R J C Plows Under T S, 7-6 In Big Upset

19-YARD TD PASS, FIGHTING LINE PAVES WAY TO VICTORY

Like a howling blue Norther, the Rangers put the skill to Tarleton's Plowboys last night, 7-6. Showing an amazing running, passing and defensive game, the rejuvenated Rangers outplayed the heavily favored Tarleton team.

There were no individual stars except perhaps Hamrick and Williams for Ranger and Brown for the Plowboys. But the entire Ranger eleven was bulging its way through, around and over the surprised Plowboys.

Methodists Set Church Loyalty Months Rally

October, November, and December have been set aside by the Methodists of Ranger as "Church Loyalty" months. Two major emphases will be observed Sunday, Oct. 1.

First, "Rally Day" in our church school. Our goal for the first day of our "Church Loyalty" program is 300 in Church School. All Methodists and those who are not attending a Church School are invited to meet at the First Methodist Church at 9:45 Sunday morning.

Second, "World-Wide Communion" at the morning and evening hours.

The Methodist Church calls her entire membership to a new consecration of life and effort during this special "Church Loyalty" campaign.

GS Troop N. 5 Picks Officers

At a meeting held last Friday Girl Scout Troop No. 5 elected the following officers: 4 Donna Blackwell, chairman; Janis Carter, secretary; Paty Entler, treasurer; Mona Gray, nurse; Polly Rains, clean up; Mary Ellen Duffebach, telephone; Paty Shaffer, program; and Barbara Harper, publicity.

In the backfield, Hamrick was the running workhorse and passer. His jump passes and short flat zone passes loosened up the Tarleton defense, leaving it open for some tricky hand-offs and pitechouts.

Gerth and Williams took those handoffs and flashed through and around the Tarleton line. Speed was part of their equipment and speed they showed.

The Rangers gave the fans the first thought of an upset when they scored from the Plowboys' 19-yard line on a pass completion from Hamrick to Williams. For a while it seemed that Williams might be stopped just short of the goal—but he gave one last spurt and fell across. Hoynton kicked the extra point—that important point which proved to be the margin of victory.

In the fourth quarter, on a sustained drive, the Plowboys, with Brown really plowing the field, scored from Ranger's 4-yard line. The point was missed and Ranger led, 7-6.

Tarleton had a wonderful chance to score when a well-timed pass fell out of the receiver's hands in the Ranger's end zone.

The last few moments of the fourth quarter had the fans on their feet and yelling. Tarleton had driven down to the Ranger 16 and with 4 minutes to go Brown, on a hand-off fumbled on the Ranger 9 with the home town recovering.

On the very next play, Ranger fumbled on their own 12 and a Tarleton player pounced on the ball. And it was here that the end-zone pass was dropped.

With fourth down and three to go, the Ranger line held and took over, hanging to the ball until the game ended.

MACARTHUR PRAYS BEFORE SOLEMN CROWD IN BATTERED, CHARNEL CITY OF SEOUL; SMOKE, DEATH TAINT KOREAN WAR AIR

By Hugh Baillie
President of the United Press
SEOUL, Korea, Sept. 29 (UP)—Seldom has the Lord's Prayer been uttered in such solemnity, nor in such grim surroundings.

The prayer, has been heard in shipwrecks and disasters and amid gloom and peril for many hundreds of years.

Today it was spoken in the battered Korean capitol building in the charnel city of Seoul, in a legislative hall where shards of glass came tinkling down from its wrecked dome at intervals and where from the galleries guards armed to the teeth kept close watch in all directions and even peered down the long corridors with binoculars. And where the Korean guards outside were so draped with grenades they were themselves walking bombs.

The leader of the prayer was Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He stood behind the speaker's desk on the platform with the klieg lights showing the gravity of his lean, ascetic visage.

Before him the congregation at this place of thanksgiving consisted of high brass in army uniforms, haggard unshaven Marines and G. I.'s, and many weary looking war correspondents looking much the same as the troops—many of them veterans of the whole Korean campaign who had come the whole road back to Seoul from Pusan and Taegu.

The war air was tainted with smoke and death. The route of the "triumphal procession" had been past smashed and burning buildings, along streets where the telephone poles were smoldering like dying torches, over a post-trench bridge, through dense clouds of the infamous Korean dust, past columns of reverse refugees now heading home.

Thirteen Get Call; Thirteen More, Oct. 11

Forty-Eight Boys To Take Pre-Induction Exams, October 18

Thirteen men have been inducted into the armed forces from Eastland county.

And another induction call for 13 more men from Eastland and Stephens county has been placed in the mail, effective October 11.

There is a pre-induction call for 48 men, effective for October 18.

The local board has moved from the Exchange building to the second floor of the Petroleum building, directly over the Eastland National bank, Eastland.

Those who have been drafted follow: Kenneth Al Jones, Ranger, John Coleman Nelson, Cisco; Roy Jack Roper, 403 North Amersman, Eastland; Ellis Waddell Rains, route 3, Cisco.

Gilman Moody Kinard, route 2, Cisco; Charles Travis Spence, Carbon; Billy Lloyd Sharpe, Cisco; Homer Calvin Wood, route 1, Ranger; J. W. Starkey, Jr., route 2, Rising Star; Ruben Marquez Comanche, Cisco; Jesse Donald Wiley, route 1, Nimrod; and Charles Byron Osteen, Jr., route 3, Ranger.

Mysterious Ball Of Fire Seen In Brownwood Area

BROWNWOOD, Tex., Sept. 29 (UP)—A mysterious torch-like ball of fire which barreled through the air briefly and then exploded was reported in this area early today.

Fred Koehler and Verbel Cox, oil workers from Brownwood, told the sheriff's office here they had seen the weird ball about 5:30 a.m. as they worked on an oil rig south of Pioneer in Brown county.

They described the mysterious object as ball-shaped with bluish torch flames. They said they watched it for about 30 seconds as it traveled from east to west and suddenly exploded. It appeared low on the horizon.

Meanwhile, Robert Hutchinson of Brownwood reported witnessing the same colorful spectacle. However, he said the object was covered with yellow flames and appeared to be about three feet across.

He also told of its sudden explosion and said he was positive the ball, traveling westward, was not a meteor.

WOMEN PRISONERS TAKEN NEAR SEOUL—Marine Lt. Elmer Stone, Fullerton, Calif., questions first women prisoners captured on the outskirts of Seoul. These two were captured firing small arms, and when questioned, said they were nurses. Prisoner on left is 19, while other is only 16. Both are from North Korea. (NEA Telephoto by Richard C. ## Funds Run Out In PMA Crop Prog.

The Eastland County Production marketing administration has run out of funds for the county cover crop program.

The administration approved spending $50,000 for cover crops on 27,000 acres of county land. About seven thousand acres will be covered with rye; the rest with winter legumes.

The county administration has spent about $102,000 for all practices. The remainder, excepting the $50,000, was divided between earth tamping, terracing and brush eradication practices.

About 1,000 farmers took advantage of the administration sponsored cover crop program between September 11 and Thursday when funds were depleted.

The marketing administration now has a few more terraces to run and check-ups to be made on peanut and cotton marketing. Emmett Powell, administrator, said that 500 books for peanut marketing have been issued. He said that about 1,000 more books would be issued.

There is a support price of $209 per ton on peanuts. But many markets are paying over support. Powell estimates that about 40,000 county acres are devoted to peanuts. If the peanuts make 15 bushels to the acre, a conservative estimate, this would mean a farm income of $1,800,000 from peanuts alone, figured at a conservative $3.00 per bushel.

Powell said that there have been no important changes between this year's and 1951's PMA program. He said that he believed about the same amount of money for approved practices would be available.

'Chill of Isolationism' Is Spreading Among Americans Says Blunt-Speaking Editor

HOUSTON, Sept. 29 (UP)—A straight-talking Tulsa Editor told 16 visiting foreign journalists last night that a "chill of isolationism" is spreading among Americans who feel they "are being played for suckers" by other nations of the free world.

"If I were you gentlemen from overseas, I would be deeply worried about this growing chill," said Jenkin Lloyd Jones, editor of the Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune.

He addressed an informal dinner attended by 20 prominent newsmen from southwestern states and the foreign editors, meeting here in one of seven regional conferences aimed at exploring possibilities of an international press institute.

In his address, Editor Jones summed up what he called the "chill of isolationism" particularly concerning the war in Korea.

"America and the South Koreans have carried the Korean war virtually alone," he said. "A total of 1,500 British came two months later. . . so did 1,200 French. Somebody sent a corvette. The rest of the world sent congratulations and good wishes."

The Tulsa editor said Americans think they have been good citizens of the world in view of the United States' international charities.

"However," he said, "our satisfaction in our good intentions is shadowed by a dark cloud. Many Americans feel they are being played for suckers. . . it is a nervous disease that once before in our history drove us from the fever of international love and good will into the chill of isolationism."

Jones called on the foreign visitors to find the "strong, young heart of America" and explained to their people why it is important to the world "that this heart should not be hardened by disappointment in our friends. . . by fear that if and when the hour arrives our allies will capitulate to the common enemy and leave us to fight the great battle all alone."

ROKSTO STOP AT 38TH LINE TO REGROUP

Ranger Clears $14.80 On Last Night's Game

The Ranger school system gained a victory and $14.80 on the Tarleton State game last night. The victory can be credited to the team and the figures to Dr. G. L. Boswell, president of RJC, who gave them to the Times.

Financial report of the game included: taken in, $767.76; expenses—Tarleton, $500, tax $127.96, estimated expense of the game $125; total expenses $752.96.

Dr. Boswell wishes to thank the people for their cooperation and turnout to the Ranger games.

FLUSHING, N. Y., Sept. 29 (UP)—The United Nations Security Council voted today to invite the Chinese Communists to attend its debate on Formosa Nov. 15, but Nationalist China insisted that its vote against the invitation constituted a veto.

By Ralph Teasorth
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, Sept. 29 (UP)—South Korean troops drove to the 38th Parallel and began shelling the border today but they were ordered not to cross the boundary line between North and South Korea.

It was the end of a 135-mile dash up Korea's eastern coast for the South Korean Third Division, which only two weeks ago was fighting for its life at the ruined port of Pohang, 60 miles above Pusan.

Word that the third division had reached the parallel came only a few hours after Gen. Douglas MacArthur had flown from Tokyo to turn over formally the capital city of Seoul to President Syngman Rhee of the Korean Republic.

An announcement from Eighth Army Commander Lt. Gen. Walton C. Walker's headquarters disclosed that the South Koreans had been ordered to "stop and regroup" at the 38th parallel.

Their instructions came from the United States, Korean military advisory group.

An Eighth Army spokesman said the order could be interpreted to mean that the Republic of Korea armies had been instructed not to cross the controversial boundary line.

President Rhee, however, has said repeatedly that South Korean troops would cross the parallel into Communist territory.

There still were an estimated 30,000 Reds caught in the American encirclement but the fact that the South Koreans in the east were reaching the 38th parallel against little or no opposition probably meant that it least as many more Reds had made their escape across the border.

The announcement that the South Korean Third Division had been ordered to halt at the parallel was terse and unamplified. It could mean that MacArthur and Walker, his senior commander in Korea, simply meant to consolidate present gains before proceeding into Communist territory to complete their extermination of the enemy.

It also could mean that some overtures acceptable to the United Nations are expected from the Communists, or already have been received.

Enemy resistance had collapsed throughout all of South Korea except northwest and east of Seoul. Only a few enemy snipers remained in Seoul today. U. S. and South Korean Marines stood guard as MacArthur and Rhee, both Army, Navy and Air Force officers and United Nations officials entered the city for the half-hour ceremony returning it to the South Korean government.

Isolated sniper fire could be heard as MacArthur and his party returned to Kimpo airport for their flight back to Tokyo.

Services Held Saturday For G. W. Williams

Services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Killingsworth Chapel for G. W. Williams, 73, former Ranger resident who died in San Antonio Wednesday.

Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery. Active pallbearers will be: Roy C. Lyon, Billy O. Hinman, Calvin Brown, A. L. Stiles, D. A. Weems and Alfred Ames.

Honorary pallbearers will be: K. E. Stevenson of Abilene; Luther Parks of Putnam; Henry Davenport, J. D. Revis, Hall Walker and J. B. Houghton, Sr.

Survivors of Williams who was born in San Saba in 1887 include a son, Glenn Williams of Ranger.

Hershey Urges Drafting of Vets

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (UP)—Draft director Lewis B. Hershey today urged Congress to lift the ban on drafting of veterans.

Hershey also asked that the draftees' length of service be extended to 30 months. Young men are now drafted for 21 months service.

The major general told the House Armed Services Committee these moves probably will be necessary if the country is to maintain an armed force of 3,000,000 men—the current goal of the defense buildup against Communist aggression.

Hershey said he now has a pool of only 1,536,000 eligible 1-A's in the draft age group 19 through 25. About 90,000 are registering each month as they pass their 18th birthday.

Vet Of Inchon Returns

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 29 (UP)—The first veteran of the Inchon invasion to return to the United States said today that the U. S. Marines who captured Seoul would smash over the 38th Parallel and sweep "all the way to Moscow" if the government gave them the nod.

Negro Causes School To Call Off Grid Game

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (UP)—Loyola University of Los Angeles has called off a Saturday night football game with Texas Western University at El Paso because a Negro Loyola player would not have been allowed to compete, the president of the Texas school said today.

President W. H. Elkins said he was notified of Loyola's decision in a telephone conversation yesterday with the Reverend Charles S. Cassassa, Loyola president.

Loyola has one Negro player on its team—halfback Bill English.

Elkins said the board of regents of the University of Texas system has never authorized state college players to compete against Negro athletes.

EUROPE SEEN AS MAIN BATTLEFIELD IN EVENT OF WORLD WAR III; REDS AMASS ENORMOUS ARMY IN WEST

By Harry Ferguson
United Press Foreign News Editor
We have all been so concerned with the close call we had in Korea that we have been inclined to forget that if and when World War III comes Europe, not Asia, probably will be the main battleground.

That is where the Russians have their strength — their enormous army, their planes and their tanks. This is the age of the machines and no nation can be strong without them. The main prizes are in Europe, not Asia. The iron and coal of the Ruhr, the industrial centers of Britain and France, the Skoda works in Czechoslovakia. Russia would like to do one of two things: capture the factories or destroy them so they could not be used against her in another world war.

For a time it seemed hopeless that the Western European nations who are in peril ever could get together on a common defense plan. They were jealous of one another. They wanted to put their own interests first and the common problem second.

But while our eyes have been fastened on Korea, things slowly have been happening. A plan, largely sponsored by the United States, has been taking shape and it seems that at last the Democracies are going to be able to get together.

Last night in New York representatives of the 12 nations that make up the Atlantic Alliance came to an agreement. Their plan is to pool about 10 divisions of troops — roughly 1,000,000 men — and keep them on guard against the day when Russia may march westward in Europe. Each nation will assume the responsibility for certain parts of the program. France will contribute heavily to ground troops. Britain will supply the bulk of the naval power. The United States will be chiefly responsible for strategic bombing — dropping atomic bombs at the right place and the right time.

The general plan is to establish a defense line as far east in Europe as possible. That probably will be somewhere in Germany, for the Russians control almost all the territory east of Berlin. Then the Allies will hold that line as long as possible with the idea in mind that our long-range bombers need time to sap Russia's production of weapons.

The Atlantic Alliance army so far is only on paper. It probably will take a year to actually get the troops posted at their defense positions. When the army is raised and equipped, there is a good chance that Dwight D. Eisenhower will take a leave of absence as president of Columbia University and become supreme commander. All nations regard him as the ideal choice because he demonstrated in World War II considerable talent for taking troops of all the Allied nations and persuading them to work together in harmony.

But even a well-equipped, well-led Allied army would have its hands full if the Russians attacked in Europe. Where we would have 1,000,000 men, the Russians would have 2,500,000. Where we had 10,000 planes, the Russians would have 35,000. The Allies probably would lose in the early phases of the war and their strategy would be to sell ground dearly until the Democracies could muster their strength. In other words, the same thing as happened in Korea on a bigger bloodier scale.

Phils Can Win Flag If Dodgers Lose To Boston

By Carl Lundquist
NEW YORK, Sept 29 (UP)—Four in a row for Detroit—six out of seven for Brooklyn, or it will be the Yankees and the Phillies in the World Series at Philadelphia opening next Wednesday.

That's what it will take to knock either of the league leaders out of their pennants today, and it is an almost-impossible prospect considering that both the Yankees and Phillies already are assured of a tie for the flag.

Here's what it would take for Brooklyn: The Dodgers would have to sweep both ends of a double header against the Pittsburgh Pirates today, then knock the Phillies off two in a row on Saturday and Sunday, then beat them two out of three in a National League pennant play-off. That would mean six out of seven, the first four to be won in a row unless they are to be obliterated. Meanwhile the Phillies can clinch their first flag in 35 years just by sitting around in their hotel rooms today, provided Boston wins one of the two games with Brooklyn.

The FORMER MISS FREY

By Edwin Rutt Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE garden was completely shut in, on three sides by walls of white limestone, on the fourth by the low, sprawling, comfortable house itself.

Gilbert Summerfield was giving a party. And the party was quiet and opulent, restrained almost to the point of decadence, as all of Gilbert Summerfield's parties were.

The guitars of the half-dozen musicians, unobtrusively ranged at one end of the garden, throbbled quietly, so that a suggestion, rather than a blare of music, hung in the cool sweet air.

Gil Summerfield, in a yellow linen coat perfectly cut to his tall figure, moved among his guests, the little half-tolerant, half-cynical smile on his lips. He walked with a slight, barely-perceptible limp of which he appeared completely unconscious. He had very black hair, faintly-smiling black eyes and a long wavy body. There was a suggestion of steely strength about his arms and shoulders. His fingers were brown and strong, the first two of the right hand stained yellow from his eternal cigarettes.

As he passed the corner where old Mrs. Delavan was holding court, she put out a hand. The thin hand, heavy with old-fashioned rings, closed with a kind of possessiveness over Gil's wrist. Ancient, shrewd, acid-tongued Margaret Delavan was very fond of Gilbert Summerfield.

Gil dropped down on the grass beside her chair. "Getting enough to drink, Dilly?" he inquired.

"I get enough," Mrs. Delavan said comfortably, "or I raise the roof. I'll say this for you and your parties, though Gil Summerfield, you have dinner late enough. It's midnight now."

"We started at 10 o'clock, Dilly," Gil pointed out.

"Bah! I don't believe in turning night into day. But that's what a place like this does for you." She waved a bejeweled hand to indicate Bermuda. "How long have you been here now, Gilbert?"

"Three years now. I've had this house for two and a half."

"A Nephews of wastrels. Look at 'em lying all around." Mrs. Delavan's keen eyes were traveling over the guests. Suddenly she pointed. Mrs. Delavan, by birth, breeding and character, was one who could point and get away with it.

"Isn't that Edie Frey over there?" she asked.

Summerfield fully red her finger. Reclining in a glider across the garden was a tall young woman in a white chiffon evening gown. Her hair was the color of pale bronze and the slight wind blew wisps of it around the narrow sun-kissed oval of her face. She had a good straight nose, high cheekbones and a wide scarlet mouth. The chin below the mouth was pointed and determined. Curled on the glider at her feet was a huge Irish setter, belonging to Summerfield. The candles laid a yellow tint across his sleek red back. A gentleman in a cream dinner jacket was bending over the young woman, holding a match to her cigarette.

A gentleman was bending over the young woman, holding a match to her cigarette.

"Of course, I know," Mrs. Delavan looked at him shrewdly. "It didn't do you much good when she married your Flood, did it, Gilbert?"

SUMMERFIELD'S hand opened on his knees and the fingers spread. "I'll be true and say, that's life!"

"I admire philosophers. But didn't old Cornelius Frey cut her off without a cent when she married Flood?"

"That's the story." "Then how do they live down here?"

"I think," Gil said cautiously, "that Edie has something of her own. From her mother."

"Cornie Frey," said Mrs. Delavan, with authority, "is a mean old devil. Of course, this Flood was a palpable fortune hunter, but Cornie could let them have something. He reeks with money. Had a private fortune to start with and doubled it, they say, in that advertising business of his."

Summerfield turned amused eyes upon her. "My gosh, Dilly, what puts such ideas into your head? They're married. Quite happily, as far as I know."

"You don't know anything. When you get my age you'll be able to read faces. And people!" Suddenly she put a hand on his shoulder. "I like you, young Gilbert. You're a waster and indolent and no-account, but I like you. You've got too much money, that's your trouble. And I wish you didn't have. I'd like to see you settled down and amounting to something, but I don't suppose I ever will." She sighed. "Well, I presume you're bored. So run along. Run along."

Gil stammered away. Near the door leading into the house was a large table loaded with bottles. He poured brandy into a snifter and carried it away with him. For a moment he leaned against the pink-tinted side of the house, studying the face of Eve Flood over the rim of the snifter. Perhaps, he thought, old Dilly had been right. Perhaps he hadn't, as yet, the ability to read faces. He smiled. No doubt Dilly had started the wheels of his imagination turning. Edie's face, upturned to the man in the cream dinner jacket, was laughing and alive. But, it seemed to Gil, there was a trace of bitterness around the corners of the mouth, and her lips were a hard red line that laughter couldn't hide.

HE hadn't seen much of Edie these last few years. But two months ago when she and her husband had come to Bermuda and taken the unpretentious cottage overlooking Riddle's Bay, they had renewed their acquaintance.

Gil's mouth twisted wryly. Once it had been friendship, very good friendship. But a casual drifting friendship. The casual, Gil thought now, too drifting. He'd merely been one of the men who were always "around" Miss Edith Frey. There'd been no particular reason for her to consider him when the more spectacular and then-successful Peter Flood had more or less crashed into her life.

Peter Flood had come out of the Midwest and brought with him a touch of its drive and energy. He had also brought a play that he proceeded to sell to a well-known producer. The thing had run for a season, which in itself was nothing especially startling. But it was Flood's first and the critics made much of it. For a time Peter Flood had been the fair-haired boy. He was seen everywhere, and with everybody who counted. And, presently, he was seen chiefly with Edie Frey.

Apparently Peter Flood, with his bold, almost arrogant eyes, his shock of ginger-colored hair and his full, rather sullen mouth, was a man who made things happen suddenly. All at once, and quietly, the marriage was an accomplished fact.

Rumors started then. It was said in cafe society that old Cornelius Frey, wealthy advertising agency owner, opposed the marriage. There were stories of bitter quarrels between Cornelius and his new son-in-law; of people entertained theories, and kept them none too private, that old Cornelius, keen as a razor though his fortune was originally an inherited one, perceived that this energetic young man was one who, even though temporarily successful, believed in making financial assurance doubly sure. Cornelius, they said also, was long on family and tradition. And the roots of Peter Flood were obscure.

Minute Interviews
with folks who suffered stomach disturbances due to lack of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin in their systems!

By RANDY DURAND
THE QUESTION
Have you ever taken the great new HADACOL everyone is talking about for such stomach distress? What has been your experience?

THE ANSWERS
Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware Street, Indianapolis, Indiana: "Three months ago a friend of mine told me about HADACOL. She knew how I suffered from stomach distress. Anything with acid or fried foods I just couldn't eat. It affected my sleep too. Then after I started taking HADACOL, I began to feel better. I've got a bottle in the house now and will continue to take HADACOL from now on. Now I eat anything I want and I get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough."

Mr. Arthur Trautman, 1419 Desire Street, New Orleans, Louisiana: "I had been sick for quite some time. The trouble was mainly a stomach disturbance. I was unable to eat any fried foods at all. I was very nervous, and it affected my work. Now that I've been taking HADACOL, my stomach is in tip-top condition and my nerves are just fine. My appetite has improved too, and fried foods are on our menu at least several times a week. That's because I've been taking HADACOL, and you can bet I won't stop taking it."

Mrs. Alma Kincaid, 2125 E. Adelaide Street, St. Louis, Missouri: "I've been taking HADACOL for over a year. Before that I had been suffering from stomach distress. Imagine how awfully hard it was when you can't eat such delicious things as tomatoes, oranges without upsetting your stomach. Then I took my husband's advice and got some HADACOL. Now that I'm taking HADACOL, I can eat anything I want and really enjoy it."

Mr. George Marks, 1229 Morris Street, St. Louis, Missouri: "Before I started taking HADACOL, there was many a night I lay awake. I just couldn't get any sleep. Food just didn't agree with me. I took only two bottles of HADACOL before I was feeling much better. Now I am in the best of condition and have only HADACOL to thank."

NOTE: HADACOL is bringing wonderful relief to thousands of men and women who suffer from indigestion, heartburn, gas pains, bloating after eating, when their condition is due to lack of Vitamins B<sub>1</sub>, B<sub>2</sub>, Iron and Niacin in their systems. Remember this great new HADACOL actually relieves the cause of these troubles when due to such deficiencies. And continued use helps prevent such stomach distress from coming back. That's the kind of product you want! HADACOL comes in special liquid form so that it's easily absorbed and assimilated by the blood — ready to go to work at once. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days' time. Why don't you get that wonderful HADACOL feeling everyone is talking about? Hundreds upon hundreds of doctors recommend HADACOL. HADACOL costs only a small amount a day. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. ©1950, The Lullman Corporation

The next meeting of the club will be held the last Thursday in October, at the clubroom. Mrs. Arthur Deffebach and Mrs. Ed Hoppey will be the hostesses.

Mary Martha Class Installs New Officers

Members of the Mary Martha Class of the First Baptist church met Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. T. J. Anderson.

Mrs. Miley Williams, in a ceremony comparing each officer with a ranch hand, installed the following officers: President, Mrs. H. P. Flowers; first vice-president, and membership chairman, Mrs. Roy McCleskey; second vice-president and stewardship chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Falls; third vice-president and ministerial chairman, Mrs. L. T. Rushing; fourth vice-president and fellowship chairman, Mrs. A. L. Stiles; secretary, Mrs. Bud Fuller; assistant secretary, Mrs. A. L. Stiles; reporter, Mrs. Earl Horton; and group captain, Mmes. J. C. Carter, Hugh Smith, J. W. Tibbles, and O. F. Sides. Mrs. T. J. Anderson is teacher of the class.

At the close of the business session, Mrs. Kenneth Falls served coffee from the table which was laid with a lace cloth and decorated with an arrangement of marigolds.

Olive Anderson Circle Meets

Members of the Olive Anderson Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church met Monday in the home of Mrs. J. A. Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson opened the meeting with a prayer, and presided over a short business session.

Mrs. G. C. Boswell gave the devotional, "Health Through A Brotherhood of Nations," and Mrs. A. J. Ratliff discussed the topic, "What is Health?" The meeting was closed with a prayer by Mrs. Boswell. Those present were Mmes. Boswell, Arthur Deffebach, H. C. Henderson, E. Hightower, M. L. King, J. F. Killingsworth, A. J. Ratliff, Al Tune, Tom Wilson, T. C. Wylie, W. J. Van Bibber, Archie Robinson, L. Wolfe, and one visitor, Mrs. B. H. Peacock of Louisiana, and the hostess.

Marriage Expert Worries Over Hasty Weddings

By Elizabeth Toomey
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (UP)—Hasty wartime marriages aren't worrying marriage law expert Harriet Pipel as much as hostile post-war mothers-in-law.

Mrs. Pipel, an attractive lawyer who would rather be known as a specialist in marriage and family problems of a divorce lawyer, says, "I found families most of ten responsible for marriages that broke up after the last war. And the girl's mother was responsible more often than the boy's mother. "It isn't very patriotic for a mother to complain that her new son-in-law is making only $75 a month when he's fighting for his country," she said. "But once the fighting is over, she can start criticizing his ability to support her daughter properly."

Long separations caused by war-time service aren't considered major hurdles by Mrs. Pipel, who hastens to point out that she's been married for 17 years and has two children, so she speaks as more than just a lady lawyer. "If young couples have learned anything about understanding human relationships, they often have a more satisfactory marriage after such a separation," she said. "Each party realizes that the other has experienced things and respects the changes that have come, instead of expecting the other person to be exactly the same."

Immaturity ranks along with mothers-in-law as one of the frequent reasons why unhappy young couples walk into Mrs. Pipel's small, carpeted office.

"In the next few years it's more important than ever to try and get young couples to enroll in some kind of a marriage preparation course," she said. "They'll be marrying younger, and more hastily, and someone should teach them to look for the reasons behind marriage problems."

Pilot Chases Venus
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—Col. George E. Shaetzl told the American Society of Civil Engineers at the University of Tennessee how an air force pilot in Louisville went after a "flying saucer." Shaetzl said the pilot went to an altitude of 25,000 feet without oxygen only to discover he was chasing Venus.

Homley Dames Get Movie Jobs Says Irene Ryan

By Virginia MacPherson
United Press Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29 (UP)—Pretty starlets may get the whistles, comedienne Irene Ryan says, but homely dames like her get the movie jobs.

All of which, she maintains, just goes to prove you don't have to be a rarin' beauty to get ahead in this town. Whistles feed your ego—but it's those fat movie checks that take care of the rest of you.

And Irene is well taken care of. She's the gal who used to swap jokes with Bob Hope on the air. Her winning ways about what lousy shape she was in used to break up everybody — "Scoop Snoop" included.

"I was only partly kidding," she admits. "I ain't no beauty. My face is homely, my figure's dumpy, I'm getting old, and I'm low on curves and loaded on wrinkles."

"But I repeat, I work steadier than a lot of these gorgeous starlets who get their pictures in the paper every day. And let this be a lesson to girls who have talent but who're scared to show it because they're not pretty."

Homely she may be, but Irene's got everything those shapely cuties are fluttering their fake eyelashes for. She snagged herself a rich producer, Harold Knox, for a husband. She has jewels and fancy cars.

And, if she wasn't working steady, she could roll in luxury in her swanky Brentwood mansion.

But Irene's too busy. Right now she's touring with the road company of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." She gets plenty of laughs with that funny face of hers—and that's what the customers pay off for.

Liberty Agrees Not To Air World Series

CINCINNATI, O., Sept. 29 (UP)—The Liberty Broadcasting Company has agreed not to re-create World Series on its nationwide network, the office of baseball commissioner A. R. (Happy) Chandler said yesterday.

Walter Mulbray, secretary to Chandler, said his office had pointed out to Liberty officials that the proposed broadcasts would violate the existing contract between the major leagues and the Mutual Broadcasting Company.

Gillette will sponsor the game accounts over Mutual.

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY THE BEST!
GOODYEAR TIRES are the best!
In times like these, far-sighted people naturally buy the best. And when it comes to tires, they buy the best tires. That's why more car owners today are turning to Goodyear tires. That's why we're having a hard time keeping Goodyear tires in stock — despite the fact that Goodyear makes more tires than any other manufacturer in the world. Even if we are temporarily out of your tire size, it will pay you to place your order now for earliest possible delivery.
Trade new miles for old
90% of all tire trouble occurs in the last 10% of tire life. Why take chances with worn, smooth tires? We'll trade new Goodyear miles for the remaining unsafe mileage in your present tires. Get out of the "danger zone" — go Goodyear. And for safer driving, get LifeGuard Safety Tubes.

Remember, if we don't have your tire size today, it will pay you to wait for new Goodyears — the best!

It Was Just An Accident—
... that Columbus discovered America, or was it luck? He himself said that his journey would be hazardous and he didn't know where he was going. But he had faith that he would discover a great land, and he did. Likewise, the person who buys land without an abstract is embarking on a dangerous course. Like Columbus he must have faith that he won't lose his all and plenty of luck to avoid disaster.
