BOBBY JUSTICE STANDS OUT IN BULLDOG PRACTICE SESSION

By Darrell F. Holmes, Jr.
Editor of the Times

A couple of seasons back the never-to-be-forgotten Charlie "Choo-Choo" Justice was running wild on the nation's gridirons, booting punts into the end zone grandstands, passing like a champion, and displaying the sportsmanship which helped make him an All-American.

Jimmy Comacho

Bobby Justice

Today another Justice is making his bid for honor on the gridiron. He is Bobby Justice, the 14-year-old Ranger High School freshman letterman, who played hang up as a smooth defensive back last season and shows promise of bigger things to come. Justice who is built close to the ground and packs plenty of power, had the polish of an able blocker as well as a smooth defensive back in yesterday's practice session at the high school playing field. He may be one of the boys to watch—

Fifteen-year-old Jack Allen showed the courage of a lion as he drove through several seasoned veterans to complete some savage tackles during the practice.

Coach "Stubby" Warden admitted that his boys had a lot of fight and ran hard all the way, but as do all coaches who have the habit of putting out flashy teams, Warden stated that he was "still singing the blues after knowing what graduation will do."

Don't know what the coaching staff has up its sleeve; but something is apparently in the wind. Bob "Fats" Smith, the 200 pound freshman tackle was shifted to the fullback slot for several plays in the session. Smith isn't at all fast but he was pretty hard to bring down. From the looks of his legs he may be used to aid star Jimmy Comacho in some of the place kick details.

The team was put through the paces yesterday with everything from setting up exercises to hard-hitting scrimmages. Every man on the team looked to be giving the game his all. They play a rugged brand of football at Ranger.

Jimmy "Rip-Roaring" Comacho showed this writer that he was no flash-in-a-pan as he hit the holes with power, speed and flash. Comacho is just a smooth player in all respects and a good sport to top it all. He is a quiet, modest, youngster, who replied, "Well, I guess I have had pretty good luck along with a lot of good blockers in my football career," when questioned about his football prowess.

Don Varner showed up nicely in the afternoon's activities. He had the know-how and appears to have the ability. It wouldn't do for the public to keep an eye on him. And you might keep that other eye on Wayne Hargraves. He looked mighty good out there.

The Bulldogs are still awaiting the return of Chico Mendoza, hard driving, classy end, now on the "purple heart routine" with a bad cold. Mendoza played a lot of ball last year and is expected to be one of the stars on the 1951 team.

One of the brightest spots of the practice session was the play of Jimmy Cole, whose work ticketed him for the starting quarterback slot next fall. The signal callers' running will be a big factor in next season's victories.

It is very possible that after the first full-fledged inter-squad game, the coaching staff will be willing to forget the numeral holders who are leaving. The 12 returning lettermen, the seven squadmen, and the fast-learning newcomers who have seen action in practice thus far, have an inside chance of driving their team over the top.

The team and coaches are giving the game their all and it is hoped that now as always the fans will turn out to give them a feeling of backing. Remember if you can't take part in a good sport—BE ONE.

INFANTRYMAN TELLS EDITOR OF TIMES ABOUT A SOLDIER'S VIEW OF KOREA

By Darrell F. Holmes, Jr.
Editor of the Times

Back from the roar of the shell, the bite of the cold, and the pain of a wound, comes Cpl. Earnest Mahaffey, 19-year-old veteran of some of the most bitter fighting of the Korean battleground.

Earnest, a quiet, likable, and somewhat modest youngster, is spending a 30-day leave with his parents in Eastland. He walks with the grace of a pantler, his eyes look tired, old and maybe a little beaten. He carries his left arm in a sling.

Enlisting in the Army October 28, 1949, Earnest took his training with the infantry. It was with the Third Infantry Division that Earnest went into action last Nov. 17. It wasn't just cold over there and it wasn't just the fighting that made this young American wonder why American forces are on that distant battleground. But let the fighting man tell you in his own words.

"On November 17, we landed in Korea at a place you probably never heard of. It was called Wonsu. Aside from being scared, wondering whether this trip was really necessary and not believing that it was, we were feeling pretty fair as word reached us that we weren't by ourselves. The Devil Dog First Marine Division had gone in ahead of us and cleared the way. They paved the way for us in blood—Korean blood mostly, but a lot of American—as they cleared every hedgerow—yard by yard—and on their bellies. This was later to do also.

"Yeah, those guys cleared the way through hedgerows, snow, ice, fox holes, or what have you. We moved out and went to Hamhung. I had started feeling scared, lonesome, and a little mad, since boarding the boat in Japan, but now I could feel some of the tension leaving. We had met no enemies. There was apparently nothing in our paths. Then we engaged the enemy around the first of December while moving up to aid another outfit, don't ask me which

Each of the women is a leader in her home demonstration club and is an active worker for the Red Cross drive in her community. Ranger Fights For Halfway Mark In Red Cross Drive Of County; Cisco Overfills Quota

Cisco reported Monday that it has gone over its quota already in the 1951 fund raising campaign of the American Red Cross.

Mrs. Willard White, Cisco fund campaign chairman reported that $1672.63 had been given in the town of Cisco, and probably more will be forthcoming before the end of the campaign. Cisco's quota was set at $1500, the same as that for each of Ranger and Eastland.

As of Monday, Eastland reported $745.75 according to Cyrus B. Frost, Jr., Eastland chairman, with Ranger still trailing with $286.00 reported by Marjorie Maddocks, Ranger chairman.

In the rural communities, Pioneer was the first community to report a completion which totaled $41.15. Other complete rural returns this week were Sabanno with $9.45; Cheaney with $76.65 and Nimrod with $7.50.

Incomplete reports had come in from Lake Cisco of $3.00; Flatwood, $21.30; Crocker, $11.00; Word, $31.50; Okra, $51.00; Colony, $7.00; Howard (Desdemona) $68.50. No reports have yet been received from Rising Star, Gorman, Pleasant Hill, Carbon, Olden, North Star, Morion Valley, Scranton, or New Hope.

The county total as of Monday afternoon stood at $3053.93, a little more than half of the $6000 quota set for Eastland County. Mrs. John Love, county fund raising chairman, was still hopeful that the county would make its quota before the end of the campaign.

T. W. Wagner of Marlin, field representative of the American Red Cross in this area, was in Eastland Monday afternoon for a check on Red Cross activities.

In talking with Red Cross workers in the office, he stressed the great need of the Red Cross for money, at this time to carry on

Test Launched To Explode First H-Bomb

WASHINGTON, March 20 (UP)—The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed today that a new test program—which conceivably could include history's first attempt to explode an H-bomb—is under way at Eniwetok.

"No weapons, 'A' or 'H,'" have yet been set off in the new test series, an authoritative source said. But experimental blasts are imminent, he said.

In the meantime, it was learned, all preparations, including intricate instrumentation, are nearing completion at the secret proving ground in the Pacific.

Directing operations at the atoll is Air Lt. Gen. Elwood R. Quessada, Commander of Joint Task Force Three which is carrying out the tests.

All the Atomic Energy Commission announced was that "a major project is being carried out" at Eniwetok to test "atomic weapons effects on structures and materials of various kinds."

Olden Community Night Thursday

The regular Olden community night will be observed Thursday beginning at 7:30 in the gym.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Webb will present special music for the program which is free to the public. Refreshments will be available at a small charge.

Those attending from the Ranger chapter were Bob Gailey, chapter president and district reporter; Byron Gailey, Floyd Woods, Weldon Cunningham, Fred Harper, Floyd Jones, Tommy Harper, Cliff Harris, Roddy Carter, Jimmy Long, James Falk, Jimmy Arrendale, B. H. King, Alouza Stevens, Raymond Thompson, Junior Nail, and Glenda Beck, chapter sweetheart. B. S. Dudley, Jr., chapter advisor was also present.

No More Athletics

ODESSA, March 21 (UP)—Odessa Junior College will not compete in intercollegiate athletics next season, regents of the school said today.

The regents voted to drop athletics, effective Sept. 1, 1951. Current spring sports schedules will be fulfilled.

$200,000 FIRE ENGULFS SWEETWATER AIR PORT

SWEETWATER, March 21 (UP)—A spectacular fire, encouraged by the exploding of hand grenades and other ammunition, destroyed the main hangar and 26 airplanes at the Sweetwater Municipal Airport last night causing damages estimated in excess of $200,000.

The fire broke out at 9:30 p.m. apparently when a plane which had been parked inside the hangar a few minutes exploded.

The flames quickly spread over the entire frame structure and firemen from Sweetwater were unable to check them. Instead, they concentrated on protecting nearby barracks which have been converted into apartments.

In addition to the planes, two aged fire trucks, a gasoline truck and two automobiles were destroyed, along with $5,000 in cash at the Pioneer Airlines office.

A National Guard armory in one section of the large hangar was also destroyed. Capt. Hex Hawley, commander of the guard unit here estimated the loss at $100,000. He said the stock in the armory included 80 M-1 rifles, Browning automatics, mortars, binoculars, and the ammunition.

A spokesman for the airlines said it would be about two weeks before the line could restore service to Sweetwater.

Assistant Fire Chief Jack Shipley said by the time firemen drove the four miles to the airport the flames had engulfed the building.

"It just spread too rapidly for us to handle," he said.

The 26 planes destroyed were reported to be privately owned aircraft.

City manager Henry Nabers estimated early today that total loss in the blaze, third within recent years at the airport, would exceed $200,000.

LIGHT RESISTANCE FACES ADVANCING AMERICAN FORCES

By EARNEST HOBEBRECHT
United Press Staff Correspondent
TOKYO, March 21 (UP)—United Nations patrols probed the Korean No-Man's-Land just south of the 38th Parallel unopposed today and already may have crossed that controversial line.

A front dispatch said the Communists have abandoned Chunchon, only 7 1/2 miles South of the Parallel on the Central Front and the last major Communist base in South Korea.

The bulk of up to 250,000 Chinese and Koreans reeled aligned across the 140-mile-wide Korean Peninsula already have retreated across the 38th Parallel into North Korea.

Pursuing 8th Army Forces rammed in strength within 8 1/2 miles of the old Communist border on the East Coast and within 11 1-2 to 13 miles, at three points on the Central and West-Central Fronts.

A dispatch from the Central Front reported UN patrols were striking out far ahead of the general advance. It said:

"Armored patrols probed territory between UN main elements and the Parallel today unopposed by the enemy. Some other patrols by friendly units met light scattered resistance."

It was believed some of the tank-tipped spearheads already may have crossed the Parallel. President Truman has authorized Gen. Douglas MacArthur to send his forces across the old North-South Korean border if he sees fit to do so.

There was intense speculation in Tokyo that a turn in the war is imminent—either military, politically, or both. But official sources declined comment.

Eighth Army Headquarters disclosed the four-pronged advance within artillery range of the 38th Parallel in lifting its 14-hour censorship ban on the progress of Allied Forces toward the old frontier.

Communiques reported Communist rear-guard resistance still negligible.

South Korean units on the East Coast made the closest announced approach to the parallel. They drove eight miles north of Kangnung to within 8 1/2 miles of the old border and sent patrols probing farther north.

On the Central Front, one U.S. task force punched 2 1/2 miles northwest of Hamgye to within 11 1/2 miles of the Parallel. Another drove within five miles south of Chunchon, only 7 1/2 miles below the Parallel.

U.S. forces pushing up the Seoul-Chunchon Road on the West-Central Front were 13 miles south of the dividing line.

The Reds put up their stiffest rear-guard resistance in the mountainous center of the Korean Peninsula, where three task force were advancing relentlessly northward.

Chinese fought to the death from crags overlooking deep mountain defiles. One group delayed an American advance southwest of Hamgye all day yesterday. Some 100 to 150 of the Chinese counter attacked the Americans but were beaten off in a two-hour battle.

In the air war, American shooting star jets of the 5th Air Force destroyed or damaged eight locomotives and more than 400 boxcars today in a field day against Communist efforts to re-supply their retreating troops.

A mid-day summary released by Maj. Gen. Earl E. Partridge, Commander of the 9th Air Force, said the northwest corner of Korea was left littered with burning Communist rolling stock.

The jets were up and waiting when the Chinese sought to run supply trains out of Manchuria into North Korea.

Gambler Attends Officer's Funeral

EL PASO, March 21 (UP)—Mickey Cohen, west coast gambler, attended the funeral services today for detective Ralph Marmalejo, Jr.

Cohen arrived by American Airlines plane at 2:45 a.m. "I came here to attend Ralph's funeral service," Cohen said. Ralph would have wanted it that way. He was my friend."

Sheriff Jimmy Hicks thought it was his "duty" to greet Cohen when he arrived in El Paso.

The sheriff was accompanied by sheriff's deputies Wesley Smith, Ray Gardner and Leroy Clayton. Other members of the welcoming committee were detectives Bill White, traffic patrolman John Hartridge and Joe Munoz, an employee of Cafe Charnant in Juarez.

Cohen was neatly attired in a tan sports jacket and brown trousers. He carried a purple and gold-striped hatbox. He was escorted to the Hilton Hotel by sheriff Hicks and detective White.

"I was going to question Cohen in my office," sheriff Hicks said. "But he convinced me on the way to town from the airport that he was here to attend Marmalejo's funeral."

McCarran Act Backfires On Its Sheepish Author

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The stiff, controversial McCarran act intended to keep subversive immigrants out of the United States and control those who are already in, has now backfired against the author of the act himself, Sen. Pat McCarran of Nevada. It's all because of those Basque sheepherders Senator McCarran wanted to import for the benefit of his Nevada sheep-raising constituents. The story began during the war. In the manpower shortage, all farm labor became hard to get. Self-respecting white men refused to have anything to do with tending the silly sheep. Neither would the native Indians of the western range country. Make 'em more money in war plant. But people had to have mutton and wool. So Senator McCarran fostered a move to bring Basque sheepherders from the Pyrenees mountains of Spain to mind the sheep on Nevada's ranges. One hundred and sixty-three were brought in on temporary immigration permits. After the war, Senator McCarran then introduced a private bill to let the Basques stay and be naturalized. It passed. They stayed. The whole system worked so well that last year Senator McCarran got through another bill—a public law this time—to admit up to 250 more Basque "skilled shepherds" on regular visas, regardless of Spanish immigration quota. Three applied for these visas and presumably came in. But then Congress passed the big McCarran act. It bars from admission anyone who is now or ever has been connected with a totalitarian government or movement. This barred Comies, Hitler Nazi groups, Italian Fascists and Spanish Falangists. This last included the Basque sheepherders. They might have been admitted on temporary visas if they could prove no official connection with the Spanish Falange. But Senator McCarran and the sheep raisers wanted them in permanently. So there's a new bill now before Congress instructing the Immigration Service to interpret the McCarran act more liberally. It has passed the House. It will have to pass the Senate soon to bring relief to the U. S. sheep raisers if it's to do any good for the Basques, because the bill to admit the 250 expires this June 30.

In the first two months that the new 81st Congress has been in session only two bills were enacted into law. One permits members of the armed forces to import gifts free of duty. The other authorizes congressional committees on taxation to get data direct from Bureau of Internal Revenue, without going through the Treasury. Over a thousand new bills have been introduced in the Senate, and over 3000 in the House. But only 79 have been passed by the Senate and only 131 by the House. None of these measures was passed by both branches. That's the speed with which the country's problems get solved in time of crisis.

Korean war is the 100th military campaign that U. S. armed forces have been engaged in since the Revolution in 1775. This is just one out of about a million facts contained in a new, 1000-page "Army Almanac," just issued by U. S. Army Informational Schools at Carlisle Barracks, Pa. This is where Army public relations officers are trained. As a reference work, the Almanac is intended to answer all questions and settle all arguments soldiers may get into. There are histories of all units, records of what units took part in what battles. It even slips over into chapters on the Navy and Air Force, Veterans Bureau and other miscellaneous, related organizations. As a handbook for spin it should be a constant companion. It tells everything not classified, down to specifications of all the weapons.

D-Day for Uncle Joe

Can a poultry farmer control the quality of the eggs his chickens lay? Very definitely. It has been proven conclusively at the Purina Research Farm that the ration fed a laying flock can and does control the quality as well as the color of the yolk of an egg.

John M. West, Jr., Research Purina Research Farm. To prove this, two experimental flocks of 75 chickens were fed the same Layena Chow. To the ration fed one flock was added a harmless green dye. Within less than two weeks, this flock began to lay eggs with a brilliantly green yolk.

Men Released From Texas Jail

HOUSTON, March 20 (UP)—Seven Spanish Seamen, arrested Sunday for smuggling brandy into the United States, were released from jail today after they agreed to pay a fine of $5,000.

Customs Agents said the fine was levied against both the sailors and the shipping company, but said the sailors would actually pay the fine with the company taking it out of their wages. The roundup of the seven followed a week of undercover work by Customs Agents which was climaxed with a raid on the Spanish Vessel, the SS Rio Pas, after an agent had purchased 30 cases of Brandy for $24 a case with marked bills. Alvin F. Scharff, Customs Agent in charge here, said the arrests and seizure of the 30 cases of Brandy smashed the biggest liquor smuggling case here since Prohibition days. He said his men actually had been working on liquor and perfume smuggling by sailors on Spanish ships for more than a year.

"THE man nearest to Paul Twing looked quick and hard. His thin face was lined and weather-beaten. He wore a Navy pea-jacket. The man behind him was well-dressed, mature, and portly. The heavy black eyebrows behind his rimless glasses contrasted sharply with his sparse gray hair. The fear May Jenkins thought she had discarded came cascading back. Paul leaped down the steps and seized the younger man—the one in the pea-jacket—by both arms. "Jo-Jo!" Paul Twing cried in happy excitement. "Jo-Jo, I thought you were at sea—probably on the other side of the world!" May's sign of relief was audible. Captain Martin Jaboe grinned at Paul. "No kid, I was supposed to be, but I've been expecting company—and here you are! Come on in. Bring the young lady and the youngster inside." Paul, May and Judy crowded inside. Captain Jaboe reached up and closed the door. Cross remained on deck. "So this is little Judy," Captain Jaboe reached down and held her plump cheek between his two broad hands, then patted her on the head. Next he looked up at May. "And I suppose you are the mysterious lady I've been reading about in the newspapers and hearing about on the radio today?" "May Jenkins," Paul laughed. "May, this is my friend Captain Martin Jaboe." "Hello, Captain," May smiled at him. Captain Jaboe smiled back and studied the young woman for a moment. Then he turned and nodded toward the older man, who had watched the greetings in silence, without changing expression. "I want you folks to meet another friend of mine Mr. Moss." Mr. Moss shook hands all around and said polite things in a deep theatrical voice. "CAPTAIN JABOE hooked his thumbs in his belt and said, "Sit down on the bunks, folks. We have some talking to do." The sea captain's voice was serious. May had misgivings as she found a seat on the bunk. What would Captain Jaboe do? And who was this mysterious Mr. Moss and how did he fit into the picture? Paul seated himself on the bunk next to May. Judy took May's hand and May lifted the child up onto her lap. Paul didn't seem to be afraid. He took a deep breath—as if his whole outlook on life would be better from now on. He looked up at Captain Jaboe. "How did you know I was coming, Jo-Jo?" Paul asked. Captain Jaboe laughed. "Easy I know you, kid. I sailed with you long enough to know how your mind works and I'd have kicked your head in if you hadn't come to me. The FBI had figured pretty square too. I had to play it cute." "You sure did, Jo-Jo," Paul agreed. "Now tell us where we're going?" "We're not going any place," Paul stood up. The smile had left his face. His hands were clenched. "What do you mean?" he asked quietly. "Sit down," Captain Jaboe put his hand against Paul's chest and pushed him gently back onto the bunk. "Kid, you three are going to give yourselves up."

"What?" Paul roared the question and was back on his feet. May said Judy off her lap and stood beside Paul, clutching his arm. "You can't ask that," May said huskily to Captain Jaboe. "You can't, Captain." The sea captain swung around to May. "I'm not asking it. I'm darn well insisting on it." "But why?" Paul demanded incredulously. "We've gotten away from the FBI, the police, everybody. We're free. Why should we give ourselves up now?" "But why?" Paul demanded incredulously. "We've gotten away from the FBI, the police, everybody. We're free. Why should we give ourselves up now?" "But why?" Paul demanded incredulously. "We've gotten away from the FBI, the police, everybody. We're free. Why should we give ourselves up now?"

Infantryman—

ing up a hill near Seoul with a machinegun in his arms, that a rifle bullet came ripping into his elbow shattering it to the point of taking him out of action. The soldier made it alone back to the Aid Station.

"I didn't know I was hit at first," he stated to this reporter, "when it hit me there was no real pain—just felt as though someone had bumped into me or something. It was when I started to continue moving that it started to hurt. I took off for the aid station."

When asked about our chances in Korea and what his sincere opinion of the right and wrong of our troops being sent by Truman to fight and die on that distant land, the infantryman looked at the writer without speaking for several minutes. Then, when he spoke—it was slow, deliberate, and seemed to come from the bottom of his heart.

"Well, so long as we are in Korea and American blood has been spilled to gain our footholds I believe that we should stick and finish the job.

However, I can't see any reason for being in Korea. We are supposed to be stopping Communism but when there is the evil Red hand in plain view everywhere including the United States and we apparently do nothing about it, I can't see why we should pick some spot like that to start trying to wash someone's dirty wash, and the charges of some countries that we are in Korea as aggressive capitalist is foolish. There is just nothing there that we would want. I know that I didn't leave anything there that I want to go back after.

"We are winning the war over there and I don't mind the Army. It is all right. In fact I am at present undecided as to whether or not to re-enlist when my time is up. A lot of things can happen between now and then to make up or change a fellow's mind. So don't get me wrong when I say I can't see why we are in Korea. There are a lot of guys over there who don't know why. They are just there. You soon lose all knowledge of time and place.

"We are called police. But it is a pretty tough town when police have to fight full scale battles and use as heavy equipment as we do. The people over here in the States don't consider the country is at war. To the man fighting this war—it's well—its pretty big."

Earnest spent Christmas aboard ship being on the last ship to leave North Korea. He is now at Beaumont General Hospital at Beaumont where doctors say he will probably remain for six months.

From the Seller's Point of View—

... he may earnestly believe that just any kind of an abstract will do, but it makes a lot of difference to the buyer as to the kind of an abstract he gets. There is as much difference in the quality of title information as there is in people and personalities. Most attorneys try to protect their clients against the hazards of irresponsible and sub-standard abstracts, and they should. Waiting for the best, where waiting is required, will pay big dividends in the long run.

Child's World Is Wonderful

The world that children live in is mighty wonderful... filled with joys that make the older folks little daydreams and hopes and sometimes wish they were school-age again. But boys and girls have their ups and downs, too, particularly when they are not feeling well. Ten-year-old Carmelita Plonka, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Plonka of 3202 S. Aberdeen, Chicago, Ill., was not feeling good recently and was just too listless to get the most out of her school days. Fortunately for Carmelita, though her grandmother suggested that her mother give her HADACOL, because she had heard how much it was helping children deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Iron and Niacin. Now Carmelita feels fine and her mother says she has a big appetite.

Here is Mrs. Plonka's statement: "My daughter Carmelita, who is 10 years old and in the fifth grade, had always been underweight and I had to positively force her to eat. She had no interest in food whatsoever, but I knew that she had to eat. When we were visiting my mother in Missouri over the Christmas holidays she suggested I give Carmelita HADACOL. I bought a large bottle of it that same day and was amazed at the change in Carmelita. Her appetite picked right up and she now eats three hearty meals a day plus in-between snacks. I have really praised HADACOL, and highly recommend it for everyone."

HADACOL can help you if you suffer such deficiencies. Ask your druggist for HADACOL today.
