Alarm Shown Over Spiralling Prices

Well... I Dunno, But...

The Jaycees tell us that they ordered the weather today just so that everybody would enjoy the circus more. We don't believe that their orders would mean very much, but we will say this, they sure get the breaks in the weather. For two consecutive years they've had ideal weather for the rodeos which are held each year in one of the most doubtful weather seasons of the year. Anyway, if the clouds will just hold their road until after the performance tonight, we'll be mighty glad to have 'em hang around. Particularly for the afternoon performance. There were really beginning to look like circus time out here this morning.

Like we're always saying, trouble like to be appreciated and be told about it and one of the nicest persons to say "think you" is Rev. David C. Ham. Whenever we do anything for him, he not only says thank you, but he writes it down and sends it to you. Billie Fay Pounds, of our staff, is beaming over such a letter because of a little effort she recently put out. Yes sir, all of us like that pat on the back.

Speaking of people that do nice things, did you know that Roy Dawn, manager of the Southern Ice Company, has been furnishing free crushed ice for the Teen Center this summer. When offered pay he refused, saying that he was interested in the Center and wanted to do something to help it along.

Voices fascinate us and one of the most pleasant heard recently is that of Mrs. Bill Hinman. She speaks with a decided Southern drawl being from Louisiana, and it's like music to listen to it.

Football season in Ranger opens tomorrow and already speculation over the teams is one of the principal topics of conversation. The opener will be between the Eastland Mavericks and the Bulldogs at Eastland Friday night and the Ranger Junior College Rangers play at Athens Saturday night. Several remarks heard recently have impressed us as being worth consideration.

One man said to us, "The town is to blame in a large measure for teams that don't win. Give 'em wholehearted support and see what it does." The man being an ex-football player probably knows what he's talking about. It's just plain human nature to try a little harder when you know the grandstand is rooting for you.

Then at a meeting the other night, a gentleman made a fine suggestion. He suggested that fans do their griping to the coaches and not to their backs. He thought a good time to do that would be at the Monday night meetings that the Quarterback Club will have during football season.

We've always said we'd hate to be a football coach. They get more cussing and discussing than most any other profession and every sideline knows better how to play the game than the coach and wants to tell him how to do it.

A little more pulling together and a little less criticism might be better psychology for the teams as well as the coaches.

Arena Section Designated For Colored People

It was announced today that a special section has been designated for the colored people at the performances of the Gainesville circus in Ranger today. The north end of the west side of the stadium will be set aside to accommodate the colored people and they will be asked to enter at the gate next to the chutes.

Mrs. Jester Receives Steuben Glass

Mrs. Beauford Jester receives for the people of Texas, "Texas Commemorative Pieces", from Mr. J. Beacham Tredennick, general manager of Steuben Glass, donors of the beautiful pieces. Presentation of the gift was made at the Fortieth Anniversary Fashion show held by Neiman-Marcus of Dallas. The glass piece will become a permanent part of the Governor's Mansion in Austin. QUININE PIONEER KNOWN BEST BY SCHOOL FUND

MARSHALL, Mo. (UP)—Thanks to a pioneer country doctor who made an unwanted fortune in proving a medical point, 12,613 Saline County boys and girls have received financial help toward education in the last 90 years.

Dr. Jehu Sappington was one of the outstanding physicians of his day. It was he who proved that quinine was the specific for malaria and whose pills helped open the West.

The old doctor was not seeking a fortune when he began compounding his quinine pills at his home at Arrow Rock, Mo., more than a century ago. He merely wanted to prove his point. Other doctors called him a quack.

Despite a book which he wrote describing how he made his pills, Dr. Sappington still made money. At his death in 1856, he left $40,000, half of which was set aside by will as a fund to be used in assisting worthy boys and girls of Saline County to obtain educations.

Each August the trustees of the fund meet to bring the totals up to date. The latest compilation shows that Dr. Sappington's $20,000 has grown to $84,700, of which $82,300 is invested in interest-bearing securities and $2,400 is in cash.

Tuition totaling $217,187.05 have been paid for 12,613 boys and girls.

Dr. Sappington not only was a leading doctor, surgeon and medical writer of his time but he also was a leading figure in Missouri life. Arrow Rock in his time was a citadel of culture on the frontier. He was related to the Marmadukes, a father and son of which family served as governors of Missouri.

While his proving of quinine as the specific for malaria was his great contribution, the $20,000 he left as a school fund has perpetuated his memory in his home county.

Preaching Matches Aid Chier's Crusade

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)—Omaha Fire Commissioner Joe Dolan is making a personal campaign to cut fire hazards in Nebraska's metropolitan city by use of "preaching" matches.

The match books Dolan distributes to retailers are covered with fire prevention slogans.

On the front of the book is a burning cigarette, a burning house and the message: "Put me out before you throw me away."

The top of the book is labeled, "Omaha Fire Dept.—Joe Dolan, Commissioner." Each match bears the label of the fire department.

Two fire prevention illustrations on the back cover show that a penny should not be placed in an electric socket and that rubbish should not be allowed to accumulate. Inside is a long editorial.

Governor Of Rotary Visits Ranger Club

District Governor J. F. McCulloch of Stamford was the guest of the Ranger Rotary Club Tuesday night and Wednesday and conducted a conference with officers and committee chairman at a dinner at the Gholson Hotel Tuesday night.

He was the speaker at the club meeting at noon Wednesday in the Gholson and brought a message to the club on the part of Rotary International can play in rehabilitating torn countries and restoring peace in the world.

"This," he said, "is the ear of the common man but what we need now is the uncommon man. We need to learn to live well and Rotary can help here by helping to preserve the boy in us."

He set forth four things that people need to have, faith in ourselves, faith in our fellowman, faith in our country and faith in the Supreme Maker.

The governor was introduced by E. A. Tunnell after a singing led by O. G. Lanier and a prayer by Rev. H. B. Johnson. Mrs. McCulloch who accompanied the governor on the trip, was introduced and expressed her thanks for the welcome given her and appreciation for the hospitality shown by the people in Ranger.

Other guests at the club were Alton Freeman of Seminole, A. L. Wood of Ranger and C. A. Deuschle of Cisco.

Jaycees Endorse Present Airport Improvement Plan

James P. Morris, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced today that the Jaycees have voted unanimous approval to all of the work that the senior Chamber of Commerce has done relative to getting the Ranger airport improved.

He stated that the Jaycees are 100 per cent back of the program and have tendered their services to the senior organization in helping to carry out the program.

"We are willing to do anything that they want us to do to help get this program over, and that

Formal Opening Of School Held On Wednesday

A program formally opening Ranger High School and Ranger Junior College was presented at the auditorium Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The program was opened with the assembly singing of America and the scripture reading by Dr. G. C. Boswell, superintendent of schools and president of the college.

The invocation was offered by Rev. H. B. Johnson after which miramba and acordion numbers were given by Joanne Jackson and Marilyn Jackson who played I Wonder, I Wonder and Peg O'My Heart.

Rosemary Bruce sang Somewhere Over a Rainbow and a jazz version of Jack and Jill. Announcements relative to the schools were made by G. B. Rush, principal of the high school and dean of the college after which Lilla Jean Brown, head of the fine arts department played Nightfall from the Roman Sketches by Griffie.

A large group of parents and other interested persons attended the program along with the students.

Chicago Conventions Attract 750,000

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago will play host to more than 750,000 convention guests during 1947 according to the city's convention bureau.

The city attracted only 522,000 convention guests last year. The bureau based its estimates on 3 super-conventions and several hundred smaller conventions scheduled for the last four months of the year.

A super-convention is one that attracts more than 1,000 out-of-town visitors. Largest of the super-conventions is the National Machine Tool Builders' convention, Sept. 16-26. The bureau estimates that more than 50,000 will attend.

He indicated that the Jaycees feel that the town is at a turning point in the road with one way leading forward and the other backward, and that to keep pace with an air age, the town must have a government approved airport.

"We believe that the program can be carried out under the present plans, a cooperative program of the government and city, and we're in favor of getting that federal aid while we can," he stated.

He further stated that the Jaycees felt that the Chamber of Commerce should be commended for the undertaking and the fine manner in which they have handled the program so far. "It's one of the most important programs that we've had before us in a long time and we want to see it carried out," he added.

Governor Sends Message On School Opening

Dr. G. C. Boswell stated today that through Governor Beauford Jester was unable to attend the opening of Ranger Junior College and High School, that he had sent a message of congratulations.

It had been hoped that the governor would be able to accept an invitation to the opening, following an invitation from Dr. Boswell.

Following is the telegram from the governor: Austin, Texas September 10, 1947. Dr. G. C. Boswell, Ranger Junior College and Public Schools. My congratulations to the City of Ranger on the formal opening of the Junior College and High School in Ranger and to the citizens of Ranger, its surrounding area, the members of the teaching staff and the students who will be benefited by having these institutions of higher learning located in Ranger. I regret that official duties prevent my being present for this opening.

Beauford H. Jester, Governor of Texas.

President May Have To Call Special Session

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Truman faced the unhappy prospect today of having to call a special session of Congress this fall to beg for an advance payment on the projected multi-billion dollar "Marshall plan" program.

Denied are reports that Undersecretary of State William L. Clayton in Paris has urgently called that $2,500,000,000 will be needed "on the cuff" before the end of the year. It eventually would be fitted into the overall long-range program which is now $20,000,000,000 over four years.

The president's secretary of state, George C. Marshall, who leaves tomorrow to continue his diplomatic war with Russia in New York, apparently has been convinced that there is no alternative to a special session. No other source of stop-gap aid is available except through new appropriations.

Last Rites For P. W. Squyres Held Thursday

Funeral services for Pearly W. Squyres were held today at 3:30 p. m. at the Church of God on the Strawn Highway, with Rev. H. B. Johnson and Mrs. W. M. Morris officiating. Interment was in the Ranger Pioneer Cemetery with Killingsworth Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Squyres, who died at his home at 500 South Oak Street Tuesday, September 9, 1947, had been a resident of Ranger for 29 years. He was born in Robertson County, Texas, January 26, 1870 and was married to Miss Florence Collins at Centerville on September 27, 1898. To this union were born eight children, all of whom survive and all of whom were here for the services.

Survivors are the wife, Mrs. P. W. Squyres of Ranger; the following sons and daughters, W. L. (Bill) Squyres, Homer Squyres, Riley Squyres, Nollie (Pank) Squyres, all of Ranger, Eugene Squyres of San Diego, California, Mrs. Lola Harrell of Ranger, Mrs. Opal Ferguson of Ranger, Mrs. Gertrude Buchanan of Seabrook, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Marable of Amarillo, and Mrs. Della Powers of Dallas, 15 grand children and four great grand children.

Pallbearers were Mal Hodges, Sig Faircloth, Calvin Brown, Walter Adams, Lowe Wallace, and A. L. Stiles.

WORKERS MAKING PLANS TO AVOID HIGH COSTS

CHICAGO—The price of hogs and wheat soared to new all-time highs on Chicago exchanges today, while in two other large cities CIO unions began a drive to combat spiralling food prices.

Good and choice hogs sold for $30.50 per hundred pounds at Chicago, the world's largest meat packing center. On the Chicago Board of Trade, September Wheat jumped to $2.84 a bushel, and December wheat sold for $2.87.

These were the highest prices ever paid for wheat for delivery in September and December. Corn and oats, however, failed to top yesterday's record prices.

Prime steers at the Chicago yards sold for $35.50 per hundred-weight, a new high for 1947. The previous high for the year for beefsteak on the hoof was $35.25, set yesterday.

At Detroit, locals of the CIO United Automobile Workers set up grocery stores in union halls to sell food to members at cost. A local representing Ford Motor Co. employees earlier this week bought $1,500 worth of canned goods and sold out the entire supply in a few hours.

Today, a local representing 16,000 workers at Briggs Manufacturing company authorized the expenditure of $10,000 to open a grocery store in the union hall. Union officials said the local would carry every thing but perishable foods. The groceries will be sold at cost by union officers serving as grocery clerks without pay.

At Toledo, O., the joint CIO council voted to begin mass picketing of food stores "to display the feelings of the American worker. No date was set, however, for the start of picketing. Pre-viously, housewives formed an organization known as "Housewives Inc." and began a "chain telephone" campaign to persuade their friends to boycott high priced foods.

UN Overrides Red Opposition LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission overrode virorous Russian opposition today and approved a report to the Security Council containing specific proposals for creating a global atomic control agency.

A vote on the report came after Russia and the United States had exchanged bitter charges of obstructionism and Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko had accused America of trying to "undermine" plans for an effective international control policy.

Only Russia voted against the plan. Poland abstained. The 10 other members, including Canada, Britain and the United States voted to forward the report to the council.

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A veteran Pittsburgh baseball writer was asked how Billy Herman was liked in the Smoky City in his first year as a manager.

"When you're losing nobody likes you," was the prompt reply. "That went for even Connie Mack in Philadelphia."

The main trouble with the Pirates is that they are overloaded with right-hand batmen. Right-hand pitchers are all they see, as long as the other club has one available.

Manager Herman points out that he couldn't play the running game he prefers with an almost total lack of speed.

The answer there is that he should not have attempted it. Slowness of foot made conservative managers out of such established field marshals as Billy Southworth of the Braves and make-'em-throw-you-out Eddie Dyer of the Cardinals.

HERMAN has repeatedly attempted the squeeze play without either the runner or the batter capable of executing it. Too many of them retired the side, more than once on double plays that pulled the opposition out of a hole.

The game must be fitted to the material.

With neither possessing anything remotely approaching respectable pitching, the Giants and Pirates have clubbed each other over the head all the way along the route.

This accounts for the Giants making a joke of home run records, the two outfits monopolizing the leadership in home runs and runs-batted-in with Mike Marshall and Cooper on the New York side, Kiner and Greenberg on the Pittsburgh.

The party has been made merrier, of course, by the cheap Chinese variety of home run at the Polo Grounds and Forbes Field's Greenberg Gardens.

In 19 games in Harlem and Pittsburgh, the Giants and Pirates manufactured 53 home runs, an average of 2.2. They made 296 hits, an average of 20 scored 237 runs, an average of 12.

Scorers have put in orders for computers.

Despite poor pitching, it is a sad commentary on the Giants that they gave up when only six games out of first place.

The Cardinals made a fresh run for it when they were 10 games back, and they haven't drawn anything like 1,369,000 paid admissions at home, which is a new Polo Grounds record with some games to go.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington club calls Lou Boudreau of the Indians the best shortstop he has ever seen.

"You mean you think Boudreau is the finest player today," suggested the interviewer.

"No," the all-time pitching great replied. "Boudreau is the best shortstop I have ever seen, and that includes Honus Wagner."

"There is nothing in the infield he doesn't do well, and look at that batting average."

Griffith, among countless other things, told his son-in-law, Joe Cronin, also quite a shortstop, for $250,000 and Lyn Lary.

Certainly, Old Fox Griffith's expert appraisal further stamps Lou Boudreau as the American League's Mr. Shortstop.

Girl Scouts Proud To Have Ship

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal (UP)—Pacific Grove Girl Scout mariners bragged today that they were the first "ship" in the country to own their own training craft—a surplus Navy LCPR (Landing craft personnel ramp). The 13 members of the group acquired their 36-foot motor vessel under a federal ruling granting surplus goods to Boy Scouts after Rep. E. K. Bramblett (R., Cal.) succeeded in getting the law changed to include sea-going Girl Scouts. The girls have named the LCPR "The Pegasus" and their fathers are designing a cabin for it. Then they will get instruction from the Monterey Coast Guard and put to sea—at least out into Monterey Bay.

His ball-carrying days ended by wounds suffered in the invasion of Iwo Jima. Dorr became a place-kicking specialist, converted 19 times in 26 chances last fall.

British Songs Will Rise Or Fall On Own Merits Now

By Robert Muzil
United Press Staff Correspondent
LONDON (UP)—Britain's music publishers have agreed to stop payment of all plug money to singers and musicians who broadcast popular music—and let the hits fall where they may.

By now it must be no secret anywhere that the time you whistle or hum or the words you sing didn't get into your ears by chance. The music publishers forced it in by getting the same played over and over again on the radio.

It takes a dozen good listens before the average man or woman grasps a new song to the point where he or she might go out and buy a copy or record of it.

This is fundamental principle of the popular music business. It was realized way back in 1792 when the first real popular song was heading the British hit parade of the time, "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

The publishers used to hire people to sing it in taverns and on street corners. By the middle 1850's plug money in Britain had approached the point where important singers were getting slices of the royalty on songs.

the plug money custom and the music publishers were ordered to find a way of eliminating it.

In secret meetings they agreed to cut out all payments direct or indirect to bandleaders, singers and musicians. Their plan is awaiting approval by the BEC.

Since plug money is paid in the United States and France and every other country where popular music is big business, the British experiment will be carefully watched. Some publishers contend it marks the end of their business.

"The public doesn't know a good song unless you hammer it into their heads," said one publisher. "If we can't get a song played several times a day, the public just won't know there are any new tunes and will keep on buying the old ones, if anything."

"For that matter," he added sadly, "a good many bandleaders are the same way. Without financial incentive, they'll go on playing 'Stardust' and 'Time on My Hands' forever and ever."

and fiscal issues," the article said. "Cost is a significant item in these considerations, but not the only item. Progress is correcting this situation has been materially retarded during the war period and in the present high level costs of labor and materials in the post-war period.

"Administrative attack on the problem, however, continues at a high level and it may be anticipated that the next 10 years will see billions of dollars expended in the correcting the situation."

Treated Sewage Cuts Disease

CHICAGO (UP)—Waterborne diseases in the United States are at the lowest point in history, as the result of the combined efforts of engineers and medical officials for the last 50 years, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A medical consultant, replying to a query from a physician, said the sewage of more than 50 per cent of the U. S. urban population now is treated before it is dumped into surface waters.

"The practice of discharging raw sewage has been continued not only because of the cost involved but because of a variety of complex legal, administrative

The Lost Year
 There are some things in this life that, once lost, can never be regained. The richness that could have been can never be. "The saddest words of tongue or pen . . . the saddest of these, it might have been" . . . Are there any might have been in your life?
 I lost a year once . . . a year that I can never regain. The one friendship of my life that has been a completely golden one . . . that has and will always mean more to me than any other friendship. . . started one year too late.
 Does that sound strange to you? Not if you have any lost years, and I'll wager that you do.
 For one year, I lived across the street from the friendship that later marked the turning point of my life . . . careless is the point of neglect of the opportunities it contained. Had I known the great loss . . . the irreparable loss . . .

Fomaus Old Plane Goes To State Fair

OAKLAND, Cal. (UP)—The famous old Diamond airplane, the first to fly over the city of Oakland and winner of an international aviation meet in 1912, has been loaned by Oakland municipal airport for exhibition at the California State Fair at Sacramento.

The airplane was built at Pittsburg, Cal., during the fall of 1910. The builders were Capt. L. B. Maupin and Bernard F. Lanteri. They had watched Glenn Curtiss fly at Tangorran, near San Francisco, in 1909, and jotted down a few notes about his plane on the back of an envelope.

Using these notes as a guide, they built their own plane and it flew on its first trial. Lanteri was the first pilot.

Later, Weldon Bagster Cooke,

Snappy Clean-Up

Oakland's pioneer aviator, flew the Diamond at a series of barnstorming air shows. Competing with professional flyers and professionally built planes, Cooke won first place and $7,000 in the Los Angeles 1912 International Aviation Meet.

The plane was presented to Oakland airport in 1933 by Maupin and Lanteri's widow.

Stuffed Owls Free City of Starlings

DECATUR, Ill. (UP)—The mere hint of a hoot has rid this city of a pest.

Joseph R. Swisher, city pest officer, and James A. Soules, food inspector, were beset with numerous complaints about hordes of starlings that roosted on building ledges, telephone wires and trees.

OIL CITY PHARMACY

The officials, finding that starlings fear owls, placed stuffed owls on rooftops throughout the city. The owls did the trick, but they couldn't stand the rigors of Illinois weather.

So 16 owls cast of aluminum and covered with wool rayon "flock" were substituted.

So successful has been the project, according to the two officers, that only three or four starlings have been observed in the downtown section of the city since.

Under The Dome At Austin

AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—Prison troubles are in the limelight again in Texas.

No definite cycle has yet been established to predict just when the prison system will get a new airing, but like Old Faithful geyser, it can be counted upon for frequent display.

One of the earliest exposures came in the pioneer days of building railroads into logging camps. In those days the state leased its convicts at so much a day to contractors.

Conditions under which these convicts were kept at some places caused such a storm of protest that leasing of prisoners was forbidden.

The "prison system" consists of the main institution at Huntsville and various prison farms. Among convicts, the Huntsville prison is known as "the walls."

Principal complaint at this time seems to be about conditions at the farms. Peculiarly enough, Texas does not use its prison farms as a place to reward prisoners for good behavior, by letting them get away from the "walls." On the contrary, some of the farms are used for segregation of the most hardened and dangerous convicts. Most self-maimings by convicts are to prevent being sent to the fields to work.

Many surveys have been made, many committees have filed reports. Many reforms have been planned. Some of them have been started and some completed, but Texas' prison system "is worst in 20 years" in the view of Austin

McCormick of the Osborne Association—a statement prison board members vigorously deny.

One member of a group of senators and representatives who inspected prison farms during the last session of the Legislature was a former prisoner of war. He said conditions existed in The Texas prison system farm worse than in Jap or Nazi prison camps.

Former Gov. James E. Ferguson took what was perhaps the most realistic view of the prison system. When he became governor in 1915, the state penitentiary system had shown a steady and heavy financial loss for many years.

A practical farmer, himself, Ferguson just couldn't understand why prison farming on good lands could not be made to pay for itself when it had free labor, no taxes, and equipment furnished.

No Ferguson did just what Gov. Beauford H. Jester has announced he intends to do. Ferguson went unannounced to prison farms and investigated himself. As Ferguson told it himself, he drove one day to a convict farm where about 500 prisoners were kept. He ordered all guards and officials kept out of the mess hall at noon and walked in among the prisoners. He walked quickly to the end of one of the tables, picked up what he called a "flour biscuit," held it up and breaking it open asked if that was the kind of bread served regularly.

"No, sometimes the biscuits are so hard you could knock a steer down with one of them," said a convict.

Ferguson poured some molasses on the biscuit.

"Do you get this kind of molasses all the time?"

"Hell no. Sometimes we get plain blackstrap."

Ferguson next picked up some meat. "You get this kind of meat all the time?"

"Not by a damn sight," was the answer.

With guards excluded, Ferguson pleaded the prisoners that what they told him would never reach a guard's ears unless some one besides the Governor disclosed it. "And if any prisoner tells, he will have a hard time getting a pardon from me," Ferguson added. He heard their tales.

Then he made this proposition. "If you will become a good prisoner and go to work chopping more wood, picking more cotton, and hoeing more corn, without political help or influence you can take that old axe and old hoe and chop your way to freedom."

The offer was made to all prisoners who had sentences of seven years or less to serve, and the release was to come when half the seven years was finished.

For a time there was a boom in prison work. There were good cotton years to help, and the prisoners were self-sustaining. Then they went back into the doldrums.

When Dan Moody became Governor he became especially impressed by complaints of practices being carried on among prisoners and the mixing of old and young convicts. He thought the convict labor could be utilized to better advantage than in cotton farming with its seasonal risks and the frequent flooding of the best cotton producing lands of the prison system. Moody decided the convicts could do better growing food and making needed supplies for the state eleemosynary institutions. To facilitate this he advocated abandonment of most of the old system and creation of a modern prison system near Austin. A committee of Representatives and Senators studied the program and endorsed it, but the bill to carry out the plan was defeated.

Former Gov. Ross S. Sterling once studied the feasibility of using state convict labor in state highway construction. It was decided the cost of guarding the workers would be more than hired labor.

Prison punishments are another source of controversy every so often.

Former Gov. O. P. Colquitt probably owed his first election to the governor's office to a bloody bull whip which swung on the campaign stump, promising its abolishment from Texas prisons if he were elected.

An act was passed barring the bull whip and regulating physical punishment. It limited the length and thickness of a strap that might be used, designated the particular part of the body to which it should be applied and limited the number of strokes. Presence of a physician was required when a whipping took place.

A later legislature tried to abolish all physical punishment but members of the prison board at the time, persuaded the majority of the solons that a law summarily cutting off whipping would result in prisoners getting entirely out of control. In lieu of that they promised board steps to stop whipping.

Recent forward steps reported in the risons include some headway in taking groups of prisoners out of "tanks" and placing them in separate cells at night. At one farm 140 cells are about ready and it will have 600 in all.

Several new board members have been named recently, and with the old members met with Governor Jester. He called on them for suggestions to improve the prison system promptly—not a long range plan but things that can be done at once.

Hi-Lite Neon Service Shop Is Opened Here

Elmer E. Cobb and Dan Walters have announced the opening of the Hi-Lite Neon Sign Service at 313 Walnut Street.

The shop is prepared to manufacture the neon signs and all of the connections. The shop is already in operation and will give 24 hour service on repairs and re-placements.

The owners of the shop until recently had a similar shop in Breckenridge and prior to that had operated in Dallas.

Skyscraper May Change Rome

ROME (UP)—Modern skyscrapers may soon grace the seven hills of ancient Rome.

Umberto Tupini, minister of public works, has created a special commission to draw up plans for reconstructing and enlarging several existing hotels, and some may have several stories added.

Tupini said most of the hotels were located in the modern quarter of the city, and the new skyline would not damage the setting of ancient monuments.

Inflation Picture

This Shanghai miss holds in her hands an example of the tremendous monetary inflation in China, where it takes a basket of banknotes to buy a basket of groceries. Bundle of money at left (about $440,000 Chinese) equals $10 in U. S. currency.

U. S. Highway 64, follows the Cherokee "Trail of Tears," made by the exiles from Georgia, and Tennessee from 1819 to 1839 for 40 miles from the Arkansas line to Gore, Okla.

Minnesota's iron ranges are expected to produce 63,000,000 tons of ore this year, largest production in the nation.

Big engines... long trains mean lower cost to you!

But union leaders want "half-trains" - double crews!

Big locomotives are built to do a big job in the big country which is America—a big job in peacetime as in wartime. They are built to pull long trains.

Long freight trains can handle more goods at less cost—to you—than short trains.

Long trains mean fewer trains—fewer chances for accidents—fewer interruptions to traffic.

But a few railroad union leaders oppose long trains—among their current 44 demands for changes in rules is one limiting the length of freight trains to 57 average cars. Why do they demand this?

For "safety," they say. But is it? Government figures show definitely that long trains mean greater safety to railroad employees and public alike.

Then, if safety is not the real reason—what is the reason behind this demand? It is to make more jobs which are not needed—to get more pay! This "made work" would be sheer waste. Think of big, modern locomotives using only half their power.

For this waste, you—the public—would have to pay. Higher costs mean a lower standard of living for everybody. Nobody wants that!

Here's the record...

In the quarter century...1921-1946...

Average length of freight trains has gone up...	39 ⁰ / ₁₀
Average speed of freight trains has gone up...	39 ⁰ / ₁₀
The rate of injuries to railroad employes has gone down...	60 ⁰ / ₁₀
Average wages paid railroad workers have gone up...	84 ⁰ / ₁₀
Price of railroad materials and supplies has gone up...	58 ⁰ / ₁₀
Railroad taxes have gone up...	76 ⁰ / ₁₀
But the average charge by railroads for hauling a ton of freight one mile has gone down...	23%
