JAYCEES TO MEET TONIGHT

The Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce has called a work meeting tonight at the rodeo grounds in preparation of the Jaycee Rodeo which will be held July 18-21. Watermelon will be served at the conclusion of the work party.

Jaycee President Allen Full has asked that every Jaycee be on hand and urges all interested citizens whether Jaycees or not, to be on hand. The Jaycee publicity committee plans on getting a story in some newspaper in this area at least every day with some days seeing newspapers carrying several stories from several different angles.

"Booger Red" Cooper, Eastland rodeo rider, said today that he plans to enter the rodeo and that he believes the show is one of the best for a small town that plays anywhere.

FBI AND OSI AGENTS INVESTIGATE STORY

SAN ANTONIO, June 28 (UP)—FBI and OSI Agents today investigated a youthful sentry's story of how a mysterious masked man attacked and disarmed him as he guarded a highly-secret Air Force security center here.

Air Force officers indicated they believe the assailant may have sought to steal secret Air Force codes from the security center at Brooks Air Base.

A "full report" of the alleged attack on Pfc. Francis McGill, 19, New York City, will be made today to Brig. Gen. R. H. Lynn, Base Commander. It was not known whether the report would be made public.

The incident, kept secret until last night, occurred Tuesday evening within the shadows of the Brooks Headquarters Building, known to San Antonio residents as "the brain of the Air Force."

McGill, a Russian language student at the Brooks security center, told officers that a masked man crept up behind him as he walked his guard post. He said the man slapped him and disarmed him of his carbine.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the office of strategic information joined the Air Force and Bexar County Sheriff's officers in an investigation of the case.

Lynn refused to say whether any government property was missing from the base. But he said McGill had a loaded carbine when he went on guard detail and did not have it after the reported attack.

McGill told Sheriff Angel Sticklebault that he heard footsteps behind him and turned to see a man dressed in fatigue clothes approaching.

"I told him to halt, but he didn't," McGill, son of a New York policeman, said. "I pulled the bolt of my carbine back and shoved a round into the chamber. But before I could fire, he hit me in the face, with what I thought was a rolled-up magazine. It socked hell out of me. He grabbed the carbine and ran."

The sentry said the assailant had a white handkerchief tied around his face and was "a big man—about six feet tall."

The entire Brooks Guard Force mustered quickly and called upon the Bexar County Sheriff's Office for help. Together the units searched Berg's Mills, a residential settlement near the base, McGill said, his attacker fled in that direction.

Deputies said FBI agents questioned McGill carefully and the young soldier "stuck with his story."

McGill, described by Sheriff Sticklebault as "sort of a studious boy with glasses," was on guard duty as part of his regular assignment. He is with the 6923rd Process Squadron at Brooks and listed as a Russian language student at the security center.

Defence witnesses continued to testify today that in their opinion Horace Walker, indicted on charges of embezzling Eastland County funds while working as an agent of the county collecting delinquent taxes, could not receive a fair trial in Eastland County.

Attorneys for the defense said that at least all day Thursday would be required to present their witnesses. Frank Sparks, attorney for the state, assisting District Attorney Elzo Been, said that the state would offer at least as many witnesses as the defense, which indicates that the hearing on a change of venue in the case will continue at least until Saturday.

Walker contends that he can not receive a fair trial in the county because there is a wide spread prejudice against him. While holding a delinquent tax contract in the county he filed many suits against citizens of the county.

Defence attorney Ivan Irwin of Dallas said that the case will be requested to move the case to Taylor County, if the change of venue motion is granted.

Eleven witnesses, called by the defense, were heard Wednesday afternoon. All testified that they were of the opinion that Walker could not get a fair trial in the county, or that they doubted that he could receive a fair trial here.

B. E. Garner, Ranger theatre owner, testified upon cross-examination that he expects to realize about $30,000 profit from property purchased at tax sales brought by Walker.

Defence Attorney Irwin asked Garner, "In your business, the theatre business, you come in contact with a great number of people, do you not?"

"No sir, not now," Garner replied laughing. "I used to, bank nights, but not any more."

Oscar Lyster, former county Democratic chairman, testified that it was "possible but not probable" that Walker could get a fair trial in the county.

Joe Dennis, Ranger, Paul McFarland, Eastland; W. H. Collins, Carbon; Tom Stark, Cisco; W. W. Gilbert, Gorman; Miss Eusa Lindley, Gorman; Fleming Waters, Cisco; Ray Pryor, Eastland; and Joe Parker, Gorman, all testified for the defense, Thursday.

Judge Floyd Jones, Breckenridge, who is sitting in for Judge George Davenport in the case, overruled a motion by the defense Thursday morning to quash the indictments. The jury panel was dismissed until 9 a. m. Monday. Judge Jones said that the panel will be dismissed if the change of venue is granted.

Court was adjourned at 5 p. m. Wednesday, re-opening at 9 a. m. Thursday with more witnesses presented by the defense.

BULLETIN

The Ranger Municipal Swimming Pool is closed for several days to clean the pool and make minor repairs. The pool will probably reopen Monday.

Ranger stores will be closed for the fourth of July to enable the employees to enjoy a brief holiday, according to the Ranger Retail Merchants Association.

Three Oilmen Are Indicted

HOBBS, N. M., June 28 (UP)—Three of the several oilmen indicted by a grand jury here along with Humble Oil and Refining Co. in connection with "contraband oil" have been identified by deputy U. S. Marshal David Fresquez.

The officer said the men are Walter J. Robertson, a former employe of Humble; Jack C. Little, district superintendent of the Humble Oil and Refining Co., at Hobbs; and Roy Moseley, who lives at the "Federal Bowers 'A'" well.

They must appear in Santa Fe Friday for arraignment, along with others indicted by the grand jury.

Two men charged in a third indictment alleging conspiracy to defraud the federal government Paul A. Brown, a member of the Hobbs school board, and M. M. Brown, his father, also must appear Friday.

Attorneys for Humble have been instructed to produce "two responsible executives of the company" at the hearings.

Lie Detector To Be Used

AMARILLO, June 28 (UP)—Police turned to a lie detector test today to determine the truthfulness of a 27-year-old man's denial that he raped a nine-year-old three times last Monday night.

The suspect, arrested in Borger, yesterday, denied the charge despite the girl's identification of him as her attacker.

The arrest of the suspect, who gave Tulsa, Okla., as his home, ended for the moment a widespread manhunt in the Panhandle area.

Police were looking for a man about 30-years-old who picked up the little girl in his car, attacked her, and then tried to run over her with his automobile when he let her out on a highway about ten miles from here.

Mass Confession Has Been Set Off

WASHINGTON, June 28 (UP)—The first Soviet-American exchange over a Korean cease-fire and Russia's proposal that it be done by military field commanders raised Allied hopes slightly today that peace talks can succeed.

Washington officials still were extremely cautious, but conceded that the Soviet Union is acting as if it seriously wants the Korean war to end.

Russia, these officials said, has said the cease-fire should be negotiated in the field by the opposing military commanders. This presumably would omit political questions such as Communist China's admission to the United Nations, or Communist occupation of Formosa.

Secretary of State Dean Acheson undoubtedly will be asked about such matters when he appears for a third day before the House Foreign Affairs Committee (at 10 a. m. EDT).

The Soviet position was explained yesterday by Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. He talked for 20 minutes with U. S. Ambassador Aian G. Kirk. Kirk's reports to Washington touched off a series of top-level conferences.

Holding Special Election Now

WICHITA FALLS, June 28 (UP)—The Special Election shaping up over the vacancy created by resignation of congressman Ed Gossett had its fourth candidate today.

Walter Jenkins, 33, of Wichita Falls, administrative assistant to Texas Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson since 1946, announced his candidacy last night.

Gossett will vacate the office July 31 to become general counsel for Southwestern Bell Telephone Company in Texas.

Already announced for the place were Judge Frank Icard of the Wagoner of Stoneburg, and State Rep. Doug Crouch of Denton.

The 13th District which Gossett represents includes Hardeman, Foard, Knox, Wilbarger, Baylor, Throckmorton, Wichita, Archer, Young, Clay, Jack Montague, Wise, Cooke and Denton Counties.

Date of the special election to choose Gossett's successor will be set by Gov. Allan Shivers.

Jenkins moved his family back to Wichita Falls and said he is preparing to begin his campaign.

Dr. Earl W. Nye Will Retire Soon

DALLAS, June 28 (UP)—Dr. Earl W. Nye, 65, a veteran federal employe, will retire July 1 after 35 years with the Bureau of Animal Industry.

During his employment with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Dr. Nye was stationed at Fort Worth and Dallas as a meat inspector. He also spent eight years in hog cholera and tick eradication work throughout Texas.

He said he would retire to his farm near McKinney to raise livestock and continue veterinary practice.

Archbishop Is Sentenced To 15 Year Term

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 28 (UP)—Archbishop Josef Groesz was sentenced by a People's Court today to 15 years in prison for leading a plot to overthrow the Communist government.

Archbishop Groesz, who succeeded imprisoned Josef Cardinal Mindszenty as Roman Catholic Primate in Hungary, had been liable to a death sentence.

However, the 64-year-old prelate had pleaded guilty to all four charges against him, announced that he was repentant, and asked for the mercy of the court in a final plea Tuesday.

In passing the sentence, the court announced that it had convicted the archbishop of leading an organization seeking to overthrow the government and restore the Hapsburg Monarchy, black marketing, aiding people to escape Hungary, and "crimes against the people."

The woman had been given permission last Friday to take the children from the home for a brief shopping trip. She failed to return them by Monday and a warrant was issued for her arrest. She was found in Dallas, but gained release of a writ of habeas corpus, returnable in Fort Worth. It was at the writ hearing that Judge Robert Young ordered the children returned to the home.

Probation authorities gave the mother and children a few minutes together in a foyer outside the courtroom, and it was then that they disappeared.

Bus Bandit Is Shot In Head

HOUSTON, June 28 (UP)—Houston's so-called bus bandit tried his eighth holdup last night and that one was a mistake.

The 28-year-old Negro was shot in the head by a passenger on a loaded Nance bus. Today he was in Jefferson Davis Hospital in a critical condition and under charges of robbery by firearms.

Ironically, the bus bandit on the Nance run—L. W. Martin, Jr.—was the same man the bandit held up on June 15 in the first of the fast-moving series of holdups.

Police identified the wounded man as Joe Willie Harp. He was shot by A. O. Murphy, 37, who fired a total of six shots at the man. The bus was carrying 25 persons.

After the shooting, police went to Harp's home and found money believed to have been obtained from the other holdups.

Texas Guard Units Honored

AUSTIN, June 28 (UP)—The Texas Adjutant General's Department said today that three units of the Texas National Guard 49th Armored Division had received superior ratings for performance in the field.

The awards came after the division finished a two-week field training period at Camp Peck, La. The units were identified as Company D, 146th Armored Infantry Battalion, Atlanta; Company B, 388th Armored Engineer Battalion, Brenham; and Company C, 117th Armored Medical Battalion, Clarksville.

RJC Sets Up Its Best Yet

Ranger Junior College has set up its strongest and most flexible curriculum for the summer. It has an enrollment of over 300 students, and over fifty courses are scheduled for the summer term.

The Cooper Library at RJC has added over 500 volumes during the 1950-51 school year. The library is now housed in a commodious new building all its own.

Charles Mohlman Expected Larger Stretch In Pen

FORT WORTH, June 28 (UP)—A handsome well-dressed young man once termed by the FBI as one of the most active hot check passers in the country, faced six years in federal prison today.

However, Charles H. Mohlman, 28, of Brooklyn, indicated he was not depressed with the three two-year sentences running consecutively. He expected more, he said.

Mohlman was sentenced yesterday after pleading guilty to three indictments, two of which were for writing hot checks, the other for cashing a check while posing as an FBI agent.

Two of the charges were transferred to federal court here from St. Paul and Grand Rapids. There he was for cashing a hot check here.

Dallas Mother Steals Own Kids

FORT WORTH, June 28 (UP)—A Dallas mother, deprived of custody of her three children by a court order, may face contempt charges after disappearing with them from the county court house here yesterday.

The woman was identified as Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell Blood of Dallas, who had been told only a few minutes earlier that the children would have to go to the Tarrant County Juvenile Home.

County probation officer Lynn Ross said he intended to ask the court for a contempt order.

The children—two girls, 10 and 8, and a boy 7,—were committed to county custody last fall after being adjudged by the court as dependent and neglected.

Sutherland said he gave permission last Friday to take the children from the home for a brief shopping trip. She failed to return them by Monday and a warrant was issued for her arrest. She was found in Dallas, but gained release of a writ of habeas corpus, returnable in Fort Worth. It was at the writ hearing that Judge Robert Young ordered the children returned to the home.

Rotary Club To Have A Party

The Ranger Rotary Club will meet tonight for a rotary party at the Country Club at 7:15 p. m. Club officials hope for a large turnout and believe that this party will be one to remember.

The Rotary Club meets each week at the Gholson Hotel on Wednesday for a meal and a business meeting. Members take pride in their organization and are an important feature in Ranger.

Kilgore Assured Of Big Industry

KILGORE, June 28 (UP)—The city of Kilgore, already rich in oil, was assured today of a major industrial expansion into another field.

A. P. Merritt, president of the Merritt Tool Company of Kilgore, announced that his company had signed a multi-million dollar contract with the U. S. Air Force, to recondition, repair, and de-mouth hall non-astronautical equipment.

He said the program would continue six or seven years and would bring Kilgore workers some $3,000,000 in payroll checks.

State-Wide Pickup Sent Out For Thug

HOUSTON, June 28 (UP)—A nationwide hunt was ordered today for Diego Carlino, dark-haired grocer who is charged with the shotgun slaying of one-time racketeer boss Vincent Valone two years ago.

Carlino has disappeared and deputies and Texas Rangers have been hunting in since he failed to show up in Judge Langston King's court Monday to arrange bond.

In the pickup order sent out at midnight in the name of Sheriff Buster Kern, officers were notified that "we will extradite Carlino if necessary."

Monday, Judge King transferred Carlino's trial to San Angelo, his second one on the murder charge.

His first trial, held in Austin, ended in a mistrial.

The mixup over Carlino resulted from the failure of Judge J. Harris Gardner in Austin to have Carlino execute an appearance bond following the mistrial.

After the trial, Gardner ordered a $20,000 bond under which Carlino had been held reduced to $5,000, but then failed to have the smaller bond executed.

As a result, Carlino is under no legal obligation to appear in court at any time, even though the murder charge still hangs over him.

Iran Ask Help From Truman

TEHRAN, Iran, June 28 (UP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh asked President Truman today to mediate Iran's explosive oil dispute with Britain and expressed hope that a solution could be found.

The ailing premier voiced his concern, at the same time, least the crisis over nationalizing the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company disturb Iran's relations with the United States.

The appeal to Truman was handed unexpectedly today to U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady. He was summoned to the foreign office by foreign minister Bagher Fazelani even as Britain began pulling 150 key technicians from the oil fields.

Iran, in another surprising diplomatic development, formally protested to neighboring Iraq against British efforts to convert that country into "a military base" against Iran.

The protest urged Iraq to take action against the presence of British troop reinforcements on its territory and of the 8,000-ton British cruiser Mauritius on the Shatt El-Arab River dividing the two nations.

F&R MEETS KING HERE

The F & R Oil Company of Ranger will meet the King Motor Company of Eastland in a softball game here tonight at the baseball field at 8 p. m. It is hoped that a large crowd will turn out and that soft ball can be a nightly feature in Ranger.

FARMERS MAY LOSE MEXICAN LABOR AS COTTON PICKERS

AUSTIN, June 28 (UP)—Farmers in 52 Texas counties are in danger of losing Mexican labor as a source of cotton pickers because of alleged discriminatory practices, the Texas Council on Human Relations reported today.

Thomas S. Sutherland, Council Executive Director, revealed that the counties "may find that they do not satisfy the clause requiring no discriminatory conditions when they apply for Mexican farm labor," under a recent with the Mexican government.

He said that action should be taken "because otherwise farmers may invest in premature trips to Mexico in search of labor."

"Unless immediate action is taken to prevent it," he said, "careless human relations will rob the farmer of his labor and the merchant of his profit from sales to cotton pickers in about 50 Texas Counties."

The list included some of Texas' most popular counties—Bexar, Dallas, Jefferson and Tarrant.

However, Sutherland said that at least one county—Caldwell—was taking steps "to remove any accusation of discrimination."

He said that a delegation from that county had visited him and expressed intention to clear itself of any such charges.

Sutherland said these counties were in danger of losing Mexican farm labor.

New Crabgrass Killer

Only three simple steps are required to kill crabgrass with potassium cyanate. STEP No. 1—Carefully read and follow the directions found on each can of potassium cyanate crabgrass killer. STEP No. 2—Mix with water, in a pail or in the sprinker or sprayer itself. STEP No. 3—Spray it on. If the crabgrass is bad, spray the whole lawn. If it appears only as individual plants or in small patches, just spot spray at close range, as shown (3).

A NEW chemical is available this year which shows promise of ending the home owner's long and discouraging battle against his worst lawn enemy—crabgrass. Its name is potassium cyanate and it works by simply mixing it with water and sprinkling or spraying it on your lawn.

After five years of testing and perfecting, potassium cyanate has been proven safe, economical, simple to use and—most important—95 to 100 per cent effective. It is non-toxic enough to be used without danger around children or pets. It causes no permanent injury or even lasting discoloration to most basic grasses. And it can be used effectively on either seedlings or mature crabgrass plants.

The cost of using potassium cyanate averages one dollar per 1200 square feet of lawn when applied to young seedling crabgrass in the spring (about twice as much is required in late summer, when the crabgrass plants are in its hardy prime). For those who have larger lawns the cost will be much less.

PGA Too Tough for Hogan, Shows It Must Be a Grind

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

OKMONT, Pa.—(NEA)—Oakmont may no longer be Fowles' Folly, but the 64 who qualify for match play in The Professional Golfers' Championship through July 3 will still find it the famed Hades of Hulton.

The course outside of Pittsburgh remains long and tight. Traps number 142. The 621-yard 12th is one of the longest in the country. The layout, which had nine national tournaments in 23 years, then went 12 without one, measures 6582 yards. Par is 72.

Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret are not competing because the seven-day, 36-hole daily test is too much for their legs, which gives you a rough idea.

Pittsburgh's Dapper Dan Club is sponsoring the PGA, put up $45,000, the richest championship tournament prize in history.

Staging sports events since 1939, the Daps have turned over $168,000 to Pittsburgh charitable institutions in 12 years.

Samuel Jackson Snead's long game should give him a starting edge in another PGA. The incredible hillbilly manages to control his emotions in the PGA. Perhaps this is because it is considerably less important than the United States Open, although in more recent years the second biggest thing a golfer can win.

DR. CARY MIDDLECOFF is missing because of the PGA's five-year rule, but there are names galore—Mangrum, Ferrier, Jack Burke, Hefner, Broch, Palmer, Jim Turnesa. Lew Worsham is the home professional.

The PGA Cup has never left this country. Henry Ransom knocked Bobby Locke out in the first round at Detroit's Plum Hollow in 1947. Match play was the original game of golf. All amateur championships are at match play. It's man against man, and they like or hate it, according to their temperament. It's a suicide schedule. One loss, and you're out, yet there is more margin for error. A player can take 10 on a hole, and lose nothing more than the hole. That would destroy him in medal play, which demands perfection.

In the PGA, 18-hole rounds the first two days qualify 63 to go on at match play with the defending champion. The qualifiers eliminate one another in two 18-hole matches the first day of match play, with 36-hole matches for four days taking two to the final on the seventh. The PGA is the Battle of the Iron Men.

battered the ex-middleweight champion into such helplessness that he was unable to continue their scheduled 12-round bout before 21,257 in Yankee Stadium last night.

Lamotta, bleeding profusely from cuts on both brows and the side of his chin and from his nose, told his handlers he didn't "feel good" as he staggered to his corner when the bell ended action in the seventh round.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello examined him in the corner and told referee Ray Miller to stop the bout. Miller waved his arms, signifying that the bout was finished before the bell rang to open the eighth round. Murphy had won on a technical knockout.

Motorists madly ran red lights for three hours at the Highway 67 intersection here yesterday, but not a driver got a ticket—although many got stung.

The violations were caused by a swarm of bees which were chased out of grocery owner Joe Vaughn's store today and took to the stop sign in the middle of the intersection.

For three hours, the fire department, sanitation department and police department battled the bees, who preferred chasing motorists to settling in one catchable swarm.

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran who has kept "Jean Paul" an exclusive gown shop in his design, learns to walk again. His interest in designing had been kept up by Jean Roland, an ex-model and half-owner of the shop, whose interest is purely mercenary. But Tim is in love with her. Now able to walk, Tim goes to New York to surprise Jean. He is told by Miss Major, secretary to Paul Panciera, that Jean is attending the Cotillions' Ball, an exclusive fashion function at which the "Dress of the Year" will be chosen by a male jury. Tim manages to get in with a television unit and watches Jean model. The applause tells Tim that Jean had won a gown designed by him.

Still, Tim expected Mr. Panciera in his speech of acceptance to give some credit to the actual designer, to refer, even indirectly, to Tim himself. But Mr. Panciera made no even slight reference to Tim. He praised Jean and took the rest of the glory for himself.

Indeed, to Tim's complete exasperation, Mr. Panciera was smug about the award, accepting it with an egotism, passing the gown off as something he considered one of his lesser achievements.

Tim watched him glibly bow himself off the platform, nonchalantly acknowledging the applause, and his exasperation grew to anger. He belonged in this evening somewhere, he told himself. After all, he HAD designed the winning dress.

The music began. Again the dancers danced, and again the whirling, ever-changing pattern of black-and-white marionettes and radiantly jeweled and gowned creatures came to life. But it was no longer fantasy for Tim.

Somehow, falsehood and deceit had dispelled the celestial aura. Who was this tall, sharply-moustached, urbane and egotistical Mr. Panciera? Could he really be the unprepossessing, practically odious head of the firm that Jean had led him to picture on her first visit to Cedarbrook? And why hadn't Jean telephoned or written to him about this important evening? It was his creation she wore, wasn't it?

Tim, in the balcony, got laboriously to his feet. He was going to find the answers.

JIGGER, the bellboy, found Jean at the bar in the lounge of the Main Ballroom. She and Mr. Panciera were being gaily toasted by a group of admirers. He waited until the hubbub of the toast was over, then gave Jean the note he carried.

Indifferent to the contents of the note (Jean had had many notes in her life), she finished her wine before she read it.

Mr. Panciera noticed the shadow of shock across her face. He took the letter from her limp fingers, read it.

"No," he said in quick annoyance. "What does he mean turning up here without warning? No, he can't do this. Send word you are tired and have to go home. Tell him you will call him tomorrow."

Jean, still mute from shock, indicated Jigger who stood by waiting for instructions.

"The gentleman is waiting!" Mr. Panciera questioned the bellboy. Jigger jerked a thumb over his shoulder. "In the lobby."

Jean finally was able to speak. "I'll have to go." She lowered her voice. "I may not be able to come back for a while. Forget about me."

Jean followed Jigger toward the lobby while Mr. Panciera, frowning with annoyance, looked on.

THE lobby of the Empire was many-columned and very richly shadowed, and Jean, trailing Jigger, came upon Tim even before she saw him.

He, from a low, deep, cushioned chair, looked up at her, tall and slender in white against the softly shadowed background, and immediately a heavy left him. Never had he seen her at night before and never had he seen her so lovely.

She, looking down at him and discovering, instead of the helpless, pale creature of the wheel chair, a being extremely handsome and well-groomed young man, was startled.

Tim manages to get in with a television crew and watches Jean win a gown designed by him. He also sees Paul Panciera, Jean's former agent, in gold mannequin as the designer. Tim sends a note to Jean and, realizing a serious situation confronts the firm, Jean meets Tim.

At first, Jean did most of the talking. It was a great happiness for her, she told Tim, to see him out of the wheel chair. Now, she intimated, they could be together often in New York. That is, she smiled, if he wished it.

Then, before he had opportunity to question her, she abruptly sought to divert his mind of any doubts or suspicions he might have had. She had been so busy on her return to New York, she explained, she had not had a single minute to write or telephone.

The business of getting home had thrown her into complete confusion, and, on top of that, she said, the hasty preparations for the Ball had all but driven her mad.

Finally, she decided, she would not let Tim know of the Ball until it was over. She was certain, she said, the winter white gown would win the award. She thought it best to wait then and surprise him with the announcement.

But Tim had long since forgiven, or, more correctly, forgotten.

EARLIER, when they left the Empire, Tim thought they would be gone only a few minutes. But Jean, at Giulio's, at ease and enjoying herself, made no move to return. When Tim suggested perhaps it was time she should go back, she was amused.

"You are so much more fascinating than anyone there," she said.

"Now, wait a minute," Tim protested.

"Whose design won tonight?"

"But look who modeled it!"

"A model is only as good as what she wears." She was all candor now. "Here you are in New York, walking around handsome and healthy. What could be more exciting? I haven't begun to get over the surprise of seeing you—"

"—and I have an idea it'll take longer than tonight to get over the pleasure of it."

"Take as long as you like," she grinned. "We're both young. It sounds fine to me."

Paul Panciera alone troubled Tim's evening.

It was with some uneasiness that he mentioned him. Was he the Paul of the Jean Paul? Was he the ogre she had intimated the head of the firm to be?

JEAN was immediately wary. "I don't think anyone could consider him a Prince Charming—underneath."

"He has the old charm on the surface, I'll say that for him."

"He does make a pleasant appearance, and that is important in the business," Jean moved closed.

"I didn't want to describe him to you out at the hospital. I was afraid you'd be jealous."

Tim was pleased, soothed. "You knew even then I might be jealous of someone else?"

She laughed her intimate little laugh. "No one could ever call you subtle, Mr. Reese."

Thus easily was Mr. Panciera disposed of.

Looks Like 'Dollar Diplomacy' Keynotes U. S. Foreign Policy

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—The Washington answer to any international question that may arise still seems pretty much the same. It is:

"Pour a hundred million dollars or so into it, then hope that will make everything okay. For a while."

Most recent examples are Franco and Tito—Spain and Yugoslavia. Peron of Argentina is bailed out for $125 million, as a State Department project to promote good will.

The chief Republican criticism of the Truman administration policy toward Nationalist China is that not enough aid was given to Chiang Kai-shek. All he got was a couple of billions.

A new U. S. foreign policy towards the Middle-East, recently reported in this space, involves a proposed billion-dollar cash and loan outfit for tea or a dozen little countries at the eastern end of the Mediterranean.

SEN. PAT MCCARRAN of Nevada is the backer of Spain's Dictator Franco for his hundred million. Senator McCarran was elected as a Democrat. But there is no one in the Senate who is more opposed to most Truman policies than he. And whatever one may think of Senator McCarran's principles and methods, there are few if any senators who have more power and influence in getting what they want.

Last year, for instance, Senator McCarran got an amendment tacked on the Foreign Aid bill, requiring the U. S. government to loan Franco $62.4 million. Eight months later, the Franco government had not signed a single contract to borrow any of this money.

Senator McCarran therefore called to his office Herbert E. Gastler, president of Export-Import bank, Paul H. Foster of the Marshall Plan staff and William B. Dunham, on the Spanish desk of the State Department. There, in the presence of Spanish Ambassador, Senor Don Jose Felix de Lequerica y Arzuiza, Senator McCarran demanded an explanation on why no money had been paid out to Spain.

The senator's reason for this unprecedented action, attempting to bowl out American officials before the Spanish ambassador, was simple and direct. Senator McCarran said he wanted to introduce another measure to give Spain $100 million more this year.

Convinced that the delay in getting the money was not the fault of the American government, Senator McCarran then offered to speak to Franco, "because he's a good friend of mine," and hurry him up.

ON money for Tito, the United States fortunately doesn't have to fork over the whole $100 million this year. Under a three-way deal just worked out, Britain will furnish 23 per cent of it, France 12 per cent and the U. S. 65 per cent. This will be a grant. Yugoslavia isn't considered a good enough financial risk to make a loan to, yet.

Purpose of the gift will be to build Yugoslavia's economy and balance her foreign trade within the next year and a half. Tito's government is by no means solvent today. It owes money to Britain, France, Belgium, western Germany, Greece, Austria, Egypt and a $12 million loan to the U. S. Export-Import Bank, among others.

Yugoslavia had a bad drought last year. The U. S. gave Tito 560,000 tons of grain to help it over the hump. But exports, mostly minerals and lumber, fell off. This year's crops look better, and Yugoslavia may be able to export some surplus food to her western neighbors.

The Yugoslav "commodity" in which there is most interest seems to be this 350,000-man army. Fifty-five per cent of the Yugoslav $2.5 billion budget goes to support this force.

WORLD HOT SPOT—Iran government reportedly sent additional troops to Abadan refinery as result of Britain's dispatch to cruiser Mauritius to Persian Gulf. Cairo reports said British troops in Suez Canal Zone and on Cyprus were alerted should trouble develop during 72-hour evacuation of 2500 oil technicians from Abadan. Meanwhile British officials charged the flow of aviation gasoline to R.A.F. base at Basra, Iraq, has been cut by Iranians. Britain ordered 61 tanker in and around Abadan to leave at once, thus causing Aglia Jari oil field (east of Abadan) to cease pumping. (NEA Telephoto).

The U. S. Health Department assured Dr. Cox that although Congress had not finally approved the appropriation, there definitely was $75,000 earmarked for the Overton VD hospital.

Russian Designer Describes New MIG-15 Jet Plane

WASHINGTON, June 27 (UP)—Aviation circles were up in the air today over how a magazine got an article by Russian aircraft designer Mikhail I. Gurevich describing in detail the Soviet fighters now operating in Korea.

The article, called "I designed the MIG-15," was published under Gurevich's by-line in Aero Digest magazine. Gurevich presented a mass of performance figures on his country's high-speed jet fighter, and modestly ranked it as a rival "in some respects" of American planes.

Editor Fred Hamlin declined to reveal how he got the article. Aviation circles were unable to recall a similar case in which a plane designer described his product in this manner so soon after it entered battle.

Hamlin said, however, that prior to publication he had submitted the article to military and industry officials and "without exception (they) have been unable to doubt its accuracy and have not quarreled with a single sentence or figure."

U. S. aviation experts generally have believed that the MIG-15 was designed by the team of Mikoyan and Gurevich, although some

Tenant Farmer Invents New Weevil Killer

HENDERSON, June 28 (UP)—Farmers in this area today praised a "dream" invention of a 50-year-old Rusk County cotton raiser that exterminates boll weevils. E. E. Perry, a tenant farmer with 11 children, said he "clearly saw his invention in a dream" last summer after he had unsuccessfully fought the cotton-killing weevil in his 30-acre patch.

He demonstrated the "dream" contraption yesterday in a field of lush cotton near here. Some 50 skeptical farmers and civic leaders witnessed the test.

During the demonstration, Perry drove a tractor with machine attached up and down eight rows of cotton on the Charlie Brown farm, three miles east of Henderson.

Perry's complicated-looking machine works this way: A tank filled with the inventor's own special insecticide is on the hood of the tractor. This fluid flows downward through twin "tunnels" past the hot exhaust pipes of the tractor. The heat from the exhaust vaporizes the fluid and it is then sprayed through nozzles onto the rows of cotton. A large metal tray rests under the tractor to catch the falling weevils. After the test, Perry proudly called for the farmer present to

Texas Soldier Being Held On Murder Charge

BIG DELTA, Alaska, June 28 (UP)—Chester D. Pitts, 27-year-old Terrell, Tex., soldier, was being held by the army here today on a charge of manslaughter in the shooting of Pvt. Herbert E. Brown, 19, of Denver, Colo.

Army investigators yesterday released details of the slaying, saying Brown was shot after he passed up Pitts on the Alaska highway after Pitts' car had broken down. The car driven by Pitts stalled about three miles northwest of Big Delta, the investigators said, and he attempted to flag down a truck driven by Brown.

The GI and a passenger in the truck either did not see or ignored Pitts' signal, officers said. Angered, Pitts took his .30 caliber hunting rifle from the stalled sedan and fired three shots in the direction of the truck, investigators said.

One of the slugs entered the cab of the truck and deflected into Brown's head, killing him instantly.

Do You Know the Answer—
... to the little boy's question—"Daddy, what is an abstract and what kind of an abstract do we have to our place?" That's a searching question. If the answer is—"I don't know. All abstracts are about alike and one is as good as another"—it isn't a satisfactory reply. But if the answer is—"Son, we have a dependable abstract because I know the people who made it are dependable, and we won't worry about the rest", that's a good answer.

Plans Made At 1st Baptist

Rev. Ralph Perkins and family returned Wednesday from their vacation. John remained in Sweetwater for a longer visit with friends.

In the Wednesday night services, Rev. Ralph Perkins stated that Sunday school and church attendance could and would increase during the summer if the members would visit, pray and continue to grow spiritually during the summer.

The basement cannot be used Sunday because of the remodeling program in progress but the Presbyterian church and manse will be utilized for some departments of the Sunday school.

Places for the Training Union to meet will be announced.

The Thursday visitation will be resumed tonight. Visitors will contact absentees, prospective members and others who need them.

Rev. Perkins announced that the nominating committee will report Sunday on ones nominated for Sunday school superintendent and Training Union director for the coming church year.

Former Resident Visits Here

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Overholser of Anaheim, Calif., are visiting in Ranger this week.

Overholser used to have a plumbing business here and left in 1935 to go to Hobbs, New Mexico, and from there he moved to Anaheim, Calif., where he is in the real estate business.

Mr. Overholser stated that he was just having a good vacation, that he wanted a fishing pole and a hole of water, because you can't take anything with you when you leave so you might as well enjoy what you have.

THE REBEL YELL

By Darrell F. Holmes, Jr.

Hark the sound of Texas voices calling across the plains of West Texas, along the sunny shores of the Gulf Coast, through the pines of East Texas, and from the cotton fields of the Rio Grande Valley. The voices seem to be saying that Texas has had enough of the radical party in power posing as the Democratic Party of Thomas Jefferson and Andy Jackson.

The voices are being dimmed by the screaming of the radio, the state that we must elect a Democrat and that Harry Truman, the Red Dean, Marshall, Connally and the rest are good men. But just voice can not be drowned out. The gallant and honorable governor of Texas, Allan Shivers, has raised his voice against those who would destroy us. Yesterday, he

ADVICE TO TROUBLED WIVES

Going Through Change of Life

Afraid that your nervous, over-sensitive, irritable, and changeable nature is causing marital discord? Forget it! Thousands of wives are delighted as their husbands emerge and renewed zest for life, thanks to Cardin.

slapped directly at Tom Connally and others who pose as friends of Texas and turn around and do every thing against Texas and the South.

We want to be Democrats but there is no Democratic Party. Why then should we follow a cheap imitation? Only if the South will completely revolt from the present party, can we have once more a real true Democratic Party. The party of Jefferson and Jackson will survive in the hearts of millions of Americans who have faith in the traditional principles laid down by Jefferson and implied by Jackson for the betterment of human welfare supported by the majority and responsibility of Harry Truman and his crowd.

But unless we do something to rid America of the type of people that are now in power, we will never have the party and we will be led straight to Socialism and Communism. There is nothing lower, more contemptible, more filthy, more un-American, or as close kin to a dirty, sneaky rattle snake as a Communist or a Socialist person. There is no conceivable torture that is not too good for them. Yet, some of our best State Department boys learn in that way and wave the nasty Red flag.

We have many low-down, sneaking Communists in America. According to Walter Winchell we have a few in Eastland County and even in Ranger. If this be true, the citizens of Ranger should tar and feather the Communist dog. There is no "IF" in the fact that our country should do the same to those all over America.

Last year, in a small town in Southern Georgia, a merchant was pulled from his bed and his miserable life was ended with a good stiff rope. He had come to America as a boy and built a fortune. He was also a Communist and trying to destroy the America which had given him his chance. The FBI had his record but nothing was done to him. The citizens of that town knew what to do. We have no room for a Red in America.

Why is a newspaper like "The Daily Worker" in New York allowed to operate. It brings of being the newspaper of the American Communist Party. True we have freedom of the press. This writer, as a newspaper man would fight and die for that freedom. But it does not mean freedom to tear down America.

Lets get to work and get out who are the Communists and get them out of America. Lets get the radical more who back them out of Washington and lets get this country back belonging to the people where a man can keep what money he makes without paying it to a radical administration in foolish taxes to feed a bunch of lazy Communists on the government payroll and a bunch of people across the drink who tried to destroy us. Lets be Americans and let the rest of the world go to hell. The UN is the biggest joke in the world.

Republicans Plan Leaving The Red Dean Without Operating Funds...

WASHINGTON, June 28 (UP)—Republicans devised a new plan of attack on the State Department today. Their scheme: to leave the department without any operating funds when the 1951 fiscal year ends Saturday night.

An emergency measure to keep the State Department and all other federal agencies in operation through the month of July was approved by the House Appropriations Committee yesterday.

This is the customary procedure to follow when appropriations bills are still in the legislative mill near the end of a fiscal year. Ordinarily there is little or no opposition to this procedure.

But Rep. A. L. Miller, R., Neb., and his GOP colleagues told newsmen they have several objections to the present measure. Miller wants to eliminate the State Department from the list of agencies that can go on spending money.

Rep. John Taber, R., N. Y., wants to make the Federal Agencies stick to the reductions which the House and Senate have approved in various forms.

Both Miller and Taber plan to offer their proposals when the emergency spending measure is called up for House consideration tomorrow.

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly
COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Tim Reese, a crippled veteran, who has kept "Jean Paul's" an exclusive gowns shop in business with his designs, has fallen in love with the model Jean Holland, one of the owners of the firm. Jean leads Tim on, as a method of getting him to create beautiful gowns, although actually her interest is purely mercenary. Then Tim learns to walk as a result of an operation, and he goes to New York to surprise Jean. He watches Jean win the award for "The Dress of the Year" at an exclusive fashion show, and he sees Paul Panciera, Jean's partner, accept a gold mannequin as "the designer." Tim is surprised when he receives an airtight envelope a note to Jean, and she, realizing a serious situation confronts the firm, sends Tim, the man who has made her dream a reality, to ease Tim's troubled mind and the tense situation.

XXII

TIM REESE, in tranquil good spirits, nibbling cheese and sipping fine red burgundy that Guilio had produced as a special compliment to Jean Holland, began to relax. Tim talked now and Jean listened.

He told her of his cure, of his dreams, especially of his dream of a Jean Holland Shop with her in charge and with him as designer.

At this, Jean's eyes shone. Gone immediately was the concern that had troubled her since that moment earlier when the bellboy had led her to Tim in the lobby and she had discovered Tim was no longer a far-off person in a wheel chair.

At that first sight of Tim she had realized that Paul Panciera would no longer be able to pose as the designer genius of "Jean Paul," that, indeed, from then on Mr. Panciera might very well be much in the way.

Jean had made her decision quickly, audaciously, in that moment in the lobby. Now, as she heard Tim tell of his dream of a gown shop of her own, she knew how wise her decision had been.

She was very close to him and her voice was soft, personal, as she said, "Suppose we call the shop 'Teresa's,' darling? That is how we met and how it all began."

Tim looked at her, pleased and grateful, and lost himself completely. Now, when he talked again, his dream seemed no longer a dream, and time tinkled magically away to music, as the gnomish young pianist conjured from the keys the haunting pathos of Debussy.

Before long, even Jean was enchanted.

PAUL PANCIERA was waiting for Jean when she returned to the apartment late that night. He sat in an easy chair by the fireplace. On the table beside him stood the miniature gold mannequin awarded him at the Ball.

Neither spoke for a moment. He watched her carefully as she removed her wrap. Her movements were light, almost gay.

"Your mood eludes me, sweet," he said. "I gather, however, this time the young man did not give you the—what is it you call it?—the willies."

Jean did not answer. She went to the mirror, scrutinized herself and appeared pleased with what she saw. Mr. Panciera, his eyes never leaving her, got to his feet, went to her.

"What did he do?" he asked her. "Wheel you around in his chair all night?"

Again she did not answer.

"I hope I am not harassing you, but the evening proved very difficult after you left, with everybody questioning me about your disappearance, and my curiosity is, I think, quite legitimate." His smile was ironic. "I could hardly explain you had run off with a man in a wheel chair."

She turned away from the mirror and he could see the amusement in her eyes.

"He doesn't use a wheel chair any more, my love," she said.

It was Mr. Panciera's turn to be silent as he considered Jean's words. He had not expected this and it promised complications which he did not like to think about.

"I see. A miracle. He walks now?" He watched her even more carefully. "Will we be having him around very much, do you suppose?"

"Very much, I'm sure."

It was a moment before he spoke again. "It could prove very awkward, couldn't it?"

She smiled coolly. "I don't imagine he'd be very happy standing around watching you take the bows for his creations."

"His being around could prove very awkward for ME—is that your point?"

"That's about it, sir." She, still smiling, pointed to the gold mannequin on the table by the fireplace. "I'm afraid he wouldn't care to have you decorate your apartment with his trophies."

HE picked up the mannequin, held it up shining in the light. "It is a lovely thing. It seems a pity to waste it on such a primitive person."

She laughed softly. "I was under the impression it belonged to him."

"And my talent for discovering genius counts for nothing?"

"Just about."

"Your mood, sweet, still eludes me. Do I get the subtlest of hints that you may now be—let us say eager in helping me to solve the problem?"

It was evident she was enjoying his predicament. "I'm not sure I want it solved."

was given "a fair chance" to recover. Police withheld charges against the suspect pending further reports on the wounded woman's condition.

The gunman, remarried and the father of three children, entered the store and walked over to the counter where the woman was employed as cashier. Clerks heard him say: "You'll die for this."

He drew a .32 caliber pistol and fired five times. The bullets broke glass in show counters and ricocheted off the walls, terrifying a score of Tulsa shoppers.

Mrs. Russell apparently was hit as she fled toward the rear of the store. Moaning, she crawled into a counter and lay there until an ambulance arrived.

The gunman wheeled and warned clerks and customers in the store: "Don't anyone move or I'll kill you." As he attempted to retreat from the scene, police said, a customer, J. E. Weichel, 30, carefully laid aside his glasses and grabbed him.

United Nations headquarters stood by today for instructions from Washington on a possible Korean cease-fire conference.

Russia officially suggested to U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk in Moscow yesterday that the North Korean and United Nations field commanders negotiate a truce in the year-old war.

Headquarters officers kept a tight-lipped silence on the possibility of cease-fire talks, but observers here believed concrete developments might be near.

Crime Probe To Include Six More Tex. Cities

AUSTIN, June 28 (UP)—The House crime investigating committee announced today that it has discussed "at least four" more Texas cities as targets in its probe of organized crime in the state.

Chairman Fred V. Merdith declined, however, to name any city under discussion on the ground that it would hamper pre-hearing investigation.

He said that the committee's investigation of crime at Galveston was not necessarily over.

"We hope," Merdith said, "that they will start showing down (with information) now that they know we mean business."

The committee yesterday ended a two-day hearing as a proposal to put gambling, prostitution and sale of liquor-by-the-drink on a "local option" basis was advanced by Galveston Mayor Herbert Y. Cartwright.

Merdith said the committee had received "a lot" of letters, some signed anonymously, from Galveston citizens who were afraid to testify. Some of them, he said, were signed "a citizen" and "a true, taxpaying citizen."

North Korea Is Asking A Voice

TOKYO, June 28 (UP)—Communist North Korea has asked to be given a voice in a Japanese peace conference demand by Russia.

The Soviet Union made the demand June 19 in a note to United States Ambassador Alan G. Kirk in Moscow, stipulating that Communist China should participate also.

The North Korean request was broadcast by the Red Pyongyang radio and heard in Tokyo. It said

Korea for 40 years had been under Japanese domination and many Koreans died under Japanese pressure. It added that Korea is a neighbor country of Japan and that the two maintain close relations.

Youths Smug After Arrest

ARLINGTON, Va., June 28 (UP)—Two husky youths, smug and smart alecky, showed little concern today that they may face death for dragging a 19-year-old bride from her bed and raping her four times.

One "guessed" he would go to the electric chair. Officials said neither of the confessed abductor rapists appeared worried.

The two held in jail are John R. Pilk, 19, Arlington, and William R. Payne, 25 Bethesda, Md., both automobile mechanics.

They calmly showed police yesterday where they attacked Mrs. Nancy Ann Hotchkiss, beautiful blonde socialite from Winnetka, Ill., at a recreation spot not far from the nation's capital after kidnapping her early yesterday.

The two had dragged the bride of only eight days through a window of her ground floor apartment while her husband, Ens. James K. Hotchkiss, lay helpless in their bed—covered by a rifle.

The girl, who had been unclothed, was permitted to put on a blue negligee. Hotchkiss, a recent Dartmouth graduate, is assigned to the Pentagon.

Polk and Payne were captured within two hours after the kidnapping. Held without bond, they were charged with burglary and abduction with attempt to commit rape. They faced probable rape charges in Fairfax County, where the rape occurred. The maximum penalty for rape in Virginia is death.

Arlington Commonwealth Attorney Denman Rucker said Polk and Payne started "joking about the whole thing" as soon as they were arrested.

Crazed Gunman Kills Officer

INDIANAPOLIS, June 27 (UP)—A crazed gunman who wanted to "shoot me a couple of cops" killed a policeman last night and shot it out with officers for half an hour before he was cut down.

Police used tear gas and machine guns to kill John Hoard, 37, after he had lured two officers to his home and shot both of them.

Officer Clarence G. Snordon died of a bullet wound in the chest and his companion, Thomas H. Williams, was in critical condition today.

Hoard's wife, Mary, said he had a violent quarrel with her last night and then said "I'm going to shoot me a couple of cops so they will shoot me and get it over with."

He then telephoned police headquarters and said he was "going out and shoot a man."

"He figured that would bring them back quick," his wife said.

The two patrolmen were sent to investigate and Hoard fired on them as they came up the front walk. Neither had a chance to fire back.

Neighbors called police and his wife escaped through the back door as the half-hour battle started.

Freedom Ends For Escapee

KERVILLE, June 29 (UP) — Fourteen years of borrowed liberty ended today for 48-year-old Clarence Cahill, escapee from the Illinois State Prison.

Cahill, who had been working on a ranch here under the name of Allen Baker, admitted his true identity when officers confronted him with his fingerprint record.

The fugitive was fingerprinted five days ago when picked up on a routine investigation, officers said. The result was the belated discovery that Cahill escaped from the Illinois prison in 1937 and has been hunted since.

He had served five years of a one to twenty-year sentence as an accessory in a Jacksonville, Ill., armed robbery.

The escapee was well known in Kerville and said he had "tried to live a clean life" until the law tapped him on the shoulder.

He said he had worked at

Dallas Woman Volunteers

HOUSTON, June 29 (UP) — Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Loyd Frazier said today that a 23-year-old Dallas woman who is visiting here had volunteered to submit to questioning of her whereabouts on the night oil rigger Frank W. West was shot to death.

Frazier said she was the sister-in-law of a 22-year-old Houston man who was released Tuesday night after a lie detector test failed to connect him with the 18-month-old mystery murder.

West died several days after he was shot on Christmas Eve of 1949 following a minor traffic accident.

Crime Probe To Include Six More Tex. Cities

AUSTIN, June 28 (UP)—The House crime investigating committee announced today that it has discussed "at least four" more Texas cities as targets in its probe of organized crime in the state.

Chairman Fred V. Merdith declined, however, to name any city under discussion on the ground that it would hamper pre-hearing investigation.

He said that the committee's investigation of crime at Galveston was not necessarily over.

"We hope," Merdith said, "that they will start showering down (with information) now that they know we mean business."

The committee yesterday ended a two-day hearing on a proposal to put gambling, prostitution and sale of liquor-by-the-drink on a "local option" basis advanced by Galveston Mayor Herbert Y. Cartwright.

Merdith said the committee had received "a lot" of letters, some signed anonymously, from Galveston citizens who were afraid to testify. Some of them, he said, were signed "a citizen" and "a true, taxpaying citizen."
