WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—The Greek government's official cry for help from America and Great Britain's unpublished declarations that the United States would take over British responsibilities in Greece are apparently leading many U. S. citizens to jump at false conclusions.

Edson

First, the United States will not move into Greece "to save the British Empire."
Second, the United States will not move into Greece merely "to keep a British-selected king on the Greek throne."
These are two things which seem to be worrying many people.

Third, whatever action the United States takes will not be to establish an American beachhead on Greek soil for launching eventual military operations in Eastern Europe.

In view of increased American participation in the affairs of Palestine, increased American investments in Arab oil, and increased American interest in settling the affairs of the Danube and the Dardanelles, it might be easy for the shallow-minded to conclude that the trend is toward war in the Middle East. But such an assumption would be wrong.

TODAY'S crisis in Greece is in the Greek economy. It is not a crisis resulting from any action by Russian or Greek communists. Any aid that the United States gives Greece will be the result of a strictly American policy determination aimed to benefit the United States and nobody else.

There is no thought now of sending American troops into Greece. Furthermore, there is no law which would permit the United States to furnish American arms to the Greeks, excepting only sales of surplus military supplies now held in Germany.

Originally the British had considerable armed forces in Greece. They fought the Greek communists. The sad truth is that they used American lend-lease equipment in doing it. But since the Greek elections in March, 1946, and the Greek plebiscite of last September, which returned the Greek king to the throne, British military forces in Greece have been reduced.

Such British troops as are in Greece must be withdrawn 90 days after the Bulgarian peace treaty goes into effect. At this same time, Russia must withdraw her forces from Balkan countries.

So far, American postwar aid to Greece has amounted to a $25 million Export-Import Bank loan, plus a $45 million credit with which to buy American surplus war equipment. Included are 101 Liberty ships, about half of which have been delivered, at a minimum of $344,000 per ship. American relief has thus far been administered through UNRRA, but requests for appropriations for direct U. S. relief are now before Congress.

Greece is supposed to get $100 million reparations from Italy. But payments don't begin for two years and will be spread over five years. The Greek crisis may not wait that long.

Consequences of not furnishing aid to Greece are considered serious. The present Greek government is believed to be the most democratic in Eastern Europe. But this government might fall if the Greek economy is not bolstered. Civil war might result.

To American isolationists who may say, "Let it fall," there is no good answer. Except that if the United States is to maintain its position as the most powerful nation advocating the spread of democracy, it will have to do something about it and pay the price. How much of this price will be got back directly is beyond saying.

Americans Marry German Girls But Redheads Find No Favor

By WELLINGTON LONG

United Press Staff Correspondent
WIESBADEN (UP)—American soldiers marrying German frauleins prefer blondes and brunettes over redheads 105 to one, according to statistics compiled by Greater Hesse military government officials.

Further, the only German girl out of 105 whose application was disapproved by the military government was the only carrot top who had applied.

Military government officials who process the applications for marriage offered no explanation for the seeming lack of popularity of redheads. They said the rest of the field was split 50-50 between blondes and brunettes.

The survey was based on 105 applications submitted in the first three weeks of February, since the applications started being processed here. No figures are available on how many other applications were made in this state between Dec. 20, 1946, and the end of January.

Officials emphasized that all German girls with the ambitions to marry American soldiers should not pry around with other boys until the marriage knot is tied.

"Moral turpitude"—which includes prostitution, professional or amateur—is enough to get a big red "disapproved" stamped all over the girl's marriage application.

Even a few unwise beers down at the corner bierstube may prove a stumbling block, officials warned, since drinking in excess is cause for disapproval.

Military government officials, however, were optimistic about marriages between German girls and occupation soldiers.

MILLIONS IN BONDS ISSUED BY U. S. UNREDEEMED

By ALBRO B. GREGORY
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP)—Tucked away in forgotten trunks, blended into the ashes of burned homes or in carefully guarded curio collections are millions of dollars worth of government securities, long since matured and no longer drawing interest.

These securities were issued between 1791 and the end of last year. They were for the purpose of setting up the new government, for building ships, for fighting wars, depression, pestilence, illiteracy and a host of other battles faced by a democracy.

Whether people have been absent-minded or just wanted to write off their government debt, the treasury does not know. Every dollar would be paid off if the securities were presented and proof of ownership shown.

But it is unlikely that any securities issued prior to 1917 and still outstanding ever will be redeemed. Proof of ownership would be hard to establish.

Then, too, the older bonds are of value as collector's items.

The total of matured securities outstanding to date on which interest has ceased is $450,000,000. That includes about $13,000,000 of liberty bonds and victory notes issued during and after World War I. It also includes $1,410,000 of securities issued between 1791 and 1917, with interest. Most of the unredeemed bonds were issued in the last 25 years, however, and some of these may turn up.

Back in 1791, when the fledgling government was trying to get on its feet after the war for independence, three bond issues were floated and together they amounted to about $64,000,000. It drew criticism of the thrifty citizens of the new nation. But President Washington convinced congress the money was needed.

Two of the issues were at six per cent, the other of short-term duration, at three. Still outstanding are bonds valued at $55,756, including interest.

Part of the country's third bond issue went for construction of the Constitution and five other frigates, on which work started March 27, 1794. The six cost the government $302,718.34.

In 1798, the government floated a bond issue at six per cent known as navy six per cent stock. Virtually all of this was paid off. Only $100 of the $712,000 issue is still on the treasury books. Obviously, that single bond, is in a collector's portfolio or elsewhere, is one of the most valuable in the country. The treasury never expects to be called upon to pay it off.

The treasury paid as high as eight per cent interest. That was on an issue of about $1,482,000 which went out in 1800.

But gone are the days of high interest rates on government financing, the treasury says. It cost an average of more than six cents per dollar borrowed to finance the civil and previous wars; more than four cents for World War I, but less than two cents for World War II.

University Finds GIs Underpaid

MOSCOW, Ida. (UP)—Government subsistence in GI students is inadequate, according to a survey conducted by the University of Idaho.

It requires $150.61 a month for the married veteran and $98 for the single veteran to meet living costs on the campus. The Veterans Administration pays such veterans $90 and $65 a month, respectively.

The difference between government payments and the actual cost of living is currently made up by part-time work by vets and/or their wives, although approximately half of all students must draw on their savings to meet expenses.

Educator Deplores School Politics

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP)—Student government in schools is potentially the best method for developing good students, but in actual practice, student councils are "political machines" teaching boys and girls to be hypocrites, ac-ording to a Detroit educator. Stanley E. Diamond, director of citizenship education study in Detroit public schools and Wayne University, told a convention of the National Education Association that membership on student councils must be based on individual merit.

Hall Walker Speaks To Civic League

Hall Walker was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Ranger Civic League held Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the Blue room of the Gholson Hotel and outlined some accomplishments which he felt the league might be interested in sponsoring. He stressed the necessity of attention to the clean-up campaign now, and among other things which he felt worth considering were beautification of the strip of land between the T&P railway and the highway west; a summer play ground for the children in downtown Ranger; a permanent cemetery trust fund and beautification of the road to the cemetery. Walker was introduced by Mrs. J. Floyd Killingsworth program chair man.

An original poem by Mrs. Ethel Brooks Gilmore on the honey-suckle which is the league flower was read by Mrs. Gilmore. In the business session a number of matters of interest to the league were discussed. The next regular meeting of the league will be on the third Wednesday in April.

Less Milk For New Orleans

The milk supply for New Orleans as armed strikers stopped passenger trains and dumped milk in the ditches. Here, armed men stop trucks on a highway near New Orleans to search for milk. This same group shot up a truck that failed to stop for them. (NEA Telephoto).

Ohio-Trained Teachers Seek Jobs Elsewhere

COLUMBUS, O. (UP)—Ohio taxpayers are footing the bill to educate school teachers who take better-paying jobs in other states. Dr. H. F. Vallance, president of the Ohio Education Association, reports that teachers trained in Ohio's state controlled colleges and universities are leaving the state to make more money elsewhere. Dr. Vallance, in charge of teacher placement at Miami University, Oxford, O., said some of the graduates of the teachers' college at Miami last year took teaching positions in Michigan, Indiana and Kentucky because they could make more money in this state than they could in Ohio.

Bill Would Control Baby Black Market

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UP)—California's legislators are considering a law to curb increasing "black market" baby adoptions. State Senator Thomas Keating said that at present, organizations authorized in California to handle adoptions can place only about 200 of every 500 babies available. As a result, according to state department of social welfare reports, many babies are being "sold" to prospective parents without proper adoption supervision. The bill under consideration would permit counties to handle adoption programs supported by state appropriations.

Veteran R. R. Engineers Cling To Their Cabs

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UP)—Four engineers whose combined service totals more than 200 years have refused retirement so they can continue railroading. The engineers are Percy Waite, John N. Fuller, R. O. Smith, and Thomas West. They were taken off main line passenger runs because of age and now operate freights or switching engines. Waite started as an engineer of the New Haven railroad in 1894. Fuller joined the Boston and Albany in 1904, while Smith and West have 56 and 54 years service, respectively, with the Boston and Maine railroad.

New Single-Occupancy Sleeping Car Devised

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—The Budd Co. announces that it has designed a new single occupancy room-type railroad sleeping car unit. Officials said the new "cabin" is constructed so the passenger can lower his berth into position without stepping into the corridor or requiring the assistance of a porter. During the day, the cabin is equipped with a sofa-type seat and the berth is concealed in the wall behind the seat. When the passenger is ready to retire, he turns a simple handle which releases two safety catches, and the counter-balanced berth is lowered easily. He can take a nap during the day if he wishes.

7 Tons Of Royal German Silver Look For Owners In Washington

By WILLIAM F. McMENAMIN, United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—The War Department is puzzling over the least ownership of seven tons of antique German royal table silver brought to America from Germany by the 175th infantry regiment. The 175th infantry "liberated" the silver on the east bank of the Elbe river near Linsen, Germany, while capturing a German rocket division April 30, 1945. It took possession of the silver under provisions of the 79th Article of War.

The silver consists of 324 dinner plates, other dinner flatware, platters, serving bowls, trays, wine glasses, statuettes, candelabra, figurines and other decorative pieces. The 79th Article of War states "all public property taken from the enemy is the property of the United States and shall be secured for the service of the United States."

Helpful Drivers Save Over Parkers

McCOOK, Neb. (UP)—Members of a civic club here have started a project which undoubtedly will find favor with a lot of forgetful motorists. When a member of the club sees an automobile overparked, he drops a nickel into the parking meter and places an envelope with a message on the car's windshield. The message tells the car owner that he was saved from an overparking violation and asks him to return the nickel in the envelope to keep the overtime parking fund circulating. "That way," says the message "we can keep some other motorist out of the red."

to be improving and has been removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gilbert, of Weatherford. She expects to return to her home in Ranger within the next week or two.

Mrs. Cecil Cogburn who has been seriously ill in hospitals in Weatherford and Ft. Worth for the past four weeks, is reported to be improving and has been removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Gilbert, of Weatherford. She expects to return to her home in Ranger within the next week or two.

Galveston To Have Palm Tree Planting Season

GALVESTON, Tex., (UP)—Former soldiers, sailors and marines who saw service in the so-called paradise of the South Sea Islands are going to be reminded of the palm-waving lands when they visit Galveston if plans of the city fathers work out. The Galveston Civic League plans to open a palm tree planting season. "We hope to make Galveston look like a South Sea island," Mrs. E. R. Newell, president of the group, says. "Since the palm tree is the only species of tree that will prosper here, the city should use it as its mark of distinction."
