Truman Blasts Communist Coup In Hungary

Well... I Dunno, But...

They tell us that M. L. King is ready to trade off his Dodge coupe this morning. The reason—he's discovered that a hand is driving the same kind of car.

Enroute home Wednesday from Ft. Worth he was driving peacefully along the highway, when suddenly his ears were split by screaming sirens. Immediately he was surrounded by officers demanding his identification. After producing everything from his picture to his finger prints, he finally convinced the officers that he wasn't the man that robbed the Weatherford bank at noon Wednesday.

He started on his way again, and admits that he was a little nervous, when along about the Brazos river bridge, a fire siren screamed again. This time he knew what to expect and produced identification papers again. And being a little irritated, he in turn asked for identification of the men that had stopped him. It was the FBI.

Chief and Mrs. George Murphy have been looking around with the view of moving from Ranger but have changed their minds. Just back from Denver, Colorado, both agree that Ranger's a pretty good place after all. They are planning to make their home at the Gholson Hotel.

Long closely associated with the Ranger fire department and Ranger police department, Chief Murphy has had his finger in every civic pie that was baked. When Christmas lights had to be strung, Chief Murphy got out his "boys" and had it done. When flags were supposed to be set, he mentioned it to the merchants. Many a kid in Ranger would have gone without Christmas toys, if Chief and his "boys" hadn't set up their toy repair shop each Christmas and re-made toys that had been discarded by more fortunate children.

He has supervised construction being done by the city and has had the ok of construction men of much experience. In fact, Chief always did what had to be done and the things that others overlooked or neglected.

Yes, we're glad to have them remain with us.

Pointed out to us today as a good example of keeping Ranger clean is the alley of the 900 block between Vitalious and Oddie Streets. James O'Neal, one of the residents in the block takes the lead in making that alley as clean as anybody's front yard. And it stays that way the year around. That's the kind of cleaning we've been talking about all of these years clean it up and keep it that way. If everybody did the same thing, there'd be no need of the annual spring clean-up campaign.

And speaking of keeping a clean town, somebody pointed out to us yesterday, the filth along the curb of the bus stop in downtown Ranger. The sight was revolting. And to think that dozens of buses stop there everyday, bringing hundreds of people to view Ranger from that very curb. What an impression they must get of Ranger! They have to step out of those buses and hurdle that trash or step in it!

That's the trash that's scattered by people or it wouldn't be there and we've got city ordinances regulating destruction of trash and the ordinances don't provide for throwing it on the streets.

In talking with a very thoughtful young man Wednesday afternoon, the future of this country was being discussed. He pointed out that under our system of government the people are supposed to rule. "But," he said, "how many people would approve of the disposition being made of the hundreds of airplanes that the government built during the war." So sure enough we just asked a number of people how they felt about it and everyone of them disapproved, yet it's being done. And most of 'em cited the scuttling of the Navy after the last war.

The trouble with most of us about our government is that most (Continued on page 7)

RETAIL TRADE 180 PER CENT OVER PRE-WAR

AUSTIN, Texas — April retail trade in Texas stood 180 per cent above pre-war levels, as the seasonally adjusted index compiled by the University of Texas, Bureau of Business Research climbed 9 per cent during the month.

Although the rate of increase has slowed down, sales showed an actual gain of 4 per cent from March to April, but since a decline is usually expected at this time of year, seasonal adjustments brought the index up 9 per cent to 280.1. (Base: 1935-39-100).

Part of the hike in sales reported by independent retail stores could be attributed to the fact that one week in the month included Easter buying. Apparel sales rose 3 per cent for the month, department stores recorded a 5 per cent hike, and general merchandise stores saw sales 7 per cent higher than in March.

Greatest monthly increases were in the florist business, jewelry trade and lumber building and hardware. The food business, furniture and household stores, eating and drinking places, drug stores and country general stores saw sales slump.

Although April sales stood 11 percent above sales in April 1946, actual volume of goods is down. Much of the rise is a result of steady advances in prices. As durable goods hit the dealer's shelves, sales spur upward, as evidenced by the gains in the automotive business, sales by farm implement dealers and lumber, building and hardware dealer sales.

By crop-reporting districts, monthly increases in retail sales were greatest in the Southern High Plains and the Red Bed Plains. Only in the Trans-Pecos and Lower Rio Grande Valley were reductions recorded. In gains over the April 1946 level, the Southern High Plains led off with a 25 per cent hike and was followed closely by the Trans-Pecos, Southern Texas Prairies, Coastal Prairies and the Northern High Plains District.

Cities with a population under 2,500 fared better in April trading than did their larger sister cities. Sales stood 17 per cent above April sales in 1946 after registering a 6 per cent March-to-April hike.

Illuminating Art Preserved In United States

CHICAGO (UP)—The C. L. Ricketts scriptorium still practices the medieval art of hand copying and illuminating manuscripts with quill pens and fine brushes.

Gold leaf, hand ground ink from northern China, and water colors are combined to produce elaborate designs within a single capital letter.

A special humidifying device in the workroom reproduces moist air like that of Northern Italy; which centuries of experience have proved best for the work.

The scriptorium was founded by the late C. L. Ricketts, who became interested in fine manuscripts while a boy. In 1885 he left a job as secretary treasurer on a Minneapolis newspaper to establish the firm in Chicago.

Until he died in 1941, spent much time making trips to Europe to copy fine examples of the art. He carefully reproduced the originals on vellum in his own studio from photographic copies which he had made.

SAYS OUTLOOK FOR PEANUT PRICES GOOD

With parity holding firm on May 15 at $220 per ton for farmers' peanuts, and with very little likelihood of a sharp drop because of continued high cost of living, farmers who plant peanuts in 1947 may expect to receive at least $3.00 per bushel for their peanuts this fall, according to a statement made today by T. C. Wylie, operator of the Ranger Peanut Company.

"This price is based on a 70 per cent sound meat content and the higher the meat content the higher the price for the crop," Wylie said.

Price reductions remain extremely important to the American economy, even more so in the face of the world situation, Mr. Truman said.

Dr. Brazda Gives Classification Talk At Club

Dr. A. W. Brazda was in charge of the program for the Rotary Club at the noon luncheon Wednesday in the Blue Room of the Chelton Hotel and gave a classification talk on medicine.

He pointed out that many of the remedies used today date back to the Indian medicine man and his practices. One drug chlorophyll, used on burns and infected sores today, is a very old drug, he said, and though now obtained from alfalfa, it originally came from eucalyptus.

Civic Duties Suggested For Filipino Women

MANILA (UP)—The first congresswoman of the Philippine Republic Remedios Ozamis Fortich believes the legislature would be "improved" by having half its members women.

Mrs. Fortich said she preferred a well-adjusted balance of men and women in two houses rather than a preponderance of either one. "I have much faith in the Filipino people," she said, "I want the women to help. And I want to help them."

DENIES AID PROGRAM AIM IS TO KEEP PRICES UP

WASHINGTON — President Truman today denounced as "falacious and dangerous" what he called the "boom or bust" economic theories of Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O.

In a long and unusual statement, Mr. Truman sharply challenged a recent assertion by Taft that the chief executive and his administration were abandoning talk on keeping prices down in favor of heavy spending abroad to keep them up.

The President said this flatly is not true. He said he regarded price reductions now as important or more important than he has been.

He charged Taft with advocating an economic course which would lead to "a tragic recession or depression."

The president read his prepared statement to his news conference in a stern, loud voice. He attacked the assertion by Taft that loans to other countries for the purchase of goods here increase the competition of home markets and thus force prices up.

The President said there might be some reflection on the home price structure, but he did not think it was important. The larger consideration was to help starving millions and to halve their nations against totalitarian aggression, he said.

He said the Greek-Turkish aid program was not advocated as a measure to bring prices down. The administration realizes the foreign aid programs would place some strain on the American economy, Mr. Truman said.

President Favors Investigation Of Vote Fraud

WASHINGTON — President Truman said today the Kansas City vote fraud investigation should be carried through to its logical conclusion.

Mr. Truman's statement was made to a news conference as FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover told a Senate committee that his agency was making "a full investigation" of the disputed Missouri Democratic congressional primary.

Niece Of Ranger People Injured In Fall From Car

Judy Mahel Freeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Freeman of Plains, Texas and niece of Mrs. Vivian Fleckenstein and Joe and Regis Fleckenstein of Ranger, was critically injured Wednesday afternoon in a fall from a car.

The little two year old girl is in a Breckenridge hospital and exact extent of her condition has not yet been determined.

According to reports of the accident, the child was riding in the back seat of a car driven by Mrs. Regis Fleckenstein. Mrs. Fleckenstein felt a sudden jerk of the car and turning around, found that the back door was open and the child was gone. They found the little girl in the road and rushed her to the hospital.

The Fleckensteins were enroute to Plains to make their home and the accident occurred about 10 miles west of Breckenridge.

WEATHERFORD BANK ROBBER CAPTURED

FORT WORTH, Tex.—The bank-robbing career of 25-year-old James C. Wheeler ended abruptly this morning, after the sullen, tanned ex-convict surrendered to Fort Worth detectives at Halston City.

Wheeler, an ex-convict who had served three years on a forged charge, had evaded county officers and state police for more than 19 hours after looting the Citizens National Bank at Weatherford of $3,082 in a bold, mid-day robbery yesterday.

The youthful bandit's pockets bulged with $2,950 of the bank loot. An hour later, he confessed to the crime, and later this morning was identified by Mrs. Vaudine Bullington as the man who held her at gun point and demanded the cash.

Capital Betting On Truman's Tax Cut Plans

WASHINGTON — Political Washington is betting today that President Truman will propose reduction of personal income taxes next January if he vetoes the Republican tax bill which reached the White House yesterday.

At his news conference today, Mr. Truman declined to give any hint on what he will do about either the tax reduction or labor bills.

The President smiled and shook his head when asked about the bills by reporters.

SAYS U. S. TO AID OUSTED DEMOCRATIC ELEMENTS

WASHINGTON — President Truman today called the Communist coup in Hungary a terrible outrage.

Mr. Truman said this government did not intend to stand idly by. The state department, he said, is now making a thorough investigation of the Hungarian situation.

The President bluntly stated this government's anger over the Communist seizure of power in Hungary at his news conference. The week-old Hungarian political crisis found the Hungarian legislature here split in two, pending official statement of this country's stand.

The President's news conference remarks left no doubt that the United States would act promptly and vigorously.

State department officials had hinted that U. S. moves supporting anti-Communist forces in Hungary would be forthcoming shortly. They reportedly would include a stiff protest to Russia, additional economic crack-downs on the new regime, and a pledge of assistance to the currently ousted democratic elements.

Mr. Truman's use of the word "outrage" indicated the tone that the U. S. protest would take.

Legislation On Labor Hits The Home Stretch

WASHINGTON — Republican sponsored labor legislation hit the home stretch in Congress today. It headed for Senate passage by a vote which Republican spokesmen expected to surpass the 2 to 1 margin needed to override a presidential veto.

Chairman Robert A. Taft, R., O., of the Senate labor committee planned to call in mid-afternoon for Senate approval of the compromise measure which passed the House yesterday by a majority of 4 to 1. A final Senate vote was expected late today or tomorrow.

Push Plans To Return Mines To Operators

WASHINGTON — The Coal mines administration today pushed plans for returning the government-operated soft coal pits to their private owners on June 30 regardless of whether a new wage contract has been signed by that time with John Lewis.

A spokesman for the administration said the schedule would not be affected by the dismal prospects of an agreement between Lewis and the two groups of mine operators. The government's legal authority to hold the mines ends on June 30.

KANSAS SOLONS ASKING FOR BETTER PAY

By Tom W. Miller
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—The nation's poorest paid state lawmakers—members of the Kansas Legislature—are asking the people for a raise.
 Kansas, who five times have refused to change the constitutional limit of $3 a day for a maximum of 50 legislative days in every two years, probably will say "no" once again.
 An amendment to change the legislative salary limitation written into the constitution in 1859—when $3 a day was good pay—will be placed before the people in next year's general election.

It will be the first expression of public sentiment on the question in 18 years.

Should the voters reverse their past emphatic stands, Kansas legislators would draw $5 a day for legislative days, with a maximum payment of $300 for regular sessions and $150 for special sessions. In addition, an expense allowance of up to $7 for each calendar day—with no limit to the number of days—would be authorized.

Attempted the five previous times—in 1902, 1908, 1910, 1926 and 1930—the various proposed amendments never came close to passing in the 1930 election only 29 per cent favored the change.
 Working on a salary scale based on costs of living in frontier days, Kansas legislators long since have found a legal loophole to help defray part of their expenses in Topeka hotels.

The constitution permits payment of legislative expenses—but not personal ones.
 So each session appropriations resolutions are rushed through giving legislators sizable sums for "postage, telephone and telegraphic expenses."

In the 1947 session just ended, the "postage" appropriations reached an all-time high of $350 per legislator.
 Gov. Frank Carlson is backing higher legislative pay. In his opening message to the senators and representatives he urged asking the people for $10 a day.

The chief executive pointed out that a whole group of legislative employees get at least double the pay of the solons they serve.

 Persons afflicted with "eye-caused headaches" are often surprised to find out how quickly properly fitted glasses relieve this distress. Plans Pushed For Huge Monument To Columbus Near Ciudad Trujillo

Dan L. Thrapp United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON (UP)—J. L. Gleave, Scottish architect and designer of the most massive memorial to a single man since King Cheops planned the pyramid at Giza, is returning to Santo Domingo this month to continue preparations for building the projected Columbus Monument there.

The memorial will be on the banks of the Ozama River near Ciudad Trujillo, the capital. It will cost more than $4,000,000 and will be paid for jointly by the 21 American republics. It will consist of the greatest mass of masonry assembled since the Great Pyramid and, together with its grounds will form a sort of Pan American park.

It will require several years to build, but work was to begin shortly after the first of next year, when the plans will be completed. Gleave, head of the architectural school of the Edinburgh College of Art, spent more than three months in Santo Domingo investigating the site and planning actual construction of the memorial. He won a world-wide competition for its design.

The structure, as planned, will slope up gradually from one end toward the head, where it will reach a height of 80 feet. The head end slightly resembles a Mayan pyramid, as a concession to native North American architecture but Gleave emphasized that it was intended to "convey the feel of the momentous discovery itself."

Surmounting the highest point of the monument will be a chapel to which will be transferred the bones of Christopher Columbus, whose brother, Diego, built Ciudad Trujillo the first settlement in the Western Hemisphere, in 1496. It still is regarded as the finest example of a Spanish colonial town.

of the 16th century. Columbus is reported to be interred in the cathedral, built in 1512, in Spanish renaissance style. Ciudad Trujillo is the richest city in Columbus lore in the Western Hemisphere. Both Christopher and his brother were held in a still-existing cell in the nearby old fortress.

Atop the Columbus chapel will be an enormous beacon which, it is planned, will nightly trace in the sky overhead a huge cross, perhaps five miles in length. "It may seem strange in some parts of the world, that we chose this time to go ahead with the monument," said Gleave. "But times are good over there. In the Dominican Republic there seems nothing unnatural in embarking upon such an undertaking. Building costs are high, but labor is cheap and the over-all cost is no higher than here."

Work on clearing the site already had begun, he said. Museums and libraries will be housed in the main part of the memorial. Both of them will be concerned primarily with voyages of exploration, annals of conquest, and documents on the pre-Columbian and Colonial times in the Western Hemisphere. Grounds around the monument will be landscaped and made into a well-tended park, he said.

Pot and Kettle Case Draw Judge Rules

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Judge J. Fred Bingham dismissed the divorce case of Mr. and Mrs. John Nemeth on grounds that both parties were "at fault." The suit was filed by Mrs. Ne-

RETURN ENGAGEMENT By Gwen Davenport

THE STORY: After a lifetime of dazzling the world, the great actress Sophie van Eyck comes home to the little Maine coast town where she was born. Widow of an international banker, she had lived comfortably on the Riviera until the war. In her party are Victoria Jenkins, her grand-daughter; Marcel Perault, an elderly Frenchman who is her portrait painter, and Sir Charles Madden, her butler. Sophie has bought the old Peabody house on exclusive Chase Neck point. Godfrey Mansbridge, who is living in an old actor's home, is on her conscience. She writes offering him a home and he accepts. While being interviewed by a local high school girl and posing for Marcel at the same time, she happens to mention Godfrey. The atmosphere becomes electric.

"SOPHIE," said the artist, "you have promised you don't talk about him. I cannot paint if I am even near his name." "Delete that reference, Miss Flaherty," ordered Sir Charles. "There's no use giving him any free publicity." "Ah, poor Godfrey!" cried Sophie, very much upset. She stretched out both hands in a gesture of pleading. "What good—or what harm—could the publicity do him when he's shut away in a home for old actors? You two have no right to talk so about him. He was well-known in his day, Miss Flaherty, a great actor—" "Never!" cried Marcel. "Only love makes you call him an actor."

"Handsome, I grant you," Sir Charles put in. "Call him a clotheshorse, a competent leading man, perhaps, in certain not too exacting parts. But a great actor—never!" "Godfrey Mansbridge," said Marcel, and then, in a fury of frustration and jealousy he broke his brush across his knee and flung the pieces to the floor. "Faugh!" he cried. "That for Godfrey Mansbridge! You promised not to mention him."

meth. But after hearing three days of evidence, the judge ruled that since the couple struck one another frequently during 23 years of marriage and each stayed out late at night, their divorce was not justified. "Counsel seems to have over-

"You've nothing else to do," said Sir Charles.

Sophie began a dramatic pacing of the dusty floor, her heavy gown scraping and swishing behind her. She went from the window to the door and back before she paused and faced the two men. "My dears—" She looked from one to the other with tender emotion. "We've been happy, haven't we? That is, I've tried to make you all happy, both of you and Victoria."

She swept across the floor in a different direction, leaving a clear path across the dust which Marcel refused to have disturbed. "When Mr. Bernheim died," she went on, "I found myself a very rich woman. It seemed only right to share my good fortune with my dear ones who weren't as lucky. That's one reason I bought this house."

"What are you leading up to?" inquired Sir Charles.

She took the plunge. "Well, Godfrey is coming to share it with us."

"You joke!" said Marcel.

"Apparently," said Sir Charles dryly, "you no longer wish to make us happy."

"Why shouldn't we all be happy together?" cried Sophie.

"But you owe him nothing, Sophie," said Marcel heatedly. "What did he ever do for you?"

"Owe him nothing!" she exclaimed. "Why, in a sense I owe him everything. His whole life was mine."

Sir Charles sat abruptly on the stool Elsie had so briefly occupied, sinking down as if he needed support. "Exactly," he said. "His life was yours. His success was due to you. From the moment the van Eyck and Mansbridge team broke up, where did he ever get by himself? Revivals and road companies?"

"That's just it," Sophie pleaded. "Don't you see? He was nothing without me. I should have stayed with him. Yes, I should have realized my responsibility to him long ago. Even when he no longer wanted me..."

She allowed her voice to trail off on this thought, but it was audible to the two men, who exchanged a despairing look.

looked," the judge said, "that the Indiana law provides that when both husband and wife are at fault there can be no divorce."

Under The Dome At Austin

By Gordon K. Shearer
United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP) — Turn back time just 10 years and you will find a Texas legislature of 1937 fighting just as bitterly about their appropriations as members are doing in the closing days of the 50th legislature this year.

The principal difference is in the stakes involved in the game. Then there were just about half as many chips as this time.

Each biennial session of the state legislature makes five major appropriations for two year's operation of the state government, its institutions and colleges. These major appropriations of the 45th Texas legislature totaled but $70,950,026. This year the five major appropriations will take between $147,000,000 and $165,000,000.

The major appropriations are for courts, state departments, state institutions, state-supported colleges and a id to rural public schools.

On the taxation side the legislature of 10 years ago was comparatively quiet. It was not until demands began to grow for bigger and better old age pensions that taxation became the main topic. Then in 1946 "Pappy" O'Daniel pulled one out of the hat. It was his secret promised plan to take care of the old folks, a $50,000,000 yearly "transactions tax."

"Transactions tax" was the name former Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel gave the measure. Opponents called it either a sales tax or a pyramided sales tax. The House turned it down after a long hard fight and enacted instead an omnibus bill known as "House Bill Eight." It is the last tax bill that has been enacted by a Texas legislature.

But the legislators had fallen into the habit of making appropriations regardless of whether there was money to pay the bill. So the people clamped on a constitutional amendment known as the pay-as-you-go provision of the state constitution. It said if there wasn't going to be money to pay the bill, the appropriation could not be made.

The present 50th Texas legislature is the second one to operate under that restriction. The only way a legislature can get around it is to vote an appropriation with a four-fifths favorable ballot of the entire membership coupled with a clause declaring it the intent of the legislators that the expenditure shall be made even if it creates a state deficit.

Legislators who have been occupying tents in "Camp Solon" on the state capitol grounds have been violating the legislature's own law.

An act passed by the legislature in 1931 specifically forbids what they have been doing. It also makes them each liable to a fine of $100 to $1,000.

The act says that "it shall be unlawful for any officer of this state, or any employe thereof, or any other person, to construct, build or maintain, within the campus inclosure around the state capitol at Austin any building, memorial, monument, statue or concessions, or other structure without the authority of the legislature theretofore given by statute or concurrent resolution for that purpose."

But the camping legislators are exempt from arrest so long as the legislature is in session. They are immune also on their way home after the session ends.

A long-disputed parliamentary point about which the House and Senate of the Texas Legislature had disagreed was settled this week in favor of the Senate. Atty. Gen. Price Daniel ruled that either body could adjourn from Thursday to Monday without consent of the other.

The state constitution requires each of them to get the consent of the other during a legislative session to adjourn for more than 3 days consecutively. The House said that Friday, Saturday and Sunday were three days and that the Senate had no right to adjourn until Monday, unless it waited until Friday to do so.

Daniel ruled that Sundays are not counted so Thursday to Monday becomes three days.

Not that the Senate had paid any attention to the House contention. It went right ahead and adjourned from Thursday to Monday regardless of whether or not the House consented.

FOR COMPLETE OVERALL FLY CONTROL

Experience shows that the most effective fly control program includes spraying cattle and the interiors of all farm buildings housing animals. Purina Fly Spray for Farm Buildings and Stock Cattle does the complete job. It contains DDT — plus a new ingredient, V-15 (Chlorinated hydrocarbons) to make it even more effective. V-15 kills flies quicker than longer-lasting DDT. . . And sticks to barn walls and animals' hides, holding DDT longer.

For DAIRY COWS at Milking Time (Where Complete Program is not used)

When your cows are bothered at milking, spray them with Purina Dairy Spray. This efficient fly-killer contains no DDT. But it knocks flies down quickly and its killing effect lasts for many hours.

For INSECT CONTROL in the Home (Kills Flies, Mosquitoes, Roaches, Ants, etc.)

Purina Fly Spray for the Home contains 5% micro-sized DDT — finely pulverized DDT to cover more surface more thoroughly. Spray it into rooms for quick kill. Spray walls and ceilings, paint on screens, window sills — for effective protection.

SUGGESTIONS GIVEN ON FROZEN FOODS

The preparation of vegetables for freezing is similar to that required for canning. Wash well, drain, sort, trim, and cut the vegetables as for eating or canning.

Scalding and Heating

A heat treatment is necessary to stop certain undesirable changes which take place in vegetables. This heating also intensifies the color, shrinks the food, and further cleans the product.

Chilling

Cool vegetables immediately at the end of the heating period.

Packaging

There are two methods for packing vegetables which have been scalded, chilled, and drained. One is the dry pack and the other is the brine pack.

Seal and Label Freeze and Store

All foods are best if they can be frozen quickly, at 20 degrees F in still air or -5 degrees in moving air.

B-130 Freezing Foods for Home issued by Texas Extension Service is available in the Co. Home Dem. Agt. office.

By Mrs. Helen C. Marquardt, County H. D. Agent
Quick freezing is one of the most desirable methods of preserving most foods. If foods are properly processed, packaged and stored, quick freezing retains practically the same flavor, texture and nutritive value of the original food.
Here are tips on freezing vegetables:
Selection and Preparation
Select fresh, tender products at the right stage for eating. When they reach maturity, they should be harvested and frozen without delay. Vegetables lose quality more rapidly after harvesting than before.

Australian Flier Goes After Crocodiles

SYDNEY, Australia (UP) — Berkley Cook, former Australian air force officer, is preparing an expedition to hunt crocodiles commercially. He has found that they are returning in large numbers to their old haunts in Australia's northern Queensland and in New Guinea, after having been driven off by Australian and American troops during the war. Cook reported he had been offered an average of $6.50 a skin by a Sydney leather firm. During the war, little crocodile hunting was done and prices of skins sky-rocketed.

Cook plans to do some trading in the New Guinea coastal islands and will use his 56-foot pearl lugger, the Phantom, as a base of operations.
