U.S. MARINES DRIVE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE; APPROACHING SEOUL

Bulldogs Fall Low, 24 to 13, To Kangaroos

By Rambler

The Weatherford Kangaroos outfought and outclassed a hapless Ranger eleven 24 to 13 Friday night at Weatherford.

Neither team lived up to advance billing. Both looked Class D—maybe F. Weatherford controlled the ball all through the first quarter and a greater portion of the second, marking up two TD's in the first.

Ranger kicked-off to Weatherford. The Ranger team held the Kangaroos forcing them to punt out. Ranger fumbled the ball, allowing Weatherford to recover on Ranger's 48.

Dudley Caraway broke loose in the first play by Weatherford on the first down for a touchdown.

Ranger received the ball, again fumbled for a Weatherford recovery. The Kangaroos used only eight plays, driving from Ranger's 43 to rack up their second TD. Stroud going over.

Ranger revived a bit in the third quarter. Weatherford picks up a first and ten. Ranger holds till it's Weatherford's fourth and 12 yards to go. The Kangaroos, deep in Ranger territory, elect to pass.

his right half back shirt, was everywhere it appeared from the press box. He was in on most of the tackles, backing up a sievy line.

Comancho, when he got and held onto the ball, drove as if he had pistons for legs. Cunningham, considering the protection he was getting passed fairly well on his laterals. But he fumbled a lot.

HALFBACK JIMMY COLE also played a nice defensive game. And left tackle Billy Young did some work.

Charles Masseege, substituting for Simpson in the last six minutes, probably did better work than any other man on the Ranger team.

Weatherford receives the kick-off, making a sustained drive, using seven plays climaxed by a TD run by right end Harris for 30 yards, making it 18 to 7 with two and a half minutes to go in the third quarter.

Ranger starts the fourth, controlling the ball. A Ranger drive falls when Comancho fumbles and Weatherford recovers. Weatherford uses two plays, starting on Ranger's 44 to break Mike McDaniels loose for a 42 yard touchdown run, making the score 24 to 7 with six minutes to go.

WEATHERFORD KICKS OFF. Cunningham receives on Ranger's 15 yard line, makes a hand-off to Comancho. He dances up his right side of the field for a 70 yard return, putting Ranger near pay dirt.

Billy Simpson drives over guard for three yards. Comancho is hit for no gain. Cunningham passes to Simpson for seven yards. And Ranger picks up a first and 10 to goal on the fourth down.

CUNNINGHAM HANDS OFF to Comancho, who runs it over for a touchdown, making the score 24 to 13 as Ranger fails to kick the extra point.

Ranger controls the ball as the game ends.

Acheson Unfolds Plan

North Atlantic Pact Nations Face Showdown On Packaged Defense Program To Arm Huns

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (UPI)—The 12-nation North Atlantic pact council faced a showdown today on an American-sponsored "single package" defense program to rearm West Germans in a revolutionary unified European military force.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson bluntly urged the top treaty cabinet to get going "now" on the project that would provide more guns and men to protect Europe from Communist aggression.

Acheson unfolded his plan last night at a secret meeting in the conference room on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. During the night foreign ministers of Canada and 10 European powers asked their home governments for quick advice.

Rites Set For R. Crawford's Mother, Sunday

Services for Mrs. W. C. Crawford, 76, mother of R. C. Crawford of Ranger, will be held at 4 p. m. Sunday in the Court Memorial Methodist Church, Weatherford.

Mrs. Crawford, wife of the late W. C. Crawford, died in a Weatherford hospital, Friday. She had been ill for the past year, becoming seriously sick last Tuesday. She was born in Weatherford and lived there and in Mineral Wells all her life.

Rev. Wallace K. Shelton, pastor of the Weatherford church will officiate, assisted by Rev. Finis Crutehfield of the First Methodist church in Mineral Wells.

The White's Funeral home of Weatherford will have charge of arrangements.

In addition to her son of Ranger, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Pep Pete McCleary of Mineral Wells, Mrs. Marshall Pope of St. Louis, Mrs. Gus Vincent of Weatherford; a brother, Charlie Anderson of Shreveport, La.; and six grand children and one great grand child.

Under the "action" plan, experience in Korea would be used to build an international defense force under a single commander. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is favored for the job. Arms production would be increased. About 40 divisions of troops would be trained in the next two years. Germans would be trained to fight with Americans, Canadians, and Europeans. Each nation would assign units to the international force.

Acheson soberly warned that the American plan was placed on the conference table as a whole. Halfway measures, he stated, would not be enough to meet Soviet aggression.

Whether the Europeans would be able to agree—even in principle—to the participation of Germans in the project at their final scheduled meeting today was in doubt. France and other European powers fear any move to rearm the Germans. Approval of the rest of Acheson's plan may be announced in a communique tonight.

He carefully stated his position that the West Germans were needed at the earliest possible date to build up their morale against overwhelming "police" forces in Communist East Germany.

Telegraph Office Moved This Week

The telegraph office has been moved behind the desk of the Paramount hotel. The hotel management announced that 24 hour a day telegraph service would be available.

Allied Offensive In South Goes Good Too; Taegu Breakthrough

By Ralph Teatsorth

United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Sept. 16 (UPI)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's nutcracker operation against the Communists in South Korea advanced with time-table precision today, with U. S. Marines almost within artillery range of Seoul and the Americans exploding from their positions all around their southern beachhead.

A South Korean broadcast from Pusan even placed the Leathernecks and South Korean Marines inside Seoul in its southern section but front reports so far had not confirmed the broadcast.

The Pusan radio, quoting a South Korean Army headquarters communique, said tank-led Americans and South Koreans were battling the fleeing Communists in street fighting at Yongdungop, a southern section of Seoul.

General MacArthur's 11 p. m. Saturday communique said the Marines were astride the highway to Seoul and were meeting only "sporadic" resistance.

Last reports placed them some six miles past the liberated port of Incheon where they stormed ashore yesterday and only about 12 miles from Seoul.

(A military spokesman in Washington said "MacArthur had called on Communist Korean troops 'to surrender or die.'")

MacArthur said the Marines had linked up the two wings of their separate landing areas, and that Southern Korean Marines were cleaning up the northern half of Incheon under an assignment to maintain law and order in the captured city.

MacArthur said the Marines had linked up the two wings of their separate landing areas, and that Southern Korean Marines were cleaning up the northern half of Incheon under an assignment to maintain law and order in the captured city.

UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT Rutherford Poole reported from Incheon that some two-thirds of the city had been destroyed by the pre-invasion bombardment. He told of a tragic mistake made by the people of Incheon.

Quoting a South Korean Admiral he said the people began evacuating three days ago after the American bombardment squadron started its softening up attack.

"After two days (Friday) they began coming back," the Admiral said. Friday was D-Day.

The returning refugees walked right into the air, sea and ground attack and the crossfire between Southward along the Nakdong, the U. S. 2nd division smashed the enemy back to the river in one sector and advanced toward the river everywhere. The Communists broke and ran west of Changnyong. The tanks charged in, but so many enemy troops were surrendering to them that they were unable to travel the clogged roads.

Troops in the center and right of the 2nd division front gained up to two miles. The same distance was credited to flank units of the 25th division on the southern front below the Nakdong.

KOREAN REPUBLIC FORCES advanced two to three miles, on a 25-mile front north of Yongchon. Other Southern Korean forces pushing forward south of Pohang trapped a Communist battalion.

... that Columbus discovered America, or was it luck? He himself said that his journey would be hazardous and he didn't know where he was going. But he had faith that he would discover a great land, and he did. Likewise, the person who buys land without an abstract is embarking on a dangerous course. Like Columbus he must have faith that he won't lose his all and plenty of luck to avoid disaster.

Now It's Mechanics

Air Force Finding Women Have Talent For Mechanical Things

By Elizabeth Toomey
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept 15 (UP)—Better look up the tool chest, men. The mechanics of the machine age are being revealed to the weaker sex.
What's more, the women seem to have a talent for mechanical things, despite tradition.
Cpl. Alice Patton set aside her monkey wrench, crossed a khaki-trousered leg, and leaned against an Air Force Link Trainer to mull over the mechanical abilities of women.
She and another 20-year-old WAF, Pfc. Mary Gibson, are the first women Link trainer mechanics at Mitchell Field Air Force Base, and two out of seven of the women mechanics in the entire continental air command.

Eight hours a day, six days a week, they're on duty in a noisy room housing four Link trainers, which are complex devices used to teach pilots instrument flying by simulating actual flight conditions. If something goes wrong with the delicate machinery of a trainer, the male instructors and pilots have to step aside while Alice or Mary takes over.
"We were a little nervous at first," Alice said, swinging a foot shod in a size five and one-half "little Abner" boot. She wears the regulation Army marching boots and olive green fatigue uniform in the shop.
"But now the men trust us—and we're convinced women can be just as good mechanics as men," she said. The male sergeant in charge of the shop grudgingly admitted it was true.
Alice learned about Link trainer mechanisms in a four-month course at Chanute Field, Ill. It was the only women's class ever graduated from the course.
"The seven of us," Alice commented, "are sort of pioneers."
She casually refers to things like aileron valves and throttle tubes, even though the most complicated mechanism she'd ever taken apart as recently as two years ago was her bicycle.
"One day I came to work and discovered we had no vertical speed indications in one trainer," she recalled. "I took the vertical speed followup motor apart, found the rotor needed cleaning, and fixed it."
Talk like this thoroughly confused her family when Alice went home to Danmuir, Calif., last month on furlough. "They always knew I wasn't the secretary type," she said, "but they're really confused about what I do now."
Every now and then she discovers an advantage to being a woman mechanic.
"These instruments are sensitive. When men go to work with a wrench they're apt to twist the top right off. We're not strong enough to do that," she said.
True to male suspicions, the girls aren't satisfied now that they have their foot in the door of the current mechanical world.
"Pretty soon they'll have Link trainers for jet planes," Cpl. Patton said, leaning dreamily against a manifold pressure follow up motor. "I want to learn how to repair those."
Tornado Surprises Town
SASKAWA, Okla., Sept. 16 (UP)—This east Central Oklahoma community today swept up the debris of 16 houses and buildings left by a "September surprise" tornado, that injured five persons and knocked out all power lines.

Your Health

AUSTIN, (Spl.)—While the specific cause of rheumatic fever has not been discovered several factors associated with it and its onset and recurrence are now generally recognized, said Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.
Rheumatic fever is serious because it may affect the heart. Age is important. Rheumatic fever usually begins in childhood at about 5 or 6, although adults may have it. There is a susceptibility to the disease which causes rheumatic fever to be more common in some families than in others. The other factors which may favor its onset, combined with an individual's susceptibility, are frequent chilling, damp or over crowded living quarters and a poor diet.
The early signs and symptoms may be slight. Some of them, which may occur singly or in combination are: failure to gain weight, poor appetite, pallor, repeated nosebleeds, low persistent fever, and frequent complaints of pain in the arms, legs or abdomen. These symptoms do not necessarily mean that a child has rheumatic fever, but they indicate that he is below par and should be examined by a physician and his advice followed.
The more characteristic signs include painful, inflamed joints. The child may be irritable without good reason, cry easily or develop other nervous habits.
It is vitally important to spare the heart unnecessary work for as long as the disease is active and for a period of convalescence afterwards. A child with rheumatic fever should remain in bed until, in the physician's opinion, it is safe for him to get up.
Some children recover from rheumatic fever without developing heart trouble, or the damage to the heart may be so slight that the child can live a normal life. In other cases, the child recovers from the acute attack but is left with an impaired heart.

Ranger Rambling

Coach O. C. Warden sounded a little more disgusted than the Rambler with the showing of the Ranger Bulldogs Friday night.

Neither team had any punch. The only difference was that Weatherford wasn't muzzing quiet as soundly as the Bulldogs.

But anyway if you went to the game you got to see a fine marching exhibition by the Bulldog band, coached by Robert Gans.

The easiest thing to do is quarterback a club on Saturday morning.

And even easier is to hold onto a ball while in the safe confines of a wooden chair.

And it's very, very easy to rough Cunningham verbally for not holding onto the ball last night. But still if you figure yourself in his shoes with a husky six or seven men rushing you, hitting you low and hitting you high—maybe you couldn't hold onto the ball either.

The Rambler doesn't think the Bulldogs are as bad as they looked. They did good work against Hobbs—and maybe that's what was wrong—there's another game next week.

M. L. King of the Dr. Pepper plant gave Ranger Junior college cheer leaders five megaphones for football season.

He has given the megaphones for several years.

Somebody has started the rumor that cheerleaders say folks should drink Dr. Pepper at the ball games. I wonder who?

The Ranger Bulldogs have supporters even in Lea County, according to Jim Rawls, sports writer on the Hobbs Daily News-Sun, who printed the following poem. The eight of September, a red letter day, Again we get to see the Bulldogs play.

When the Hobbs Eagles, then you meet, The team in N. M. who can't be beat.

The Hobbs Eagles are big, strong and tall, But to the Ranger Bulldogs we hope they fall. We're an ex-Bulldog and mate you see, So for the Ranger Bulldogs we'll always be.

Until Friday we can hardly wait, Want to see the Bulldogs take the cake.

We're Big Turkey and Little Nell Beat those Eagles all to . . . well

At least pull their feathers out. This little jingle was submitted by T. E. (Turkey) Hinman and his wife, the former Nell Evans, according to Rawls. "Turkey" is the Eunice fire chief. Mrs. Hinman was a former pep squad member.

Any poems on Friday's game? Spiders eat other insects, bees, flies, bees, bees. Under winter conditions, when there are few insects of any kind, they can go without food for probably as long as several months.

The Golden Text is: "Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up" (Matthew 15:13). Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away" (1 Peter 1:24). The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (page 264).

When The CHURCH BELLS TOLL

MILLET has done us all rich service in painting The Angelus. A workman in the field, head bowed in reverent worship, has turned from his toil to remember the great God, because the distant church bell tolled, reminding him of his dependence on his Maker and Friend and Saviour. Gratitude, humility, and worship make this man worthy of our thought and honor. Man at worship is man at his best.

How much richer we should be as a people if not only once a week, but many times through the week the Church Bell should summon us to remember our Divine Creator! The people of Adano were right; community life is not complete without the Bell tolling men to prayer and to reverent living. It would be a noble act if every person in the community would join in providing the Bell for their common religious living. The man who puts a dollar into the Church Bell makes it in a very real sense his own voice calling him and all men to their knees. The Church which lifts the Bell again to its place of eminence in the Church Tower may again make religion the heart of the common life.

RELIGION must become again a matter of every day; the Church must call men more frequently to prayer, even when they cannot enter the church door; the beautiful chimes may send their music of Heaven and Eternity into our hearts and homes. Why not see to it that every town and hamlet shall have at least one Bell to speak for the interests of the soul in an age gone Power-mad? Above the sound of rushing train and speeding automobile let men hear the sweet music of the Church Bell tolling men to God. We are the eternal children of the Eternal Father. The Church Bell summons us to remember and to pray,

Flammable Roofs Spread Fire

Because of combustible construction of buildings in the town, a fire that started in a Christmas tree speedily became a conflagration in Hyndman, Pa., on Christmas Day. Flames spread from one building to another until the fire covered three and a half blocks, destroying 25 dwellings and apartments and 12 business structures.

The National Fire Protection Association, sponsor of Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14, says that from a community viewpoint flammable roofing probably is the most serious of all fire hazards. The NFPA calls flammable roofing "the fire hazard of which conflagrations are born."

"Fire brands often fly from one burning wooden roof to ignite others," the NFPA says. "Brands can be carried great distances by the wind, quickly multiplying an original fire to make a dozen new fires which, in turn, merge into a general conflagration beyond the control of the most efficient fire department."

Instead of flammable wood shingle roofing, the NFPA recommends asphalt shingles, asbestos, metal, tile or slate. The association says none of these materials is readily ignited and none will shoot out fire brands to endanger other buildings.

The conflagration danger is not the only reason for using fire-resistant roofing, the NFPA adds. The association says individual buildings, even those in isolated locations, also are threatened by sparks from chimneys and other sources, and flammable roofing is always a fire hazard.

Happy Hour Club Meeting Changed

Allied Defensive

Thousands of U. S. Army troops were pouring into the beachhead from the 261-ship invasion fleet. Tanks and other heavy equipment were ashore and in action. The beachhead was bulging out fast.

(OFFICIAL SOURCES IN Washington reported that a Marine division and an Army division, plus attached troops, were in the Inchon invasion force. That would make between 30,000 and 50,000 men.)

Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, 8th Army commander, said the fighting men were "doing pretty well" in the crucial offensive. He predicted that when word of the Inchon invasion seeped through the Communist ranks, "you're going to see the greatest rout ver—I hope."

County Heads Disagree With State Plan

MISSION, Sept. 16 (UP)—Hidalgo county civic leaders braced today for a struggle with state officials over a plan to change Weaver H. Baker (Tuberculosis) sanatorium into an institution for senility cases.

The sanatorium was set up following the end of World War II as the only tubercular hospital in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Dr. Howard E. Smith, acting executive director of the board of state hospitals in Austin, recently proposed removing the sanatorium from the valley.

The Hidalgo group objected to the proposed conversion plan because the county for many years has had the nation's highest tuberculosis incidence.

Mayor Logan Duncan of Mission was the first to oppose Smith's proposal.

"The cities of Mission, McAllen and Edinburg deeded the land occupied by the Baker hospital to the state for a tuberculosis sanatorium," Duncan wired Smith.

"The city of Mission vigorously opposes any change in our agreement with the state."

Duncan added that when the three cities gave the property to the state it was agreed the hospital would never be converted into another type of institution.

"I remember we were assured specifically that the hospital would not be used for mental cases," Duncan said.

"Any attempt to divert the TB hospital to an institution for senility cases would be a breach of our understanding with the state."

A Pennsylvania thief smashed a store window and took 16 electric fans—and landed in the cooler. The punishment fit the crime.

Two Brothers Shoot It Out Over Small Son

TOMBALL, Sept. 16 (UP) — Two brothers shot it out yesterday during a dispute over the 11-year-old son of one of them. One was wounded seriously and the other was charged with assault to murder.

Seriously wounded was P. L. (Pete) McGaha, 34, and his elder brother, Will, 43, was under assault to murder charge. Deputy Sheriff J. C. Browder said the trouble started when Pete McGaha, carrying a shotgun, called on his elder brother to complain about his 11-year-old son staying at Will's house.

Will, who has eight children, the deputy said, ran home. As he entered the door, Pete fired at him, the shot peppering the doorway.

Will, the officer said, emerged with a .410 shotgun, but the gun snapped when he tried to fire. He grabbed a .22 caliber rifle and fired at his younger brother twice. The second shot, fired from a distance of 80 yards, struck Pete in the arm and lodged in his chest.

The deputy said the two brothers live within 400 yards of each other. Will saw logs and his brother, Pete, haul them to market.

MacArthur Hopes Inchon Invasion Will Save 100,000 American Lives

By Robert C. Miller
United Press Staff Correspondent
WITH THE INVASION FLEET OFF KOREA, Sept. 15 (delayed)
(UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur hopes that the invasion of Korea at Inchon will save 100,000 American lives.

The landing first was planned for late July, with the U. S. 1st Cavalry spearheading it. The idea was abandoned when that division had to be thrown into the beachhead defenses.

MacArthur told the joint chiefs of staff on the idea of an Inchon landing despite their unanimous objections to such an amphibious undertaking.

He laid his plan for Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of staff, and Admiral Forrest Sherman, Navy chief of operations, when they were in Tokyo on Aug. 22. He promised that such an invasion would "end the war by winter and save 100,000 American lives."

Sources close to MacArthur said both Collins and Sherman opposed a landing at Inchon. It would be too hard to put the troops ashore and supply them against counterattacks, they maintained.

They suggested landings farther south, pointing out that the 30-foot tides and treacherous waters at Inchon made the venture even more difficult.

The general spoke to them about 40 minutes. He acknowledged reason for their doubts. But he emphasized again his faith "in the Navy that brought me across the Pacific and the Marines who fought so gallantly."

He told them that wherever a landing was made, the Allies would have to have a harbor through which to move supplies, and only at Inchon was there such a ready-made harbor.

MacArthur convinced his visitors that the landing would work.

The invasion was one of the hottest ever assembled. Five weeks ago it was only an idea, with several alternatives.

The Navy and Air Force scouted all prospective landing spots.

When the green light finally flashed, the men worked night and day to assemble the various units, plan the campaign, and coordinate the details necessary to a successful amphibious attack.

The timetable was so close that some units did not arrive in the assembly area until a few hours before the departure for the rendezvous off Korea.

An evangelist was holding a meeting in a town and wanted to mail a letter. He saw some news boys and asked them the way to the postoffice. One of them said: "Go east three blocks and then south four blocks and you will come to the postoffice."

The evangelist said: "Thank you, son; I am holding a revival here and I want you to come to-night and I will show you the way to heaven." The newsboy replied: "How can you show anyone the way to heaven when you don't even know the way to the postoffice?"

Generals Sometimes Sound More Optimistic Than They Really Are

By Harry Ferguson
(UP) Foreign News Editor
There is a wave of optimism rolling out of Korea these days. Gen. Walton H. Walker, United Nations ground commander, tells his troops that their days of retreating are about over, and that soon we will go over to the offensive.

Americans and South Koreans have had some substantial successes with local and limited counterattacks in the past three days and Walker says, "I feel a definite weakening in the enemy and in some places he is even falling back."

Part of the job of a commanding officer is to make inspiring speeches at the right time and place. Sometimes he does not mean them literally and they are not so interpreted by the troops. Several weeks ago for instance, Walker went up to the front and said, "There will be no more retreating; we will stand where we are."

There was some more retreating after that, of course, but in the end our positions were generally restored and technically the general's statements stands as correct. No commanding general ever wants to be pessimistic in a public statement because it would shake the morale of his troops. Few of them ever are as frank as Gen. Joe Stilwell was in World War II when he came out of battle and said, "I say we took one hell of a licking." Even when the situation was really desperate in Korea—back in July before the reinforcements arrived and the Russian tanks were running wild—no officer permitted himself to say anything more pessimistic than "The situation is fluid."

Walker's announcement that a general offensive was not too far away probably was based upon the developments of the past 10 days. It was during that period we found out that the Communists still could throw a hard punch but that they had lost their power to follow through. It happened time after time. The Reds would break through our front lines with sheer weight of numbers, but when we organized a counter-attack they gave up the ground they had just won.

What has happened to them is that they no longer can get their artillery into the breach fast enough to build up a defensive position that will withstand a well organized counter-attack. The reason they can't bring up their heavy guns is that the day and night work of the United States Air Force is now beginning to pay big dividends. Our pilots have shot up so many trucks and locomotives that the Reds now have to resort largely to truck animals or human beings to move the heavy stuff. Behind the Red line our super-fortresses keep pounding bridges until the traffic has been choked down to a trickle. In short, there is a fairly strong Communist front line, but the rear areas have been weakened.

The danger is that on the home front the optimism may become overoptimism. No general is going to blow a whistle in Korea and then stage an easy, three day march to Seoul and on to the 38th parallel. There is going to be some fighting along the way, and no one knows it better than Gen. Walker and his staff.

Nearly half the white population of Alaska lives in four cities—Anchorage, Fairbanks, Ketchikan and Juneau.
