WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY YETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Dirty charges and counter-charges are flying around the textile and clothing industries these days, in attempting to explain shortages which the consumers still find in the stores, three months after V-J-Day.

For over a month the Textile Workers Union has been maintaining that many of the mills were on a sellers' strike, holding back production, piling up inventories, refusing to put their goods on the market until after Jan. 1, when the excess profits tax goes into effect, or until mill owners get higher price ceilings from OPA.

It is almost impossible to pass on the merits of these charges. They have been freely but inconclusively discussed in the trade press. A few leaders in the textile and clothing industries have denied the charges, or declared they were greatly exaggerated in the particular branch of industry each was able to speak for.

Preliminary results of a textile survey by the Civilian Production Administration fail to show there is any evidence of stockpiling or a management sit-down, says CPA Administrator Capt. J. D. Small.

The whole question is complicated by side issues involving minimum wage and labor policies, strikes in some parts of the industry, lack of manpower, broken-down, war-weary looms that need replacement and an insatiable demand from the buying public.

Principal points in the Textile Workers Union charges that the producers aren't producing at capacity are these:
1. Most of the southern textile mills now are running only 40-hour shifts, refusing to pay overtime for six-day operation, even though the workers want it to keep up their take-home pay. It is further charged that the mills are refusing to operate the third shift because it calls for six to seven cents an hour extra pay.

To this the mills reply that there is still a shortage of labor.
2. Textile Workers Union officials say they have plenty of evidence of warehouses filled with goods being held from the market in anticipation of lower taxes and higher OPA prices.

The mill owners say, "Show us where."
CPA's survey of garment and clothing makers is now in progress. It is admitted that some cases of hoarding inventories and refusing to sell may be found here because the industry is so scattered and diversified.

3. Final point of the Textile Workers Union argument is that the mills' refusal to sell yarn or cloth is really part of an organized effort to force down the price of raw cotton and force down wages so that U. S. mills will be able to compete with foreign production. This is tied in with industry efforts to prevent increase of minimum wage rates from 55 to 65 cents an hour, now before Congress.

Few people can understand what goes on in the world cotton market. As a farm and mill wage issue, the question is more comprehensible. But the arguments here are impossible to prove, one way or the other.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NAVY'S chances against Michigan were reported brightened by word that fullback Bob Jenkins would be ready for full-time duty. And all the time everybody suspected that it was not additional backs, but formations and blocking to get them over the ground that was troubling the Midshipmen.

Capt. C. Owen Humphreys is quite right in saying that there should be some changes made at Annapolis and in coming out against the graduate coaching system.

Crabtown could also use a director of athletics who could refrain from criticizing the coaching staff and players in midseason.

On the eve of the brawl in Cleveland, Captain Humphreys, for no reason at all, went out of his way to warn the Midshipmen practically to handle the Notre Dames with kid gloves. "Our relationship with Notre Dame is something we treasure a great deal," he told them. "I want you to remember not to do anything to damage that relationship."

The Irish went home with fewer teeth than Mike Jacobs and more cuts, bruises and bumps than a Joe Louis victim.

Obviously one word from Captain Humphreys and the Midshipmen do as they please.
Capt. Dick Duten—the end, not the officer—evidently felt the same way about the coaching when he took the law into his own hands in the closing minutes of the Pennsylvania party.

It is rather unusual at that—Navy's coaches being kicked around in their own circle despite an unbeaten record. And permit me to draw your attention to the fact that there are at least two rather capable coaches on the seven in addition to submarine Comdr. Oscar Hagberg.

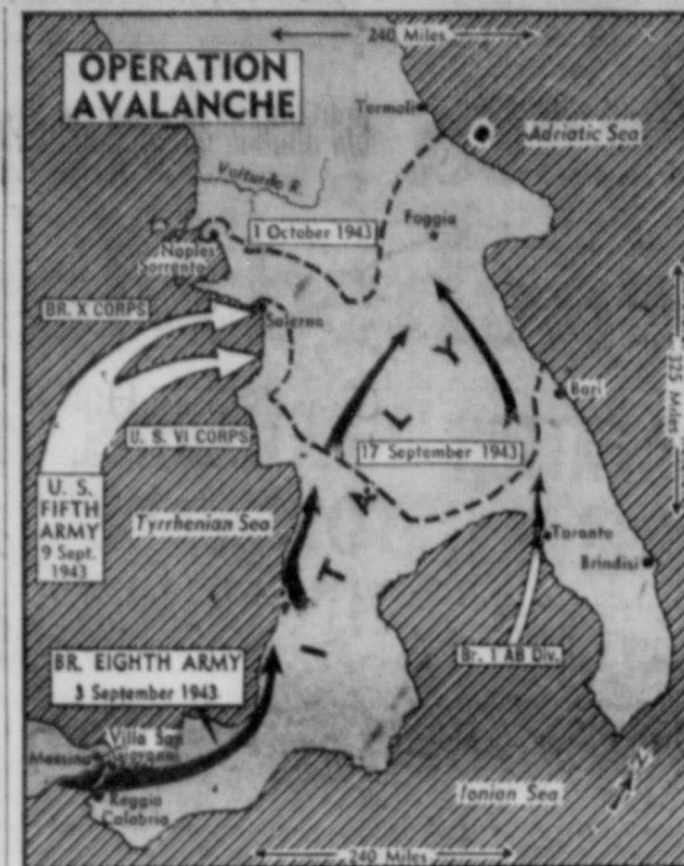

The claim is that a coach does not linger long enough at the Navy Academy to master the art that he departs just when he is

Report On the War

By General George C. Marshall

Biennial Report of the Chief of Staff of the U. S. Army 1943 to 1945, to the Secretary of War

This is the eighth of 42 installments of material selected from General Marshall's report on the winning of World War II.

OPERATION AVALANCHE enabled Allies to capitalize on collapse of Italian resistance, hold down German divisions from being diverted to Russian or French fronts and completed Allied control of the Mediterranean.

VIII ON TO THE BOGEZ

IN the first two days of the invasion more than 80,000 men, 7,000 vehicles, and 300 tanks had been landed; several small ports had been placed in operation; at least six airfields had been captured and were being prepared for use.

Allied aircraft gave close support to ground operations, flying up to 1,200 sorties each day. Heavy bombers knocked out the few air-dromes remaining serviceable to the enemy, and the ground troops were advancing rapidly. All air operations were under the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces headed by Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder with Lt. Gen. Carl Spaatz as Commander of the Northwest African Air Forces. All heavy bombers were organized into the Strategic Air Force under Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle.

By 18 July the battle line ran from a point just south of Catania on the east to Porto Empedocle on the west about one-quarter of the island was in our hands. On 22 July, General Patton's forces in a rapid thrust across the western end of the island occupied the key port of Palermo. Further east the troops forged steadily ahead through rugged mountains stubbornly defended by the enemy. By the end of July only the northeastern corner of the island remained to the enemy.

Catania, the east coast bastion which had held up the advance of the British Eighth Army, fell early in August. The Germans and Italians were already withdrawing across the Strait of Messina under heavy air bombardment and continued pressure by our ground forces. On 16 August patrols of our 3d Division entered Messina from the west simultaneously with British units from the southeast and the next day organized resistance ceased. In 39 days the Sicilian campaign had ended. Through use of a heavy concentration of antiaircraft guns the Germans managed to extricate thousands of their first-line paratrooper and airborne troops as well as a considerable amount of light equipment over the Strait of Messina to the mainland. Nevertheless, for the Axis the loss of Sicily was a major military disaster. Their casualties totaled 167,000 of which 37,000 were Germans. Our casualties totaled 31,158 killed, wounded, and missing.

General Eisenhower reported: "Nine months after the first landings in North Africa, the Allied Forces had not merely cleared its shore of enemy forces but had wrested from him the Sicilian bridge to use as our own in an advance onto the Italian mainland."

Italians Call Quits
Operation HUSKY, as we had hoped, precipitated a political disaster for the Axis. On 25 July, King Victor Emmanuel proclaimed the resignation of Mussolini. In August, the President and the Prime Minister with the Combined Chiefs of Staff met at the Citadel at Quebec, the meeting being designated the QUADRANT Conference. By now the Italian Government was ready to quit. Marshal Badoglio had established contact with General Eisenhower in an effort to negotiate a surrender without the knowledge of the Germans. General Eisenhower was instructed to accept the unconditional surrender of Italy and to obtain the greatest military advantage from this development. He was to seize Sardinia and Corsica and attempt the establishment of air bases in the Rome area and northward, if feasible, maintaining unrelenting pressure on German forces in Northern Italy. At the same time, he was directed to coordinate his plans with the requirements of operation OVERLORD.

The Combined Chiefs of Staff at the QUADRANT Conference also conceived the operation against Southern France designated operation ANVIL and arrived at these conclusions: "Offensive operations against Southern France (to include the use of trained and equipped French forces) should be undertaken to establish a lodgment in the Toulon-Marseille area and to exploit northward in order to create a diversion in connection with OVERLORD. Air nourished operations in the southern Alps will, if possible, be initiated."

On 8 September, the day before American troops landed on the Italian mainland, the unconditional surrender of Italy was announced. On 9 September and the succeeding days the principal elements of the Italian fleet surrendered.
Invasion of Mainland
Compelling reasons had developed for the invasion of the Italian mainland. The operation (AVALANCHE) would enable us to capitalize on the collapse of Italian resistance; it offered a field for engaging German divisions which otherwise might operate against the Red Army and later against the forces in France; it would provide airfields from which the German homeland and the Balkans could be bombed from substantially shorter range; it would complete Allied control of the Mediterranean.

Canadian and British divisions of General Montgomery's Eighth Army crossed the Strait of Messina under cover of heavy artillery and air bombardment and landed on beaches near Reggio Calabria and Villa San Giovanni on 3 September. The beachheads were quickly secured, and the Eighth Army advanced northward through Calabria.

Six days later the U. S. Fifth Army under command of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark disembarked on beaches along the Gulf of Salerno. It joined with the VI Corps commanded by Maj. Gen. E. J. Dawley on the right and the British X Corps on the left. The VI Corps was composed principally of the 36th and 45th Divisions. American Rangers and British Commando units landed on the Sorrento Peninsula, north of the port of Salerno.

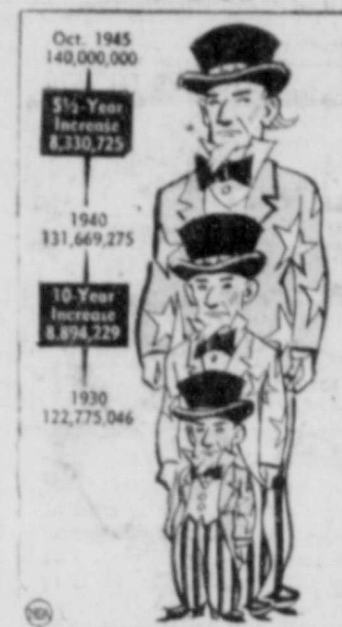

The enemy had suspected that we might undertake an amphibious operation against the Naples area, and as a result enemy reaction to the Salerno landings was swift and vigorous. It was evident that the German High Command had decided that its only hope of salvaging the situation arising from the surrender of the Italian Government lay in holding the Allied forces south of Naples until fresh dispositions could be made. On D-day the Germans made several local tank attacks. By 13 September the German XIV Panzer Corps was in action, and both the American and the British Corps were under heavy attack. The situation was critical. (NEXT: Entrenchment in Italy)

We Grow

The rapid increase in U. S. population is shown on chart above. About Oct. 1, says the Bureau of Census, Uncle Sam's family passed the 140,000,000 mark. Last official census was 1940, and in the five and a half years since then, the population has increased almost as much as it did in the 10 years previous.

He sells trees only when he needs the cash to care for his farm and his family, and, as for insurance, he has fire lines into the woodland 25 years before any of his neighbors.

Win Texas 4-H Championships

In recognition of their outstanding 4-H records in girls' record, poultry and safety, two Texas rural boys and a girl have been named 1945 state champions in their respective club activities. The winners and brief outlines of their records follow:

Marilee Dufek, 18, of Dallas, is awarded for her outstanding "all around" achievements in the National 4-H Girls' Record Activity with an all-expense trip to the Chicago Club Congress provided by Montgomery Ward. During nine years in Club work, she sewed 63 garments, and made over or mended 46 others, prepared and served 757 meals, canned 2,324 quarts of foods, made 75 home improvement articles and gave 61 demonstrations. Marilee also helped raise 1,380 chickens, handled 313 pigs, prepared 2,193 pounds of beef and pork and 26 chickens for freezing, and cared for 123 trees and seedlings. She completed 56 4-H projects, and won many placings on her exhibits. In addition, she served her 4-H Club as president and reporter one year each, vice president two years, and project leader four years.

Bruce Gibson, 15, of Turkey, is Texas' first state winner in the new National 4-H Poultry Achievement Activity. His reward is an all-expense trip to the Chicago Club Congress, provided by Swift & Company. The boy's record shows that he has raised 730 fowl and from those realized an income of $501.50, including $20.00 in cash prizes. As president Bruce led his club in entering 100 per cent in all war efforts. Four state co-winners who each receive a $25 U. S. Savings Bond are: James Cates, of Alto; Scott Swindall, Sylvester; Johnny McCain, Moore, and Bouncer White, Amherst.

Buddy Gene Bragg, 16, of Tahoka, has been named to represent the state for a sectional award of a Club Congress trip in the General Motors 4-H Farm Safety Activity. The boy's achievements in safety work include preventing fire by plowing guards around pastures and keeping down weeds near buildings, fences and feed stock. He used safe practices in working around farm machinery. He is president of the county 4-H Rifle Club, and supervises a club organized in the Tahoka Negro schools. Seven state co-winners who also each receive a $25 U. S. Savings Bond are: Ervin Hale, Roby; Billy Hambricht, Florida; Jack McCain, Moore; Harold Rampy, Lakeview; W. Ray Echols, Coahoma; Riley Bradford, Lipan, and James C. Beard of Tuscola.

Goose Creek Has Real Live Pistol Packin' Mama

GOOSE CREEK, Tex. (UP)—Down on the banks of Goose Creek lives a true to life "Pistol Packin' Mama."

While her husband was working the night shift at the Baytown refinery, Mrs. E. M. Clark heard her chickens squawking.

She turned on a 250-watt porch light and saw a gray fox looking at her 75 feet away.

She shot one time with a .22 caliber pistol, right through the fox's right eye.

"Oh, yes, I've practiced some with a pistol," Mrs. Clark, mother of a year-old daughter, said. "I used to knock the clothes pins off my mother's clothes line when we lived at LaWard, an Hugule production camp near Victoria."

Mrs. Clark said she is going to teach her daughter, Mary Lee, how to shoot.

GOES AIR MINDED TYLER, TEXAS (UP)—A Tyler oil man and aviation enthusiast is going to manufacture airplanes in a new plant near here.

W. E. Stewart, president of the newly-formed Stewart Aircraft Industries, said his product will be a two place light plane to be known as the "Bluebird."

Hatling of horses into Wyoming for rodeos is considered a commercial operation by the state highway patrol. One-trip permits costing $5 each are required every time the state line is crossed.

Bishop W. E. Mammaker of Denver, of the Methodist church says the postwar period needs to be swept by a great wave of evangelism.

Tommy Dorsey Band Member Is Home For Xmas

Collen Gray Satterwhite, member of Tommy Dorsey's orchestra is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite. His wife, the former Diana Hereford of Hollywood, California, is with him. They will be here until after the Christmas holidays.

Collen Gray is a graduate of Eastland high school where he played in the high school band, then under the direction of M. R. McCollum. He began his musical training with Mrs. Wilda Drago, studying piano. He went from Eastland high school to Texas Tech at Lubbock to study Engineering. He played in the college band for two years. He did not return to Tech for his third year; instead, he went to Wichita Falls as a member of Bernie Marcello's band. After one year with Marcello, he went to Bobby Peters. He played with several small bands before going with Jan Savitt and later with Joe Venuti. His work took him all over the country. He was in New Orleans once when Tommy Dorsey came there for a month's engagement. He got in touch with Dorsey and asked to take trombone lessons from him. He was assured by Dorsey that his time was worth at least $5 an hour. Satterwhite said that was all right. He wanted one lesson anyway. Later he was asked to play for Dorsey and he joined his band, going to Dorsey from Joe Venuti.

He has been with Dorsey since 1943 and is on his first vacation since signing up. He and Mrs. Satterwhite flew from New York City to Dallas early last week and came on to Eastland by train.

Cattlemen Urged To Fight Heel Fly "Gribs"

Eastland County cattlemen and dairymen this week were being urged to treat their animals in order to cull the heel fly "grub" now showing up in their backs in large numbers, by J. M. Cooper, County Agricultural Agent.

tered the meat around the enervated grubs on the back must be trimmed out and discarded, Cooper said. Such trimming gives it a bad appearance and the netire carcass brings a lower price which means that cattle are bought for less to allow for this damage.

Hides too are discounted one cent per pound if there are as many as five holes per side.

It is impossible to determine the loss caused by the grubs from reduced beef and milk production. Rotonene used to dust the back of infested animals was scarce during the war years due to its being imported from the East Indies of South America is now more plentiful and is very effective in grub control work. It is now available locally and is relatively cheap. The only effective way to stop the ravages of this parasite is to kill it in the grub stage, it was said unless killed in the grub stage it passes from the back of the animal onto the ground where it pupates in several weeks to a full grown heel fly, ready to breed, lay eggs and start its life cycle all over again. Some cattlemen over the county have already enlisted in the campaign but many more would benefit if they would treat their cattle, Cooper contended.

Nebraskans Are Co-Operating On Vet Job Training

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP) — Nebraskans are co-operating to the hilt in the state-wide drive to provide returning veterans with training for the jobs they seek, according to Wayne O. Reed, state superintendent of public instruction.

Nearly every type of work now is represented by the 281 employers offering 900 approved "on-the-job training" vacancies, he said. Under the training program set up by the GI Bill of Rights, employers make application to Reed's office. If they can show they are equipped to train veterans for the jobs specified, they are placed on an approved list.

The lists then are filed with the Veterans Administration, Selective Service boards and the U. S. Employment Service, which direct the veterans to the training jobs they want.

Included on the lists are requests for veterans who want to learn to be mechanics, sailsmen, stereotypers, linotype operators, reporters, bakers, motion picture machine operators, police officers, firemen, radio and sound technicians, floor layers and glaziers.

Get Better Cough Syrup By Mixing It at Home

Quick Relief, Big Saving, So Easy! No Cooking. To get quick relief from coughs due to colds, you should make sure by mixing your own cough syrup at home. It's no trouble at all and you know it's pure and good. It needs no cooking, and it's so easy to make that a child could do it. From your drugist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough plain syrup to fill up to the pint. To make syrup, stir two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired. The full pint thus made should last a family a long time, and gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste. And for quick results, you've never seen its superior. It seems to take hold instantly, loosening the phlegm, soothing the irritated membranes, and helping to clear the air passages. Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action on coughs and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

- "My food, clothes, quarters, medical and dental care are all supplied to me. And I can learn any of 200 skills or trades in the Army schools.
- "All of us who are reenlisting are going to have from 30 to 90 days' furlough at home with full pay and our travel paid both ways. And we'll have 30 days' furlough every year with pay.
- "Any time after 20 years I can retire at half pay increasing year by year to three-quarters retirement pay after 30 years of service. And the time I've already served in active military or naval service counts toward my retirement time. Added up—reenlistment looks good to me!"

Ford Company Asks Strikers To Pay Company

The Ford Motor Company has proposed to the UAW, that the Union pay to the Company $5 for each employee participating in an unauthorized work stoppage. The Company also has offered to guarantee the Union against abuses of the provision from any source.

The proposal was presented to Union negotiators by the Ford Motor Company as failure of the Union to come to the negotiations with a specific, workable "Company Security" proposal.

Text of the section bearing on the financial responsibility of the Union follows:

"If there is any (unauthorized) strike, interference, curtailment or interruption of work, as provided herein, the Union shall become liable for and pay to the Company as liquidated damages, the sum of $5 for each employee for each and every day or fraction thereof the employees participate in such unauthorized or illegal strike or curtailment of operation. The Company is authorized, empowered and directed to deduct such sum from any amount then or thereafter collected by the Company for the Union under the check-off provisions of this agreement."

The Company's position is that the Union can control its membership in the matter of unauthorized stoppages, slow downs and controlled production, but has failed in this responsibility during the life of the present agreement.

"Furthermore, only by facing financial penalty will the Union choose to arise from its lethargy," company officials said.

The proposal also states that in exchange for this type of "Company Security" the company would agree to give the Union security by continuation of the Union shop and check-off provision.

The technique developed during the war of shipping human plasma donations in mobile refrigerated Chevrolet containers, maintaining the required temperature, has been utilized to distribute perishable foods throughout the country in all extremes of weather.

Q: How much light is enough to sew on a button

A: Sewing is a hard job for your eyes—few seeing tasks are more difficult. You need all the light you can get; certainly more than the poor illumination found in so many homes. To ease the eyestrain of sewing or other exacting visual tasks, use a lamp with at least a 100-watt bulb, and preferably a 150-watt bulb. You'll find that a floor lamp with the 100-200-300-watt 5-lit' bulb makes a big difference in speeding work and reducing eyestrain.

BETTER LIGHT in your home brings you closer to nature's ideal, such as the good lighting you enjoy on your porch.
