

Truman, Attlee Wait Reds Response To Peace Offer

COMMIE RESPONSE MAY DECIDE UNEASY PEACE OR BIGGER WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (UP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee awaited Red China's answer to peace bids today before drafting strategy for an uneasy peace in Korea or a bigger war.

A quick answer by Peking to the 13-nation appeal for halting the rampaging Red Armies at the 38th Parallel will determine the course of the remaining Truman-Attlee talks.

As the two men prepared to meet (at 2:30 p.m. CST) for the fifth time in four days under the threat of a new world war, no firm word was available from the Chinese Reds.

One of the top problems under study is the price tag Peking will demand for halting its army's drive in Korea.

Diplomats noted that the New York Communist Daily Worker has demanded all "outside military forces to leave Korea at once," return of Formosa to "China," and Red China's admission to the United Nations.

Mr. Truman and Attlee were said to disagree on the tough Formosa question. Informants said the President contends Korea alone should be discussed in any negotiations with the Communists. While Attlee might be willing to consider including the future of the Nationalist-held island in any peace talks.

Their views also conflict on Red China's admission into the UN. Britain has recognized the Communist government, but has not pressed for Chinese membership in the UN since the Reds' entry into the war. The U.S. opposes admission of China, but this government is not bound to use its veto to halt such action.

Should Peking reject the peace bid and the Red armies continue their drive to throw UN troops out of Korea, some alternative actions would be necessary. Those under discussion are said to include a limited economic war and naval blockade with possible air attacks on the Chinese, or simply sitting back to see what the Reds will do next.

U.S. and British officials said if Peking's reply is delayed, enough progress on alternative courses of action through the UN has been made to permit Attlee to return to London. But they said the Prime Minister would prefer to stay here to help map final strategy.

Just Attacking In Different Direction

ON NORTHEAST FRONT, Korea, Dec. 7 (UP)—Maj. Gen. O. P. Smith, commander of the U. S. 1st Marine Division, said today that his Marines are fighting their way south out of Communist encirclement aren't retreating.

"Retreat, hell," he exclaimed. "We are just attacking in a different direction."

Freedom Fire To Be Lighted In Ranger Tonight

At 6:15 p.m. today a siren will mark the beginning of celebration activities for "Operation Democracy Day" in Ranger. The ceremony will actually get under way at 7 p.m. when a "Fire of Freedom" will be lighted on the lot across from the old city hall corner of Austin and Pine Street.

The local American Legion Post is sponsoring the occasion which will be duplicated in more than 600 cities across the state. It is a city-wide event, Commander John Ussery of the local Legion Post said. He urges all citizens to attend and particularly requests that all Legionnaires and Auxiliary members be present.

L. R. Pearson, Ranger attorney, will be principal speaker at the fire-lighting ceremony and will ignite the Ranger "Fire of Freedom." Superintendent of Schools G. B. Rush, will also speak.

The high school band will furnish music for the event. The Freedom Fires will symbolize the purpose of keeping the fires of freedom burning forever in the hearts and minds of Texans, and as a symbol of America's hope to penetrate the darkness behind the iron curtain.

Armada Ready To Evacuate Trapped Army From Korea

By Earnest Hoberecht
TOKYO, Friday, Dec. 8 (UP)—Twenty thousand trapped U. S. Marines and Army men successfully completed the first leg of their desperate fight for freedom in northeast Korea Thursday and may already have contacted a relief column driving up from the south.

A huge armada of transports and warships was waiting off the east coast port of Hungnam to evacuate the Marines and other U. S. 19th Corps troops from northeast Korea.

But in the west the Chinese Communists smashed into the new Allied defense line 25 miles southeast of Pyongyang and drove through South Korean outposts toward the 38 Parallel and Seoul.

The new Red attack was accompanied by twin thrusts down both flanks of the U. S. 8th Army's positions north of the 38th Parallel and by guerrilla attacks within 30 miles of Seoul.

The Americans' fight for freedom south of the Chosin reservoir carried one fourth of the way to safety at 8 a. m. Thursday (3 p. m. Wednesday EST).

At that time a Marine vanguard of 15,000 men from Hagaru linked with 5,000 other trapped Americans in Koto, seven miles south of Hagaru.

The combined force smashed south again at dawn through another 20 miles of enemy-held country in the snow-choked, ice-glazed northern mountains toward the coast.

Hardin-Simmons Buttons defeated RJC 62-34 last week in Ranger in the opening game for both squads. The Rangers are putting in full-time practice now and the polish is beginning to show through.

Coach Boone Yarbrough paced the team through a lively session Wednesday afternoon. Special emphasis was placed on quick ball-handling and smoother passing. Cook, who tied with an HSU cageman for high point honors last week, had his shooting eye in working order during practice.

Last week's game with HSU would have been closer if the Rangers hadn't been too anxious and hurried on passing the ball and shooting. Deatur should meet an improved RJC team tonight with good chances of the local team winning their first tilt of the young season.

Football Movie Of Bulldog Tilt Shown Tonight

The district champion Ranger High School football team will be honored tonight at 7:30 at the annual football banquet sponsored by mothers of the players.

A full-course dinner will be served the players, their dates and invited guests in the basement of the First Methodist Church. Following the banquet, a movie of the Bulldog-Hobbs, N. M., game will be shown at 8:15 in the church auditorium. The action-packed movie will be open to the public.

other American troops holding a line about 17 miles northeast of Hamhung.

An air report from pilots flying intensive cover for the retreating column said they were met south of Koto at midafternoon Thursday by a relief column from the south.

The lead tank and men behind it are just pulling up to the advance element," an airman's report said. "Men who were sitting along the road jumped up, waving their arms and throwing things in the air, obviously cheering the convoy leaders."

The Americans' drive for safety was made under a crackling umbrella of Allied planes that blasted Chinese Communist ambushes trying to harry the Yanks' escape. Marine, Navy and Air Force planes flew 307 sorties over the southward-battling column in the first 10 hours of daylight Thursday.

Rangers Play Decatur Five Tonight At 7:45

Decatur Junior College plays the Rangers tonight at 7:45 in a non-conference basketball game. It is the second game of the season for RJC whose home court is at the Recreation Building.

Hardin-Simmons Buttons defeated RJC 62-34 last week in Ranger in the opening game for both squads. The Rangers are putting in full-time practice now and the polish is beginning to show through.

Jean Valentine Warns City When Gas Line Breaks

RANGER, Tex., Dec. 7 (UP)—Telephone operator Jean Valentine was the toast of Ranger today.

She deluged the town's citizens with calls in the middle of the night to warn them that a gas line serving Ranger had broken.

There was the possibility of an explosion in every home where gas fires had been burning and the fire had been extinguished by the break.

Gas company officials said that gas could have filled the homes when emergency mains were turned on. They said the break was caused by the sudden cold weather contracting an exposed pipe.

Miss James Takes Over Society News

Miss Willena James of Gordon is the Ranger Times new society editor. She began work today.

was announced by a spokesman for the U. S. 1st Corps.

Two Chinese companies launched the attack, and the assault force was followed by a large column of troops that could exploit this first important battle in the west since the UN retreat from Pyongyang.

The 1st Corps spokesman said he did not have sufficient information to tell whether this was the start of a new Chinese drive. But it was noted that the Chinese attacked South Korean troops on this occasion just as they did in knocking the first big hole in the Allied line north of Pyongyang.

War Lot Worse Than Reported Marine Claims

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7 (UP)—A Marine fighter squadron officer made a "flight from hell to Heaven" and was disappointed at what he found.

Capt. James O. Holton, Jr., 29, arrived home yesterday on a 30-day emergency leave just four days after flying against the Chinese Communists in the Changjin reservoir area of North Korea.

"It was like a flight from Hell to Heaven," he said, "but I expected to find general mobilization, draft boards working overtime and a general appearance of preparation for war."

Holton said he was "disgusted" because "not a thing" is going on at home. Meanwhile, he said "those divisions over there are being cut to pieces right and left."

"Things are a whole lot worse than you are reading in your papers," Holton said. He asserted that the press wasn't being allowed to "tell the people back home exactly how things are."

"The boys feel the administration is letting them down," he said. "They're just sitting there, with potatoes coming from all around, and not able to do much about it."

He said that when he left the fighting zone Saturday Army troops were being evacuated by air to Wonsan but that the Marines had "no intention of pulling out."

"They intend to fight to the last," he said.

Ship Reports Being Fired On By Nationalists

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7 (UP)—Globe Wireless reported today the SS Wingsang sent out an urgent call that it had been fired on by a Chinese Nationalist gunboat off Ockseu Island.

"We have been ordered by the Nationalist gunboat to follow him to Ockseu Island," the message said.

The message was intercepted by the SS Dartmouth Victory and relayed to Globe Wireless here. It gave no further information, nor the nationality of the boat fired on.

Earlier, cable companies intercepted an SOS from the freighter Joseph S saying it is sinking off the South China coast with "no means of coping with the situation."

The owner of the ship is Joseph Servers of Manila. A spokesman for his firm said 20 persons were aboard.

A FULL LOAD BOTH WAYS—First Marine and Seventh Infantry Division battle casualties, evacuated by air from Hagaru, unload from C-47 at Yon'po airbase in Korea. Note the Marine replacements standing by at lower right to board the plane and move up to the fighting front. All transports take a full load both ways. These Marine replacements, according to the latest reports, will help the encircled American troops fighting their way out of a Communist trap near the Chosin reservoir. (NEA Telephoto by Richard C. Rotary Speaker Discusses Civil Defense Program For Ranger

If enemy bombers dropped a dozen plane-loads of 500-pound bombs on Ranger and vital oil and gas centers in this vicinity would panic result or would a systematic, organized civil defense program go into immediate and constructive operation?

Possibility of enemy attack on Ranger or any other Texas city was brought sharply to home when William Green, Abilene, engineer in the property classification department of West Texas Utility Co. spoke before the Rotary Club Wednesday afternoon. His topic was "The Radio Amateur's Role in the Civil Defense Program."

Green did not limit his talk to radio alone but gave an over-all picture of the civil defense program.

James A. Smith of Ranger who was in charge of this week's Rotary program, presented Green. Smith, a long-time amateur radio operator, with station W8CE in Ranger, contacted Green through his radio and asked him to speak at the meeting.

Amateur radio operators from all over the nation have joined in the expanding civil defense program. They have offered their important means of communication to be used in whatever way is needed for civil defense.

Green is manager of the West Texas section or radio communication civil defense. Smith has been named emergency coordinator for Ranger.

Ranger should not think of itself as being safe from attack in event of another war. Green brought out towns such as Ranger, with their vital oil fields and transportation lines, are priority targets for any enemy bomber. Civil defense units are available when both natural and man-made catastrophes occur but with the imminent threat of another war, military disaster becomes an important problem of civil defense.

If World War III were to break out, the United States would be subject to bombings resulting in deaths, injuries, mutilations and swarms of homeless people. And each city must be able to handle its own disaster.

Three billion dollars is being proposed for the civil defense program, with $2,250,000,000 of that amount to be earmarked for building bomb shelters. The National Security Relations Board has set up definite plans for civil defense. Copies of these plans have been sent to governors of each state who in turn send them to mayors of the cities in their state.

The civil defense is not a compulsory program, Green said. It is merely one defense plan that any city is free to study and use if it wishes to do so. The average American city is far behind in adopting any defense plan. Some are belatedly organizing such a program. Houston is studying the construction of underground parking areas which can be used as shelters in event of disaster.

When disaster strikes, a city must know where, when and how to utilize all its facilities to handle the situation. And this can be efficiently done only through a previously organized program, Green said.

The weak and vulnerable spots of a city must be recognized. A shelter committee will know beforehand what buildings and locations are best suited for emergency use. The information committee will be prepared to record the injured and dead and notify next of kin. The transportation committee will have at its fingertips the number and type of available cars and trucks. And the communication committee, the nerve center of the defense plan, will organize all possible means of sending and receiving messages.

Civil defense is the one way a city can control itself during disasters, Green concluded. It is an intelligent, organized plan for the protection of a city and its citizens.

New Hardware Store Opens On Main St.

Crawley and Tibbels Hardware Store, 114 Main Street, is the latest addition to Ranger's family of merchants. The new store opened Friday, Dec. 1.

Owners of the business enterprise are John W. Tibbels and A. E. Crawley. Their store will handle a general line of hardware, Goodyear tires and tubes, home and auto supplies, electrical appliances, sporting goods and many other items.

Tibbels has had long years of experience in the hardware business. He was associated with Killigworth Hardware store for 17 years in Ranger. From January, 1945, until June 1948, Tibbels operated the Western Auto Store here.

The new store is at the location of the former Williams hardware store. Tibbels said that they are still receiving stock for their store and already have a good stock of toys for the Christmas season.

"ROCKET AHEAD" With Christmas Shopping. Osborne Motor Company, Eastland

9 Years Later DEC. 7, 1941--DEC. 7, 1950--PEACE OR ANOTHER WAR? IT'S LIKE WATCHING A MOVIE THAT YOU HAVE SEEN BEFORE

By United Press
For many Americans, it is like watching a movie they have seen before.

The patterns of U. S. life and war in early December, 1950, and in December, 1941, are similar in many ways.

As nine years ago the Christmas-buying splurge is under way. Then prices were just beginning to rise. Today the cost of living is at an all-time peak.

Nine years ago President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill had shipboard conferences on how to save the democracies. Japanese envoys were here to talk peace.

Today, President Truman and Prime Minister Clement Attlee are meeting and Chinese Communist diplomats are here proclaiming their government's peaceful desires.

As the Japanese representatives for Good Used Cars (Trade-in on the New Olds) Osborne Motor Company, Eastland talked peace in 1941, Japanese airplanes blasted Pearl Harbor.

Hours after the Chinese representatives arrived, Chinese soldiers launched a major attack on United Nations forces in Korea.

Nine years ago the Germans and their Axis partners, comprising the world's greatest armed forces, held a string of unbroken military victories. Today, the Russians and their satellites control the most powerful fighting machine in history and the Chinese Reds are driving the U. S. forces back in Korea.

As in 1941, the odds seem to be against peace.

As nine years ago, uniforms are becoming more commonplace. In 1941 the military was trying to fill out an army of 1,600,000 authorized strength. Now the plans are for 3,000,000.

As before mothers sent jinselled packages to their boys in uniform and hoped that money belts and shaving kits would be just what they wanted. Fathers bought red wagons and pink dolls for the children and hoped that they'd around to see the kids wear them out.

In December, 1941, the wheels of civilian defense were starting to turn.

The nation had begun gearing for arms production and many power experts wondered if there'd be enough workers.

There had been roundups of spies and foreign agents, an extension of the draft law and an $8,000,000,000 appropriations bill for defense and lend-lease.

People said there wouldn't be enough money to pay for it all.

Today Congress has under consideration a bill appropriating $3,100,000,000 for civil defense alone, in addition to a $17,800,000,000 defense appropriation.

In December, 1941, the United States had denounced Japan as an aggressor and cut off their oil shipments.

Today the United States has denounced Communist China as an aggressor and cut off shipments of war-essential material.

The unanswered question is—peace or another world war?

Near Blind Vet Sets Up Civil Defense Program

By Elizabeth Toomey
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (UP)—Bob Lackey, a nearly-blind war veteran who figures he "beat the whole country to the punch" in setting up a civil defense program for his area, took advantage of today's Pearl Harbor anniversary to alert even more of his neighbors.

"I distributed more than 3,000 throw-away cards telling the people to sign up tonight for their perparedness insurance," Lackey said. "Their premium is just one hour a week of their time devoted to preparing for an atomic attack."

He was picked as director of civil defense for the village of Levittown, a sprawling, postwar housing development on Long Island with a population of 55,000, even though he is totally blind in one eye and can barely perceive light and shadow through the other.

"I'm not trying to sell anybody a bill of goods," the 39-year-old veteran said, "but if we get caught like we did last time, nine years ago, we won't be so lucky." He already has civil defense offices set up in three public schools and two village greens. A special short wave civil defense radio station, the first in the country, also is ready.

"The Federal Communications Commission has promised us a license, but it hasn't come yet," Lackey said. "It was a shock to them that anyone set up so quickly."

He managed it by contacting amateur radio operators and getting them to donate time and equipment for the station.

"We tested it when we had the terrible storm a little over a week ago," Lackey said proudly. "Within 25 minutes after I gave the alert the crew was operating the station, ready to take distress calls and arrange for evacuations from flooded areas."

Shining Stones Sparkle Yule Party Fashions

By Elizabeth Toomey
NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (UP)—All that glitters this holiday season isn't the Christmas tree.

A record number of shining stones, from colored sequins to blue-white rhinestones, have been imbedded in holiday party fashions.

Starting from the floor, the glitter appears on kid, velvet and suede dancing shoes. One pair, named "Diamond Lil," consists of silver kid straps fashioned in a diamond pattern across the instep, with alternate diamond-shaped areas filled with rhinestones. The slim high heel is rhinestone-studded too.

A black velvet ankle strap sandal for holiday wear has silver sequins covering the heel.

Next come the stockings, with jewels gleaming on the ankle or the instep. One possibility, for the girl with an ankle worth showing off, is a pair of stockings with a gold, rhinestone and pearl decoration on the outside of the left ankle. Designed by Willy of Hollywood the two-inch inch is made up of a small spray of gold beads topped by leaves of pearls and rhinestones.

The newest glittering gloves shown at one Fifth Avenue store are of shimmering gold cloth. They are jersey-backed, with a gilt finish on the outside, and can be worn in a short length for cocktails or above-the-elbow length for formal wear.

After dark hats, always the catchall of frivolity, should brighten many a gathering during the holidays. You might say they have everything but the Christmas tree, except that designer Mr. John even put a crystal Christmas tree on top of a white crocheted helmet hat and christened the whole thing "White Christmas." The tree, he said, is removable.

Lone Star Buys Stephens County Property, Plants

E. F. Schmidt of Dallas, vice-president of the Lone Star Producing Company, has announced the purchase of producing properties, a pressure maintenance plant and a gasoline extraction plant located in Stephens county Texas. The consideration involved in the purchase is in excess of two million dollars, Mr. Schmidt said, and the company began operating the properties on Wednesday, December 6.

The production properties, including oil and gas wells and the pressure maintenance plant formerly owned by Fred M. Manning, Inc., were purchased from the Malco interests. The gasoline extraction plant was purchased from the Cisco Hydrocarbon Corporation.

This plant operates on natural gas and casinghead gas produced from the Manning properties and other leases in Stephens County. The Lone Star Gas Company has a gas purchase contract for the residue gas.

The oil and gas wells involved in the purchase will be operated as a part of the Lone Star Producing Company's West Central district, of which Francis Urban of Eastland is district production foreman.

Operation of the gasoline plant and pressure maintenance plant will be under the direction of J. A. Bates of Ranger, West Texas district superintendent, directly in charge of plant operation. Mr. Francis formerly was superintendent of Lone Star's Brooks gasoline plant at Breckenridge.

Yule Trees Can Increase Fire Hazard

That Christmas tree you are planning to set up in your home could be a major fire hazard unless you take a few precautions, the National Board of Fire Underwriters warns.

Tests made by Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc., demonstrated that Christmas trees of average size are easily ignited and burn furiously. The blaze could easily start a dangerous fire in the home.

Engineers of the National Board offer the following suggestions for making your Christmas tree safe:

- 1 Choose a small tree. It will be less hazardous.
- 2 Wait until a few days before Christmas to set up your tree.
- 3 Keep the tree outdoors until ready to set it up.
- 4 Place the tree in the coolest part of the house.
- 5 If a radiator is near the tree, shut it off.
- 6 Do not use cotton or paper decorations unless they are flame-proofed.
- 7 Do not place electric trains around the tree.

GI PRISONERS GET HEAVY TREATMENT OF ONE-SIDED COMMUNIST PROPAGANDA

TOKYO, Dec. 7 (UP)—When the Chinese Communist threw a massive attack against the 1st Cavalry Division in the first dark hours of Nov. 2, three men in three different outfits were destined to be captured, brought together as prisoners, released together Nov. 24 and eventually wind up in the same hospital room in Tokyo.

One of them was Sgt. Oliver B. Frawley, 24, of Pittsburgh, leader of a mortar squad in Mike Company. He told his story while the other two, wearing leg casts similar to Frawley's, watched him from their beds and listened.

"There was a general attack on the battalion," Frawley said. "The Chinese came at us on all sides. They hit us with mortar fire, bazookas and small arms. My squad kept firing."

He pulled himself up to a sitting position on the bed, letting his legs swing over the side. He was not as badly injured as the other two. His cast covered only his left foot and ankle.

"They came on across the field," he continued. "We decided it was time to save equipment. I got part of my gun down. I hopped in a jeep and was trying to get it started when they got three of us at once. It must have been a rifle grenade. My whole foot was hanged up.

"We were fairly well disorganized until daylight. Then, three of our tanks, pulled up, we formed a perimeter around them. And we stayed right there and held out—constantly under fire—until the night of Nov. 4. Then we had to get out. We headed for the hills."

Frawley and five other men were captured in the hills Nov. 6, while they were lying flat on the ground in an effort to keep from being seen. Within an hour, the Communists added seven more prisoners to his group.

"I could walk at that time," Frawley said. "But it was a pretty feeble walk. They took us to a house and gave us blankets and fed us and then walked us 15 miles that night."

"They told me they were going to take us back and give us medical attention and we wouldn't have to work but just read what they read, and then when we got back home we could look around and see where our government was wrong."

"Two of us couldn't walk any further," Frawley said. "The Communists got litters for us and used South Korean prisoners as litter bearers. It took us three nights of traveling to get to a house where we were treated. The Communists kept adding to the group there. Those who could walk were taken north. The ones who couldn't stayed.

"When they finally said they were going to take us back to our own lines, we thought they were giving us a run-around."

Frawley's clothes were taken, but the Chinese gave him a suit of their own military clothing—heavily quilted pants and jacket. He still had them with him in Tokyo, hung up in a hospital closet.

Frawley and several others were placed on litters and finally carried to a make-shift hospital. That was where Frawley met the two roommates. The 30 men in the Communist hospital were put in trucks and taken, in a series of night drives, to a spot where advancing American picked them up.

"The Chinese went a long way to try to be friendly and at the same time get in some propaganda," Frawley said. "One Chinese soldier even gave us a concert once when we were in a schoolhouse. He sat down at a little foot-pump organ and played 'Auld Lang Syne' and 'You Are My Sunshine.'"

TCU Beats Texas Tech 70-53 For 4th Straight Win

By United-Press

Texas Christian's Horned Frogs grabbed the spotlight in the Southwest Conference basketball picture today as they went after their fourth straight victory without a defeat in non-conference play.

The surprising Frogs chalked up win No. 3 last night at Odessa, downing Texas Tech, 70 to 53, in the feature attraction of a basketball doubleheader dedicating Odessa's new high school fieldhouse.

In the only other contest last night the Oklahoma Sooners scored a 49 to 35 victory over the Texas Longhorns.

Tonight, TCU entertained Abilene Christian at Fort Worth. Southern Methodist invades wintry New York City for a contest with St. John's and Texas A&M plays Canisius at Buffalo, N.Y.

A half-capacity crowd of 2,000 sat in Odessa's new $750,000 field house last night as TCU used its fast break attack to full advantage against the Red Raiders. Earlier Amarillo defeated Odessa, 41 to 38, in a high school game.

Tech got off to an early lead, but bogged down as the Horned Frogs began to click. TCU overtook the Border Conference Red Raiders in the last two minutes of the first half, and led, 38 to 36, at the intermission.

From that point on, it was all TCU.

Froggie forward Harvey Frome paced individual scorers with 18 points, followed by forward Jim Johnson of Tech with 15.

At Norman, the Texas Longhorns were in the hole all the way as they sputtered futilely against a superb Oklahoma defense.

The Sooners grabbed an early lead, harassing the Longhorns relentlessly when they approached within shooting distance of the basket.

Oklahoma led Texas 25 to 16 at the half.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 7 (UP)—Two new schools—Texarkana and Sherman—today joined the newly organized District 5-AAAA, even though their enrollments fall slightly below the required number.

The schools were admitted to the district set up recently by the Texas Interscholastic League, because they will have enough students, at least 850, as required, after the fall enrollment.

Other members of the district are Highland Park, Waco, Wichita Falls, Tyler and Denison.

Prof. Advises People To Grow Old Gracefully

A Northwestern University psychiatrist today urged older people to "grow old gracefully" and cease criticism of younger, more ambitious persons.

In a Chicago radio address sponsored by the Illinois State Medical Society, Dr. Clarence A. Neymann, professor of psychiatry at Northwestern's Medical School, said older people should not censure the active desires of the young just because they are strikingly ambitious and may make nuisances of themselves.

"The sin of criticizing a person because of his age," he stated, "is usually promulgated by the oldest who feels wrongfully that because there are young people near him he will be pushed aside." Dr. Neymann said this is the cause of many of the conflicts between old and young.

"There should be no acrimonious competition between young and old. There should be a kindly understanding of both for their mutual problems of life."

Old people, the Northwestern professor pointed out, are sometimes more selfish because they realize that their days of activity are necessarily limited by time.

"Far from pushing older people aside it is much more usual to have younger people aside by the oldesters whether they are capable or not. There are very few of the older generation who will not attempt to dictate to the youngsters just because they are older, not necessarily because they are more astute or more capable."

The University psychiatrist said that older persons, especially if they fill positions of authority, should be willing to listen to the new ideas of younger men.

"A young person when confronted with problems, just because they are quite new to him, will frequently develop new significant and often extremely important and valuable thoughts. On this basis young and inexperienced scientists may develop entirely new theories which prove of utmost importance to the world."

However, Dr. Neymann cautioned, the young should know that a man is not necessarily useless when he is old.

"The versatility of older men and women in conquering difficult intellectual, mechanical, and psychological problems is appreciated by all," he declared.

AAA Gets Some Queer Requests From Members

By Harmon W. Nichols
WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 (UP)—The American Automobile Association apparently got itself into something it didn't bargain for.

Its main job is to change tires, tug cars out of mudholes and put a hypo into a dead battery—according to contract. But the poor old AAA finds itself going beyond the call of duty these days.

I've just gone through the files of the biggest "auto service." The things people ask for! Baby sitters. Getting people out of jail. Where is the nearest bar on Highway 40? Transients asking where they can rent a crib or where does Uncle Charlie live?

Mrs. Jefferson Benninger of the Jefferson-Clarion, Pa., club, reported this one the other day: Miss Mary Ann Ault, a member of the Wilkinsburg, Pa., club called Mrs. Benninger and said she had a "member in distress." The member had a daughter named Helen who was about to come of age at the Clarion State Teachers College. A birthday cake was ordered.

Mrs. Benninger, thinking she had an easy assignment, called the baker in Clarion. He had already set up shop. Mrs. Benninger recalled that a lady in her town, which was Jefferson, was a baker of fancy cakes. She told her her problem. She contracted to bake a two-tier cake with "happy birthday, Helen" on top.

Then Mrs. B. checked the bus schedule. The last bus for Clarion had left. What to do?

Mrs. B. and her husband got in their road machine and personally took the cake to the Clarion State Teachers' College. Part of the service.

Fact that Helen by that time had gone off on a hike with friends is beside the point. The AAA delivered.

Dick Tupper, public relations for the AAA, says that the most frequent telephone calls are those which start out:

"Where am I?"

Not long ago in Flint, Mich., a woman called her nearest office, and said that she was up in a snow drift and had to get to a funeral. "Are the roads open to Detroit?" she asked. "The funeral can't go on until I get there—and I'm not the corpse, either."

The AAA re-routed the lady on a detour. Tupper said that the trouble with a lot of motorists is they don't know where they are going. "Nobody," he said, "ever wants to go to Davenport or Des Moines. Just Iowa. Nobody wants to go to Los Angeles or San Francisco. Just California."

Tree Has To Give Way

BOSTON (UP)—A tree had to be removed to permit the placing of the ashes of Miss Helen Prince Cushing of Manchester in the Watson family tomb situated in the 194-year-old Central Burying Ground on Boston Common. The tree blocked the tomb's door, which was last opened in 1919.

Freedom Of Economy Asked

American progress toward better living requires the incentives of economic freedom, Porter M. Jarvis, executive vice president of the Swift & Company, told the National Wool Growers association in convention at Casper today.

"Wars, mobilization periods and temporary economic disruptions may halt, for a short time, our progress towards the destination of better living," Jarvis said, "but we should not further reduce the speed America is making towards our goal by accepting a philosophy that curbs incentives to grow and progress."

He referred to "a willingness to let some one else discharge our responsibilities as citizens in our home communities—actually let others plan a big part of our lives." This, he said, "can sap the enthusiastic forward driving which has characterized our growth the past 175 years."

Jarvis said protection of the American free market system is vital for American victory in the world production race.

"We must protect our free markets and be alert to oppose any moves that would discourage production and stifle consumption. We must be alert to oppose the imposition of control plans that have proved unworkable."

Babies come into the world without ideas of right or wrong. According to Childcraft books, they acquire their social behavior patterns from their home and school environments.
