deductions of discount allowed in the various levels of trade.

Distributors or wholesalers, dealers, service garages and fleet operators are now being circulated by the Office of Surplus Property but those who do not receive this notice, with qualification blank within the next few days should write to the Department of Commerce Regional Office of Surplus Property serving their state, or to their State Automobile Dealers Association.

If you reside in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, or Louisiana write the Department of Commerce, Office of Surplus Property Automotive Division, P. O. Box 1407, Fort Worth 1, Texas.

MORE MEN IN TEXAS OIL REFINERIES WILL STRIKE

Motorists and filling station attendants eyed their empty gasoline tanks anxiously today as spreading strikes in the nation's richest oil refining areas threatened to dry up the petroleum industry.

Refining operations in six states, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Ohio, West Virginia and Texas, all were affected by the mass walkout to back demands for maintenance of war-inflated wages.

Similar demands for higher hourly wage rates to compensate for reduced work schedules accounted for most of the country's total of 200,000 jobs.

Fourteen thousand Texas Gulf Coast workers were idle, 2,500 more were preparing to strike and additional thousands of workers were taking strike votes.

In Detroit, idleness of some 83,000 workers hampered reconstruction of the automobile industry. A crop of seven labor department conciliators took over negotiations on orders from Washington. The conciliators ordered hearings on fringe disputes pending efforts of the CIO United Auto Workers to solve a strike of 4,500 Kelsey-Hayes employees which has forced the layoff of 50,000 Ford workers.

State Seeks To Aid Settlement Of Oil Strikes

AUSTIN (UP)—State efforts to conciliate the oil refinery strikes in Texas are in progress at Fort Worth today, it was learned here.

Asst. Atty. Gen. David Wuntch has gone to Ft. Worth for a conference with O. A. Knight, after a conference here with State Labor Commissioner Leonard Carleton.

COAST VALLEY DRAWS INFUX OF INDUSTRY

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (UP)—An economic revolution in the previously agricultural San Fernando Valley appears in prospect as Johnson Aircraft Co., of Fort Worth, Texas joins other corporations in announced plans for locating plants here.

Already scheduled to build new factories in the North Hollywood, Van Nuys, and Burbank areas are General Motors, General Foods, Juergens beauty preparations and John Deere farm machinery.

The Johnson company will assemble their entire output of the new $4,500 "Rocket" private plane which has a range of 1,000 miles at cruising speed of 185 miles per hour.

The parent plant in Fort Worth will be used for manufacture of parts, Johnson spokesmen said.

General Motors and General Foods have already purchased several hundred acres of land for future construction of their plants while Juergens has announced its intention of building a modernistic new factory in the valley.

With the exception of five motion picture studios and the Lockheed aircraft plant, the pre-war valley has devoted exclusively to agriculture and residential property.

The dozen or so small communities within the valley have cashed in on major corporations' plans for the future in a boom expansion of businesses.

Two of Los Angeles' biggest stores, a major bakery which services three large restaurants and at least one metropolitan newspaper are also moving plants or sub-plants to the valley in the future.

As a result, land prices today are nearly 10 per cent above war levels, and sale prices of homes is on a "all the traffic will be here" schedule. A "war project" house which sold for $5,000 two years ago with no garage, fireplace, or permanent plumbing, recently resold for $8,500 cash.

Valley realtors predict that Eastern industrialization, moving westward, will find their only "frontier" in the valley.

Rev. Dunson Presents Speaker At Lions Meet

Rev. Wallace N. Dunson was in charge of the program for the Lions Club when that group met Thursday at noon at the Chicken Inn for the weekly meeting and luncheon.

Rev. Dunson introduced Rev. Durwood Fleming, pastor of the First Methodist church of Eastland, who spoke on the value of relaxation, stressing the necessity for everyone to have some hobby at which they can play or some other form of recreation for relaxation.

Guests at the luncheon were Sgt. Bill Hodges and Lt. P. A. Thomas.

French Drugs Crisis Is Eased By Importations

PARIS (UP)—Frenchmen, who during the past freezing winter smothered a collective racking cough with ersatz syrup, are assured of sufficient medicine for the coming year, according to the Health Ministry.

The medical crisis of last year, when doctors were unable to give the maximum care to patients, is considerably eased, thanks largely to imports from the United States. It still exists, however, and patients will doubtless have to try four or five drugstores before they can find what they need.

"The French chemical industry is running at only one-fourth of prewar output," a Health Ministry official said. "It will be two years before we can resume full strength owing to the lack of coal, raw materials and transport. But we have been promised 12,000 tons of coal a month instead of 3,000 as last year."

It is still exceedingly difficult to find bismuth, iodine and other drugs. Doctors obtain insulin and penicillin only at authorized centers, which usually take time. Bandages are frequently made of paper and ineffective. In some parts of France there is such lack of laboratory equipment that blood must be sent to distant cities for analysis. There is a great shortage of serums. Because of the shortage of animals for laboratory work insulin must come from America.

Last winter planes rushed in an emergency supply because there was almost none left in France. The French have built a penicillin factory, but do not have enough coal to run it at full capacity.

Hospitals, which were full to overflowing during last winter's cold siege, have more room now because many French patients are sent to sanitariums in Germany. There is a shortage of beds, sheets and mattresses, but the importation of 50 complete hospital units from America has helped considerably.

NAZI BOOKS ARE PURGED BY THE ALLIES

BERLIN (UP)—A central committee will be formed to list all books and writings to be withdrawn from the book trade and circulating libraries, the American sponsored newspaper "Allgemeine Zeitung" reported.

Books to be removed will include such Nazi propaganda as volumes written by Dr. Robert Ley, Goebbels and Rosenberg, as well as the writings of such authors as Werner Beiselsberg and Erwin Dinger which were said often to contain hidden militaristic references.

Still other books will be banned for educational reasons, the newspaper reported, "as their works give to children and adults alike an unreal picture, full of romance."

It added that of 170,000 books remaining in municipal libraries at the end of the war, up to 30 per cent were withdrawn by district commissions "for being politically undesirable or literally unimportant." In addition 15 to 20 per cent of the staff members were dismissed as being members of the Nazi party.

The district commissions consisted of four persons for each of 42 public libraries—one representative of the library, one official of the book department in the education department, an owner of a circulating library and a bookseller.

The newspaper said occupation authorities have guaranteed that Berlin's three scientific libraries—the state library, the university library and the city library—would continue.

The newspaper added that the most important one, the state library, had lost 2,000,000 volumes out of 4,000,000 books and 3,000,000 other publications. Eventually the state library will be the first to reopen and will have 2,000,000 books.

The university library, which suffered comparatively little damage has 1,100,000 books.

The city library has only 10,000 books out of its 350,000 pre-war volumes.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The lid can be lifted a little now on planning for the military government of Japan.

The impression prevails that the United States is occupying Japan today in about the same fashion it occupied Germany after the First World War—loosely and with disastrous consequences leading to World War II. The Japanese situation is therefore worth examining closely to see if the old mistakes are being repeated.

In the sense that the Japs are being allowed to keep a form of government of their own choosing, the comparison between Germany in 1918 and Japan in 1945 may be true. Actually, that is not the whole story.

A joint committee of State, War and Navy and other government department planners has been working on plans for the occupation of Japan for over a year. They prepared a number of plans to meet varying situations.

The most extreme called for complete government of Japan with the emperor removed. The most lenient called for government of Japan by its wartime government. The plan actually adopted is between the two extremes, but closer to the latter than the former. Right or wrong, it was decided to retain the emperor.

If the Japanese emperor had been removed, orders to the Japanese people would have read, "The United States Military Government in Japan." Under the plan adopted, the orders to the Japanese people are written by the U. S. Military Government just the same, but they read, "We, the Emperor of Japan" order so and so. After the orders are written, they are given to the Japanese government to pass out as their own. In this respect, the military government imposed on Japan is more strict than the token occupation of Germany after the last war. How it will work out remains to be seen.

Chief of military government on General MacArthur's staff is Brig.-Gen. William Crist. General Crist's military government forces will consist of over 4000 specially trained officers. About 1500 have had actual military government experience on Saipan, Okinawa and other Pacific islands liberated by MacArthur and Nimitz forces.

JAPANESE government will be controlled from the top. All members of the cabinet, for instance, must be acceptable to General MacArthur.

General MacArthur's forces and his military governors will not occupy every fishing village. His combat troops on the main islands will number only between 750,000 and 1,000,000. They will occupy only the key government and communications centers. In broad outline, this is the administrative setup for governing Japan. That means doing a far better job than was done in Germany in 1918.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

PHILIP JOSEPH CAVARRETTA is headed for his third World Series in 11 years as batting champion of both major leagues with an average of around .360. Yet as recently as three years ago, Jimmy Wilson, then manager of the Cubs, seriously considered converting Phil Cavarretta into a pitcher. As a matter of fact, Cavarretta in the spring of 1942 pitched three innings of an exhibition with the White Sox in Phoenix. Later in a championship engagement with the Pirates, he was in the bullpen waiting to be called.

For seven years as a first baseman and outfielder, Cavarretta, the one-time boy wonder, had not batted in enough runs to keep the scorekeeper warm, and Wilson had visions of transforming the foremost baseball product of Chicago's Lane Technical High into a left-handed Bucky Walters.

CAVARRETTA disliked the idea, and it was a break for him when Wilson quickly gave up on Babe Dahlgren as a first sacker and it turned out that the Chicago did not have as much outfield strength as the boss suspected.

Anyway, Cavarretta's baseball fortunes took a turn upward when he was re-installed as a regular. Last season he reached the .300 circle for the first time with 321.

Although he has been in two World Series, it took Cavarretta a long time to find himself. He was barely 18 when he became the youngest player ever to participate in the fall show, first basing for the Tigers in 1935.

Freddie Lindstrom became 19 immediately following his 1924 World Series appearance with the Giants. The Bruins won 21 straight to account for the 1935 pennant, and young Cavarretta broke up the 20th one of the skein with a home run off Paul Dean of the Cardinals.

RIGHTFIELDER Cavarretta hit only 239 and drove in no more than 28 runs in 92 games as the Cubs cooped in 1938, but batted 462 as the men from the lakefront bowed to the Yankees in straight games.

Having participated in a pair of losing World Series, it was a great source of satisfaction for Cavarretta when he crashed the National League All-Stars for the first time last year, and helped his side to a victory over the American Leaguers with a triple, single and three bases on balls in five trips.

Cavarretta pitched Chicago's Lane Technical High School to the national prep school championship in 1932-33, his American Legion team to the national title in the latter year.

In his first tryout with the Cubs, Cavarretta smacked a home run off Lon Warneke. In his professional bow with Peoria of the Central League in 1934, he manufactured a single, double and a home run. Late that season he won his first complete game with the Wrigleys by belting the ball out of the park.

Cavarretta frequently is referred to as baseball's hardest hustler.

Perhaps that is not the least reason why Phil Cavarretta has enjoyed his success.

WAR END SEES BIG FLOW TO YELLOWSTONE

YELLOWSTONE PARK, Wyo. (UP)—Efforts of park officials here are being taxed to the utmost in an attempt to accommodate the big increase in business since the end of the war.

Immediately after announcement of the war's end, park travel increased more than 50 per cent. The steady flow of visitors continues, as workers are being released from defense jobs, veterans are being discharged, and nearby park residents seek an outlet for having been "cooped up at home" during most of the four years of war.

Operations at the Wonderland during 1945 have been strictly on a wartime basis. There have been no hotels nor lodges open. There also has been no transportation available.

During the war, what little visitors the park did have this year generally saved up gas to make the trip in their car, or buddied up with someone else who did have a car and a little gasoline.

Then, upon reaching the park the wartime visitors was more or less forced to rough it, and either toted along a sleeping bag or tent and sleep out, or curl up in the car.

For those who cared less for the more strenuous type of outdoor life, there were a limited number of informal accommodations.

Most of the employees at the park have been students, and now the opening of schools has posed another problem to the already harassed park officials.

Labor problems have reached the point where it is impossible to operate on even as large a scale as during the days preceding the end of the war announcement, and the release of gasoline to motorists.

Unemployment's Ups and Downs From War to War

Yellowstone park will remain open to take care of motorists as long as weather conditions will permit. That has been the policy in past years, Supt. Edmund H. Rogers explained.

He warned, however, that persons coming to the park without reservations may find it difficult to obtain a place to sleep. Eating facilities also will be limited.

Yank, 60 Runs Tiny Barber Shop In Britain

STRATFORD ON AVON (UP)—An American-born barber who "walked out" of the U. S. Army after the last war is running one of the smallest barber shops in England here. He is 60-year-old Harry Firth, late of Philadelphia, Pa., and Vancouver, B. C.

Harry remembers a day when with his father, John he rode across the frozen Delaware River in 1887. "Anyway the folks say we did," he said with a wink. Harry's story would make a good film. His Dad and Ma were lifelong teetotalers, but they owned "the biggest boozier in Bradford" (England) and "hung teetotal certificates all over the place."

His Dad was the inventor of the first buttonholing machine; sold the patent for $150 to a Philadelphia firm and bought three plots of land at Hagensville, Atlantic City, with the proceeds. Later he lost the land for having failed to pay taxes says Harry, who adds that there's a Christian Science church on the site today.

Harry's barber shop has one chair only. Opposite this is a sign painted on the wall: "Gentlemen DO, others MUST keep their feet off the wall." Another sign reads: "In the interest of public health, I will not attend to dirty heads and faces."

Harry's youngest son, "Jimmy," was said to have been the youngest pilot ever to have left Canada. He was killed in an accident after having piloted a Miqquito on instructor work for three years. His other son, Douglas, is a Canadian naval lieutenant, now stationed at Vancouver.

Fast Recovery From War Seen For Japanese

CHICAGO (UP) — Japan will recover from the war faster than the United States, according to Dr. John W. Stanton, Northwestern University political science professor.

History has shown that agricultural nations recover from war faster than industrial countries, Stanton, former War Department consultant on Japan, said.

Before the war, he said, two-thirds of the Japanese people were engaged in agriculture and fishing and a third in industry and commerce, compared with two-thirds in German industry and similarly high proportions in U. S. and

Japan 'Guinea Pig' for Atomic Bomb

The U. S. Navy is reported planning to blast the 32,700-ton Japanese battleship Nagato, above, with atomic bombs in an experiment that may decide the form of all navies in the future world. The heavily damaged Nagato, only battleship remaining to the enemy, will be towed 500 miles out to sea where atom bombs will be dropped on it to ascertain whether America's superweapon will sink a ship of this sort and the effect of the blast on the water.

British industry. "Employment of demobilized Japanese soldiers will not be a serious problem, as it will for American veterans," Stanton explained, "because the majority are peasants who will return to the land or to fishing."

Russia will lead the world in recovery from the war, he said, largely because it is so vast and so heavily agricultural. Stanton said that tax reductions for the Japanese, who no longer need billions for armaments, also will hasten their recovery. This burden will be shifted to the American taxpayer, who will pay for the occupation forces, he added.

"If occupation forces are maintained for 10 or 20 years to insure against militarists regaining a foothold such a fast Japanese recovery should be reassuring rather than a cause for worry, because it will allay economic discontent and war hatreds," he concluded.

measles and whooping cough because its results have been more widely publicized," Gebhardt said. "Polio is terrible, but many people who are so afraid of it and of its often resulting paralysis overlook the fact that measles often injures the heart and lungs and that whooping cough in many cases retards growth of the brain."

"And the number of deaths resulting from measles and whooping cough—both on a percentage and total basis—is much higher than the number of polio fatalities."

In Gebhardt's opinion—and he says this is also the opinion of many other doctors and scientists—most human polio cases are contracted by eating food contaminated by flies.

"It has been proved," he said, "that certain species of flies, including the common housefly carry polio virus and that they can contaminate food."

Supporting Gebhardt's belief that flies spread polio is the fact that all of the 241 Utah victims whom he interviewed admitted they had eaten fresh, unpeeled unwashed fruits or vegetables shortly before contracting the disease. "Then, there is the fact that most new cases appear during the fruit harvest season and at times and in places where flies are plentiful," Gebhardt said.

His five rules for preventing polio are:

- (1) Eliminate flies' breeding places.
 - (2) Eliminate flies.
 - (3) Educate children as soon as they are able to toddle to eat only what their mother gives them and don't permit them to eat out of doors.
 - (4) Wash fresh foods thoroughly—with soap and water.
 - (5) See that children's hands are clean when they eat.
- Gebhardt believes that from 70 to 80 per cent of adults are immune to polio, as a result of having had sub-clinical cases, probably appearing as sore throats or colds, when they were children. Gebhardt is a former assistant professor of bacteriology at Stanford University in California.

In the first half of 1945 air-express shipments in the United States totaled 1,060,728, a gain of 28.6 per cent over the same period last year and the gross income increased 52.6 per cent over the same period of 1944.

SAYS FLIES ARE CAUSE OF POLIO SPREAD

SALT LAKE CITY (UP)—There is less cause to fear poliomyelitis than measles and whooping cough, in the opinion of Dr. L. F. Gebhardt, professor of bacteriology at the University of Utah.

Gebhardt, who has spent 16 years studying and experimenting with polio, has a five point program for preventing the disease, but he says:

"I would be more alarmed if my son should contract whooping cough or measles than if he should get polio."

TONY'S CHANEL NUMBER 5

AL GINGISS and I managed to get our first relief visit to Calcutta at the same time, and it was on that trip that we met "the Great White Trader of the East," Tony Mercede, of Blue Island, Ill.

How Tony came by his imposing title was a mystery for a little less than 10 minutes, at which point, as we stood at the bar of the 900 Club on Wood Street, he furtively pulled a tiny package from his trousers' pocket. With thick but amazingly deft fingers the 240-pound, black-haired little giant opened the package and revealed a sparkling bottle of Chanel Number 5, a female luxury which we later found was about as rare in Calcutta as a snowdrift.

"With this little prize, boys," Tony said, "you can make a hit with any girl in all of India. It's yours for 100 bucks."

Gingiss and I stared at the man. Then Gingiss turned to me. "He's crazy," Al said.

"Crazy as a lion," I agreed.

"Crazy like a fox," Tony said, laughing boisterously.

His laugh attracted the startled attention of the tall and dignified Englishman standing next to him.

And then, as Tony much less furtively started to put the perfume back in his pocket, the Britisher touched him on the arm. "I beg your pardon," the fellow said, "but is that a bottle of Chanel Number 5 that I—ahh—saw in your hand?"

The man's face was flushed, but his eagerness overrode his embarrassment. "Rude of me, I know," he said, "but—well, after all, sir—Chanel Number 5"

Tony winked at Gingiss and me as he gave his attention to the Englishman. "It cost me a fortune, I don't know why I ever bought it. But that's what it is—Chanel Number 5. Maybe you know someone who'd like to take it off my hands—for $150."

The Englishman looked around nervously as if to ward off any further bids as he dug into his pocket. Then quickly he turned over the money, pocketed the perfume, and after gulping down his Scotch and soda dashed out of the bar.

"Amazing!" Gingiss exclaimed, staring at Tony.

TONY MERCEDE has been one of my best friends from the first day we met. He is back in the States now, a traffic expert with a nationwide trucking concern, but how he can reconcile himself to such an uneventful life as that after what he went through in China and India for two years is a mystery to me. He started in the trucking business as a greaser and mechanic when he was 16, coming up the hard way to the point where, in 1941, he was loaned to the United States government by his employer. The government, having received the Arnstein report on the inefficient use and handling of lend-lease trucking equipment on the Burma Road, immediately sent Tony to China as a transportation adviser to the Chinese government.

Tony was well on his way when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor. He cleared Manila 12 hours before the city fell. He was a transportation engineer on the Burma Road when the Japs invaded Burma in the spring of 1942, and he was working with the Chinese troops dynamiting bridges and fighting off guerrilla attacks throughout the long campaign which finally left the road a useless ribbon of bomb craters and

SAYS SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE:

Despite Victory Used Fat Saving Must Go On!

Every woman in America should know that our country continues to face a serious fat shortage. And victory over Japan won't solve the problem immediately. We must keep on saving used fats in our kitchens!

If you have any thought that saving used fats is one of those wartime chores we can drop, now that Victory is here, please consider these facts and tell them to your neighbors.

America still needs salvaged fats. Not even at the peak of our war effort, when fats were required for mountains of shells and bombs and medicines, in addition to the ever-present need for soap, were our needs for salvaging fat greater than now. Our stocks have been drained by four long years of war, and there isn't enough on hand to meet all requirements.

Don't let "Victory psychology" blind you to this national need! If housewives stop saving fats now, the shortage will become even more critical.

Don't let a single drop of used fats go to waste! Little trimmings of fat left on the platter at the table, scraps left on plates, and even the skimmings of soups and gravies are important. It is the consistent saving of even these small amounts that counts.

Don't turn in fats that can be re-used! But some fats, such as those rendered from lamb and mutton, are not suitable for re-use. Put them immediately in the salvage can. And, with other fats, after you've got all cooking good out of them, there is always a little left. No matter how little it is, save it.

Your butcher will still give you 4¢ and 2 red points for every pound you turn in. Save consistently—save every drop you can—every day—until Uncle Sam says the job is done.

Pocket Model Wire Recorder To Be Produced

CHICAGO (UP)—Within a year a hurried businessman will be able to dictate a letter in his automobile or hotel room before going to his office, and have the message transcribed by his secretary 10 minutes after he arrives at work.

The Illinois Institute of Technology has developed a magnetic wire sound recorder, which records sound on a wire. Commercial production will start in 12 months.

Marvin Camras, a former electrical engineering student, discovered the principle when he tried to find an easy way to record the voice of his singing cousin. The Institute's Armour Research Foundation became interested and asked him to conduct further experiments.

The wire recorder was used by the armed forces during the war, and its civilian possibilities are almost unlimited, the institute said.

The device consists of a magnetic wire almost as fine as a human hair. The wire passes over a number of guide pulleys and through a magnetic recording head. The attached microphone picks up the sound which is recorded on the wire by magnetism as the wire passes through the head.

For reproduction, the wire is rewound on the spools and run in its original direction through the head, which acts as a pickup and broadcasts the sound through a speaker.

If a family wished to see a movie without missing a radio program, the recorder would solve the dilemma. It could be attached to the radio to record the program, which could be replayed when the family came back.

Children's voices could be recorded for later enjoyment, conversations at the dinner table would be indisputable on wire.

Police officers, away from their cars could attach the recorder to their radios and replay any messages that might have been broadcast in the meantime. Reporters, using the pocket model, would have no trouble with quotes if their interviewees' conversation was on the wire. And a news broadcaster would have countless on-the-spot recordings of newsworthy events which would be of intense listener interest.

Pearl Harbor?

Unexplained, premature relief of Adm. James Otto Richardson, above, as commander of the Pacific fleet prior to Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor is one of the "mystery" questions to which congressional investigating committee delving into the disaster may find the answer. Richardson served 12 months of a two-year term as top man of Pacific fleet before being recalled to Washington.

13,000 Visitors Go Through Tex. Museum In Year

AUSTIN, Texas — More than thirteen thousand visitors went through the Texas Memorial Museum on the University of Texas campus between September 1944 and September 1945, Dr. E. H. Sellards, director, reports.

Showing at Arcadia Friday and Saturday

Linda Darnell portrays one of the two loves of Greg McClure seen in the role of "The Great John L." costarring Barbara Britton.

Among the visitors were 2,688 soldiers, 2,261 persons from Texas cities, and 4,515 persons from Austin. Fifty-five visitors were from foreign countries.

The largest crowds go through the Museum on Saturdays and Sundays, Dr. Sellards said. Each of the four floors of the Museum contains valuable and interesting historical relics, special collections and Texiana.

272 FOOT SIGN USES MILE OF LIGHT TUBING

CHICAGO (UP) — Clinging to the back of the world's tallest signboard, located in Chicago's Loop, is a 12 by 20-foot control room, where an operating crew works 135 feet above the ground.

The men who take care of the giant sign find nothing remarkable in the open elevator which carries them to work or in the catwalk they cross to reach the control room.

They take for granted the 272-foot sign, as high as a 24-story building. The sign itself weighs only 70 tons, in contrast to the 300-ton mass of steel support holding it aloft.

In the control room are the levers and buttons which operate the electric sign. The men handle a current that passes through 2.7 miles of sign wiring, enough energy to light thirty six-room houses.

From the wiring, the current passes through 6,144 incandescent lamps and into a solid mile of neon light tubing. It operates a huge clock that occupies 500 square feet of the sign's surface.

The message panel of the sign operated by a motor.

Letters flashed 13 feet high in electric lights are first cut into a paper tape eight inches wide as it passes through a perforating machine controlled by a keyboard.

The tape is then passed around a revolving drum where electrical contacts from the perforations light letters on the 154-foot long message board.

The crew has sometimes had to revise the weather message flashing from the sign in a hurry, as rain has been known to sweep across the Loop as the sign said "fair and warmer."

AUSTIN, Texas. — A beautiful taffeta gown worn by Carlotta, wife of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, is temporarily on display in the Texas Museum on the University of Texas campus.

The dress was designed and the material woven in Paris, and is

Killed Yamamoto

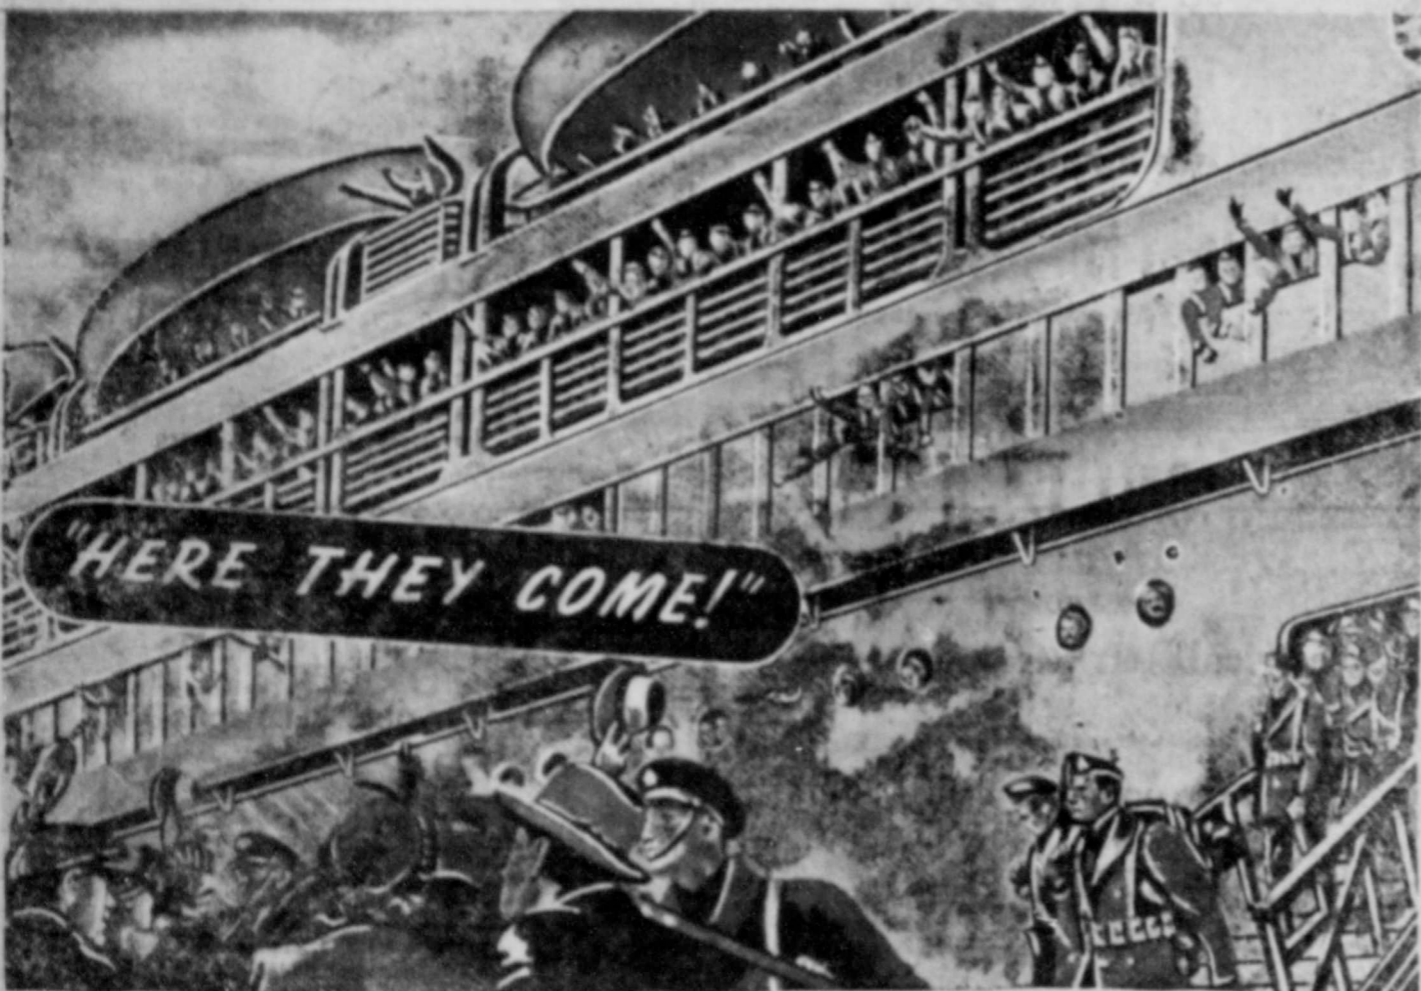

Lt.-Col. Thomas G. Lanphier, Jr., above, 29, of Washington, D. C., was the American pilot who shot down the Jap bomber carrying Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, killing the man who boasted he would dictate peace in the White House. Naval Intelligence cracked the Jap code and learned Yamamoto would be over Bougainville Island on April 18, 1943. American planes, including Lanphier in a P-38 Lightning, waited in ambush. They also shot down another Jap bomber, killing members of Yamamoto's staff.

When Johnny Comes Marching Home

It won't be long now until tens of thousands of Johnnies will be marching back home—back to the stores, factories and farms they left to answer the call to the colors.

Before the War, Texas Electric Service Company power engineers devoted all of their time and talents to working out more advantageous and efficient applications of electric power to peace-time pursuits. While the War was being fought, those engineers who did not join our fighting forces worked closely with war industries, assisting war plant engineers in making sure that electric power carried its full share of the production load.

Now that things are beginning to return to normal, these same power engineers are again at the disposal of business men and factory operators. They are prepared to aid in the big job of changing over from war production to post-war production.

Whatever your new power problems may be, our power engineers can be helpful. Call or write the nearest Texas Electric Service Company office. There is, of course, no obligation.

Try Hot Water Plus If Stomach Pains You After Eating

Thousands of unfortunate people suffer from so-called dyspepsia, acid indigestion, food fermentation, sour stomach, acid stomach, flatulence, gas pains and other stomach distress brought on by excess acid.

If these people would try drinking slowly after each meal half a glass of real hot water containing a spoonful of Neutraacid, they can usually get blessed relief from distress within a very few minutes.

Neutraacid will quickly help to neutralize this excess acid, and thus help more rapid digestion. You get quick relief from the acute distress and discomfort.
