TEXANS TO BE EDUCATED ON MOTOR VEHICLE SAFETY LAW

AUSTIN, July 27 (Sp)—Homer Garrison, Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, today announced his intentions of calling upon the State's newspapers and radio stations to assist this department in putting the "damper" on the false rumors and misinformation that is currently being spread in some circles concerning Texas' new Motor Vehicle Safety Responsibility Law.

Garrison emphasized that the State will conduct a thorough educational program in November and December to acquaint the public accurately and adequately with the purposes and requirements of the law which will become effective next January 1st.

At the same time, director Garrison warned the public not to believe statements that the statute is now in effect or that it is a compulsory insurance law. He emphatically pointed out that the law will have no effect upon motor vehicle owners and operators until January 1st and declared that under no condition or circumstances will it compel motorists to carry automobile liability insurance.

The State will be clearly identified as such, and it will be official, according to Garrison.

In calling upon the press and radio for assistance, Garrison stated: "I am asking the public-spirited newspapers and radio stations of Texas to cooperate with the Department of Public Safety, on behalf of the State, in a plan to give our people all the true facts. I am confident that they will do so. This educational program will begin November 1st, two months before the law becomes effective. In the meantime, I hope the people of Texas will not permit themselves to be misled again about this new law, which was enacted for their greater safety and financial protection."

New Locations In Bankline Owens Field

Price Changes Announced

A representative of the Fort Worth OPS holding a price clinic for local merchants here July 26 has announced several changes in price regulations which may affect some Ranger businesses.

Mr. Herman Golden, who conducted the price clinic, said Supplementary Regulations 39 and 40 to the General Ceiling Price Regulation have made possible rate adjustments for contract motor carriers and local pick-up, delivery and transfer services in instances where operation costs have increased.

The OPS field worker stated that details of the provision for rate increases could be obtained from the Fort Worth District OPS.

In Supplementary Regulations 13 to Ceiling Price Regulation 22, the OPS has provided that bedding manufacturers may continue identical pricing of mattresses and matching box springs if that has been their established practice in the past.

Mr. Golden said the next price clinic for Ranger will be held August 9, beginning at 9:00 a.m. in the Retail Merchants Association Building.

UN ADVANCE BASE BELOW KAESONG, Korea, July 27 (UP)—Korean cease-fire negotiations discussed the location of a buffer zone across Korea at their 11th conference today and reached agreement "in principle" on administrative matters to speed an armistice.

The meeting at Kaesong lasted 1 hour and 15 minutes and adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow (8 p.m. Friday EDT).

The UN announced that Allied delegates detailed with words and maps their views on the demilitarized zone which will separate Communist and UN Armies. The Communists asked an overnight recess to prepare their reply.

Both sides named staff officers to work out administrative and procedural matters designed to expedite final achievement of a military armistice and cease-fire, a UN release said.

"The ground covered in the talks was 'purely military,'" the release said, but it appeared that the meeting had progressed more than expected.

Two Car Collision On Highway 80 East Of Ranger

A collision involving two out-of-state cars occurred on Highway 80 East, inside the Ranger city limits.

Witnesses to the accident stated that the 1950 Mercury going east came up behind another car going in the same direction and was unable to stop quickly enough to avoid running into the rear of the car in front. The Mercury whipped around the car it was following and met a 1951 Packard traveling west on the highway. The two cars collided when the Mercury was unable to pass the car in front.

Extensive damage was done to both cars involved in the wreck. The left front sides of both cars were damaged beyond recognition.

The occupants of both cars were taken to the hospital, but the extent of injuries or names and addresses of the persons have not been released.

Ramona, the only daughter, is training to become a missionary and is assistant organist at her father's church.

Civilian Goods Cut Five Per Cent

WASHINGTON, July 27 (UP)—The government today ordered another five percent slash in the production of automobiles and other civilian goods during the last three months of the year.

This will mean a total slash of 40 percent below pre-Korea levels for cars and 35 percent for other consumer durable goods such as refrigerators, washing machines, television sets, furniture, and similar items.

The cuts were dictated by Defense Production Administrator Manly Fleischmann in an announcement of allotments of steel, copper, and aluminum for the military, for defense supporting industries, and for civilian manufacture in the fourth quarter of 1951.

Fleischmann said the new cut for automobiles means manufacturers will be permitted to make "somewhat more than 1,100,000 cars" in the October-December period.

They are allowed to make 1,200,000 in the July-September period. NPA officials said that with 3,100,000 cars produced in the first half of the year, the permitted level of output for the second half would bring total estimated 1951 production to 6,400,000 cars. This would give the industry its second highest production year, exceeded only by 1950, when 6,600,000 cars were manufactured. In 1949 the figure was 5,100,000.

Flood Areas Get Cleanup Going

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., July 27 (UP)—The flooded Mississippi and Missouri rivers fell rapidly today and river folk hoped the impact of the Midwest's "billion dollar flood" was over.

The muddy waters dropped along a 200-mile stretch of the Mississippi south of Alton, Ill., and the flood appeared to be pouring safely into the broad sweep of the river south of Cairo, Ill.

The Missouri, which had left the worst havoc on its two-week rampage, was still above flood stage from Boonville to St. Charles, Mo., but was falling rapidly.

The massive cleanup job continued in Kansas City, where a foul smelling blanket of 10,000,000 tons of oil-soaked silt covered much of the city.

In Washington, Army Secretary Frank C. Pace, Jr., asked Congress for an additional $87,775,000 to help prevent another disastrous flood in the two-state area.

Car Overtakes Killing One

HOUSTON, July 27 (UP)—An 18-year-old youth was killed and three of his companions, including two girls, were injured seriously when their old model convertible went out of control and overturned on a sharp curve south of here early today.

Deputy Sheriff Jimmy Scarborough identified the dead youth as Earl Richard Martin, of Houston. He died from a crushed head and chest.

The other injured were: Charles Edward Petty, 19, who suffered a skull fracture; Miss Jimma Turrow, 17, a fractured skull; and Miss Janice Maxine McCarthy, 17, Jacinto City, possible fractures of both ankles and serious cuts.

Scarborough said young Martin apparently was the driver. He said the four were returning to Houston after a date.

The accident occurred on a sharp curve on the Bayshore Road about a quarter of a mile north of the ferry landing.

The deputy said "they apparently were going too fast to make the curve." Three of the youths were pinned under the automobile when the ambulance arrived.

UN PRESENTS THEIR VIEWS ON ZONE WITH WORDS, MAPS

By Ernest Hoberecht

UN ADVANCE BASE BELOW KAESONG, Korea, July 27 (UP)—Korean cease-fire negotiations discussed the location of a buffer zone across Korea at their 11th conference today and reached agreement "in principle" on administrative matters to speed an armistice.

The meeting at Kaesong lasted 1 hour and 15 minutes and adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow (8 p.m. Friday EDT).

The UN announced that Allied delegates detailed with words and maps their views on the demilitarized zone which will separate Communist and UN Armies. The Communists asked an overnight recess to prepare their reply.

Both sides named staff officers to work out administrative and procedural matters designed to expedite final achievement of a military armistice and cease-fire, a UN release said.

"The ground covered in the talks was 'purely military,'" the release said, but it appeared that the meeting had progressed more than expected.

Location of the demilitarized zone is the toughest item on the cease-fire agenda. It had been expected that this point, No. 2 on the program, would be argued out to a settlement before point No. 3—details of the actual cease-fire—was reached. But, a UN spokesman said, both points were taken up today.

The meeting started at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. Thursday EDT), with Gen. Nam Il, top Communist negotiator, reading a statement on the administrative and procedural matters introduced yesterday by Chief UN Delegate Vice Admiral C. Turner Joy. Nam Il said he "agreed in principle" with Joy's points.

Both teams promptly named staff assistants to get to work on these details while the big business of the meeting proceeded.

The preliminary handling of the smaller details took only 18 minutes and Joy then read a statement which outlined the UN stand on the demilitarized zone.

Joy and Nam Il bent over the conference table, leaning on their elbows with their heads almost together, to study military maps on which the UN proposals were diagrammed.

When Joy finished what the UN release termed a "sparsely phrased and logical presentation" Nam Il requested adjournment. The Communists did not express any opinion on Joy's remarks but were given the military maps to study privately.

The meeting ended at 11:15 a. m. (9:15 p.m. Thursday EDT). Joy and his staff conferred alone.

for nearly an hour before boarding their four helicopters for the return hop to their advance base, arriving there at 12:30 p.m. (10:30 p.m. Thursday EDT).

It was felt here that agreement on point 3—details of the cease-fire—would be comparatively easy once the thorny problem of the neutral zone is worked out. It was also felt that a formal cease-fire order may come before agreement on agenda points 4 and 5, which deal with prisoners of war and "recommendations to be made to the governments of the countries concerned on both sides."

It had seemed obvious that point 5's "recommendations" would cover proposals for withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea after a cease-fire is effected.

Peiping radio said it point 5, as presented by Communists and accepted by UN, covered proposals for conferences to draw "by troops. The question at a certain point in the plan is to hold a yield of we strengthen."

A UN spokesman said "In the UN release, the word 'yield' is a hold-over from the UN release of the word 'strengthen'."

Posting Of Meat Prices Suspended

Pending final action by Congress on extension of price control legislation, the Office of Price Stabilization Wednesday suspended until further notice the requirement that retail meat dealers post their beef ceiling prices.

OPS previously postponed the posting date to August 1, however, uncertainties as to congressional action makes it inadvisable for OPS to order the printing of meat price posters at this time, said Ellis H. Boyd, Fort Worth District OPS director.

The action in no way affects the requirement that all retail prices for beef must be listed on the tray which the cuts are displayed and that these prices must be at or below ceilings, Boyd said.

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Will Public React Favorably on National Defense Expansion?

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Pentagon brass is currently laying down a heavy barrage of statements for a bigger U. S. national defense effort. More men, ships, planes, guns and bases at home and overseas are being talked about.

First impression given by all this talk is that Department of Defense is planning for U. S. armed services far bigger than the three-and-a-half million man force now authorized. The cost of any such force would of course be far beyond the $60 billion authorization now being asked of Congress for this year.

Careful investigation reveals that none of these plans has yet felled to the point of being a firm military program. Most of the estimates on future military requirements are in the nature of trial balloons, to see how the public will react to them.

A number of these statements are worth noting:

- 1. Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg's reference to the U. S. "shoestring" airforce. This was in his testimony before the Senate's investigation into General MacArthur's firing.
- 2. Admission by the Air Force that, with 93 wings now authorized, plans were being made for expansion to 120, 150 and 180 wings. Cost of such an Air Force is estimated at $30 billion a year.
- 3. Admiral Forrest Sherman, Chief of Naval Operations, on his return from Korea, called attention to the fact that the three-and-a-half million man defense force now being built up was authorized before the Korean war broke out in June 1950. The only difference the war had made was that the plan to build up this force by 1954 had been speeded up for completion by 1952.
- 4. The Navy's million-man share of this plan was to put 1161 ships on active duty. This force is being built around 12 aircraft carriers, with 14 wings of planes and two and a half divisions of Marines.
- 5. Congress itself produced a plan for increasing Marine strength to four full divisions, but the Joint Chiefs of Staff are against it.

6. The Navy is planning now to try to activate another carrier and additional destroyers by reassignment of manpower now authorized.

7. Army's original pre-Korean expansion plan called for one-and-a-half million men in 18 divisions, plus 18 regimental combat teams. Army Chief of Staff, General J. Lawton Collins now talks of adding six more divisions. But these new divisions are to come largely from reassignment of the regimental combat teams and men now in ten training divisions.

8. President Truman has just sent to Congress a request for $6.5 billion for defense bases, in this country and abroad. Air Force wants 77 additional bases, many of them on the perimeter of Soviet Russia's iron curtain. Army wants $50 million for nine stand-by camps, to be readied for use in case of all-out mobilization and a bigger draft call.

9. Assistant Director of Budget Elmer E. Staats recently shocked the Senate Finance committee by saying that the total government expenditures in 1953 would be $90 billion to $95 billion. Of this, $55 billion to $65 billion would be for the military.

The catch in these figures is that they include approximately $10 billion for foreign military assistance and for the U. S. atomic energy program. So the peak of direct U. S. military expenditures would be $55 billion in 1953, as compared with $40 billion to be spent this year out of the $60 billion authorized budget.

For costs and size of the armed forces beyond 1953, nothing has yet been decided. There will probably be considerable changes in units in the next six months. But they will all come within the present three and a half million man armed force ceiling. To raise the armed forces beyond four million men would require a new act of Congress.

Sheer Beauty
Plaids for Summer

BY GAILE DUGAS, NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The place of plaid in fashion is assured the year around. This summer, it takes its rightful place in a wardrobe in the form of a sheer. Sheer cottons are strong hot weather favorites; in plaid, they're doubly acceptable this year.

A fabric designed by Hope Skillman is used for a junior cotton (left) that has the repeated pattern of a man's handkerchief. This is an opaque sheer in blue overlaid with brown. Sleeves are brief, neckline is squared, a narrow belt in brown carries out the feeling of the fabric design. The skirt falls into soft, unpressed pleats.

The American designer, McKelrick, has done up dotted swiss (right) in a summer plaid for city wear. In shades of tobacco brown, it has tiny sleeves that just cap the shoulders, a narrow collar and neat front closing. A full skirt is gathered onto a trim waist that's encircled by a brown velvet belt.

'Black Ink — What's That?'

KILLER'S PACE
BY JULIUS LONG

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: In order to save Rose Bidauld from the electric chair, Star Williams, her lawyer and my (Jim Marshall's) boss, implored with the evidence and in exposed after Rose was acquitted. The only thing that can save Star from dishonor is to prove Rose innocent. But a few hours after she was released, she is murdered. One of the leads I turned up led to Carl Prater's barbed wire farm in which Rose's late husband was a partner. Following as a next accountant, I want a demonstration of these results in one of which a pretty girl, Clara Markham, is submerged in water.

KITTY COYLE told me when I reached the office that Star Williams had been trying to locate the lady magician Sonya Saraceta and I found him in his private office reading the stock final which carried the headline about Andy Tanner's filing disbarment charges against Star.

"Five will get you 10 Madam Sonya's tied up with Carl Prater. I told you about the La Jolla being his favorite night spot. How did you happen to meet that dame in the first place?"

Star looked uncomfortable at the question but said: "I went out to the La Jolla Club last night. I figured that I'd lost Rose Bidauld to the hot seat, and there was nothing I could do about it. I thought maybe a night club would relieve the tension and maybe I'd think of some angle. It was a lousy show, and I was about set to go when Sonya came on with her magic act."

"It was a trick she did with a revolver that rang the bell. She got some jerk from the audience to come up and load the revolver with six live cartridges. Then she fired the gun six times in the general direction of the audience. Everybody was diving under tables and chairs, thinking she'd gone nuts. Of course she'd switched the leads to blanks, and she was far enough away from the ringside tables to prevent the wads from striking anyone. "I saw my way out of the Bidauld case. I got an introduction through Al Nansbarro, who owns the La Jolla Club.

"An automatic is so much more complicated than a revolver, and she knew nothing about throwing off the safety device that prevents discharge from jar. But finally I persuaded her to try to teach me. It so happened that she had a duplicate of Rose Bidauld's gun, duplicate that is, except for the pearl-handled grip. I figured out a way to gimmick the safety, and she spent all night teaching me how to do it sleight-of-hand."

I had been around Star too long to let him fool me. There was a lot more to it than that. I read ironically, "I suppose you think it's coincidence that Carl Prater spends so much of his time at La Jolla Club. And that McNamara went to see Prater right after his visit to Larry Stone."

"Rose gave me a wry glance. "Wouldn't it be odd if Rose Bidauld's story were on the level? Look at it—Rose and Stone, alone in her house, heard a pistol shot in the room outside. Larry ran out first. It's possible that Larry saw the killer, that he's known the killer from the start."

I got the idea, Blackmail. "So that's the way you tie up Stone with Prater?"

"It's just an idea to kick around, till a better one comes along."

I read his mind. It was something, the idea that Carl Prater could have murdered both Barney and Rose.

"Let me take care of Stone. If he did see the killer, I guarantee to deliver the killer's name."

Star held up a deprecatory hand. "No, Jim. This thing will require finesse. I've been trying to find Sonya. I want to give her further instructions about how to handle Stone.

"But Nick Ricardo wouldn't have got the shots if she hadn't talked to someone. You know that!"

"I think someone else must have tipped off Ricardo. Sonya would never do a thing like that merely for publicity."

I was dumfounded. Star is as smart as they come, but even the smartest man gets taken for a ride by a beautiful girl, and Sonya was certainly that. I couldn't stand seeing him deluded and wasting his time on her. So I made an excuse, left the office and drove to Fountain Square. There's a joint there called Dan's Place, and Nick Ricardo practically lived there.

When Ricardo had first spied me he became slightly pale. I had grinned and given him a nod toward a back booth. There he had come somewhat warily.

"Star bears you no ill-will," I told him. "He knows that you were only doing your job. But he is fighting with his back against the wall, and the least you can do for him is to level about your tip to shoot those pix. Let's not be cov. Rick. Information is your business, and I can't give you information for an answer to my question."

Ricardo's ears pricked up, and his black eyes fairly snapped. "Well, I'm always ready to play ball, Jim. You know that."

I hoped he didn't know that Star had already phoned Max Feinstein about Rose Bidauld's new version of Barney's murder.

"Rose gave me a different version of the murder this morning. I think that's why she was stabbed shortly afterwards. I've a hunch the killer was right in the house, maybe the next room all the time listening to every word she said. Now who phoned that tip?"

"Well, I didn't say I could tell you that. Maybe when—"

I reached across the table and grabbed him by the neck. I squeezed, and his eyes popped. I his go and he wheeled angrily.

"I was going to tell you anyway! You didn't have to get tough about it!"

Cubs Defend Deal for Pafko; They Needed Edwards, Miksis

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—When the Cubs dealt Andy Pafko to the Dodgers, practically everybody agreed that Wid Matthews should be on the dance cap, and go to the high chair in the front left-hand corner of the room.

Pafko, Terwilliger, Schmitz and Walker moved from Wrigley to Field in exchange for Bruce Edwards, Miksis, Hermanski and...

Everybody was of the opinion that Philip K. Wrigley pulled another skull, something for which it has become a connection with swags down through the years. Among a handful of dissenters, it develops, are the Cubs themselves.

"To give something to get something," says Dutch Leonard, "this fellow here," and the 41-year-old butterfly bowler Edwards. The latter was the best catcher in the circuit when Campanella dislodged him.

Cubs stepped in at second base, and with the return of Roy Cullenbine, a Graze A double-play combination for the long while.

Space Travel Not Far Away

The U.S. is on the verge of real space travel, The American Magazine says in its August issue.

By applying techniques already known to American scientists we can construct space ships that could go to the moon and even Mars. It's not mainly a matter of money and effort, writes Vance Packard in his American Magazine article "Jet Ride to Tomorrow." Pointing out that our planes and missiles are flying higher, and higher, The American Magazine article says Air Force officials hope that the secrecy-shrouded Douglas X-3 (or modifications of the X-3) will climb to the staggering height of 300,000 feet (57 miles). Our unmanned missiles are going as high as 250 miles into the sky.

Up at extreme altitudes where there is little to hold them back, planes and missiles can travel at fantastic speeds. And they are out of the range of enemy ground fire, Packard says in explaining why the military is stressing this type of research.

Packard learned how it feels to ride in a jet when he took a trip with Maj. Don Dessert of the Elgin, Fla. Air Force Base. Dessert's new F-94 turbojet fighter plane took the writer up to an altitude of 40,000 feet where the temperature outside the plane was 70 degrees below 0.

In a realistic appraisal of flying at high altitudes, The American Magazine article points out that there are still important barriers such as temperature shifts, air storms, lethal cosmic rays plus human problems of surviving at altitudes where oxygen and pressure start disappearing.

Economy Recipe For A Quality Desert

These hot summer days it doesn't seem possible to serve your family all the ice cream they can eat — for lunch, dinner, and as a between-meal refresher. If you're budget conscious — and who isn't these days—here's a recipe for a frozen dessert your family will love.

You just combine milk and freezing mix—use any one of the 4 flavors—vanilla, chocolate, maple or imitation strawberry. Freeze it, beat it once for extra smoothness and there you have it, a cool, cool dessert that "hits the spot" on the hottest day. And best news is that it costs less than 25c to make, and you get 4 to 5 servings.

It's so good, you can serve it for company dessert in the same elegant ways you serve ice cream. Here's the easy recipe.

1 1/2 cups milk, 1 package flavored freezing mix.

Beat contents of package into milk with rotary beater until dissolved. Pour into freezing tray. When frozen firm, remove from tray to bowl. Break up with fork. Beat with electric or hand beater until fluffy. Freeze until firm but not too hard.

Ford Surpasses Sammy Baugh

ABILENE—John (Model T) Ford, throwing quarterback star for the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys superseded Sammy Baugh's major college record of 267 pass completions last season the 1951 NCAA Football Guide reveals.

Ford's 111 completions last fall brought his four year total for the Cowboys to 291, not counting some post-season performances.

The Breckenridge, Texas, star, who is signed to play with the Philadelphia Eagles this fall, helped pass Warren B. Woodson's Cowboys to the number two position in the nation last year in pigskin throwing.
The Cowboys were listed second behind another Texas eleven, Southern Methodist University. Ford was second in overhead yardage in 1950 with 1,777 yards which ranks as the third best passing figure of all time.

Ford's 111 completions last fall was the sixth best effort in the nation and enabled him to rank fifth nationally in total offense with a mark of 1,720 yards.

The 23-year-old, 160 pound star completed 26 touchdown passes in the 1949 campaign, an achievement that surpasses anything on record. While at the Cowboy school, Ford pitched five touchdowns in three games, against Wichita, Loyola (Los Angeles) and Trinity.

On Safe Side
KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (UP)—James R. Johnson, 29, was fined $50 and costs and his driver's license was suspended for one year for drunken driving. However, he wanted an added penalty: would Mayor Robert Moses put him on the "black list" at local taverns? The mayor obliged.

"This is my Property—

... and I can prove it" was an announcement displayed on a signboard placed in front of a farm home which all motorists could see as they passed that way. As we read the words we wondered why it was necessary to have such a notice anyway. If this man really owned the place and could prove it, he had a good title, probably a title policy, both based on an abstract. No other proof or notice would be necessary.

Kincaid's Have 3600 Turkeys

Mr. Alvin Kincaid and two sons Robert and Don, who live about twelve miles west of Ranger on the Breckenridge Highway, have been engaged for sometime in the ranching business, but last year they started raising some turkeys on the side line.

They started last year with 1600 turkeys, and when the Thanksgiving and Christmas market opened, they sold the gobblers and kept the hens. This year they now have 3600 turkeys. Eight hundred are three months old and the rest are only two weeks old. They are equipped to raise these turkeys in complete confinement. They are never allowed out on the range. This year they plan to sell the gobblers and keep the hens, thus having even more turkeys next year.
