Truman Wants Last November Level

Well...
I Dunno,
But...

Maybe it was just that we were in the mood for the rodeo last night but maybe it wasn't just that, that made us think that opening performance was a super duper show.

And if the other three nights are as good as that one, there just ain't nothing that can hold those Jaycees.

And so far the Brahma bull event gets our vote. Brother, those hunched back animals are rough.

The home town folks oughta like this. There's a cowboy here for the rodeo from away up in Montana or Wyoming. We don't know his name but we like what he said.

Says he's been hearing about the Ranger rodeo all over the United States and that the cowboy like it. But what they like he says, is the nice friendly way they are treated in Ranger. Hearing all of this, he blows Monday just to see for himself and sure enough it's all the truth, he says.

Now honest, ain't that nice?

Personally, we see no reason for not treating 'em nice. They're nice folks and when you meet a pretty gal like Marge Monroe from Fort Smith, who's one of the trid riders and also arena secretary, and one of the most pleasant accommodating souls we've ever met, you wonder who in the world she wants to look down her nose at 'em.

Can there's Dorothy Frizzell from Beaumont who's helping with the time keeping, who's also a pleasant gal and nice to work with.

Jimmie Petty from Fort Smith who was directing the band music at the rodeo Wednesday night was the director of the 90th Division Band when it was stationed at Abilene during the war and in which Arthur Shelton of Ranger who has been directing the Ranger band played.

One of our "readers," is the way the man described himself this morning when he called to tell us that he had the best one yet on the amateur boot wearers.

Says on the way to the rodeo last night, he saw a full grown man walking to the rodeo in his bare feet with his boots in his hands.

And he had company we understand. George Murphy lasted until about 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Then gave it down called Mama Murphy to bring in the fireproof shoes and a cooler shirt. This is the truth we know, 'cause we saw her when she drove up with the old comfortable.

If we had a saddle fittin' form and age hadn't put the fear of frisky horse in us, we'd sure like to mount one of those Palominos that Dr. P. M. Kuykendall had in the big parade Wednesday.

They were the two horses that the colorbearers rode at the head of the parade and the ones that Howard Oliver and Morris Newham rode. And those saddles! Boy, the glitter from the silver on 'em make a piece all its own.

Good horses and helping the FFA boys and 4-H Club boys are the Doctor's hobbies and he really works over time at 'em.

Reporter Jack Douglas out to cover the Ranger rodeo opening for the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, liked the show so well that he junked a bus ticket which he bought and bummed a ride back to Fort Worth with one of the cowboys, just so he could see all of the show.

And tough luck in turning in his report in his paper, delayed him until he missed part of the show anyway. Better luck next time, Jack. Dub McPhail was the photographer that was out for the Star-Telegram to cover the rodeo parade.

Capacity Crowd At Rodeo Opening

EXCITING SHOW KEEPS SPECTATORS CHEERING

"Never a dull moment" was the order of the opening performances of the Ranger Jaycees' World Championship Rodeo in the Ranger arena Wednesday night, when the third annual show got off to the fastest start yet witnessed in Ranger and showed to a capacity crowd. The grandstand was sold out and standing room tickets were sold for the opening night.

From the time of the grand entry in which more riders participated than ever before, the packed grandstands were an uproar of excitement as the crowd witnessed the hair-raising events.

Wirey calves, hard pitching and tough steers and vicious Mr. were giving the cowboys a right night of it.

Only two bull riders held on to their mounts and three men were injured in the Brahma bull riding event. David Shellenberger of Marietta, Oklahoma and J. B. Bradshaw of Bandera were the successful riders and injured were Boots Hawthorne of Lampasas, Tex Lewis of Dallas and J. T. Tacker of Waco.

Norris Patton of Austin gave the spectators the first fearful thrill when the saddle bronc he was riding pitched him head first to the ground. Patton was only stunned and walked from the arena.

George Elliott of Mouskooke, Oklahoma, at the microphone announced the opening of the rodeo and introduced the officials, judges and events.

Spectacular trick riding was furnished by Ruth Mariani of Ranger Ruby Tacker of Waco, Marge Monroe of Fort Smith, Arkansas and Ray Ramsey of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Winners in the various events were: bareback bronc riding, David Shellenberger of Marietta, Oklahoma, first; J. B. Bradshaw of Bandera, second and Harold Watson of Belton, third; calf roping, Dan Taylor of Odessa, 19.9; George Brown of Keller, 20.4; and E. J. Freeman of Abilene, 20.7.

Cowboy saddle bronc riding; J. B. Bradshaw, Bill Barton of Abilene, and Herbert Frizzell of Beaumont.

Cutting horse contest; Robert Corbett of Breckenridge of House keeper, first, Margaret Montgomery of Ozona on Scarber, second and Harold Dixon of Aledo of Flying H, third.

Bulldogging contest; Bill Leach of Kilgore, 10.3; Bo Chesson of Beaumont, 14.1; and Goldie Corbin of Fort Worth, 14.5.

Cowgirls' barrel race; Amy McGilvery of Ozona, 10.9; Margaret Montgomery of Ozona, 11.5; and Doris Streater and Bobbie Dell Streater of Hamilton, 12 seconds each.

Explosion Rips Du Pont Plant In West Virginia

NEMOQUERS, W. Va., July 29 (UP)—An explosion ripped through the E. I. Du Pont De Nemours and Co. Plant here today. Plant manager T. A. O'Barr said three workers were killed.

O'Barr said the explosion occurred in a small building used for pressing black powder for soft rock and coal blasting. Other buildings escaped damage but operations were halted pending an investigation.

Britain Stops Part Of Her Demobilization

LONDON, July 29 (UP)—Part of Great Britain's demobilization program has been stopped because of the Berlin crisis, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin announced today.

At the same time Bevin offered to begin discussions with Russia on an overall European settlement if the Soviet blockade of Berlin is lifted.

Bevin made a statement in the House of Commons on Foreign Affairs. Debate which has been scheduled was cancelled.

Bevin told Commons that the forthcoming three-power approach to the Kremlin was designed to find out "whether there is any prospect of removing obstacles which have arisen, with a view to a settlement which his majesty's government hope might lead to peace and security in Europe for all of us."

He said demobilization of "certain groups" of the Royal Air Force had been stopped because of the flight of supplies into Berlin. Steps are being taken to defer demobilization of other forces, Bevin added.

Labor Chief In MacArthur Hdq. Resigns Today

TOKYO, July 29 (UP)—Paul S. Stanchfield, deputy labor chief at allied headquarters, resigned today in protest against Gen. Douglas MacArthur's restrictive labor policy for Japanese government workers.

Stanchfield said he hoped to return to the United States with his boss, James H. Killen, who yesterday announced his intention of resigning as labor chief.

A "wildcat" teachers walkout has spread over Japan in the wake of MacArthur's "no strike" edict.

Former Indiana Senator And GOP Boss Dies Today

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)—Former Sen. James E. Watson of Indiana, republican Senate leader during the Hoover administration and long-time GOP boss of the Hoosier state, died at his home here today. He was 84.

THOUSANDS SEE RODEO PARADE WED.

Thousands of people lined Ranger's downtown streets and watched from other vantage points Wednesday, as hundreds of cowboys and cowgirls and other entries kicked off the Jaycees rodeo with a mammoth parade starting at 4 o'clock.

Befuddled judges, watching the colorful entries, finally awarded first place in the float division to the Southern Ice Company and second place to the Boy Scout entry. The ice company entry displayed blocks of pastel shaded ice in a streamer bedecked truck. The Scouts had a truck on which they had arranged a camping scene.

Joe Basham, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Hammock Basham won first place in the horse riders division for men and boys and Mary Sue Danley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Danley of Rt. 3, Ranger won in the women's and girls' division.

Parading musicians were members of the bands from Comanche, Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge. Sheb Wooley and his Calumet Indians furnished music on the streets before the parade and also joined the parade. The Gold Chain Flour Callopo driven by Tim Spurrier and played by Ralph Ray, the clown, also furnished music before and during the parade.

Entries that drew loud applause from the spectators were those of Montgomery Ward and Company, Joseph's Dry Goods, Texas Electric Service Company, Bonner's Flower Shop and Page Plumbing Company.

Duster Area Attracting Much Interest

The area in the vicinity of Duster, where there are several wells which have been producing a number of years and where recently a 40-barrel well was completed, is attracting attention.

This interest has revived a yarn that goes back to the days of the big Eastland boom of 1918-21 when acreage in all directions was in great demand.

A newcomer according to the story, bought a lease in Comanche County without looking it up on a map. When he did get around to locating his tract on the map, he found close by, in big letters, the word, "Duster." In oil field parlance, "duster" of course means a dry hole. So he hunted up the man who had sold him the lease and gave him a licking.

The town of Duster was named long before oil was dreamed of and refers to "dust-storms" or "dusters", which sometimes are to be seen in the sandy country hereabouts.

Band To Rehearse Tonight At 7

Arthur Shelton announced today that members of the Ranger School band will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at the band hall for a rehearsal before playing at the rodeo tonight.

He urged that 11 members be present.

BILL EMBODIES ALL BUT EXCISE PROFITS LEVY

WASHINGTON, July 29, (UP)—The White House today asked Congress for price and wage-control legislation which would give the administration authority to roll back prices on cost of living items to last November.

The administration's proposal was outlined to the house banking committee by Paul Porter, former OPA administrator and now a special adviser to President Truman on an anti-inflation program.

The proposed legislation followed recommendations which Mr. Truman set forth in his message to the special session of congress on Tuesday.

Porter said the bill embodied all of Mr. Truman's recommendations except that of a new excess profits tax which will be proposed in separate legislation.

The bill presented to the committee provided that the prices would be set at the level prevailing last November or the nearest appropriate period, with consideration given to—

1. Speculative fluctuations.
2. Changes in costs.
3. Changes in profits and other relevant factors.

The bill provided that wage controls may be established only after a maximum price has been fixed for a particular industry and then only if the employer requests a wage adjustment for his employees as a basis for seeking price relief.

It called for revival of wartime restrictions on installment buying. It would require a one-third down payment on such items as automobile and cooking stoves with a specified length of time for paying off the balance.

Price controls could be established on cost of living commodities on those important to production when ever the price has risen or threatens to rise at least 20 per cent above the June, 1946, level of nearest representative period, whenever regulation of the price is "practicable and enforceable."

Paul stated that draftees could be on their way overseas in from 10 to 12 weeks.

Explosion Dead Numbered At 300 By Officials

LUDWIGSHAFEN, July 29 (UP)—Nearly 1,000 American troops swarmed through the burning ruins of the great I. G. Farben chemical plant today, searching for victims buried in the rubble.

American Army officials set the dead at 300 killed, with an estimated 2,500 seriously injured in the explosion which rocked the plant yesterday. Other thousands were slightly injured or cut by flying glass when the windows of Ludwigshafen were scattered in the gigantic blast.

The explosion levelled an area of 12 square blocks. The acid stench of chemicals filled the air. How many lay dead in the wreckage could not be estimated.

Draftees May Go Overseas Soon After Are Called

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)—The Army indicated today that some men called up under the new peacetime draft may be on their way overseas 10 to 12 weeks after donning uniforms.

The estimate was included in an official draft circular sent by the army to its advisory boards throughout the country, local draft boards are expected to start drafting men 19-through-25 about Oct. 1.

But Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, Army personnel chief, hinted the Army may not need as many draftees as originally estimated. If the army gets enough volunteers, he said, "we probably won't draft anyone."

The new army circular said each draftee will receive eight weeks basic military training after he has been processed and assigned. After that he may be sent aboard, to school or to posts in this country.

Paul stated that draftees could be on their way overseas in from 10 to 12 weeks.

Chief Pounds Thanks People For Cooperation

WASHINGTON—The Senate headed into a long-deferred filibuster over civil rights legislation today with a compromise plan arousing some interest—but no action—from three warring groups.

Southern Democrats, who sometimes shy away from the term "filibuster" admitted they were ready to do just that after prolonged debate on the "merits" of the Anti-poll tax bill. The compromise plan envisaged elimination of poll taxes by constitutional amendment.

It was that bill, outwitting poll taxes in federal elections, which Senate Republicans picked for the showdown fight on the civil rights issue. Sen. John C. Stennis, D., Miss., was nominated by the southerners to lead off the debate. Some 20 other Senators have been lined up behind the campaign to talk the bill to death.

Chief W. G. Pounds today expressed his appreciation to the people of Ranger and the visitors for the fine cooperation given police in removing cars from Main Street Wednesday and for the orderly manner in which all conducted themselves.

He stated that everything worked like clock work and that everybody was courteous and cooperative.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

U. S. Statistics Diggers Will Turn Up Some Hot Potatoes

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Truman's mid-year report from his Council of Economic Advisors is due any day now. Also on tap is the summary on government expenditures for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1949. This latter document is prepared by the Bureau of the Budget after a most careful check on all the appropriation bills passed by the last Congress.

Each of these reports are supposed to be cold analyses of conditions and outlook in business and government spending. This year, however, the two reports will be important campaign literature. In the case of the budget summary, there is a first real accounting on how much the Republican dominated congresses were able to cut President Truman's $39,000,000,000 estimate of last January. Congress voted to cut this budget by $2,500,000,000. Chairman John Taber of the House Appropriations Committee claims they did.

There are so many hidden gimmicks in appropriation bills, however—so many "contract authorizations" substituted for outright appropriations—that it usually takes a month after Congress goes home before the true totals can be obtained.

ANY way this year's government budget is looked at, it is inflationary. The increased appropriations for European recovery, for China relief and military aid, for the 70 group U. S. Air Force plan, increased Army and Navy appropriations and provision for the draft—all give government spending a great big boost, regardless of any legal or theoretical budget savings.

Similar inflationary trends are bound to be noted in the President's economic report on private business conditions.

Wholesale prices reached a new postwar peak of 166 per cent above the 1926 level at the end of June.

In the past year the cost of food has gone up over 20 percentage points, clothing over 10 and rents about eight. As compared with 1947, food is up over 105 per cent, clothing 90 per cent, rent 10 per cent.

All this is political campaign ammunition. Republicans will blame the Democrats for the increased foreign spending programs. Democrats will blame Republicans for refusing to do anything about putting some anti-inflationary controls back on. Labor will blame management for boosting prices and management will blame labor for demanding more wage increases.

RECENTLY the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report took over from the President's Council of Economic Advisors the job of publishing an up-to-the-minute monthly survey of business statistics, to be called "Economic Indicators." By graph and table, it will give the latest data on prices, employment, production, business activity, purchasing power, money, banking, federal finance.

But already it has been discovered that the government doesn't have enough data in many fields to do an accurate job of economic diagnosis. In a report just issued by the Joint Committee's staff, attention was called to some of the statistical gaps—the areas in which there still isn't enough dope to tell where business has been or is, and where it's going.

There are some of the fields in which the government needs more statistics to throw at you:

- Surveys on consumer purchasing demand by geographic area.
- Reports on wages of employees not covered by social security.
- Information on capital returns of unincorporated business.
- Detailed breakdowns on unemployment by areas and occupations.
- More data on how small and medium business is faring.
- A new census on wholesale and retail trade establishments.
- Better data on the volume and costs of new construction.
- New methods on measuring productivity in U. S. industry.

Dempsey Faced Gibbons, Firpo In Epic Fights 25 Years Ago

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Proponents of Jack Dempsey as the greatest of all heavyweight champions—despite venerable Billy Roche to the contrary—bolster their claim by pointing out that every one of the Kansas Mauler's battles was an epic.

This year marks the 25th anniversary of two of his engagements that were unique, yet diametrically opposite in every way. Dempsey's fight with Tom Gibbons, July 4, 1923, in the frontier town of Shelby, Mont., was the only one of his championship battles to go 15 rounds. Gibbons, well versed in the clever stuff, however, found more than his match in the champion, and was hard put to it to go the distance.

The setting and circumstances leading up to and surrounding the affair, lent vivid color. Shelby, it seems, wanted to put itself on the map, and local businessmen conceived staging the Dempsey-Gibbons fight there. Jack Kearns, then managing the champion, was promised a guarantee of $300,000.

The usual influx of star sports writers converged on the scene. The night overnight the frontier town boomed into full flower. When it was staged, there were more gate crashers than cash customers for the great tent, and poor Gibbons wound up fighting for nothing. Dempsey collected about $250,000, and Shelby went broke.

The Shelby fight proved a warm-up for the wildest, most tumultuous of all Dempsey's battles, that with Luis Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas, at the Polo Grounds the following Sept. 14. There never was such a shambles in the history of prize-fighting—probably never will be.

Before the echo of the opening gong had died, the Tiger Man had hurled himself at the Wild Bull and had been joined to his knees. He pulled himself up like a boy climbing a tree, and proceeded to batter Firpo to the floor seven times. Then the South American electrified the wild crowd by smashing Dempsey through the ropes and out of the ring.

How Dempsey was half-pushed, half-crawled back, how he came back after that tempestuous round and knocked out Firpo is history. But the hysterical madness of the crowd probably never will be fully recorded. For instance, Mickey Walker, then welterweight champion, found himself beating a man in front of him on the back and shrieking crazily for Dempsey. Suddenly the fellow turned and smote Walker on the chest, knocking him four rows back.

When some semblance of sanity was returning, the big fellow turned to Walker and apologized: "Gee," gasped Walker, "no wonder you hit me so hard. Honest, Babe, I didn't know it was you." But that's who it was—Babe Ruth!

Nobody Loves Forever

THE STORY: Lucy has become indifferent and distant. Jessica tells her she works too hard, has no life of her own. "You should marry, have a husband," says Jessica. Lucy breaks down. "I'll never marry," she cries bitterly. "I'll live here with Mother until I'm pronounced." Later, walking over to Genevieve's with Lucy, Jessica says there is something Lucy should know. "It's about David Gregory, isn't it?" asks her sister-in-law.

XXIII
JESSICA said slowly, "I'm going to marry David Gregory, Lucy." Lucy did not answer immediately. When she did, her tone was troubled. "I can't believe you'll hurt Tom, Jessica."

"Someone must be hurt." "Tom's the kindest man. He's gone through so much." Jessica dropped Lucy's arm. "That's no argument," she said. "That's the argument everyone will use. In pecuniary a woman and man who disagree and are unhappy together feel that divorce is the only sensible method of solving their differences. Why should a uniform make a saint of any man or require his wife to lead an unhappy life because her husband was in danger? Tom will strip off that uniform and be the same man who went away."

"I don't think anyone will be the same when this war is over. I think it has changed and warped the views of everyone who has lived through it. I believe it has intensified emotions." She stopped suddenly, and Jessica guessed Lucy was embarrassed at her own words.

She laughed. "I never knew you to be so philosophical, Lucy. Maybe I misjudge you," she said teasingly. "Maybe you hide behind that placid face plenty of thoughts which would alarm your mother."

"Poor Mother." Jessica could not agree. Lucy was the person to pity. Lucy, who tonight showed the first indication of restlessness and rebellion against her lot. Maybe she was happier before I came, thought Jessica uneasily. Possibly I should leave her as she is and not tell her constantly that she should be different.

A DAY or two later, Lucy announced that she had a week's holiday and Mrs. Blake promptly filled every day with tasks which she had postponed for just such an opportunity. Lucy was up early, working doggedly outdoors and indoors, dragging the last dead plants out of the garden patch under her mother's direction, scrubbing down the kitchen walls.

There was a peculiar obstinacy in her eyes as she worked. The outdoor work made her cheeks color brilliantly.

"You work like someone possessed," Jessica told her. "Not my idea of a holiday."

Lucy stripped off her work gloves. Her blond hair was a tangled mass about her thin cheeks. "I'm going to have a change," she said abruptly. "I'm going for an all-day hike on Saturday. Mother knows I won't be here to help then and she wants everything done before Tom returns."

"He may not return for weeks," said Jessica indifferently. "No reason to work yourself to death."

"Be good to Tom, won't you?" said Lucy unexpectedly.

"You know perfectly well what I plan to do," Jessica shot her a surprised glance.

Lucy pushed back her hair. She said, "Don't do anything until I come back? Promise?"

Jessica turned to regard her curiously. She put down the dish she was polishing. "What's on your mind exactly?" she asked. "Planning to take my advice and leave town suddenly?"

Her tone was teasing but Lucy's face clouded. "Don't say that."

"I believe you have some secret plan," said Jessica. "Look! I talk too much. I don't want to interfere in your Mrs. Gregory. But Lucy was gone, and her mother stood staring hostilely at Jessica from the doorway into the dining room. "What were you saying to Lucy?" she demanded.

JESSICA set down a glass, picked up another and polished it carefully. "Nothing."

Mrs. Blake advanced a step into the kitchen. "You don't fool me. You'd like to persuade Lucy to be a bad girl—yes, you would. I'm not blind."

Jessica carried the glasses across the kitchen and placed them on the shelf before she answered. Then she said quietly, "I feel sorry for Lucy."

"Why should you?" "Because she never has any young life—or fun."

"I suppose you think that's all there is in life—fun?" "I believe life is something more than dismal routine of duty and work, if you mean that. For Lucy being a bad girl, no one could make her that. She's the best girl I've ever known—sweet and thoughtful. If it hadn't been for Lucy, I couldn't have stayed here," she ended, losing all control.

She whirled and faced the woman who stood staring at her with no softening in her pale eyes. "I'm not going to stay here much longer," announced Jessica. She whipped off her apron and hung it behind the kitchen door. "I'm going back to Kentucky to my father. I'm going back to where people are happy and don't interfere with the lives of others..."

"We'll see about that," said Mrs. Blake harshly. "We'll see what Tom has to say about dragging his child away from here and letting her grow up without a shred of discipline. If you want to go, I say good riddance to bad rubbish. You think you are better than Tom's family. Well, you aren't!"

Jessica slammed the door as she left the room. There, she had done what she had vowed not to do. Antagonized her mother-in-law still further. Made more difficult the task of persuading Tom to let her go and take Betsy. But nothing would keep her here.

Oil Strike Zooms W. Virginia Town To Prosperity

By PAUL WIDEM
United Press Staff Correspondent
SILVERTON, W. VA. (UP)—A surprise strike that gave rise to a jungle of 18 oil derricks and rigs has turned this small farming community of 100 people into a town reminiscent of those of the California '40s.
Deep in the West Virginia hills, Silverton normally concentrates its energy on its service station, grocery store, church and community building. Its population lives in about 15 houses.
Several months ago the Columbian Carbon Co. set its derricks here to probe a test gas well. Unexpectedly, they struck oil at 2,150 feet and later discovered a large pool.
The "rush" was on.
Within days the population tripled. An influx of riggers, drillers, tool dressers and oil company representatives hoisted their equipment in potato patches, in front, back and side yards and on hills protecting Silverton. The workers are not native Silvertonians.
Almost every landowner is reaping his share of financial benefits in royalties.

Mrs. W. I. Bennett watched as a well was shot in her back yard.
"We've lived here a year and a half and never dreamed of anything like this happening to us," she said excitedly.
A group of elderly women were sitting on a porch discussing Silverton's sudden rise to notoriety.
"Are you going to drill on your land?" a reporter asked.
One of the women sadly answered: "No, we only rent this

A woman, whose back yard has become her fortune, cashed a $400 check in nearby Ravenswood for approximately 12 days oil production.

Full Use of Electrical Appliances

- Your kitchen planning should provide properly placed convenience outlets for all of your portable electrical appliances—those you have now and those you plan to add later.

There are many small appliances to make your kitchen tasks easier—the roaster, mixer, coffee maker, waffle iron, toaster, grill and many others. List those you will want in your kitchen and plan outlets for them.

Your overhead wall cabinets can be equipped with built-in outlets on the under surface. (See illustration at the left.) Or, regular double-socket outlets can be installed along the walls, above the drainboard.

The importance of proper wiring cannot be overemphasized. The cost of good wiring, including all the outlets you need, is insignificant compared to the convenience it will bring to your electric kitchen.

Consult your electrical contractor-dealer, architect or builder about adequate wiring.

Stolen Typewriters Finance GI Fun

FRANKFURT, Germany (UP)—The GI's more money for European smugglers in typewriters than in dope today, according to U. S. military police.

Five hundred army typewriters are missing. Many of the typewriters have been taken by GI's and civilians looking for a way to finance a cheap holiday in Parisian pleasure palaces, a U. S. police authority said.

Recently agents were tipped that an American courier slipped away to Paris carrying dope in his diplomatic pouch. Agents trailed him. When they opened the pouch they found two calculating machines, presumably for sale to Paris dealers.

"Worth more than narcotics, anyway," one authority said. Calculating machines sell almost as readily as typewriters to dealers who advertising in Parisian papers for used office machinery.

Recently, a GI from Germany was picked up on the French frontier, he was carrying 14 typewriters.

Boots-Hawthorne of Lampasas who was injured in Wednesday night's performance of the Ranger rodeo was dismissed from the West Texas Hospital today.

"He could have played a lot in Paris with them," a police authority said.

"IF YOU KNEW SUSIE"

Raw Foods And Milk Advised For Ulcers

SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)— If you are afraid of stomach ulcers, you may do well to include raw foods and fresh milk in your diet.

That conclusion was reached by Dr. Garnett Cheney, scientist at Stanford University's school of medicine, after tests conducted with guinea pigs.

A diet rich in vitamin U, found in raw foods and milk but deficient in heated foods, reduces peptic ulcer occurrences, a university bulletin said. The importance of the findings depends on whether the human stomach behaves exactly like that of guinea pigs, the bulletin added.
