

Coleman Team Has Strong Pass Attack

Monday's sudden chill only seemed to stir up the high feeling of the Bulldogs as they stuck strictly to business during scrimmage. The sound of leather popping against leather intermingled with continuous yelps of "Beat the Bluecats" and "Get a Bluecat."

Coleman plays were reeled off by the reserves as Coaches Warden and Aills familiarized their team with the Bluecat offense. Coleman's passing attack was heavily emphasized. The Coleman eleven has built up a reputation for passing the ball as many or more times than running with it.

Simpson, who has been injured most of the season, was in uniform and handled the Coleman quarterback slot as the second team ran through the Bluecat's plays. The team went in around five o'clock and returned for skull practice two hours later.

Ranger's bi-district opponents have a husky quarterback in Bill Baker. He is considered the star back on the team. Glen Hames, right half back and Johnny Sartin, left half, collaborate with Baker to round out a dangerous running and passing combination.

High end Bill Griffin, who is the Bluecat's target for most of their passes, and right guard Floyd Jenkins, are the mainstays in the Coleman line. The Coleman team is not exceptionally heavy but it averages six feet in height. The Bluecats work off the T and T-wing formations.

By United Press

Seven of the 32 Class A school-boy football teams poised for the five-week state championship play-off opening Thursday got there by averaging only three touchdowns per game.

While LaVega and New Braunfels averaged better than 40 points per game in moving into the playoffs for the third straight season, Hereford, Shamrock, Spur, Coleman, Albany, Atlanta and Alvin averaged only 18 to 21 points per contest.

The won-loss records and scoring totals include:

7-A: Coleman 8 1 1 192 76
8-A: Ranger 6 3 1 255 181

Draftees Can Be Deferred By Enlisting In NG

Young men of draft age who have not yet been ordered to report for armed forces physical examinations by their local boards may enlist in the Texas National Guard and have their orders to report for such physical examination postponed indefinitely, Maj. Gen. K. L. Berry, the Adjutant General announced today.

In order to qualify for postponement, General Berry pointed out, young men joining the Texas National Guard must participate satisfactorily in all required drills and training programs of their units. Draft boards will be furnished by National Guard unit commanders with evidence of satisfactory performance of Guard duties by such individuals, in order to maintain their deferment status.

In addition, General Berry noted that deferment is authorized for certain veterans in the 19 to 26 age group who do not have enough wartime service to be exempt under the provisions of the Selective Service Act, but who have 90 days or more total service prior to June 24, 1948, provided these veterans become members of the National Guard.

The general also pointed out that young men who enlist in the National Guard prior to becoming 18½ years are deferred from the draft as long as they satisfactorily perform their National Guard duties. Veterans and non-veterans, ages 17 to 35, will be accepted for enlistment in all National Guard units which have not attained their authorized maintenance strength.

Capt. R. Bruce Harris is commanding officer of Ranger's Service Battery, 648th Armored Field Artillery Battalion. His office is located on Hiway 80 west and the phone number is 606.

Rangers Choose Yarbrough For 1950 Sweetheart

No one was disappointed with half-time activities during the Weatherford-RC game Saturday night. It was one of the most colorful and ear-pleasing exhibitions performed by bands in Bulldog Stadium.

Juanita Yarbrough of Gorman was elected 1950 Sweetheart by the Rangers. The other candidates were Wanda Clem of Ranger and Rita Wynn of Ranger.

Half-time performance lasted well over 30 minutes and the fans had so much to look at that it was difficult to keep their eyes on one spot. Five bands performed in the festivity: Ranger Junior College, Gorman High School, Mineral Wells High School, Gateville High School and Ranger High School.

As the bands formed massive formations on the field, directors of the bands took turns leading the bands through musical selections. All during the playing of music, the dozen or so drum majorities were going through their fancy baton twirling.

In celebration of Homecoming and the Silver Anniversary of RJC, the bands formed the number "25" and underneath them, the letters "RJC". Finally, in a massive formation that stretched from goal to goal the five bands formed an oil derrick, steer head, star and the State of Texas and played the state song.

Chimp Put To Bed After Swallowing Battery Acid

DALLAS, Tex., Nov. 21 (UP)—Latest candidate for "meanest man"—the jokester who fed Doug the chimpanzee at Marsalis Park Zoo, battery acid in his favorite food.

Zoo keeper Walton Carlton said the nine-year-old, 85-pound chimp has a two weaknesses—chocolate candy and Coca Cola.

"I suspect somebody fed him battery acid in his food," said Carlton. "He has deep burns in his throat and on his lips."

The keeper's biggest job now is keeping Doug in bed during his convalescence.

"Just like a darned kid," observed Carlton. "He keeps kicking off the cover."

30 Men Battle 3 Hour Grass Fire

Thirty men from the Fire Department, National Guard and Ranger Junior College battled a wind-swept grass fire Monday morning for three hours, finally bringing it under control after 150 acres of grass had been burned.

The fire-fighters reached the Robinson ranch, where the fire had reached after starting at the airport, at 10 a. m. yesterday morning. Dr. G. C. Boswell, Ranger Junior College president, raced to the school for volunteers when he heard of the fire.

Bruce Harris, Jess Cole and Claude Vinson handled the two-way radio controlled National Guard jeep which helped ease the difficulty of fighting the fire. Firemen said today that all fire-damage was confined to the south side pasture of the Robinson ranch. For awhile, the fire-fighters feared the fire would reach

Rep. Says US In War III

HOUSTON, Nov. 21 (UP)—Rep. Albert Thomas, D. Tex., believes the United States is in World War III and has been for the past year.

Thursday of the month, meaning Nov. 30.

Then they reconsidered, at another meeting, and the vote was reversed. So Thanksgiving in Mexico is Nov. 23. Interest in a high school football game, Mexico at La Vega, always a bell-ringer in those parts, probably had something to do with the ultimate decision. The game is on Nov. 23.

A football game of wider importance, the annual melee between University of Texas and Texas A&M College, was a heavy influence in the decision to have Austin's Thanksgiving on Nov. 20. This year's game is in Memorial Stadium at Austin.

Some of the edge was hacked away at last weekend's Southwest Conference results, but newly-crowned champion Texas and the Aggies have never been stand-offish when given a chance to smear each other and the game will be the stand-out scheduled event in Texas' "tailend Thanks-giving."

Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Fort Worth and El Paso will give thanks on the 23rd. So will all of East Texas, and the entire lower Rio Grande Valley.

Valley folks in large numbers were expected to take the lure offered by a Mexican outing. Monterrey, Mexico, chefs will be ready with authentic Yankee-style dinners, turkey, stuffing, cranberries and pumpkin pie.

This year's formal observances will have religious overtones in many cities.

At Cameron, one of the few towns joining Austin in the Nov. 30 observance date, a city-wide prayer service is on the program. Cameron pastors will distribute food parcels to needy families for the holiday.

Among others, union Thanksgiving services will be held at Sherman, Cleburne, Laredo, Gladewater, Sweetwater, Brownwood, Waco and El Paso.

Country Club Has Turkey Dinner

Twenty-five couples made short, happy work of the 50 plates heaped with turkey and all the trimmings at the Country Club's annual turkey dinner, Monday night.

Mrs. Earle Pittman, Mrs. Wilson Guest and Mrs. Charlie Owen, hostesses, directed the gathering in canasta, bridge and "Forty-two" after-dinner sessions. Tables were done in white linen and autumn leaves and berries made up the over-all decorative theme for the meeting.

'Beat Coleman' Signs Pop Up All Over City

The "Twelfth Man" must be hungering for a taste of the quarter-finals. Unknown phantoms have plastered the streets with the white-painted words "Beat Coleman" as High School students are making it plain where Ranger's sympathy lies in Thursday's bi-district game at Coleman.

Bad Treatment Of Men Denied By Prison Head

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 21 (UP)—Warden Howell Gage today denied charges that "bad treatment" of prisoners at the state penitentiary prompted an uprising in which six guards were beaten brutally.

Gage said the accusations, made by Bernardo Blanco, Mexican consul for this area, were "absolutely untrue." The warden invited an investigation of the treatment of convicts.

Blanco held prisoner for 10 minutes when a rioting inmate entered a guardroom and tried to stab a guard, said bad treatment charges had been made by prisoners.

The riot began when M. H. Chesher, a guard, intervened in a fight between two prisoners. He was knocked down, beaten and his tear gas gun was taken by convicts.

More than 100 prisoners in the yard rushed into an office, the prison canteen, laundry and automobile plate factory, flinging bricks which they tore from a walk in the yard.

The riot subsided when the warden, surrounded by state troopers, marched into the prison yard. He ordered all prisoners locked in their cells while he attempted to separate "14 or 15 ringleaders."

400 Ducats Sold In Two Hours Today

Winter Storms Hit Nation In Every Direction

By United Press

Wintry storms pummelled the nation with a wide assortment of blows today.

Rain squalls with gale-force winds ripped through Mississippi, snow fell in the upper Great Lakes and Ohio Valley and a new frigid air mass blew into the northern plains from Canada.

Meanwhile, floods harassed Nevada and California.

Winds with gusts up to 50 miles an hour caused at least six deaths on the Atlantic seaboard last night.

Near Noxapater, Miss., two persons were injured when winds of tornado force destroyed their home. Several other buildings were wrecked.

Strong winds knocked down seven barns and toppled chimneys and trees at Georgetown, Ky.

The Coast Guard ordered storm warnings off from Eastport, Me., to Cape Hatteras. A patrol vessel went to the aid of the fishing trawler Cecil W., which reported it was taking on water about 60 miles east of Barnegat lightship.

The Truckee River flooded downtown Reno, Nev., and eddied into the city's plush gambling houses. While National Guardsmen and civilian volunteers sandbagged downtown buildings, casino operators said "we'll gamble with our boots on. We won't give up the fort."

Reno's post office, YMCA, two banks and several other major buildings were surrounded.

In California, where floods in the rich central valley have caused seven deaths and an estimated $12,000,000 damage, the American River endangered Sacramento, the state capital.

GENERALS HAIL ADVANCE BY SPITTING IN YALU RIVER

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (UP)—American troops will eat turkey on the banks of the Yalu River for Thanksgiving, a 10th Corps spokesman said today.

He said the turkeys are "going up right now" from Hamhung, Korea, to the forward lines. They are the first fresh meat brought ashore for the troops since the corps landed in Korea.

Texans Run Into Some Confusion Over Choice of Dates for Thanksgiving; Most Cities Choose Nov. 23 Holiday

When is Thanksgiving in Texas? If you are in Austin, it's Nov. 30. If you are in Mexico, you may be confused, but you will wind up observing Nov. 23, along with most other Texans.

Gov. Allan Shivers says Texans have enough to be thankful for to have two Thanksgivings. He proposed both Nov. 23 and Nov. 30 as Thanksgiving.

Bankers, who take a holiday at the merest hint of a proclamation, decided Shivers was right. Most banks will be closed both days.

The very nature of Shivers' double-barreled proclamation caused confusion. One of the results was that Mexico had more trouble than most cities figuring out what to do. First the merchants voted to have Thanksgiving on the last

Ranger Junior High Pups Finish 1950 Grid Season With Record Of Undefeated, Untied, Unscored On

With cancellation of Monday Night's game at Mineral Wells, the Pups have finished one of their most successful football seasons, boasting an undefeated, untied and unscored on record.

Coch Warden is busy preparing the Bulldogs for their bi-district game against Coleman, Thursday, and couldn't make the game with Mineral Wells. It would have been the second meeting of the Pups and Mineral Wells and from the score of the first game, the Pups probably wouldn't have had too much trouble maintaining their excellent record.

GIL SUMMERFIELD, in blue sports shirt and linen slacks, was stretched in a low garden chair. He realized, vaguely, that the warm, winelike air was putting him to sleep. It had already produced a marked soporific effect upon his Irish setter. The dog was beautifully relaxed, his bur-nished sides heaving. Gil stretched, and his pipe fell from his teeth. He let it lie, on the grass. His eyes closed.

All at once the setter stirred. Gil opened one eye, started, then passed a hand over the eye. It had been a nice fragmentary dream. But, of course, only a dream. There wasn't a girl, in a blue traveling suit and a little blue hat, standing there against the opposite wall of his garden. Because, in Bermuda, girls didn't wear blue traveling suits.

And then came the voice, low and a little vibrant.

"I don't know," said the voice, "whether I ought to cross this garden on my feet or my knees."

Gil Summerfield bounced up then. The setter, disturbed, bounced likewise.

"Ede," cried Gil Summerfield, and almost fell out of his chair. Ede came toward him with firm footsteps.

"Do you think your dog would mind very much, Gil," she said, a queer sidelong look in her green eyes, "if I apologized in front of him?"

Mr. Summerfield regained a measure of his aplomb. He got to his feet. But he still stared at her. "E-Ede," he said unbelieveingly. "This—is this wonderful. Where in Heaven's name did you drop from?"

"From an airplane. I . . . oh, Gil, I had to come."

GIL was completely recovered by now. He said slowly: "Then consider any document I'd had drawn up a phony."

"How could it be dated and notarized and good notaries don't fake dates, do they?"

"No, they don't. But after you told me what you thought of me that day, the whole world seemed to bust up. I didn't care about anything right then. So I left the statement where you threw it and rushed off down here—to let my wounds, sort of. I was a dope of course. I'm glad Cutler used his head."

"Why don't you tell me just what did happen, Gil?" she said. "I'm still foggy in spots."

Gil retrieved his pipe, lighted it. "Well, shortly after I went up to New York, I ran across Lew Northcott. I've known him for years and we had a couple of drinks together. And, over them, he surprised me by asking me if I wanted to make some money. As it happened, I did."

"Why?" said Ede curiously.

"I'll come to that. Northcott went on to say, Ede, that he was thinking of going into the agency business on the side. But he couldn't swing it all on his own hook. He needed an angel, he said."

"And, naturally, you were the perfect angel?"

"THE cynical little smile deepened on Gil's face. "In more ways than one. I had money and I'm a dope about business matters. Northcott knew both of those things. But I give you my word, Ede, that at first I didn't dream that Lew had your agency in mind. He just said that he controlled a lot of business and that it was simply a question of buying some good agency. The net of it is, I agreed to put up some money. Quite a lot of money."

"I'll bet," said Ede. "Northcott was making offers, high, wide and handsome. Probably on the strength of your money."

"Well," said Gil, "the matter rested for a while. Then, one Saturday, Lew phoned me and asked me to meet him at his golf club. I did. And I was floored when I found your brother Jeff there. I—I sort of tumbled then. But it was pretty late."

BOYCE HOUSE SAYS

Back in the horse - and buggy days, a man pounded on a doctor's door late one night and shouted, "Hurry to my house." The physician dressed hastily, hitched up and drove as fast as he could. Just as they reached the farmhouse which was three miles from town, the doctor asked, "Who's sick?"

The man climbed out and edged for the door as he replied, "No body. I got in on the midnight train and the livery stable man would have charged $3 to drive me home and you only charge $2 for a visit."

Both preachers who were members of a service club were absent so the president called on a business man to give the invocation. He was unaccustomed to pray in public and all he could think of to say was "There being no minister present, let us thank the Lord!"

BOSTON, (UP)—Frank Leahy got his first haircut from a woman barber and reported that Mrs. Milka Kuckova, a Latvian refugee, "didn't say a word."

Opinions Clash On Topic Of Gibson Girls

By Elizabeth Toomey

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (UP)—Gibson girls were the toast of the town 50 years ago. There's one opinion they still would be, but another well-informed source says the girls wouldn't get a second glance from today's male.

The discussion of the real, wasp-waisted beauties created by artist Charles Dana Gibson began at the museum of the city of New York, where Gibson's drawings are being featured in a special exhibit.

"I don't know exactly what it is, but today's girls just aren't so attractive as they were in those days," said a slim, well-dressed woman standing beside a picture of a Gibson girl dressed in the high-necked, mutton-sleeved dress characteristic of the turn of the century.

The gray-haired woman was Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, widow of the artist and famous half a century ago as one of the beautiful Langhorne sisters of Virginia.

"That's me in the picture too," she explained. "Now I have 13 grandchildren and six greats, and I'm 77 years old." Her waistline, when the Gibson girl picture was done, was a slim 19 inches, she recalled, and her hair, now short, was piled in the familiar pompadour.

"Maybe it was because we wore more clothes then... we concealed more," the still handsome former Gibson girl said. "Today's girls are wonderful, so capable, but they just lack an appeal we had."

Several nostalgic sighs from white haired museum visitors backed up Mrs. Gibson's comments.

But this rosy view of former beauties got a frank snort of disbelief from the young woman who loaned her rare set of 24 Royal Doulton dinner plates, decorated with the Gibson narrative series, "A widow and her friends," to the museum.

The plate collector is Gypsy Rose Lee, known more as an authority on the art of undressing than as an art collector.

"Yes those Gibson girls concealed more, they certainly did," Miss Lee said. "They concealed stays and boned corsets and all kinds of padding. Today a girl may be able to get away with a little bit of a false, but the men in those days just didn't know where they stood, so to speak, so far as a woman's figure was concerned."

Miss Lee, who spent the last 15 years collecting the rare plates and now uses them for dinner parties, takes an objective view of her works of art.

"Those girls have an illusion of beauty," she said. "Today the beauty is more genuine."

Let us give thanks!

Dear Lord, how can we thank Thee half enough
For all Thy gifts to us this fruitful year!
For spring's bright promise gloriously fulfilled
This harvest-time; for these that are more dear
Than bread assured: all the sweet joys of life—
Home, work, love, friends—that gild the passing days;
And children's laughter on the evening air—
For all, dear Lord, we give Thee grateful praise.

But most of all, O God, we thank Thee for Our cherished heritage of freedom. Here
Where men walk safely, surely; speak and pray
As each one wills, and freely, without fear,
Lord make us strong to hold and spread this boon!
From our abundance help the weak to raise
Their hearts and come to share our brotherhood,
And join with us in songs of thanks and praise!

JAPANESE PUBLIC BATHING DISAPPOINTS CORRESPONDENT; MEN AND WOMEN BATHE INTERCHANGEABLY, NOT SIMULTANEOUSLY

By H. L. Quigg
YUGAWARA, Japan, Nov. (UP)—After three months in Korea, you need a bath.

This is as good a place as you can find to take one because here the water is always hot. It comes out the sides of the mountain at a temperature slightly below boiling.

By the time it reaches your bath, via pipe and plumbing, it has cooled somewhat. But after you have been here a while and have taken several baths, there are pink seal spots on your face.

Japanese public bathing is a disappointment to your jaded correspondent. It had been advertised to me as being educational. There were no coeds in any of the pools I bathed in, and only one nude in the swimming pool, and she turned out to be bashful.

Bathing, of course, is an institution in Japan. Hot baths are supposed to be good for whatever ails you, and, among other things, they are cleansing.

We came here to take the baths at a hotel called the Seikof. That's pronounced:

"Psycho Inn." The Psycho Inn was host to a convention of the Japanese Bus Company, and the front entrance was a flutter with banners and pennants of the celebration.

It was the quietest convention of bus company men, or any other men, I have seen. They came to this hot spring to bathe and convene all in one operation. I supposed:

"Psycho Inn." The Psycho Inn was host to a convention of the Japanese Bus Company, and the front entrance was a flutter with banners and pennants of the celebration.

He emerged suffering from total bluish. Hoberrecht comes from Oklahoma. For an hour, he looked as red as an original reservation Oklahoman with scarlet fever.

You're dizzy for a bit after getting out of the bath. And sometimes while you are immersed, you get reflective. It was while bathing with Hoberrecht that an observation was made which still vaguely discomforts me. I was sitting at a mirror shaving and Hoberrecht was in the bath when suddenly said:

"The human body is a funny thing, isn't it?"

"Whose human body are you talking about—mine?" I said.

"It's the only one around, human or inhuman," he said.

There is no prudery about the Japanese. The hotel was a fine swimming pool, and swimming is in the nude.

We did a lot of swimming. But apparently Japanese women are disturbed by what they know of American customs. They don't like to swim with nude Americans.

Once as I entered the pool, I encountered a pretty—and naked—young lady.

I bowed and said, "How do you do," and thought nothing of it. She couldn't very well bow in return without ducking herself because she was standing up to her shoulders in clear blue water.

She smiled and said something in Japanese. The young man who was with her swam up the pool calling out "Hazukashi" which I was told means bashful. So I left.

I hadn't intended to go swimming right then anyway.

Wonder if the American Legion ever had considered Japan for an annual convention?

The Psycho Inn has several bathing pools, entered by sliding doors. Men and women use them interchangeably but not, to my knowledge simultaneously.

Each bathing pool is a separate compartment. The decoration includes rock formations and statuary. The compartment floor and the pool are tiled. There are mirrors on the wall and little wooden stools in the tub on the floor.

Extremely hot water runs constantly into the pool and overflows across the floor out a drain.

The ritual of the bath includes washing yourself in the wooden tub and scrubbing yourself before entering the pool to soak. Nobody gets in the bath without first washing. This preliminary dousing also warms you up for the shock of hitting that liquid inferno. It's cauldron-hot.

After soaking for a while you feel as thoroughly boiled as a lobster, and sometimes you look like one. We encountered one bath at the end of a corridor, which was so hot I couldn't get in it. Earnest Koberrecht, U. P. manager for Japan and an old Japan hand, plunged in bravely and lay there screaming for a while.

Courtney Pool Grows Swiftly Near Eastland

With almost clock-like regularity, new wells are being completed every few days in the sensational shallow Courtney pool, a few miles northwest of Eastland.

I. Weiner of Big Spring extended the pool 900 feet south with his Ted Hale No. 1, reported flowing seven barrels an hour from the Strawn sand.

W. W. Bradley of Longview who brought in the well which first attracted attention to the area has found 32 feet of sand in No. 8 Courtney and will hydraulic in the next day or two—the treatment which has proved so successful with previous wells with similar, or even lesser, showing. Bradley also is starting No. 10 Courtney, a north offset to Weiner's well. Gilchrist Drilling Company is the contractor.

Evans, Davis and Bradley are starting a well on the Fred Davenport; Pepper and Potts are the contractors.

J. K. Wadley, widely-known oil man of Texarkana, is the newest to enter the field. He and associates have acquired the northeast 240 acres, Sec. 43, Block 4, H & TC Survey, the Jones tract, and will drill a test to the Ranger sand. This also is in the Courtney area, being due south of the Hale. Wampler Bros. of Longview are the contractors.

On The Outside In Japan You Walk 'Clip-Clop'; While Inside You Shuffle Around 'Slip-Slop'

YUGAWARA, Japan, Nov. 21 (UP)—Once you doff your shoes and enter the sliding paned door of a Japanese resort hotel, you are in the world of slip-slop.

Outside, Japanese wear wooden clogs on their feet. Inside they wear slippers. Outside they clip-clop. Inside they slip-slop.

It's also a world of swishing robes, of flower arrangements, of charcoal braziers. Each hot-springs bath hotel has its own distinctive robes for its guests, so that when you're walking outside you can always tell when you meet someone from your own hotel.

You remove your western clothing when you arrive, wrap yourself tightly in the inner and outer kimonos which comprise your robe and wear them constantly while you're there.

In the hotel rooms, you spend most of your time on the floor. You sit or kneel on pillows on the "tatami", which is the closely-woven straw mat that covers the floor. To eat, you place the pillows around a foot-high table. Because of this proximity to the floor, the panels which slide open to let you look outside are down low also, easily reached by propping yourself on an elbow.

The maid will bring you a "hibachi", literally a "fire receptacle", glowing with plenty of charcoal if you want to cook something yourself. If it's sukiyaki you're making, you put it in an iron pan on the hibachi and let it simmer.

The Japanese virtually ignore the "U", in sukiyaki. When they pronounce it, it comes out "suki-yaki." If you can imagine a cockney pronouncing "ski hokey", you got it.

The dish itself is not bad. It's made by cutting up beef, onions, mushrooms, cabbage and numerous Japanese green vegetables with inscrutable names. You make a sort of soup out of water, shoyu sauce, sugar, Japanese flavoring and sake (Japanese liquor), and pour it on.

You put a raw egg in a dish, pour a batch of cooked sukiyaki over it, mix the whole thing up and eat it—with chopsticks, of course. Each pair of chopsticks is delivered in an individual paper wrapper with the hotel name on it. The two sticks are partially split from a single block of wood and you split them the rest of the way yourself so you know they haven't been used before.

The Japanese bed is a pallet affair right down on the tatami. It's called a "futon." There is a cotton-stuffed comforter sort of thing which goes on the floor. You lie on it. Two big comforters,

Russ Protests Release Of Jap Prisoner

TOKYO, Nov. 21 (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur released former Japanese foreign minister Mamoru Shigemitsu from prison as a war criminal on parole today in defiance of Russia.

He also announced that six more lesser war criminals will be paroled similarly December 3. They will bring the number of Japanese given time off their war crimes sentences for good behavior to 148.

Shigemitsu, who as foreign minister signed Japan's surrender aboard the battleship USS Missouri in 1945, had served two years of a seven-year sentence for high-level responsibility for atrocities to war prisoners.

He is the first Class A Japanese war criminal paroled. He was one of the co-defendants in the long drawn-out trial of war-time premier Hideo (the Tiger) Tojo. All except one of the other defendants were executed or sentenced to life imprisonment.

Russia sent Washington yesterday the third and sharpest Soviet protest against MacArthur's parole system and specifically demanded that Shigemitsu be compelled to serve his entire prison sentence.

MacArthur ignored the protest and the 75-year-old former diplomat hobbled out of Tokyo's Sugamo Prison on his wooden right leg at 9:50 a.m. (7:50 p. m. Monday EST).

He was paroled into the custody of a Buddhist priest, Sumio Doi, 54, also of Kumakura. The priest must report to the Japanese attorney general's office every month on Shigemitsu's activities until Nov. 7, 1951. Then Shigemitsu will be a free man.

Student Doesn't Know His Car Has Been Stolen

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21 (UP)—Because an alert policeman noticed a makeshift car switch, a Baltimore, Md., student will get his car back and a Baltimore mother will have her son returned to her.

Police Chief Harry Worley of suburban Whitehall stopped a car yesterday after it crashed a traffic light. He noticed the car's ignition switch had no key.

The driver identified himself as Hubert Qualls of Carrollton, Texas and a boy in the car as his two-year-old son.

A phone call to the car's owner, Lloyd E. Simpkins, of Princess Ann, Md., a student at Baltimore, revealed he did not even know it had been stolen from a parking lot.

Qualls' wife, Mrs. Anna Qualls, of Baltimore, told Sheriff Ralph J.

Mrs. Flavia C. Kaufman, 2436 70th Ave., Baton Rouge, Louisiana, says it is a full time job keeping tabs on her little granddaughter, Mildred Gore, but it is a job she thoroughly enjoys. Yes, everything in life for her these days is enjoyable—because she has at last found her secret of feeling better. She now takes HADACOL regularly because she was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Mrs. Kaufman's statement: "I have been taking HADACOL for over a year. Before I started taking HADACOL I was terribly nervous and upset all the time. I was underweight and just couldn't eat at all. My appetite was so lax that I ate irregularly at all hours of the day. Then I started taking HADACOL. After the third bottle I felt 100 per cent better. I have gained weight, my appetite is tremendous and, best of all, I sleep well nights and, my nerves are steady as can be. HADACOL is a very wonderful product. I just can't praise HADACOL enough." HADACOL is that wonderful new preparation — promising blessed relief for your indigestion, stomach disturbances (gas, heartburn, sour "risings" after meals), as well as that general run-down condition, and nagging aches and pains, if due to a lack of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin, and Iron in your system.

HADACOL is so amazingly successful because if your system lacks Vitamins B-1, B-2, Iron and Niacin it acts directly to relieve this deficiency—the real cause of your trouble. That's the kind of product you want—the kind you should buy—the kind you should start taking immediately.

Only One Genuine HADACOL. Don't go through life suffering those nagging aches and pains if caused by such deficiencies when relief may be as close as hand as the nearest drugstore for sufferers from these deficiencies. Buy HADACOL today, Trial size bottle only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes. There's only one true and genuine HADACOL. If your drugstore does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. (Adv.) (C) 1950, The LeBlanc Corp.

On The Outside In Japan You Walk 'Clip-Clop'; While Inside You Shuffle Around 'Slip-Slop'

YUGAWARA, Japan, Nov. 21 (UP)—Once you doff your shoes and enter the sliding paneldom of a Japanese resort hotel, you are in the world of slip-slop.

Outside, Japanese wear wooden clogs on their feet. Inside they wear slippers. Outside they clip-clop. Inside they slip-slop. It's also a world of swishing robes, of flower arrangements, of charcoal braziers. Each hot-springs bath hotel has its own distinctive robes for its guests, so that when you're walking outside you can always tell when you meet someone from your own hotel.

You remove your western clothing when you arrive, wrap yourself tightly in the inner and outer kimonos which comprise your robe and wear them constantly while you're there.

In the hotel rooms, you spend most of your time on the floor. You sit or kneel on pillows on the "tatami", which is the closely-woven straw mat that covers the floor. To eat, you place the pillows around a foot-high table. Because of this proximity to the floor, the panels which slide open to let you look outside are down low also, easily reached by propping yourself on an elbow.

The maid will bring you a "hibachi", literally a "fire receptacle", glowing with plenty of charcoal if you want to cook something yourself. If it's sukiyaki you're making, you put it in an iron pan on the hibachi and let it simmer.

The Japanese virtually ignore the "U" in sukiyaki. When they pronounce it, it comes out "sukiyaki." If you can imagine a cockney pronouncing "ski hokey", you got it. The dish itself is not bad. It's made by cutting up beef, onions, mushrooms, cabbage and numerous Japanese green vegetables with inscrutable names. You make a sort of soup out of water, shoyu sauce, sugar, Japanese liquor, and pour it on.

You put a raw egg in a dish, pour a batch of cooked sukiyaki over it, mix the whole thing up and eat it—with chopsticks, of course. Each pair of chopsticks is delivered in an individual paper wrapper with the hotel name on it. The two sticks are partially split from a single block of wood and you split them the rest of the way yourself so you know they haven't been used before.

The Japanese bed is a pallet affair right down on the tatami. It's called a "futon." There is a cotton-stuffed comforter sort of thing which goes on the floor. You lie on it. Two big comforters,

Another remarkable thing about Japanese resort hotels is the hotel towels. There aren't any. You're supposed to bring your own. This reporter managed to buy one from the hotel. Japanese use a tiny bath towel, and they use it while it's wet. They use the same towel to wash with, then they wring it out and wipe off the excess moisture from their bodies. You bathe in such hot water that even a wet towel works okay. On the roads around this resort town, as well as all over Japan, you're amazed at the number of charcoal burning automobiles. You see a normal looking car, and then on the back, where the luggage compartment should be, is a stove. The charcoal creates a gas that runs the automobile engine. The buses have virtual furnaces on the back—smoking like a faulty flue-
