

SEEN OR HEARD

Tonight is when the kids from the two grammar schools strut their stuff at the Recreation Building before family, friends and neighbors.

The two elementary schools include the first six grades, constituting of over 400 kids, and if we heard right they will all be part of the program tonight.

We omitted the name of "Happy" Harrison who was also a winner in the tournament at the Country Club last Sunday. His net score was also 72, giving him a share in the first place with Earl Conner, Jr., and Pat Brasher.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit is in Cisco today, where their citizens will give their blood.

We believe that Ranger did very well in the two days the unit was here. Although there was some slack time for the workers on Wednesday from about 11:00 in the morning until three that afternoon.

Everyone survived, not a body was left when they moved to Cisco yesterday afternoon.

It is about time for some softball team to start cropping up in our fair city. Last year there was only one, and a very good one it was, competing all over this area with other clubs.

Mr. Phillips of the F&R Oil Co. said that his place may sponsor the same team again this year if they can get them all together again, an idea they sponsor one.

Arle Carver Is New Manager Of Quality Food

Arle Carver, well known grocerman of Ranger, has been employed by J. O. Earnest and P. L. Crossley as manager of the Quality Food Market here.

Arle is not a newcomer to the grocery business, nor to Ranger, having been associated with several other stores, as well as owning one himself on the site of the present Quality Food Store.

Prior to his employment as manager of Quality he had been employed by the S&H Green Stamp concern as a salesman in his Louisiana territory. He and his wife and son resided in that state for a short while, but are once more living at "home" on the Breckenridge Highway, west of town.

Carver stated that he believes that with his 24 years experience in this work, 16 of them in Ranger, he will be able to operate the store in such a manner as to afford a convenient shopping service for the patrons.

Carver stated that some rearrangement may be made in the store to facilitate the more convenient service he hopes to offer.

British Give Up Hunt For Two Missing Men

The British Foreign Office reportedly has decided to close its books on the case of missing diplomats Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess.

The London Daily Mail said the authorities have determined to "cease further active inquiries" about the pair. The two Britons vanished more than nine months ago, and may have gone behind the Iron Curtain. The Foreign Office refused to comment on the newspaper report.

'Picnic Weather' Engulfs State; Wind Changes Dampen Rain Hopes

Balmy weather today turned Texas into a tempting 170-million acre picnic ground for everybody but the drouth-worried farmer, who figures the sunshine frolics will be at his expense.

The state is only faintly cloudy and warm. Forecasters say the spring-like cycle will hold sway for "several days."

Earlier, there had been a cautious prophesy of rain to aid the moisture hungry areas of West and South Texas. But the wind has switched to the northeast, holding back moisture formations lingering over the Gulf of Mexico.

It was 76 degrees at Presidio yesterday, and the low maximum was 55, recorded at Dalhart and

Capt. Daskevich Receives DSC Earned in 1945

Capt. Anthony F. Daskevich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daskevich, Route 3, Ranger, CO 18th Ord MM Co, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for extraordinary heroism in action during World War II.

Unknown to Daskevich he has been entitled to wear the DSC, the Nation's second highest military decoration, since October 18, 1945. But with the deactivation of his unit and subsequent rapid demobilization of U. S. forces in Europe following the war, orders were never delivered to him.

Last week, however, a certified copy of the original order finally caught up with Daskevich in Karlsruhe, Germany.

The citation reads in part: "On April 7, 1945, near Kressbach, Germany Daskevich (then a platoon leader in Co. C, 753d Tank Bn) was outposting his tanks when enemy bazooka teams infiltrated under the cover of a heavy artillery barrage. Braving murderous machine gun fire to contact his crews, he helped rout the enemy with small arms fire and grenades, then remained in the town covering friendly forces while they maneuvered.

The following day while moving his tank to a dangerously exposed position, he forced an enemy self-propelled gun to withdraw and silenced a flak wagon. The courageous actions of Lt. Daskevich enabled friendly forces to successfully seize their objective."

Capt. Daskevich's wife and daughter Lynda Louise are in Germany with him. She is the former Marie Gallagher.

Grand Jury in Houston To Hear More Witnesses

A Federal grand jury in studying possible national crime connections in South Texas is scheduled to begin the second phase of its investigation in Houston today. Eight persons, including two newspapermen and one preacher, have been subpoenaed for today's session.

They are Rev. Harry Burel of Lamarque; Clyde Ragdale, editor of the Texas City Sun; and Jack Donahue, assistant city editor of the Houston Press. The grand jury last week in a two-day session heard evidence from several top law enforcement officers, including Colonel Homer Garrison, junior head of the Department of Public Safety.

Carver stated that he believes that with his 24 years experience in this work, 16 of them in Ranger, he will be able to operate the store in such a manner as to afford a convenient shopping service for the patrons.

Both cars were pretty badly damaged.

Housewives Win Price Battles

The American housewife appears to have marked up a victory on the price front. Retailers and officials on the Chicago Merchandise Exchange agree that consumer resistance has brought a sharp decline in butter prices and put the skids under the cost of eggs.

Chicago chain stores announced brought the price of butter as further cuts yesterday which much as 14 cents under prices of a week ago. Chain stores across the country today are reported following Chicago's lead.

Eggs also are down with some locations cutting prices 30 cents from November's high.

Entrants Coming In For Tri-County Livestock Show For $500 In Awards

More than $500.00 in cash premiums will be awarded at the Tri-County Livestock Show in Ranger on March 21-22. The number of entries of livestock that have already been sent in indicated that a large amount of stock in all classes and divisions will be shown and compete for this money.

There are indications that there will be an especially large number of dairy cattle shown and competing for their share of the premiums. Buddy Aaron, Eastland FFA member, who showed the Grand Champion Dairy Female at last year's show will probably be here again showing her as a cow.

Registered Jersey cows and heifers which have been awarded various FFA and 4-H Club boys in this area by both the Ranger Jaycees and the Eastland Dairy Youth program will be competing.

The number of entries in the sheep, Angora goat, beef cattle, and swine also indicate that visitors to the show will be able to see a large number of the highest quality livestock.

The dairy cattle classes and the premiums to be won are as follows: CLASS 1—Dairy Heifers, any breed, over 6 months; Premiums: First—$5; Second—$3; Third—$1.

New England Textile Mill Shuts Down

BOSTON, Mass., March 6 (UP)—The New England textile depression deepened today with announcement by Textron, Incorporated, that it will close a rayon mill employing 500 workers at Suncook, New Hampshire and build a new cotton mill in Mississippi.

The Textron announcement came as the Office of Defense Mobilization in Washington refused to give New England's textile, shoe and apparel industries preferential treatment in awarding defense contracts to relieve unemployment.

Robert Cushman, vice-president in charge of Textron's New England operations, said the Suncook Mill is being shut down for lack of orders. He said the National Production Authority had approved steel allocation for construction of a cotton mill in Meridian, Mississippi, which would employ some one-thousand persons. Textron already has a new mill under construction at Elizabethton, Tenn., and is awaiting N.P.A. approval for another in Monroe County, Miss.

The decision against giving New England shoe and textile industries special consideration followed protests by southern Congressmen that the move would only shift unemployment south of the Mason-Dixie Line.

Eastland Draws 4 New Wildcats

Activities in the Eastland field are attracting considerable attention at this time. With 4 new wildcats announced and completion of a fair pump, business is on the increase.

Applications were filed Wednesday with the Railroad Commission for permission to drill four new wildcats.

Trans-Tex Drilling Co., Leoviv, spotted the No. 1 C. M. Johnson as a wildcat, three miles north of Eastland.

Contracted for 4,000 feet with rotary, site is 330 feet from the south and east lines of Sec. 22, Block D, H&TC Survey.

Wampler Brothers also staked a wildcat location on the Cisco townsite as the No. 1 Bernice McCrea.

H. E. Hanrahan, et al, Rising Star, has staked two locations 6 miles southwest of Rising Star. Both contracts are for 1,950 feet with cable tools.

Donating this blood were people from Ranger, Eastland, Gorman and other communities.

In making this blood drive for many people gave untiringly of their time and labor from all these places. Merchants and dairies gave food and milk for the workers and donors.

The unit went on to Cisco today to take blood from donors there.

Driverless Car Goes On "Spree"

No it wasn't reckless driving, there wasn't even a driver in Mrs. J. R. Stewart's automobile yesterday when it took a "cruise" just inside the east city limits of Ranger.

Mrs. Stewart had been having trouble with the car getting enough gas and she pulled into a filling station for help. Just as she had gotten out of the car, according to Chief of Police W. G. Pruet, the car suddenly started getting gas.

The wheels started spinning and the car took off for tall timbers. Leaving the filling station and crossing the highway the car "mowed" down a row of pickets in front of a house, went on through the yard and through another fence into a field, made about a half-mile circle up through a field, clipped off a telephone pole and came to a rest nearly back on the highway.

The car suffered only minor damages even though it "plowed" up some live oak trees while foraging through the field.

Chief Pruet said that Mrs. Stewart thought perhaps she had left the automatic transmission in "Drive" when she got out of the car at the station. What gave it the gas so suddenly, no one knows.

Tickets Ranger Chamber Commerce Banquet Sold Out Wednesday Noon

The committee handling the sale of tickets for the Ranger Chamber of Commerce banquet announced that all 300 tickets have been sold, and has ordered further sales suspended.

As was announced earlier it was possible only to accommodate 300 people and this number was reported sold at noon Wednesday. It was impossible to secure a place locally to hold the banquet that would accommodate more than 300 people, consequently the sale had to be stopped when that amount was sold, according to the ticket committee.

Lawmakers May Block Eight Billion Plans

President Truman takes his new eight-billion-dollar foreign aid program to congress and the nation for approval today. The president is scheduled to present his case in a message to congress this morning and in a radio-television address to the nation tonight.

The program is made up of about five-and-a-half-billion dollars in new military aid and two-and-a-half billion in economic help for fiscal 1953, which begins July 1st. The administration has heard reports that economy-minded lawmakers are in a mood to cut the entire request for economic assistance for the non-Communist world.

One congressman, republican Senator James Kom of Missouri, has asked Congress to hold up action on President Truman's foreign aid program until France and Germany ratify the Lisbon agreements on Atlantic Pact Defenses. Kom says the Lisbon agreements are "not worth a plugged nickel" unless the French and Western German Governments ratify them.

ITP reported in Bonn that four leading West German industrialists have been arrested for betraying western arms secrets to Soviet Russia. Authoritative sources say the four-who are not identified—allegedly gave the Russians, among other things, allied plans for the manufacture of a new alloy stronger than steel.

Communist agents have photographed secret notes in a diary kept by a former United States Military attache to Moscow. It was disclosed in Washington today that extracts from the diary of Major-General Robert Grow have been published in Europe in an effort to show that the United States is preparing to unleash a third world war.

The pictures were taken in the General's Room in an army-operated hotel in Frankfurt while Grow was absent.

Weekly Feature To Start Today About State Law

"It's the Law in Texas", a new weekly feature, makes its appearance in today's edition. It is the first of a series of columns that will appear in this paper each Thursday. The articles will discuss points of law that every person needs to know.

The write-up being published today tells how a person's name should be signed to legal documents. It points out that proper signatures on important legal papers may save both time and money.

Among topics to be explained in other columns are the liability of a homeowner for accidents on his property, the question of who inherits in event a person dies without leaving a will, and others of equal interest.

Distributed as a public service by the lawyers of the state, the weekly column is prepared under supervision of the State Bar of Texas Committee on Public Information. Each statement made will be carefully checked by the Bar group to insure conformity to applicable Texas laws.

The rendering of legal advice on specific personal problems is left to lawyers, specialists in the field. But "It's the Law in Texas" will give you background knowledge about the law and discuss in everyday terms, legal information that will help you in your daily activities.

The full skirts were worn over crinoline. Her slippers were of the same fabric and her headress was a tiny triangular bonnet trimmed with seed pearls and illusion ruching. Her finger tip veil fell from the bonnet. She carried champagne-colored calla lilies tied with matching satin ribbon, with long satin streamers.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES

THE STORY: Alma Conroy, daughter of an exclusive jewel firm, is a member of the House of Representatives. Her husband Tommy is going to fail her again. Always on the eve of becoming the man she wants him to be, Tommy does something wrong. Now Tommy has received a promotion at the House, and Alma has quarreled and Tommy has been striking. On top of this comes news of a third "inside" robbery at the House.

XIII

ALMA CONROY was very tired and she slipped willingly into sleep. Hours later, she awoke with a start. Tommy had come home, very drunk this time. She could hear him stumbling around in the darkness. She snapped on the light and found him sprawled on the living room sofa.

"Tommy! Where have you been? What have you been up to?" But Tommy was too far gone to recognize his wife or to know what he was saying.

"Wash'll you have, everybody?" he shouted. "This round's on me! Everybody in the whole doggone bar! Wash'll it be, folks?"

"Oh, Tommy, you beast!" she cried despairingly. "Come to bed! For heaven's sake come to bed and sleep it off!"

But Tommy couldn't make it unaided. As Alma undressed him he muttered and shouted alternately, and it was evident from her broken talk that he had done what he always did when he had money in his pocket: been in some bar buying drinks for the crowd and building up his ego by playing the big shot.

Finally she managed to roll him into bed, where he passed out immediately. Alma, trembling from her efforts, picked up his clothing. She hung his coat on a chair and had begun to fold his trousers when she noticed the bulkiness of one pocket. Although it was not her practice, she slipped her hand inside and drew out an incredibly large roll of bills. The second pocket yielded another, this time less bulky but in larger denominations. She was by now too shaky to count them, but even her cursory examination told her that Tommy had been carrying at least $10,000! What did it mean?

FEELING sick with worry and fatigue she thrust the money back where she had found it, handling it gingerly as though it were soiled. For the moment she could not, would not think about that money—about what it might represent, why it was there. But the explanation had better be a good one, she decided grimly. Then suddenly she felt very sorry for herself. Hot, stinging tears welled up under her lids as she looked at the unconscious body of her husband. She had a sudden longing to escape but there was no place to go—not at this hour.

Alma was making coffee next morning when Tommy came to himself. She had a sudden longing to escape but there was no place to go—not at this hour. Alma was making coffee next morning when Tommy came to himself. She had a sudden longing to escape but there was no place to go—not at this hour.

"Alma! Did you take any money out of my pockets last night?" She came and stood in the doorway, watching him with a curious mixture of despair and pity.

"Thank goodness!" His drawn face relaxed a little. "But I put it all back, though. Every cent." Tommy blanched.

"No!" he exclaimed. "Don't say that, Alma! You can't have done that. I'm short! Give me that money for heaven's sake, and stop fooling!"

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hazard and Donald, of Eastland, visited with their parents, the R.A. Parkers and M. O. Hazards Sunday.

Rev. J. C. Peirrey of Clovis, was in the community Sunday to fill his appointment at the Baptist Church. He and Mrs. Peirrey and daughter, Kay, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Hazard.

Mrs. O. T. Hazard was in Eastland Saturday where she visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Foreman and children of Olden, were guests in the home of Mrs. Foreman's parents, the Allen Crosbys, Sunday.

Visitors in the Wayne White home Sunday afternoon were their daughter, Betty White, and Mr. White's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White and Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. Mark Williamson.

"Tommy, I'm telling you the exact truth," she said evenly. "I had put you to bed, and I couldn't help noticing that you had a lot of cash on you. But I didn't keep any of it. On my word of honor!" He sat down suddenly on the edge of the bed, staring at her with horror-stricken eyes.

"Then I'm more than $300 short!" he said miserably. "Alma, that money isn't mine. I was trusted with it. Good heaven! What do you suppose I have done?"

"Can't you remember?"

"I WENT several places. I had some cash of my own—about $50, and I was drinking. There was a good crowd in one spot and I bought them a few rounds. Then a fellow tipped a doorman $5. I wanted to show off so I did the same—only I must have given the doorman a fifty or maybe more, because there was quite a sensation over it."

"Where was this? Perhaps you can get the tip back." "I can't remember where it was. But I know I grabbed a supper check for a pretty big crowd, somewhere along the line. People I never saw before, confound it!"

"Whom does this money belong to, Tommy?" "It's in connection with this confidential job at The House, Alma. I may have to turn it over by 6 o'clock tonight. What am I going to do? Oh help me, Jewels, help me!"

The expression on his face was different from anything Alma had ever seen there before—a genuine remorse melted with a clear realization of what he had done. He pulled himself together and spoke quietly and with unusual directness.

"I've been a complete fool!" he said. "And I've never been so frightened in my life as I am right now. Not because of what the results of this may be, but because I see that I bought the situation. For the sake of a few drinks. What an idiot! If I can pull out of this one I'll never take a drink again, so help me!"

"Tommy, you've said that before," Alma reminded him quietly. (To Be Continued)

Red Artillery Hurls Shells At UN Lines

By United Press

Allied commanders in Korea are keeping close watch for signs of a possible new enemy offensive.

In the past 24 hours the Reds have let loose a blast of 2,000 rounds of artillery fire on advanced UN positions along the eastern front. And the UN commanders aren't forgetting that similar heavy fire preceded the enemy spring offensive of last year.

The Reds also are bombarding UN troops with propaganda leaflets inviting surrender.

At Panmunjom where the truce talks are being held, the Reds are bringing up more demands which the allies apparently have no intention of accepting.

The latest enemy brain storm is a demand that truce inspection teams, including Russian, be allowed to examine secret allied weapons and equipment.

However there are no signs that the UN will agree. In the first place, it has ruled out Russia as one of the proposed inspection nations. And as for the manner of inspection, the UN feels that the teams should be allowed only to see what new equipment is being brought in, without trying to pry into secrets of design.

State Dept. Welcomes Probe Of Club Loyalty

By United Press

Republicans say they will seek White House help if the Justice Department persists in its refusal to give investigators a list of cases which have not been prosecuted. The threat was made by G.O.P. Representative Kenneth Keating of New York. He is the ranking Republican member of a judiciary sub-committee which is starting an investigation of the Justice Department. The Department told the subcommittee yesterday that its request for the list would impose an "intolerable burden" of examining 300-thousand cases.

"Ike" In Greece On Inspection

By United Press

General Eisenhower has conferred with military leaders in Greece concerning the country's contribution to Atlantic Pact Forces. He talked with the Greek chiefs of staff for more than an hour during the day, and also inspected Army, Navy and Air Units in the Athens area.

Eisenhower arrived in the Greek capital from Turkey yesterday and leaves for Paris tomorrow, ending his five-day tour of the southeast flank of his command.

EXERCISE LONGHORN—The Salvation Army of Texas is marshaling its facilities to provide off-duty morale services to the 150,000 U. S. Army troops from all parts of the nation who will take part in extensive maneuvers in March designated as "Exercise Longhorn." Based at Fort Hood, the troops in their realistic maneuvers will be deployed over much of Central Texas. Lt. Col. John A. Morrison, Texas divisional commander of The Salvation Army, says that his organization will keep twelve mobile canteens busy in the exercise area. They will follow the troops wherever they happen to be, and will provide coffee and doughnuts, sandwiches, book matches, prepaid postcards, writing materials, and mailing services to the soldiers. In the photo above, Capt. Jessie Gough serves coffee to a soldier at one of the mobile canteens in the build-up area. Colonel Morrison estimated that The Salvation Army will spend $25,000 in providing morale services during the maneuver period.

American And British Call Premier Egypt

By United Press

The British Ambassador to Egypt, Sir Ralph Stevenson, has called on Premier Naguib Hilali today. And a member of the Egyptian cabinet speculated that the two exchanged views on the Suez Canal Zone dispute.

The minister, who doesn't want his name mentioned, points out however that formal talks are not expected to begin until later, possibly within the next 10 days.

According to the high-ranking informant, Hilali will stress that Egypt wants a speedy settlement and will insist that it include the evacuation of British troops from the disputed zone.

The Egyptian Premier had another caller today, American Ambassador Jefferson Caffery. Caffery talked to Hilali for 10 minutes in what he called a "courtesy call."

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas

A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

Wrong Signature On Legal Papers May Cost Time, Money

Should a married woman sign important documents with her own given name or use her husband's first name? Is "Junior" or "Senior" legally part of your name? Should you sign your middle name or initial? Is "Mr." or "Mrs." part of a legal signature? Lawyers find that people are often at a loss to know how to sign their names to legal documents. And, while signature discrepancies ultimately may be straightened out, the process can be expensive.

In legal effect, a name is used merely as one method of distinguishing one person from another. Under the Common law, since very early times, a legal name has consisted of one Christian or given name, and one surname which is the family name. Generally, use of both such names is necessary for legal identification.

The law does not pay too much attention to the middle name or initial. However, although the use of the middle name or initial is not required, it is wise to use it since it may be important for identification in some cases.

According to attorneys, married women have more difficulty with their signatures than most other people. When a girl marries she, of course, takes her husband's surname. Thus Mary Lou Jones legally becomes Mary Lou Brown when she marries James E. Brown. But, in practice, she usually does not stop there—she uses her full name as her own, signing herself as Mrs. James E. Brown, instead of Mary L. Brown (or Mary Lou Brown) which is correct.

Can this apparently minor error in Mrs. Brown's signature cause any trouble? Let us assume that the Browns decide to sell their home, which they have owned fifteen years, and move to Oregon. Five years pass, and their former home is now owned by George Smith, who has made a deal to sell it at a nice profit.

In checking the title of the property, the name, "Mrs. James E. Brown" turns up in Smith's abstract, as it appears on the deed by which James and Mary sold their home.

For the title to be clear, the land records must show that Mrs. James E. Brown who sold the house and lot was the same identical person as the Mary L. Brown or Mrs. James E. Brown whose name appears on the deed conveying the property to the Browns many years before.

In order that the purchaser may be safe, lawyers and courts must not overlook the possibility that they may be two different persons. If so, the first Mrs. Brown may have died leaving heirs who have not yet relinquished their interest in the home. Other possibilities would present serious implications also.

Proof of identity in this case could involve tracing the Browns through several states, or other methods equally or more expensive and time consuming. While waiting for this proof, George Smith might lose his chance to take a profit. The intended purchaser may have to begin anew his search for a suitable family shelter. The Browns may be out time and money in correcting the discrepancy.

In this situation, the "minor"

AMERICAN AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION 50th ANNIVERSARY 1902 1952

LEFT ISN'T RIGHT—The American Automobile Association's commemorative three-cent stamp was designed. Driven of the ancient auto should have been on the right-hand side of the vehicle, not the left. However, the stamp is in the works, and will be on sale in time for the anniversary celebration in Chicago on March 4.

variation in Mary's signature has resulted in trouble for everyone involved.

Perversely enough, other married women feel that their maiden surname is still legal and continue to use it. For instance, a wife may register her automobile in her maiden name instead of her married name. This is not in compliance with the law requiring a car to be registered in the name of the owner. Her maiden surname is gone for good, unless she is divorced and wants to resume the use of her maiden name. Then it may be returned to her by a court order.

The law does not consider "Junior" or "Senior" a significant part of the name, as regards identification. However, it will not be incorrect to add such terms to your signature, if you wish. Similarly, "Mr." or "Mrs." are not legally important or necessary.

Soap Not To Be Mixed For Wash

Laundrying specialists in the Department of Agriculture warn housewives that too many soaps may spoil the wash.

Mixing odds and ends of soap with synthetic detergents—Just use them up, for instance—May result in a wash that won't clean.

They advise using a product according to instructions on the package. If it isn't satisfactory, try a different next time. The Laundry experts point out that soaps and detergents on sale today are highly specialized, made for different uses.

"French Mist" Best Seller

A man might go into a store and order a pair of brown rayon stockings for a woman. But the woman—Never! If she knows that she's talked about she walks up and says—"I'll take some fifty-one-fifteens in French mist, please."

And the sales person knows what she means. While the numbers indicate the weight of the hose—the "French Mist" part is what sells the stocking.

Fashion expert Mary Murphy says the majority of women choose their hose by the emotional appeal in the name. Miss Murphy has been designing up names for stocking shades for the last 12 years as part of her job directing fashions for a hosiery mill.

Just plain brown rayon, she says, can be named "Tawny Tigress" and the buyer will get a subtle lift from owning them.

The names of Hosiery shades are changed about every six months. So Miss Murphy says there's not much point in getting permanently attached to one. However, when she tried to change the name of a shade from "French Mist" to "Morocco Mist" she found a hosiery mill that had been a best seller ever since.

"Women always love any French name," says Miss Murphy. "I've used names like 'Paris Touch' and 'Paris Grey' with great success. Once she tried the name 'Jezebel' for a black hose and sent the plan off to her manufacturer (Shannon Mills) in Georgia. She described it as a 'Bold Black for a feminine temptress.' Back came a howl of protest from the male executives.

Says Miss Murphy, "I guess they thought it sounded too wicked. They renamed that shade 'Dark Diary.'"

Marking Time in the March of Time—

... is somewhat like fishing without luck—there's no thrill to it. But there is real thrill in moving forward, serving humbly and doing some one thing well. We never heard of an abstracter getting rich as such, but we have heard of those who have spent a life-time, as we have, building up title institutions that are assets to their communities. Yes, we get a thrill out of every order and a real joy in producing it into a quality product.

Texas Leader In 1951 Highway Construction Aggies Are Told

COLLEGE STATION, March 6 (Sp)—Dewitt C. Greer, state highway engineer, Texas Highway Department, said today that Texas built 1263 miles of federal aid roads, 248 bridges and eliminated 11 railway grade crossings in 1951 to lead the nation in this field. These figures were released recently by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

"This federal aid road construction," Greer said, "was supplemented by a sizeable program of farm to market roads financed with state funds made available by the last session of the Texas legislature."

MacArthur Men To Join Him At His Birthplace

DALLAS—March 6 (UP)—The Dallas director for the "Democrat MacArthur Organization" says two hundred Texans are expected to join supporters of general MacArthur as a presidential candidate when the general returns to the scene of his birthplace at Little Rock, Arkansas, March 23rd.

Elmer Adams of Dallas says a special train will be ordered to carry the Texans to Little Rock when the general appears there.

Rainmaking Boosts El Salvador Coffee Growing In Drouth Areas

Modern witch doctors eventually may be able to promise that lack of rain for Latin American coffee crops will never threaten the flow of supply to American coffee cups.

The general public has become so accustomed to the miracles performed by Twentieth Century scientists that it all but ignores much of their alchemy. But when meteorologists learned the secret of "riggering" clouds to make them blink with interest. Now the rain before their time, everybody rain-makers are wringing water from the skies over El Salvador to nourish thirsty coffee trees—and the results are successful enough to suggest a solution to the dry spells that occasionally hamper coffee production.

El Salvador, third largest coffee-producing country in the Western Hemisphere, got its idea after experiments in New Mexico were credited with siphoning rain from an almost cloudless sky. At that time, magazine articles made the trick sound easy, gave the impression that all you had to do was heat a pinch of silver nitrate, shoot it skyward through a short length pipe, and raise your umbrella.

Since then, it has become known that rain-making is a difficult and by no means always-successful operation. When New York City's drought of 1951 brought cloudless days, a ban on the washing of automobiles and watering lawns, the city hired a rain maker to put a charm on any sky-born collection of moisture he could find.

The results were gratifying but confusing. It rained and rained. But the scientist's persistent refusal to claim credit for it led some to believe that it was a natural precipitation. Others insisted the project was a rousing success; they said the city farmers were willing to forget the glory and call it a simple act of God—only to protect themselves from law suits. Farmers had stormed the courts, claiming their crops had been ruined by the deluge.

Regardless of the true facts in this particular operation, rain-making is recognized as a legitimate science, and Salvadoran farmers not to mention Salvadoran can coffees—have benefited by it. When the public of El Salvador decided to approve the experiment on behalf of their greatest export commodity, they called a team of experts, headed by the eminent meteorologist, Dr. Irving P. Krick. Krick mapped out a plan and was given the go-signal. Within a matter of weeks, rain was obtained for practically all of the many coffee zones include in the plan.

The U. S. coffee industry, always interested in the progress and progress of the coffee-producing countries, saw in the experiment a vindication of the country's faith in the coffee growers' promise to assure a steady flow of green coffees to American shores by every means possible.

MEADOLAKE IS THE BETTER SPREAD FOR OUR DAILY BREAD

The Highway Department to continue their good work in 1952 of "expeditiously and efficiently putting the 'money under the rubber' for the maximum benefit of Texas motorists."

The controlled materials plan of the federal government is now operating smoothly and so far as Texas is concerned the Highway Department has developed flexibility in highway design in order to reduce to the minimum the use of critical steel. Highway projects are therefore moving to construction without interruption or delay at the present time."

Greer said that "in a report made to the national congress 30 days ago Thomas H. McDonald, commissioner of the Bureau of Public Roads, pointed out the movement of the federal aid highway construction program in the U. S., it was interesting to note that during the calendar year 1951 Texas led the nation in the number of miles of federal aid road constructed, the number of bridges built and the number of highway grade crossings eliminated."

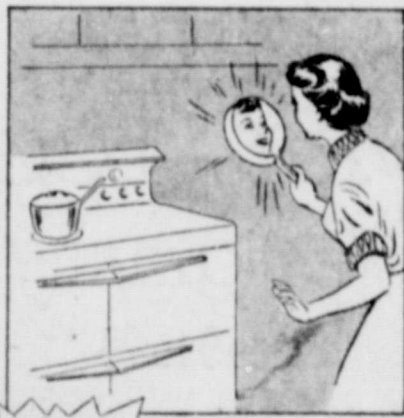

The highway short course will continue through Thursday morning, with more than 400 in attendance.

Pay More Now, Save Later In Buying Chicks

COLLEGE STATION, March—The first cost may be higher for top quality chicks, but the profits usually will be greater. Chick quality, says W. J. Moore, poultry husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, is measured in terms of low mortality, efficient use of feed, rapid growth, fast and complete feathering and uniform size. Then adds Moore, buy chicks that are bred to do the job that you want done—either to make more or to produce eggs.

High death losses among baby chicks can quickly wipe out any chance for profits. Buying from hatcheries that participate in the National Poultry Improvement Plan, points out the specialist, is good insurance. Cooperating hatcheries and poultry breeders under the plan must meet prescribed standards in their operations that include testing for pullorum and good flock sanitation. Thus, buyers are assured of getting quality chicks.

Losses among the older birds are ever more expensive than chick losses. The death of a two pound bird means the loss of time and labor as well as about six pounds of feed and the original cost of the chick. The use of strict sanitation practices and vaccination against diseases that are known to exist in the area will prevent these latter losses, says Moore.

Producers should keep in mind these points, emphasizes the specialist, when buying chicks. Buy for quality and from hatcheries that carry on a good pullorum eradication and sanitation program and buy chicks bred specifically for either meat or egg production whichever fits your needs. Chicks with this kind of a background when given proper care will usually return a nice profit to the producer, says Moore.

US Rubber Plant At Port Neches Shut By Strike

By United Press

The U. S. Rubber Company's giant synthetic rubber plant at Port Neches was idled today when workers refused to cross picket lines set up by 25 striking machinists.

A spokesman said the plant will remain shut down for an indefinite time. He said no talks between the union and management have been scheduled.

The machinists say they walked off the job because they were dissatisfied with treatment by the management. They refused to elaborate, but it is believed the dispute involved the appointment of a fireman.

Helpless Man Watches Wife Get Burned

Attendants at Parkland Hospital say 62-year-old Mrs. Gladys Dean suffered second and third degree burns on her back, legs and arms, and her condition was termed critical today.

The couple's daughter-in-law—Mrs. Noah Dean—said the victim lay on the stove with her clothing
