Former TVA Employee Defends Lilienthal

Well... I Dunno, But...

Two young people formerly of Ranger and now of Washington, D. C., have turned author and a copy of their column was left with us this morning.

The compilers of the book are Avis McKelvin Preslar, editor and Joe Don Meroney, associate editor.

The book is entitled The Debater's Source Book and deals with the question of socialized medicine. Both the affirmative and negative sides of the issue are presented in briefs and pages and pages of statements and facts on the subject are given to support the briefs.

Both editors are former Ranger High School and Ranger Junior College students and both took active part in debating during their school and college years here, meeting with much success in this field.

Copies of the book may be secured by writing Mrs. Avis M. Preslar, 2303 Skyland Place, S. E., Washington, D. C.

Joe Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Meroney and Mrs. Preslar is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKelvin. Her husband is also from Ranger, Steve Preslar, who is the son of Mrs. Cora Preslar.

Three candidates have indicated their intentions to seek city offices in the coming election and politics is the topic of the day. Everywhere we find as many as two or three together, it's a safe bet that politics is the topic of conversation.

Personally, we think it's a healthy sign when men are sufficiently interested in the affairs of the town that there are more than one seeking election to any one office. That, thank goodness, is one of the privileges of the American way of life. Voters should be equally interested and exercise their right to vote and to select the man they think best fitted for the job.

Like we always say, if we don't vote then we've no right to kick about the fellow that gets elected. Then besides the election of a mayor and commissioner, two school board members will be elected this year. Now, don't all step up at once. Had we remembered about the election a few days back, we might not have painted the school board jobs as we did.

We agree with the people who are advocating the cause of a strong military force in this country. We think it would be foolish to break down that force and lay our country open to attack for which we would not be prepared. It wouldn't be half as much of a temptation to jump into this country, if the attacker knew that we were protected by a strong military force.

The destruction of ships, arms, etc. after the last war always seemed to us the most wanton form of exaggerated optimism. We believe in being prepared for any event and this is one case where preparedness seems to be a smart thing.

Besides that, we'd rather see the government's money spent for a strong army rather than for the bureaucrats that aren't worth the price they get.

Some of the boys are sure after Lilienthal's hide and we believe that maybe some rumors flying around might be true. It does seem that it's more likely some big interests that are the nigger in the wood pile rather than his supposed Communist leanings.

But brother, when those congressmen start investigating a fellow they leave no stone unturned, and all the family skeletons really get going. Would be funny to see the results if the investigators were turned on the investigators. Have an idea that some of the questioners are as likely to be guilty of misdoing as those they question.

DOG LOVER SCOLDS PEOPLE CLAIMS THEY SPOIL PETS

By CLAIRE FOX
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, (U.P.)—Man is in danger of becoming dog's worst enemy, dog fancier Clarence M. Olson believes. He said too many people are spoiling their pets by not disciplining them enough.

Olson is head of the dog food department of a large packing house and president of National Dog Week, Inc., an organization formed 20 years ago to stimulate the civic virtues of dogs. He said too many canines grow up to be anti-social because they have been pampered too much.

That's why dogs jump on people, tear up the neighbor's lawn, chew on furniture and commit other misdemeanors, he said. "People discipline their children, but they pet their dogs," he said. "Misbehaving dogs must be handled as firmly as a small child who gets into mischief."

"Despite the fact that dog is man's best friend, man is becoming dog's worst enemy by failing to make him a good citizen of dogdom."

If dogs could talk, Olson said, they'd probably object to a lot of things, too. They undoubtedly don't like the baby talk they get from their mistresses and the pink and blue ribbons they have to wear on important occasions, he said.

"No dog should be treated harshly or submitted to cruel punishment, but you have to be firm with them," he said. "Pampering makes a dog unmanageable, both in the home and in the community."

Olson said few persons train their dogs to do anything but beg to go outdoors and perform a few "cute tricks." They should devote their time instead to teaching their pets to walk on a leash, sit down at the proper time and keep all four feet on the ground when greeting people, he declared.

COUNTY BUYS $116,913.50 IN U. S. BONDS

A representative of the treasury department was in Eastland Friday and in checking with Cyrus Frost, county chairman of savings bonds sale, stated that a total of $116,913.50 in bonds was bought in Eastland county during January of this year.

Of this total $90,725.00 was in series E and $26,188.50 was in series F and G. He also stated that total sales for 1946 were seven and one half billion dollars with 60 per cent of these bonds in series E and 40 per cent of the E series sales were purchased on the payroll deduction plan.

The treasury department has set seven billion as the goal for sales in 1947.

From May 1, 1946 to September 1, 1946, the redemption of E bonds was 39 1/2 per cent and 26 1/2 per cent in F and G series bonds. On January 1, 1947 there was a total of over 30 billion dollars outstanding in bonds.

No admission charges will be made and the public is invited. Funds must be on hand to pay the artists at the close of the program so it is essential that contributions be turned in before March 2.

It is understood that Dallas doctors advised a complete rest for a while.

PATTERSON URGES FULL MILITARY

By United Press
Mt. VERNON, VA.—Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson called today in Washington birthday observances for a military strong and secure America to reserve world peace.

"If we weaken ourselves at this critical time," Patterson said, "the cause of world peace may be set back for generations."

Patterson spoke at Mt. Vernon shortly after President Truman placed a wreath at the tomb of George Washington in ceremonies commemorating the 215th anniversary of the birth of the nation's first president.

Patterson said that world peace depends largely on the course taken by the United States. Universal military training, he said, will provide the training needed to defend the nation.

"The world will be only as secure as we are secure," he said. "And today, as in Washington's day, our security and peace depend on our ability to defend ourselves and to back up our foreign policy."

Rev. Jones Is Speaker At Masonic Banquet

Rev. Claude P. Jones was the speaker at the annual George Washington banquet given by the Masonic Lodge Friday night. Rev. Jones paid tribute to the great leader and then gave a very complete history of Masonry.

The banquet tables were decorated with potted azaleas which were contributed by Mrs. C. A. Strong. Miniature flags were favors.

PUBLIC WORKS SPENDING UP FOR BIG CUT

By United Press
WASHINGTON—Sen. Robert A. Taft, R. O., disclosed that his budget-cutting plans call for a 25 per cent reduction in public works spending.

Taft gave a reporter some figures from his budget worksheet as the Senate took a week-end recess from debating proposed cuts in President Truman's $37,500,000,000 budget for the fiscal year 1948.

Taft is among a bipartisan Senate group seeking to limit the cut to $4,500,000,000. The House approved a cut of $6,000,000,000, as recommended by the joint legislative budget committee.

The Senate was believed almost certain to adopt the $4,500,000,000 cut advocated by Taft. But the vote was being delayed until senators on both sides had their say.

Ickes Charges Truman With Breaking Faith

By United Press
ATHENS, Ga.—Harold L. Ickes former secretary of the interior, today accused President Truman of unconditionally surrendering to the Army and Navy on the question of trusteeship of Pacific Islands.

Ickes said the President had "broken the faith that he so earnestly pledged" on behalf of the United States.

Ickes said that Mr. Truman in a 1945 Navy Day address asserted that "we do not seek for ourselves one inch of territory and place in the world." But less than three months later, he said, the President "defaulted on these words when he unconditionally announced that 'the United States would insist that it be the sole trustee of Pacific islands considered strategic.'"

Two Places On Board To Be Filled In April

A. E. Crawley, secretary of the board of trustees of Ranger Schools, stated Saturday that two places on the board will be filled at an election to be held in Ranger the first Saturday in April.

The terms of T. J. Anderson and John Tibbels expire this April and will be filled in the election. It was stated today that neither of the two retiring men have indicated whether or not they will be up for re-election.

Covington stated today that he will have a statement to make later on.

This is his first time to seek public office and stated that he will appreciate the consideration of the voters.

He is a veteran of World War II, having entered the service the first of October 1941. He served in the European Theatre of Operations and was wounded in action in Germany on February 24, 1945. He holds the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart and rose to the rank of major in the army.

Worst Blizzard Of Century Hits Great Britain

By United Press
LONDON—The worst blizzard of the century today precipitated a new crisis in Britain's fuel situation, and the ministry of Fuel warned that the nation faces a critical 48 hour period in which gas supplies may be exhausted in some areas.

The new snowfall buried coal trains and isolated country villages. It placed new burdens on the nation already struggling to meet a vast fuel shortage.

DENIES CHARGE COMMUNISM TOLERATED IN THAT AGENCY

By United Press
WASHINGTON—A former Tennessee Valley Authority employee told a Senate committee today that a fellow TVA employe was sympathetic to Soviet Russia, but challenged charges that the agency was infiltrated with Communists during David E. Lilienthal's administration.

The witness was Kenneth Cameron, a TVA research assistant from 1935 to 1939, and now a labor department economist. He told the Senate atomic energy committee, which is considering Lilienthal's appointment, that "inaccurate and false" statements have been made about Communism within TVA during the Lilienthal administration.

But overshadowing the day's testimony on Lilienthal's qualifications for the top atomic post was the indicated split leadership between Senate President Vandenberg and Chairman Taft of the GOP policy committee.

Opposing Lilienthal, Taft aligned himself with two other Republican senate leaders—Wallace, White, the Floor Leader, and Kenneth S. Wherry, the whip.

Taft accused Lilienthal of being "too soft" toward Russia and Communism in a blistering statement last night. Vandenberg has not yet taken a public stand, but has indicated that he favors Lilienthal's confirmation.

At Least 51 Left Dead In Wake Of Storm

The East's worst snowstorm in six years raged off the Maine coast today, heading for Nova Scotia and Newfoundland, and leaving at least 51 persons dead and badly disrupted public services in its wake.

Communities from the Carolinas to Maine were digging themselves out under sunny but cold skies. Officials said the transportation problem could continue for several days if winds keep the most drifts shifting across highways and railroad tracks.

Many rural and suburban roads still were impassable. Authorities expected to have them cleared so schools could reopen Monday.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Shortest labor reform bill now before Congress is a three and one-half line job by Sen. "Pappy" O'Daniel of Texas.

"Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the National Labor Relations Act and all amendments thereto are hereby repealed."

Other bills to amend NLRA—the so-called Wagner act—vary in size up to the 18-page bill introduced by Sen. Joe Ball of Minnesota and the 28-page bill introduced by Congressman Francis Case of South Dakota.

In more ways than one, the short and snappy O'Daniel bill may be considered the gentlest of the lot, strange as that may seem. The O'Daniel bill merely takes away from labor unions the rights and protection in organizing they have enjoyed under the Wagner act in the past 11 years.

The Ball, Ellender, Wherry, Hoffman, Case, Miller, Wood, Landis, Smith and other bills merely to amend the Wagner act are, on the other hand, full of ink. Labor experts have not yet figured out all the angles. But in general they would restrict union powers far more than they were restricted before the Wagner act was passed.

They would provide heavy fines and imprisonment for newly-defined unfair labor practices by unions or their members. Similar penalties would not, however, be imposed on employers who might resort to union-busting tactics.

Union members would by some amendments be made outlaws and deprived of their rights to be rehired to former jobs. Other amendments might promote strikes rather than prevent them. At the least, the bulk of the amendments would open up labor law to many court battles and open up another era of industrial turmoil such as first followed passage of the Wagner act.

Members and counsel of the National Labor Relations Board are among the first to admit that the Wagner act is not perfect. There are a number of revisions they would like to see made. They have been reluctant to offer a moderate bill incorporating these changes, because they feared it would merely be the vehicle on which would be loaded the two dozen or more crippling amendments now being offered by individual congressmen.

It is now generally believed that the Senate Labor Committee will not report out a bill as drastic as Senator Ball has introduced, nor will it report out O'Daniel's proposal to repeal outright. One new possibility is that the House will do the amending of the Wagner act, while the Senate will confine itself to the milder Taft-Hartley bill, which centers its interest on improved conciliation and mediation machinery.

In that event, the important question becomes what the President will sign, or what could be passed over his veto. It is known that the labor reform provisions in the President's State of the Union message were sent to the National Labor Relations Board for review before they were sent to Congress. The board and its counsel approved the President's suggestions. The President's message may therefore be considered the basis for maximum changes in the Wagner act which the White House would approve. Those changes include:

- 1. Legislation to prevent jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts which compel an employer to violate the Wagner act.
2. Legislation to prevent the use of strikes or lockouts to settle disputes arising under existing contracts.

That's all.

"We must not take ill-considered action which will lead to results not anticipated or desired," said the President.

If he sticks to that policy, he will veto any more drastic proposal to amend the Wagner act.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—While back we listed a flock of old gaffers who practically go with the leases in college basketball, not a few of whom must have been around when Dr. James A. Naismith hung up the peach baskets.

But athletic director Ralph H. Young of Michigan State produces evidence showing that the great batch of basketball coaches are practically Johnny-Come-Latelys compared to track coaches.

He lists 34 who for 25 years or more have served as amateur track coaches.

The Spartan athletic chief comes up with some interesting data. It reveals the almost-legendary Bill Hayward of Oregon as the dean. The part-Indian's 32 years in the business include 42 on the Eugene campus.

Other members of track's Quarter of a Century Club, from the smallest of colleges to the largest of universities, are: Frank Anderson, Texas A. and M.; George T. Brennan, Iowa; Peter Waters and Harold A. Bruce, City College of New York; Lawson Robertson and Nate Cartmell, Pennsylvania; Dean B. Cromwell, Southern California; C. S. Edmundson, Washington; Robert A. Feizer, North Carolina; Archie Hahn, Virginia; Ward H. Haylett, Massachusetts Tech; Frank Hill, Northwestern; Wilbur H. Hutnell, Auburn.

John Jacobs, Oklahoma; Conrad M. Jennings, Marquette; Clyde Littlefield, Texas; Carl J. Mervin, Columbia; Ned A. Merriam, Chicago; John F. Moakley, Cornell; Bernie Moore, Louisiana State.

Teacher Believes Parents Need Sunday School

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—The main conclusion Miss Perthia L. Cogswell has reached after 80 years of Sunday school teaching is that parents need religious training throughout life.

ing as much as their children. Her observation is based on classes she still conducts every Sunday at the First Baptist Church and week-day visits she makes to the parents' homes. "Sunday school teachers," she believes, "should stress the memorizing of the Scriptures, for they will stand by men and women

Says California Redwoods May Migrate Someday

BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—The redwood tree, now found only in California, may some day again "take to the road" and migrate to other parts of the world as it has in the past, a University of California scientist predicts.

Dr. Ralph W. Chaney, professor of paleontology, and the world's leading expert on redwoods, said fossil records show that 50,000,000 years ago the trees lived in Alaska, Asia and Europe. Climatic changes caused the trees to migrate south until now they live only in California.

He said a new migration would not start for several hundred lifetimes and perhaps not for millions of years.

Alaska Town To Get Dial Telephones

CHICAGO (UP)—Installation of the first all-dial commercial telephone system in the Territory of Alaska will be started this year. It will be installed at Kodiak Island, site of the oldest settlement in Alaska. To date, the town of Kodiak, which has a population of 2,000, has never had commercial telephone service.

The announcement was made during a visit here of Mrs. John F. Cushing of Sitka, a pioneer Alaskan telephone enterpriser and owner of the Sitka telephone system.

CHICAGO (UP)—A collector of odd crime relics would have a field day if he got in touch with this judge who wants to dispose of criminal court exhibits dating back to 1878.

Criminal Court Judge Elmer J. Schnackenberg is asking the state legislature to release the exhibits from legal custody and authorize the county to take over the money contained in them. The judge also wants permission to auction or destroy the other articles.

Things like 1917 car transfers, 40 Kentucky Derby sweepstakes tickets, a chair with a bullet hole in it, sewing machines, marriage licenses, and a sledge hammer are taking up space in 60 drawers and 20 filing cabinets.

Some of the latest additions to the collection are five bottles of bonded whiskey which were taken in a larceny trial. The owner of the liquor has no intention of spending $100 to get it back by court order.

FAMED PRESIDIO READY TO OBSERVE 100 BIRTHDAY

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The San Francisco Presidio, over which five flags have flown since it was founded in 1776, will celebrate its 100th anniversary as a United States Army Post next March 11.

Open house, a military review and an inspection will be among events to which the public will be invited, Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, sixth army commander, announced.

The first flag to fly over the Presidio was the imperial flag of Spain, raised by an expedition under the command of Juan Bautista de Anza after a 16,000-mile march from Sonora, Mexico.

The short-lived Mexican empire came next, followed by the Republic of Mexico. Then the Presidio was in possession of the "Bear" Republic of California before it was annexed by the United States. About March 11, 1847, two companies of Stevensons New York Volunteer regiment, commanded by Maj. James A. Hardie, took over the abandoned post after the long sea voyage around Cape Horn from the East Coast.

In every case, occupation of the Presidio was peaceful and went almost unnoticed by residents of San Francisco—then known as Yerba Buena.

When Major Hardie entered the Presidio, it was deserted and almost in ruins. The crumbling fort of San Joaquin guarding the entrance to San Francisco Bay was badly in need of repair and re-arming. The guns had been spiked by John C. Fremont and his men, including Kit Carson, a few months earlier during the "Bear" revolt. The site is now occupied by Fort Point, directly under the Golden Gate bridge toll plaza.

Fort Point was built in 1861 as a formidable coastal defense, but now lies empty and forsaken—outdated as the square-riggers it was built to combat.

Union regiments were trained at the Presidio during the Civil War. Later, it was western headquarters for troops used in the Indian campaigns from 1879 to 1890. Volunteers were trained for the Spanish-American War

Gen. John J. Pershing was in command of the Eighth Brigade at the Presidio in 1914 before leaving on his Mexican expedition. His wife and three children burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home on the post.

Early in 1946, the Presidio became a part of the sixth army command, with Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell as commander. He held the post until his death, Oct. 12, 1946. He was succeeded by Gen. Hays.

Recently the War Department announced that Gen. Mark W. Clark, head of United States occupation forces in Austria, would be reassigned as commander of the sixth army and will move into headquarters at the Presidio.

WAR DEAD COMING HOME THIS SUMMER FOR BURIAL

By Glenn Stackhouse
United Press Staff Correspondent
SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A somber gray liberty ship will arrive at San Francisco's port of embarkation in mid-August, and from it will be removed the first of a long and solemn line of flag-covered pine boxes.

It will be the beginning of the second redeployment—the return of the men "who didn't come back."

At approximately the same time an identical ship, with colors at half mast, will arrive in New York harbor from Europe.

Appropriately, the first of the Pacific war dead to return to their native soil will be the men who fell at Pearl Harbor on the "day of infamy," and who have since rested in Hawaii's seven military cemeteries.

The pattern of the reburial program will follow closely the path of the campaign—from Pearl Harbor to the Solomons, Australia, New Guinea, the Marshalls, Gilberts, Guam, Philippines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and finally Japan itself.

To prepare the way for the return of the 73,816 known Pacific war dead, the government today has its reverent program in full swing.

In the Pacific, army graves registration teams are at work on the exacting task of identifying each body as it is prepared for shipment from the 53 army, navy and marine corps temporary cemeteries.

Here on the Pacific coast, several liberty ships are being converted to carry their grim cargoes. Scores of former hospital trains are being refitted to carry the thousands of bodies from distribution centers to their final resting places.

At the Oakland, Cal., army base, part of the San Francisco port of embarkation, a receiving pier is being built at which the ships will discharge their burdens. At Oakland also a distribution center will be erected—one of 15 such centers to be built at strategic locations in all parts of the nation, from which the caskets will be dispatched to their ultimate destinations. The next of kin of the dead here to be given four choices in the matter of reburial:

1. They may have the bodies returned to the United States, or to any U. S. territory or possession, for interment in a private cemetery.
2. The remains may be interred in a permanent United States military cemetery overseas (in Hawaii or the Philippines for the Pacific war dead.)
3. The remains may be returned to a foreign country, the home land of the deceased or next of kin, for private burial.
4. The remains may be returned to the United States for interment in a national cemetery.
The government will pay all costs of transportation and will provide a steel casket, and will pay up to $50 toward private burial if such is desired by the family.
Veterans organizations have expressed their willingness to provide appropriate military honors for private burial services.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus at the Feast of Tabernacles

Scripture: The Gospel of John, Chapters 7-9

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

THE Jewish Feast of Tabernacles has a uniquely interesting place among religious festivals.

To commemorate the wandering tent-life of the Israelites in the wilderness, in their long journey from Egypt to Canaan, Jews lived for the seven days of the feast in arbors or bowers built of branches.

There is a good description of the feast, and of the spirit of the joyous occasion, in the eighth chapter of Nehemiah, with its admonition to the people: "Go your way, eat the fat, and drink the sweet, and send portions unto them for whom nothing is prepared." It must have been much like our Thanksgiving and Christmas celebrations.

JERUSALEM was thronged at such a time, and Jesus apparently did not intend to go up for the feast, despite the urgings of His brethren that He should do so.

Light is thrown upon the words of Jesus, "A man's foes shall be those of his own household," by the attitude of these brethren. We are told (John 7:5) that they did not believe in Him, and their urging that He should go to Jerusalem for the feast was in the nature of a temptation, similar to that by which He had been tested at the beginning of

His ministry, "Shew Thyself to the world."

Jesus, conscious that "His hour had not yet come," resisted their insincere pleadings. But after they had gone, He decided to go secretly to Jerusalem, arriving in the midst of the feast.

Meanwhile, there had been much speculation concerning Him. Would He appear at the feast? Was He a good man, or an impostor, like others who had professed to be the Messiah? Would the authorities, who had been seeking Him, arrest Him?

THEN, when Jesus appeared, He astounded all by His presence and the power of His teaching. How, they said, did this man know letters, never having been taught?

Jesus answered this. His teaching, He said, was not of man. "My doctrine is not mine, but His that sent Me." To do the will of the Father was to know of the doctrine.

The record of the few days of the feast is of great events and great sayings. Many believed, as they listened to the Master's words of grace and wisdom, so His enemies were afraid to arrest Him.

But His very popularity only aroused their hostility the more, and the time was drawing near when, at another feast—that of the Passover—He would become the victim of man's hate and the sacrifice for man's sin.

G. A. Meeting To Be Monday

The regular meeting of the Junior G. A. will be held at the First Baptist Church Monday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. All members are invited to attend.

T&P To Take Scouts On Sight Seeing Tour

Eagle Scouts in Dallas County have been invited by the Texas and Pacific Railway to go on a sight-seeing trip through the railroad's extensive engine and car shops and other facilities in Marshall, Texas. Letters of invitation signed by W. G. Vollmer, president of Texas and Pacific, were sent out this week and responses indicate a large number of scouts will make the trip, scheduled for Saturday, March 1.

The party, composed of Eagle Scouts, local Scout Masters and Texas and Pacific representatives, will leave Dallas at 8:00 A. M. Arriving in Marshall at 11:20 A. M., the first stop on the tour will be in the Texas and Pacific station where the party will see the control board of the Centralized Traffic Control system in operation. The next stop will be the dining room of a Marshall hotel for luncheon. Texas and Pacific will be the host.

Following luncheon, the party will go to the Marshall Yards. In the engine shops the Scouts will see locomotives being rebuilt, repaired and getting their periodic over-haul. In the car shops they will see the various operations required to maintain the many types of passenger and freight equipment used in modern railroad service. The Marshall Yards also include a vast Stores Department, one of the supply depots of the railroad, and a reclamation plant where materials and supplies are reconditioned for future use.

The return trip to Dallas will begin at 4:35 P. M. Dinner on the diner will top off the day's outing, and the party will arrive in Dallas at 8:30 P. M.

The trip to Marshall will be the first in a series of educational tours and trips planned by the Texas and Pacific for boys and girls of elementary and high school age in cities along its line. Other tours are scheduled for the near future to points of interest in Texas and Louisiana.

SENDAI, Japan (UP)—When you telephone the chief clerk of the public relations office of Ninth Corps, the chances are you'll hear someone with a distinctly Dixie drawl answer. "FRO, Private Fong, speaking."

Talking to Pfc. Kenneth Fong face-to-face is what gives you the slow-motion double-take—because you suddenly realize that here is a husky, 19-year-old Chinese-American speaking with a soft southern accent you can cut with a chopstick.

Fong, a native of Lake Village, Arkansas, got that way even more so as an undergraduate at Southern Methodist University in Dallas before stepping into uniform last September.

"Aih mo' or less understand Chinese," Fong said, "but Aih cain't speak it or read it hardly at all. People keep tellin' me Aih've got a suthin accent, but Aih don't rightly notice it." Fong has been in Japan only two months and thinks his pretty easy occupation. He planned to be a minister when he first entered college, then changed his mind in favor of missionary work in a more practical field. He wants to be a psychologist in the personnel department of an advertising agency.

Fong intends to finish his studies at Southern Methodist first, however.

"Aih played a good deal of football when Aih was there," Fong, who is short but built like a small bull-dozer, related, "but Aih could not be keepin' that up and studies too, so Aih quit football."

Fong had hoped to be assigned to China until the recent order pulling all United States forces from that theatre ended his chances. "Aih hoped to meet up with some of my folks theah," Fong explained.

Garden Lore

By ETHEL BROOKES GILMORE

Our yards are in direct relation to the health and welfare of our community. A clean yard and ally does not harbor flies, rats, and mosquitoes. A flower garden adds color and beauty to the town. People seeking new homes are more apt to locate in a town where there is cleanliness and beauty.

If one does not feel like planting trees because they are renters they can plant a Brazilian type of castor bean that grows quite tall and provides shade through the summer.

It is now the time to break up clumps of chrysanthemums and Shasta daisies. Replanting in small portions about eight inches apart.

It is also time to plant dahlias tubers. Dahlias do best when planted in holes about 10 to 12 inches deep and the same in diameter. Fertilizer and dirt should be well mulched, moistened and returned to the holes. The tubers should be planted 2 to 3 inches below the surface. The broken or cut ends should be treated with commercial sulphur.

Dahlias are a native of Mexico and there is quite a collection to choose from.

Let's all get together and make our town a thing of beauty, which is a joy forever.
