PUBLIC WILL GET TO SEE ATOM-SPLITTING AT WORK

By Milton B. Dolinger
United Press Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND (UP)—The public will be permitted to witness an actual atom-splitting demonstration at the Mid-America Exposition here May 22-31.

The atom bomb in "civilian clothes" by the grace of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, will be the main feature of the exposition in Cleveland Public Auditorium, according to A. W. Stuedel, president of the show, and David Dietz, science writer and author of the article on atomic energy in the Encyclopedia Britannica.

"Uranium fission actually will take place," said Dietz, also acting as chairman of the atomic energy commission for the exposition.

"The public will be able to see the registration of energy released when the atom of uranium is bombarded with the special apparatus we will set up. Geiger counters attached to public address systems and electric light relays will reveal the release of some 200 million volts of energy."

This first non-secret demonstration of what made the atom bomb tick was okayed by the United States commission, which is also furnishing the needed uranium, Dietz added.

The exhibit, valued at over $10,000 is a symbol of the more than $2,000,000,000 in research that went into the making of the first atomic explosive. It will occupy 10,000 square feet of space.

A special working model of the atom smasher created by Dr. John Dunning will be the center of the atomic power display—designed to parallel the history-making split of U-235 by Dr. Dunning and his colleagues with the Columbia University cyclotron.

Peace-time uses of the power that wrecked Hiroshima and Nagasaki will be previewed here by the pictured application of atom-harnessing to industrial, medical and scientific developments, Stuedel said.

"While the greatness of the possibilities of the atomic age is beyond the understanding and comprehension of most of us, an insight in an understandable fashion will be provided through the readily-grasped type of exhibit we are creating in co-operation with the atomic energy commission," Stuedel said.

The exhibition of what is perhaps the most important scientific development in recorded history is designed to give the layman "a personal introduction to the great discovery he has been reading about and seeing only in pictures," John A. Crawford, managing director of the exhibition, said.

doctor of the exhibition, said. No fantastic or futuristic exhibits are planned in conjunction with the first public splitting of an atom, Stuedel said, adding that "Buck Rogers will have no place here."

There have been discovered and classified in Wyoming 157 distinct metals, non-metallic minerals and clays that have present commercial value or potential uses.

Railroads Study Radar For Use As Safety Device

BOSTON (UP)—The nation's railroads may be equipped with radar as an accident-preventive measure.

Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer of the Westinghouse Electric Corp., revealed at a meeting of the New England Railroad Club that experiments with radar safety devices are being conducted for the railroads.

The chief obstacle encountered in the experiments has been the failure to adjust the light rays of the radar beam with the speed of railroad locomotives.

The outcome of the experiments, Dr. Thomas said, may not be known for many months.

An electronic robot developed by Yale University can measure the speed of atomic particles to one thousandth of a millionth of a second.

Detouring Around Financial Tangles

... has long been a mark and characteristic of the successful man. Young, inexperienced men seldom do and sad to say, few of his older brothers. To avoid many of the pitfalls blocking successful careers, watch investments closely, save something regularly—spend less than you make—and if one deals in real estate, guard against faulty titles. While there may be no set rule that would apply under all circumstances and to all individuals alike, these few fundamentals, if followed, will detour you around many financial tangles.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

There is no Texan about whom more stories are told than David Crockett, tho' most of them relate to his days in Tennessee before he came to Texas. Incidentally, while your radio columnist was in Crockett recently, citizens pointed out the tree under which the famous hunter camped while on his way to San Antonio where he died gloriously in the Alamo.

Davy moved into a new country in Tennessee when he was a young man. All he had to do on moving day was pour water on the fire and whistle up the dogs. He was made justice of the peace and as he said, "I got a-long pretty well. My judgments were never appealed from but if they had been they would have stuck like wax, as I gave my decisions on the principles of common justice and honesty between man and man, and relied on natural-born sense and not law-learning to guide me for I had never read a page in a law book in my life."

After serving in the legislature, Crockett decided to run for Congress. His opponents were two dignified and solemn individuals who took themselves quite seriously and ignored the back-woodsman in his hunting costume who told jokes and discussed matters in a common-sense kind of way. When the votes were counted, he had beaten both of them put together. He had to borrow money to make the trip to Washington. On his way, he stopped at an inn and in trying to get to the fire he accidentally jostled a self-important chap who demanded, "Who do you think you are?" Davy shouted, "I'm Davy Crockett, half horse and half alligator, a little touched with the snapping turtle. I can wade the Mississippi, jump the Ohio, ride a streak o' lightning and slide down a honey-lodest without a scratch. I can whip my weight in wildcats and, if any gentleman please, for a $10-bill, he can throw in a panther. I can hug a bear too close for comfort and I can lick any man that's against Andrew Jackson."

NEW MARKETS SEEN IN TIRE CORD FIELD FOR COTTON FARMER

WASHINGTON (UP)—Cotton growers are advised by the government that a potentially rich tire cord market for their fiber would be possible by the practice of simple selectivity.

Reporting on further army tests on the use of cotton for tire cord, the Agriculture Department said passenger car tires made from standard and improved cotton cord ran more than 68,000 miles at a sustained speed of 60 miles an hour.

War-time tests conducted by the Army Ordnance Corps settled the argument as to whether cotton or rayon was best for tire cord. Cotton won hands down in tests on popular-sized passenger tires and was only slightly behind rayon in the heavy truck and bus tire field.

Dr. L. B. Howard, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural and Industrial Chemistry, said research has disclosed that better cord can be made from cotton by using varieties selected specifically for the purpose on the basis of their physical properties.

Citing the record 68,000-mile endurance test, executed at 60-mile-per-hour speed with only one recapping, Dr. Howard said the record was even better in light truck-tire tests.

"In light truck-tire tests, in rear wheel positions," he said, "tires made from a selected variety of cotton gave 300 per cent more mileage than tires made from regular commercial cotton cord."

He suggested that "the time has come for us to give more thought to the selection of varieties of cotton and other crops that possess the characteristics needed for the things we want to make."

"This is particularly true of crops grown for industrial purposes," he declared.

Farmers In Favor Of Atomic Bomb

DES MOINES, IA. (UP)—More than three fourths of American farmers believe the United States should continue making atomic bombs for defense, a survey by the magazine Successful Farming revealed.

Only 18 per cent of those interviewed favor stopping bomb production and destroying those already produced, the magazine said.

The survey showed that the farmers interviewed believed a tonic bomb secrets should be withheld from Russia.
