Knutson Fails To Get Tax Cuts On Agenda

Well... I Dunno, But...

Women here's your chance to win a ribbon for that prized piece of needle work, antiques, home canned items or hobby collections! On Wednesday, November 19, the Ranger Civic League is sponsoring a hobby show in Ranger and women of Ranger and areas around Ranger are invited to enter such items as mentioned above in the show.

And here's the prize surprise about the show. It will be held in the big assembly room at the new Community Clubhouse. Though the building may not be completely finished by that time the big room will be available.

Mrs. J. Boyd Killingsworth, chairman for the league, is eager to have as many entries in the show as possible. It is, she says, to be something on the order of a fair. So start taking stock of likely entries and lets make this one of the big events of the fall season.

Incidentally, while we're on the subject of shows, the women of Ranger have been invited to attend a big flower show in Eastland on the afternoon of November 12. That's next Wednesday. The show is being sponsored by the Garden Club of the Eastland Civic League and will be staged by Sallie's Flower Shop in Fort Worth. It will be at 3 o'clock at the First Methodist church in Eastland.

Don't forget that Saturday is Poppy Day, a day on which you'll be given a chance to do a little bit for the men who have done so much for us.

The poppy sales will be handled by women of the American Legion Auxiliary and all proceeds from the sales will go toward rehabilitation of World War veterans.

Buy and wear a red poppy made by the men that crowd the veterans hospitals and for whom the sales are conducted.

Another sale is going on in Ranger. That's the rummage sale being conducted by the Library Committee of the Community Clubhouse for the benefit of the public library which will be opened in Ranger before very long.

The sales are being conducted in the building at the corner of North Austin and Walnut streets and if you haven't taken it in your discarded clothing, do it this afternoon or in the morning. The sale will continue through Saturday.

It looks like the women have the corner on this column today. But why not? They're really doing some fine things in Ranger.

By the way, women, if you haven't paid your membership in the Ranger Civic League, now is the time to do it in order to get out the band wagon for some very important activities coming up.

Brice Walker tells us that she has again had some of her poetry included in a collection. This time it's Drift Wood and Sea Shells, edited by Mary Clay Gilbert of New York. The volume includes works from 84 poets, three of them Texans including Mrs. Walker. However, Brice has corrected us on that word Texas. She says that if you're a native of the state you're a Texian and if you're just adopted you're a Texan. But it makes no difference how you spell she's 100 per cent for Texas.

Ranger had its coldest weather of the fall season during Thursday night and Friday morning when the thermometer hit the lowest minimum temperature, falling to 33. The next low reading to that was night before last when the low was 39 degrees.

Cries Out In Anguish

Following the testimony of Howard Lang, 12, who told at an inquest in Chicago how he killed Lonnie Fellick while Gerald Michalek, 9, held Lonnie's legs, Lonnie's mother, left, and Gerald's mother, right, both cried out in anguish. Richard and Robert Shafer, older sons of Mrs. Fellick, comfort their mother as Mrs. Michalek held her son, Gerald (NEA Telephoto).

MAN-MADE RAIN IS TRIED WITH SUCCESS IN HAWAII

By William J. Coughlin, United Press Staff Correspondent HONOLULU, T. H. (UP)—Hawaii's scientists have succeeded in making artificial rain fall on the pineapple fields on the islands of Molokai and Lanai. It was done by sprinkling moisture-laden clouds with granulated dry ice dropped from a plane.

"Man-made" rain produced the first rainfall on the west end of the island of Molokai in many weeks in an experiment conducted jointly by three pineapple companies.

The eighth of an inch of rain which fell on the Libby, McNeil and Libby plantation stranded observers, whose cars were mired down in the suddenly-drenched pineapple fields.

The success of the rain-making experiments which have also been tried successfully on the mainland, is significant in Hawaii since it is the first application of the method under sub-tropical conditions.

According to some theories, advanced to explain the process, it should not work under sub-tropical conditions, where temperatures in the clouds do not fall below freezing.

The experiment was arranged by the Hawaiian Pineapple Co., California Packing Corp and Libby, McNeil & Libby.

Many observers believe the rain-making experiments may have as far-reaching effects on the territory's agriculture and industry as the introduction of irrigation in sugar cane fields did some years ago.

Dr. E. C. Auercher, director of the Pineapple Research Institute, which co-operated in the experiments, said, "If continued trials with this new drying technique enable us to produce rain with any reasonable degree of certainty, the benefits to Hawaii will be beyond measure."

"Water is the key to proper land use in many areas," he continued, "and the assurance of water in regions subject to drought would greatly expand the living room for people in Hawaii by expanding the areas suitable for agricultural production."

The method consists of introducing under pressure two solutions—the so-called "liquid glass" and calcium chloride—into the sand. The first, the radio report said, displaces water from the sand and envelops the sand grains, and the second, reacting with the liquid glass, forms a hard compound which solidifies the ground.

Within ten days the quicksand is converted into artificial sandstone hardly distinguishable from the natural variety.

The White House sent its three crates to Walter Reed Hospital. The food committee arranged with express company officials to have all chickens addressed to Luckman delivered to the Salvation Army.

Within hours after the first chickens arrived, the most commonly heard slogans in Washington were "Hens for Harry" and "Leghorns for Luckman."

Ed Sharpe, Jr., who has been in the Birmingham Hospital in Van Nuys, California for the past two years is here for a visit with his mother, Mrs. Laverne Sharpe. Mr. Sharpe was wounded in the battle for Okinawa and as a result suffered a paralytic condition. Following his visit here he will return to the hospital for about two months after which he hopes to be discharged except for periodic check-ups.

He drove here from California and en route was joined by his wife at Eunice, New Mexico.

Wilhelm Mueller, first German "war hubby" to be permitted entry into the U. S. is greeted upon his arrival at LaGuardia Airport in New York by his American bride-to-be, Thelma Damerian, of Taunton, Massachusetts. ### U. S. TOURIST DOLLARS SOUGHT TO BOLSTER LATIN AMERICA

MEXICO CITY (UP)—United States and Latin American business men are going into partnership to keep the flow of tourist dollars, diverted from Europe during the war, moving into Central and South America by promoting a "great circle tour" of the southern continent.

Impetus for the drive comes from the Inter-Continental Hotel Co., which is joining forces with Latin American capital to build hotels in 11 cities on the route of the "circle tour." Inter-Continental is a subsidiary of Pan American World Airways.

Byron Calhoun, vice-president of Inter-Continental, said money for construction of the hotels would be furnished by local capital in each city and the U. S. Export-Import Bank on a 50-50 basis. Each hotel will be leased to Inter-Continental, he said, until the Export-Import Bank has been paid off in each case. Inter-Continental will furnish the operating capital.

"We expect the investment in construction of the hotels in the 11 cities to total $75,000,000," Calhoun said.

He revealed that the project is one which originally was fostered by the late President Roosevelt as a part of his program to improve relations between the American continents.

"The Export-Import Bank is for it," he said, "because the plan will attract legitimately American dollars to countries which need them and, therefore, will reduce by that amount the necessity for loans."

He said the hotels will be built in Mexico City, Guatemala City, Bogota, Caracas, Quito, Lima, Santiago, Buenos Aires, Montevideo, San Paulo and Rio de Janeiro. Work already has started in some cities, and negotiations for local capital still are in progress in others, he said.

Meanwhile, H. F. Dugan, president of the American Hotelman's Association, and his organization hoped to start a promotion campaign to encourage travel through out the Americas.

"Travel of any kind is to our advantage," he explained. "Our members in the United States benefit from travel abroad because, no matter where people are going, they must use our hotels before they leave the country and when they return."

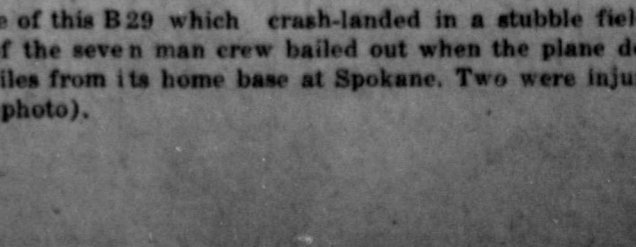

The association includes members in Mexico, Alaska, Canada and Hawaii.

Calhoun said the Latin American hotels planned by his company will "include the best of United States hotel ideas and the best of local ideas."

WASHINGTON—The agriculture Department, reported today that commodity prices are continuing their third general advance since the summer of 1946.

"Although prices have climbed less rapidly recently than they did early this year and in the fall of 1946, the persistence of the increase shows that the danger of a faster and very serious inflation is still present," the Bureau of Agricultural Economics said in a report on the demand-and-price situation.

Curious Spectators

LEADERS SAY RELIEF MUST WAIT UNTIL JAN. SESSION

WASHINGTON—Rep. Harold Knutson, R. Minn., failed today to convince House Republican leaders that tax-cutting legislation should be introduced at the special session this month, and it was indicated his proposal would be put off until the regular session in January.

Knutson, chairman of the tax-writing house ways and means committee, sought to press for action on income tax reduction at the special session convening Nov. 17 at a meeting with Speaker Joseph W. Martin, Jr.

After the conference, Knutson said: "I rather expect the tax bill will go over to January. It will be the first order of business at that time."

Knutson saw Martin in an effort to persuade him to change his mind about keeping taxes off the special session "must" list.

Knutson did not reveal what transpired at his meeting with the speaker but it was apparent that Martin had not changed his position that there was insufficient time at the special session to take up taxes.

The two most influential Republican leaders in the House—Martin and Majority Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana—want to hold tax legislation for the next regular session of Congress, which begins in January. Martin said he thought it ought to be the first order of business then.

Halleck, who conferred with Martin yesterday, said "there appears to be no demand that taxes come up in the special session and I think it is highly questionable that it will come up." He emphasized, however, that this did not indicate any lessening in Republican "determination to bring about tax relief."

AUSTIN, Tex. — Texas is threatened with equalling its greatest drought periods if the present dry weather is not broken soon, the state board of water engineers reported today.

The warning was based on a study of stream flow records. The Colorado River has the lowest five-year flow ever recorded at San Saba, the board said, though the annual flow in 1917 and in 1918 was less than the 1947 flow.

Water is also at a premium in the Pecos River, the board reported, with Red Bluff Reservoir in Texas and New Mexico practically dry. It had but 14,000 acre-feet of water stored at the beginning of November.

WITNESS SAYS PATTERSON HAD HAND IN AWARDING WAR CONTRACTS

WASHINGTON (UP)—A witness told Senate investigators today that former Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson overrode air force officers' objections and ordered $70,000,000 contract awarded to Howard Hughes for 100 fast photo planes.

Albert J. Browning, former brigadier general and special assistant to Patterson, told a Senate war investigating subcommittee that many high ranking air officers did not believe Hughes could handle the big order.

The subcommittee is investigating $40,000,000 in wartime plane contracts awarded to the lanky west coast millionaire.

Hughes himself may testify later today. He flew here this morning in his converted bomber and told reporters he had "plenty of information" for the Senators.

Hughes said all he wanted was "a chance to have my say." He rested in a downtown hotel while awaiting his summons.

Browning said Bennett E. Meyers, a retired major general who was wartime boss of the air force material command, was "very insistent" that Hughes be given the photo plane order.

Browning quoted Meyers, also scheduled to testify later today, saying that Gen. H. H. Arnold, the chief of the Air Corps, was determined to buy the Hughes planes and had ordered a satisfactory contract prepared.

Weather Favors Peanut Harvest

Most southwest peanut areas enjoyed favorable weather for harvest work during the past week, the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration reports. No serious delay resulted from light showers which fell in some sections. Much of current haulings of farmers' stock peanuts moved to Commodity Credit Corporation warehouses. Limited sales to shippers went mostly at government support prices. Private buyers tended to hold off because of unsettled conditions in the market for shelled goods. Some few shelled No. 1 Spanish peanuts sold for prompt shipment at mostly 16 cents per pound in carlots, f.o.b. mills. Sales for

Dress in Sackcloth Without Ashes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UP)—Talk about "sackcloth and—" if you want to, ladies, but Memphis women really wear them—and beautifully, too.

The new fashions don't come from Paris or New York, but out of the Tennessee hills and cotton fields. The styles are "Sacks, cotton, flour," not "Saks Fifth Avenue."

Used 100 lb. flour sacks are being made into evening dresses, suits, and smart dresses, both printed and white. The city sisters learned the trick from nearby farm wives who have been converting the cotton bags into clothes for a long time and at little expense.

Scattered mills began work on the season's peanut crushing, but many still awaited completion of the cottonseed run. Peanut oil sold at 24 cents per pound and peanut meal at $55 per ton in carlots at the mills.

A printed flour sack, 36x43 inches sells for 47 cents; a plain white for 39 cents. A needle, thread, and an idea or pattern can turn out useful clothes.

Some housewives have made ruffled curtains and drapes, slip covers for chairs, table cloths and bedspreads from the cast-off bags. The bag manufacturers are cooperating by making their trademarks on the sacks removable in a single soaking.

SPOOKS TO CONVEVE HERE TONITE

At 10:30 and 12:15 tonight, Ghosts, Spooks, and Jabwockies are to gather at the Tower theatre in a conclave of weird, eerie and spook-sational capers which are calculated to be hair-raising.

spine-tingling and thrill-chilling until the last and final minute of their tenancy of the local show-house.

Spook Scandals, replete with the eerie denizens of the nether regions, so ably assisted in their nefarious spranks by the "Glamour Gals" of the show itself, is a performance entirely new and different in its concept and execution.

In the semi-darkness . . . just anything may happen and . . . usually does. Tiny whispers from the tenebral silences . . . ghostly forms within reach of the hand

Lay-A-Way For Xmas
Bell's Young Moderns

Coloring to Little Miss America

Leaning against a tree outside the fortress-grim walls of Bucks County (Pa.) prison, Mrs. Agnes Collins disconsolately awaits admittance to see her husband, James Robert Collins, pictured at right as he ponders the quirk of fate that put him back behind iron bars after 11 years of exemplary life as husband, father and citizen. In 1929, he was sentenced to life imprisonment for complicity in a bank robbery at Citronelle, Ala., in which a murder was committed. He escaped in 1936. He settled in Richland Township, Pa., near Doylestown, set up a well-digging business, married and had two children. This modern Jean Valjean's secret remained undisclosed until his good friend and neighbor, Sheriff H. Raymond Ahlum, recently arrested him at the request of Alabama authorities. (NEA photos, copyright Philadelphia Enquirer.)

cold winds from nowhere . . . shadows of unreality . . . beautiful, real life girls and a series of convulsive spasms of spook-mania are a good description of this show which is neither a picture, lecture or play.

Persons who seare easily . . . those who faint without due provocation . . . any who "can't take it," should definitely remain at home with their knitting. To others, this will be a night to be long remembered.

Two completely different feature length films in keeping with the theme of "Spook Scandals" will be shown for this extravaganza, one at each performance.

Round Red School House Has Tale Behind Building

BROOKLINE, Vt. (UP)—Still standing here is the only round red school house in America—and therein lies a tale.

In 1822 a tall, handsome man who identified himself as Dr. John Wilson appeared in this village and applied for a job as school teacher. Hired immediately, he soon arranged to have built the round red school house which, with five windows, commanded a view of approaches from all directions.

Not until Dr. Wilson died was it learned why he wanted to teach in a school house which provided such excellent visibility. Through certain physical defects, and other clues, Dr. Wilson was identified in death as the notorious Capt. Thunderbolt, a criminal who had escaped from a British prison and sailed for New England.

Capt. Thunderbolt's accomplice in crime, a man known as Lightning, escaped with him and eventually was hanged as a murderer in Boston.

CORSICANA, Tex. (UP)—Louis Bromfield, noted author and lecturer, speaks in Corsicana on Nov. 10 when some 150 leading businessmen, bankers and industrialists meet to discuss soil conservation. A special train will bring part of the group here from eastern states. Bromfield is scheduled to deliver two addresses on soil conservation.

Simplified Clothing For Children Urged

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The trimming on a child's clothes may affect the development of his character, says Edna Gray, clothing specialist of the University of Illinois agriculture college.

Fluffy ruffles, huge bows and sashes or floppy collars make it almost impossible for a youngster to learn to dress himself, Mrs. Gray said.

Gray said. Dressing himself is one of the first ways in which the child learns to be independent, she added.

Slow But Sure DETROIT (UP)— William Dennis, a golf pro, lays claim to the season's "longest" shot—a nine-foot putt that took more than two minutes to drop into the cup. Dennis, playing in a par-matur tournament, tapped his putt and it apparently stopped an inch short of the cup. "It's moving," said Dennis as he was about to pick up his ball.

Heartsease by Elsie Gibson

WHY DO YOU LOOK? Oh, you're doing, to! To make a man's eye. The way you look is registered—approval or disapproval, even in a stranger's eyes. And what do you care for a stranger's eyes? You care a great deal... and you know you do. Everyone wants and needs a probatlon, commendation, and above all, acceptance by the human race. It is a basic need... approval by one's fellows. That's why our desires and impulses are constantly checked-reined by the society in which we live. Wouldn't it be pleasant if we lived in a world where everyone we met was spotlessly clean... scrubbed... if everyone had polished his shoes before he left home... if everyone took care of his nails, brushed his teeth, combed his hair? If everyone was thoughtful enough of everyone else... and above all... of himself... to look as nice as he could? But, of course, in our society, as constituted by us, there are those who have no shoes to polish, or if they have shoes, no money with which to buy polish. There are those, of course, who do not brush their teeth because no one ever taught them to... those who no longer care enough to run comb through their hair... or even to wash it. But, even so, I say again: It does matter how we look. However we look represents what we are... how we think... how we feel... what sort of people we are. To glance at the people on the street of a town... a city... a hamlet... shows its race of people... its poverty... its hopelessness... its wretchedness. And someone is always looking. I give you my word; it matters terribly: How we look. I looked at you yesterday. And somehow, I felt you were looking at me, too.

Men Like Cosmetics Survey Discloses

NEW YORK (UP)— Men seem to be going in strongly for toilet preparations and even cosmetics. A survey by The American Magazine among its male readers shows that men today are using hair tonics and hair dressings, hand creams and lotions, lip preparations, deodorants and antiperspirants in quantities undreamed of only a few years ago. The nation-wide study showed that nearly 7 out of every 10 men in moderate income classes use hair tonics and dressings, 35 per cent more than did in 1940. The increase in use of deodorants has been even greater—48 per cent now use them compared to only 23 per cent in 1940. Here are other things the magazine learned about the men: 76 per cent shampoo their hair at home—on an average of once a week. 63 per cent use a hand cream or lotion for chapped or rough hands. 44 per cent use preparations for chapped lips.

Texas Documents Rest In Cow Barn

AUSTIN, Tex., (UP) — Priceless and irreplaceable documents

Flees From Hungary

Zoltan Pfeifer, leader of the last major opposition to the Communist-dominated government of Hungary, fled the country, a government spokesman said in Budapest. (NEA Telephoto).

of the history of Texas now rests in a cow barn.

Records of Texas as a republic, documents making Texas' entry into the United States, and rolls of the Confederate heroes are housed in a former dairy building of the Austin State hospital.

These records, largely of the period between 1850 and 1900, are from the offices of the state comptroller, the state treasurer and the welfare, health, education, library and adjutant general's departments.

They were moved from Camp Mabry, where increased needs of the military forced state officials to seek a new storage place.

MARINES IN PACIFIC PLAN SWITCH TO JET AIRCRAFT

HONOLULU, T. H. (UP) — Conventional Marine fighter planes in the Pacific and elsewhere undoubtedly will be replaced by jet aircraft, according to Maj. Gen. Ralph J. Mitchell, commanding Marine aircraft in the Pacific.

Gen. Mitchell disclosed that a Marine air squadron is now taking jet training at the Macdonnell factory in St. Louis.

"Eventually, jets will replace our Corsair fighter bombers," the general said, "but jets are still in the experimental stage."

Gen. Mitchell recently assumed command of the Marine aircraft units in the Pacific after a change in jobs with Maj. Gen. William J. Wallace, who took command of the Atlantic Marine air wing. Mitchell's command of 17,000

Marine airmen includes bases at El Toro, Cal., Honolulu, Guam, and Tsingtao, China.

The general said the key functions of the Marine air units in the Pacific are to support the Leatherneck ground forces and provide replacements for the navy carrier groups. He said three Marine units are now stationed aboard aircraft carriers off the California coast.

Mitchell, who was based on 35 Pacific islands during 27 months of war-time overseas duty, said Marine air units everywhere are faced with the same problems. There are plenty of war-trained pilots but a lack of ground personnel. He disclosed that Marine air units in the Atlantic are preparing for cold-weather training. The airmen probably will be transported to the training area on a carrier, he said, and join with the Navy in cold-weather maneuvers.
