Conference Secretary Says Progress Made On Problems

HUNTING ELK FROM PORCH LACKS SPORT

OURAY, Colorado (UP)—Big game hunting is getting to be a rather heart-breaking business in Ouray, it's sort of like shooting your family milk cow or riding horse.

Ouray is a town of about 700 located 7,800 feet up in the Uncompahgre National Forest. The residents think it's a nice town, and so do the wild elk.

Store To Divide Excess Profits With Purchasers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (UP)—Excessive profits made by the college exchange store here will be divided among student purchasers, it was announced here.

Carl Birdwell, manager of the A. & M. College Exchange Store, said that the rebates will be made to students through a profit-sharing plan supervised by a faculty-student advisory board.

ARMY PLAN WILL SPEED DISCHARGES

WASHINGTON (UP)—Speeding its plans to demobilize overseas veterans, the Army has announced that enlisted men with 60 to 90 points now on furlough or temporary duty assignments will be debriefed and sent to separation stations for discharge.

Observance Of Texas Centennial To Open Dec. 29

AUSTIN, Texas (UP)—Texas Centennial of Statehood will have a decidedly different form of observance from that given the state's 100th anniversary of independence from Mexico.

CIO MAY GET WAGES, PRICES BEFORE THE CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON (UP)—The labor-management conference reported officially today that "real progress is being made" in tackling its problems.

BATTLEGROUND BEARS WITNESS TO U. S. MIGHT

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Cal. (UP)—They ought to put a big sign over the blackened hills and desolate, crumpled wreckage that stretch for miles up the Pacific Coast from this once-small town.

BULLDOGS MEET LOBOS ON FRIDAY

The annual tilt between the Ranger Bulldogs and the Cisco Lobos will be played Friday night beginning at 8:00 o'clock on the Lobo field in Cisco.

DRILLING TO CONTINUE IN ALLEN NO. 1

Officials of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company reported today that their Allen No. 1 about eight miles east of Ranger was still making some oil and gas and considerable water.

Half-shattered, boarded-up little farmhouses dot the scorched land swells or half slide into huge shell craters and bomb holes.

Always one of the most anticipated games of the season, this year's game will be no exception from this standpoint, despite the fact that Cisco out ranks Ranger in the district and is favored to be the winner.

Efforts were being made today to kill the well with mud in order that drilling could be continued to test the well. It was expected that the well might be drilled another hundred to two hundred feet.

Huge jagged rail ends and triangular concrete dragon's-teeth lie smashed and crumpled under the impact of American machines that wouldn't be stopped.

Coach Jimmie Marshall stated today that the physical condition of the Bulldogs is the best that it has been for any game this year and the spirit of the team high.

The show of gas and oil was encountered at about 3,000 feet in sufficient quantities to halt drilling.

Sagging strands of barbed wire roll back into the earth, where special techniques of "fence-busting" were developed before amphibious assault hit the beachheads.

Starting line-up for the Bulldogs will likely be, Don Ford at center, Arterburn, Elder Parrish and Dawin in the backfield, Terry and Griffin, guards, Balch and Frasier at end.

Drilling on the O. J. Cotton No. 1 west of Ranger was proceeding a little below 1500 feet. The well which is being drilled by R. N. Nix will test the Olden shallow pay sand.

Exhausted rocket projectiles on the bazooka range have been dropped several hundred yards from shrub-oak, withered and scented by the blackening breath of the "shoulder cannon" of World War II.

Mr. Pistole died Tuesday, November 6 in Ranger. He was born in Clinton, Arkansas February 18, 1896 and had resided in Eastland county since 1907. He was a member of the Church of Christ and had been a Mason for 50 years.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Sarah Higgins, 87 years of age, seven sisters and five brothers as follows: Mrs. T. F. Davis, Eastland; Mrs. R. F. Williams, Ambrillo; Mrs. Bertha Rotan, Hico; Mrs. McClarney, Dumas; Mrs. John Pope, Ft. Worth; Mrs. John Scott Flak; Mrs. Jewel Goodwin, Kermit; and brothers, W. E. of Fort Worth; T. A. of Pampa; R. W. of Sweetwater; F. M. of Dumas; and Ed of Kermit.

They ought to keep this country as it is for an international monument to American ability to learn how to fight—preserve it as it was left in the tidewash of war.

Funeral services for J. H. Pistole were held Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the Morris Funeral Home in Ranger with Rev. H. B. Johnson in charge of the services. Interment was in the Eastland cemetery with the Ranger Masonic lodge in charge of the services at the grave.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Sarah Higgins, 87 years of age, seven sisters and five brothers as follows: Mrs. T. F. Davis, Eastland; Mrs. R. F. Williams, Ambrillo; Mrs. Bertha Rotan, Hico; Mrs. McClarney, Dumas; Mrs. John Pope, Ft. Worth; Mrs. John Scott Flak; Mrs. Jewel Goodwin, Kermit; and brothers, W. E. of Fort Worth; T. A. of Pampa; R. W. of Sweetwater; F. M. of Dumas; and Ed of Kermit.

But the farmers will come back and the buildings will be replaced by the government, and the cows are already wandering in and out of this "practice battlefield."

Lost Shipment Of Liquors Case Taken to Court

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP)—The Harris County district courts have the task of finding out if the truck drivers were thirsty, or what happened to $1,208.78 worth of Scotch, bourbon, Bacardi rum, habanero, wine, brandy and vodka. The Gulf Drug Co., Inc., wholesale liquor dealer, claims a petition filed in District Clerk J. W. Mills' office that the assorted drinkables were consigned by them or were to be delivered to them by the East Texas Motor Freight Lines on various occasions between Jan. 21, 1942, and April 27, 1945, but never reached their destination.

Claims for the various dates range from one bottle of wine, valued at 51 cents, that didn't arrive in a Chicago shipment Dec. 28, 1944, to numerous case lots.

There are an average of 13,000 thunderstorms in the world each day.

Marriage is a Serious BUSINESS

Causes Of Divorce

HOW many wives are bitterly jealous when their husbands speak to attractive women, yet often enough, when the marriage breaks up and the husband marries again, he chooses a good companion with not half the sex appeal of the wife he has left. Men cannot live by bread alone.

Jealousy and possessiveness are character traits and personality qualities which create more havoc than people are likely to realize. They are usually an outgrowth of poor home training. The chief trouble is that the possessor of these unattractive qualities invariably throws all the blame on others instead of where it belongs—on himself. For both traits are manifestations of egotism and self-love.

Surely there is little faith or trust or peace in a marriage where the man or the woman is constantly tormented for fear the other will meet a more attractive person. These jealous people seem to feel that only by keeping their married partner shut away from all the world can there be any safety. Jealousy, like possessiveness—to which it is a blood brother—is an unattractive quality at best. One cannot sympathize with it. But it brings its own direct punishment in the suffering which it causes.

There are few forces as destructive as possessiveness. It turns love into a grim battle for the survival of a personality and, more often than not, it kills the thing it loves.

APPROXIMATELY one marriage out of six ends in divorce. And these are only the failures which reach public attention. Of the others, a vast number are unhappy—but in many cases, unnecessarily so. I am convinced that the number of happy marriages can be greatly increased by the use of intelligence and good will.

One thing seems to be certain. A man and woman who are successful as lovers are able to overcome far more difficulties than a couple who are not happy in their sex life. And his element of disunion frequently arises from the very beginning of marriage—the wedding night.

Learning to live together, learning to adjust to one another physically and emotionally and intellectually, is a slow and difficult process. It cannot be learned in a night, or a week or a month. Many couples, however, expecting some magical metamorphosis, are disillusioned and disappointed by their honeymoon, and begin their life together with the belief that the whole thing was a hopeless mistake. It may be the man's fault for being brutal or over-hasty; it may be the woman's fault for making the man feel that she is a helpless martyr to his passion, and thus hurting his self-esteem.

Certain it is that the soldier who must go overseas before a satisfactory physical adjustment has taken place in his marriage will go tormented and uncertain, both of himself and of his wife.

"There is no hope for widespread married happiness," wrote Walter Gallichan, "till men learn that love is an art of understanding and pleasing women. Wives in revolt are a natural result of men's neglect of the art of courtship in marriage. It is the woman more often than the man who is disappointed in married life. After marriage, it is the husband's part to show his aptitude in arousing and maintaining the responsiveness of his wife."

Frigidity in women is usually a result of the husband's blundering. It is almost never a real physical obstacle. On the other hand, of course, we have the problem of those permanently adolescent women—and how many there are of them—who regard romantic passion as the be-all and end-all of marriage, and become discontented and charged with self-pity when they learn that it is not.

Veteran's Fish Tales Amaze His Audience

OMAHA, Neb. (UP) — Ever hear of a fish story that made sportsmen hope the "big ones" would get away. Well, that's how members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce felt after hearing Albert Eddy tell of his fishing experiences in the Pacific with Zane Grey and Richard Halliburton. Eddy began his stories by telling of the one-pound flying fish that packs the power of a small bomb. Because of his bony structure, the fish can knock "a man" into the sea while flying at his usual 30-mile-an-hour clip. When Eddy's first story was complete, junior chamber members looked at one another—it was unbelievable. And the former Army sergeant went on with the tale of the tropical black fish. "The 10-foot fellows with the small feet," he said, "crush you first and eat you later." Eddy warned the Jaycees about attempting to fish for the tropical blacks. When story No. 2 was completed, Eddy looked about the room. Junior Chamber members had become anxious about their dream-planned weekends in the Pacific deep sea fishing, so he changed his stories a little. A shark, according to Eddy, "is easy to outsmart. He's a coward, one of the biggest in the world. When he heads your way, start clapping your hands above and beneath the water. Make lots of noise—then lunge at him. He'll flee," the veteran fisherman said.

MISSIONARY SAYS IMPERIAL RULE IS BEST

TOKYO (UP) — America's hardy missionaries who spent the war in Japan—many in prison camps—were a-really surprised at the Allied decision to permit Hirohito to remain on his throne, according to one of their veteran leaders.

However, J. Fullerton Gressitt, representative of the Northern Baptist Convention here since 1907, lauded the decision as the "most inspired decision in history."

"It would be a calamity to remove the emperor," Gressitt told the United Press in an interview. "It would cause a troubled rise in feeling against Americans if the emperor was deprived of his status as head of the people."

"Nothing wiser could have been done than this retention of Hirohito. His position suits the Japanese psychology and way of thinking eminently well. They are fundamentally such a docile, law-abiding people that they will obey his orders to the letter and thus make the occupation easier for all concerned."

From his long experience with the Japanese, Gressitt said he felt that most of the people of Nippon always had been and always would be admirers of the American people.

He believed that "such unfortunate atrocities as those committed in the Philippines and in some prison camps were the acts of one element of the Japanese army who always had a reputation for gangsterism."

The elderly, distinguished theologian complimented Gen. MacArthur's administration of occupied Japan and said that the Japanese people were "delighted at the behavior of the majority of American soldiers."

"Just a week before our troops arrived," he recalled, "I heard a group of Japanese women crying and frantically arranging to send their daughters out into the country. They believed the Japanese propaganda that their daughters would be raped at sight. Just the other day I heard those same women laughing again, laughing this time and giggling because their daughters had been photographed with some of the soldiers they once feared."

Gressitt, whose brothers Samuel Walter and William Garland are still carrying on the family business in Baltimore, Md., said that he and other members of the Northern Baptist Convention household were treated "fine" throughout the war, especially by local officials and the police.

He remained at the Convention-founded Kanto Gakuin or Marie College on Yokohama for the first years of the war. Since late 1942 he has spent his time gardening and translating religious works. He intends to return to Baltimore soon to recover from a war-induced illness, but hopes to return to his work in Nippon next year.

"There are many things to do over here," he said, as he looked through a window at the ruins of a bombed home less than 100 feet from his suburban residence. His No. 1 project is to curb juvenile delinquency, particularly by "orphans who are now living in holes in the grounds of city parks, stealing what little food they get."

He said that more than half of the 150 American church workers in Japan on Dec. 7, 1941 were interned some time during the war. The biggest roundup came in September, 1942.

Only one member of Gressitt's household—Miss Elizabeth Kilburn of Germantown, Pa.—was interned. She was arrested when she went "too far" from home in spreading her teachings and "the police feared she might be reducing the propaganda-induced war hatred of Americans."

Henry Topping, a Baptist missionary here for 50 years, died 2 years ago, his wife, Genieve, is still carrying on their work.

Also working with Gressitt during the war were Miss Ruth Ward of Pasadena, Cal., and Miss Jessie Wenzler, who recently left by plane on the start of her return to her former home in St. Louis.

He Has a Yen for It

Some lucky girl in this country will get a Christmas surprise when she opens a package from Tokyo and finds the ermine Japanese wedding kimono seen in photo above. Her doughboy friend shelled out 550 yen for it in Tokyo's Matuy's department store when it recently re-opened for business.

Predicts Poor Prospects For Uranium Areas

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Prospects are poor for finding large commercial deposits of uranium in areas not already being mined, according to Prof. E. F. Schramm, chairman of the University of Nebraska geology department.

Schramm warned against the anticipated "postwar rash of prospecting for the metal" to aid in producing atom bombs.

"Instrument makers and device vendors whose success in business depends upon the stupendous gullibility of human nature soon will be placing their wares upon the market for the purpose of aiding the credulous prospector in his search for uranium ore," the geologist said.

Uranium is not rare, Schramm said, but only a few mining districts in the world can produce the ore in commercial quantities without paying an exorbitant price for its recovery.

The four leading deposits are found in Colorado, Utah and Arizona in the United States, the Belgian Congo, northwest Canada and Bohemia. Schramm said. Czechoslovakia, Australia, Portugal, Norway and Sweden all have mined the ore commercially in the past, but only Czechoslovakia now is producing it, according to the geologist.

Long before the a-bomb, the ore was used industrially as a steel hardener and—as pigment for paints and glass, he said.

HARD ON ANTELOPE

Now... telephone factories are working for you

More than 246,000 people in the Southwest have had to wait for telephone service for one reason: Telephone factories were working for war.

Now those factories are turning from war to peace. All the facilities and know-how that did the war job are beginning to produce the mountains of telephone equipment—switchboards, dial apparatus, cable, wire, and instruments—needed here at home.

The task ahead is not easy. In the next 12 months we expect to be able to add one telephone for every 10 now in service. They will serve most of those who are waiting. For others, in localities where heavy construction and installation is necessary, it may take longer.

But we've made a start; we're on our way. Now all our efforts are aimed at making the wait just as short as possible—to provide telephone service to all who want it, when they want it.

Says Trials Increase Man's Sense of Humor

DALLAS, Texas (UP) — People, who suffer the most generally have a better sense of humor than those who breeze through life without any conflicts, believes Irving Davidson, humorist.

Speaking to a Dallas audience, he said that through the years Jews have smiled when they have felt rage, and they have laughed when they felt like crying.

"In the face of their tragic history, you would expect Jews to be a sad solemn race. They have at, unusually fine sense of humor, however, despite their adversities. Humor at least counteracts some of life's devastations," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix H. Anderson of Eastland are the parents of a baby boy, born at the Ranger General Hospital, Thursday morning.

Major C. L. Jackson who is stationed at Camp Howse is here for a visit with his brother, Dr. W. L. Jackson and family. Major Jackson expects to receive his discharge in the near future.

Strange Cloud May Indicate Volcano Stir

CRATER LAKE, National Park Ore. (UP) — The possibility that volcanic forces are active beneath the waters of Crater Lake was considered here by geologists after three persons reported seeing a strange dust colored cloud rise from the lake and drift away.

The lake is eroded in the cavity of a volcano, which geologists estimate, has been dormant or extinct for nearly 5,000 years. The most widely accepted theory of the lake's origin is that the volcano, towering more than 14,500 feet, exploded and collapsed, leaving a crater which water partly filled. The rim of the crater now is only 7,500 feet above sea level.

Miss Linda Newhall, a forest service lookout, was the first to report seeing the cloud. She said it apparently formed on the lake, then rose sharply, mushroomed and finally drifted away. The lake is six miles wide and 2,000 feet deep where Miss Newhall spotted the formation.

Park Ranger Kenneth Hulbert who first saw the phenomenon from a lookout point on the crater rim, said the cloud was about 400 to 500 feet wide and extended upward about the same distance. It was diamond shaped, he said. Hulbert circled the lake to confirm his observation.

The other person who reported the strange sight is D. A. Vincent a naturalist, author and photographer. No photographs were obtained, however.

Dental School Recordings Being Tried In Texas

HOUSTON, Tex. (UP) — A new wrinkle in education is being tried at Texas University school of dentistry, where oral examinations are conducted by using a recording of the instructor's voice.

Dr. Frederick C. Elliott, dean of the school, says a recording eliminates a psychological barrier, as the presence of an instructor might frighten some students.

With the recording, he said, slow and quick students will have equal opportunity.

Dental experiments will be filmed with a sound-track explanation so a student may hear the same lecture as many times as he wishes.

Simple clinical work will start for freshmen students, instead of waiting until they are juniors, as is the common practice.

"In this way we hope to obtain better dental doctors," Dr. Elliott said. "The emphasis will be on passing and failing. If our method

Living Memorials Honor War Dead

CHICAGO (UP) — Several American cities have appropriated money for living memorials to the heroes of World War II, according to the International City Managers' Assn.

Petaluma, Cal., has voted $600,000 to build a swimming pool and gymnasium. Oakland, Cal., voters have approved a $500,000 bond issue for four large indoor pools.

Walla Walla, Wash., plans to build a community recreation center, complete with a golf course. Swimming pools and stadiums in several Oregon and California cities will commemorate World War II dead.

CONVENTION WORRIES
CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UP) William (Scotty) Jack, secretary of state, is pondering over the problems posed by conventions. He has invitations to a number of conventions in various parts of the United States. The only thing is that all of the meetings to which he has been invited take place within a day or so of another. All of the meetings are regarded as of prime importance to Wyoming in its postwar setup, Jack says. He adds that he's open to suggestions as to how to make all the conventions.

HEALTHY BEES
CASPER, Wyo. (UP) — The honey-making population in Wyoming is in pretty good shape. State Entomologist George B. Harston has just finished a checkup, and reports he found a few bees with American Foul Brood.
