United Press Refused Request To Have An American Reporter Watch Trail

COUNTY-BORN OFFICER HEADS LOS ANGELES POLICE DETAIL

Eastland county has been honored for its many achievements and its citizens and former citizens have made their mark in the world in business, industry, medicine, the legal world and even in law enforcement. A man who was born in Ranger, Los Angeles Detective Sgt. R. T. Ruble, has been singled out as one of the nation's top experts on the criminal modus operandi in safe cracking.

Ruble was born and raised in Ranger. His father S. E. Ruble is an oil operator in Eastland County today. Ruble got his first police experience in Stamford, Jones County, where he worked for a year. He has been a member of the Los Angeles Police Department for eleven years and in the safe detail which he heads, for eight years.

He was a speaker at the Texas Crime Conference sponsored by Dallas Sheriff Bill Decker and Police Chief Carl Hanson of Dallas at the Baker Hotel there recently. Texas called on their native son to exchange information which could aid in the detection of criminals, mainly safe burglars.

The ex-Ranger resident told the Texas officers of the methods he had observed in his years of experience and the ways of gaining better information on the activities of criminals. The numerous officers from all over Texas who heard him were apparently impressed by his high degree of knowledge and in the way he handled hundreds of tough cases.

Ruble said that safe crackers "live under the guise of respectability in one city and work other cities. They usually own legitimate businesses and are engaged in church activities, attending church regularly without fail."

He said that in L.A. it was found that a radio announcer, actor, better business bureau official, and an accountant had joined together in a safe cracking ring. They were working out of town and had a smooth mode of operation. They would all leave separately and go to some city far away from where they planned to operate. Then they would use other transportation to the chosen city of operation. They would meet before the job and after the job they would leave the same way. They would never return directly home. Smart police work resulted in their apprehension.

Frank Tucker Speaks To Lions Club During Dinner Meeting At Gholson

Eastland County Sheriff Frank Tucker today told members of the Ranger Lions Club that Eastland County was "chock full of crime". Tucker said that he is getting excellent cooperation from police officers all over the county but pled for further cooperation of county citizens.

Tucker explained to the Club members that a peace officer is only as good as his information and that no officer can keep his county crime free without help from the general public.

The sheriff renewed his cry for the installation of police radios in the city and county vehicles in Eastland County and said that his department could never be completely efficient without the radios. He said that the radios would soon pay for themselves and that they would improve law enforcement 100 per cent. He acknowledged the Ranger Times part in helping to stir up interest in the radios and said that prior to a series of articles run by the Times, no one would even talk to him about the radios.

41 Cases of Polio Reported in Tex.

AUSTIN, June 22 (UP)—A total of 41 cases of polio were reported in Texas for the week ending June 16, state health officer George W. Cox said today.

The latest report brought the total for the year to 283, far below the 1950 figure of 717 for the same period.

For the same week last year, health authorities reported 107 cases of polio, and more than 100 cases were reported each week for the next 10 weeks.

Last year's high for any one week was 131 cases.

Hardin - Simmons To Furnish The Cowboy Music

Hardin - Simmons University's well-known band will furnish the music for the Annual Stamford Cowboy Reunion, June 30-July 4, Marion B. McClure, director of the band, said today.

The Cowboy musicians will lead the opening day parade and play for the rodeo performances each night.

Other rodeo engagements are now being worked out, according to McClure, who has been with the band as a student and director since 1929.

Sheriff Will Watson, sponsor of the organization, will accompany the group and ride one of the six white horses.

Well known in rodeo circles as well as a concert band, the collegiate musicians have appeared at 300 top rodeos and played 2,000 separate rodeo performances—the equivalent of one show a day for five years.

Last year alone, the band traveled 15,000 miles, gave 145 public performances, and was heard by more than one million people. The band was recently televised on a national scale.

Bill Woods, 18 year old music major from Plainview, who was judged the sixth best twirler in the nation last summer at the national VFW contest in Chicago, will serve as drum major at the colorful rodeo.

Since its organization in 1923, the H-SU musical group has appeared in 40 of the 48 states, and in England, France, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Scotland, Canada and Mexico.

THIRD THUG SENTENCED

BROWNWOOD, June 23 (UP)—A third member of a quartet of California hillybilly musicians charged with killing a mobile Dallas policeman was convicted here yesterday and sentenced to 99 years imprisonment.

Maxfield (Bill) Pomeroy, 17, of Lamont, Calif., pleaded guilty before District Judge A. O. Newman and a hastily summoned jury. The jury deliberated only two minutes.

The two musicians convicted earlier—Marvin Johnson, 21, and Robert Lee Johnson, his uncle—received the death sentence. The fourth defendant, J. W. Johnson, 23, awaits trial here on a charge of venue.

J. W. Johnson, brother of Marvin Johnson, offered to plead guilty yesterday but said he first wanted to telephone his father at Lamont, Calif. There was a delay on the call and the pleading was postponed until today.

Patrolman Johnny Sides was slain by the quartet on a South Dallas street last Jan. 22 after he halted their automobile, which ran a red light. The youths were arrested in Arkansas several days later.

The law officer said that he was going to continue his drive against crime.

SALUTE FOR HIS DAD—Seven-year-old David Desiderio salutes after receiving the Medal of Honor posthumously for his father from Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of Joint Chiefs. His brother Timothy, 3, and Mrs. Patricia Desiderio, widow of Capt. Reginald Desiderio, of El Monte, Cal., look on.

PRICE CLINIC DAY HELD IN RANGER YESTERDAY BY SMITH

At the conclusion of Price Clinic Day for businessmen at the Ranger R.M.A. office, Virgil Smith, representing the Fort Worth District OPS announced a summary of dates for filing reports and posting ceiling prices and signs required by price regulations.

"Retail beef price charts must be posted by June 25," said Smith. "The time has been extended from June 18 in order to assure beef retailers a chart to post."

Charts will be supplied by OPS and will enable the merchant to list beef ceiling prices by cut and grade as provided in the regulation.

July 1 is the date for retailers of consumer goods under CPR 7 to mark and tag items with ceiling prices, said Mr. Smith.

Sales of items covered by this regulation are not legal after June 30, unless the retailer filing a price chart has received acknowledgment of its receipt by the OPS.

July 1 is also the date on which retailers under CPR 7 must have posted a sign stating, "The prices of merchandise in this store are no higher than the OPS ceiling prices of the articles."

Although no posting of ceiling prices is required, the OPS representative said that July 2 is the last day which manufacturers may file reports with the Washington OPS office under Ceiling Price Regulations 22, 30, and 37, and to put into effect their ceiling prices.

Penalties are provided for non-compliance with price stabilization regulations. The maximum is one year in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both.

Businessmen who have not filed necessary reports, or who need assistance in filing were urged to contact the Fort Worth District Office.

Archbishop Groeza Confesses Under Questionable Circumstances

The United Press applied for a visa for an American Reporter to cover the trial of Archbishop Groeza in Budapest. The Hungarian government rejected the application on grounds that no arrangements had been made for translation of the trial proceedings for foreign newsmen. The trial is being covered by the resident United Press Correspondent in Budapest, Iona Nylas, a Hungarian National. Our London bureau understands that Miss Nylas' dispatches will not be censored, but as in the case of most iron curtain nations, reporters can be held responsible for everything they write. Miss Nylas is telephoning her dispatches to London.

New Charges Are Shot At Truman

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Amid new claims that President Truman is "gagging" military officials, Senate investigators today questioned a major general who once said the Chinese Nationalists never lost a battle to the Communists because of arms shortages.

He is David A. Barr, former head of an American military mission in China and more recently an army division commander in Korea.

Many Republicans claim that niggardly American arms aid to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek opened the gates to Communist conquest in China. Vice Adm. Oscar C. Badger had testified that Chiang's troops once were reduced to "throwing rocks" because of a faulty American arms supply program.

Two Republicans—Sens. William F. Knowland, Calif., and Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Ia.—also echoed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's claim that a presidential "gagging" order has blocked the Senate investigating committee in ascertaining the facts about MacArthur's discharge.

Knowland said a presidential "gag" order made trouble for MacArthur last March when he served the Chinese Red field commander an "ultimatum" to quit fighting or risk direct attack on China.

Hickenlooper said that any silencing of the military leads to State Department "domination" of the Defense Department and that present military chiefs of staff are too prone to be guided by "political" considerations.

Committee chairman Richard B. Russell, D. Ga., said he hoped to end the lengthy investigation of MacArthur's dismissal and Far Eastern policy matters—now in an eighth week—on Monday after hearing Barr (at 10 a.m. EDT) today and Maj. Gen. Emmett (Hose) O'Donnell, Air Force strategic bombing expert.

Valley People To Call Truman

WESLACO, June 22 (UP)—A lower Rio Grande Valley organization will petition President Truman and other governmental officials to halt migration of illegal Mexican aliens, claiming the "wetbacks" are being aided by persons seeking low-cost labor.

The Weslaco Chapter of the G-I Forum, an organization chiefly composed of Latin-Americans, said a petition on the matter is being prepared and copies will be offered to the other 92 G-I forum chapters.

The petition asks Congress to "deter effectively" the "nefarious practice of hiring illegal aliens at un-American wages."

It said "only the cessation of the practice of employing aliens will effectively stem the tide of illegal immigration."

West Coast CIO Strikers Return To Work Today

NEW YORK, June 22 (UP)—CIO radio operators added a week old strike against Pacific Coast ship owners today but negotiators in the East Coast CIO Maritime strike remained deadlocked.

The American Radio Association (CIO) which had demanded terms with Pacific shippers at 2:25 a.m. EDT in San Francisco after six hours of negotiations and agreed to man immediately 37 idled ships, including the Matson luxury liner SS Lurline.

Federal mediator Omar Hopkins said the ARA had accepted an agreement calling for "wage increases and improvements in working conditions, and the contract extends for a two-year minimum.

"Parties have agreed to an extension of the negotiations to work out a West Coast pattern for hours at sea, pensions and vacations."

The ARA, with only 850 members on the West Coast, was the only union involved in the Pacific strike, but it had the support of Harry Bridges' powerful Independent Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

The matter of "hours at sea" was the only stumbling block in the East where the National Maritime Union (CIO) and 40 Atlantic and Gulf Coast ship owners resumed negotiations at 1:20 a.m. EDT after 13 hours of continuous bargaining.

Jack Porter Says That Texans Convictions And Principles Are Not Democratic But Republican

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 22 (UP)—Jack Porter, Houston businessman who polled 388,000 votes in the 1948 senatorial election, said last night that he will wage an all-out battle for the job of Republican National Committee member, opposing Henry Zweifel of Fort Worth and "old guard Republicans who are preventing the development of a healthy two-party system in Texas."

Speaking before the Young Republican Federation of Nueces County, Porter charged that Zweifel, the present committeeman, after publicly endorsing Gen. Dwight Eisenhower last year, is secretly working to turn over the Texas delegation to Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio.

Porter said hard work on "the local, county and state levels can build a solid Republican party quickly in Texas," because it is a people "are ready to desert a Democratic Administration marked by scandal, mounting debt, and a dangerous, ineffective foreign policy that has brought the nation to the brink of disaster."

There is no prejudice against the term "Republican" in Texas, Porter said, adding that two-thirds of the people of Texas are Anti-New Deal and Anti-Fair Deal.

He also said:

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran, is the top designer for the exclusive gown shop "Jean Paul." Tim started to sketch in order to obtain money for an operation he needed and he has an idea how much the shop depends on him. When the operation was unsuccessful Tim, discouraged, stopped designing and was only permitted to continue by Jean Roland, one of the partners of Jean Paul (the other is Paul Panciera). Jean, an ex-model, poses for Tim and creates the illusion that she enjoyed it, although in private she calls Tim a "poor slob." At last Jean must leave on a trip with Mr. Panciera to Europe. Tim is planning to tell Jean "how I feel about her," but Jean senses what is coming and knows that if she doesn't play her part right the firm of Jean Paul will be out of business.

XIII

JEAN ROLAND replied: "Why do you think I've been getting wrinkles lately? My friend Tim Reese up in Cedarbrook isn't interested in Jean Paul, or in women's fashions, or in money. He's interested in me. ME, my love. And if I chill him off, there'll be no more sketches and, in an unbelievably short time, no more us." Paul Panciera was concerned now. As usual, when he was fearful, he sought courage in phrases. "Have you no confidence in our destiny, sweet?" "No. None without the man in the wheel chair." Jean had no use for intangibles. "If I tell him I don't worship him, I may be jumping off the bridge. And one of the main problems is you can't keep from liking the guy. He's no ordinary citizen, and he didn't come by that wheel chair in an automobile accident."

"This is serious," Mr. Panciera moaned. "He's caused us trouble before. Now, the least you'd think he'd do is let us have our trip to Europe in peace."

But Jean was not listening. "There's a very cute little girl who hangs around the hospital," she said, almost wistfully. "Why couldn't he have fallen for her?" "Could we play Cupid, perhaps?" Jean sighed. "I'm afraid not. She's right out of the corn. Runs around in overalls and pigtails and looks about as little like anything to tempt a man with our friend's taste as you can imagine." "Suppose we sent her a costume or two? Think it would help?" "Might," Jean was interested. "It's a little late but it's a thought." "Don't spare the purse," Mr. Panciera urged. "It might prove a good investment."

"Might," Jean was interested. "It's a little late but it's a thought." "Don't spare the purse," Mr. Panciera urged. "It might prove a good investment."

Then, when he discovered her, his face was bright with pleasure and his mood, she saw immediately and with great relief, was very much in the sunny spirit of the landscape outside. "I've never enjoyed making any of the sketches as much as I've enjoyed making this one," he told her when she was seated. "I'll be finished with it in a minute." He made several swift brush strokes and passed the design, with the colors still moist, over to her.

JEAN ROLAND laughed her pretty but studied laugh. "How could I ever guess ME from your description? I'm just a walking clothes rack. You, of all people, should know that."

"You are beautiful," Tim Reese spoke slowly. "But you are more than that, as all the visits you've made to this hospital can testify. You have no idea how happy you've made me, nor how you've helped restore my belief in people." He tried to be casual. "You can't blame me for falling in love with you, can you?"

It was a sketch of a winter white evening gown. She looked at it in surprise. "You've never gone all-white before," she said. "It's not like your other stuff."

"This is a man's dress. I mean it's the sort of dress a man likes to see on a woman."

"But up till now you've drawn dresses for women to knock the eyes out of other women."

"I've taken a day off," he laughed. "Do you know that for most men about the prettiest girl around is a pretty nurse in a white uniform?"

SHE was amused. "But this is no nurse's uniform." She held up the sketch. "It's delicate and dreamy. It's romantic."

"It's supposed to be. Like the white?"

"I love winter white." She held the sketch away from her, studied it. "I don't think it's quite for me though, do you?"

"Why not?"

"She indicated the sketch with a brush of her slender fingers. "There's something childlike about this, I think."

He was disturbed. "That's curious. I planned the dress for a woman, a beautiful woman of the world."

"Really?" She pretended great surprise. "It seems so—so virginal."

"I think the all-white may have misled you." He watched her face. "The lines were drawn for a woman with a lovely body, thoroughly physical and feminine. There is no contradiction in that she is as white as snow and natural as the snow and there." He managed a smile. "I might as well tell you it was you I had in mind. I thought you might have guessed."

Student Nurse Wanders Around A Vast National Park 13 Days

CATLINBURG, Tenn., June 22 (UP) — A young student nurse, missing for 13 days in the Great Smoky Mountains returned to civilization today with a vague story which indicated she had deliberately hidden out in the wildest part of the vast national park.

Max Ogle, son of a park warden, spotted 21-year-old Evangelin Lorimor trudging down a canyon at the foot of Chilhowell Mountain about dusk last night.

Rangers said she told them she had decided it was "time to come out" because she had kept track of the days and knew she was due back at work at Cincinnati's Jewish Hospital next Monday.

They said, however, that the girl was "vague" and seemed confused. They still weren't sure whether she was really lost.

Miss Lorimor declared that she had eaten nothing during her wandering about the park area, where black bears and other wild animals abound. She said she had practiced fasting and had previously gone a week without food "for fun."

She said she slept outdoors on beds of leaves while rainstorms swept the mountainsides and temperatures dropped to between 40 and 45 degrees. However, Miss Lorimor apparently was not harmed by the exposure although she had only a pair of blue jeans and a yellow sweater to protect her from the weather.

TOP-PRICE LID—"It's just a little thing I picked up for $100, 600." Barbara Welles might say of this sparkling spring bonnet. Designed by John-Fredericks in New York, the straw and velvet hat is trimmed with thousands of diamonds with a total carat weight of 168.26.

HOUSTON, June 22 (UP) — The 11th Annual Left Handed Golfers Association Tournament will be held at Seguin, Tex., July 18th through the 22nd. Gill Miller, secretary and treasurer of the organization, announced today.

He said that elaborate plans include special entertainment for the hundreds of visiting wives of the "lefties" by the Woman's Golf Association of Seguin. He said that the largest entry of "southpaws" ever to enter the tournament have already signed up.

They include, he said, such nationally known left handed golfers as the present champion, Fred Blackman, 18, of Luling, who will defend his title, and Judge W. H. Gilmarin of Fort Worth, last year's runner-up.

Do You Know the Answer—
... to the little boy's question—"Daddy, what is an abstract and what kind of an abstract do we have to our place?" That's a searching question. If the answer is—"I don't know. All abstracts are about alike and one is as good as another"—it isn't a satisfactory reply. But if the answer is—"Son, we have a dependable abstract because I know the people who made it are dependable, and we won't worry about the rest", that's a good answer.

4-H Club Delegates and HD Agents To Attend State Revue At College

Eastland County 4-H delegates who will attend State 4-H Round-Up are Janet Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Rodgers of Desomona, and Sandra Herrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Herrell of Olden. Thelda Phelps of the Carbon 4-H Club was to model her dress in the State 4-H Dress Revue but the J. A. Phelps family is moving to New Mexico and she will not be able to attend State Round-Up. These girls were awarded the trip to College Station due to being winners in the County Dress Revue and for having done outstanding club work this year.

The annual State 4-H Dress Revue will be held at College Station June 26. Mary Routh and Nena Roberson, clothing specialists for the Extension Service of Texas A&M College, say 145 entries have been entered for judging in the final revue.

The revue is the achievement event for all 4-H Club girls in Texas who have worked on the clothing demonstration this year. The specialists say that 9,596 girls entered garments they made in the county revues.

Three hundred and thirty County 4-H Club girls have received training on the clothing program from adult leaders and the Assistant Home Demonstration Agent, Evelyn Bigby, through demonstrations and home visits.

The home demonstration agents Mrs. Ethel Sparks and Evelyn Bigby, and the two 4-H delegates will leave this Sunday for the State 4-H Round-Up and State Agents Conference. The girls will return Thursday morning and the agents will remain through Friday for the Agents Conference.

Sermon Subject For Tonight

The revival at the Second Baptist Church is growing in interest and attendance with each service. The services are held each night beginning at 8 p.m. with the pastor, Rev. Jasper C. Massee in charge. A large number of visitors have been present at the services. The revival will continue through Sunday night, June 24th.

Rev. Massee preached Thursday night on "The Receiving and Forgiving Father" using as the text Luke 15:11-32. The pastor said "There is one time when our heavenly father gets in a hurry and that is when a sinner repents and returns to the Father's house. The father runs to meet the returning son and give him a happy reception."

Tonight Rev. Massee will discuss "The Place of the Cross in the Plan of Redemption." The text will be Hebrews 10:12. An invitation is extended to all to attend the services.

Auxiliary To Work On New Project

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Ralph L. McKinley Post No. 5873 met Thursday evening at VFW headquarters.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Vivian Butler, president. It was decided in the business meeting to set up a stock pile of clothing and canned food to have ready for use when a need arose for such.

Mrs. Nellie Worden reported that the project of sending packages to the Ranger overseas soldiers was successful.

Mrs. Lucille Williams and Mrs. Laverne Patterson were accepted for membership in the Auxiliary and initiation ceremonies were held for them.

Soapdragons and Japanese Iris were used in decorating the hall.

After the business session the auxiliary was served refreshments. Mrs. Vivian Butler and Mrs. Ethel Bronkes Gilmore prepared and served punch and other dainties.

The next meeting will be Thursday, July 5.

Summer Slip Can Double as Dress

The summer slip that can double as a dress is doubly easy on the budget. Black rayon taffeta (left) woven with bright red jacquard polka dots has cuffed top, scalloped hem. Checked rayon taffeta (center) has sheath look, simple gored skirt, slim lines. White rayon crepe (right) with gold print makes cuff-topped slip that can serve as blouse, or team with a duster.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The summer slip that's designed to double as a dress is, to the woman on a budget, the biggest thing since the day of free dishes at the neighborhood movie.

Not only can these slips be worn as dresses, they can also do duty as summer blouses. They can combine with plain sheaths and brief jackets to make up an ensemble.

Of course, all of this does raise the question: Is she wearing a slip under her slip? If so, which kind?

BY GALE DUGAS
NEA Staff Writer

Could it, too, double as a dress? Let the whole thing become too complicated, let's make it clear right now that the woman who buys a slip-dress (or a dress-slip) is on her own. She may invent, or camouflage, but there are no specific instructions from the designers.

Black rayon taffeta, enlivened by bright red jacquard polka dots, is cut into a slip that has wide straps, a cuffed top and a shallow, scalloped hem. This slip can, with the addition of a stole go to parties after five.

Black-and-white checked rayon taffeta makes a sheath-slip with slim lines. The skirt is slightly gored; bodice fits smoothly. Straps are fairly wide.

For touring art galleries, there's a white rayon crepe slip that's highlighted with gold print. It has a cuffed top and is adaptable to the blouse-and-skirt idea. It could also go to informal parties with the addition of a black sheath in a sheer fabric.

Faith Class To Meet Tues.

The Faith Class of the First Baptist church will meet in the home of Mrs. H. S. Packwood Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m.

Club Entertained Saturday Night

The Lone Star Ladies Club entertained last Saturday night at the Community Club house.

At the close of an evening of games, the hostess, Mrs. R. W. Gordon awarded prizes to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bates, Mrs. J. W. Ball, Mrs. George Robinson, Mrs. Louie Thomas and Mr. George Wright.

Refreshments of cookies and coffee were served.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKinney have returned from Albuquerque, New Mexico where they spent two weeks with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McKinney. Their granddaughter, Linda Kay, came home with them to spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Horton and son Charles will leave today to begin their three week vacation. They will join friends at Luaders this afternoon for a fishing trip.

Tuesday they will visit friends and relatives in Weatherford, and from there they will visit in New London, Palestine, Terrell, Katie, and Anahuac.

ACCARDO MAY BE CITED

MIAMI, Fla., June 22 (UP)—Martin Leo Accardo of Coral Gables, Fla., nattily-dressed brother of a Chicago gangster, refused to answer questions of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee today and the committee said it would recommend that he be cited for contempt.

The committee's renewed hearings into Florida's gambling got off to a slow start without its star witness, Gov. Fuller Warren. Chairman Herbert O'Connor, E. Md., gave the governor until noon before he promised to take further action, which could mean a subpoena.

Accardo, brother of Tony (The Enforcer) Accardo, was the first witness questioned. He gave his name and then refused to answer even as to his address, age and marital status, claiming any reply might tend to incriminate him.

Committee chairman O'Connor gave up after receiving the same answer to some 20 questions.

"It is the committee's opinion that the witness is in flagrant contempt of the committee," O'Connor said. "I will recommend that the witness be cited for contempt."

The committee also questioned Joh Wm. Niskoff of Jacksonville,

'Walking Preacher' Goes To Court

ST. LOUIS, June 22 (UP)—The Rev. Guy Howard, self-styled "Walkin' Preacher of the Ozarks," won a partial victory in his court fight over a boogie-woogie tune called "The Missouri Walking Preacher" today.

But he still wasn't satisfied. A jury of nine men and three women agreed today with his complaint of defamation of character and awarded him $3,125 damages.

But it decided the walking preacher song didn't invade the Bronson, Mo., pastor's privacy, as he charged.

Howard said he would appeal the decision of his $320,000 suit against the Capitol Records Co. A company spokesman said the firm also would appeal.

The minister said "I was fighting in my trial for Christianity and the brotherhood of ministry. If they can acquit somebody of putting out a song like that then I guess they could write a song about any one."

The federal court jury deliberated about five hours before bringing in the verdict shortly after midnight today.

an attorney for the Sheriff's Association of Florida, who admitted that he had been a "confidential adviser" to Mr. and Mrs. James A. Sullivan. Sullivan resigned as Sheriff of Dade (Miami) County Monday after being subpoenaed to testify at the hearings here.
