PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 31

SEEN OR HEARD

Advance ticket sales for the Ranger Rodeo are in progress at the Gholson Hotel ticket office and rodeo headquarters.

Boxes, reserved and general admission seats are being sold during the day in the Gholson Lobby.

The rodeo will be officially opened Wednesday with the service club luncheon and a parade at four.

Other than the regular events the rodeo will feature two specialty acts, a cutting horse contest and a girls barrel race. Two Shetland ponies are being given away at the Thursday and Friday night performances. Tickets on the ponies are free and can be gotten from the Jaycees. The winner must be present.

The stock began arriving last week and should be on hand now resting up for the competition ahead.

The Ranger Jaycees original West Texas pig scramble will be held at the rodeo. This is in conjunction with the basic program of the Junior Chamber. Numbered pigs are scrambled for by chosen members of FFA and 4-H Clubboys that correspond to registered Jersey heifers. The lucky boys get the heifers, which the Jaycees hope will help improve livestock in this area. Under this plan the first heifer calf of the boys Jersey is returned to the Jaycees to be given to some other youngster another year.

Things have been happening so rapidly around here that we have been unable to keep up with them ourselves, but we know now that Miss Louise Mitchell is officially the society editor of the Times.

She has expressed her willingness to cooperate with everyone in her new vocation here at the Times. When you have news matter pertaining to her job, call 224 and ask for her assistance with your news.

The response to the appeal for monetary help for Mrs. Merritt has been gratifying. Several Rangerites have opened their hearts and pocketbooks to help this woman who is badly in need of help.

The contribution by Mrs. C. D. Manning was probably the biggest that will be received in terms of the desire to help and the limited resources of the giver.

Mr. and Mrs. Manning have taken it upon themselves to care for Mrs. Merritt's flowers while she is unable to do so herself and other tasks they are able to do.

"A Friend" sent five dollars. This person wanted to remain unknown, but also wanted to help. The Second Baptist Church, recognizing the genuine need sent their check for $50 to help Mrs. Merritt and the two children over the hump.

No amount is too large or too small to help. We have been assured that the need exists and that Mrs. Merritt is indeed worthy of the help by her fellow citizens.

That helping the other fellow is probably what has made this nation of ours the place that it is today.

Anyone else desiring to aid this woman and her youngsters can do so by mailing or bringing their contribution to the Ranger Times.

BURLESON LAMBASTS COX RECORD IN SPEECH HERE

For a man who says he has never before engaged in a below the belt political battle in his years of holding public office, Representative Omar Burleson showed here yesterday in a speech in front of the Gholson that he can readily adapt himself to the circumstances.

Burleson made known a few beliefs on his part and then proceeded to rip apart the record of his opponent, Jack Cox of Breckenridge.

Burleson said that Cox "blames me for high taxes, for foreign policy where it has failed, for non-diligence to duty and I assume from inference that he blames me for all the graft and corruption in and out of government. 'It seems he holds me responsible for about all the evils that exist in the world and condemns me for it,'" Burleson told the crowd here yesterday.

Burleson took everything that his opponent had said on behalf of his beliefs for good government and said he agreed wholeheartedly with them. The four main parts are 1. State Right, 2. Morality in government, 3. a firm foreign policy and 4) is against increasing taxes. Burleson made light of the broadness of Cox's statements.

He also mentioned that he had not found where Cox had ever voted against establishing the 34 new boards, bureaus, or commissions in Austin since Cox has been in office.

Burleson said he had missed roll call 18 times in his six years in Congress, yet during the same time Cox has the following record of attendance: in 1947 he was absent 182 times, in 1949, he was absent 375 times; in 1951 he failed to appear when his name was called 145 times," Burleson said.

Burleson mentioned that his opponent had voted in 1947 against allowing a group of farmers to hold a meeting in the state capitol building. Burleson said he could not imagine why Cox would vote against it, and he (Cox) wouldn't have been bothered as he wasn't there enough.

Cox's absent at the time the Texas car inspection law came up drew comment from Burleson. Cox has stated that he didn't vote for the law, but without revealing that he wasn't present to have a vote, Burleson charged.

After passage Burleson charged that Cox called for a special session of the legislature to amend or repeal the law that would cost the state $200,000, so that he (Cox) could be present and get on the popular side, Burleson charged.

Burleson told the crowd here yesterday that he would be in Breckenridge that evening and hoped that Mr. Cox was there to answer his charges that resulted from a challenge from Cox before Burleson returned from Washington.

Price Daniel Campaigned In Ranger Saturday

Price Daniel brought his campaign for the United States Senate to Ranger Saturday with the plea that Texans help to restore honesty, integrity and economy in Washington. Daniel spoke at the Gholson Hotel.

The 41 year old 9thorney General of Texas said he was running for the Senate because he thought a change was needed in some of the things that have been going on in Washington. He pledged that he would fight against higher taxes and that he would work for an end to the waste, extravagance and corruption which exist in Federal agencies. Daniel said, "America's greatest need is to get our country back to God and our government back to the people."

He said as Senator he would continue his fight to save the tide-lands for the Texas public school fund as well as his campaign against organized crime and gambling syndicates.

Prior to his service for six years as Attorney General, Daniel served as Speaker of the House of the Texas Legislature. He interrupted his public service by waiving his legislative exemption and served 3 years in the Army and Marine Corps in World War II. He is the only veteran in the Senate race.

Daniel is married and has four children. He is active in church and civic affairs, being President of the W. R. White Bible class at the First Baptist Church in Austin.

An appeal for funds to aid assault victim Ono Leona Merritt has brought some response over the weekend. Mrs. Merritt is in the Ranger General Hospital and has shown improvement over her condition at the time of her admittance.

The appeal was made after the financial status of Mrs. Merritt was known. She has two children and no visible means of supporting them.

As of this morning a total of $56 has been received by the Ranger Times.

You're Not Afraid Of Dying
If You Live Your Life Right

You're not afraid of dying
If you live your life right
You're not afraid of dying
If your heart is right
If you live or die
You'd better start to try
Then you're not afraid of dying
If you live your life right.

The pot is boiling
If you are bad
You'd better be good
Or you'll wish you had
If you live or die
You'd better start to try
Then you're not afraid of dying
If you live your life right.

Upon the pearly gates
You can swing
While you listen to the music
And the Angels sing
If you live or die
You'd better start to try
Then you're not afraid of dying
If you live your life right.

'Lost Truck' Is Found In Abilene; Driver In Jail

The "lost truck," together with its driver have been found. The truck was parked by police officers in Abilene, after the driver had been arrested and turned over to the county on a DWI charge.

At this happened on the night of June 29, and the defendant, J. A. Allen, has been a "lost man" since that time, although there has been a state-wide pickup order for the man for many days. Seems as though all officers everywhere in the state were on the alert with the possible exception of the Abilene group, it was stated yesterday, by a group in Eastland.

Highway officers knew about the pickup order, but as the man was in jail and the truck parked in a more or less secluded spot, it never appeared to them that the man and truck could be in Abilene. But, it seems it was.

The driver was in flanger on Sunday, June 29, and was seen later in the day, north of that city. He was preparing to make a trip to Colorado City for a load of asphalt, and was seen Sunday night at Baird, where he stopped for water. After this all has been mystery.

After several days people became alarmed. Foul play was feared, and during the past week officers have been working on this theory. Then came the discovery—the man was in Abilene and had been all the time.

Junior College Improves Campus Housing For Men

Ranger Junior College is going to be better prepared to handle out-of-town students for the approaching fall semester.

Extensive remodeling of dormitory facilities have been going on all summer at the college to eliminate the past crowding and congestion in the men's living quarters.

Two individual dorms have been formed into a single unit with a third building forming a "U" shaped building.

The front of the dormitory will be a storage and dressing room for the athletic department of the college. The two wings, connected by hallways will house the men students living on the campus.

Individual wash basins will be installed in each room to avoid congestion at peak hours of usage of the showers and rest rooms. More space has been allotted each student occupant. Doors of the rooms now swing outward, rather than in as they have in the past.

The dormitory as it is planned will be under one roof with many new conveniences for the students.

President Is Flattered By Draft Pressure

By Merriman Smith
WASHINGTON, July 15 (UP)—Intimates of President Truman reported today that the chief executive will intervene quickly to kill any effort in the Democratic national convention to draft him for re-election.

The president during the past two weeks has been under greater pressure to run again than at any time since his March 29 announcement that he would not accept re-nomination.

Mr. Truman, according to friends who have heard him discuss the matter within the last few days, is flattered to some extent by the pressure that appears to increase as the Democratic convention nears. But he is said to be unmoved, and even more determined than ever to retire.

According to those friends, if any serious draft-Truman movement becomes evident in Chicago next week, the president personally will act speedily to stop it before the movement can develop momentum. Under such circumstances, the president does not believe he will have to face the prospect of actually rejecting re-nomination.

"He's through and he means it," a close friend said. "If someone tries to draft him, he'll stop it the instant he hears about it. He is very determined on that point. He simply won't be drafted."

The actual mechanics of how the president voices his support of one particular candidate apparently have not been settled. According to the present understanding at the White House, Mr. Truman is expected to indicate his preference through Thomas J. Gavin, Kansas City, Mo. The president is a convention delegate from Missouri, but since he will not attend the sessions prior to the nomination, Gavin, as his alternate, will cast Mr. Truman's ballot.

When the convention starts next Monday, the president will keep his plane standing by prepared for quick departure once the Democrats get around to selecting their nominee.

When the balloting is over, the president will fly to Chicago to speak to the convention as it closes. This plan could be changed, but members of the White House staff doubt that it will be altered.

Giles Is Lambasted By Eastland Co. Land Commissioner Candidate

Guy Patterson, 46-year-old oil and real estate man, has thrown the book at the methods used by Land Commissioner Bacon Giles, in Patterson's opening bid for Giles' job.

Patterson, tall and quick-moving, said Friday that he would spend the next two weeks telling the people of Texas "how private bids on oil and gas leases of Texas school lands are robbing the people of millions of dollars."

He has been shaking hands with Texans in every corner of the state for three months.

"I believe that an open and above board auction of all the leases, oil or gas, on Texas school lands, is the only solution to stop the graft that comes from private bidding," he told listeners at a political speaking here this week.

"And I intend to work as hard as I can for an open auction of these land leases, where everybody will have a chance to bid, and which will make more money come in on the bidding," he continued.

Patterson also blasted the method used by the land commissioner's office in handling veterans affairs, especially pertaining to the sale of lands to veterans.

Alias Basil Willing

By Helen McCloy

Copyright 1951 by Helen McCloy Dresser, printed through permission of the publisher, Random House, Inc. Distributed by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Basil Willing has been talking to suspects in the murder of Jack Duggan, private investigator, who was murdered while working on Basil's case. The story is given by Dr. Zimmer, a psychiatrist, and followed Duggan to Zimmerman's place because Duggan had been visiting on Basil's Willing. Duggan died before he can tell why. The next morning an aged blind woman, Miss Katherine Shaw, who also lives at the party, is found dead. In the morning her husband, Dr. Zimmer, is told that Duggan may have been poisoned because someone thought he was really Dr. Willing.

people are chosen to be pushed around and made to play her game for her, but she needs to have both of them. I know all about it."
 "All about what?"
 "Duggan. When we left Zimmer's last night Rosamund came home, but I went on to the Star-Club. I've got insomnia, so I spend a little time at the club every night after midnight to see how things are going. Zimmer called me there after you and the inspector left him."
 "Why?" ventured Basil.
 "You're supposed to have influence."
 "Why didn't he call Canning?"
 "She said, Zimmer is thorough. I told him even Canning can't control the papers. Zimmer is sure the Duggan business has nothing to do with him and he's afraid it will hurt his practice."
 "The red of Rosamund's painted cheeks and lips caught Basil's eye. She was talking to Gisela on the other side of the room. Basil thought of the vampire legend—the "living dead," refreshed and rosy when they are gorged with the blood of the living.
 The gathering had reached high tide sometimes ago. Now it was ebbing and in a few minutes there were only two other guests left besides the Willings—Stephen Lawrence and a girl. Only then did Basil recognize her as Lawrence's daughter, Perdita.

XII
 "THE Lawrences happen to be friends of mine," said Rosamund. "It was I who recommended Max to Perdita. And Stephen isn't really a recluse. He's here somewhere this afternoon. Would you like to see him? I know he'd enjoy meeting you."
 Rosamund darted toward a group near one of the windows. "Stephen! Do let me interrupt for a moment. There's a friend of mine here whom I'd like you to meet."
 Basil had spent too much time in hospitals not to see at a glance that Stephen Lawrence was a man chronically ill. He had the winnowed look of someone who endures pain. It wasn't altogether a matter of frail body, sunken cheeks, thinning hair and faded blue eyes. It wasn't even the lightness of his breathing or the slowness of his motions and the gentleness of his manner. It was rather his singularly sweet-tempered smile and his look of detached serenity. He was like paper which has burned away so slowly that the dead ash retains the shape of solidity yet actually is so fragile that it will crumble to dust at the first touch.

The two men had hardly exchanged a greeting when Yorke came back with Manhattan and new arrivals claimed Rosamund's attention.
 "Rosamund does like to pretend

And there's something else I'd like you to do first, if you will."
 "What is it?"
 "Talk to a young man named Frank Lloyd. He's in love with Perdita and sometimes a lover knows more than a father. You can find him any afternoon in his office at the New York Star. Am I asking too much?"
 Basil thought of the complexities of medical etiquette. Then he looked at Lawrence and saw the deep anxiety in the frail, old face. "I'll do it as soon as you arrange the consultation. After all, your 'Song of Sin' has always been one of my favorite sonnets."

XIII
 AFTER Perdita Lawrence had revived, Yorke went to the bar. Stephen Lawrence drew Basil Willing aside.
 "Dr. Willing, I know your reputation as a psychiatrist. Do you know Dr. Zimmer? I mean do you know his work?"
 "No, I've only met him once."
 Lawrence frowned. "He's pleasant and plausible. Essentially a woman's psychiatrist, I should say."
 "He has male patients—Brinsley Shaw for one."
 "Brinsley isn't very male. I wonder sometimes if Zimmer is really doing Perdita any good. It was I who urged her to go to a psychiatrist. She was too emotional, too sensitive. Rosamund recommended Zimmer and Perdita's been his patient for three months now, but she's no better. She's worse."
 "That's the beginning of cure sometimes, but . . . You should have a talk with Zimmer."
 "I can't talk to him. He's not my sort. It's giving a great deal on such scant acquaintance, but I wonder if you would talk to him for me."
 "I'll be glad to, but the best way is to ask Zimmer to call me into consultation."
 Lawrence frowned. "I'll do that."

child rather than a grown-up young woman."
 Gisela looked up at Basil with a smile. "She's been telling me the most interesting things about her work in a settlement house. She teaches painting to children after school."
 "I don't teach, really!" Even Perdita's voice was immature, treble and thin. "I just hand their pieces of wrapping paper and old jam jars of poster paint and turn them loose. They have a wonderful time. The only happy time is their whole day. They hate their schools and they hate their homes. Sometimes I wonder what they will be like when they grow up."
 Yorke laughed shortly. "They'll be like me. I was stum bred. Yorke is an abbreviation of some Slavic name that immigration officers couldn't spell in the nineties."

THE STORY: Jack Duggan, a private investigator, was arrested after recovering Dr. Basil Willing's name. Linked with Duggan's murder is the name of Miss Katherine Shaw, aged and blind, who apparently was in secret Duggan at the home of Dr. Zimmer, a psychiatrist. Brinsley, a nephew of Miss Shaw, and Katherine Shaw, her secretary, cannot shed light on Miss Shaw's death. Basil calls on Rosamund York and her husband, Stephen, who also were at Zimmer's home the night Duggan died. There Basil meets Perdita Lawrence, the doctor's daughter, and

 "Cynthia, do you know Brinsley Shaw?"
 Cynthia smiled and shook her head.
 "Then may I introduce him?"
 Basil, my sister-in-law."
 Brinsley asked Cynthia to dance.
 Actually it was nearly 10 when Isolda and Bert Canning came into the clubhouse. Isolda's dress caught Basil's eye—a sort, strapless sheath of vermilion lace worn with satin slippers dyed the same flame color.
 Canning, beside her, said nothing, but the bartender brought him a double brandy, evidently a standing order. Isolda's bright black eyes roved the room and alighted on Basil. She spoke to Canning. He gave Basil the briefest of nods.

THE country club stood on high ground overlooking Long Island Sound. Tree-shaded lawns and clipped hedges sloped down to a golf course near the water's edge. Through the fading light of the long spring evening shone an arch of lights, outlining the rounded top of the great window. Dancers could be seen gliding soundlessly behind the glass.
 "Fairlyland!" exclaimed Gisela. Cynthia Willing's handsome face hardened as she looked at her new sister-in-law. Her friends would label Gisela "unsophisticated" if she went about expressing admiration so artlessly.
 "It's really a rather boring place," warned Cynthia. "But your unpredictable husband wants to meet these Canning people accidentally-on-purpose, so—here we are."
 "Basil is a naturalist at heart," suggested Paul Willing. "He wants to see the local fauna in their native habitat after catching a glimpse of them at Dr. Zimmer's the other evening."
 Cynthia preferred to linger at the bar and Basil sat beside her. Beyond he caught a glimpse of slim shoulders and a sleek gray head. Basil did not recognize the

 "Cynthia, do you know Brinsley Shaw?"
 Cynthia smiled and shook her head.
 "Then may I introduce him?"
 Basil, my sister-in-law."
 Brinsley asked Cynthia to dance.
 Actually it was nearly 10 when Isolda and Bert Canning came into the clubhouse. Isolda's dress caught Basil's eye—a sort, strapless sheath of vermilion lace worn with satin slippers dyed the same flame color.
 Canning, beside her, said nothing, but the bartender brought him a double brandy, evidently a standing order. Isolda's bright black eyes roved the room and alighted on Basil. She spoke to Canning. He gave Basil the briefest of nods.

THE country club stood on high ground overlooking Long Island Sound. Tree-shaded lawns and clipped hedges sloped down to a golf course near the water's edge. Through the fading light of the long spring evening shone an arch of lights, outlining the rounded top of the great window. Dancers could be seen gliding soundlessly behind the glass.
 "Fairlyland!" exclaimed Gisela. Cynthia Willing's handsome face hardened as she looked at her new sister-in-law. Her friends would label Gisela "unsophisticated" if she went about expressing admiration so artlessly.
 "It's really a rather boring place," warned Cynthia. "But your unpredictable husband wants to meet these Canning people accidentally-on-purpose, so—here we are."
 "Basil is a naturalist at heart," suggested Paul Willing. "He wants to see the local fauna in their native habitat after catching a glimpse of them at Dr. Zimmer's the other evening."
 Cynthia preferred to linger at the bar and Basil sat beside her. Beyond he caught a glimpse of slim shoulders and a sleek gray head. Basil did not recognize the

NEW YORK, July 15 (UP)—The new queen of the seas—the superliner United States—dock- ed Tuesday completing a round trip speed run of the Atlantic. The Hudson river became a canyon of heroes with tumbling brass bands, buzzing helicopters and footling ships as the United States steamed in for a victorious welcome.

The superliner steamed up the harbor through a drifting fog from her maiden round trip voyage, flying from her mast a 20 by 40 foot "blue ribbon" for breaking both eastbound and westbound Atlantic speed records.

The great liner returned the speed records to this country for the first time in 100 years.

Farm Accidents Alarming Safety Experts of Nation

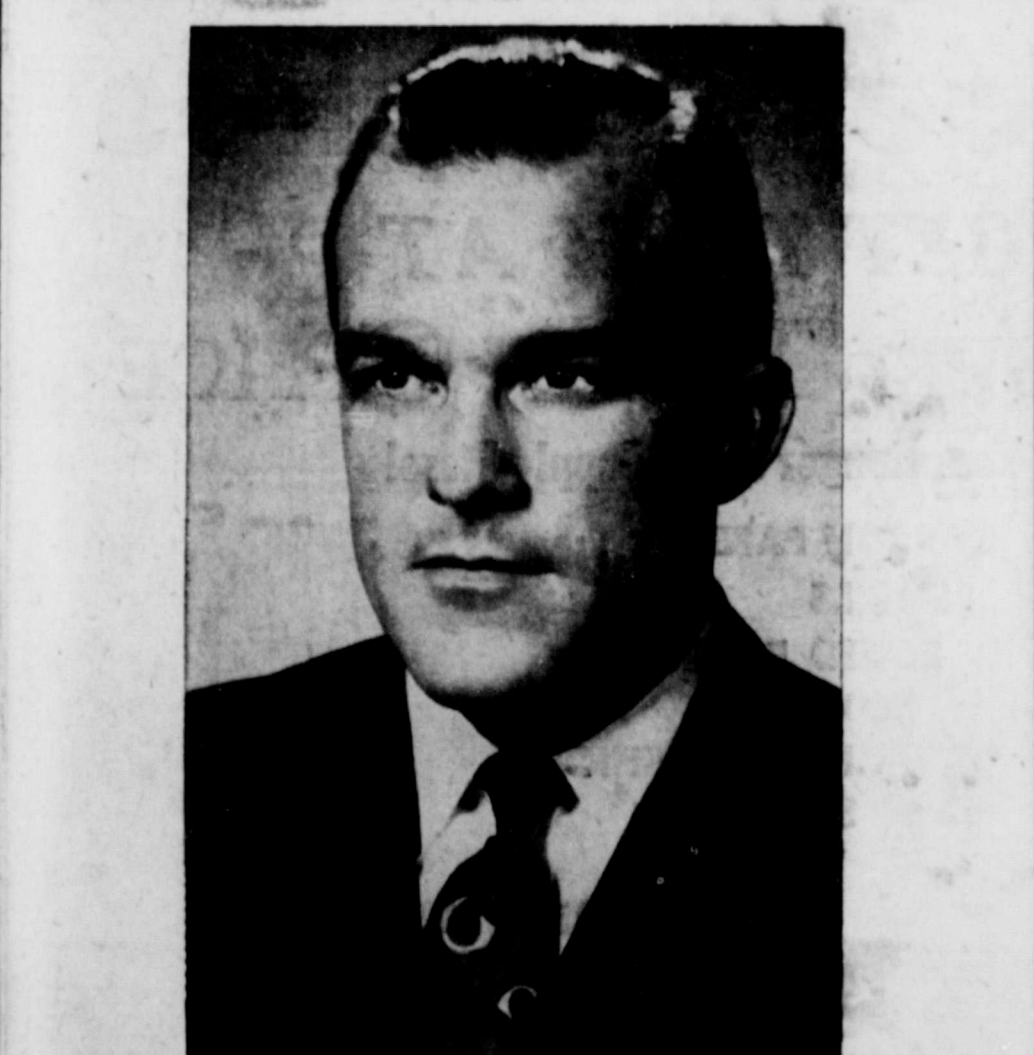

COLLEGE STATION—Farm and home accidents are creating such a serious problem that President Truman has issued a special proclamation urging farm residents and all persons interested in farm life to observe National Farm Safety Week, July 20-26. Estimates just released from the National Safety Council show that 14,500 farm people were accidentally killed this year and 1,250,000 others suffered last time from injuries.

On Monday, of National Safety Week, programs on home safety will be stressed. Home accidents are costing Americans over $600,000,000 annually, in lost wages, medical expenses and insurance overhead. The safe home, for family members and for children to grow up in, is one where the parents are safety conscious and where hazards are corrected.

Accidents in the home may happen because the homemaker is tired. The home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says it's a smart thing to plan devices to save strength and energy. Use the head instead of the feet; don't carry heavy clothes baskets to the line; put the wash in a plastic bag over the shoulders or in a basket on a small cart; save lifting heavy loads and save bending by having work surfaces of the right height.

It's a good idea to make Farm Safety Week last all the year according to the National Safety Council. Remember everyone is important, whether man, woman or child and cannot be replaced. Believe in the dignity of safety. It is worth the time it takes to be safe.

Removal Roaches Can Be Simple

AUSTIN, Texas—A dime store paint brush and a few ounces of chlordane are the only tools you need to run off those pesky cockroaches, State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox advises.

But he says keeping them off is a bigger job.

Roaches are disease carriers from way back, the health officer pointed out. They've been found naturally infected with polio virus. And that alone, is reason enough to declare war against the filthy ridden pests. Here's the way to do it.

First, get a 2 per cent chlordane spray and a two-bit paint brush from the drug store. Then take all the pots, pans, and dishes from the kitchen cabinet and wash them in soapy water.

Now paint the chlordane into all the cracks where shelves join walls, and around the drain and water pipes. That's all—don't paint the whole cabinet. While the spray is drying in the cabinets, paint in corners of baseboards, behind the stove and the hot water heater where water and gas pipes enter the house.

Take off the motor panel of the refrigerator, and treat the floor and corners of the motor compartment. Paint the walls behind the refrigerator, because roaches will hide any place they can find protection. Be sure to paint around bathroom pipes, too.

In old-fashioned houses it's possible that roaches will be hiding in cracks between the wall boards and window frames. So don't pass up a crack because it looks too small to harbor roaches. If a young insect is mighty small, after the spray in the cabinets has dried thoroughly, cover the shelves where dishes and food are stored with paper.

You can get a can of caulking compound for just a few cents, which makes filling cracks permanently an inexpensive process. But run some of the spray into cracks before sealing them up. This will kill ants, too.

All this will help you get rid of roaches, Dr. Cox emphasizes. But if you have food exposed, they'll soon be back at the same old stand.

PLUG 'N TRIGGER

By FRED EDER
United Press Outdoors Expert
The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service recently announced through the Secretary of the Interior a liberalized framework of opening days for the 1952-53 migratory waterfowl hunting season. It will place the earliest opening date at Oct. 1 and the latest Jan. 10, within the pattern of shooting days to be allocated to the States by virtue of the particular flyway in which they are located. This is welcome news to the duck hunter, but even more significant is the revelation that more and more each year, a closer harmony and co-operation exists between state and federal agencies governing hunting regulations. That is as it should be. The announcement by the Department of the Interior of a liberalized framework governing opening and closing dates means that this year the states can have their first day of gunning on any state or day of the week on or after the first of October. This complete departure from the former regulations which specified that a state season must open on a Friday certainly will result in more satisfactory regulations for the hunter and the state. It is a long step forward toward a goal of complete harmony and unity between federal and state wildlife agencies, permitting the states to co-ordinate opening dates for migratory wildfowl should make it easier for Texas and Oklahoma or any other state bordering this duck season. Daily bag limits and the length of the season for each state will not be announced until the latter part of August because recommended regulations are approved and signed by the Secretary of the Interior. Such hunting provisions can be determined only after detail surveys, now in progress throughout Canada, Alaska, and the United States, give us the necessary information and data concerning production and survival of young birds. Horse Show For State Fair Will Be Enormous

A rip-roaring horse show program will provide excitement and color during all three week-ends of the 1952 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 4 through 19, Livestock Manager Ray W. Wilson has announced. Premiums totaling $10,340 will be awarded for classes ranging from cow horses to pony-cart teams. The judging program for Quarter horses, Palominos, Shetland ponies and the open cutting horse contest is one of the most comprehensive in the fair's history. The Quarter horse show, Oct. 4-12 will feature the Texas' cowpoke's favorite mount in halter classes and in a series of roping, cutting and reining events that will demonstrate perfect partnership between man and horse. Eight trophies will be offered by the American Quarter Horse Association in addition to the $3,840 in cash prizes. A couple of State Fair special awards will include two silver buckles in the Cowboy's Range Mount class and a trophy for the best all-around Quarter horse. The open cutting horse contest, Oct. 10-12, will offer $2,000 in prize money, plus a trophy from the National Cutting Horse Association for the champion cutting horse. This will be one of the fair's most entertaining free shows, Wilson predicted, as highly intelligent animals present a colorful picture of range work at its best. Judging is based on the cutting horse's ability to enter a herd of cattle and cut out a specific animal, a talent requiring cow sense as well as horse sense. The final week of the fairs, Oct. 13-19, will be enlivened by Palomino and Shetland pony shows, performance classes of which will be presented together to give the horse show program a colorful circus spirit. Palominos will compete for $2,000 and Shetland ponies will vie for $2,500 in the first pony show to be presented at the fair in many years. The diminutive animals will participate in two fine-harness stakes to top off the performance classes. A free Shetland pony will be given away Sunday, Oct. 19, to a boy or girl 12 or under. Rules of the prize contest will be announced later. Horse events at the fair are free. All judging will take place in the new Livestock Pavilion.

Many Democrats To Vote For Ike

The following telegram has been received by this newspaper, and because of the general interest we reproduce it here. The Telegram signed by Maeston Nixon of Corpus Christi, Texas, follows: "Substantial numbers of Democrats would like to cast an independent vote in November for Eisenhower. With those who are now in control of the National Democratic party, there is little hope for a nominee with the great majority of Democrats could enthusiastically support for president. "They don't want to join the Republican party. If they have not taken a pledge in a precinct convention to support the nominee of the Democratic Convention, then they are free to vote for Ike by voting for the Republican electors. ### Texas Teachers Rank 26th On Amount of Salary

AUSTIN.—Twenty-five states, including traditional competitors like California and Florida, now are paying their public school teachers more than Texas does, Charles H. Tennyson, executive secretary of the Texas State Teachers Association, announced today.

In Texas the average classroom teacher is paid $2,960 a year, whereas in New York she makes $5,000 a year, California, the number two state in the nation, pays an average salary to teachers of $3,900.

Others that rate higher than Texas are Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Michigan, Washington, Arizona, Massachusetts, Oregon, Illinois, New Mexico, Indiana, Rhode Island, Nevada, Montana, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Wisconsin, Utah, Louisiana, Oklahoma, and Iowa.

Tennyson pointed out that teachers' salaries in Texas have not kept pace with the inflationary dollar. In 1939 teachers' salaries averaged $1,420 and the salaries of all employed persons, including laborers, was $1,269. Thus teachers were 12 per cent above the average. Since then the national average for all workers has climbed to 3,390 a year—$430 more than the average teachers get—leaving them 12 per cent behind the national group.

This trend is making it increasingly difficult to retain good teachers to recruit new ones, Tennyson College graduates trained to teach are turning to industry where salaries and wages match their professional knowledge.

In an effort to equalize present conditions, the Texas State Teachers Association will ask the next legislature to increase the minimum beginning salary for public school teachers to $3,000 a year. The legal minimum now for teachers is $2,403 a year.

Negotiations Reopened In Steel Question

PITTSBURGH, July 15.—Representatives of the steel industry and the CIO united steelworkers will meet here Tuesday under government arrangement "in the interests of the national welfare" to reopen negotiations for settlement of the 44-day steel strike.

CIO President Phillip Murray was to meet with Bethlehem Vice President Joseph M. Larkin and general counsel John M. Morse. Larkin and Morse represent the six major steel companies.

Acting Defense Mobilizer John R. Steelman stepped into the deadlocked dispute Monday and arranged Tuesday's session after learning that talks between the union and the industry had broken off over the week end.

Steelman asked both sides to report to him following the meeting and told them it was "absolutely necessary to come to an agreement at the earliest possible moment in the interests of the national welfare."

Meanwhile, from another source came indications that the government is determined to force an over-all settlement of the dispute, rather than company by company.

Price Stabilizer Ellis Arnall said he told three companies which have reached "interim" agreements with the union that they would not receive price increases in excess of those already permitted under government regulations.

At the same time, it was reported, government sources had told the industry that an average increase of $5.65 a ton, $2 more than the present ceiling, would be granted, but only after an industry-wide settlement.

ing unit which cools the car to the desired temperature within six blocks of driving.

It will be optional equipment on 1953 Cadillacs and Oldsmobiles. Price was not mentioned.

Ike Vacationing Before Opening GOP Campaign

DENVER, July 15 (UP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower began "cleaning up odds and ends" Tuesday before starting a short vacation in Colorado.

The Republican presidential nominee told friends who greeted him as he arrived at the airport here Monday night that he hoped to get away Wednesday on a short fishing trip.

But James C. Hagerly, Eisenhower's press secretary, said the candidate would spend most of Tuesday "cleaning up odds and ends" before dragging out his rod and tackle box.

Beyond that, Eisenhower had no definite plans that members of his staff would talk about.

Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, checked into their Brown Palace hotel headquarters upon arrival, then went to the home of Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. John Doud, to spend the night.

The 55-degree weather which Eisenhower and his party found here was a welcome relief from the 90-plus heat of Chicago.

Many in the crowd of 15,000 to 20,000 that cheered him as he stepped off his chartered plane wore light coats or sweaters.

After a few extemporaneous remarks to those gathered at the airport, Eisenhower recalled that when he left Denver for Chicago 11 days ago he "made a little prophecy"—that the Republican convention delegates would "act like good, honest Americans."

"And they did," he added with a grin.

PAD Approves Pipeline By UNITED PRESS WASHINGTON, July 15.—The Petroleum Administration for Defense has approved plans for a 953-mile crude oil pipeline which the West Coast Pipeline Co., Dallas, plans to build, it was announced Monday. The line will run from Wink, Tex., to Norwalk, California and cost about $79.5 million.

Candidate Wants School Land Leases Sold at Auction

Methods now used in selling oil and gas leases on state school lands are robbing Texas children of millions of dollars, Guy Patterson, 46-year-old Eastland oil man, declared this week in announcing his candidacy for State Land Commissioner in the Democratic primaries.

Patterson pledged himself to change the system of "sealed and secretive" bidding now used to one of "open and competitive" selling at public auction from the State capital steps. The Texas-born Patterson—he was born near Lott, Falls County, and came to Eastland in 1924—said he would have plenty to say about present policies of administering State-owned lands and State-sponsored Veterans benefits.

Collie Keeping Vigil At Water Filled Shaft

JOPLIN, Mo., July 15 (UP)—A homeless collie which has stood a fierce, weeklong guard over an abandoned, water-filled mine shaft Tuesday defied an attempt to poison it and resumed its mournful vigil.

The stricken dog, unclaimed by anyone in the area, was found lying in the rain alongside the 140-foot shaft it has refused to leave, apparently dead, Monday night.

The collie was revived by Dr. R. A. Coger. Early Tuesday the Joplin veterinarian and Humane Society officials returned the dog to the mine shaft lest it otherwise "grieve itself to death."

Attempted poisoning of the collie spurred efforts to drain the deep shaft of an estimated 70 feet of water to see if there is a body there.

The Rural Electrification Administration Monday completed a special power line to the mine shaft and workers began dewater-ing the shaft with a large electric pump. The REA estimated the job would be finished by Tuesday night, barring unforeseen developments.

Residents of the Spring City mine field area discovered the dog last week and have insisted the animal is watching for someone, possibly its master, who had disappeared into the deep hole.

Police Discount Kidnap Theory In Scientist Case

PASADENA, Calif., July 15 (UP)—Police discounted fears Tuesday that a missing scientist was kidnaped by foreign agents because he possessed military secrets.

Mrs. Florence Reed, wife of missing Albert Clark Reed, said Monday she was afraid her husband had fallen into the hands of spies because he was engaged in secret government research work.

She said Reed, an aeronautical research scientist at California Institute of Technology, vanished from his home July 7 and she later received a telephone call from a woman who told her Reed was "being held for information."

Chief of Detectives Stanley Decker said he did not believe Reed had met with "foul play," however, and theorized that the telephone call was a hoax.

He said an investigation indicated Reed had been depressed recently over financial matters.

Texas Hot Air Blocks Mass Of Cooling Air

By United Press

A long-reaching cool front which stretches from Flint, Mich., through Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas, was stopped in its tracks by hot air from Texas, but it brought some heat relief to the rest of the Southwest Tuesday.

U. S. Weather Bureau forecasters said the front had become stationary along a line extending down from Springfield, Mo., to north of Oklahoma City and into the Texas Panhandle.

Below that line the weather story was the same, hot and mostly dry with only scattered thundershowers. But north of the stationary front, cool air provided heavier showers and lower temperatures for Kansas, Missouri and parts of Oklahoma, Colorado and Wyoming temperatures were running well below the July average and New Mexico had showers ranging up to 55 inches at Santa Fe Monday afternoon.

Texas still sweltered and while some Oklahoma temperatures were held to autumn levels, other areas of the state steamed in damp heat.

Some early morning temperatures included 62 at Wichita, Kan., 54 at Denver, 68 at Ponca City, Okla., just north of the front line, 75 at Ardmore, Okla., and 80 at Dallas.

A general warming up was expected Wednesday throughout the area.

High temperatures Monday included 90 at Grand Junction, Colo., 73 at Sheridan, Wyo.; 96 at Rodeo, N. M.; and at McAlester, Okla.; 82 at St. Louis, Mo.; 85 at Cherokee, Kan.; and 100 at Fort Worth, Mineral Wells and Cotulla, Tex.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 15 (UP)—Hopes for early settlement of the 46-day-old West Coast maritime strike rose Tuesday after one steamship company signed an agreement with the AFL Sailors Union of the Pacific and joint negotiations between union and management resumed.

held the office for eight years and is asking for ten. I consider that the people have been extra nice to him, having held the office longer than any other District Clerk.

"January, eight years ago, I was the first person to announce for office of District Clerk but due to the fact that I was employed in defense work, I withdrew and did not make the race; however, I came back to Kokomo and Eastland and voted. I have never voted out of Eastland County but one time in my life, and that was when I was in defense work. Before I went into essential war work, I was rejected for the Army, because of an injury, but I am not asking for one single vote because I was rejected for Army service. I considered it more important to remain with the defense work, than make a political race, at that time. I feel that if the people are not willing for me to be District Clerk now, they never will be.

I have always been interested in court procedure. Early during the boom, due to a large amount of litigation, the 91st District Court was created, even then, the dockets of the two courts were crowded. Several years ago one court was discontinued. The salary of the District Clerk is larger now, than during the oil boom.

In my campaign, I appreciate the support and encouragement of my friends both old and new. It is nice to hear a voter say: "Keep knocking these doors, as you are now." Sometimes an office holder is inclined to brag how he performs the duties of the office. It is the duty of any public officer to perform his services politely, honestly, and efficiently; if he cannot or does not, he is not worthy of the honor that the people have bestowed upon him.

If the office of the District Clerk is a good thing, pass it around, if it is a burden, let someone else bear it for awhile. I would like to be that person. I assure you that if I am elected, I will not ask for ten nor eight years in office. I am asking the people of Eastland County for a fair chance and consideration, please give me your vote.

Sincerely,

regardless of where he lives. If elected it will be a pleasure as your County Judge to head any delegation to Austin or any where else to get every mile possible for this county. Others get it so easy. Let's spend wisely, economically and legally our tax dollars.

My friends, if you elect me your County Judge I shall at all times have a deep sympathy for all our needy and unfortunate. Those who need help must have the maximum aid, and, if under the present set up sufficient aid cannot be granted let's use all our influence to get some changes made by which our aged fathers and mothers can get a respectable living. Surely there is a way to remedy the present evils. Wonder if there isn't a way to get our legislature to do something about it. I'll do my part.

It is my earnest desire that this campaign be kept clean. I am running on my own merits and I'm not tied to any clique. Neither am I taking part in any race but my own.

Many, many thanks to you who are helping me in this campaign. I shall ever and always be sincerely grateful to you and if we are successful I shall not forget that the job is yours and I'm your hired hand intrusted with the greatest responsibility you have to offer. We must succeed and by your constant aid and counsel and His omnipotent care we can make this county a better, safer and grander place in which to live and rear our boys and girls.

As you all know I did not enter the race till May the 6th, therefore, it will be impossible for me to make a personal call on you so please accept this as such and I'll see you too if at all possible.

Sincerely,
C. S. (Clare) Eldridge

John White Is Candidate For Re-Election

AUSTIN, July 15 (Sp.)—The first definite step towards putting the Texas Department of Agriculture on a self-supporting basis was claimed this week by Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

White, who is asking a second term in the top agriculture job in Texas, said his department is requesting less aid from the state general revenue fund in 1954, despite plans to increase his office's scope of activities. If White's budget is approved by the Texas Legislature next year, the expansion program will be financed by fees collected by the department, he explained.

The commissioner said his action breaks the general custom of state offices requesting a surplus of funds in hopes of obtaining an adequate amount after legislative cutbacks. The Department of Agriculture was granted $309,540 from general revenue for 1953 expenses. The new budget asks $309,000 in 1954.

"While a saving of $540 may seem negligible on the surface," said White, "it means we are over the hump in maximum tax money spending and our request from year to year are now expected to decrease with no loss of services to agriculture in Texas. The use of department fees to finance new work is a step in the right direction towards making the department self-supporting and, in the long run, towards lightening the tax burden."

Before White won the agriculture post from veteran politician J. E. McDonald two years ago, he was head of the Division of Agriculture at Midwestern University, Wichita Falls.

REDS WARNED THAT BOMBING STOPS ONLY FOR ARMISTICE

By Robert Vermillion

TOKYO, July 15 (UP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, U. S. Army chief of staff, warned the Communists Tuesday the UN will continue its stepped-up air war with some "tough bombing" unless the Reds agree to an armistice.

Collins, who just returned to Tokyo from a visit to the war theater in Korea, declined to predict the outcome of the Panmunjom truce negotiations other than to say there is a "chance" for peace.

"But if the Communists insist on continuing the fighting," he said, "they're going to be in for some tough bombings."

Two Heavy Blows, Already

The Communists have suffered two damaging blows recently from fleets of Allied warplanes. On June 23, a 500-plane force knocked out five North Korean power plants. Last Friday 850 planes reduced Pyongyang to ashes in day long attacks on supply areas.

Collins said the UN could defeat any Communist offensive in Korea unless some "outside power" throws in considerable weight against us.

And in that case, he added, "if necessary to employ anything to save our forces, we would use it—except term warfare."

No Comment On A-Warfare

Collins declined to say whether the UN would use atomic artillery if this "outside power" should enter the war. He said it is "something the enemy would like to know." Then he added:

Sgt. Tucker Is In Philippines

CLARK AFB—T-Sgt. Walter L. Tucker, son of Mrs. Erie T. Tucker, and husband of Mrs. Dorothy D. Tucker, 611 S. Walnut St., Eastland, recently arrived in the Philippines to serve a tour of duty with the U. S. Air Force.

Upon his arrival here, Sergeant Tucker was assigned to the 24th Motor Vehicle Squadron, 6208th Depot Wing on Clark Air Force Base, located 60 miles north of Manila.

Sergeant Tucker has been in continuous military service since July 1941. New on Clark AFB, but not new in the Philippines, Sgt. Tucker was stationed here during World War II. He participated in the famous Death March, spent thirteen months at a concentration camp, and was later sent to Japan as a prisoner of war.

He is a holder of the Asiatic Pacific Campaign Medal with five battle stars, Presidential Unit Citation with one Oak Leaf Cluster and the Philippine Defense Ribbon.

Sergeant and Mrs. Tucker have seven children, Patricia, 12, Sylvia, 10, Torella, 8, Carolyn Ann, 7, Patrick, 6, Walter Jr., 5, and twins Alland and James 1.
