Boost For Old Age Pension Draws Tussle In Legislature

AUSTIN, Tex., March 1 (UP)—Backers of a program to boost old age pensions in Texas won their first floor tussle of the 52nd session today by a six-vote margin.

Hearing on a proposed constitutional amendment to lift the present $35,000,000 ceiling on welfare grants was held yesterday by the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments. However, the committee took no action.

Rep. Doyle Willis of Ft. Worth, author of the amendment, caustically accused the committee of delaying tactics and demanded that his measure be sent to the House Committee on Agriculture, a group headed by Rep. Lamar Zivley of Temple.

Zivley has proposed an old age pension amendment almost identical with that authored by Willis, and a favorable hearing by his committee appeared assured.

Rep. Franklin Perry of Angleton, Chairman of the Constitutional Amendments Committee, challenged Willis.

"The Agriculture Committee," he told the House, "has been doing a good job, but it has no more business with a constitutional amendment than the constitutional amendments committee has with an agricultural bill."

Willis snapped back that, "here's a good time to see whether we're going to live up to our obligations and help the old people."

Rep. Anthony Fenoglio of Nacogdoches said the committee action was "another attempt to push the old folks around."

On the final vote, moving the pension measure to the agriculture committee, Willis won by a vote of 72 to 56.

Committee Set For Ranger's Red Cross Drive

Mayhall Manages Local Grocery

Nine years in the grocery business and twice manager of grocery stores is the measure of success reached by youthful Lonnie L. Mayhall, manager of the Quality Food Market in Ranger.

Twenty-five year old Mayhall is a native of Ranger, has lived here all his life and is a graduate of Ranger High School. Before becoming associated with the Quality Food Market, he worked seven years for the A&P Store here and was manager two years. He also was manager of the local Piggly-Wiggly grocery. For the past two years, Mayhall has been Ranger salesman for a bread company.

Mayhall, an active member in local church and civic work, said that "it is his policy to 'serve the highest quality merchandise at the lowest cost with the maximum of courteous service. I want to welcome my old and new friends and customers to the Quality Food Market and am looking forward to serving you."

The store is currently being remodeled inside and is having its front painted, Mayhall said on Saturday at 9 and 11 p.m. and at 2, 4, and 6 p.m. free grocery baskets will be given away at the Quality Food Market, Mayhall said.

The National Red Cross drive begins today and will continue through March 15. Eastland County's quota is $40,000 and Ranger has been assigned to raise $15,000 of this total.

Miss Marjorie Maddocks, general chairman for the Red Cross drive in Ranger, announced the names of local persons who will serve as committeemen for the drive:

Helen Dawley, treasurer for Ranger; H. C. Henderson, special gifts; Joe N. Graham, speaking campaigns; Mrs. George E. Harper, schools; Dr. G. C. Boswell, clubs; Robert Cartledge, business section; Mrs. James Higdon, East-Central section.

Mighty UN Army Spears 31 Miles From Parallel

TOKYO, March 1 (UP)—Spearheads of a mighty 100,000-man UN army smashed ahead up to 3 1/2 miles on a 50-mile front today in a renewal of the Allied "Killer Offensive" in the central Korea.

They seized an east-central mountain village only 31 miles south of the 38th Parallel, denied the center of the Communist "No-Retreat" defense line, and seized hills dominating the strategic no-man's-land towns of Yangju and Hoengsong.

Altogether eight U.S. and South Korean divisions and a British Commonwealth brigade hit the Chinese and North Korean Reds along a front stretching from Yongju, 37 miles east of Seoul, to the eastern mountains.

U.S. Marines in the center of the front ran into the stiffest enemy resistance. They hacked their way across a bloody mile and a half of strategic mountain ridges west of Hoengsong with bayonets, grenades and rifles.

The Chinese counter-attacked the Leathernecks on one hill a mile west of Hoengsong. The Marines beat them off in hand-to-hand fighting. When it was over, 88 enemy bodies were counted.

The sole objective of the renewed offensive was to kill as many as possible of the estimated 15 Chinese divisions and possibly three battered North Korean corps guarding the central approaches to the 38th Parallel.

Allied artillery and swarms of planes added to the carnage with bombs, bullets, rockets and napalm "hellfire"—flaming jellied gasoline.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, the week of March 4, to March 10, 1951 has been designated by Honorable Allan Shivers, Governor of the State of Texas, as "Public School Week" in Texas, and has called upon the officials of cities and towns in the State of Texas to urge observance by the citizens within their respective jurisdictions, and WHEREAS, the City of Ranger has far more than cities of comparable size to be thankful for in matters of public schools, due to the remarkable growth in size and prestige of our Elementary schools, our High School, and our Ranger Junior College, and WHEREAS, it is my belief that the opportunities afforded our children for a sound basic education are not excelled anywhere. If I am justified in this belief is only because our citizens have shown a personal interest in education, and because public-spirited men and women of the highest character and ability have been willing to devote their lives to the teaching of our youth, in some instances at a considerable loss to themselves from a financial standpoint, and WHEREAS, the little red school house which was a symbol of public education in our City in the not too far distant past, has become the modern system of elementary, High School, and Ranger Junior College, of which we are justly proud today, and to make manifest that pride and loyal support of our Ranger school system should be the personal obligation of each of us, now, THEREFORE, I, Price Crawley, as Mayor of the City of Ranger, do hereby designate, the week of March 4 to March 10, 1951, as Ranger Public School Week, and respectfully urge every Ranger citizen to visit one of our schools, or the Junior College, during this week, so that they may become more personally acquainted with the programs and accomplishments of our Ranger Schools.

GIVEN under my hand and the seal of the City of Ranger, Texas, this the 28th day of March A. D., 1951.

The state had sought the death penalty for Dendy, who resigned his prosecutor's post after the shooting on a farm north of here last Jan. 16.

The slaying followed an argument over some damaged feed. Defense witness testified Dendy shot Canada after the tenant farmer grabbed him. Canada's widow testified her husband was shot as he approached a house where Dendy had stopped briefly.

Free Booklet At Post Office Gives Facts On New Social Security Law

Glenn McNatt, representative of the Abilene office of the Social Security administration, was in Ranger Wednesday assisting people of this vicinity in filing claims for retirement payments and death payments. He also was here to contact various individuals and groups regarding provisions of the new social security law.

Among the important changes in this law, said McNatt, are those bringing into the social security system domestic workers in private homes, farm-hands, ranch-hands, and owners of businesses. Employees of non-profit organizations like churches also can obtain credits where the organization and two-thirds of the employees decide on a voluntary basis to participate in the plan.

Every post office has a free booklet giving details as to the length of time a domestic worker must be employed in a household in order to receive credit on her social security account. Household employees should get one of these booklets now. Each county agent and PMA office has material for distribution explaining which farm-hands and ranch-hands are covered by the plan. Farmers and ranchers can also obtain this information from the Social Security Administration or the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

McNatt emphasized that everybody who is at least 65 years old

PRES. PRAISES AGREEMENT OF TRAINMEN, RAILROADS

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—President Truman today reiterated his full confidence in defense mobilizer Charles E. Wilson, and he told a news conference that he did not regard as very serious organized labor's sharp break with the administration of the defense mobilization program.

At his weekly meeting with reporters, the President for the most part was cautious about making any specific statement on the action of the united labor policy committee in directing the withdrawal of all labor representation from federal defense agencies.

In response to a question, he said he did not regard labor's action as a very serious development in the mobilization program.

Asked whether he felt confident that labor by and large would continue to meet defense production needs, the President said that the present emergency program is one that will help keep the nation prosperous and that this prosperity affects all groups, including labor, business, agriculture and the white collar workers.

Asked whether he expected labor representatives to return to the mobilization agencies, he said he would tell the reporters about that in a couple of weeks.

He was asked whether this indicated that he would sit on the problem that long before acting. The President had a dual answer—he said first it might be one week or three months, but that he never sat on any problem and that actually he was not posing any specific time limit.

The chief executive said the labor crisis in no way would affect his plans to leave tomorrow for West, Fla.

At the outset of his conference, the President praised the 15 non-operating railroad unions, a 4 railroad management for reaching an agreement this morning through collective bargaining without the threat of strikes.

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin conferred with the President this morning and then accompanied him to the news conference, but the President would not discuss their talk.

The President brushed aside an inquiry about any possible change in the status of defense mobilizer Wilson, telling a reporter that he was not aware of any labor objection to Wilson's tenure in office.

Later, asked whether Wilson still had his full confidence, the President said yes. He would not say what he planned to do about the three labor vacancies on the wage stabilization board.

The angry break, stewing for days, came last night. The united labor policy committee, representing 15,000,000 AFL and CIO members, ordered 14 representatives to leave advisory posts in the government's defense and manpower program.

They left with a bitter blast at Mr. Truman's top officials, defense mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and economic stabilizer Eric A. Johnston.

The committee issued a long statement which made it apparent that only President Truman could restore harmony, but whether that meant ouster of Wilson or forcing a change in his policies was uncertain.

'NEXT YEAR I'LL SEND OUR SALARY, BILLS, CHILDREN AND YOU SEND US THE TAXES,' BROKE CITIZEN OFFERS INCOME TAX DEPT.

WASHINGTON, March 1 (UP)—The income tax people got a letter the other day in which a taxpayer complained that he had just 30 cents left after paying off 14, added a post-script:

"Next year I'll send you our salary and bills and children and you send us the taxes. We'd be ahead."

That's just a sample of the notes that come into Internal Revenue headquarters here. Some of the letters are a feeble attempt at humor, other are poised in apparent sincerity.

A fellow cut west mailed in a return and glued a frizzy sample of his own hair to his form. The notation said: "You have scalped me."

A tax payer in Dallas reported earnings of $3,500 in his return. He listed his wife and seven children as dependents, noting that the exemptions at $500 per head add up to $4,500. Please refund

$1,000. It took four back-and-fourth letters to show him the light.

A man who files in Chicago wrote at great length to explain why he couldn't pay up, said he:

"In reply to your demand for a check, I wish to inform you that the present condition of my bank account makes it almost impossible. My lamentable financial condition is due to federal laws, state laws, mothers-in-law, brothers-in-law, sisters-in-law and out laws."

In Rhode Island, a collector questioned a citizen about the amount which Uncle Sam had withheld.

"Let's get this straight," said the tax payer. "I don't withhold nothing. My wife gets it all."

Also in Rhode Island: A tax payer was being helped to prepare his return and wanted to claim an exemption for his wife. When asked what his wife's first name was, he replied:

"Gosh, I dunno. I'll have to run out to the car and ask her."

home proprietor called in person to report that he had a man on his hands who refused to die.

"Eight years ago," the man said, "I took this fellow in. The doctor said he couldn't live six months. I took him for $1,000 for the rest of his life. He's costing me money every day—the healthiest person on the premises. I ought to get something back."

A fellow in California dropped the collector a memo thanking him for a refund check of $42.61.

"It made me both happy and sad," he wrote. "I was happy to get the check, but was unhappy because it was made out to me and Martha. Martha is no with me any more. She left in a fit of pique. I can't cash the darned thing."

Another person in California wrote:

Looking over my income tax report I find that I am owing you $180. I'm sending you this amount, but I'm not giving you my name. I owe you and I'm paying you."

Then the woman wrote her name and address in a bold hand.

THE WEATHER

March may have blown in like a lion over a large part of the nation, but it made a meek and mild entrance into Texas today. There was no sign of the fierce storm that was whipping wind and heavy snow eastward across the United States.

Thursday in Texas was warm and mild, following a mild Wednesday. There were only two freezing points in the state overnight. Dalhart recorded 29 degrees and Lubbock, 31. Temperatures Wednesday were generally in the 70's throughout the state but Alice had a high of 92 degrees.

The U. S. Weather Bureau said afternoon temperatures today will be in the 60's. The forecast for East Texas called for a partly cloudy to cloudy day with occasional light drizzle. The weatherman said it would be generally fair Thursday afternoon and night and Friday in West Texas.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Politicos' Interference in War Gives Generals Big Headache

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—British Prime Minister Ernest Bevin's insistence on United Nations approval for re-crossing the 38th parallel in Korea caught Washington by surprise. It was a little bit like Sen. Robert A. Taft's insistence that the United States should get out of Korea and his opposition to sending more troops to Europe. Both actions, by politicians, have caused military strategists no end of trouble in their staff planning.

United Nations representatives in Washington have been kept fully briefed by State Department and Pentagon on Korean developments. Every nation that has sent troops to Korea has been informed how its contingent was being used, and how it fitted in with broader strategy. State Department has met with ambassadors from the Allied countries twice a week. Pentagon has briefed military attaches at the embassies and the combined chiefs of staff representatives in Washington almost daily. Both have agreed on policies and approved moves made by General MacArthur in the field.

Washington thought everything was rolling as smoothly as could be expected. Prime Minister Bevin's talk upset the applecart. It has dumped in General MacArthur's lap a political question he was trying to avoid in the new campaign to destroy the Communist armies first, without reference to defending any cities or holding any lines.

In announcing Assistant Secretary of State Edward G. Miller's latest trip around South America, Secretary of State Dean Acheson mentioned that Secretary Miller, as head of Latin-American affairs, would be in Buenos Aires during the Pan-American games. They're modeled after the Olympic games, and will be held every four years in a different Western Hemisphere country.

"But," said Secretary Acheson at the end of his formal announcement, "Secretary Miller is not entering the games himself."

Department of Defense procurement officers are giving Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle plenty of headaches by constant demands for exemptions from price ceiling regulations. The armed services justify their requests by statements they can't get manufacturers to take contracts under ceiling prices. Flexible, unfrozen prices on raw materials like wool and hides are what make fixed-price contracts hard to negotiate. So Defense officials shoot over to the Office of Price Stabilization requests for exemptions that will permit contracts for uniforms and shoes at above ceiling prices. Reluctantly, OPS has to agree to the exemptions so that the armed services can get what they say they need when they need it. And with every exemption, there goes into the economy some more government built-in inflation.

Defense Secretary George C. Marshall revealed for the first time the inside story on sending the first B-29 group to England, in his testimony before Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees. It was in the spring of 1948. General Marshall was then Secretary of State. The Pentagon was urging that U. S. heavy bombers be based in England, to bolster European defenses. Secretary Marshall was then trying to reach agreement with the Russians on Germany, Austria, Greece and other European problems.

"As Secretary of State," General Marshall told the Senate committees in their consideration of today's further arms aid to Europe, "I put a delay on the movement of B-29's to England. I did so, trying to reach agreement with the Soviet Union. I finally saw this was hopeless, so I agreed to the first movement of B-29's."

THE SCOREBOARD

Why Should U. S. Athletes Promote Peron in Argentina?

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Replying to our piece decrying American participation, J. Lyman Bingham points out that the Pan-American Games are awarded a city, not a nation or an individual.

I wonder who Executive Director Bingham of the United States Olympic Association believes will take the bows in Buenos Aires, Feb. 24 through March 5.

The name of the coliseum in which the "Games" are to be held gives him the answer—the President Peron Park River Plate Stadium.

When Games are assigned to a land under the thumb of a dictator, they most certainly do not go to a nation or a city, but just as assuredly to an individual.

In this case, the "Games" are going to two individuals, for Argentina is run by a pair of small-time dictators, one male and one female—Juan and Little Eva Peron.

There was severe criticism of American athletes competing in the 1936 Olympic Games in Berlin.

Adolf Hitler had been throwing his weight around for three terrifying years, yet U. S. Olympic Association officials permitted Der Fuehrer to further promote himself and Nazism through a tremendous American team, without which his production would not have amounted to much.

Now they are enabling Peron to further promote Peron and Fascism the same way.

THROUGHOUT the 11th Modern Olympiad, Herr Hitler gave further and unmistakable evidence of how he was going.

Recall his leaving the royal box every time it was time to drape a wreath around one of what he called our black auxiliaries?

Now El Presidente Peron gets the opportunity to strut in one of his trick uniforms at a show largely put on by American athletes.

What a show window for a pompous, leaky roof despot imitating his heroes, Hitler and Mussolini, and his production would not have amounted to much.

The U. S. Olympic Association brass' argument in 1936 was the same as it is now. "These Games simply provide opportunity and inspiration for youth to get together in free, wholesome athletic competition."

What could be wholesome in a country where you have to do it the Perons' way or else?

Who and what is free in the Argentine? Certainly not the press. The Perons' most recent blow below the belt, delivered through a phony strike, shut down the old and world-respected newspaper, La Prensa. That was the Perons' way of getting rid of their foremost political rival.

SCENES AROUND RANGER

By John Chopelas

One of the safest bets to place in the next couple of days is that beard growing men in town are Ranger Junior College students. The collegians are sporting the chin-fuzzes for Ranch Day March 2. Word reaches me that the fiddler's contest will not be held. Not enough fiddlers around to strum up competition. So passes another era of the "good old days." But the parade, barbecue, liars contest and the other scheduled activities will be held. I hear the RIC boys really whoop it up on Ranch Day. That's understandable. Education is one thing that can get monotonous at times. Saw Bill Couser decked out in boots and Stetson—it looks like the college faculty is getting into the spirit of western spirit of Ranch Day.

Glen McNatt, representative of the Abilene office of the Social Security Administration, dropped in to give me the story on his office's assistance in filing claims for retirement payments and death. He was very anxious for the people here to look into any retirement or death claims they think they are entitled to. He said that in many cases, persons entitled to such claims don't realize it and, therefore, lose payments which are justly theirs. He came to Ranger twice a month and has temporary offices at the Retail Merchants Association.

I am naturally getting my share of complaints about the paper. Most of them have come over the phone. One lady greatly disagreed with one of my columns and said, "If I were a man—" Another didn't think I played up one of her stories enough. I disagreed with both of them, and, needless to say, we didn't convince each other in our arguments. But the talks were interesting. Just get a person to disagree with you and they will really let their hair down and come to the point. Freedom of the press works both ways—it also means the undisputed right of the reader to criticize and lambast their paper.

Now, what I'm looking for is a letter to the paper. Read the letters to the paper and you will read the most interesting portion of that paper. Some of the readers really get their dander up and many of their letters are eye-openers.

A chuckle: A mill that specialized in parachute silk was caught with a huge inventory on V-J Day. The plant manager promptly began converting his stock into ladies' sheer unmentionables. Just before the first shipment was sent out, an added feature was discovered for which, it was decided, no extra charge would be made. Across the seat of each garment was printed: "Count 10 before pulling rip cord."

We Like To Talk About Abstracts—

... because making abstracts has been our business for many years. And it is an interesting subject. Every day people come to us with their title problems. Some cases are tragic. Take the example of the couple who have spent their all for a home to find out later they have no title. Most title problems are simple and the abstracts helps to make them simple. So before buying real estate of any kind have the title examined.

Airplane Fire Put Out At 14,000 Feet

LUBBOCK, Tex., March 1 (UP)—An American Airlines pilot today praised two crewmembers who extinguished an engine fire aboard a California-bound DC-6 before the passengers had time to panic.
The four-engine plane, loaded with 53 persons, was flying at 14,000 feet 75 miles east of Lubbock last night when a cylinder blew off the right inboard engine.
Flames from burning oil streamed out of the nacelle.
Pilot Capt. Charles H. Young of Fort Worth said the fire was smothered by extinguisher foam in "about a minute." He landed safely at the Lubbock airport shortly afterward.
"Too much credit can't go to first officer Bob Beede of Fort Worth and engineer Joe Messer of Dallas," said Young, an American Airlines pilot since 1939. "They were really on the ball. They had that fire out in a jiffy."
The pilot used the public address system to tell the 48 passengers what had happened.
"They acted just fine," he said. "They could see the flames had gone out. There was no panic."

Birthplace Of Hitler In Austria Now In Possession Of Americans

By Wellington Long
United Press Staff Correspondent
BRAUNAU, Austria (UP)—If Adolf Hitler has a grave, he probably is turning over in it today. His birthplace here is occupied jointly now by American counter-intelligence agents and a school for tailors.

The white stone, three story building just outside the archway entrance to the city's main square was a national shrine as long as the Nazis were in power.

Now, there is a large SHAEF shield above the doorway and a sign reading: "430th Counter-Intelligence Corps, Land Upper Austria, Braunau field office."

Room for Americans
The big first floor which used to be a winehouse where Adolf's father often drank too much and which later became a Nazi Party reading room, now serves as an office for four counter-intelligence agents—the only Americans in town—and a few trustworthy Austrian assistants.

The old shickelgruber apartment, two flights up, now is a school for tailors. The room where Adolf was born has almost lost its identity because the apprentice tailors pulled out a partition to make a large classroom.

What is left of it is filled with huge flatirons and ironing boards and decorated with pictures captioned—in English—"Fashion For Gentlemen."

Forced to Sell
The Pommer family which owned the house, was forced to sell it to the Nazi Party for a paltry sum after the Anschluss. The family finally got it back last year but it cost them more in lawyers fees than the Nazis paid them originally.

A lot of British, French and Americans visited here after the war just to see where the man with the little mustache and big ideas came from.

Now the major tourist attraction is the chapel in Oberndorf, 20 miles south, where "silent night", "holy night" first was sung.

More Acreage Is Justified

COLLEGE STATION, March 1—Expanded acreage of hybrid corn in Texas is justified by the convincingly proved ability of adapted Texas corn hybrids to outyield the best varieties of open pollinated corn.

Corn yields can be increased from 20 to 30 percent, and in some cases as much as 50 percent, by planting adapted corn hybrids. This has been shown by tests conducted on Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations and by many farm demonstrations.

On 3,847 demonstrations conducted by 4-H club boys and adults in 1950, average corn yields were increased nearly 11 bushels per acre, says E. A. Miller, agronomist for the Texas A. & M. Extension Service. He says that most of this increase was due to the use of corn hybrids.

The newer hybrids, including Texas Yellow Hybrids No. 20, 24, 26, and 28, have demonstrated their ability to outyield the older hybrids, and tests show that they are widely adapted.

One Look At Road Signs Is Enough To Tell You 1st Cavalry Is Around

BY H. D. QUIGG
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, March 1. (UP)—"Make your own tracks," the sign at the side of the road said and the very language of the sign told you that you were in the territory of the 1st Cavalry Division. A little farther along the winding, muddy lane another sign—a sign which shouted in big black letters on a white background—stared us in the face and ordered peremptorily:

"Get out of that rut."
"Who, Me?" said the driver of our jeep. We half expected another sign to turn up 100 yards or so farther along saying, "Yes, you."

But there was no need for argument. We stayed out of the ruts, and made our own tracks.

The 1st Cavalry Division is acutely conscious of the need for keeping its roads, after they have been rained on, in condition to be traveled on. Hence the signs.

We returned shortly before nightfall. I entered the tent where I had been told I could sleep and encountered a sergeant with the name "George" painted above his left shirt pocket.

"Where can I sleep?" I asked. George pointed to the floor, which was covered with rice straw mats. The tent—an officers mess tent—had been pitched in the middle of a deeply furrowed field, probably a sorghum field. The deep furrows had been filled with straw to the mats would lie evenly over the ridges. I moved a mat aside and stretched my sleeping bag along a furrow.

George introduced himself. He was a "kory" of the name. His name was George Corpus ("Just think of Corpus Christi and you'll remember it," he said). And he was born in the Philippines and went to the United States when he was 14. He became a citizen and served in the army in the last war.

George said his wife had died in 1943 and his 10-year-old son was being cared for by an elderly couple in Whittier, Calif., without a single bar in the whole town.

"What can I write about tonight?" I asked. "The only thing we've seen of the way here is the grandeur of the mountains. The only thing that happened was that we got stuck while fording the river with the water flowing over the floor of the jeep and a truck pushed us out. The only conversation I've had was a talk with the MP's down the road about the burlesque hopes in New Jersey."

"Write about springtime in Korea," George suggested without hesitation. "And about the mud that is coming when the rainy season starts."

As we talked big guns boomed in the hills, the sound coming like claps of thunder in a sudden squall, and echoes carried off the barren slopes—a comforting and yet a lonely sound.

"That's not enough—just spring and mud—what else?" I said.

"Write about signs of new life, here where life is ending," George said. "The buds are waking on the trees." He rested his chin on a brown hand and started at a mustard bottle. "The awakening of buds," he said to himself.

"I wonder what people hear think of spring coming and the guns booming," I said.

"Well, they look at the sky and pray for peace," George said. "They could wonder and they could pray."
The Filipinos are very poetic people.

John Rowan, who owned "My Old Kentucky Home," was a famous jurist, congressman and senator from Kentucky. His home at Bardotown, Ky., made famous by Stephen Foster's song, is named "Federal Hill."

If all the ingots of copper, lead and zinc which the State of Nevada has produced were brought together, the pile would be the size of a 10 to 15 story office building.

RED CROSS CALLS HOME CHEER UP KOREA WOUNDED ARRIVING IN U. S.

"Mom, I'm in Texas—just flew in from Japan." Cpl. Bob Cronin's free phone call has been put through by the Red Cross hospital worker at his bedside, and the wounded Korea veteran enjoys a happy "reunion" with his mother in Hastings, Neb. Wounded down to Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, are met by the Red Cross, official welfare agency of the armed forces, which provides many services for the evacuees at their first Stateside stop. The Red Cross free phone call rates tons with these men.

State Basketball Tourny Gets Under Way Today

AUSTIN, TEX., March 1 (UP)—The 31st annual Texas Inter-scholastic League basketball tournament began a three-day-and-night marathon today with competition in Class B—one of three divisions in which state titles will be named.

Honor of playing in the opening game went to Cayuga and Woodboro, a pair of small town teams which have dropped only three games between them this season. Cayuga has been beaten only once, Woodboro twice.

Cayuga was one of the three favorites as today's eight-game program got under way. Class AA will not start action until tomorrow afternoon. Lubbock in Class AA and Bowie in Class A were the other favorites.

Following the opening game, Stanton was scheduled to meet Adrian at 10:10 a.m. Marfa to play Big Sandy (Livingston) at 11:30 a.m. and Elgin to meet Marfa at 1:45 p.m.

Class A teams take over after the Class B games with Gateville and Beaumont French playing at 2:30 p.m.

3:10 p.m., Coleman and Bowie at 4:35 p.m., Sinton and Defending champion Canyon at 7:15 p.m. and Van and Brenham at 8:40 p.m.

Canyon was the only returning champion, Corpus Christi of Class AA and Gruver of Class B having failed to get outside their own districts.

Cayuga brought the best record into the tournament with 43 wins against its single loss, while Austin High, setting a record with its 14th appearance in the classic, brought worse—13 wins, 7 losses.

Semifinals in Classes A and B will share Saturday morning schedule with the three-place games in the smaller divisions.

George Washington, visiting Barbours in 1751 on his only trip aboard, commented that the island's rum was of excellent quality but "extravagantly dear" at two shillings a gallon. In Washington's time, notes the National Geographic Society, two shillings was equivalent to 45 cents in United States coin.

First Woman To Work In Hangar Shop Thinks It Can Be Romantic

BY ELIZABETH TOOMEY
TETERBORO, N. J. Feb. 28 (UP)—The fly boys may be deflated, but Elsie Changelon confided that working around an automatic pilot can be a very romantic thing.

She's the first girl ever hired to work at the hangar shop of the Bendix Aviation Corp. Here, so she's gotten close to the maze of wires and cables that make up the very unromantic looking automatic pilots.

She climbed down out of the nose of an experimental B-25, wearing slacks and a striped jersey blouse, to talk about her job, and stood looking surprisingly dainty and helpless beside the plane.

The romance, she explained, comes into the picture because of the all-male world that surrounds aircraft mechanics and engineering.

"Nobody stays in the automatic pilot laboratory long," she said. "They all get husbands."

The 32-year-old dim brunette technician has been a widow for four years. She started her novel job to support her two children.

But I'm getting married in June," she confessed with a blush. "He's an engineer in the laboratory."

In case, any girls want to follow in her footsteps, Elsie pointed out that being able to repair the broken light cord at home had nothing to do with being a talented airplane technician.

"I can't fix a thing at home, and I'd never thought of working on airplanes. I never even liked them," she said. "But now I find it the most satisfying work I've ever done, and I've tried being a secretary, a waitress and a seamstress."

The first tough problem they handed her at the hangar was a radio, which had to be installed in a small plane. Since she was the first woman on the crew, the men were mildly dubious of her ability.

"They gave me a booklet and this radio, and I just sat and looked at it for a long time," she admitted. "Finally I figured out that one was a transmitter and certain wires went to that. I got it in with no mistakes, so then the fellows knew I could do the work."

The biggest plane she's worked on so far is an Army C-

7. "I'd never even seen one so big. It had 49 seats," Elsie said with frank admiration. "I even had a downrigger." She installed an automatic pilot in the plane.

All of this should be enough to awe a ten-year-old daughter and a five-year-old son. But Elsie just grinned when she was asked if her children were impressed.

"They want to come out and see me at the hangar, but just for one reason," she said. "Arthur Godfrey keeps his plane in the hangar across the street. They want to see that."

WCTU Sends Out Petitions For State Prohibition

AUSTIN, March 1—With thousands of petitions already in circulation and more thousands being mailed weekly, every section of the state is being covered in the Texas WCTU's campaign to induce the legislature to allow a state-wide vote on the prohibition question. Mrs. Claude DeVan Watts, state president of the WCTU and her organization are active in this effort which, according to Mrs. Watts, they believe will be successful.

"We are asking the governor and the legislature only to allow the people of Texas to vote on the liquor question," Mrs. Watts said. "We are not asking any member of the legislature to express his personal sentiments on the subject. Newspaper polls and our own surveys reveal that a majority of Texans do not want liquor sold in their state. We believe that they should be permitted to express themselves at the polls, and we believe that when we lay the names of hundreds of thousands of Texans before the lawmakers they will heed the voice of the people."

Liquor, Mrs. Watts declares, is losing ground in Texas and "now is the time for the prohibition-minded people of the state to drive the traffic out. It is not a case of depriving Texas of revenues, for the money the liquor traffic pays to the state is far overbalanced by the money the state must spend in crime fighting because of the liquor traffic. Actually the state will save a lot of money by banning legalized liquor. Law enforcement officers can verify this statement."

Every county will be represented by the petitions to be laid before the governor and the legislature, Mrs. Watts said.
