Poland Asks New Government In Greece

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Cathryn Shepard of Cisco, secretary of the University of Texas Oil Belt Club, composed of students from Cisco, Eastland Ranger and Breckenridge, in a letter to us reminds us of the good advertising that the club has given the towns they represent. She says that through the club, students that had never heard of Ranger now know something about the town.

That's good. Every little bit of advertising helps. Thanks, Cathryn.

If you haven't got your bumper guard advertising the Jaycee Rodeo, you can secure them at the Crawley Motor Company. The bright yellow placards are good advertising, for everywhere the car goes that has one on it the rodeo gets a plug.

Yep, the thermometer is still going up and hit 102 Wednesday. The race is on and we'll bet that it hits 108 again before it slows down.

Hall and Ray Green of Putnam formerly of Ranger, along with Charles Martin of Ranger, who's visiting them, have been doing their part to help advertise the Jaycee Rodeo.

Given some of the posters about the rodeo the three boys painted the town with 'em and they tell us that part of the country really knows that Ranger's gonna have a rodeo.

Ray and Hall are still loyal Rangers. They go boldly about in their Ranger Bulldog T-shirts, during the Jeers and threats of little boys in Putnam.

They tell us that friends of Gold Star mothers who planted pecan trees in Memorial Park during the spring planting program, are assisting in taking care of the trees.

It was explained that when the friends are called upon to do the work with the trees which is absolutely necessary if they live, they gladly go to the park to do the work. Among the more recent volunteers in the work are Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Culpepper.

Well, Susie Hansford tells us that we've got a treat coming. The reason, the quib we had in this column Wednesday about her lost flag, got the flag back for her and is she pleased!

It looks like we'll never learn our lesson. It's been only a few years since Adolf Hitler was doing exactly what Russia is trying to do today and we're taking the same path with Russia as we took with Hitler.

Many's the time we heard it said that some of the powers stopped the aggressions of Italy and Germany when they first started, that World War II never would have happened. But we didn't, we sat isolated and did a little diplomatic begging with them to stop their thieving, but we didn't make any concrete effort to block it.

The hand's writing on the wall and it looks like we ought to be able to read it.

Current List Of Unemployed At C. of C. Office

FORD OUSTS THIRTY-TWO FOREMEN

By United Press
DETROIT — The Ford Motor Company today discharged 32 foremen accused of "acts of violence and terrorism" during the recent 47-day strike of the Foremen's Association of America.

The stoppage, involving 3,800 FEA members at three large Detroit area Ford plants, ended last July 6 after failing in its objective of obtaining a new, liberalized contract between the company and the union.

As a result of the strike, Ford broke off all relations with the foremen's association.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and director of industrial relations, said the 32 foremen were dismissed "following a hearing and after careful investigation of verified reports by members of company supervision who were attacked when they refused to leave their jobs."

Greek Guerilla Drive Shattered

ATHENS — Greek government forces, aided by civilians, have shattered a guerilla drive on Ioannina—Yanina — but most of the "invaders" have escaped into thickly wooded hills, government sources reported today.

Members of other guerilla bands were reported trickling through government lines toward Mt. Grammos, where guerillas have been able to hold off government forces.

On nearby Mt. Gamila, guerillas were reported under heavy strafing from Government planes.

Large tables are being installed in the accounting room to replace desks and both the high school and college will have newly equip-

SCRANTON BEATS POST WAR SLUMP

SCRANTON, Pa. (UP)— The people of Scranton spent $2,200,000 to keep their city from becoming a post-war ghost town.

Now they have created 13,245 new jobs paying $24,765,000 a year. That, they say, is just the beginning of the expected increase in employment and earnings.

The state commerce department told the story of Scranton's home-sponsored industrial re-development in a series of advertisements in national-wide publications. The advertisements were designed to suggest that the city is just one of many Pennsylvania communities where industries could find "desirable" plant locations.

Actually, Scranton officials think their attack on the potential post-war jobs slump problem was unique. Located in the Pennsylvania hard coal region where depressions hit hardest, the city was faced with acute unemployment when war plants closed.

A group of civic leaders decided that the home town folks were going to have to do more than hope if they wanted new jobs to replace those they held in wartime. To attract new industries into a community, they reasoned, the people ought to prove they themselves believe their town is a good money risk. And the way to do that, of course, is to risk the money.

So Scrantonites collected $2,200,000, some of it in big chunks from the wealthiest citizens and some in crumpled one dollar bills from men who hoped the plan would work because they needed the jobs.

They spent $1,200,000 to buy an abandoned bomber plant. The remaining $1,000,000 was earmarked for construction of new plants.

Aiding in development of the rehabilitation program were the local chamber of commerce, the Scranton Plan Corporation, the Scranton Industrial Development Co. and the Scranton Lackawanna Industrial Building Co.

The organizations worked at attracting new industries and helping them find suitable locations in the city.

Achievements to date: 26 new plants and 13 major expansions of existing industrial facilities.

In addition the SLIB Co. has under construction three printing plants, one publishing plant, hosiery and silk weaving mills and other industrial establishments to be sold to industrialists looking for new enterprises.

APPROVAL OF BIG 3 MEET CONDITIONAL

WASHINGTON — President Truman is still adamantly opposed to another Big Three meeting unless Josef Stalin and Clement Attlee come here to confer with him, it was learned today.

This was disclosed on the second anniversary of the ill-fated Potsdam conference — a Big Three meeting which was President Truman's first and probably last salvo into high-level secret international negotiations.

Mr. Truman and his advisers think it is inadvisable and inconsistent with the American system for the head of the state to enter secret negotiations in peace-time. They frankly blame the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's secret agreements for much of the trouble in the world today.

Very few of the Potsdam agreements have been fulfilled because the big powers have failed to find an acceptable way for putting them into operation, especially those on Germany.

CONFEDERATE STREAMERS WILL FLY ONCE MORE

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—The House has now passed South Dakota Republican Karl E. Mundt's bill authorizing the State Department to conduct the "Voice of America" broadcasts and other cultural relations programs to spread democracy in foreign countries.

Edson
$13 million. But $13 million of that is to liquidate the outfit and bring back home from overseas all the experienced foreign service people who will have to be fired.

THE shooting ended two years ago and the end of hostilities was officially declared last New Year's eve. But the war isn't over by a long shot. Only the weapons and the enemies have changed.

There is room for an honest suspicion that Americans don't know beans about this kind of warfare. That would account for all the criticism there has been of every American attempt to wage it.

THAT'S why the congressional cuts of State Department information and cultural affairs budgets are suicidal. They are like refusing to pass ammunition in the Battle of the Bulge.

SPORTS
BY NEA STAFF MILLS
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Pinch-hitting for Harry Grayson, who is on vacation.)

NEW YORK—(NEA)—In one respect Brooklyn's first baseman Jackie Robinson is like the late Lou Gehrig. His first year up he hasn't missed a game. In midseason no other rookie has played as consistently.

Robinson broke into the major leagues on the opening day of the season and has held down the initial sack for the Bums ever since. This despite the fact he never played first base before.

Robinson earned his chance with the major leagues by his performance as a second baseman on the Montreal club in the International League last year. In 444 times at bat he rapped out 185 hits with 25 doubles, eight three-baggers and three home runs. His batting average was .349.

In 1945 Jackie played shortstop in the Negro League and was a leading hitter. At midseason Robinson has virtually replaced this record for the Bums. He is not considered a power hitter, but his scattered singles and doubles plus superb bunting shanages to get him on base and keep his batting average in the .300s. Like many ballplayers, he has been better on the road than at home.

Robinson was born in Carroll, Ga., 28 years ago. His father died when Jackie was very young, and his mother took him, his four brothers and two sisters to California where they made their home.

One brother, Mac, competed in the Olympic Games of 1928, running second to Jesse Owens in the

PIONEER TO INAUGURATE AIR FREIGHT

HOUSTON, Texas, July 17—Air freight service on regularly scheduled flights will commence August 1 on Pioneer Air Lines, it was announced in Houston today by Harding L. Lawrence, general traffic manager.

The new service will round out the complete airline program, Mr. Lawrence pointed out, by adding scheduled freight shipping to passenger, air mail and air express services already provided.

Citing examples of the possibilities of the new service, he said that all cities on Pioneer's route can now receive Gulf Coast fish a few hours after being caught; merchants can carry small inventories by being able to quickly replenish stocks from distant suppliers; and factory shipments of vitally needed machinery parts can be rushed in by air in emergencies.

He pointed out that one burdensome cost in shipping has always been the careful packaging needed. Most items shipped by air only require light weight covering and many no packing at all.

The new service is designed to provide doorway-to-doorway handling with contracts already in force between the air line and reputable trucking firms.

Shipping charges, weight and size limitations, insurance provisions and other matters of interest to shippers are contained in the new tariffs which will be distributed soon to Pioneer offices throughout the state. Pioneer managers are being schooled in the new service in order to be able to handle freight to and from any point reached by air.

His Son Restored Father Shaves Flowing Beard

BUDAPEST, Hungary (UP)—Budapest has lost a "landmark" and world-famous restaurateur Charles Gundel has found a son. Gundel, father of 12 children, vowed never to shave again until his son Francis returned. Francis was captured by the Russians during the siege of Budapest.

Francis returned with a batch of prisoners of war released from the Soviet Union. Twenty minutes after the two had greeted each other effusively, the elder Gundel appeared minus his flowing beard and sporting a neatly trimmed mustache. Gundel is known to Budapest visitors for his two famous restaurants, one of them at the city zoo. His eldest son, Charles, Jr., is captain of waiters at New York's Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

U. S. MUST HOLD OKINAWA AMERICANS THERE INSIST

By Miles W. Vaughn
United Press Vice President for Asia

NAHA, Okinawa (UP)— Suggestions in Japan that Okinawa be returned to that country under terms of the impending peace treaty are described by Americans here as "probably to silly to merit comment."

"The United States suffered some 25,000 casualties, including an estimated 15,000 dead for all branches of the armed services, in conquering the Okinawa area," a high officer told this correspondent. "I can't imagine that would be silly enough to relinquish it."

The general attitude of Americans here towards the future of Okinawa may be summarized as follows:

Okinawa must be remained permanently by the United States not only because of its sentimental value as one of the greatest battlefields in the history of the republic, but also because of its tremendous strategic importance in the postwar area.

The United States must have in this part of the world several great military bases under exclusive American control, if it is to succeed in its announced intention to be henceforth the dominant power in the western Pacific Ocean. Okinawa, along with Guam, must be one of the bases because of its strategic location along the sea and air lane leading southward from Soviet Vladivostok area to the oil fields of Borneo, Tarakan, Sumatra and Burma.

In event of a new war in this part of the world, it might be expected that the aggressor nation would strike towards the great reservoirs of petroleum and tropic products, including rubber and vegetable oils in southeastern Asia and adjacent islands. That was what Japan did, and the early Japanese seizure of the vast resources of that region was a chief reason the Nipponese held out as long as they did.

Okinawa is a comparatively large island, about 65 miles long and from five to 10 miles wide, and already has a dozen air fields, some of which are capable of handling the latest bomber planes now in use. Fleets of these planes based on Okinawa could dominate the whole Asian area from the Vladivostok-Habarovsk region in the north to the Singapore-Batavia line in the south.

Recent agreements which restrict the American military establishment in the Philippine Republic make Okinawa the more important.

The United States already has invested millions of dollars in Okinawa and has made a small start towards the Americanization of the native population, which now number round 500,000. The Okinawans are friendly, orderly and industrious. They need and want American help in restoring their homes and cities, which were leveled during the

Seems William Penn Liked Solid Houses

SUNBURY, Pa. (UP)—Pennsylvania's solid Quaker founder apparently was no advocate of temporary emergency housing.

A deed for one of the first land grants made by the William Penn family in this community, dated January, 1773, specified that a "substantial dwelling with brick or stone chimney, 25 feet square" must be built within three years.

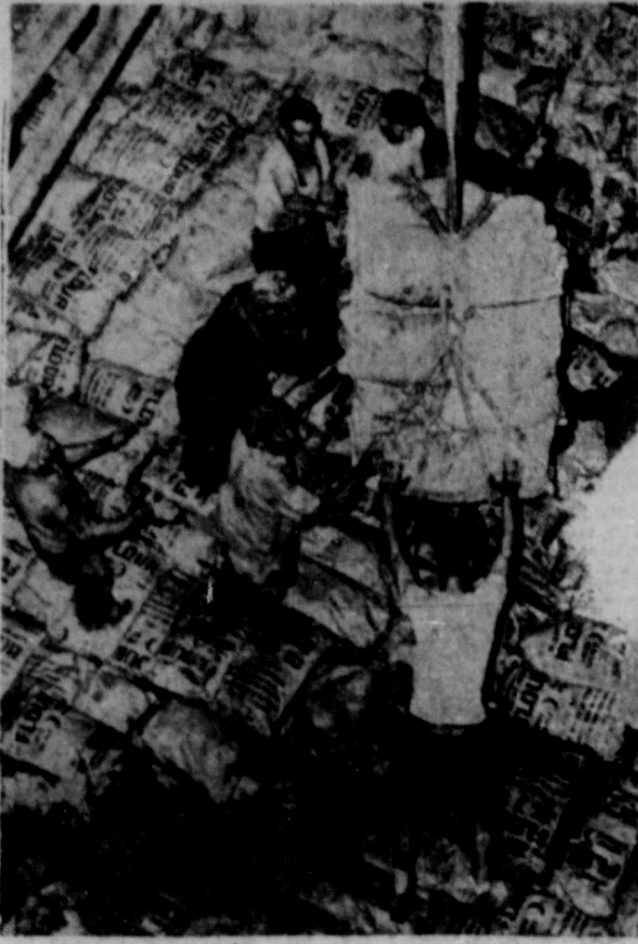

Frederick Nagle, of Berks county, who rented the land for from $5 to $10 a year in present money, complied with the spirit of the deed. He built a log home so substantial that it lasted until this year.

Miss Katherine Reed, a school-teacher who now owns the property, has the original parchment of the grant made by Penn's heirs.

month old. Her spleen was removed when she was four, and six years later physicians gave up, saying that she had only a few weeks to live.

Since that time, Helen has had a blood transfusion every six or eight weeks. She is in the hospital about four months out of every year but remains cheerful. Without the transfusions, the girl would die, but so far, physicians and nurses at the hospital have been able to donate the blood for her.

Cameras Dramatize Growth of Plants

WINNETKA, Ill. (UP)—Perfecting a movie camera technique so you can see flowers grow has been a 20-year job for John N. Ott, Jr.

It's not a new trick. But Ott has reached the stage where he believes the one-time stunt can be used by industry and science on a big scale.

Pictures of several plants can be lined up side by side to compare movements. You can study the effects of heat, water, bacteria, weed-killers and soil.

The idea is the reverse of slow-motion movies. A plant is photographed a few shots at a time over a long period. When the strip is run in a projector, you can see the movements a plant makes when it grows.

As plants get bigger and sprout in different directions, the cameras automatically follow them, the way Ott has them geared.

He has rigged from six to a dozen cameras, coordinated with a bank of flood lamps. The whole setup is run by a switch-board hooked to a 24-hour time-control clock.

New Insecticides Killing Off Bees

FOOT DEEVENS, Mass. (UP)—Bees throughout the nation are dying at an increased rate because of the harsh nature of insecticides now being used, according to Prof. Arthur G. Hildreth of the University of Massachusetts' physics department.

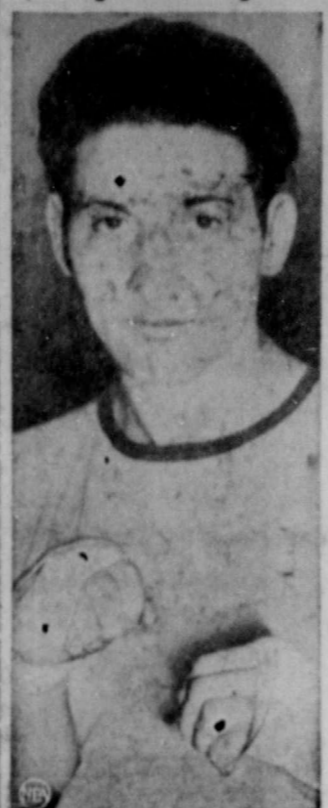

Hildreth said the "alarming decline" in the number of bees is a source of great concern among American farmers since bees pollinate important crops such as vegetables, fruits, berries, alfalfa, cranberries and clover seeds. The decline has affected sources of fodder for cattle to the extent where the dairy and beef indus-

Jap Learns War Is Over

Meet Superior Seaman Tsuchida, of the ex-Imperial Japanese Navy, who recently learned that the war is over and surrendered to U. S. Marines on the Pacific island of Peleliu. First to surrender out of a group of holdout Japs on the island, he had never heard of the atomic bomb. He's pictured under guard of Cpl. William O. Hall, of Oxford, Miss.

Navy Champion

Seaman first class Dan Buceroni added the All-Navy heavyweight championship to international amateur honors in San Diego. The tournament was last held in 1933. An instructor in the service, Great Lakes warrior will be discharged this fall. A product of Philadelphia, he will either seek a place on the Olympic team of next year or turn professional.

Colorful Time Enlivens Kansas Summer Day

WICHITA, Kan. (UP)—It was a quiet summer day until Ronald Overlay, 3; David Buss, 5, and Sandra Buss, 4, found the open can of paint Ray Overlay had left in his garage.

The youngsters used their hands in place of paint brushes. They re-decorated the Overlay auto and garage interior, and in the painting process altered their own color schemes.

The clean-up of garage, car and kids took two sets of parents and three gallons of solvent.

All-Aluminum House Proposed To Cost $2,500

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)—Ivah Cummins, 30-year-old Ann Arbor engineer, thinks he has the answer to the nation's housing problem.

It's an all-aluminum, five-room house — complete with kitchen space, dresser drawers, heating plant and garage—that will sell for around $2,500.

Cummins says he got the idea after inquiries revealed that aluminum was more readily available than steel and could be obtained fairly inexpensively. In addition, he contends labor cost would be reduced because the metal is easy to work with. The inventor already has built one such home on a trial basis and hopes to begin large-scale production late this year.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause racing backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, stiffness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 million of kidney totes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

tries are suffering, Hildreth said. Bees pollinate a few days each year when the plot is not covered with a spray or dust and return to the plants from time to time when some insecticide has been applied. Hildreth said DDT and other insecticides have proved fatal to the bees during these periods.

Camphor, when mixed with an insecticide, Hildreth discovered, serves to discourage bees from inhabiting plants that have been sprayed.

Turns Coal Into Electricity at 100 MPH

Smallest "giant of the rails" from Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, Pa., is this revolutionary 100-foot, 6000-horsepower locomotive which combines principles of conventional steam boiler, steam turbine, and electric drive. Heat energy of coal is transformed into steam, which generators convert into 4000 kilowatts of electric power—good for 100-mile-an-hour travel. It made its debut as a C. & O. unit at the Railroad Show in Atlantic City.

HOUSING CONDITIONS IN CHICAGO SAID TO BE BAD

CHICAGO (UP)—Pathos and misery and heartaches dominate the Chicago housing picture today—particularly in the slums. Perhaps the person closer to the situation than anyone else is Mrs. Dorothy Rubel, acting director of the Metropolitan Housing Council. It is a citizen volunteer group charged with the almost hopeless task of improving housing.

She brought out her files, which contain one pathetic case after another. A family of seven, including five small children, was evicted one dark midnight on the North Side.

The family roamed the streets all that rainy night and finally found lodging in a basement that also served as a coal bin. The place was divided into seven units, separated by cardboard walls. There was no furnace, no sink, no toilet. Each crowded section rented for $11 per week. The walls bulged from underground dampness. Inside of a month, one child had died of pneumonia and two of the others were ill of dread rheumatic fever.

Income from that building, incidentally, is $1,000 a month, and it is in such a sad state of disrepair it has no property value. There are many other such cases. A mother and her five children slept in a parked car for five weeks. A mother and father and their 14 children were cooped up in a single room on the Southwest Side. The building caught fire one night and four of the children were killed. Before the place had cooled off, though, the family had to move back in. They had no other place to go. In another case, a veteran deserted his wife and four children. They were evicted for non-payment of rent. The woman finally found shelter, but the landlord kicked them out when two of the children got the whooping cough. He claimed their coughing disturbed his sleep.

Finally, the woman moved in with her brother, in an upstairs hole-in-the-wall. The brother's landlady did not approve of children and so the mother and children had to move in in the middle of the night and remain in the room all day long—unless the landlady was out. Another family Mrs. Rubel told about was burned out and had to live in a different room every night subsequently. One man plunked down $57 a month for two basement rooms—eight unsees.

Another family Mrs. Rubel visited had laundry hanging all over the place in an already damp basement home. The woman explained she did a washing every day for "rich folks" to make ends meet.

Still another family was evicted from a one-room flat because the father had tuberculosis and the landlord decided it was "catching."

With building almost at a standstill, there seems to be little hope for improvement in the near future.

Bonds Lost Three Years Recovered

GUTHRIE, Okla., (UP)—A folder full of savings bonds worth $375 found along U. S. Highway 77 five miles north of Guthrie a few days ago has been identified by the owner, Miss Lee Jane Egan of Houston, Texas.

Miss Egan's first along the road number of her lost bonds and they correspond with the folder of bonds found, police Captain Charles Noble said. She lost the bonds and a suitcase three years ago while on a trip through this part of the country. Army Captain Frank W. Rogers, San Antonio, Tex., found the bonds.

Says Good Bartenders Promote Temperance

NEW YORK (UP)—A good bartender can do more for moderation in drinking than all the temperance conventions in history, according to Arthur Gillett, president of the United Restaurant Liquor Dealers of Manhattan.

The good bartender always can be down at the other end of the bar when the customer calls for one drink more than is good for him, Gillett said. If the customer becomes insistent, the bartender can even explain he might lose his job.

"Put always courteously." Gillett said. "The heavy drinker is tender, offends him, that'll only likely to be a sensitive fellow, make him want to drink more."

Sam Helps with the Dishwashing

Dropped in at the Abernathy's just the other evening—and there was Sam, out in the kitchen with an apron on, helping his missus wash the supper dishes. (And then I learned later he'd helped cook the supper, too.)

Of course, Sam could have settled into his favorite chair, enjoyed his evening glass of beer, and left all the messy kitchenwork to Dixie. But he kind of likes her company—and she in turn certainly appreciates his help.

In fact, sharing the housework and the mealtime chores is sort of a bond between them... like sharing that friendly glass of beer together, when the work is done. It's one of those little all-important things in marriage.

From where I sit, the time that a man and wife can spend with each other in this busy world today is all too precious. And the more things they can do together, the better.

Speedy says--

Bill Lester flew his night cross-country last night. He flew the same course Charlie Bond did and knocked 5 minutes off the time. If you think 4 hours isn't a long time to sit in an airplane, try it sometime.

George Howell, operator from Eastland, brought a T-Craft to Ranger yesterday for repairs.

Jack Sharpe, Albany, landed here on a student cross country yesterday. He was flying a J-3 Cub.

The Breckenridge American has adopted this column including the heading and most of the words. However, I shouldn't kick, because I have been known to seek a little help from a better author myself.

It is surprising how many people are frightened of a spin. Even though it is the easiest maneuver to do in an airplane. If the pilot will turn the controls loose while in a spin, the airplane will recover alone and unaided. Probably do a better job than any pilot. An airplane is like a horse, it will take you home if you will turn the reins loose.

If we could teach people to fly like superman, the overhead would go down, sales go up and profit increase tremendously.

Barnyard Music Helps Brothers Fatten Figs

WESTVILLE GROVE, N.J.—Music is being utilized to help fatten the 3,000 pigs on the Lichtman Bros. farm here.

Morris Lichtman and his brothers, Norman and Louis, put two loudspeakers on a pole in the barnyard of their 38-acre pig farm. "They attached the amplifiers to a portable radio.

The music soothes the pigs and they eat more—and get fatter more quickly, the brothers explain. "They don't fight much, either, with the music calming them. Whereas the brothers once lost three per cent of their pigs through fighting, now they lose only one per cent.

The pigs, the brothers said, care very little for live music. They like Guy Lombardo and Bing Crosby, particularly.
