SAFE SHIPPING CAMPAIGN TO BE CONDUCTED

Announcement has been made by B. A. Tunnell, agent for the Texas & Pacific Railway Company that a Perfect Shipping Campaign will be conducted during the month of April. He states that with railroad freight loss and damage for the nation reaching an estimated 90 million-dollar figure during 1945, a nation-wide "Perfect Shipping Campaign" will be conducted during the month of April as a means of activating the shipping and receiving public as well as railroad employees responsible for the safe delivery of shipments into a cooperative group to stop the needless waste of materials and precious man hours.

Poor packing, improper marking and careless handling is responsible for the tragic waste of effort and the Campaign will have an objective of improving especially the packaging technique in the preparation of shipments, not only for the present but for the future. With a membership of more than 75,000 shippers and receivers the 13 regional Shippers Advisory Boards, with the Southwest Board headquarters at 612 Southwestern Life Building, Dallas, Texas, will take an active part in the Campaign. Others who will participate include the Association of American Railroads, the Railway Express Agency and other transportation agencies.

Plans are being made for an intensive educational campaign during April at local meetings of shippers organizations, traffic and trade bodies, chamber of commerce and other business groups. The waste from careless packing, marking, and handling, Tunnell stated, has reached a tremendous lost-value figure, and our wits and resourcefulness are again challenged to cut this to a minimum. It is going to be increasingly important for all of us to accept this as a business precept and to be governed accordingly," he said.

Times Approved For Veterans' Training Program

It was announced today that the Ranger Daily Times has been approved as an educational and training institution by the state committee for approval under Public Law 346, passed by the 78th Congress. Under the law the Times is recognized as being equipped to furnish training to veterans in the fields of circulation, advertising, printing, stereotyping, linotype operation and reporting. Joe Dennis, manager of the Times, stated today that the firm has openings in some of these fields for the right young men.

Pianist To Be Featured At Elks Dance Tonight

Bill Aylon, former pianist with Herbie Kay's orchestra, will be featured in an intermission program at the Elks benefit dance at the Elks club tonight. Aylon who was scheduled to appear at the dance last week was unable to fill the engagement because of an automobile accident west of Cisco while enroute to Ranger last Thursday. The dance tonight will be at 9:00 o'clock and tickets will be sold at the door. Extra ladies will be admitted for 50 cents. Music will be furnished by the Music Ramblers and all proceeds from the dance will go to the crippled children's hospital fund.

ENROLLMENT AT T.U. 48 PER CENT VETS

AUSTIN, Texas — Veterans make up 48 per cent of the spring semester enrollment at the University of Texas, the registrar's office reports, with 5,559 now enrolled out of a total registration of 12,282 students. Men also outnumber women, the records show, with 8,165 men enrolled. Peak enrollment for any semester previously was in 1940-41, when 19,500 students were registered.

Approximately 150 additions have been made to the teaching and administrative staff since the first of the year, with the addition of new members, or of former members returning from military service. Pre-fabricated hutments have solved the University's acute housing shortage to some extent, and to date $417,953 has been expended for emergency housing for 10,000 veterans, C. D. Simmons, comptroller, said. Classroom and laboratory space is also crowded to capacity by the influx of students and construction of additional buildings is contemplated. The University will ask the Legislature to submit a $10,000,000 building bond issue in the form of a constitutional amendment, in order to carry out an expansion program.

Two From Ranger Are Enlisted In Regular Army

The regular Army recruiting office at Eastland continues to enlist Eastland county men and are stressing the importance of paying tribute to the men who are carrying on the work of the regular Army.

Two from Ranger who recently enlisted for three periods are Eugene Franklin, veteran of World War II and George W. Huffman.

Franklin, Route 2, Ranger, re-enlisted in the Regular Army for a three year period and selected the Quartermaster as his branch, and the European theater for overseas duty. S-Sgt. Franklin had approximately five years active service in the Infantry to his credit, and has already had foreign duty in the ETO. He was awarded the American Defense Service Medal, EAME Campaign Medal with five Bronze Stars, and the Purple Heart. His Army specialty is a platoon leader.

Huffman, Ranger, enlisted at the age of seventeen, with his parents consent, which is required. He chose a three year enlistment in order to obtain the Army Air Forces as his branch of service. George is an ex-student of Ranger High School.

California Town Plans Museum Of Old City Hall

ALHAMBRA, Cal. (UP) — Alhambra's first city hall, rattling and tired from three previous moves, is going to be transferred to still another spot—this time to serve as a museum.

The wooden building will be used to house the original City Commission table, pictures and other mementos of early days gathered by pioneer attorney Judge William Northrup.

Judge Northrup set up his first law office in the building in 1902 during the real estate boom days, invited the council to meet in the building later.

Then the building had to be moved twice to make room for new buildings and city halls, became a lumber yard office, restaurant and housing facility.

WANTS NO SUBSIDIES WASHINGTON (UP) — Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small promised Congress today that he would use proposed building material subsidies "only as a last resort."

COMMUNIST CHARGED MONTREAL (UP) — Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament, today was ordered held for trial on charges of giving secret Canadian information to Russian agents.

UNO MAY GET GREAT LIBRARY FROM LEAGUE

WASHINGTON (UP) — The League of Nations library, one of the great multilingual libraries of the world which survived the war intact, may eventually be brought to the United States and installed in a special library devoted to international peace, as part of the United Nations world capital.

The Council and the Assembly of the League of Nations, in their last meetings in Geneva on April 5 and 8 will have to decide whether to offer the library to the United Nations, on condition that it be retained intact and developed, or kept in Geneva to serve as an easily accessible center for the study of international affairs.

The League library, begun in 1919 and stimulated in 1929 by an important gift from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., now contains 330,000 volumes. Many are out-of-print publications, and there is also a great collection of microfilm copies of rare periodicals.

In addition, the League has collected and holds on deposit abroad a great number of contemporary publications as soon as postwar conditions permit. The League mission in Princeton has made the greatest collection for transfer but there are also deposits in Soviet Russia, Italy, Canada and Australia.

Switzerland was so short of coal during the war that since the winter of 1940 the lack of coal prevented the heating of the book-stacks. The degree of humidity was closely watched and the library survived the war without damage. All during the war, bookbinders continued their work in Geneva, to preserve the documents.

The conclusive condition of the final disposition of the library will be a pledge not to break it up and to continue its expansion. Unless the United Nations gives that pledge, the library either will be retained in Geneva or installed at Louvain or in some other great university which lost its books in the war.

Atmospheric UPset Blacks Out Communication

NEW YORK (UP) — Violent atmospheric disturbances have blacked out radio and telephone communications between Europe and the United States since 4 a. m. today and have disrupted service in other areas.

The disturbances, caused by the coinciding of the northern lights and the spring equinox, were reported to be the worst in years.

WILL NOT BE REPRESENTED AT IRANIAN CASE SESSIONS

NEW YORK (UP) — The press secretary of the Soviet delegation to the United Nations announced today that Russia "did not walk out on UNO," and will send representatives to all meetings except those dealing with the Iranian question.

Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko has not decided whether to attend this afternoon's secret session of the Security Council which will look for a way to restore big five unanimity after Russia's sensational walkout from the council.

But the press secretary, Victor Ulanchev, announced—"Some-one will attend if the executive session is not connected with the Iranian question. Some alternate will attend if the ambassador doesn't."

The Security Council meets late today. United Nations officials confirmed that the substance of the Iranian case would not be discussed today. The secret meeting was called at UNO Secretary-General Trygve Lie's suggestion so that the members could discuss in private how to pick up the pieces of UNO after yesterday's world-shaking meeting.

Byrnes has been in constant telephone communication with the White House ever since UNO's gravest crisis in its short life reached its dramatic climax. Some quarters suggested that restoration of big five unanimity on the Iranian case may require a direct appeal to Josef Stalin.

Accuses OPA Of Creating Meat Black Market

WASHINGTON (UP) — The American Meat Institute today accused OPA of "creating" a black market in meat which it said was costing Americans more than $1,250,000,000 a year.

James McCall, institute board chairman, told the House agriculture committee that the black market plus government subsidies was costing consumers over $2,000,000,000 a year more for meat than retail ceiling prices would indicate.

2,450 Lose Lives In Accidents During February

CHICAGO (UP) — The nation went on a "travel binge" last month that cost a near record total of 2,450 lives, the National Safety Council said today.

The traffic casualty list for February carried only seven per cent fewer names than that for the same month in 1941, the "deadliest" February in U. S. history, when 2,631 persons were killed, the council said.

PREMIER GIFT SENDS FUNDS OVER QUOTA

Ranger went over the top today in the Red Cross Funds Campaign beating the quota of $2,500 by $57.81.

The gift that sent the quota over the top was one of $111.00 from the Premier Oil Refining Company and employees.

Earlier in the week, Homer Smith of Eastland, county chairman for the drive reported that the county had gone over, even though some of the smaller communities had not reported.

So far all towns reporting have oversubscribed their quotas by a good margin and even though the drive lagged more than during the war years, the county overall has made a splendid record in the drive.

H. C. Henderson, Ranger chairman of the drive, today expressed his appreciation to all who worked in the drive and particularly to Mrs. Jewel Green, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. John Bates who handled the collections for the drive. He also expressed his appreciation to the Times for the publicity given the drive through the columns of the newspaper.

Truman Takes His Daily Walk In Maryland

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Truman succumbed to balmy spring weather again this morning and went for another walk—but in Maryland.

His theory is that he walks alone—except for his secret service guards—or not at all. So, because of recent publicity, he abandoned morning walks in the vicinity of the White House where the crowds might collect.

Body Accuses Administration Of Mismanagement

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States Chamber of Commerce today accused the Truman administration of practicing peace time economic bokum bordering on the irresponsible.

It charged that wage inflation and currency inflation policies had caused the country irretrievable damage and, if continued, would lead toward more and more economic chaos.

REFUSE DISCUSSIONS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russian representatives in Korea have refused American requests for a full discussion of reports that the Soviets are removing Korean machinery, it was reported today.

BRITISH QUESTION HOUR GIVES SENATORS IDEA

LONDON (UP) — An old British custom—question time in the House of Commons—has aroused the interest of United States Senators.

Question time is exclusively British; no other legislative assembly in the world has anything like it.

The custom is unique in that ministers of the cabinet are required to answer, in public, for any administrative action that may call for criticism.

For one hour on four days of the week while Parliament is in session, members ask questions on every conceivable subject. At least two days notice has to be given. The answers may be written or the members asking the question may request an oral answer.

The minister concerned is obliged to give a verbal reply if requested and supplementary questions may then be asked him while he is in the house. The member asking the original question has the prerogative to ask the first supplementary question.

Provided the question does not turn into a debate, the number of supplementary questions may be limited only by the Speaker. His decisions are influenced by the importance of the subject.

SUGGESTS UNO HANDLE IRAN'S OIL RESOURCES

LONDON (UP) — The foreign office disclosed today that Britain had suggested to Iran that the future development of unlocated Iranian oil resources be placed under control of the United Nations.

A foreign office spokesman said the British ambassador to Tehran Sir Reader Bullard, "unofficially" suggested to Premier Ahmed Ghavam of Iran that the country's oil development be turned over to the UNO.

Bullard advanced the suggestion a month ago, the spokesman said. He said Bullard gave it his "personal, unofficial opinion" that the future of Iran's unallocated resources might be discussed by the UNO economic and social council.

Reports from New York that the UNO council might take over the allotment of Iranian oil may have originated from the suggestion made by Bullard, the foreign office commentator said. He said he did not know how Ghavam reacted to Bullard's idea.

DISTURBING PARALLELS

Premier Stalin has accused Winston Churchill of nursing a Hitlerish idea of racial superiority, and of wanting to make this an Anglo-Saxon world. But it seems to us that Mr. Stalin's recent actions, much more than Mr. Churchill's words, bear the marks of the Hitler influence.

Mr. Stalin may be, and doubtless is, guided by decidedly different motives. But the parallels of method are striking. Hitler began to prepare the ground for war by talking of democratic encirclement, unfriendly elements in neighboring countries, and the right of self-defense.

Mr. Stalin has recently spoken of capitalistic encirclement, the desire for friendly governments on Russia's borders, and the need of preparing Russia for "any eventuality."

Hitler directed his most venomous oratory at Great Britain while, in the early days, he assured the United States of his friendly intentions.

Mr. Stalin and the Russian press have had some bitter things to say about Britain in recent days. At the same time they pointed out that Russia has been friends with the United States longer and more consistently than Britain has.

Hitler began his military activities by sending troops into undefended or weakly defended border territories, with Austrian annexation as the climax. Mr. Stalin's troops have been active in Iran, where they remain in violation of a treaty in which Russia agreed to evacuate them on March 2.

There the parallel ends. Hitler thundered and his armies clanked about near home until he had built up what he thought was an invincible war machine. Mr. Stalin undoubtedly has the most powerful military force under arms today.

It is unlikely that Mr. Stalin wants another war. Certainly, he does not want it now. For Russia, with all her military might, is war-weary and industrially weak.

The external parallel of German activities in the late Thirties and Russian activities today, however different the internal motives, proclaims the urgent need for action. This time the tragic drift toward destruction must be stopped early and completely.

That is a job for the United States. Russia and Britain are now engaged in pot-and-kettle accusations of blackness which can only make a dangerous situation worse. There is need for strong meditation backed by strong force. If that means that we must partially rearm, then, repugnant as the thought is, we shall have to do it.

Businessman Makes Success As Pianomaker

OREGON, Ill. (UP) — The man who dreamed of building a piano with the tone and rhythm of Johann Schiller's poetry is dead, but the piano factory he built here still produces fine instruments for a music-loving nation.

Frederick G. Jones, founder of the Schiller Piano Co. in 1863, was known as "Unmusical Jones." He couldn't whistle a tune, but he knew what he liked and he also knew how to run a business.

So in the last decade of the 19th century, when Jones was a prominent merchant, he decided to aid the owner of a small and promising piano factory. But the business continued to fail, and finally Jones took over and renamed the plant in honor of his favorite poet.

Realizing that the success of his factory depended on easy access to power, Jones built a dam across a river running by the plant and set up electric generators.

The project prospered and production of the first models—heavy, ornate "upright grands"—rose from one a week to nearly 100 a week.

The dam and the power rights were sold in 1912, but not before Jones had included a clause in the contract assuring the piano company of 74.6 kilowatt hours per day and team at a cost of $400 a month in the summer and $500 a month in the winter.

Jones, with his business acumen, saw that his firm would have to follow the trends of the time to maintain its place in the field.

So the heavy grand made way for the nickel-in-the-slot mechanical player when it became the vogue. And when apartment houses and small homes replaced large living rooms, the spinet and lightweight model came into its own.

In 1915, Schiller pianos averaged nearly half a ton. The present model runs to 275 pounds.

Other improvements include the use of aluminum for the plate holding the strings. Tension on the plate is estimated to equal 26 tons.

The firm is now owned by the Conover Cable Co., an Eastern concern, but the piano named the Schiller still will continue to grace the homes of Americans.

NEWS FROM Rising Star

APPEAL FOR MORE FOOD, FEED CROPS
Plan to grow more food and feed crops this year is the appeal to Eastland County farmers, ranchers, and gardeners from the county USDA Council, who met recently at the courthouse to discuss plans as to how to meet the present worldwide food emergency. Not only is the council stressing the importance of growing more food and feed but is also asking that present food supplies be conserved as much as possible. The County U.S.D.A. Council is composed of representatives from the FMA, FSA, Extension Service, Production Credit Association and Soil Conservation Service, R.E.A., and other agencies working directly with rural people over the county. "For the world as a whole a food crisis has developed which may prove to be the worst in modern times," President Truman said in a speech recently asking that we do our share in saving millions of humans from starvation. More people now face death from starvation from lack of food than in any war year and perhaps in all the war years combined it was said. In comparison to the average American diet 125 million European people have only two meals a day with 25 million who have only one meal a day.

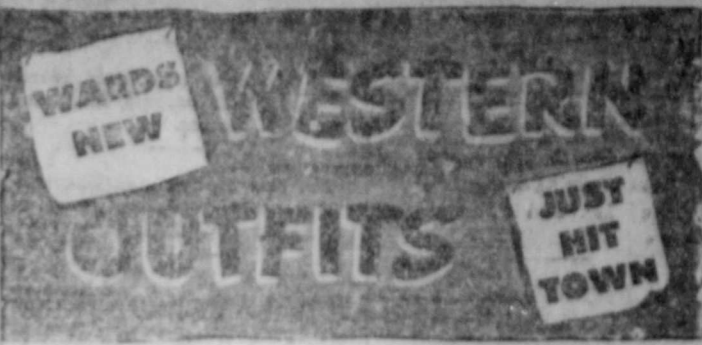

ROCHESTER TRAPS RATS IN DRIVE AGAINST RABIES
ROCHESTER, N. Y. (UP) — As part of the crusade against rabies in the area, war has been declared on rats. Under the supervision of an official of the U. S. Fish and Wild Life Service, who was summoned to the city after two rabid rats were discovered here recently, traps will be set throughout the city. The local population of rats is estimated at 200,000 to 400,000. The rodents will be sent to Cornell University after their capture, and will be analyzed to determine whether or not they are victims of rabies. A special trap will be used, since the ordinary snap-traps are apt to damage the brain case, making the analysis difficult.

Following the Army's radar contact with the moon, the Federal Telephone and Radio Corp., affiliate of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., is reported to have proposed using the moon as a relay station in a new system of inter-continental radio communication. Idea is that high frequency radio signals, beamed at the moon, would be reflected and could be picked up at any point on the hemisphere facing the moon. Newchart shows how signals might be sent from New York to Paris in 2 1/2 seconds.

APPEAL FOR MORE FOOD, FEED CROPS

Plan to grow more food and feed crops this year is the appeal to Eastland County farmers, ranchers, and gardeners from the county USDA Council, who met recently at the courthouse to discuss plans as to how to meet the present worldwide food emergency. Not only is the council stressing the importance of growing more food and feed but is also asking that present food supplies be conserved as much as possible. The County U.S.D.A. Council is composed of representatives from the FMA, FSA, Extension Service, Production Credit Association and Soil Conservation Service, R.E.A., and other agencies working directly with rural people over the county. "For the world as a whole a food crisis has developed which may prove to be the worst in modern times," President Truman said in a speech recently asking that we do our share in saving millions of humans from starvation. More people now face death from starvation from lack of food than in any war year and perhaps in all the war years combined it was said. In comparison to the average American diet 125 million European people have only two meals a day with 25 million who have only one meal a day.

Flame-Thrower Chemical Made Into Toilet Soap

WASHINGTON (UP) — "Napalm," the solidified gasoline which combat troops used in flame throwers to clean up the Japanese in the Pacific, now is being used to clean up GI's in the United States Army. The method employed will be slightly different, however. Col. George F. Unmacht, Chemical Warfare official in Washington, found a way of converting it to liquid soap with no cost and very little labor. A surplus of 50,000 gallons will be made into soap within the next few months. It whips into a quick suds which can be used to clean messhall dishes and barracks floors. It can even be used for shampoos and for various hospital purposes.

North Dakota University agriculture experts recommend a northeast slope as the best place for the farm orchard. If none is available, an "artificial slope" can be created by planting a wind-break on the south and west of the orchard site.

Dog's Nose Finds Cache Of Liquor

BURBANK, Cal. (UP)—A kennosed dog, accompanying his master for a stroll in the nearby hills, sniffed his way onto a cache of bonded whisky and cigarettes. His honest master turned the loot over to police.

Police believed the booty was hidden there by liquor store bandits although no such theft was reported.

The score of bottles, all unopened, and several cartons of cigarettes were locked up, reluctantly, in the police station.

TEAR GAS ROUTS COPS

ALHAMBRA, Cal. (UP)—Police here have learned by experience that their tear gas is highly effective.

The trigger on the tear "gun" jammed during a demonstration at the police station and the operator turned the gun toward an open window.

The wind immediately diffused the tear gas throughout the building and routed every policeman.

SOCIAL SECURITY KEYSTONE IN POSTWAR NEW ZEALAND

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UP)—New Zealand is pinning her hopes of postwar stability on her social security system, the most complete and far-reaching in the world.

Every New Zealander is insured by the state from cradle to grave against unemployment, illness, widowhood, old age and the burden of large families. Old age, miners' and widows' pensions were first introduced in the '90s by the liberal prime minister, Richard John Seddon, and the program was completed in 1935.

Highlights of New Zealand's social security protection are:

Hospitals: Public hospitals are free. Anyone can go to a private hospital and part of his bills will be paid by the government. The individual pays only about one-fourth of the cost of treatment by a private doctor or specialist. Old Age: At 65 a person becomes eligible for a pension on a scale rising to $274.62 per year, regardless of income or property. If ill, an aged person can get up to $845 per year, free X-ray, massage and maternity benefits.

Unemployment Insurance: $3.25 per week, plus $2.44 for a dependent wife and $1.70 for each dependent child up to $13 per week.

Other benefits are paid invalids, miners with occupational diseases orphans and widows.

On April 1, the new Universal family allowance will go into effect. Until now it has been paid to parents below the income level of $17.87 weekly, but starting April 1 it will be paid for all children under 18 as long as they remain in school, regardless of the family's income. Payments will be made to the mother of the family.

Every person registers for social security at 16 and pays a registration fee of from 81 cents to $3.25 per year. He also pays in five per cent of his income.

Although the British Medical Assn. fought the socialized medicine program bitterly, doctors are apparently satisfied with the present modified plan and medical colleges are crowded with students seeking to enter the profession.

Patients pay the full consulting fee to the doctor and receive a state rebate of about 75 per cent. Many doctors, however, accept only the state subsidy, making their services free to the patient.

SPORTS
BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

MIAMI, Fla.—(NEA)—James J. Jeffries is taking a count from a... invisible blow which flattened him several weeks ago. The Big Fellow—they've called him since he won the heavyweight championship from Bob Fitzsimmons—suffered a stroke on his farm in Burbank, Calif., and is recuperating slowly but surely in Ramona Sanitarium, out near Glendale.

Old Jim—he'll be 71 come April 15—balks at his enforced idleness but vows he'll beat the paralysis which afflicts his left arm and leg. Knowing the Big Fellow as I do, I'm sure he'll come through as he says.

It was back in 1899 that James J. Jeffries knocked out Bob Fitzsimmons in 11 rounds at Coney Island. It was Jeff's eleventh professional ring battle. He was 24 then and had a mop of black curly hair and the build of a Samson.

The 37-year-old, bald-headed Fitzsimmons pummeled the young brawler severely, but Jeff's log-like left rammed into Bob's face in the second round and bounced the spindly leered heavyweight on the canvas.

Old Fitz, game as a pebble, got up and smashed both his hands on the iron jaw of his adversary. Jeff took considerable punishment while he was in there, but he was too powerful for the old champion.

EVEN after his hands were gone, the ancient blacksmith fought gamely on, the bell saving him at the end of the fifth round for further punishment in the next six. Then a pole-axe left sent him tottering to the floor. Fitz struggled to his feet, and Jeffries clouted him with a bear-like right. It was all over.

Jeffries had two more epic battles in the old Coney Island arena, a 23-rounder with Tom Sharkey Nov. 3, 1899, and a 23-round knockout of James J. Corbett May 11, 1900.

The battle with Sharkey caused much discussion at the time, many spectators declaring Sharkey should have had at least a draw. Referee George Siler, however, gave the decision to Jeffries. It developed that Sharkey had suffered several broken ribs as a re-

Test Pilots School, and is commanded by Group Capt. H. J. Wilson, AFC, who last year established a world speed record of 606 MPH. But the Ministry emphasizes that it will not reserve its instruction for service pilots only. Airline and aircraft company test pilots employed both by British and American firms are eligible for the courses, which are designed to turn out "not only superb pilots, but fliers capable of analyzing scientifically performances and construction of the airplanes they handle."

Curriculum will consist of passing one month at the Royal Aircraft establishment at Farnborough, Hampshire, which is the RAF experimental and testing grounds; then three and a half months of analyzing performances of every type of aircraft, from trainers and twin-engine machines, to four-engine bombers and jet-propelled fighters, and the same time in practicing "qualitative assessment of these airplanes." Finally there will be a month visiting factories of the 20 large British aircraft firms, to study "the whole process of designing and building the specialized aircraft, both civil and military, constructed by them."

About 25 test pilots will be trained in each nine-month course. Vacancies will be allotted on a scale of 11 to the RAF, seven to the Fleet Air Arm—the British equivalent of the Navy Air Force—four to British civil test pilots, six to British Commonwealth pilots and seven to "Allied Nation pilots"

—among which American candidates will be included.

Vidor Praises Legitimate Theatre Move

AUSTIN, Texas (UP)—Performance here recently of Chodorov's play, "Kind Lady" marked the beginning of the legitimate theater in Texas and drew from King Vidor, Hollywood producer, enthusiastic comment.

The prospect of the first legitimate theater for Texas elicited from Vidor the following letter written to the play's director, Lawrence Carr:

"With the enormous supply of talent that Texas has to offer, this project has really been a long time in coming. Now that it is here, I cannot begin to express how pleased and excited I am a-

URGES LIVING MEMORIALS FOR WORLD WAR II DEAD

AUSTIN, Tex. — A plea for "living memorials" to the dead of World War II, instead of cold monuments of stone or bronze, was voiced today by a University of Texas artist who has just returned to the campus from the Navy.

other wars. "Monuments should have some genuine meaning for the whole community," Danae said. "Instead of an expensive pile of stone or bronze, the money could be better put into playgrounds, museums and libraries. "Monuments as such soon become an accepted part of a landscape, and cease to have real value. A more fitting way of remembering those who gave their lives would be to have something which would grow and develop with the community."

For those communities which are especially anxious to have a public listing of names of those who lost their lives, Danae suggests an avenue of trees, each with a plaque containing a name or names. He suggested also that names might become a decorative part of a building, either inside or out.

Before entering the service Danae for several years collected lantern slides and other illustrative material on ancient, colonial and modern art in Mexico, and he plans to continue the collection. In 1941 he made kodachrome slides of Mexican art from the Toltecs and Aztecs to the present. Cathedrals were photographed inside and out to show the development of art, religious paintings were reproduced in color and water colors by Mexico's leading artists were included.

The University's collection has been used extensively by the Library of Congress, the American Council on Education, Yale University, and other schools. "Art of the Americas" is being taught this semester by Danae as a survey course dealing with an-

FAITH IN IDEA SPURS CANNING OF RUTABAGA

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP) — A home canning venture of a 29-year-old farmer's son has developed the lowly rutabaga into a business that may some day rank with the paper milling, mining and resort business of this region.

Chris Erickson, who operates a farm south of Grand Rapids, had about 100 bushels of rutabagas which were going to waste, so he gave 15 bushels to his son Walter of Grand Rapids.

The younger Erickson, his wife Enid, and Itasca county agent Art Frick, diced the rutabagas on a cutting board with a meat cleaver. A hand-operated tin can sealer did the rest and they turned out 400 cans.

Opportunity knocked with the client, colonial and modern civilization, with emphasis on architecture and painting.

Danae was a lieutenant in the Navy when he was discharged in January. He served with the Naval Air Combat Intelligence, and taught at Quonset Point, Rhode Island. At the close of the war he was sent to Washington, where he helped prepare a textbook on air combat intelligence. He resumed his teaching duties March 1.

presence of E. J. Larson, a food broker from San Francisco, in Grand Rapids. After sampling the diced rutabagas, Larson ordered 10,000 cases. That gave the business the needed push.

Erickson, a graduate of the University of Minnesota School of Agriculture and former instructor at Grand Rapids high school, began his venture on a shoestring and a lot of faith.

He saw success for his idea when Robert E. Wilson, commissioner of Iron Range Resources and Rehabilitation reviewed the plan and found it worth developing.

The I. R. R. & R., which is operating the plant as a pilot plant has bought all the equipment and is paying the $1,400 payroll every two weeks. The plant has 50 employees. When Erickson returns all the money expended, the plant will be turned over to him.

Money for setting up new industries is provided through laws of the 1941 Minnesota Legislature, which places 10 per cent of the iron ore occupation tax into the rehabilitation fund.

The Arrowhead Canning Co. is enlarging the market for farm products in this area and is now the only firm in the United States or Canada known to can turnips.

The plant, now going into full production, is processing 17 tons a day. Its one sealer turns out a can every second and 1,500 cases daily.

CAMERAMEN WORRIED OVER A-BOMB BLAST

NEW YORK, (UP) — The Navy officer in charge of photography for Project Crossroads has his doubts about one phase of the picture-taking for the atom-bomb test—the part where they will put cameras on the target ships.

Capt. R. S. Quackenbush is afraid the initial blast from the atom bombs will knock out the photography equipment or some of the 100 ships the government will use as targets.

The cameras aboard the target vessels will be used to attempt to get close-up shots of the explosions at Bikini Atoll in the Pacific in May.

They will be self-operating, and Quackenbush, who has been making a last-minute check on equipment at the Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp., will know at what time each has been set to start shooting. From that he can tell at what time each picture was made.

The target-ship cameras are only one part of the picture-taking for the test.

Quackenbush described it as the most-photographed event in history. Several hundred cameras will shoot 50,000 stills, and thousands of feet of motion-picture film, in color and in black and white, will be used.

Army and Navy planes will take pictures and on three adjacent islands—Bikini, Enyu and Aomoon—remote-control cameras will be mounted on high steel towers. Quackenbush also has cameras set to photograph radar screens and television screens.

These photographs will be made during and immediately after the tests. Before the blast, pictures will be taken of the installations aboard the target ships and the overall view of the vessels.

Pictures of the damage will be made when it is safe for personnel to enter the area.
