Powers May Conciliate On Germany

U. S., BRITAIN MAY GIVE IN TO RUSSIA TO SPEED WORK

LONDON—The Big Four Council of Ministers met in crucial session today on the key issue of Germany with the United States and Britain indicating a desire to make some move toward conciliation of the bitter dispute with Russia.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin of Britain presided at the initial session. Secretary of State George C. Marshall represented the United States, Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov sat in for Russia and Foreign Minister Georges Bidault for France.

The first question confronting the Big Four was that of the agenda—the order in which their discussions will proceed. For nearly a month their deputies wrangled about this issue and ended in a stalemate.

Sources close to the British and American delegations said that Bevin and Marshall were prepared to make concessions to the Russians on this issue in the interests of a quick facing of basic problems.

An atmosphere heavily charged with pessimism surrounded the initial session. One note of cautious optimism came in repeated suggestions from Anglo-American quarters that some concessions may be offered to Russia and that this meeting is not regarded as "a final showdown."

The western attitude was expressed as one of willingness to see whether Russia is now ready to do business. However, it was generally expected that the Soviet would continue its present line of denunciation of the west, particularly its charge that Britain and the United States want to dismember Germany and establish an independent western zone under their domination.

Marshall was expected to employ all of his influence in an effort to persuade Molotov that the United States is not basically opposed to German unity. Marshall is known to be opposed strongly to recent suggestions in the United States that we go ahead with a separate peace in Germany. He made known that he regards such talk as ridiculous and impractical.

Two Killed In Italian Riots

ROME—Two persons were killed today in a revival of Italy's three weeks of political violence. A Communist and Christian Democrat were killed in a fresh outburst in Calabria province, the southernmost part of Italy. Another Communist was wounded.

The fresh casualties raised to 22 the death toll in precisely three weeks of sporadic rioting through out Italy.

The University of Minnesota expects to hit an enrollment peak of 30,000 by 1965.

Senate Begins Crop Inventory

The Senate Appropriations committee began compiling an inventory of U. S. grain supplies and crop prospects in order to prevent "short-changing" Americans through aiding needy peoples of other countries. At left is Senator Styles Bridges, Republican of New Hampshire, chairman of the committee and at right is Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson. Bridges opened the hearing by charging President Truman with infringing upon Congressional powers by demanding rationing and price control authority along with a blank check for stop-gap aid to Western Europe. INVESTIGATION OF MEYERS' TAXES BEGUN

ALBANY—The New York State tax commission has begun an investigation of Maj. Gen. Bennett Meyers wartime and post-war income, it was learned today.

A state official said the investigation was centered chiefly on Meyer's New York income tax returns since his retirement from the Army Air Forces on Aug. 31, 1945.

Shortly after his retirement, the key war-time procurement officer for the Air Forces bought a palatial estate at Halesite, L. I. and established a legal residence there, the official said.

He added that Meyers' actual legal residence during the time he allegedly was head of the Aviation Electric Corp., of Vandalia, Ohio also was under scrutiny.

The official explained that Meyers army pay was tax exempt under New York law, but that any other income was subject to taxation.

He said he believed that the general's income after his retirement was comparatively small, although he is alleged to have made $200,000 as head of the Aviation Electric Corp.

December Wheat Futures Hit New High Price Peak

CHICAGO—December wheat futures rising amid reports of high foreign demand and poor planting in the southwest, opened at a new peak price of $3.15-3.16 a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

It was the second consecutive day that wheat for delivery in December had hit a new high in trading here. The top yesterday was $3.14.

The all-time peak for any wheat contract here was the $3.25 a bushel paid for May wheat in May, 1917.

Buying began on the board yesterday after Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson said that European demand was remaining heavy.

Planting weather in the south west also has remained poor.

RANGER, STEPHENVILLE, CISCO PUT IN CLASS A

Ranger, Cisco and Stephenville were among the eleven class AA schools that were placed in Class A for 1948 football. This announcement was made by the Texas Interscholastic League Monday. Others that were changed include Childress and Electra.

According to the schedule Ranger will be in a district with Cisco, Comanche, DeLeon, Dublin, Eastland, Hamilton, and Stephenville. The league announced that the assignment of 194 conference schools to districts for competition during the 1948 football season is tentative.

Representatives of the districts were asked to meet at once to determine whether or not changes will be made in the tentative groupings.

Childress, considered one of the stronger members of District 2-AA and owner of a good 1947 record against larger schools, may make an attempt to stay in 2-AA with Wichita Falls, Vernon and Graham.

Electra and Quanah also were tentatively dropped from 2-AA to District 9-A with Burk Burnett, Crowell, Iowa Park, Qiney and Seymour.

The new setup placed Cisco, Ranger and Stephenville, members of 9-AA this season, in 8-A with Comanche, DeLeon, Dublin, Eastland and Hamilton.

If the new groupings stand up, only Wichita Falls, Graham and Vernon would be left in 2-AA.

And in 9-AA only Breckenridge, Weatherford would remain. Mineral Wells, Brownwood and Hillsboro, member of 10-AA for many years and strong enough to lead Corsicana most of the way before dropping a 21-20 game to the Tigers this year, was moved to 19-A with Gatesville, Itasca, La Vega (Bellmead), McGregor and West.

Well... I Dunno, But...

Most people are conscious of the fact that Thursday is Thanksgiving and that the ole town will be closed up. But in case you'd forgotten here's the reminder.

Thanksgiving is something like Christmas. People break their necks to get ready for it, spend most of the day preparing the old bird and the trimmings, eat too much, and then turn green for ten days following on facing turkey hangers for every meal. 'Spect most of us forget to be truly thankful, too. We get too busy celebrating the occasion in the traditional way. But if all of the stories that we read about other parts of the world are true, and we have no reason to doubt them, then we've certainly got a multitude of things for which to be thankful.

Personally, we'll be extremely thankful if we get rid of this sore throat. It's the kind that makes you feel like your eyes are popping out of your head and that there's a full sized baseball lodged in your throat.

Incidentally, speaking of aches and pains, it's funny how people like to talk about them and absolutely nobody likes to listen about them. True most of us feign attention when such subjects are mentioned, and come out with an unconscious, "Well, that's too bad," "My, I'm sorry" or some other such "that's tough" phrase when actually we're figuring out something that's far removed from the neighbor's pains.

Too, the fellow that's stickest is the one that says the least about it. He's too sick to talk and that's the guy that deserves the sympathy.

Well, what ever made us get off on that subject!!

The town was abuzz this morning about Ranger being put in Class A football. Some were for it and some were agin it. We sure express an opinion but we sure would like to see Ranger win once in a while and they might be able to make it in Class A. We sure haven't been dotin' it in AA. As some one pointed out this morning the people flock out to the first two or three games. We lose the games. The people get discouraged, because everybody likes a winning team, and the first thing you know, there just ain't any crowds at those games. Well, we'll see.

Ranger merchants haven't waited until after Thanksgiving to get out that Christmas merchandise and one trip around through the stores is convincing that merchants are better prepared for Christmas this year than in a number of years.

Too, as compared with other towns the same size, Ranger has a greater variety and better stocked stores than most towns. Just stop and think, is there anything that you want that you can't buy in Ranger?

Yes sir, we're proud of Ranger's shopping and marketing advantages.

Who is she? That's the question that's on the mind of every body in high school and particularly the girls, 'cause it might be her. Football queen, we mean. She has already been selected but her identity will not be revealed until between the halves at the Weatherford-Ranger game here Friday afternoon.

The Sweetheart is chosen by the football boys and will be presented in ceremonies at the half Thursday.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY FRANK EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—Now that Presidential Candidate Harold E. Stassen has written a book and made a lot of speeches, and now that Candidate Robert A. Taft has toured the west, made a lot of speeches and thrown his hat in the ring, it's possible to compare their ideas. They're not as far apart as you'd think.

On some matters Stassen is more liberal than the Democrats and on some others Taft is more progressive than Stassen. On foreign policy they appear to be poles apart.

On aid to Europe, Stassen, at Jefferson, Iowa, last May said: "I believe that for the next 10 years we should devote 10 per cent of our total national production of goods and food to building for world-wide peace and plenty and freedom."

In his speech before the Ohio Society of New York, Taft said: "I think the figure suggested by the Harriman Committee is higher than is safe."

On the other top issue before the special session of Congress—high prices—Stassen and Taft both blame Truman's veto of the "unworkable" price-control bill of 1946 for today's situation.

On his western tour, Taft said: "We had better work towards a stabilization of wages and prices at some new level, perhaps 50 or 60 per cent above prewar."

Stassen takes no such dim view. He thinks prices can be pulled back down a bit. In two recent statements in New York he made these specific and constructive suggestions:

"We should re-establish consumer credit controls. . . . Second, we can put our foreign-aid program under a high caliber American agency which will safeguard the effects of foreign shipments on our American prices. . . . Third, the government should carry on a vigorous program against monopolies, hoarding and profiteering."

In his new book, "Where I Stand," Stassen writes: "The margin of profit should also be constantly analyzed and exorbitant prices should be met by nation-wide, officially encouraged boycotts of specific 'bad examples' . . . to drive down prices."

Taft has not fully outlined his ideas about tax reform, except to say that tax rates should be cut as "the best way to stop the spiral of inflation and relieve the condition of the lower income workers."

Stassen for tax reduction, but he has worked out a major revision plan for the entire tax structure. First, he would limit taxes to 50 per cent of any income. Second, he would put a 1 1/2 per cent tax on big fortunes in idle capital. Third, he would give special benefits to small business. Finally, he would lower taxes, liberalize consumer credit and embark on government public works programs whenever unemployment became greater than 6 per cent of the labor force.

On housing, Taft and Stassen look through the same knothole. Taft's housing bill calls for large-scale public housing. Stassen agrees there must be government-built housing, but he wants it promptly sold to owner-occupants and private investors.

Stassen endorses the Taft-Hartley Labor Law as "the foundation of a fair, just and well-balanced labor policy." But he would amend it in three places by allowing greater union political activity, by requiring the Communist affidavit only when an accusation is made, and by changing the union shop election provisions, which he considers unworkable.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Branch Rickey is still trying to de-Broadway-ize Leo Durocher, which may mean something in connection with the Brooklyn managerial guessing contest.

Certainly there has been no Burt Shotton movement, and the kindly veteran doesn't care one way or the other anyway. He had practically retired when old friend Rickey dragged him back into the thick of things last spring.

Brether Rickey has been attempting to de-Hollywood-ize Lippy Leo Durocher ever since he traded the Reds out of him to give the Cardinals a shortstop in the spring of 1933.

If you have read the newspapers lately, you know the Mahatma hasn't gotten very far, but the work goes on. To find the Lip at the World Series, you looked for Laraine Day and Danny Kaye. There were no baseball people around.

Baseball, you see, is only Leo's way of getting into Deverly Hills.

Rickey likes to take Durocher out and show him how the other half lives. His most recent maneuver in getting Durocher back to grass roots was taking him on a wild goose hunt near his Chestertown, Md., farm. He got the Lip up at 4 o'clock in the morning and into a goose pit.

Leo didn't care much about that, but he got a goose. The bloke does everything well.

Previously in the movement, Rickey took Durocher to a square dance at his old home town, Lucerne, O., last October.

Someone Must Be Expecting A Wicked Genie To Pop Out

1-Woman Bureau Aids Homeless

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UP)—A 25-year-old mother, Mrs. Dennis Kuhn, is becoming the unofficial housing expeditor of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Kuhn offered a room for rent in a housing-hungry town that has some 20,000 University of Michigan students.

Applicants converged on her six-room house. They flooded her rooms, lined up outside, and rang the telephone incessantly.

With the aid of the local newspaper and radio station, Mrs. Kuhn then invited Ann Arbor residents to make rooms available in their homes and register them with her. Offers poured in.

She invited homeless persons to register and began directing the most needy to the places available.

Fruit or Vegetable? No, A Pin Cushion

ST. LOUIS (UP)—When is a pin cushion a fruit and not a vegetable? Morris S. Rosenthal New York, president of the National Council of American Importers, asked the 34th National Foreign Trade convention here.

He brought up the question in connection with tariff classifications. Rosenthal reported that a silk pin cushion shaped like a pear bore a higher rate of customs duty than a pin cushion shaped like a tomato.

"The former," he said, "was classified as an artificial fruit, but the Supreme Court decided long ago that a tomato (biologically considered a fruit) is only a vegetable."

This Is Happy

By PEGGY DERN

THEY were stopped by groups of friends, so their progress across the wide, tiled lobby was slow. Many of them Happy had already met.

An elderly Negro waiter bowed them impressively to a choice table; people kept waving to them from other tables or stopping at their table for a few moments of gay chatter and gossip.

George said softly to Happy, "You look about five years old, just before seeing your first Christmas tree!"

Happy laughed. "And that's exactly how I feel! This is fun!"

"You aren't finding island life too dull and boring?"

Happy laughed that to scorn. "I've never had so much fun in my life, or enjoyed anything so much."

"I'm glad, Happy, I've worried about you this week because I've been too busy to keep you amused," he confessed. "But now that everything is running smoothly, I'll be able to take some time off this next week. There are so many things I want you to see."

Afterwards, when the dancing began, George danced the first dance with Happy and then surrendered her, with flattering reluctance, to some of the other young men while he danced with Madeline, then with Joyce. But he claimed Happy an hour later and said under his breath, "Let's get out for a bit; it's too perfect a night to spend it here indoors."

He drew her outside with him to where the big maroon car was parked below the edge of the drive and handed her into it.

The chauffeur seemed to have had his instructions, for the big car slid out of the parking space, circled the hotel and swung once more into the road curving to the north.

George reached for Happy's hand and tucked it under his arm and held it there, as he relaxed beside her.

"Happy?"

"Yes?"

"Your name—I meant, are you happy?"

"Of course, I'm Happy—and I'm happy."

"You're a darling, Happy, and I'm getting very fond of you. But that surely must come as no surprise to you. I haven't exactly tried to make a secret of it, have I?" he said very quietly.

Happy's heart gave a little lurch and began to beat very fast. She felt, for a moment, a breath of panic; she had a strange desire to get out of the car and run away from him—and could have laughed aloud at such an absurd idea!

"You do know that I am fond of you, Happy?" he repeated.

"Well, yes—you've been—terribly nice," she stammered childishly, and the hand he still held made a little frightened fluttering movement, but was held more tightly.

"Happy"—he looked closely at her as the big car reached the end of the road beyond which the lagoon curled toward the ocean—"Happy, you ridiculous infant, you're not afraid of me?"

"How—how perfectly crazy! Of course not," she stammered.

George smiled.

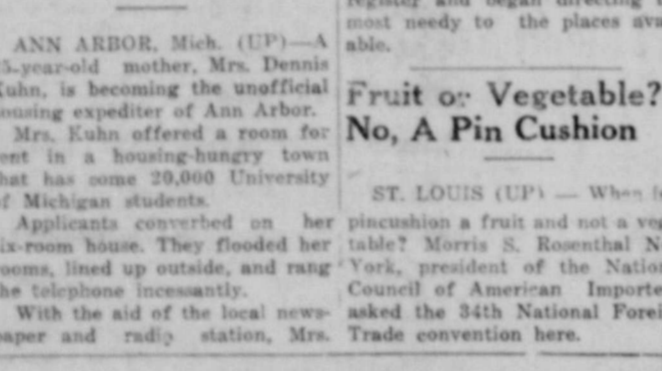

"Oh, well, I'm not going to rush you! I'm patient sort of guy. But you may as well begin getting used to the fact that I'm going to be around rather a lot from now on, and that sooner or later you're going to have to watch me spread a clean handkerchief carefully on the dewy grass, drop elegantly to one knee, a hand on my heart, and proclaim tremulously, 'Miss Brandon—Miss Happy—may I call you Happy? Will you do me the very greatest honor to be my bride and make me the happiest man in the world?'"

Happy drew a long, unsteady breath. George smiled down at her and said very low, "Take your time, darling, but very soon you're going to have to say yes. I'm not the man to take no for an answer."

Then he picked up the speaking tube and directed the chauffeur to drive back to the hotel.

OAK RIDGE 'GRAVES' MOSTLY FOR ATOMIC STUFF

Editor's note: The atomic age gave the United States a new city—Oak Ridge, Tenn. Much of the material for the atomic bomb was prepared there. Oak Ridge still is a full-fledged city, working now to apply atomic energy to peacetime purposes. Here is the first of several dispatches by a United Press Correspondent who visited this atomic energy laboratory city.

By Ed Bridges
 United Press Staff Correspondent
OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (UP)—This "atomic city" has one of the strangest "graveyards" in the world. It contains no human bodies.

It is a graveyard where "live stuff" is buried.
 The "live stuff" is machinery and materials contaminated by radiation, and the burying process is part of the program that has protected residents of Oak Ridge.

No person here has been harmed by such radiation.

Occasionally, a red truck manned by specially protected workmen walks through the city hauling some 'hot' equipment to the graveyard. Everybody gives the truck a wide berth.

One whole building as big as a short city block is being dismantled now for burial. The men taking it apart are allowed to work only brief periods at a time. Check ers and Geiger counters—magic tubes that "bark" when radiation is present—test the workers frequently.

The people of peace-time Oak Ridge seem happy, content. City Manager L. Z. Dolan says they are. Perhaps one factor is the accent being placed on atomic research for peacetime uses, for medicine, agriculture and industry.

Five years ago the well-hidden city in the Cumberland mountains was just a "rabbit run." It grew to 75,000 war-time population. Last Oct. 1, the population was 35,000.

Because of security, a certain amount of regimentation must apply to the lives of Oak Ridge. But City Manager Dolan says nobody complains. Families that moved out want to return.

Dolan, handsome white-haired, suntanned Minnesotan, is a government appointee. The people elect his advisory council of ten for one-year terms.

Dolan outlined a master plan of civic improvements to be put into effect beginning next spring. It includes construction of 1,500 permanent-type houses within 3 years. Iluminations and dormitories still sprawl in the valleys and on the hillsides of Oak Ridge.

In the spring of 1943, employees were asked for names for the community then under construction. Oak Ridge was chosen for one reason, because its rural sound kept outside curiosity to a minimum.

That curiosity was satisfied, finally, when the first atom bomb was dropped on Japan. Only then did the thousands of workers know they were helping to manufacture mass death.

Here's How To Keep 'Em Down On Old Farm

MADISON, Wis. (UP)—Young people may be "persuaded" to stay on the farm, three University of Wisconsin teachers believe.

They advocate remodeling the farm house so it can compete with more comfortable and convenient housing in cities.

In a booklet, "When You Remodel Your Farm House," they suggest replacing the old-fashioned kitchen with a modern one. Other rebuilding would include a bathroom, garage and storage space to make it more truly a home.

The co-authors are Max Laroek of the department of agricultural engineering and Margaret McCor-dic and Louise Young, home management experts.

Good News on the Housing Front

One of the worst bottlenecks in the housing shortage was cracked, it not broken open, when AFL building and metal trades unions signed a two-year contract in Chicago with manufacturers of prefabricated houses to permit union members to work on the ready-made homes. Until now, unions have fought all forms of prefabricated houses. Above, smiling after signing the pact, are Carl G. Strandlund, president of Lustron Corporation, which hopes by next summer to turn out prefabs at the rate of 30,000 a year; Martin P. Durkin, president of the AFL plumbers union; and Omar B. Ketchum, Veterans of Foreign Wars' legislative director, who said the agreement would help make "The hope of our GI's for a home become a reality."

600 SELECTED WAR DEAD TO REPOSE IN GETTYSBURG

By Don Jennings
United Press Staff Correspondent
GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Six hundred American soldiers killed in World War II have been selected for burial in one of history's most honored military burial grounds—the Gettysburg National Cemetery.

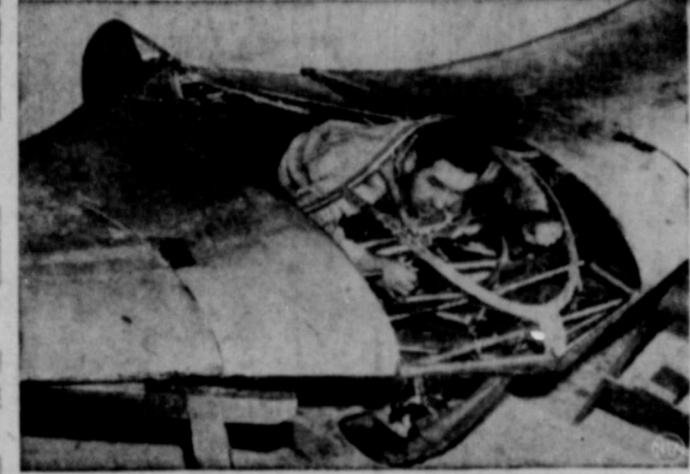

Three plots, each within 100 yards of the sites where Abraham Lincoln delivered his immortal address dedicating the cemetery on Nov. 19, 1863, are being prepared for interment of American battle dead at the request of next of kin.

Cemetery officials estimate there is room for upwards of 2,000 more graves, but they recommended to the War Department that only 600 be added so it would not be necessary to reduce visitors' space at the famous Civil War shrine.

"The general agreement is that the cemetery should be left as it is," said J. Walter Coleman, national park superintendent. "If we accepted more than 600 bodies, the character of the whole place would be changed." Coleman said the new burials, ments to 4,400, most of whom are those of Union veterans of the Civil War.

No Comfort for Pilot in Nazi Glider

Cockpit close-up of the "Horten 6," 78-foot, swept-back flying wing glider developed by the Germans in 1944, which is now being studied in the U. S. shows the position of the pilot in flight. He must kneel, place his head under a tiny plastic bubble and control one-man craft with conventional wheel and toe-rudder pedals.

By figuring on four burials a day, Coleman said, relatives could be assured ample time for funeral services. The cemetery will provide a firing squad, guard of honor and religious services, if relatives so desire.

"The wishes of the family will be the determining factor," Coleman said. Standard white-marble markers will designate each grave—a cross for Christians and the Star of David for Jews.

Penitentiary Lawyer Talks His Way Out

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UP)—Jefferson of the Missouri Penitentiary talks his legal "convict" way out of a self-styled prison "lawyer".

Meeks was not a member of the bar, claiming only a ninth grade education. But he studied hard in his cell and became an expert at the law, successfully using that legal outlet for the release of numerous fellow prisoners.

Meeks "reviewed" countless cases and gave advice free. Meeks himself gained freedom by pleading his own case in circuit court.

He was opposed by the attorney general's office but was released after serving eight years of a 15-year sentence for forgery.

First aid facilities directed by certified trained nurses have been installed at Waterloo Station, London, to serve its 186,000 daily passengers and 2,000 employees.

MRS. FDR, GROMYKO MAIN ATTRACTION AT UN MEET

By William G. Landry
United Press Staff Correspondent
LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (UP)—The day-to-day box office attractions of the United Nations are Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko.

Daniel J. Walsh, a hurried, energetic man who is UN admissions officer, finds that Mrs. Roosevelt and Gromyko are the personalities whom the 3,200 persons who seek tickets to UN sessions of the full General Assembly at Flushing Meadow, Walsh said, and about 250 tickets for committee meetings and 130 for Security Council sessions.

"People want to see meetings where there are important men and big issues," he said. "Right now they want to attend a session on the Palestine problem. When Mrs. Roosevelt, Secretary of State Geo. C. Marshall, Russian Foreign Secretary V. M. Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin speak at General Assembly meetings the biggest demand is to see them."

Silver-haired Edward Stettinius, former U. S. secretary of state, was the most popular figure with visitors when he used to attend UN sessions. Now Gromyko is the biggest day-to-day male attraction, and Mrs. Roosevelt the biggest female attraction.

Walsh said his biggest problem was knowing when meetings of the Assembly, committees and Security Council would be held in time to pass out tickets. When he knows far enough in advance, he tries to arrange for out-of-town high school and college groups to attend the session. On short notice he tries to get nearby schools to send delegations.

Since the present session of the Assembly opened early in September, about 40,000 persons have attended its sessions, committee meetings, and Security Council meetings.

Walsh's office has 12 girls at Flushing Meadow all the time the Assembly is in session just to answer the calls requesting tickets. During the morning, they answer about 800 calls an hour.

"People are interested in the UN," Walsh said. "They want to know what's going on, but we just haven't got tickets enough for all of them to see for themselves. The only thing I can tell them is 'first come, first served.'"

No matter how delicious a Thanksgiving dinner is, or how much everybody eats, there always seems to be a lot left. That's all to the good these days... especially if you know how to stretch your left-overs. And here's how:

GLAMORIZE YOUR GOBBLER!

Turkey rates cheers when it reappears in this glamorous get-up: Melt 3 tbsps. fat, stir in 3 tbsps. flour, 1 tsp. salt and 1 tsp. dry mustard. Gradually add 2 cups milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly till smooth. Add to 1 slightly beaten egg. Place 2 cups sliced turkey in bottom of 2-qt. casserole. Add 1 cup of A&P's modestly-priced IONA STRING BEANS. Top with sauce and 1 cup grated cheese. Bake in hot oven, 400°F., about 20 minutes or till cheese is melted and brown. Serves 4 to 6.

DRESS UP THAT DRESSING!

To turn left-over poultry dressing into a real blessing, cube it and sauté a cup (more or less) with 1 medium onion (sliced) in fat until lightly browned. Add a 1/2 can of thrifty IONA TOMATOES from the A&P, and heat.

ADD SAUCE TO YOUR SALAD!

Want to make the remains of Thursday's cranberry sauce into a delicious dressing for Sunday's salad? Simply whip 1/2 cup thoroughly chilled evaporated milk, add 1 cup cranberry sauce and blend well. Extra good with salad made like this:

GIVE 'EM THE BIRD... SO!

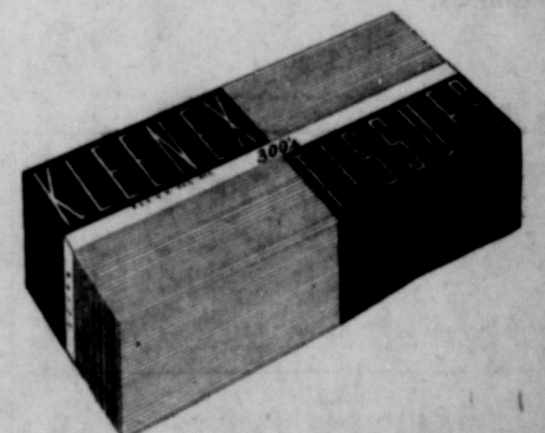

Say "aloha" to your Thanksgiving turkey in true Hawaiian fashion by serving slices of white meat and broiled pineapple on buttered MARVEL CRACKED WHEAT BREAD. This oven-fresh bread from the A&P is not only good, but good for you, so enjoy it soon... and often!

ADD SAUCE TO YOUR SALAD!

Want to make the remains of Thursday's cranberry sauce into a delicious dressing for Sunday's salad? Simply whip 1/2 cup thoroughly chilled evaporated milk, add 1 cup cranberry sauce and blend well. Extra good with salad made like this:

Disolve 1 pkg. orange gelatin in 1 1/2 cups boiling water; add 1 tsp. of salt, a dash of cayenne, 1 tsp. of celery salt and 2 tbsps. of ANN PAGE VINEGAR — the pure cider vinegar sold only at the A&P. Cool till partially thickened; add 1 tbsp. grated onion and 1 cup grated raw carrot. Turn into 4 individual molds and chill.
