At Least 12 Killed In Texas, Oklahoma Tornadoes

FIVE OF DEAD KILLED IN CLYDE, NEAR BAIRD

HOLDENVILLE, Okla., April 29 (UP) — At least 12 persons were dead today from a series of tornadoes which slashed across Oklahoma and West Texas last night.

Five of the known dead were at Holdenville, in Central Oklahoma, where a tornado led down at the Southwest edge of the city and skipped and twisted over an area 8 blocks long and a half-block to three blocks deep.

Five other persons were killed in Callahan County, Texas. Three from one family at the little town of Clyde and two others near the town of Baird.

A Sentinel, Oklahoma banker collapsed and died—apparently of a heart attack—shortly after telephoning a frantic warning to his wife that a tornado was approaching the town, in Southwest Oklahoma. And at Hobart, a 65-year-old man was killed when the same twister destroyed his home.

Holdenville was the heaviest hit. The Red Cross declared the city of 7,000 a disaster area.

Eighteen Holdenville persons were hospitalized with storm injuries, and at least three of them were in critical condition.

Oklahoma Highway Patrolman O. L. Nickerson reported from Holdenville that the number of injured may be more than 40 when all reports are in. Sixty homes in one 10-block area were destroyed.

The patrol said at dawn that all persons had been accounted for. In the first hours of confusion last night, four were listed as missing.

A vast portion of West Texas, a 100-odd mile strip ranging from Haskell Southward to the Clyde-Baird area not far from the Plains city of Abilene, was buffeted by winds and beaten by severe hail. At several points, hailstones were described as "big as baseballs."

The savage tornado that lowered at the Southeast corner of Clyde seemed to "stay there in the same spot more than five minutes," Mrs. J. R. Ward, editor of the Clyde Weekly Enterprise said.

"Hail came two hours before the tornado, and for another hour after it."

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tabor and their daughter, Annie Mae, the victims at Clyde, lost their lives when the tornado collapsed their brick house, trapping them in the rubble.

Grocer Jack Pyatt said, "Nothing was left standing of that house. It was knocked flat." Pyatt waited out the tornado in a storm cellar. Clyde has many such eastern refuges, many of them built after a 1938 tornado which swept the little town and killed 14 persons.

"I was in that 1938 twister," Pyatt said. "This one was like it a lot of ways. In 1938, it came on a Friday evening, too. And about the same time of day—in the late afternoon."

Mrs. Ward said, "most of the people in Clyde headed for their storm cellars. I didn't. I had several guests in the house, and I stayed up and watched it. We were ready to take cover if the funnel headed on into the main part of town—but it didn't. It seemed to hover in just about one place."

"When it started moving away, finally, I soon lost sight of it because of the hailstones were coming down so thick."

Pyatt counted eight wrecked homes in the section where the Tabor was killed. Four persons were injured—Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Griffin and their sons, Kenneth and K. D.

The fatality list for the storms: Oklahoma: Mr. and Mrs. Ben Collins, Holdenville. Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Dowdy, Holdenville. Earl Dean Walker, 13, Holdenville. R. A. Glascock, 65, near Hobart. Cy Yates, 63, the Sentinel bank worker.

Texas: Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tabor and their daughter, Annie Mae, 39, all of Clyde. Tabor was 65; his wife, 60. Mr. and Mrs. Steve Walker, who lived on a farm 3 miles East of Clyde.

C. of C. Appeals For Complete Census Here

The Ranger Chamber of Commerce today issued the following appeal to the people of Ranger and employers here to see that every person residing in the city limits of Ranger is enumerated in the federal census.

"Employers of Ranger have a job to do right now for Ranger. This job is simple but vital. Please check all your employees to determine if they have been included in the census count. If anyone has been overlooked please advise the Chamber of Commerce, phone 31, giving the employee name, business and home address."

The census is important to every phase of our civic life. To business men it is particularly important, for the population and business figures will be used for ten years to set up new distribution points, determine leading secondary market areas, and will classify Ranger with all population centers.

The census will affect loans for homes, loans for business and industrial ventures, and it is important that the 1950 census reflect accurately what Ranger has in population, education and wealth.

The enumerators have finished their work within the city limits unless someone has been overlooked, and they are anxious to do their job accurately. Please check your employees at once and if any of them have been overlooked telephone 31. The Chamber of Commerce.

Three Attend Nat'l Housing Convention

Morris Newnam, chairman of the Low-Rent Housing Authority in Ranger, Nicol Crawford, a member of the authority, and Joe Nussell, attorney for the board, have returned from Brownsville where they attended the convention of the National Association of Housing Officials.

The meeting was held Thursday and Friday and the main purpose of the meeting was the indoctrination of the younger housing officials. Sessions were held on land acquisition, architecture, construction and management and other phases of the housing problems of the country. The three stated that the meeting was very beneficial to them and the housing project proposed for Ranger.

Nussell said today that work on the Ranger project is going forward in an orderly manner and that the first two of nine prospectuses will be mailed to the Public Housing Authority about Monday. When these papers on the program development here are completed and passed upon by the authority, actual construction is expected to get underway.

"GLAD IT'S OVER" SAYS BYROM WHEN ARRESTED

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 29 (UP) — Anonymous tips telephoned hourly to Sheriff Sully Montgomery led to the capture early today of 21-year-old desperado Lawrence E. Byrom.

Byrom escaped from the Gaineville jail April 8. He was the object of a widespread manhunt after he and a companion terrorized the Denton county town of Justin late Monday evening by staging two daylight robberies in quick succession on main street.

Montgomery and Deputy Sheriff J. V. Green captured Byrom at his mother's home as he lay asleep. The young bandit offered no resistance and told the officers, "I'm glad it is over."

Byrom told the sheriff he came to Ft. Worth late yesterday, after hiding out almost three days in thick woods in Wise county near Boyd. Fifty armed possemen searched the woods Thursday but didn't flush him. Byrom said hunger finally drove him out.

Montgomery said "some man" who refused to identify himself called Green about 9:30 P. M. He told him to go to the Sheriff's house and await further instructions "if he wanted to catch Byrom." Green went at once to Mont-

MEDIATORS PUSH TOWARD TWO STRIKE SETTLEMENTS

CHICAGO, April 29 (UP) — Federal mediators worked today to settle a strike of equipment installers still plaguing the telephone industry, and in the automobile industry optimism was high for a settlement of the 95-day Chrysler strike.

A possible walkout by one division of the CIO Communication Workers of America has been averted by 11,000 members of another group—the equipment installers who work for the Western Electric Co.—are idle and strike leader Paul M. Williams said in Chicago that they "may set up picket lines today."

None appeared, however, in the early morning.

If they were established, other members of the CWA would be expected to honor them.

Optimism rose, high, however, for a weekend settlement of the Chrysler strike which has idled 144,000 workers. Negotiations between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers, representing 89,000 employees, were reported to be clearing final barriers for a settlement.

A walkout by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers threatened to cut commuter service into New York City on the Long Island Railroad Monday.

The touchiest labor situation was in the telephone dispute. An official for 11,000 Western Electric installers who have been on strike since Monday said the workers were "burned up" because their union; the CIO Communication Workers, had dropped many of its wage demands against the parent firm, American Telephone and Telegraph Corp.

The installers, he said, were threatening to set up picket lines at telephone installations. If they did, it was quite likely other CWA members would refuse to enter the telephone offices and a national work stoppage would result.

The installation workers had walked out over a grievance but other CWA members held up a nationwide strike scheduled for last Wednesday while federal mediators made a final attempt to reach a settlement on their demand for pay boosts.

Fifty-six Long Island railroad engineers reported themselves as "sick" today as part of a week-end slowdown to protest "deplorable working conditions." About 350 engineers were expected to list themselves as sick by Monday when they will be required to have medical examinations.

The time lost while they take the examinations could result in curtailment of services on the line.

Meanwhile, Fort Worth city detectives said they would talk with the young desperado in the Tarrant County jail here in an effort to clear up several Fort Worth robberies.

The Sheriff said Byrom told him he came to Ft. Worth after the Justin robbery Monday, then went to Boyd. He was seen there by an acquaintance. An armed posse of 50 men threw a cordon around the thickly wooded area Thursday where he was seen, but they failed to find him. Texas Rangers said they believed he had eluded the posse and left the area.

"Thank God it is over," Byrom's mother said when officers arrested him. Sheriff Montgomery said the woman had a strong influence over her errant son.

Well... I Dunno, But...

Alec, the clown who performed in Ranger at the Jaycees' first annual rodeo, visited Ranger Friday afternoon.

Alec was traveling with a motorcycle which was advertising the Callahan County Rodeo to be held in Baird May 4, 5, and 6.

As usual, he was dispensing his charm to the ladies as well as to the crowd gathered to hear the music and announcements about the rodeo.

The famous bullfighter turned crooner and did a number or two of the blues variety and in such volume that a public address system was hardly necessary. No doubt that volume has been developed through the strenuous exercise in bullfighting.

And we'll never forget the close shaves Alec had with some of those Brahma bulls at the rodeo. He was pulling with Bill Merrick, another clown, when the latter was injured at the show.

Texas weather is really on the rampage and is running the gamut of tricks.

For the last two or three weeks, temperatures have been doing a saw-saw up and down the thermometer. With one day's maximum temperature down in the sixties and the next up in the nineties.

A little sultry session yesterday resulted in violence and many a Ranger resident was scanning the skies anxiously late Friday afternoon and Friday night.

While nothin' used to make us madder than to be dragged out to bed at all hours of the night to go to the storm cellar, we betcha there were a lot of people around Baird and Clyde that were sure glad to have cellars to scamper into. And after such an experience as they had at Clyde a number of years back, we guess that the oldtimers didn't have to be coaxed to run for those holes in the ground.

Someday when we get time we'll have to sit down and recall all of the equipment that used to be kept in our storm cellar.

Right now we recall the coal oil lamps, candles, an ax for choppin' out in case a tree of house fell on the door, canned goods, cots, blankets and a generous population of scorpions, spiders and even sometimes snakes! One we had always had to have a scaffold work or planks because it seeped. Many's the time we sat in that cellar, our imagination running rampant, picturing all kinds of evil water reptiles lurkin' in the depths beneath us.

Oh yes, and there was the rope tied to the door and onto which our Dad clung with fury for fear the wind would rip off the door.

And when a storm came up and we had to go to the cellar, there we stayed until the stars were shining or the sun came through the clouds.

Them certainly was the days!

U. S. FIRM IN STAND FOR KEEPING UNITED NATIONS

By Edward V. Roberts—United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 29 (UP)—It was apparent today that the United States government thinks the United Nations is here to stay—for a while at least.

Former President Herbert Hoover's proposal for ousting the Russians from the world organization and starting all over again brought firm negative response from high administration officials and from the two top Republican consultants of the state department—former Sens. John Foster Dulles, N. Y. and John Sherman Cooper, Ky.

At the same time, however, officials disclosed that this government is not content to permit the U. N. to remain in the frustrated situation to which it has been reduced by a salvo of Soviet vetoes.

Under study are proposals to call a conference for revising the charter—proposals which might launch an American effort to restrict, but not eliminate, the veto. American officials are wedded to the basic veto idea, but do not think it should apply to such things as membership applications, for instance.

U. S. officials said Soviet vetoes have blocked 14 nations from membership so far. Italy holds the record, having been turned down by Moscow's vote four times.

There are strong indications that the United States will speak to increase the power and scope of the general assembly to offset the paralysis of the security council where Russian delegates have made some 40-odd vetoes.

Meanwhile, State Department officials point out that the free nations can make all sorts of mutual assistance combinations inside and outside the U. N. Russia chief annoyance today, they said, is the North Atlantic Defensive Alliance, which is registered with U. N. as a security arrangement.

Outside the U. N., they said, U. S. officials said Soviet vetoes have blocked 14 nations from membership so far. Italy holds the record, having been turned down by Moscow's vote four times.

"Wishing" Theme Of Junior Banquet For Senior Class Thursday Night

Members of the Junior class of Ranger High School entertained Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Blue Room of the Gholson Hotel with a banquet honoring members of the senior class.

A profusion of roses and iris decorated the banquet hall and the banquet table and the theme of the evening was "wishing". Programs were bound in wishing well covers and places were marked by cards to which was attached a wish bone.

The wishing theme was carried out in the menu and program and Jimmy Hensley presided as master of ceremonies. Dr. G. C. Boswell spoke briefly on "Heavenly Wishes". The Junior class sang a toast to the seniors after which Betty Jo Penn, president of the Junior class gave the address of welcome. Gene Ready, president of the senior class, gave the response.

Patsy Taylor was presented in solo, "I Am Wishing" and Bob Crawford and Jimmy Smith gave a duet, "Tuneful Wishes", accompanied at the piano by Wanda Clem. "Wishing Will Make It So" was sung by Berle Blackwell, Florence Ashcraft, Lloyd Jones and Madrin Huffman, accompanied by Mrs. A. L. Rainwater.

The guests joined in singing "I'm Looking Over A Four Leaf Clover" accompanied by Mrs. Rainwater after which Jane Ann McMillan gave "Wishing", a reading.

Guests were then invited to drop coins in a wishing well arranged on a side table and as the wishes were made aloud, they were fulfilled by those called upon. A fine display of talent from the two classes resulted from the "wishes".

To close the banquet juniors sang "Goodbye" to the seniors and the guests then went to the Teen Canteen for entertainment. One hundred and five guests attended.

Texan One Of 2 To Break Jail In Germany

MUNICH, Germany, April 29 (UP) — American police today captured one of two American soldiers who broke jail two days ago and left a trail of car thefts across Bavaria.

Provost Marshal's office said Air Force Pvt. John R. Vetter, 20, of Mohrbridge, S. Dak., was captured shortly before noon near Rosenheim, about 35 miles south-east of Munich.

But his jailbreaking companion, Lon T. Stephens, 19, of Pampa, Tex., managed to escape on foot "and still is at large, fully armed", the announcement said.

The two were together when police, ordered to shoot on sight if necessary, captured Vetter.

The two were reported to have stolen at least three cars since they escape from the Fuerstendfeldbruck Air Police Stockade Thursday afternoon when they slugged and trussed their guard. They were armed with the guard's .45 caliber pistol and a 12-gauge shotgun, both loaded with five rounds of ammunition.

German police and military police centered their search in the area of the Chiemsee rest center in the hope that former German girl friends of the two men might lead them into the open.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
 "Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the Lesson - Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 30.
 The Golden Text is: "Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. Cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double-minded." (James 4:8).
 Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love" (John 15:10).
 The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The substance of all devotion is the reflection and demonstration of divine-Love, healing sickness and destroying sin" (page 241).

Our Boy goes to CHURCH

WHAT a fine lad he is! How proud we are of him! And now he goes to Church and the Church School. There he will worship and learn to love the great and the good; he will hear the most "wonderful story ever told," of the love and graciousness of God, as revealed in a human person. He will fellowship with other children who are learning to know and to serve God. This is a splendid picture. How we wish that all the boys in the land would do as this fine chap who is on the way that leads to life!

WHERE are the other three boys who make up three-fourths of our boy population? Perhaps their parents were too busy doing "practical things" on Sunday morning when they could have been leading their children by the hand to Sunday School and Church. Boys go to church better if they are brought by worshipping parents than if they are "sent by indifferent fathers and mothers." Our children will follow pretty much in our steps, and will take the same Sunday paths that we follow.

EVERY child born in a Christian land has a right to the advantages of religion. We do them an injustice if we fail to give them their rightful heritage of faith and hope and love. These are the Goods which will abide when other things fail us. Let's give our children the best. Since they are minds and souls as well as bodies, they have a right to expect of us good food for their higher nature as well as shelter and food for their bodies. Let's live with them in reverence toward God and in goodwill toward all men. The Church is ours to use and ours to serve. Shall we deny ourselves and our children the high and noble values of civilization?

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the individual are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH-GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

FOR FISHERMEN ONLY

The story of Contron F and Fire Lacquer begins about 16 years ago when Robert C. Switzer, then 18 year old and a student of chemistry at the University of California and his brother, Joseph L., one year younger, were experimenting with color illusions for their amateur magician acts. They eventually developed a chemical compound that glowed weirdly under ultraviolet light. They used this in their magic illusions and attracted so much notice that they were invited to produce an act for a magicians convention in Oakland in 1938. Their act of ballet dancers with costumes that glowed with an eerie light was the hit of the show.

Following this, night club and show producers swamped them with orders. They became so busy filling orders that they quit school and opened a factory to manufacture this fluorescent like material which they called "Cold-fire." They eventually worked out other uses for their new chemical such as detecting flaws in metal. They later moved to Cleveland, Ohio and soon several large automotive and farm machinery companies were using their process.

Soon, they were experimenting with their new product to utilize the ultraviolet rays of the sun to activate their weird chemical. Instead of impregnating ordinary material, they undertook to make it a base of glowing new material. They finally succeeded, producing a formula that gave them a synthetic fabric in several colors that were many times brighter than fabrics containing ordinary dyes.

Before the war the Navy Department was looking for new ideas in signaling devices. In 1941 at Fort Knox, Kentucky, they accepted the Switzer Brothers Daylight Fluorescent Signaling Device and when we entered the war it was one of our important military tools.

Early in the war, two aviators, forced down at sea were trying to catch fish to keep them alive but were having no luck. About dusk one of the fishermen suggested that they try a piece of that bright stuff their signal flag was made of as a lure. With these brightly wrapped hooks the fish began to bite hungrily. They reported the incident after their rescue but it was soon forgotten.

After the war John O. Gantner, Jr., a California building sign manufacturer adopted this bright material for bathing suits and beach wear. The important development for fishermen came in 1947. Eugene O. Burns, a former college professor and war correspondent, called on M. Gantner. Burns being an enthusiastic fisherman, used some of this bright thread to make up a few trout flies. These he tried in the California Streams and the results were sensational. As Mr. Burns described it. These flies, however, were short of perfection as they were not waterproof and when treated, lost their radiant glow. But Burns and Gantner stayed with their problem and soon the Switzer Bros. were making waterproof thread for fly tying which they called Contron F.

With this, Gantner and Burns and a few associates formed the Firelac Corporation in San Francisco. Flies were tied with this Contron F, and turned over for test to experienced anglers in several parts of the country. The results were glowing reports of these glowing lures. At high altitudes and early morning and late afternoon fishing, they surpassed anything they had ever used. Forty-five commercial tackle manufacturers are now using it.

Waterproofing still dulls the color of this Fire Lacquer but research is still working on this problem. Hackle, hair and wings are still made from animal hair and feathers but Contron F will soon be produced in a form which will permit its use on these materials.

Fire Lacquer is another form of this Fluorescent material for all types of plugs and casting lures. One noteworthy fact is that these new fluorescent materials can not lose their color or their

If You Attended The Tax Sale—
... and bought either town lots or acreage, you will not need an abstract at this time. Whatever you bought is subject to redemption rights of former owners. But file your deed because the two-year redemption period does not start until the deed is filed with the County Clerk. If the property is not redeemed within the time required by law, then get an abstract and have the title cleared of any possible faults or defects.
