SCHOOL TEST URGED TO EQUIP YOUNG FOR LIFE

By Ben Galloh
United Press Staff Correspondent
DETROIT (UP)—The vast majority of young people are failing completely to acquire the information they need about themselves to make a wise choice of their life work, according to a Detroit expert.

Richard Drescher, administrative assistant in the guidance and placement department of the Detroit Board of Education, says that only two out of 45 young persons of high school age in Detroit—less than five per cent—take advantage of the department's testing service.

Since few school systems elsewhere provide similar free service, Drescher said, he was fairly certain the situation was no better, and probably worse, in the rest of the nation.

"Nobody in the testing field argues that the system of vocational testing is an infantile guide," Drescher said, "but there isn't much doubt that it is a good deal better than choosing an occupation just because it is the smart thing to do or because a good friend of yours has chosen it."

Drescher said the problem was the result only partly of general public ignorance of the wide variety of modern testing techniques. The tests given an applicant by the department cover four general fields: Achievement, intelligence, interests and mechanical culture, mathematics, literary comprehension, science, social problems, vocabulary, manual dexterity, various intelligence measurements, personality and others.

Says Freshmen Getting Smarter

ABILENE, Tex. (UP)—Whether Dr. Hoyt Ford's statement that freshmen at Hardin-Simmons University are getting smarter is a compliment to be seen.

Dr. Ford said the mean entering HSU this year averaged 107.59 in comparison with 106.87 registered in 1945, after the results of freshmen intelligence and English placement tests were given recently.

Girls averaged 107.6 in comparison to the boys' 107.5, while the veterans' average of 113.8 compared to non-veteran scores of 108.

Due to the shortage of work clothes, many women miners in Senftenberg, in the Russian zone of Germany, work barefooted. Women must dig and haul the coal because most of the men in the area were recruited by the Russians for work in nearby uranium mines.

POULTRYLESS THURSDAYS BEING STUDIED

WASHINGTON—President Truman's food committee is "actively considering" janking poultryless Thursdays and is expected to reach a definite decision Monday it was learned today.

Sources close to the committee said the outcome will hinge on whether the nation's poultry growers and feed manufacturers are willing to cut down on the use of corn and wheat in poultry feed and substitute other grains.

If they are, it was said, the committee might be willing to erase chickenless and eggless days from its program for saving an additional 100,000,000 bushels of grain for western Europe during the next three months.

Mr. Truman's food managers declined to comment on the report. But one of them pointed out that the committee "isn't wedded to the idea of poultryless Thursdays just for the sake of having them."

Meeting with Luckman Monday will be representatives of both the poultry and feed grain industries. The feed people were called in after a series of meetings with the poultrymen broke up with out agreement.

The poultryless phase of the program has received more criticism than any other. Poultrymen charge that it defeats its own purpose—reducing consumer demand for chickens and forcing farmers to keep and feed them.

Attorneys To Push Insanity Plea In Trial

LA GRANGE, Tex.—Defense attorneys for Dr. Lloyd I. Ross planned today to continue their efforts to prove he was insane when he allegedly killed his friend and broker, Willard York, and three members of York's family, May 25, near New Braunfels, Texas.

They had already had called 15 witnesses in a single day to prove that Ross' sanity gave way when he found "he had lost every penny he had saved in eight years through a friend he had trusted."

The witness pictured him as a fine surgeon who suddenly lost interest in his personal appearance and lost the meticulous attention to detail he formerly displayed in the operating room.

Nine of the witnesses called by the defense were women, mostly patients of Ross. His attorneys said that Ross himself would not be called to the stand.

Ross is being tried specifically for the murder of Mrs. Gertrude York, wife of the slain broker. The prosecution, which rested its case yesterday, called witnesses to testify that Ross ambushed the York family while they were on their way to church and killed York, his wife, their son John, 9, and York's mother, Mrs. Mary York, 67, with an automatic rifle.

Organization Of New Firm Is Announced

Announcement has been made of the organization of a sash and door manufacturing firm in Ranger and it is expected that the plant will be in operation by November 1.

C. C. McKeever and Harlan Phillips have organized the firm and will operate it. They expect to make window frames and sashes, doors, door frames, screen doors and moldings.

All machinery for the plant has been secured and lumber for the work contracted. Negotiations are now under way for a building in which to house the new business.

C. C. Directors To Meet Monday Night At 7:30

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday night at 7:30 o'clock instead of Tuesday night because of a conflict.

At the meeting David D. Pickrell, Ranger's director to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will discuss the issues that will be voted upon at the general assembly in November in Abilene. He has asked that all Ranger firms that are members of the WTCC have representatives at the directors meeting Monday night.

Develop New Psychological Examinations

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—A new way to give psychological examinations to children has been developed by the Mental Hygiene Clinic in Fort Worth.

Psychiatrists, along with other professional men and women from private and U. S. public health service hospitals, are examining the children at play instead of close observation under a strain or test.

The volunteer workers operate the clinic every Monday, but due to a shortage of funds and equipment, they have had to appeal to the public for help.

School Bus Available For Trip To Concert

It has been pointed out that if the demand is sufficient that a school bus will be furnished to take students or others to the Eastland County Community Concert Association's concert Monday night in Eastland.

It was pointed out that in order to do this that a fee of 25 cents will have to be charged to pay the driver and that the passenger list will have to be sufficient to do this. The bus will accommodate 80 people and those that would like to make the trip this way are asked to call 11 before 4 o'clock Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Alvis Wood is attempting to get tickets for members of her Girl Scout troops and if there are those who will not be using their membership cards, if they will call Mrs. Wood she will call for the cards.

This service will be provided for each of the concerts if the demand is sufficient to warrant it.

WOULD OUST MILITARY PERSONNEL BY JAN. 1

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—Poland appealed today to the full General Assembly of the United Nations to oust Anglo-American military personnel from Greece by Jan. 1.

The Polish proposal set the stage for a new and bitter east-west battle when the assembly meets in full-dress session Monday to take final action in the Balkan's dispute.

The Polish move appeared doomed from the outset. It meant however, that Russia and its supporters have decided to fight every inch of the way against final approval of the American-inspired program for sending a semi-permanent "watchdog" commission to the Balkans to protect Greece from alleged interference by Albania and Yugoslavia.

The six Soviet block countries of the UN as well as Bulgaria and Albania, non-members, have announced they would boycott the commission.

The two or three-day plenary meeting of the assembly also must try to break the long standing deadlock over Poland's successor in the Security Council.

At last report, several Latin American countries were considering switching their votes from the Ukraine, which they agreed to support in return for Soviet support of Argentina for the council, to India, the candidate backed by the western powers.

They apparently had not decided to break or keep the pledge to Russia's Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky.

The Polish proposal for a reversal of the political committee decision on Greece was a last-ditch effort to remove the implication of guilt from Albania, Bulgaria, and Yugoslavia.

Brazil To Break With Russia

RIO DE JANEIRO—Unofficial sources said today that the government had decided to break relations with Russia and it would be announced officially in a few hours.

Earlier it was said that the break would come as soon as Brazil received formal notice that Russia had refused to give full satisfaction for Soviet newspaper insults to President Eurico Gaspar Dutra.

Unofficial reports said the Kremlin had not even answered the protest, delivered by the Brazilian embassy in Moscow, but had returned it. Russian newspapers, which Brazil considers to be controlled by the government, said Dutra was subservient to the United States.

Music Critics Say Margaret Needs Training

PITTSBURGH—Music critics agreed today that Margaret Truman, who charmed an audience of 3,600 with her first song recital last night, still had a long road to travel before realizing her ambition to sing in opera.

The critics were not harsh. Rather, they conceded reluctantly that the young, blond daughter of the President needed more and better training.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—With the Chief of Staff's report on abuses of rank in Lieut.-Gen. John C. M. Lee's Italian theater command due any day now, the Army has made available a progress checkup on what it has done to carry out the democratic reforms recommended by the Doolittle Board.

During the war, there were many loud complaints about Army brass and its lack of democracy. The Doolittle Board was created by Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson in March, 1946, to investigate these gripes and recommend what might be done about them to improve the relationship between officers and enlisted men, so as to make a better Army.

The board was made up of two generals, a lieutenant colonel, a captain and two sergeants. None was a West Pointer. All had been from the ranks, and all had been discharged from the Army after service in World War II. Chairman was Lieut.-Gen. Jimmy Doolittle of raid-on-Tokyo and Eighth Air Force fame. The board got over 1650 letters of complaint, and it heard from 42 witnesses. Its report, with 15 major recommendations, was made May 27, 1946. Today the Army can report back on progress it has made in carrying out the suggested reforms.

MIND you, these are orders issued from the Pentagon headquarters. They are in no way a checkup on how these orders have been carried out. In the field, as in the General Lee case uncovered by columnist Bob Rosen, it may be found that not enough attention has been paid to such things. It would be interesting to hear.

Perhaps the most important of all Doolittle Board recommendations called for definite equality of treatment for all ranks in the administration of military justice.

One bill now before Congress has a large bearing on this reform. Congress never got around to acting on it last session, but, if made into law, this bill would revise the courts-martial system to provide better means for enlisted personnel, and to permit enlisted men to sit on general and special courts. Complete modernization of the Army's Articles of War, its criminal code, is also called for.

Pending passage of this bill, Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall last month issued orders to all officers to give personal attention to the improvement of military justice.

On the matter of improving leadership, the Army says it has revised efficiency reports and qualification cards to get a better selection of officers.

The last session of Congress passed a new law changing the system of promotion for Army officers, putting it on a merit basis.

THE Doolittle Board recommended that Army men needed more security in their jobs. First step to fix that was a pay raise ranging from 3 1/2 per cent for enlisted personnel to 10 per cent for generals. Congress gave enlisted men the same terminal leave pay as officers.

Once recommendation that military personnel off duty be allowed to pursue a more social and democratic way of life, the Army can report only that it provides clubs for officers, non-coms and enlisted men at Army posts. Signs, such as "Officers and Their Ladies," or "Enlisted Men and Their Wives," have, however, been dropped.

A fairer distribution of awards was recommended. A joint Army-Navy-Air Force board is now reviewing the entire system of military decorations. Last June, the Army ordered the Bronze Star medal be given all soldiers cited in orders or given service badges in the war.

Demand for improving the system of making complaints was met by General Eisenhower's order that every enlisted man be given opportunity to present grievances at least once a month. In the Italian theater at least, this system apparently did no good.

The uniform of officers and enlisted men will be made the same, except for insignia, by July 1, 1948.

But on Doolittle's recommendation that the terms "officer" and "enlisted man" be dropped, and that Army personnel of all ranks be referred to as "soldiers," the Army has issued a flat "No!"

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Branch Rickey is the same old salesman doing business at a comparatively new stand—Brooklyn, to which he transplanted the balance of National League power from St. Louis in three short years.

President Rickey has peddled $100,000 worth of ball players this year while winning and establishing a new attendance record at Ebbets Field.

Kirby Higbe, Hank Behrman, Dixie Howell and Gene Mauch went to the Pirates for $60,000 and Al Glavin.

Outfielder Tom Tatum was sold to the Reds for $50,000. He is a fair hitter and fast, but can't throw well enough.

Catcher Augie Galan moved to the Red Sox for $35,000 and Ed Houser. Galan is getting along in years. The veteran Houser's pitching helped the Dodgers' branch in Montreal.

FIRST baseman Stretch Schultz was grabbed by the Phillies for $30,000. He's a sucker for a curve and winter basketball takes too much out of his rather frail frame.

There were others, of course, but why go farther? Rickey could have done much better but he refused to deal with the Braves. He never strengthens a contender.

Higbe was over the hill, had lost his stuff, was erratic. Behrman was returned to the Braves as being of no use to the Pittsburgh club. Maestra Rickey refused $25,000, but it was a cheap exchange. Right-hander Behrman was of more than considerable use to the Cubs as a relief worker right through the World Series. Good catch, no hit describes catcher Howell. Infielder Mauch was farmed out. When Giomfrido, the little left-handed, outfielder, was included in the transaction, it was wise-cracked that he was sent to Flat-bush as a messenger boy bringing the money.

"Giomfrido, Al—25, 5-6, 195 (L.) Speed merchant, often used as pinch runner and scored it several minutes later as Cookie Lavagetto made the only hit off Bill Bevens to win the fourth game of the World Series in the ninth.

And it was Al Giomfrido who saved the sixth game by turning his back to the plate, spinning far back, turning and leaning to pull down with one hand Joe Di-Maggio's tremendous drive to the 415-foot mark with two men on.

It used to be that ballplayers never died on the Cardinals, who got them while they were very much alive.

That can now be said about the Dodger, for the smartest man in baseball is at their head.

DOCTOR WOODWARD'S AMBITION

think so, too, Nancy. Woodward won't spoil things. I've told him to stay away from my home, and I'll see that he does so.
HE set the phone down, his face grim. He strode down the hall again to Woodward's office, not sure that he had made his order firm enough to restrain "that man." Miss Dyson said Dr. Woodward was in Dr. McAn's office. She grinned. "You can hear 'em, Doctor."
Malcolm nodded. "So you can," he said softly. He went to Pop's suite, opened the door, stepped within it, not attracting the notice of the angry man in the wheel chair, nor the tall, red-headed doctor who stood like a schoolboy before him. Pop was roaring like a bull, his face suffused.

fect, your sort isn't needed in any hospital I ever saw, and I've seen my share of 'em. Hal! Snoring. Pop fumbled for a tissue. The box dropped from the table, and Malcolm sprang to retrieve it. Pop looked at him, his old eyes tired. "Take over, will you, son?" he said wearily.
"I'll be glad to, sir! Though I think your temper has overcome your judgment." Malcolm turned to Woodward, his face stern. "The Hospital does need Woodward, Pop, so I'm not in favor of firing him. A pediatrician, a good one, is not easily come by."
"You can't work with a man like him!"
"I can work with him," Malcolm said tightly. "And I can see that he works." He glanced briefly into Andrew's bleak eyes. "I am sure Dr. Woodward agrees with me."
"But Malcolm," Pop fretted, "he—"
"You can't tell me one thing about what he is, or what he's done! I know, and Woodward knows that I do. That point is very important. It's the best drama from his gun. Besides—" His glance focused sharply upon the troubled face of Andrew Woodward. "I think the situation here in the Lair, and Dr. Woodward's position, is going to be—changed under the new set-up."
"Little eyes bright."
"Malcolm was standing very erect; his voice rang with conviction. "Dr. Woodward is to blame, really, for the improvement. His contribution may have been involuntary, but it was he who brought us Dr. Gregor, and certainly he was the one to improve my vision."
"So you want to keep him on, out of gratitude?" Pop asked softly.
Malcolm laughed. "Well, perhaps not gratitude. But I want to keep him here."
"Serve him right," Pop mumbled. Then he glanced sharply at Andrew. "You heard what Dr. Glenn said?" He asked meaningfully. "And don't be coming to me with your complaints. From now on, Malcolm's the head man in this Hospital!"

The Freshman class met last Wednesday and was called to order by Wayne Royce, president. The school song was discussed but no decision was reached. We will appreciate suggestions from one and all.

Plans were made for a Halloween Party to be held November 7. A program committee headed by Leonard Boyd and including Mary Meroney, Barbara Stewart, Clifford Floyd and B. Yung was named by Royce. The committee decided on a masquerade party. Everyone come dressed as their

The Masquers Club held try-outs for the applicants for membership to their club last Monday night. The club now has its full quota of members and is ready to start off the new year. The purpose of the club is to study, write, produce, and act plays. The club promises to be very interesting and great things can be expected of it. A meeting has been called for next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock in the little auditorium. It is important that all members be present. Miss Jo Oyler is the club sponsor.

The International Club, presided over by Leland Howard, Pres., met last Friday morning and several special committees were named. A meeting was called for Monday night 7 o'clock in Room 1 at the college. The subject for discussion will be the United Nations and the problems it has to contend with. All members are

VETS DEVISE PLANS TO PAY THEIR OWN WAY

DAYTON, O. (UP) — Time was that a man worked his way through college by washing dishes, waiting on table selling magazine subscriptions or doing other odd jobs.

The modern GI is changing that. He can use his war-time experiences as a background for more mature ventures.

Robert A. Harris is busy developing a unique sideline to supplement his monthly education check from the government. He and Narciso G. Santos of Manila, although separated by 9,000 miles, are business partners in the Manila-York Co., importers of fine oriental gift merchandise. Harris, a former AAF captain, and Santos, a former lieutenant in the Philippine Air Force, both were pilot-weather officers in the 15th weather squadron in Manila. They conceived the idea of carrying their war-time friendship into a postwar importing venture.

"Actually," said Harris, "I got the idea for the business after buying my wife some souvenirs from the Orient. She was so pleased and thrilled with them, that I figured others in the States would like them, too."

Harris' only outlet to date is a jewelry store in the college town of Hamilton, N. Y., where the former captain is a junior at Colgate University. But he is looking for new markets.

Santos, an official of commercial airlines in the Philippines, obtains the gift merchandise during his Oriental travels and ships them to Harris.

Food Program, Women Have Bakers In A Quandry

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—The president's food program plus the housewife's temperament have the baker's here in a quandary.

Fort Worth bakers claim that Tarrant county hogs daily dine on good, fresh bread that would gladden the hearts of many a starving European or Asiatic.

The reason for all this waste, claim the bakers, is that it is impossible to guess when the housewife will decide to buy bread. If a sectional temperament strikes the ladies of the homes, out goes today's bread, for it can't be sold after it becomes slightly hard.

Deafened People May Now Hear Clearly

Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music, and friendly companionship. Accepted by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association. This device does not require separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weight you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 5 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill. are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny.  you not only buy the land and all that's attached to it above and below, but some kind of a title—good or bad. You Can Drive It or Fly It

This isn't the latest thing in motor cars. It's the "cabin" of an "airphibian," combination automobile and airplane invented by Robert Fulton, Jr., direct descendant of his namesake of steamboat fame. Above, the tiny car, which travels up to 45 mph on the highway, moves along an airport runway in Washington. When propeller, wings, and rear fuselage are added, it takes to the air with a cruising speed of 110 mph.

Garden Lore

By Ethel Brooks Gilmore

In 1521 a romantic book was written in Madrid. The story was entitled, "The Exploits of the Very Valiant Knight Esplandian, Son of the Excellent King Amador of Gaul. Chapter 157 is an account of a so called "Island of California" it tells of the beauty of the flora and fauna, and describes it as, "close to a terrestrial paradise". In this chapter the golden poppy is named the "Copadiora", meaning the cups of gold. Spanish explorers who followed must have reached the shores of California during the blooming season of the poppies, for they named the coast "The land of Fire", sacred to San Pascual, saying "His altar cloth is spread on the hills. It is to be presumed that the gold and red poppies were in bloom on the hillsides.

From India comes this strange, but fascinating legend of the purple and white, opium poppy. Many years ago there lived a king who, while hunting one day with his courtiers in a forest, met a beautiful girl with whom he fell in love. In reply to his questions, she told him that her name was Postimani, that she was the daughter of a prince killed in battle. She had been found and adopted by a magician.

The King married her amid great rejoicing, and they lived very happily, until one day, while standing beside a well, she became giddy, and, falling backward was drowned. So stricken with grief was the King, that his life was despaired of until the arrival of the magician, who craving audience with the King, confessed that Postimani had deceived him. In reality she had been a pet mouse and, becoming dissatisfied with her form, had prevailed upon the magician to change her to turn to a cat, a dog, a monkey, and finally a beautiful woman.

The King in fury, forbade her name ever to be mentioned, and ordered the well to be filled in. Later there grew on the site great masses of the purple and white opium poppy, whose mysterious seeds give to those who taste them the strange qualities of Postimani's many forms. Before planting poppy seed the ground should be finely worked and planting should be very shallow. The seeds can be planted in the fall or in February.

Heartsease

by Elsie Glenn

Gotta Farm To Give Away? Will someone please explain to me?

Why do I want to live on a farm? Never in my life have I lived in the country. I'm afraid of cows. The few times I've been on a horse I've been miserable. I think chickens smell awful and as for pigs... I cannot bear them unless they be in the form of pork chops.

Frankly, I can't imagine myself occupying an outdoor privy! I think fireplaces and glowing logs are lovely things... in town... if someone else has carried the wood.

I can't understand it. Every Spring and every Fall, I want to live in the country. Is it my ancestral urgings to go dig in the dirt? I'm afraid of worms when I dig in the dirt.

If you have an old, abandoned farm you don't want, kindly lead me to it. Shut the door in my face and listen to my howling. Heavens!! What was that? Large, brown, horseeyes staring through the window! Help!

I want to go back to town.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE "Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 19.

The Golden Text is: "The preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved it is the power of God" (1 Corinthians 1:18).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "It is possible,—yes, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man, and woman,—to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of truth and Life, of health and holiness" (page 37).

How Not to Fall on a Football

TEACHING JAPANESE CROWN PRINCE, FUN, AMERICAN FINDS

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Gray Vining, returning from a year's tutoring of Crown Prince Akihito, Japan's heir to the throne, thinks highly of her pupil. She considers him a "very promising boy, intelligent, responsible, friendly and honest."

Mrs. Vining says she feels the prince will acquire a closer sympathy for western democracy as he learns English. She adds that although she teaches him only the language, there are other ways of getting the point across too.

Crown Prince Akihito one day will succeed his father, Emperor Hirohito, as ruler of more than 78,000,000 Japanese.

Mrs. Vining thinks her new post "is the grandest thing that ever happened to me." She receives a salary equivalent to about $2,000 a year, is provided with a western style home, an automobile both American army and native food, and in addition, has a secretary.

Besides tutoring the prince three hours a week, she gives English lessons to the prince's mother, to his younger brother and three sisters, and instructs at the peers' and peeresses' schools. More than 130 Japanese children are receiving instruction from her.

Mrs. Vining believes that the "firm and wise" education policies of the occupation may lead Japanese children to a more liberal and democratic education than they have ever known.

She said that the years of compulsory education have been increased from six to nine and that new textbooks have replaced many older ones, all approved by Gen. MacArthur's headquarters.

Further, she says, girls are for the first time receiving equal educational benefits with boys, a step which is emphasized this year by the opening of the first women's four-year colleges.

And, says Mrs. Vining "teaching the Japanese has been fun—they are eager, friendly and intelligent. There has been no self pity, and all-in-all the Nippons have been a cheerful lot."

Salt and pepper shakers which, according to The American Magazine, are said to be so clog-proof that they actually pour under water, have been manufactured.

Britain Going After Trade For Watchmaking

LONDON (UP)—Britain has opened its first national college of horology in an effort to regain prominence in an art which the country lost a century ago to Switzerland, Germany and America.

The school of horology—the art of making clocks and watches—will train executives and designers in a three-year preliminary course, a two-year advanced class and a post-graduate course designed to put British clock-making back into the export trade.

"We are starting from scratch in competition with many old-established colleges in Switzerland and elsewhere," a ministry of education official said. "We have the most up-to-date equipment, much of it Swiss made."

Canadian Cougars Invading U. S.

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UP)—Grab your guns, cougar hunters, and there's an invasion on, according to Pete Hart, federal trapper.

Foreign mountain lions in large numbers are slipping over the border into the forests of Washington Okanogan County from the Canadian side, he said.

The influx of the big cats has raised the county's cougar population to third place in the state, Hart said $50 would be paid in bounty for each cougar killed.

the point. The half ended with the score 21 to 7.

Ranger's band starred in the period between halves, presenting a fine performance.

At the start of the second half, Ranger kicked to the Lions who returned the ball to their own 48 yard line. On the first play, Murphy, waggled and maneuvered 52 yards for another touchdown. Lanier hit Murphy on the 10 yard line but he stumbled on over the goal. Rush blocked the kick for the extra point, making the score 27 to 7.

The Lions intercepted Wright's pass from the 15 yard line and pushed up 3 yards to the Bulldog's 12. The plays that followed ran up against the stiffest Bulldog defense of the game with Townsen, Langley and Lanier holding the Lions to the point where the Bulldogs took over on downs. Williams got off a nice long kick but Fair of the Lions returned it to the Bulldogs' 25 yard line. After picking up a first down to the 13, Fair carried over left tackle for another marker. Corder converted the point to pile up a 34 to 7 lead.

Receiving the kick, the Bulldogs picked up two first downs with Williams carrying for 25 yards to his own 46 and Townsen and Lanier combined for another 3 yards. A Ranger fumble was recovered by the Lions.

Phean who was substituting for the Lions, went over left guard all the way to the goal line. They failed to convert and the score stood at 40 to 7.

After an exchange of kicks, Ranger started the drive for their second score from the Lions' 39. Williams kicked to the 4 and forced of the Lions to return the punt. With carrying and a penalty the ball was resting on the 39 yard stripe. On an attempted pass interference was ruled on Lanier. The pass allowed, taking the ball to the 13 yard line. Williams carried to the 7 yard line. With three seconds left to play, falling to score, the Bulldogs called time out and with one half second left to play Wright went over on a quarterback sneak for another touchdown. The kick by Deaton was blocked and the game ended 40 to 13 for Brownwood.

Seminole Get Break On Auto License Plates

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UP)—The dwindling band of Seminole Indians in Florida stays one up on the "palefaces" every year when it comes to buying automobile license plates.

The policy started about 17 years ago during the administration of Gov. David Sholtz, who wanted to help the Seminoles with their problems.

Sholtz took his entire cabinet of state officials down the Tamiami Trail to hold a pow-wow with the Indians, and explained through an interpreter that Florida wanted to assist the Indians in any way possible. But the Indians turned down his offers, and said they didn't want any help from the palefaces, except free licenses to "drez" their cars and make them look pretty.

So when the black and yellow tags go on sale Dec. 1, the Seminoles will be about the only Floridians who won't be grumbling.
