Thundershowers Bring Cool Front To Texas Today

By United Press
Scattered thundershowers drenched Texas last night and early today as a cool front moved into the state to bring season lows in some areas.

Soaking rain continued to fall in Ranger today, expected to bring the 25 inches measured at 8 a. m. to near an inch today. Maximum temperature reported Sunday in Ranger was 90 degrees, but the thermometer dropped to a cool 58 degrees minimum, and settled at 64 degrees.

It was a chilly 49 degrees at Dalhart where .81 inch of rain was reported. The Panhandle point was not only the coolest point overnight, but had yesterday's low maximum of 79 degrees.

Other rainfall reports included .73 inch at Bryan, .64 at Wichita Falls, .57 at Austin, .61 at Amarillo, .37 at San Antonio, .35 at Del Rio and .17 at Lubbock. After 7 a. m., Dallas had .32.

Although the northern part of Texas had comparatively cool readings in the middle 80s yesterday, it was 105 at Cotulla, 102 at Alice and Del Rio, 99 at Presidio and Austin and 98 at San Antonio.

Some other early morning lows included 61 at Amarillo, 55 at Salt Flats, 56 at Lubbock, 48 at Childress and 59 at Wichita Falls.

The weather bureau forecast more scattered showers during the next 24 hours.

West Texas—Partly cloudy this afternoon, tonight and Tuesday, except cloudy with showers in Panhandle. Cooler tonight.

Rainfall by noon today measured a total of .70 inches, 45 inches having fallen in Ranger since 8 a. m. today.

3 Houstonites Drown In Trinity

HOUSTON, Sept. 11 (UP)—Three Houston persons, one a six-year-old boy, drowned yesterday while on a fishing trip in the Trinity river near Moore's Bluff. The victims were Mrs. Vassie Peterson, 47; her husband's nephew, Lamar Nations, 36, and Nations' six-year-old son, Kenneth Ray.

Peterson said the boat in which two of the victims were riding with himself and Mrs. Nations "took on water" shortly after leaving the bank, and overturned a short time later.

Nations leaped in from the bank to rescue his son and both drowned. Peterson pulled his wife out, but she failed to revive. Mrs. Nations clung to the overturned boat until she was rescued.

Texas Coach Buried Today

BROWNWOOD, Sept. 11 (UP)—Services were scheduled today at St. John's Episcopal Church for Paul Tyson, football coach of Daniel Baker College.

TROOP TRAIN COLLISION KILLS 32, INJURES 100

By Aaron E. Loney
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEWCOMERSTOWN, O., Sept. 11 (UP)—A troop train carrying hundreds of national guardsmen to Indiana for war training was rammed from the rear by a speeding passenger train during a heavy fog today, killing 32 persons and injuring at least 100 others.

Leon Terry, manager of radio station WTNS, Coshocton, O., said he had counted 32 bodies stretched out in a field alongside the twisted troop train. Rescue workers, burning through the steel coaches with acetylene torches, said there was a possibility more bodies were still in the wreckage of four coaches of the troop train. Of the estimated 100 injured, 40 were reported in serious condition at hospitals in Coshocton, Cambridge, and Dennison, O.

Most of the dead and injured were members of the 19th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard, enroute to Camp Atterbury, Ind., to begin training under federal service. The Pennsylvania Guard was one of four militia divisions recently called into federal service for the Korean war.

(In Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Railroad officials said they had been informed by Lt. Col. Frank Townsend, commanding officer of the troops aboard the train, that 21 soldiers were killed and 28 injured seriously.)

The Spirit of St. Louis, enroute from New York to St. Louis with 240 passengers, rammed the rear of the standing troop train at Isleta, five miles west of here. The last four cars of the troop train were telescoped by the impact and the twin-unit diesel locomotive pulling the passenger train plunged into a creek.

Witnesses said the troop train stopped west of a signal at Isleta when a break occurred in an air-brake hose. Crewmen had just placed flares at the rear of the stalled train when the Spirit of St. Louis sped through the fog and rammed the troop train's observation car.

Capt. F. R. Branna, a member of the 19th Infantry Regiment, said he was standing in the rear car of the troop train when he saw the passenger train approaching.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (UP)—Sen. Alexander Wiley, R., Wis., called today for a congressional investigation of the appointment of Morris A. Shenker, St. Louis attorney, to the Democratic finance committee.

Wiley said in a formal statement that Shenker is "attorney for some of the largest gambling interests in America." He said the Senate crime committee, of which Wiley is a member, "ought to look into the outrageous appointment."

"Shenker's appointment to help raise party funds is symptomatic of a decline in political morality, a sinking of elementary standards of political decency, a breakdown of moral values," Wiley said.

He conceded that an attorney "has a perfect right" to represent any client. But he said that he "doesn't have any right to interject a gambling tie-up in any way, shape or form into national, state or local politics."

Shenker, in appearances before congressional committees, has represented St. Louis betting commissioner James Carroll and William Molasky, head of a racing wire service in the same area.

The Legionnaires also passed a resolution asking that the Communist party be outlawed in the United States.

Named as the new commander of the department was W. F. Elkins, Killeen, who succeeds Joe Spurluck of Fort Worth. Spurluck was unable to attend the convention this year because of injuries received in a car wreck one week ago.

Other officers named were: G. Ward Moody, Austin and Odessa, department adjutant; H. J. Bernard, Houston, national executive committee member, and J. M. Wilson, Floydada, alternate; Walter Wolfe, San Antonio, Judge Advocate; W. E. Stuegel, Port Arthur, re-elected secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Carrie Wilcox, Houston, re-elected department historian; Rev. Lester Cochran, Brownwood, department chaplain; and Neal Barnaby, Big Spring, sergeant-at-arms.

At least one member of the family, Mrs. Phillip Pericone, their mother, felt little doubt that the quadruplets would pass their physicals.

"Those boys are plenty healthy," she said. "They're just normal, ordinary boys and no better than anyone else. They don't deserve any special favors but I sure hope that they stay together."

The brothers, known in Beaumont as "A," "B," "C" and "D" because of their first initials, said they had no fear of service itself, except for being separated.

Lee Cantrell announced today that he has purchased a half interest in the Frank Penn Service Station. The station, which will now be known as the Penn and Cantrell Texaco Service Station will specialize in washing and greasing, tire repair, Goodrich tires and tubes, Texaco gas and oil, Willard batteries, and automobile accessories.

Cantrell has been associated with the Texas Company for the past 17 years as a manager. He lives at Hodges Oak Park.

Legion Scores Acheson Asks His Removal

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 11 (UP)—The Texas Department of the American Legion closed its annual convention here yesterday by passing a resolution asking that Secretary of State Dean Acheson be removed from office.

The resolution cited Acheson's "lukewarm" attitude toward Communists in the State Department and particularly his handling of the Alger Hiss case.

The Legionnaires also passed a resolution asking that the Communist party be outlawed in the United States.

Named as the new commander of the department was W. F. Elkins, Killeen, who succeeds Joe Spurluck of Fort Worth. Spurluck was unable to attend the convention this year because of injuries received in a car wreck one week ago.

UNIONS CLAMOR FOR PAY RAISES OVER TRUMAN'S PLEAS

By United Press
Labor union clamored for pay increases today despite President Truman's plea for no new wage demands.

AFL President William Green, in a letter to Earl Bunting, managing director of the National Association of Manufacturers, said any attempt to freeze wages would be unjust to the working man.

The letter was in reply to one from Bunting which challenged AFL contentions that price increases have outrun wages since the outbreak of the Korean war.

Green said that the figures cited by Bunting tell only part of the story, and that "before wage controls are considered" a proper basis of parity between wages and prices must be established.

Speaking at a CIO United Steelworkers District Convention in Chicago, two top officials also rejected the President's plea.

USW International Secretary David J. McDonald and General Counsel Arthur Goldberg maintained that the "fabulous" profits of the steel industry must be shared.

Meanwhile the last major holdout against long-term cost-of-living contracts in the auto industry fell into line when Studebaker signed a five-year contract granting the CIO United Auto Workers an immediate nine-cent an hour wage boost at South Bend, Ind. The contract climaxed the

U. S. BOMBERS LEND SUPPORT TO GROUND TROOP MOVEMENTS

By Earnest Hoberecht
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Tuesday, Sept. 12 (UP)—Americans and North Koreans fought a wildly swaying battle north of Taegu today under a drumbeat of artillery and mortar fire. The fighting was at such close quarters that a spokesman said it was "hard to tell who is attacking whom."

Supporting the ground fighters, fighter-bombers of the U. S. Fifth Airforce machine-gunned and dropped gasoline jelly bombs in a record number of sorties all along the northern defense line.

Action flamed from Pohang on the northeast, through the Taegu front and as far south as the Naktong river bend.

The veteran U. S. 24th Division advanced to within two and a quarter miles of fallen Pohang and, with their South Korean Allies were closing a noose around an estimated 1,000 Reds.

On the Naktong front, the Communists threw 3,080 men of their crack second division into the center of the American Second Division line at Anni, six miles west of Changnyong in midmorning.

The Yanks threw them back and, while the enemy was trying to reform, fighter-bombers of the American Fifth Airforce swept in. They strafed and rocketed the enemy concentrations and, when they left, an Eighth Army spokesman said "there didn't seem to be enough of the regiment left for them to launch a second attack."

Trading punches with the Eighth Cavalry seven miles north of Taegu were elements of three enemy divisions which could number up to 30,000 men.

One enemy attack pushed the Americans back 1,000 yards east of Waegwan before being contained, but on the right flank, in the direction of Kasan, the Americans advanced 1,200 yards through heavy enemy fire. A strong Communist counterattack then stopped the U. S. forces and drove them back 800 yards.

"The threat to Taegu is not yet ended," the spokesman said, "but it is no means as grim as it was." Enemy shells fell in the edge of Taegu Sunday and again early Monday, but little damage resulted.

Heavy return blasts from American artillery knocked out three North Korean guns and the closest enemy shells came to Taegu after that was at Chilgok, four miles to the north.

On the extreme northeastern front, where some three enemy divisions had sought to slice southward through Kyongju toward Pusan, 47 miles away, the American 24th division was advancing steadily against moderate resistance.

They had relieved the pressure on Pohang airport and were endeavoring to straighten out a line which would run from Pohang, 16 miles north of Kyongju, through Angang, then west past Yongchon and Taegu. Angang still was in enemy hands, with our forces about one and a half miles to the south.

The one gap in the Angang-Pohang line was at a point about half way between the two towns where South Koreans still were chasing an estimated 1,000 Red troops out of a pocket 2,000 yards deep.

At Yongchon, midway between Pohang and Taegu, the South Korean Eighth Division claimed to have counted 829 enemy dead after a week-long battle for the four-highway communications junction.

In the Yongchon area today, the South Koreans still were forging ahead, with some of their patrols operating as far as six miles north of the Yongchon - Kyongju highway.

Considerable enemy troop movement was noted on the road from Yongchon to Angang, coming out of the hills on the north and then moving eastward.

Gen. Walton H. Walker, U. S. Field Commander in Korea, escorted commanders of the South Korean first and second corps Monday. It was the first such decoration awarded South Korean Commanders.

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

Copyright 1950 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Alice Pine, secretary to Muriel Hallock, who writes popular stories under the name of "Patricia," suspects Muriel's husband Brent of having been loyal to Rick, his former and adopted son. Although Alice cannot forgive him, she feels strangely drawn to Brent. One night Muriel sees Brent take Alice in his arms, but Muriel does not seem to be disturbed. Brent leaves his Connecticut home to take a job in Providence. One week-end Muriel answers her literary agent's summons to New York, leaving Alice home alone and Brent turns up unexpectedly. Brent asks Alice to go walking with him, but Alice does not believe it would look so good. Later Alice feels irritated by Brent's absence and manages to become considerably angry with him.

Jack would be there for dinner, a point upon which Alice could not enlighten her.
"Better expect him only if you see him," she said.
The cook grumbled, without even a nod from long-established habit, as cooks do.

BRENT did not return until about 9 o'clock.
"No Muriel yet?" he asked casually, as he came into the living room where Alice was again concerned with the non-arresting book.

She informed him of Muriel's telephone message. "And someone else," she added pointedly, "might have done some phoning."
"You mean about dinner? I guess I should have. But I imagined you'd do all right without me."

"I did." She punished him a little. "Beautifully."
"Well," said Brent, "I didn't do beautifully. Spent the afternoon wandering around and wound up at the Tolliver diner."
"Brent, you don't need to sound as if I've ruined your day."

"None whatever." It was pointless to mention the recent tantrum. Nothing had come of that. Brent was silent so long that she joggled his arm. "I thought you wanted to talk to me?"

He came back, from wherever he had been. "Funny about talk. You know just what you want to say. But, sometimes, you can't say it."

"Brent," Alice said slowly, "I've been here a long time now. And I haven't been able to help it. I mean, noticing that something's wrong. I—oh, Brent, what is it?"
There was a queer glow in the luminous eyes above her. Then, without any warning, Brent Hallock's head went down on her shoulder. His own shoulders, that sagged so queerly, were shaking. "Oh God, Alice!"

UNCERTAIN, and embarrassed, Alice stood there, practically holding him. But sympathy, for what she didn't quite know, poured over her in a warm wave. Brent had sounded tired, incredibly tired.

"Brent," she said, ineffectually, "please don't."
She felt the shoulders beneath her arm tighten. Brent pulled himself together. "I'm sorry. I nearly let myself go."
"Maybe you should have, Brent."

"Maybe." Brent's eyes flickered. He was himself again. "Maybe I couldn't trust myself."
He was telling her, substantially, what for days she'd half-wanted, and been half-afraid, to hear. But now she felt a stab of disloyalty.

"We shouldn't talk this way, Brent. We—we shouldn't even be here."
"Shouldn't? Shouldn't?" He flung out a hand, irritably. "Prohibitions, t a b o s, frustration! That's all life is made of."
"Oh, Brent. Stop being childish. It's just that I—I hate to see you so terribly unhappy."

"Do you? Why?"
"Because I like you."
Alice had meant her words to sound casual. But a peculiar throaty voice, her own, betrayed her.

Standout Games Loom On Grid
By United Press
Standout games will be a dime a dozen on next week end's Class A Schoolboy grid card, which will have seven conference affairs as part of an ambitious 135-game program.

A few of the games will pit teams which turned in auspicious opening round victories.
Defending champion Littlefield will rest after chalking up two straight victories, but 1949 runner-up Mexia will swing right back into action in search of its second triumph after an impressive 26-0 win over New London.
This week the Black Cats tackle Lavega, a team which gave them so much trouble last season and opened the 1950 campaign last week with an imposing 31-6 win over Groesbeck.

MISS AMERICA CLAIMS HONOR OF NO KISS FOR KISSIN' JIM

By Harman W. Nichols
United Press Staff Correspondent
ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 11 (UP)—If the new Miss America doesn't make a million, she at least can claim one distinction.

She's probably the only gal in Alabama who never has been kissed by Big Jim Folsom, the kissing governor of her home state.

That situation no doubt will be straightened out shortly, when Yolande Betzebe, of Mobile—the new Miss A—gets back home. They say there will be a big reception when the 21-year-old black haired aspiring opera singer returns to her home base.

The governor never misses any bets and rumor is that he hasn't missed meeting many planes when there are pretty girls aboard.

Miss Alabama is as sweet as they come—has the right measurements being 5-5½, weighing in at 119, but 35 with hips to match. She looks well in evening dress and can sing like a well-trained lark.

In fact it was the song-bird business which got her the nod from the critical judges on the last night of the Miss America Pageant. And you can put this down: she is no novice.

She's had a lot of training and has sung leading roles with the Mobile Opera Guild. Mobile knows her well. The rest of America will, too—and shortly.

Unless she is awfully lucky, she'll travel at least 50,000 miles before next September making personal appearances. She gets paid, too. And unless she is awfully unlucky, and Uncle Sam doesn't nick her too much on income tax, she should wind up with something in the bank.

The kid got off to a good start in the treasury department. As the new Miss America, she received a $5,000 scholarship, which she plans to put to good use—to continue her study of music. In addition, the sponsors of the pageant, who pick up much of the tab for the pageant, kicked in with a $1,000 dividend, plus a post-dated check for another $3,000 which Yolande (known to her chums as Be Be) can cash when she finishes the year as queen.

There were 16 finalists among the 54 contestants.

Officially, the judges rated only the first five.

Behind Be-Be were: Irene O'Connor of South Dakota; Janet Crockett, Miss Florida; Mary Jennings of Arkansas and Louise O'Brien of Oklahoma, all of them got scholarships—all of them a r e brunettes.

You probably wonder what a Miss America, who is supposed to represent American women, is like.

Be-Be Betzebe is like this: She goes on dates like any normal 21-year-old would, she's pretty like a picture; she doesn't drink or smoke. She thinks she would rather go to school than get married, for awhile. She has in the back of her pretty little head that when she finally does march down the middle aisle, she'd like to start having a few younguns, and maybe build a bungalow with rambling roses and a picket fence.

Although Be-Be comes from what Us damn Yankees are supposed to call the Rebel country, she doesn't have much of a southern accent.

At least that's what she wanted us to believe in her first press conference Sunday.

But she fouled herself up once. A "you-all" slipped out when we caught her off guard.

Truman--

Spending: By next June national defense costs will be at a $30,000,000,000-a-year rate, and go up from there. Mr. Truman has not yet suggested cutting non-defense costs below present levels.

Armed forces: Progressively larger draft calls are likely to reach beyond the 19-through-25 age group or extend to thousands presently deferred because of dependents. Congress would have to amend the law to permit drafting of the over-25 group or of World War II veterans. Further calls for National Guard divisions and reserves.

Wages: The President proposes a wage policy which would permit wage increases to meet cost of living hikes "for the time being."

Prices: By executive order the government will be in a position to roll back prices to the pre-Korean war period or to use price levels of that time in determining where to freeze them.

Politics: Controls and rationing are distasteful all around. Mr. Truman has told friends he believes rationing licked the Democrats in 1946, enabling Republicans to win both the House and Senate. Wage-price controls lagged 10 months behind Pearl Harbor in World War II. Outcome of the November election will be a big factor in determining how fast controls develop this time. Neither party could resist controls if living costs continued to soar. Democratic victory would approve events to date and give

DILLARD'S
RADIO & T. V. REPAIR
107 South Austin
Ranger, Texas

E. W. Dill, 1864 Wilford, East St. Louis, Ill., says he's the happiest man in Illinois, now that he's feeling better. Mr. Dill gives all the credit to HADACOL for feeling so much better. He was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mr. Dill's statement on what HADACOL did for him: "I was a conductor for the New York Central Railroad for over 27 years. In 1947 a locomotive ran over me. I was in the hospital a year and a half. After I got out of the hospital I was very nervous and had dizzy spells all the time. I tried many things—nothing seemed to help me. Then a friend of mine persuaded me to take HADACOL—and after he insisted for 2 weeks I finally got some HADACOL. What a marvelous change has taken place—now I am able to move around, am hardly nervous at all and dizzy and fainting spells, why, they've almost completely vanished. Now I feel so good I have opened up a candy store and do a good day's work. HADACOL — why, that's the most wonderful thing there is in this world. I recommend it to all my friends."

Many thousands are benefiting from HADACOL — even hundreds of doctors are recommending HADACOL to their patients whose systems lack Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin. HADACOL is so wonderful because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails.

Don't continue to be miserable! Don't continue to suffer! Give remarkable HADACOL a chance to help you and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take — you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size; Large Family or Hospital Size, $2.50.—Adv.
