LONDON, Dec. 22 (UP)-The British Medical Association Journal told Britons today to preerve one of the customs of "Meron Christmas.

In an editorial entitled "A Foast to Bacchus," the journal f wine and ale.

In defense of the benefits of drinking, the journal said beer and wine contain vitamins. It said four pints of beer daily would satisfy the human requirenents of riboflavin.

"Missionaries have sometime quite properly tried to suppress the evils of drink among their native converts only to find them falling mysteriously ill," the journal said. "The ban on native beer removes the native's only ource of vitamin-B complex.' The journal said it feared th labor government's national health service would halt the practice of some hospitals providing patients with free beer as part of their treatment, At least one hospital will, in the future, give its patients free magazines instead of beer, the journal said.

"The modern planned state is ie England" and take a little nip the direct inheritor of the Puritan tradition," the journal said. "Yet a little of Merrie England still lingers on in the season from aid medical opinion has never Christmas to New Year, and its een against moderate drinking symbol is the glass that cheers," actions. Sarah had died at the age of 127, and Abraham bargained for and finally bought a field containing a cave for her last resting place. While there is no direct mention of an abstract, the evidence is clear that Abraham got a good title in the purchase. Time changes many things, for better or worse, but the caution used by Abraham still prevails. The title was important then, it's more so now.
