Believe French Crisis Under Control

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

There'll be a lot of people in Ranger following the Sugar Bowl game this year with more than just the interest in our own University of Texas team. They'll be following it with a personal interest in the coach, Blair Cherry, because it was in Ranger that Cherry started his coaching career.

He came to Ranger in 1924 after graduating from T.C.U. and stayed here until 1928 when he went to North Side in Fort Worth for two years and then from there to Amarillo in 1930 and remained through 1936. The next year he went to Texas.

While in Ranger he won the district championship in 1926 and went to the state semi-finals. It was in 1926 that Ranger had to play Cisco twice and in the second game won by the famous Buster Mills field goal to clinch the district championship on a 3 to 0 score. We saw both of those games but happened to be on the other side and sponsor for the Cisco pep squad.

They tell us that the first game with Cisco that year was won solely on good coaching. Cisco outweighed Ranger 18 pounds to the man and made 14 first downs to Ranger's four. They won their game. Then Stephenville who had defeated Ranger was downed by Cisco, and that tied Cisco and Ranger and the play off game had to be played.

Cherry is the only coach in Texas that has won three state championships in a row. This he did in 1934, 1935, and 1936 in Amarillo. Now he's stacked up another first. This will be the first year that a Texas U. team has played at the Sugar Bowl, indeed the first time a T.U. team has played in an out-of-the-state Bowl.

Yes sir, Ranger's proud of it's one-time coach.

Our new Community Club house is being heralded far and near and word of it reached Mrs. Ruth Denny in Eldorado, Ark. A native of Ranger and for many years a teacher in the public schools of Ranger, she still has an interest in her old hometown and this week Mrs. V. V. Cooper, Jr. received 100 narcissus bulbs from her on the grounds at the club house.

But the women aren't the only ones that are interested. The men are, too. A. H. Powell, city commissioner who is directing the completion of the building, didn't like the black electric switch plates. So he goes down in his own pocket and buys plates to match the color of the walls and his friend, Richard Cox who served as an electrician in the Navy, volunteered his services for installing the plates.

We're always bragging on the hospitality of Ranger and we had some help this morning. We met the nicest little old lady from San Diego, California who was en route to Charleston, West Virginia, and who had spent the night in Ranger just because she "liked it and the people were so nice" to her.

She is Mrs. Ellen S. Sherlock and arrived on a bus in Ranger Friday afternoon. She went into the Paramount Coffee Shop for a drink. She liked the decorations in there. Then she asked a few questions, got such courtesy shown her that she asked Jimmie Latimer if he had a room left in his hotel. He did and she stayed the night. She is just stopping along the trip when and where she pleases.

She is keeping a diary of her trip for her friends to read when she goes back to California. She is on her way to visit with her daughter whom she has not seen in six years.

ST. LOUIS FOUNDRY FINDS FORMULA FOR LABOR PEACE

By Donald J. Brydon
United Press Staff Correspondent

RESERVISTS CALLED OUT MOVING INTO MANY CAMPS

PARIS — A spokesman for interior minister Jules Moch said tonight that the government had the French crisis "well in hand."

PARIS — The vanguard of 80,000 Army, Navy and Air Force Reservists began pouring into camps all over riot-torn France as parliament armed the government with power to jail saboteurs and agitators for as much as 10 years.

The reservists were called up to reinforce regular army troops, police and mobile guards patrolling Communist strongholds in southern France and the Northern coal fields.

The Council of the Republic, or upper chamber of parliament, outlawed Communist obstructionists and enacted the emergency measures which Premier Robert Schuman sought to combat the crisis. They now needed only the formality of publication in the official journal.

The call up of 80,000 reservists sent the first units of the class of 1943—youths who were 20 in that year—to camps for mobilization into the ranks of the security forces guarding France's many trouble centers.

SPORTS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Robert Irving Elliott being awarded the Landis Memorial Plaque as the National League's most valuable player of 1947 recalls the almost unbelievable trade that transformed the Braves into pennant contenders.

Because Bob Elliott didn't get along with Frank Frisch and appeared dissatisfied under the old regime in Pittsburgh, the new owners gave the Boston club the great third baseman and catcher Hank Camelli for old Billy Herman and three baseball nobodies.

The idea was to obtain a manager. Although he had never managed in his life, Frank E. McKinney, John W. Galbreath and associates for some strange reason were willing to give up most anything to get Herman in their pilot house.

So the Beantowners obtained for nothing a 30-year-old strong right-hand hitter who batted in more than 100 runs for three consecutive campaigns before bogging down slightly with a tail-end club in 1946.

In the Fall, Elliott did precisely what Billy Southworth knew he would do, picked up where he left off while he was happily situated, with a .317 batting average and 112 runs batted in.

Now Billy Herman is out and Bill Meyer, an established manager, is in to keep the new owners from making more mistakes.

And they could have had Bill Meyer for nothing in the first place.

After Richard C. Muckerman on the American League side in St. Louis, the deluge.

Junior Stephens, Jack Kramer and Ellis Kinder to the Red Sox.

Bob Muncief and Walter Judnich to the Indians, Johnny Berardino to the Senators.

The Browns must have collected $450,000.

While Dick Muckerman rather late last summer told me the Browns would not lose money, any baseball man will tell you the chain dropped $1,000,000, and the ice and cold storage baron is the majority stockholder.

If Muckerman does not intend to sell the St. Louis American League franchise, he's giving a grand imitation of an owner with that idea in mind.

He's certainly stripped the player cupboard bare. All the Browns have left are Bob Dillinger and Paul Lehner, and the latter goes home every other week during the season.

New owners would have to start from scratch, and good ballplayers can't be bought these days, unless you find an owner trying to get even like Muckerman, who probably figures that the loss of the better talent won't alter the price of the franchise.

Dick Muckerman hasn't left his new Browns' manager, Zack Taylor, much in the way of personnel.

Perhaps he figures old Zack Taylor can get along with the Bloomer Girls.

Anybody foolish enough to buy the St. Louis American League franchise deserves to be stuck with the Bloomer Girls.

★ WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NEA)—A Turkish embassy official here in Washington was talking about the highway system of his native country. He threw up both hands in a gesture of complete helplessness. "Mud!" he exclaimed. "You never see such mud." He dropped his hands to his hips. "Up to here. And in summer? Dust! Ah, you never see such dust." He dropped his hands again to his knees.

Edson

The Turk then told stories about the sport of going hunting in an automobile, and being held up by brigands. Somebody asked him if there were filling stations along the road, and garages where cars could be repaired. He just smiled. Gasoline, he explained, was sold only in the bigger towns, and in cans. The main highway from the capital at Ankara to Istanbul was 300 miles long, but it took a whole day to make it by car—in good weather.

The general impression is that it was hopeless to expect that things could ever be better. But a team of American highway engineers is now about to tackle the job of helping Turkey lay out a modern highway network—in two years. Under H. E. Hiltz, deputy administrator of the U. S. Public Roads Administration, the first task force will supervise the work.

A COUPLE of million dollars' worth of road-building equipment has already been placed on order. Some of it has already been shipped and is being unloaded under U. S. Army supervision at Istanbul and Iskenderum—formerly known as Alexandretta—a tiny port at the northeast corner of the Mediterranean.

The whole highway job has to be done from scratch. The first thing Hiltz plans to do when he arrives is set up a laboratory to test soils, sand, gravel and rock—the materials he will have to work with. When his engineers know about them, they will place orders for American rock and gravel crushers, cement and asphalt plants.

In all Turkey, there are now only four small cement plants, which combined might equal the output of one fair American plant. Asphalt is now shipped into Turkey by the oil companies in drums. The country has only one small steel mill. It may be able to produce enough reinforcing rods, mats and small shapes. The bridges will probably have to be built in the U. S.

Full U. S. participation in this Turkish road-building program will cost $5 million. The money comes from the $100 million appropriated by Congress for aid to Turkey under the Truman doctrine. The original amount earmarked for roads was $1 million, but when it was pointed out to the military that their modernization of the Turkish army would be wasted and useless unless there was a modern highway grid over which to haul it, the allocation was increased five times.

ON top of this the Turkish Republic has appropriated $13 million to pay native labor and buy materials. About 5000 Turkish workmen will be employed at peak construction. Part of the job of the Hiltz mission will be to train Turkish engineers.

This road building is perhaps the only part of the Turkish aid program with which there can be no quarrel. Benefits aren't just military. Turkey has big farm and livestock areas which are now isolated. They can't move their crops to market.

Of the 27,000 miles of roads on the Turkish map, 12,000 miles are classified as macadamized and 15,000 are dirt. But only a third of this mileage is considered passable.

When the American road mission gets through, it hopes to have a 20,000-mile net of main highways surveyed. Construction will begin next spring. There will be three classes of road, ranging from 24 to 30 feet in width. Little of it will be modern concrete highway in the modern American sense, outside the cities.

In 1944 Turkey had only 13,000 motor vehicles, which is half as many as Puerto Rico has, and a third of what Cuba has. With a more or less modern highway system, the Turks should provide a good market for American cars, trucks, filling stations and probably even roadside hot-dog stands.

Historic Arsenal Gate Wrecked

PITTSBURG (UP)—Historic Allegheny arsenal gate, where Lafayette once reviewed troops, is falling beneath the wrecker's picks.

The ancient crenelated stone tower and walls, built in 1814 to protect the arsenal itself, were ordered razed to eliminate a traffic hazard.

The gate and its quarters were used in every major U. S. war after its construction and was the scene of a tragedy in 1862 when 74 girl munition workers died in an explosion in the arsenal.

Farmers' Daughters In Japan Are Hep

NAGANO, Japan (UP)—Japanese farmers' daughters have shown a deplorably "realistic trend" in their preferences for a marriage partner, the manager of a matrimonial bureau reports.

Ikuro Hayashi said the modern Japanese girl does not want to marry a salaried man but prefers an industrialist with plenty of money.

On the other hand, men are less exacting. They place a rich dowry second as a desirable qualification, with beauty coming first.

Doughnuts and Dollars Mix Here

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Henceforth employees of the City Bank and Trust Co. will daily savor a doughnut as well as a dollar. What's more, they'll do it in a penthouse, air-conditioned. With the doughnut will go free coffee. It's part of the new building housing the bank. The penthouse, reached by a private elevator, will be used by the bank's 250 employees.

Lunch will be offered at cost. When a stenographer is through sipping her soup, she can take a swing at shuffleboard or badminton.

For those more interested in mind than muscle, the bank offers a lounge and reading room.

The shuffleboard and badminton are played on a sundeck landscaped as a patio garden. It is surrounded by a white picket fence, and blossoming out of the black earth atop the roof are shrubs and vines.

And if that isn't enough to mend the tattered nerves of a teller, there is lounge furniture and a liberal sprinkling of beach umbrellas for those who simply want to watch.

Below is the business part of the bank, as modern in decoration as the penthouse, but down there it's all dimes and dollars. No doughnuts.

Even pigs now have the New Look. This new 1946 model porker was shown at the International Livestock Show in Chicago. A streamlined sow, called Minuetta No. 1, it is the result of nine years' development at the University of Minnesota. Farmers predict it may become a better "mortgage-breaker" than any other breed in history. The pig, which gives more pork for less feed, is longer and leaner, with its body expanding toward the hind quarters. George Slater, of Augusta, Ill., holds a rod to show the streamlined silhouette.

Work Dodger Kids His Family Along

BOSTON (UP) — Meeting a friend on a Back Bay street, a Malden man said his slothful brother, long a trial to the family, had obtained a job as an elevator oper-

The friend chuckled and pointed across the street to where work men were clambering about on the steel skeleton of a skyscraper scheduled for completion many months hence.

"That," said the friend, "is the new John Hancock building."

Second Baptist Church Adopts Budget For Year

That is known as the "unified budget plan" is being followed by the congregation. It calls for offering from each member on Sunday given into one treasury which includes everything for which money is disbursed. The church placed mission work, both state and foreign as the first item in the new budget. During the past year the church has employed an educational and evangelistic director, a Brotherhood and Training Union have been organized to afford further opportunities for collecting and training members in divine service and Christian living. Heartsease

Walking into the twilight, with the shadows of the trees growing darker, the wind falling itself to slumber . . . off in the distance I hear a cow bell.

A cow bell sounding at eventide is one of the sweetest sounds in the world. In it all the quiescence and peace the human heart needs. The woods, at dusk, are peaceful and still. One walks . . . away from the cares of the day . . . away from the sound of civilization.

As one walks, the soul becomes less turbulent. Things smooth out and one is alone with one's thoughts.

People, whether they realize it or not, need desperately to be alone sometimes . . . to get away from one's fellow man . . . from the sights and the sound of towns and cities and villages.

And in the woods, I find the things I seek.

The trees and the dirt and the green things are my friends. The animals and birds are my companions. A white rabbit, a red bird, a nightingale . . . none of these have ever betrayed me when I stood in grave need of them.

And in the twilight, as I walk . . . when the black cloak of night settles down across my shoulders . . . when, in the distance . . . through the silent woods, . . . I hear the tinkle of a cow bell.

I ask no more of Heaven . . . for my heart is at peace.

Sunday Movies O. K., Rector Insist

ALTOONA, Pa. (UP)—Voting against Sunday movies is hypocritical, in the opinion of the Rev. Canon John E. Leatherbury, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church.

He told his congregation prior to a community referendum on whether Sunday movies that religion should be practiced every day in the week—not just on Sunday.

"Let's be honest in this," the pastor said, "and forsake hypocrisy."

Canon Leatherbury added that if movies were closed on Monday for example, the ministering would be the first to object "as they go in droves to the movies on that day."

He noted that the army used movies as a morale builder and that Catholic and Protestant chaplains were responsible for planning Sunday movies for the troops.

"If movies were good in time of war, why should they not build morale in time of peace?" he asked.

Canon Leatherbury issued a verbal warning to those who by opposing Sunday movies would give the false impression they reserved the entire Sabbath for worship.

"Already an irrefutable minimum number to say their evening prayers," he said, adding:

"If you vote 'no' (in the Sunday movie referendum) I shall expect you to come to church every time the church bell rings out; when the World Series is broadcast on Sunday, turn it off; when police chase children because they play on playgrounds on Sunday, forget about it.

"I hope that my people will not be hypocrites. It is not a sin to go to Sunday movies or to have Sunday sports."

And for those who follow the letter of the Scripture, the pastor had a reassuring word: "There is no word in the Bible against entertainment on Sunday."
