TANK-LED KOREDS STRIKE HARD

South Koreans Retreat Three Miles Towards Taegu

B-29'S HIT NORTH KOREANS—In largest air raid of the Korean war, (1) 98 B-29's dropped 850 tons of 500-pound bombs on a 24 square mile area (shaded rectangle) where communist troops were concentrated for all out offensive. Along Naktong-River-Taegu front (2) First Cavalry troops drove Reds out of Waegwan, wiped out an enemy bridgehead south of the town and contained a second one to the northeast. North Korean attempts to break out of their main bridgehead below Changnyong were repulsed. From the Pohang front (3) Reds produced a new threat to Taegu when they took Agang-ni in force and penetrated along the Pohang-Taegu highway to within 28-miles of the South Korean capital. South Koreans continued drive to cut Red columns in vicinity of Imamni. On Northern front (4) South Koreans stopped enemy drive and drove Reds back in counterattack. In the south (5), army and Marines opened up some 13,000 isolated enemy troops in their drive toward Chinju. (NEA Telephoto).

PEANUT CROP NEEDS HALF INCH OF RAIN

Big Harvest, Good Prices In Prospect
 "We need about half an inch of rain to top off the peanut crop," T. C. Wylie general manager of the Ranger Peanut company, said today.
 The 40,000 acre crop will be ready to harvest in another few weeks, Wylie estimated. He said that the mill is ready to go.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE is accepting donations from Ranger businessmen to pay a $50 bonus for the first load of peanuts and the first bale of cotton brought to Ranger.
 Wylie said that he expects the peanut crop to be a little less than last year's near record harvest.

The price on quota peanuts is higher than last year's market price of $204 per ton. The price at this time is $209 per ton for 70 grade peanuts harvested off of quota acres. Oil base peanuts are selling on the present market at 9.3 cents per pound total meats.

WYLIE SAID THAT THE mill will be able to handle all kinds of peanuts for both the government and for the mill. Moisture restrictions and grading methods are the same as last year. There is an additional penalty for foreign materials, the company manager said. The penalty is $1 per ton for each one per cent rise over $12 per cent foreign material present.

The county averages 400 or 500 pounds of peanuts per acre. Some farmers reported a ton per acre in record 1949. Wylie said that he expects production to be equally high this year.

Plans Made To Build US 80 Wider

Construction of a four-lane highway between Cisco and Eastland should start sometime in September, a spokesman for the highway department said today.

Construction is now being completed on a four lane road between Abilene and Cisco. Money for the Cisco-Eastland construction has been appropriated. The county is now working to get right-a-way for the extension.

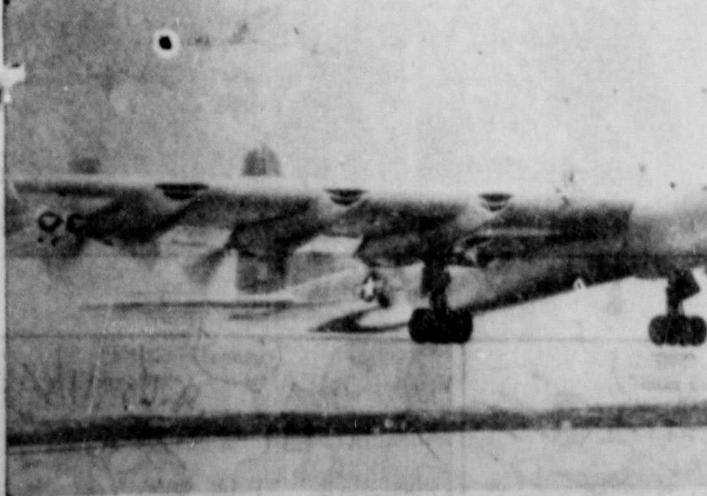

Plans also call for the highway between Eastland and Ranger to be widened and straightened at a later date.

The Breckenridge - Eastland highway state No. 6 is being black hot-topped and work should be completed this week.

The hot asphalt insures a water tight seal.

Work on the Morton Valley road is going ahead and plans call for the road to be finished by the

Hurricane Rolls Towards Florida Gold Coast

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 17 (UP)—A tremendous hurricane rolled across the Atlantic toward Florida's "Gold Coast" today.
 Hurricane warnings were ordered up in the Northern Bahamas and the Florida peninsula was put on a standby alert.
 "This is now a large and severe hurricane," Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said in a 10:30 a.m., EST advisory. He placed the storm center 480 miles east of Miami moving toward the coast.

THE ADVISORY SAID THE storm was moving at about 10 miles an hour with winds estimated at 140 miles an hour at the center. The strongest winds extended 60 miles to the south and 100 miles to the north of center and "gale winds or higher" cover an area 350 miles in diameter.

Hurricane warnings advised for Bahamas islands north of latitude 24. Preliminary hurricane alert indicated for the state of Florida, the advisory said.

THE CENTER WILL MOVE into the Northern Bahamas in about 20 to 24 hours if its present course is maintained.

The weather bureau said the next hurricane bulletin would be issued at 2 p.m. EST followed by another at 5 p.m.

"ALL EMERGENCY HURRI- cane precautions are advised for the Northern Bahamas and Florida should stay on the alert for further advisories today and tonight," the advisory said.

The giant wind coil, the first of the season but measuring up to some of the biggest tropical storms on record, was churning up 130 miles of ocean with hurricane force winds when a navy plane flew out at 4 a.m. CST to look it over.

Engineers Cut Estimates

FORT WORTH, Aug. 17 (UP)—The Corps of Engineers' district office today whittled more than $7,000,000 off its estimates for construction of four Trinity river reservoirs.

THE WEATHER

By United Press
 North Texans were promised slightly cooler temperatures and cloudy skies today, but "Southerners" were in for more of the same hot and dry summer weather.
 The U. S. Weather Bureau predicted a few thundershowers in the north portion of the state this afternoon and tonight. Cloudy skies, said the weatherman, would keep temperature readings down.

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 18 (UP)—Tank-led Communist forces some 30,000 strong struck within 20 miles of Taegu today in an offensive which sent South Korean troops reeling back two to three miles.

The assault on a 15-mile front dented the allied beachhead at its northeast corner. But spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today the setback north of Taegu did not appear to be a major breakthrough.

"As far as we know the North Koreans still are pressing the South Korean positions in the north," the spokesman said. "The South Koreans are giving some ground, but we do not know whether it is a small penetration or something bigger."

Southwest of Taegu, U. S. Marines and infantry slashed into the Communist bridgehead in the elbow of the Naktong river in what was described from the field as the second big American offensive push of the war.

The two battles appeared to mark the start of a showdown along the Naktong and on the approaches of Taegu.

The first Marine brigade captured a strategic height at the southwest corner of the Naktong bridgehead in the first hours of the offensive. The U. S. 24th division overran Communist positions on the Northern end of the pocket.

GIRL GUERRILLAS MAN MACHINE GUN—Two girl guerrillas, Chong Sunjin and Hab Chi Okk, man a machine gun in a field near battle front. Other guerrillas in the background are armed with rifles. (NEA Telephoto).

But the U. S. 8th Army headquarters reported that the North Korean drive toward Taegu made that sector at the northwest corner of the allied beachhead in Korea, "The most serious one."

UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT Rutherford Potts reported from the 8th Army headquarters that the Communists opened their big push between Waegwan and Kunwi, and aimed squarely at Taegu. Waegwan is 40 miles northwest of Taegu, on the Naktong river, and Kunwi is 25 miles north of the capital.

Tanks led the Communist advance and a heavy artillery bombardment softened up the Korean Republic positions ahead of it.

The penetration of two to three miles would put the Communist vanguard north of Taegu some 17 miles from the capital, depending on just where the biggest gains were made.

THE STRENGTH OF THE Communist push from the north indicated that the North Koreans may have shifted some of the four to six divisions they had massed on the west bank of the Naktong river, northwest of Waegwan to the northern sector before American B-29's dropped 850 tons of bombs on the west bank yesterday.

While the Communists were attacking farther northeast, 1st cavalry division infantrymen recaptured the bloody summit of hill 303, a mile northeast of Waegwan today for the second time in 24 hours.

In the battle of the Naktong bulge, the 8th Army communique reported that Marines were making slow progress against "very strong enemy resistance."

The Marines and infantrymen began their joint offensive at 8 a. m. (5 p. m. Wednesday CDT) in an all-out effort to liquidate the eight-mile deep enemy bridgehead and kill or route the 16,000 to 12,000 troops in the bulge.

SIMULTANEOUS WITH THE start of the new offensive, the American command belatedly disclosed that the Marines and two Army regiments had abandoned a 20-mile strip of the south coast seized in the first American offensive of the war last week.

The 1st Marine brigade and the 5th and 35th Army regimental combat teams fell back Sunday and Monday from heights overlooking the coastal city of Chinju to a new line running almost due south from the Naktong elbow. Some Army units abandoned field guns and other equipment to 1,000 to 3,000 Reds by-passed in the original advance.

The offensive had achieved its main objective of breaking up enemy preparations for an assault on the key American supply port of Pusan, 53 miles west of Chinju.

School Officials Act TENTATIVE PLANS MADE TO START HIGH SCHOOL IN EASTLAND FOR NEGRO STUDENTS; WILL BE FIRST

County Superintendent, H. C. Elliott, said that he hadn't heard of any attempts by Negro students to enroll in white high schools in Ranger, Eastland or Cisco.
 Dr. G. C. Boswell, school superintendent at Eastland, also answered a Ranger Times reporter's question as to whether Negro students had tried to enroll here in the negative. He said that no Negro students had talked to him about enrolling in Ranger white schools.
 Elliott is now working on a plan to transport Negro high school age children from Cisco and Ranger for instruction at Eastland.

12 Killed In County ONE HURT CRITICALLY WHEN CAR OVERTURNS WEST OF RANGER LAST NIGHT; TWO OTHERS ALSO INJURED

Three Ranger teen-agers were injured last night, one of them seriously, when the car in which they were riding hit a soft shoulder about three miles west of town, and turned over at 9 p. m., Wednesday.
 Louis Martinez, 17, was hospitalized with head and chest injuries. His condition was critical this morning according to a report by the West Texas Hospital. Richard Flores, 19, and Antonio Gomez, 18, were treated for minor injuries and released.
 Flores, reported driver and owner of the car, said that when the car hit the shoulder just west of the curve by the Lone Star loading rack, it spun and spun until he lost consciousness. He and Martinez were thrown clear of the car. Gomez crawled out after the car turned over and finally came to a halt bottom side up. A Killingsworth ambulance brought the two boys into town.
 Highway Patrolmen Terry Barrett worked the accident.
 Barrett said that the death last week of a Rising Star man, who was hit by an automobile about a month ago, brought the total highway deaths to 12 in the county.

Cardinal Head Is After Czar Chandlers' Scalp

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17 (UP)—Fred M. Saigh, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, is out to kick out baseball commissioner A. B. Chandler and to replace him with one of America's most famous college presidents.

Saigh, one of the leaders of the anti-Chandler factions among the baseball magnates, will not confirm or deny reports about the identity of Chandler's prospective successor.

But close friends of the Cardinals' boss insist he and other owners will be ready for an all-out effort to unseat Chandler and to replace him with an Eastern college proxy at the major league meeting in December. Saigh himself, close-mouthed about the matter as he is, has said that only five votes are required to restore the former Kentucky senator to political availability.

End of a Chapter
By Edwin Rutt

THIS STORY: Alice Pine has been engaged as literary secretary by Mrs. Muriel Haleck, who writes popular stories under the name of "Jo Palgrave." Alice soon learns that Mrs. Haleck does not want an ordinary stenographer, but a yes-woman. Alice also meets Brent, Mrs. Haleck's artist husband. He seems a nice and kind man, but Alice is not sure she likes him. Alice has just begun work on her new job and has been reading Muriel's story plan.

Brent stood now between tree and gardener. His face was twisted with anger. "Who told you to do this, Sloan?"

IV
IT was then, perhaps, that Alice Pine understood rather clearly Muriel Haleck had the essentials of a fine, possibly a great, writer. And despite her becoming modesty, Muriel knew it. This book was doubtless an experiment which, if successful, would bring Muriel into a new and more important literary classification. And it certainly promised to be successful. By comparison, the shining but basically shallow serials she wrote under the pen name of Jo Palgrave were trifling.

"Well," Muriel urged, "there must be some bugs. Nothing's 100 per cent."
"There is one thing," Alice said. "I couldn't quite get from the outline—the payoff on Larry." She referred to the book's central character.
Muriel glanced at her keenly. "Amplify that, will you?"
"Well, just how are you planning to leave him with the reader? I mean, what kind of a man is he, actually? It almost seemed—maybe I shouldn't say this—but as if you weren't sure yourself what to make of him."

Brent laughed. "That I'd know all about it, eh? Oh, Muriel and I don't discuss our work. Good way to keep a couple of artistic temperaments from clashing, you see."
Alice did not see. Their professions, albeit allied, were non-competitive. Why, then, should there be a question of clash?
She shrugged. It was no business of hers. But her idea of Brent Haleck as a strange, difficult man was growing. She said, over a sudden indeterminate sound: "Perhaps I shouldn't have mentioned the novel. She may have wanted to surprise—" outside of that, I can't think of a thing."

Muriel turned back to her typewriter. "All right. You run along and catch some sun. I won't need you for a couple of hours."
ALICE went, thinking that she had not earned her excellent salary this morning. She headed for the garden, and saw Brent.
He was sucking a short pipe and regarding gaily-colored tulips broodingly.

She checked her pace. She did not expectly want to talk to Brent. But he beckoned to her casually. "Hello, Miss Pine. Getting into the routine?"
"I've made a start, anyhow. But just now Mrs. Haleck—Muriel—hasn't anything for me."
He knocked out the pipe. "Well, enjoy your freedom while you may. Usually Muriel goes in for mass production."
Alice looked at him. His dark face and shadowed eyes told her nothing. She had probably imagined the hint of a sneer in his tone. "I wouldn't know about that," she said. "But she's certainly producing a grand novel."
"Is she?" Brent murmured. "I hadn't heard."
"But I'd have thought..." Alice stopped.

Brent had raised a hand interrupting her. "What was that?"
Before she could reply the sound was repeated, more clearly. A solid, ringing crack, as of hard surfaces brought violently together.
Brent swung around, ran toward the house and disappeared behind it. On impulse, Alice followed.

UNDER the apple tree outside of her library window was the sly individual she had seen yesterday. He held an ax, suspended in mid-air. A white gash showed in the tree's gnarled trunk.
Brent stood now between tree and gardener. His face was twisted with anger. "Who told you to do this, Sloan?"

The man lowered the ax. He met Brent's eyes levelly, even insolently. "I had my orders."
"From whom?"
"The missus."
"Well," Brent snapped, "they're canceled. I've told you never to cut down any trees without my permission."
Sloan kept his gaze stubborn. "A man can't serve two masters," he grumbled.
The disrespectful tone seemed to rob Brent of his temper. "Listen, you!" he shouted. "Get as blither as you like! But let the

Flash Burns From Atomic Blast Kill Many; But Protection Easy

By Joseph L. Myler
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (UP)—Flash and flame burns killed 50 per cent of the 100,000 persons who died in the A-bomb attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

They accounted for perhaps 75 per cent of the total casualties.

The flame burns were just what anybody would suffer in any fire. The flash burns were peculiar to the A-bomb. They caused 20 to 30 per cent of the Japanese deaths.

In its newly published report on "the effects of Atomic weapons" the government warns civil defense officials that by far the greatest number of casualties, if the A-bombs hit this country, will be burn victims.

Flash burns are at once easy and difficult to protect against. The bomb's heat rays travel in straight lines—so all you have to do is get around a corner. They are not very penetrating—so almost any sort of shielding will suffice. Loose light-colored clothing is good protection.

But the bomb pours one-third of its tremendous energy into heat radiation and does it in three seconds. This so-called thermal radiation comes from a ball of fire which is far away as 5.7 miles is brighter than 100 suns.

Most of the heat flashes out in the first second. So at Japan thousands of persons had no chance to avoid exposure to hands, arms, neck, and face. It inflicted light burns out to two miles, moderate burns 1 1/4 miles and severe to fatal burns at shorter distances.

Worse for the Japanese was the fact that the flash heat started fires in combustible material as far away as 1 1/4 miles.

Fire caused by this and by such things as upset stoves, broken gas lines, and short circuits aggravated the damage done directly by the bomb and multiplied the casualties.

At Hiroshima a fire storm developed. Fanned by rushing winds it burned over an area of 4.4 square miles.

The fires burned until they went out of their own accord. At Hiroshima 70 per cent of the fire fighting equipment was crushed in the collapse of buildings. At Nagasaki water pressure failed because of broken mains.

From the Japanese experience, the government derived this advice to U. S. cities:

Make fire stations bomb proof—at least within half a mile of target center. Underground construction or concrete walls two feet thick should do this.

Fireproof your buildings. Keep combustible material—particularly if it's black because black absorbs heat—away from windows.

Make sure your water supply is sufficient. Duplicate facilities may be indicated.

If you build firebreaks, make them, at least 100 feet wide.

26 Square Mile Area Devastated By B-29s Is 'Still As Cemetery'

By Frank Tremane
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Aug. 17 (UP)—Reconnaissance planes reported today that the 26 square-mile rectangle of Korea devastated by B-29s with a record 850 tons of bombs is "still as a cemetery."

They could find no clue to what had happened to the four to six enemy divisions of up to 60,000 men reported massed there for an imminent assault on Taegu, temporary capital of North Korea.

"All you can see from the air are rows of bomb craters that make the whole area look like it has smallpox," said Lt. James Bryant, on his return to a forward American air base in Korea after flying over the target area.

Other 5th Air Force flyers who skimmed low over the doomed rectangle on the west bank of the Nakdong river just above Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, said there was no evidence of troops in the area except occasional arms and anti-aircraft fire.

They saw blasted, burned villages, peck-marked ground and a few trees stripped of their foliage, but that's all. The bombs had been set to explode on contact, so there were few deep craters.

High-altitude photographs gave little evidence of the results. The Communist are masters of camouflage, and their efforts are making attempts to assess the full extent of the damage very difficult.

First Cavalry Division patrols crossed the Nakdong and penetrated three miles behind the enemy lines without reaching the target area. They said it lay too far to the enemy rear for an on-the-spot investigation.

A spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today that he personally believed that B-29 attack had broken up the heavy enemy troop and armor concentration. But he emphasized that he had no confirmation of his theory.

He noted, however, that the expected enemy attack along the Taejon-Taegu road had not started.

Maj. Gen. Emmett (Bozy) O'Donnell, commander of the Far

East Bomber Command, who personally directed the attack from his own B-29 yesterday, called the strike "technically very successful."

"The bombs landed exactly where they were supposed to go, but the nature of the target makes it practically impossible for us to evaluate the results," he said.

An Air Force spokesman said the bomber crews were surprised at the lack of enemy anti-aircraft fire during the raid.

"We would expect some flak in connection with such a build-up," he said.

When newsmen suggested that perhaps intelligence reports of four to six divisions in the target area might have been exaggerated, a spokesman for the intelligence section of MacArthur's headquarters said:

"Our evidence was good and had been accumulating for some time."

He concluded that Communist troops might have escaped by crouching low in slit trenches. But he said that such a heavy concentration of high explosives—more than 25 tons a square mile—could be expected to have as much of a demoralizing effect on the Reds as it did on the Germans around St. Lo in Normandy in World War II.

A century ago, sole leather cutters had a much easier time. There were only two widths in shoes: slim and fat.

There's Feeling Today That Babe Has Finally Found Rest And Peace

By Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer
VAHALLA, N. Y., Aug. 17 (UP)—It is green and quiet and peaceful in Gate of Heaven cemetery and somehow, two years from Babe Ruth's death, there is a feeling that a forgiving bambino finally is at rest.

Much has been written and many tales have been told of a career which was one of baseball's brightest chapters. There is no need to recount his exploits, his adventures and his escapades.

But the Babe, with his legendary career behind him, was a bitter and disappointed man.

Baseball tried to make it up to him in those last few years. They erected a bronze plaque at Yankee Stadium. "The house that Ruth built." They renamed a small section of concrete just outside the gates "Babe Ruth Plaza." It was a salute to baseball's needling conscience.

A nine-foot monument marks the Babe's final resting place today. And as you sit and look at it, you see in the mind's eye the Babe as you saw him many times: Up at the plate in Yankee Stadium; musing around a golf course on those tooth-pick legs; hale, robust—and bitter—in a bowling alley a day in 1946 when the Yankees were going south for spring training; and a weak man on those last visits to the stadium.

Best of all you remember him robust—and bitter—in that bowling alley the day the Yanks went south.

"I guess the team is off by now, eh?" he asked in that booming voice.

Then he rubbed that unbelievably bulbous nose with a huge hand and barked abruptly:

"Why didn't they ever give me a chance to manage? How did they know I wouldn't have made good?"

That had been the Babe's big dream as he came to the end of his playing days and the Yankee manager, Little Miller Huggins, died.

But the Yankees never gave him that chance. It was suggested that he take a trip to the minors and prove himself a manager. The Babe never was a minor leaguer, so it was something he just couldn't conceive.

That refusal, without a chance, was a millstone around his neck as the years marched past. It was a constant complaint, as he golfed and bowled after turning his back on the game he loved. And it all was there, later, as the flesh weakened and the Babe played his last few innings.

He would have given his records—that "big 60" of 1927, and his untouchable total of 714 homers—to run the show from a big league bench. But you look at that monument in Gate of Heaven cemetery and read the inscription:

"May the divine spirit that animated Babe Ruth to win the crucial game of life inspire the youth of America."

The Babe must know, somehow, that he's still the manager for an awful lot of kids. And you know that the Babe isn't bitter any more.

Attentative—

The county school superintendent said that he didn't think that this was an outgrowth of recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions granting Negroes the right to enter Texas and Oklahoma colleges.

The superintendent said that he wanted the best possible colored school in the county that can be built for colored people.

Elliot, who started work early last year to get a Negro high school teacher, said that Negro parents were very nice and expressed their appreciation when he contacted them while getting transfers.

It Was An Error In Judgment—

... when the rejected candidate was led to believe that he had his race in the bag because every voter he met told him so. And about as disillusioned is the person who is convinced that an abstract is a lot of extra expense, and unnecessary, in a real estate transaction. There's another error in judgment. He stands to lose more, perhaps, than the candidate who lost the election. A winner always insists on an abstract when he buys real estate, and you can't beat that for good judgment.

Rickey's Sweating

Dodgers Farm System Produces Lemons Not Pennant Winners
By Oscar Fraley
NEW YORK, Aug. 17 (UP)—Branch Rickey recently blamed complacency for the nose-dive of his National League favorites but the real Brooklyn Dodger dilemma appeared today to be its highly-touted but non-productive farm system.

Rickey, himself, was guilty of utter complacency last spring when he announced pontifically that he wasn't worried about winning the pennant but was working to capture the world series.

The Deacon, weighted down with 24 farm clubs entailing some 600 players, long has been praised as the father of the farm system. And there have been some baseball men who acted in recent years as if Rickey had a mortal lock on all the young players in the land.

Actually, it hasn't turned out that way. Rickey saddled himself with quantity and the quality has not been of the best.

Consider the Dodgers' 25-man roster and that fact comes home with a terrific impact.

Only 14 of those 25 men are pure Rickey developments since he commenced his Dodger tenure in 1943. Only three of them—Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Gene Hermanski—currently are front-line stars. Two others—Erv Palica and Ralph Branca—are so-so performers. Which leaves nine who are more or less dead wood.

Of the 11 others on the squad, and they compose the backbone of the Dodger team, four are handovers from the reign of loud Larry MacPhail and seven were either bought or acquired.

The four MacPhail products are Pee Wee Reese, Carl Furillo, Joe Hatten and Bruce Edwards. Preacher Roe, the big man of the pitching staff, and Billy Cox were purchased from Pittsburgh, and

B-29s Act As Walking Artillery For US Troops Taking Waegwan

By Robert Vermillion
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH 1st U.S. CAVALRY DIVISION, Korea, Aug. 17 (UP)—American troops recaptured Waegwan, 12 miles northwest of Taegu, today and then watched with awe and delight as B-29s pounded the Reds on the other side of the Naktong river.

Thoops and tanks of the 1st Cavalry Division tore up an enemy attempt to establish another bridgehead across the river in this sector.

They knocked some 200 Communists off one ridge, pinned down more than 500 on another, and recaptured Waegwan on the east bank at 10:30 a. m.

The Americans went about the occupation of Waegwan as though they intended to stay.

Wednesday noon, the superfortresses lumbered overhead. Their bombs exploded up and down the supposed enemy line on the other side of the Naktong like a walking artillery barrage—except that every explosion was 10 times bigger.

"Boy!" said Pvt. George E. Archer, of Portsmouth, Va. "if we could lay in the kind of stuff those airplanes dropped we could cut a path through to Manchuria."

This was close air support at its most massive.

The battle began with a mass enemy crossing of the river before dawn yesterday. Red troops, tanks and guns overran an American infantry company on a hill northeast of Waegwan. The enemy set up a position on another hill, southwest of the town.

The 5th Cavalry Regiment opened up with air and artillery blows against both ridges today. The mounted cavalrymen attacked the southern hill on foot and knocked 200 Reds off that height.

Another force of tanks and infantry went into Waegwan, which was lightly defended. The Americans cleared the town within an hour, driving some 60 Reds across the river under fire. The same units then began an assault up northern hill 303, the northern ridge 1,500 yards from Waegwan.

Another American force attacked the hill from the opposite slope. Twice the infantry was halted by heavy fire from above and each time American artillery laid a rolling barrage up the slope, close by the leading Yank patrols.

Late today more than 500 Reds were under a merciless artillery and air attack on the summit of hill 303, while our infantry crawled up under the exhausting summer sun.

The men said they'll never forget the way those B-29s suddenly came over.

"They came in wham, wham, and I hope every wham eliminated a round dozen of those sons of female pups," said Archer.

Pfc. Wayland Ingram, of Chattanooga, Tenn., said, "Man, I liked the looks of that stuff. Better yet, none of it hit us."

The Communists in their dawn attack yesterday penetrated the division without detection until they hit the company on hill 303.

Pfc. Arthur C. Roeka, of Fresno, Calif., said he saw a captured American platoon being led away by the North Koreans this morning.

Weapon Found For Fighting Heart Disease

By Paul F. Ellis
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, —Development of a chemical substance that promises to cut down deaths in coronary disease has been disclosed.

The substance, simplastin, quickly determines the clotting time of blood, thereby making the use of anti-coagulants, such as Dicumarol safer.

Drs. Shepard Shapiro and Murray Wener, of the New York University College of Medicine, have founded in clinical use that the drug eliminates some of the dangers of using the powerful anti-coagulants.

Such anti-coagulants are used to dissolve clots, but they also have caused fatal hemorrhages.

One trouble in using the anti-coagulants, the doctors point out, has been the lack of a quick means of determining the Prothrombin, or accelerated clotting time estimations "so that the goal of adequate anti-coagulant therapy for the purpose of controlling thromboembolism and hemorrhage may be achieved."

In past techniques, they point out, it has taken as long as 45 minutes to determine the clotting time. By using Simplastin, they said the time can be determined in a few minutes. A sample of the patient's blood is drawn, the plasma separated and then placed with the new chemical substance. The test is visual. No extracting, centrifuging or filtering is needed and "thus some sources of error" are eliminated, the doctors said.

Dr. Wener said that the action of the anti-coagulant drugs "is such that if too little is administered, thrombosis will not be prevented, and if too much is administered, hemorrhage will result."

"It is impossible to establish standard dosages of the anti-coagulants because their action will vary from individual to individual, or even in the same person from day to day."

Therefore, he said the blood clotting time determination is important and that simplastin should "add considerably to the safety of dicumarol therapy so that the goal of adequate therapeutic effect with minimum danger of hemorrhage can be achieved."

Ferguson Reports

Reds To Turn Malik Loose In UN Again To Grind Propaganda

By Harry Ferguson
United Press Foreign News Editor

The Big Russian filibuster resumes in the United Nations today. By nightfall the Moscow radio will have some new propaganda material to send booming around the world in 32 languages.

It won't be exactly new material. Rather it will be some more of the same. Jacob Malik, president of the U. N. Security Council, will recognize Jacob Malik, chief Soviet delegate. Jacob Malik then will make a speech. You do not have to be clairvoyant to predict what he will say. He will say that the United States made a deal with the South Koreans to attack the North Koreans. That's what all the shooting is about along the Nak-tong river, in case you didn't know.

Few people in the Western world, where we enjoy a free press and freedom of expression on the radio, will believe what Malik is saying. He probably doesn't care much, because he has another audience in mind. He is trying to hammer home a propaganda point to the Russian people and to the millions throughout Asia whom the Russians would like to bring under the banner of the hammer and sickle.

But how do Malik's words get to those people who have few newspapers and maybe only one radio in a town? Primarily through the Moscow radio, which, from a technical standpoint, is the biggest propaganda medium operating today. It has more than twice as many programs as the Voice of America.

The Russians maintain a Soviet monitoring post in London. It is a round-the-clock operation, picking up and translating what the Moscow radio is saying. The broadcasts go on 24 hours a day. A total of 32 languages are used in relays so that no country or race will be ignored.

With oil-for-defense as a theme, these two lieutenant generals will be feature speakers at the TIPRO Directors Meeting to be held in San Antonio October 18. They are Lt. Gen. LeRoy Lutes, commander of the Fourth Army, and Lt. Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, senior member of the Railroad Commission and commander of the Texas National Guard.

The Moscow radio also broadcasts to the Russian people. Sometimes it slows down to "dictation speed" so that editors of provincial newspapers and Communist propaganda agents can copy what is being said and publish it. The Moscow-radio pays particular attention to Southeast Asia and India. It has a special broadcast for that section of the world for two hours every day in four languages — English, Malay, Hindustani and Bengali.

Communist leaders in cells through China and the rest of Asia have been trained to listen to the Moscow radio. They take down on paper the propaganda line. Then they usually call a meeting and make a speech about it. Soon Red agents are fanning out into the nearby villages. There they explain to the people how the South Koreans attacked the North Koreans and what Malik had to say about it in the U. N. Security Council. Occasionally, they print pamphlets and post one somewhere along the main street of each town.

There probably are hundreds of towns throughout Asia where the people never heard of Warren Austin, American delegate to the U. N., or Sir Gladwyn Jebb, British delegate. Their remarks don't get much space on the Moscow radio or in speeches made by Red cell leaders. And about the only time they hear about Gen. Douglas MacArthur is when Malik sarcastically describes him as "the deputy of God in Asia."

But the licensing board decided the bill was run up by a bookie doing business at the store and closed the place for a week.

Parents Take Stand To Help Insanity Plea

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 17 (UP)—Parents of one of two Texas teen-age youths on trial for the hitch-hike murder of Los Angeles photographer Gustave Beausseau, 36, take the stand today to back up a defense plea of insanity.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Oplie sat silently yesterday as Charles Oplie, 16, denied in a three-hour cross-examination he committed any overt act in the slaying near Mesa, Ariz., March 19.

The prosecution has asked the death penalty for both Oplie, one of the youngest defendants ever to face murder charges in Ariz., and his fellow hitch-hiker, Ebert Riddle, 19. Both are from Waco.

Oplie testified he sold his car in Cheyenne, Wyo., for $775 and set out with Riddle for some big-time Reno gambling houses.

He said they set up a plan to "knock some motorist in the head" to get another car when they were picked up by Beausseau. At a pre-arranged signal from Riddle, Oplie said "Beausseau grabbed both of us. Then the gun went off."

The alleged murder weapon was found later by arresting officers in the youth's motel room.
