SEEN OR HEARD

don norris

Abilene—Jimmy Camacho last night in the transition from high school to college football in his performance in a scrimmage session Saturday afternoon meant anything. From the small segment we saw he had slipped into his dual role much as he did in high school here.

Camacho and one other freshman were the only two of the thirty-odd newcomers to be playing defensive and offensive half in the scrimmage session between the Hardin-Simmons varsity and freshman teams.

In Paddock play Camacho was a standard fixture at the linebacker slot, but the H-SU coach had him playing defensive safety Saturday. Offensively he was at his regular halfback position.

Camacho was "talking it up" and slapping the other freshmen on the back to urge them to get all out and stop the strong varsity. He was wearing that big grin of his awaiting the next play. Once the play developed everything got serious with the former Bulldog back.

Camacho would come in from his safety slot on most of the varsity running plays to get more than his share of the tackles. He hit harder than we've ever seen him hit while on the Bulldog team. More than once he was praised by the coach for his alertness in breaking up near stampedes by the backs from the first sign.

No one needs to be told what Camacho can do offensively on anyone's ball club. Just give him the ball, a little help and he will do the rest.

Barring injury he will see a lot of ball playing the "next forty acres."

Major Dick Henderson, CO of the RJC CAP unit, had some of his fledgling cadets at the Ranger air port Monday afternoon, sprucing up some of the aircraft in the hangars for the visit of some CAP brass Tuesday.

The boys were working their way into flying from the ground up. At the same time they were working their way from the top down. From the top of the plane to the bottom with a hose, washing the dust and dirt off the craft.

Comes football season—comes hand season—and for band students that's as important to them as football is to the football squad.

We'll admit that win or lose the band is always in there pitching with the team. But they sure take a back seat when it comes to handing out the glory.

Unless we have a stroke you'll never see us saying that: "Fred Stiffey fielded a well-coached and smoothly operating band at Jackboro Friday night."

Nor will the fans in the stands rise and scream when one of the kids plays an extra sweet note on one of the horns. But the are always there adding color and glamour to the games. In addition they take part in any worthwhile civic program. They put in more time practicing the "formations" than the team.

It's about time someone handed out some flowers at the right time. The best way we know how your wholehearted support can be shown is getting with the BAND BOOSTERS CLUB and do you bit to promote fine bands for the future.

The city is getting an engineer in here to smooth out the trouble in the sewage disposal plant north of Hagaman Lake that oil dumped in the mains has caused.

Oil has nearly killed all the bacteria that usually disposes of the city's waste making it necessary to give the little bugs a boost.

Memory Failure Costs

DETROIT, Sept. 16 (UP)—William Sweeney, 62, sat in jail Tuesday and tried to spruce up his memory.

A bad recollection of his past brushes with the law cost him a jail term Monday. Judge Joseph A. Gillis said he would give Sweeney "a break" if he could remember, within 25, the number of times he'd been arrested.

"I guess about 85," Sweeney said.

"Wrong," said Gillis. "The record shows 198 arrests since 1913. Ninety days."

IRANIAN-BRITISH RELATIONS THREATENED

TEHRAN, Iran, Sept. 16 (UP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh threatened Tuesday to break off Iran's diplomatic relations with Britain.

Mossadegh said he would sever relations unless Britain ends its economic blockade of Iran and compensates this country for oil revenue lost since the Abadan refinery closed.

The Iranian Majlis—lower house of parliament—promptly backed up the premier by giving him a unanimous vote of confidence for his firm stand against Britain.

Called To Special Session The Majlis had been called into special session to hear Mossadegh's reasons for rejecting the August 30 joint proposals of President Truman and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

Mossadegh's report was read to the Majlis by Deputy Premier Bagher Kazemi. In it, the premier demanded:

1. The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Co., compensate Iran for all losses incurred as result of a British "blockade" which has prevented Iran from selling its oil in world markets and froze Iran's sterling assets in Britain.

2. The Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. pay at once $157 million in allegedly owed Iran before the Iranian government nationalized the company's Iranian properties last year.

A New Twist

Mossadegh gave his second demand a new twist by demanding that the money be paid in dollars rather than pounds sterling. Britain denies she owes Iran any such sum. Moreover, a payment of this amount from Britain's dwindling pile of dollars would shove the

Former Ranger Physician Talks To Beaumont AA

A former Ranger practicing physician and now head of the state hospital at Rusk spoke Friday to the Beaumont Alcoholics Anonymous in the Crystal ballroom of the Edison Hotel.

Dr. C. L. Jackson spoke on the "Medicine's Conception of Alcoholism." His address stressed the Alcoholic Anonymous program and its association with God.

Prior to his leaving Ranger he was associated with the Ranger Clinic, which he and his brother, the late Dr. W. L. Jackson built. Before going to Rusk Dr. Jackson was with the old Beaumont General Hospital.

POLICE SEARCH FOR DRIVER OF STOLEN CAR WRECKED; LEFT

Ranger and Strawn law enforcement officers are searching for a youth who fled the scene after wrecking a grey 1951 Ford at the intersection of Pine St. and the Breckenridge Highway, last night at 3:15 a.m. Ranger policeman Ralph Veal gave chase to the car and driver after becoming suspicious of its actions. Veal attempted to stop the driver for questioning, but the chase started when he flashed a light on the stolen car. The wreck occurred when the driver attempted to cut back down Pine street after rounding the swimming pool corner at high speed. The car swerved and went over the end of the culvert on Pine and rammed a light pole.

The driver fled west across the site of the old lake and was lost by the officers.

Strawn Constable Ben Bradford joined the search after he learned the car was stolen from Leo Cosby, a Strawn used car dealer.

The driver was later sighted by Ranger police getting a drink of water at the Taylor service station east of Ranger. When he sighted the officers he fled again, still minus one shoe. His trail was later picked up, according to John Shook, who joined the search on Russell Creek on Highway 80.

Strawn Constable Ben Bradford arrived and took up the search being conducted by Shook, Veal, and Ed Freeman for the person, believed to be a Strawn youth who had stolen the car.

Also found in the automobile was a four-cell flashlight stolen earlier from the Strawn Merchandise Co. This led the officers to believe that the driver may have been involved in the earlier theft.

Bulldogs Go Through Separation Program—The Men From The Boys

This week the high school football field "sho ain't" no place for the weary or timid. The Bulldogs will either be football players or sitting in the cheering section in a very short time.

"Get mean, get mean—hit hard—keep your head up—act like you were alive—we're gonna play football out here—stay on your feet—keep your weight under control—quit jumping—you don't drive a car with your eyes shut—keep your eyes on your objective—let's go, get right," these short words rolled out above the grunts and groans at Bulldog field yesterday afternoon.

Sweating linemen and panting backs went through fundamental movements under the critical eyes of Coaches Warden and Aills. Nothing was right to them unless it was perfect, nothing was perfect.

Things look as if the coaches are starting a building program from the ground-up after the blunders in Friday night's game with Jackboro. Right before every one's eyes the linemen and backs worked, raking blunder after blunder, getting corrective instructions from the coaches. Doing the same thing over and over, grinding away.

You're either going to see a new bunch, or no bunch, at Stamford Friday night. From can't can't practice on every detail from blocking to tackling, running to passing is being pounded into the Bulldogs. How well they take the training will decide many a future ball game.

The coaches are handing it to them, but not on a silver platter. While they spit out the grass and dirt from the last contact they get instruction. The Bulldogs are going to be a football team. It ain't no place for the timid.

Near 900 In Ranger For Drawing Sat.

Approximately 900 people registered for the Trades Day drawing held Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m. The cooler weather is seemingly causing an increase in the number of persons attending the drawing. Indications are that they come earlier and stay longer in the absence of the excessive heat.

Winners Saturday were Nora Shipman, $50; T. H. Grisham $25; Mrs. Marvin Edwards and Mrs. C. H. Purless, $10 each; and Mrs. Finis Wheat the $5.

The drawing will continue indefinitely each Saturday in Ranger.

Hardin-Simmons Begins Sept. 17

ABILENE—The fall semester at Hardin-Simmons University will begin Wednesday with a two-day registration period. Registrar A. B. Lee has announced.

Pre-registration activities begin Monday with freshman orientation and placement tests and Reserve Officers' Training Corps physical examinations Monday and Tuesday. Classes will begin Friday.

ROTC training is being offered at Hardin-Simmons for the first time this year. Col. Howard P. Rice is senior officer of the H-SU unit.

"We will be interested to determine the effect of the new ROTC program on enrollment," Lee stated. Regarding it and the possible effect of the statewide drought, the number of applications for admission indicates that enrollment will be about the same as that of last year's fall term. Lee said Resident students last fall numbered 1,373.

Oil Activity Is On The Upgrade

Sudden Typhoon Levels Wake Island

Winds Up To 138 MPH Lash Tiny Island Tuesday

AGANA, Guam, Sept. 16 (UP)—Wake Island was reported "typhoon" Tuesday by a typhoon which struck without warning and battered the tiny mid-Pacific island with winds up to 138 miles an hour.

Communications from the island were almost wholly disrupted by the storm but unconfirmed reports reaching here said Pan American Airways was asking for evacuation of its personnel on Wake.

There were no immediate reports of casualties among Wake's 750 inhabitants, most of whom are commercial airline and military personnel.

Pan American officials said one of the line's clippers, identified as an airlift patrol, had made intermittent radio contact with Anderson Air Force Base here.

The clipper's crew reportedly said in the brief message that the airline's hotel on Wake had been "demolished."

The typhoon, although its winds had diminished, was reported still blowing 17 hours after it began.

The Navy weather station here said the typhoon developed "very suddenly" in the northern part of the Marshall Islands and headed north from there.

The typhoon ripped rooftops off buildings on Wake, knocked communications lines down, and forced all aircraft to fly past the island.

Inhabitants had to take to shelters as the typhoon, accompanied by severe squalls and torrential rains, bore down on them.

A ham radio operator here said he had intercepted a message which said the storm "uprooted" quonset huts and other flimsy structures on Wake.

A reconnaissance plane located the center of the typhoon, named "Olive" at about 30 miles north east of Wake later Tuesday.

Communications between Wake and Honolulu were still down hours after the storm struck the island and there was no immediate estimate of damage of any casualties.

All air travel was diverted to Johnston and Kwajalein Islands. Pan American Airways said at Honolulu that one of its radio mechanics later succeeded in getting word through that the typhoon had passed Wake without injuring any company personnel.

Above Normal Weather Will Keep Lingering

By United Press

Temperatures in the Southwest were expected to stay five to 10 degrees above normal Tuesday as the parching rays of the sun burned down through generally clear skies.

The Weather Bureau saw no immediate relief from the sizzling heat that closed in on the area earlier this month after one cold front had lowered the record high August mercury readings.

Little or no rain was forecast for a six-state area from Wyoming to the Rio Grande.

At the same time, Victoria, Texas, cleaned up after a flood crest on the Guadalupe river. The relatively mild flood there was the latest in a series of overflows from two swollen Texas rivers that has done at least $11 million worth of damage.

The Weather Bureau said readings in east Colorado were 16 degrees above normal. Monday afternoon, Colo., had the high temperature at the state, 93 degrees. In Wyoming, the high was 82, at Sheridan.

Joplin, Mo., reported 87, the Missouri high, while Goodland topped the Kansas list with 89.

Oklahoma had fair and hot weather Monday and Tuesday. The weatherman there said no rain was in sight. The Sooner state high Monday was 96 at Ardmore.

In Texas, Fort Worth reported 98. Maximums were generally in the 90s, with the low afternoon maximum being 82 at Marfa. Six points reported precipitation. Corpus Christi had the most, 1.35 inches.

APPEAL FOR THE PAPER BOYS

The editor, linotype operator and makeup men on a newspaper are an important part of publishing a paper but all their work would be to no avail unless the paper boy was there to deliver the finished product. A few are prone to overlook the "lowly" paper boy and fail to realize just what his job entails. In hot, cold or rainy weather the paper must be delivered each evening.

The boys delivering the Ranger Times are school boys that devote their time each evening to delivering the paper so that they may have spending money for the football games, excursions and various school activities.

It doesn't take them long to cover their route providing they have no trouble finding the subscriber or collecting for the paper at the end of each week or month. The days are getting shorter now and it won't be long until cold weather will be here to hamper the deliveries. The boys are anxious to complete their rounds each day so they may study their schoolwork and attend the ball games that will be so popular during the school term.

Due to the games scheduled on Friday night, collections will be on Thursday and Friday for the next several months.

All subscribers to the Ranger Times are asked to please be at home on collection days or to make some arrangements with the delivery boy about the proper place to leave the money. Be considerate of the paper boy and make one trip to your home do the job.

Final Plans For Donor Recruiting Being Made

THE FALL GARDEN

COLLEGE STATION — The home garden has become an economic factor in Texas living during the past eight years. In 1944 more than one million home gardens were reported to the Agricultural Extension Service of A&M College, and the figure has hovered around the half million mark each year since. The total production is to be higher this fall with food prices eighteen per cent above pre-Korean War figures.

John Hutchison, horticulturist for the Extension Service, says recent general rains will enable many families to renew efforts to have a successful fall garden. The gardener stands a good chance of harvesting many dollars worth of garden-fresh vegetables to save on the food bill and add variety and essential vitamins and minerals as well as downright goodness to fall and winter eating.

In most areas of Texas there are from 60 to 90 days of good growing weather during the later summer and fall. The horticulturist says, "for the maximum production of the widest variety of vegetables, make every day count."

He recommends planting certain varieties in the fall garden that will mature before frost, with stand light frost, and those that will bear well with heavy frost.

Vegetables that will mature quickly include greenbeans, mustard, Irish potatoes, radishes and squash. The Tendergreen, Topcrop and Stringless Green Pod are varieties of green beans for fall planting.

The Tendergreen or Florida Broadleaf varieties of mustard will mature from 30 to 60 days. The Bliss Triumph is an Irish potato that matures within 75 to 90 days. For radishes, the Scarlet Globe is a quick maturing variety. The Early Prolific Straight-neck squash will be ready for eating in 50 or 55 days.

English peas, turnips, lettuce, cabbage, beets and Swiss chard are vegetables that withstand light frost in the garden. Varieties for fall planting include the Laxton's Progress for English peas, Purpletop and Shogoin turnips. Great Lakes for head lettuce and Salad Bowl variety for leaf lettuce. The early cabbage varieties are Copenhagen, Charleston Wakefield and Golden Acre. The mid-season variety is Glory of Enkhuisen and the late kind is Flat Dutch. The Detroit Dark Red beet matures in 60 to 75 days and the Loretta variety of Swiss chard matures in 45 to 60.

Vegetables that withstand heavy frost are collards, onions, spinach and carrots. Fall varieties for planting are Georgia and Louisiana collards, Bermuda and Sweet Spanish onions, Bloomsdale spinach and Danvers' Half Long, Red

Accept Officer's Job If Offered Specialist Says

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 8 — This is election time again. Unless you have a good reason for being unable to serve, accept the election in your club to the office of president.

Bonnie Cox, organization specialist for the Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M College, reminds you of the importance of being a good officer. She says you joined the organization because you wanted to share its benefits and good times. It is only fair that you share the responsibilities of the program and activities. Your club honors and expresses confidence when electing you president.

If you are elected, remember to be gracious and tactful at all times. Understand the purposes of the organization and get as many people as possible to work to achieve these purposes.

You probably will find yourself doing most of the work outside of the meetings over which you preside. Plan each meeting carefully with other officers, committee chairmen and members taking part on the program.

Miss Cox suggests certain rules which will make for efficient meetings: Call them to order on time; follow the adopted order of business; put motions and announce results of the vote; conduct elections; appoint committees; see that business is conducted in an orderly manner and according to parliamentary procedure; be impartial in recognizing members who wish to speak; enforce rules as to time limits for speakers and adjourn the meeting promptly.

For further details on organization procedure, ask your county home demonstration agent for a copy of 247, On Being An Officer.

Good Morning BEGINS WITH BREAKFAST

Eat at least this much breakfast. by Betty Baker

Breakfast can make the difference between a good or bad morning. For a good morning, breakfast is a must. Not coffee alone. Now surprisingly enough, a whopping big breakfast—you know the kind, with potatoes on the side. Coffee by itself gives you practically no food value; in contrast, those oversized morning meals are very likely to put you to sleep all over again, make you lousy and listless. Aim for a happy medium when you put breakfast on the table. Eggs, of course, because of the high-quality protein they contain. And enriched yeast-raised bread is almost equally important. It's rich in three B vitamins—thiamine, niacin, and riboflavin—as well as the mineral iron. Spread your toast with margarine or butter and you add vitamin A. Vitamin C is yours in a glass of orange, tomato, or grapefruit juice. Add to this egg-toast-juice combination a cup of coffee or a glass of milk (and bacon and cereal if you like) and you've got a combination to chase any listless feeling—plenty of energy to see you through the morning.

Church Christ Leader In Rome Protests Closing Of Churches

ROME, Sept. 16 (UP)—Cline R. Paden, Texas-born head of the Church of Christ mission here, said Tuesday his lawyer was preparing a three-point court protest because police barred religious services at his temple last Sunday and surrounded his home with guards.

"We will protest the arrest of Howard Bybee of Sunday, the fact that police prohibited friends from entering my home and the fact that visitors from Canada and Germany were kept out in the rain and forbidden to enter my home," he said.

Fourteen farm implement exhibits will cover 100,000 square feet of outdoor exhibit space, with free entertainment a feature at many displays. Other free exhibits are included in the Natural Gas Bldg., the Women's Bldg., Aquarium, three museums, the Hall of State and Agriculture Bldg.

Bybee, of Manteca, California, who heads a Church of Christ mission at Padua in northern Italy, was said to have been detained by police briefly when he tried to photograph them outside Paden's home.

Italian authorities explained the police went to Paden's dwelling because his church was not registered as a religious organization. They said Paden was in Italy on a tourist visa and not as a minister.

However, Paden denied reports that 21 other branch Churches of Christ in the other parts of Italy had been closed.

"I have been in constant contact with all of them by telephone, and they have received no orders from the police," he said. Paden said he went to the U. S. embassy Monday and asked to see Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker. He said he was to submit a written report of his case. Meanwhile a conference was called at the embassy to discuss the matter.

The State Department in Washington asked the Rome embassy for "Full information" on the affair.

Paden said that recently when he returned from an out-of-town trip he found his church quarters had been bombarded with tomatoes.

Following Monday's conference, a U. S. embassy spokesman said: "Until we have more information there's really nothing more we can do. Mr. Paden has not complied with the Italian regulations for registrations. We feel that he has not exhausted the possibilities open to him."

First Mexican Beef To U.S. Is To Fight

EL PASO, Sept. 16 (UP)—Ten bulls, the first Mexican livestock to enter the United States here in six years, were shipped on to San Francisco, Calif., Tuesday for a "bloodless battle."

The bulls were fighting-type, not eating-type. They were to do battle in the Cow Palace, San Francisco, with Patricia McCormick, a former Texas Western coed who turned bull fighter.

Officials of the Juarez, Mexico, bull ring said Miss McCormick would appear in "bloodless" bull fights Sept. 21 and 28 in California.

They said another Texas girl bull fighter, Georgianna Knowles of Yuleta, Tex., would follow Miss McCormick in the American exhibition if the experiment is successful.

Guadalupe River Poses Threat To 100 Family Homes

VICTORIA, Tex., Sept. 16 (UP)—The flood-swollen Guadalupe river rose toward flood stage at Victoria Tuesday, threatening the homes of nearly 100 families, and was continuing to rise six hours after it was expected to have reached its peak, according to Victoria county sheriff's officers.

At 6 a.m., authorities said the river had reached 28.87 feet Flood stage is 29.23 feet. More than 40 boats began evacuating families from the threatened lowland areas Monday night.

Chief Deputy Sheriff J. C. Durant said "a world of corn and some cotton" would be inundated if the river reached 29.5 feet. Durant said he didn't see any threat to life.

Durant said eight or ten families were moved out of homes at the west edge of the city during the night when water got about a foot deep in the houses. About seven or eight blocks of the town were covered with water about a foot deep.

James C. Zeder, vice president and director of engineering research for Chrysler Corporation, announces the opening of an entirely new $1,000,000 engineering exhibition at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas October 4 through October 19. The show, called "New Worlds in Engineering," includes 100 audience-participation displays explaining how American automobiles are manufactured.

"Two-Bit" Shave And Haircut Is Inflation Loss

By United Press

The price of a shave and a haircut, in big cities at least, has risen tenfold since the good old days of the jingle about "two bits."

A spot check by United Press showed that barbershops in many large cities now charge $1.50 for a haircut and $1.00 for a shave.

In medium-sized cities, haircuts generally run about $1.25 and in smaller towns $1.00 or less.

A few scattered shops still charge the 50 cents that was the prevalent haircut price before World War II, but they are hard to find.

The only "two-bit" barber uncovered in the survey was 84-year-old Daniel Byers of Woodbury, Pa., a farming community of about 225 inhabitants.

Byers charges only a dime for a haircut and 15 cents for a shave. A carpenter and cabinetmaker by trade, he took up barbering in 1915 and built his own shop, which he still occupies, in 1920.

He said he is doing a "good business."

By contrast Gov. Adlai Stevenson pays $3.50 for a haircut. Stevenson paid to pay $1.25 at Jimmy Drew's barbershop in Springfield, Ill., but since he became the Democratic presidential candidate he has been having Drew come to the governor's mansion.

Drew said Stevenson doesn't tip. For one thing, Drew said, it's not customary to tip the proprietor, and Drew owns his own shop. "And anyway," Drew said, "you know he's very careful about money."

Dwight Eisenhower's haircut habits are relatively unknown. On Aug. 28, a white-coated barber was called to Eisenhower's New York headquarters and cut his fringe, but the price was not reported.

In New York, haircut rates range from 60 cents to $1.25 and shaves from 50 cents to 65 cents. Prices vary depending on union contracts in certain neighborhoods.

In the swank New York hotels, a haircut in your own room costs $1.50 and a shave $1. On the bowery, down-and-outers get their hair cut free at the Central Barber School.

Stevenson Backers Apt To Campaign

BONHAM, Sept. 16 (UP)—Texas Democrats backing Adlai Stevenson will probably make campaign plans soon, House Speaker Sam Rayburn said Tuesday.

Rayburn said no definite campaign strategy had yet been mapped by those loyal to the regular Democratic ticket.

"There will probably be a meeting of some kind before too long," he said. "I've been talking with a lot of people, but there are no definite plans and there won't be any until sometime later this week or early next week."

Rayburn said a meeting might be held in Austin, Dallas or Waco.

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (UP)—Ferry Boat decided to buy a safe after $260 had been stolen from his filling station. A few days later robbers smashed the safe, which contained $310.

FAVORS OPPOSITION—A. F. of L. President William Green (L) greeted by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York at the opening session of the 71st annual convention of the American Federation of Labor. Delegates to the convention are expected to break a 71-year-old precedent next week by endorsing a Presidential candidate. Green has indicated the endorsement will go to Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidate.

First Air Express Experiment

Plane load of air express shipments being placed aboard a four-engine Handley Page World War I bomber at Mitchell Field, Long Island, N. Y., November 14, 1919, by American Railway Express Company, predecessor of Railway Express Agency. The objective was to fly non-stop to Chicago, Ill., for fast delivery of express shipments. Head winds and engine trouble forced the plane down at Mt. Jewett, Pa.

The shipments were transferred to the first Chicago passenger train; the first express shipments to travel in combined air and rail express service. Regular air express service started Sept. 1, 1927. Today, 23,000 communities located on and off the airline routes enjoy air express service through the coordination of rail and air facilities of the Air Express Division of Railway Express Agency.

NEWS FROM CHEANEY

Mrs. Bill Tucker

School days are here again with the youngsters eagerly awaiting the big yellow bus each morning.

We cannot help but think of the poem we once memorized, "Backward, Turn Backward, O' Time, in Your Flight, and Make Me a Child Again, Just for Tonight."

The few drops of rain which fell early this (Tuesday) morning, did not cause a riot—possibly folks are already resigned to hauling water for home use and the livestock. Still we hope for more and lots of water for the depleted supply.

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Henderson were Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Miller and daughter of Snyder.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

MONEY DOESN'T GROW ON TREES— BUT TREES GROW INTO MONEY

NOT ONLY TREES, BUT CORN, CATTLE, APPLES, COTTON— AS YOU RIDE ACROSS THE COUNTRY YOU SEE WEALTH IN THE PROCESS OF CREATION ON EVERY HAND, AIDED AND ABETTED BY THE LUMBERMAN, THE FARMER AND THE RANCHER.

IT'S THE WORK THAT THEY AND OTHER WORKERS DO THAT GIVES MONEY ITS REAL VALUE. WITHOUT IT, THERE WOULD BE NO LUMBER OR CORN OR BEEF OIL. OTHER THINGS TO BUY. WHY THEY PRODUCE IS PART OF THE WEALTH OF AMERICA.

The sick folk of the community are still being mentioned. Mrs. Bessie Perrin is recovered enough to be up for short intervals each day.

Mrs. Cicera Rogers continues to have her good and bad days. The family is deeply appreciative of the food and gift contributions from neighbors and friends.

A daughter, Mrs. Veda Burns and children from McGregor, were here Sunday as well as Mrs. Gladys Hibby, Rising Star, and Mrs. Letty Craddock of Grand Prairie. Other relatives who visited them were Mr. and Mrs. Ed Campbell of Ranger, their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Love and children of Ft. Worth.

Mrs. Vinie Lee and Vivian of Ranger visited Mrs. Bertha Strickler and family on Sunday and attended church service at Cheaney.

Rheumatic Fever Enemy Of School; Disables Students

AUSTIN—Rheumatic fever and its complication, rheumatic heart disease, probably disable more school age children than any other cause except accidents, declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Rheumatic fever is a well known enemy of children, still physician do not know exactly what causes it. It usually appears about two weeks after an infection caused by germs of the streptococcus such as tonsillitis, scarlet fever or sore throat. Some children appear more susceptible than others and this trait seems to run in families. Rheumatic fever can occur in any surroundings, but it is most common among children living in poor and crowded homes, and among children who do not get enough of what is called the protective foods such as milk, eggs, meat, butter, fresh fruits and vegetables and the like.

Rheumatic fever actually has no symptoms that are all its own. A few of the group of symptoms the doctor looks for are: persistent fever, poor appetite, tiredness, failure to gain weight, paleness, repeated nosebleeds and especially pain and inflammation that moves from joint to joint.

Rheumatic fever is a disease that may affect any part of the body—skin, joints, blood vessels, heart or brain—but usually it is the heart that is most seriously affected. Unless they are prevented by good management, the acute attacks have a tendency to come back again and again. When this happens, the valves of the heart are usually affected. Sometimes so slightly that the child is not handicapped; sometimes so seriously that the child dies. The present day treatment of rheumatic fever is directed at two things. First, reducing the risk of heart damage from an acute attack by bed rest and appropriate treatment with drugs. Second, doing everything possible to prevent another attack after recovery from the first.

Over-Glorified And Over-Glamorized FBI Still Great Power For Good

Over-glorified and over-glamorized, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is the victim of its own publicity. Such is the statement made in the current issue of People Today which contains a revealing, behind-the-scenes article called, "The Sear Against The FBI."

Until a year ago, the FBI was almost sacrosanct. When Director J. Edgar Hoover made his annual visit to Capitol Hill to ask for money, Congressmen treated him with awe verging on veneration. He never had to face the angry challenges that Congress habitually snarl at other Government officials nor suffer the anguish of watching his budget requests being cut. On the contrary, Congress usually voted him more than he wanted.

To the average American, the FBI agent was perfection personified. He was handsome, manly, alert at all times, clean, courageous, and the possessor of uncanny mental powers. He oozed integrity. He never told a lie and he was infallible. He always got his man. Anyone who dared to suggest that he might have a few of the human frailties was considered a public enemy of some kind.

That's no longer true. The FBI still is a highly respected organization, but it's been coming in for increasing criticism. Only this spring, radio and TV columnist John Crosby blurted out during a TV show that an office boy could become a G-man and that during the war, quite a few did to dodge the draft. The outcry that followed caused Crosby to "make a public apology."

Similarly during Judy Coplon's trial for espionage, U. S. District Judge Sylvester Ryan in open court accused the FBI of breaking the law and lying on the stand. And most of the nation's editorial writers agreed that he had good reason for his charges.

The FBI is called a "Gestapo." It's accused of attempting to suppress civil liberties and introduce thought control. The average G-man, we're told, can't distinguish between a common garden variety liberal and Joseph Stalin. The G-men are said to frame people and to third-degree them into confessing.

What has caused this change in attitude?

If you ask chief G-man Hoover he'll tell you in two words: "Vicious propaganda." The gangsters, the Reds, the pinks, the fascists all have been screaming falsehoods about the FBI for so many years, he insists, that some people, not realizing the source, are beginning to believe them.

There's some truth in this but it is not the whole truth. The real reason the attack on the FBI has been so successful is that it was over-glorified and over-glamorized.

DOWN ON THE FARM

Oklahoma farmers of Beckham county who participated in an experimental deep plowing program this year are generally convinced the new method of cultivation is worthwhile.

L. V. Strickland, PMA committeeman for the county, said Beckham county alone contains 120,000 acres of sandy cropland which could benefit from deep plowing. The new technique involves the use of a plow from 16 to 26 inches deep to bring up clod-forming subsoil—usually clay. The subsoil not only helps stop wind erosion but also supplies additional nutrients for cultivated plants.

The federal government subsidized plowing of 7,000 acres in Beckham county after officials in Washington decided the immediate return from such treatment could not be expected to offset the $10 an acre cost. Owners of most of the farms involved said their production has been so low they are unable to finance the special plowing.

Cotton planted on deep-plowed fields suffered terrific drought damage in the past few weeks, Strickland said. But he said cotton was far better developed on Aug. 1 on deep-plowed land than on land cultivated by old methods. And final yields will be much bigger from the deep-plowed fields despite the drought, he predicted.

Up to 5,000 4-H Club boys and girls in the Sooner state are expected to grow rabbits this year at the suggestion of the Oklahoma State Rabbit Foundation. The foundation, with headquarters at Oklahoma A&M College, Stillwater, is working closely with the 4-H headquarters there. Rabbit raising has been approved as an official 4-H activity.

Turkey growers are urged to hold their birds off the market until they are fully developed. Carl Wick, agriculture poultry expert, said selling turkeys before they are finished costs the grower in two ways. He loses the advantage of higher prices commanded by good finish and quality, and when too many poor quality birds are being sold the seasonal markets are likely to slump.

Animal husbandry specialist J. C. Hillier says Oklahoma's 1952 spring pig crop is going to market a month early because of earlier farrowing and improved feeding practices. The Oklahoma A&M College teacher says the pigs normally go to market in October.

THE STORY: Jack Duggan, a private detective, is murdered after he posed as Psychiatrist Basil Willing. Aged and blind Katherine Shaw dies under mysterious circumstances the same night Basil's death follows a dinner at the home of Dr. Zimmer, also a psychiatrist, who had been studying some of his patients at the gathering. Dr. Zimmer later resumes his gatherings and Basil asks Miss Shaw's secretary Charlotte Dean to attend and report what occurs. Later the same night Basil is called to the home of the poet Stephen Lawrence, who is near death from a roadside overdose. Basil revives Lawrence by telling the man he must live for his daughter's sake.

But it was not until late afternoon that Charlotte Dean made her appearance at the Willings'.

Charlotte declined mint julep, accepted iced tea. Outwardly she was fresh and trim as ever in spotless white hat and gloves that brought out the pattern of her black and white print. But she soon betrayed embarrassment.

"I've been debating all day whether I should see you or not, Dr. Willing. I nearly decided not to come here at all. I'm not used to spying and, after last night, I felt a little ashamed as well as a little silly."

"Because nothing happened, nothing at all. And to think that I had ever suspected any one of those pleasant, perfectly normal people!"

Basil smiled. "Are you sure you weren't a little disappointed, too?"

"Of course not. I was relieved. Though I admit that, when you are all keyed up like that and nothing happens, you can't help feeling a little let down afterward. Instead of Joan of Arc or Mata Hari, I'm just Charlotte Dean after all, as I should have known all along."

Basil did not appear to urge her. "How was Stephen Lawrence last night?" he inquired casually.

"In excellent spirits, much more gay than usual. He can be very amazing when he is in the mood. I felt it such a privilege to sit next to him at table—I don't know him very well, but I've always admired his verse."

"And his high spirits go on to the end?"

"Oh, yes. He and Perdita were among the first to leave and I heard him laughing as he went out the front door. Such a light, musical laugh for a man!"

Gisela shivered. As he left that house, Stephen Lawrence had laughed. With poison already in his bloodstream? Or the act will to suicide already in his heart?

"You don't know what they were discussing?"

"No. They were at the other end of the room."

"I'm sure Rosamund Yorke was the loveliest woman there," remarked Gisela.

"Mrs. Yorke was a little bit... Charlotte paused for a word. "Distract, I thought. Once she even stammered."

"How was that?" Basil's question came swiftly.

"Let me see... Mr. Yorke was making plans for next summer. He said something about going to Europe and asked Mrs. Yorke if she could go with him on a certain date. She started to say something like 'Why, of course. We'll go by air on the first of July...'"

But, half-way through the sentence, her voice caught and her words stammered. She stopped speaking for a moment and then went on in a less natural tone of voice. No doubt it was the memory of the last time that we were all at Dr. Zimmer's together that upset her nerves. Now I come to think of it, there were several others who seemed to feel the same way in the beginning.

"And who were these others?"

"Isola Canning and her husband. You would hardly think either would be sensitive to atmosphere, but they must be. Mr. Canning was talking about the atom bomb—such an unpleasant subject. He said, 'If ever it comes Isola and I are going to...'" and then he stopped. Mr. Yorke finished the sentence for him. "He, no, walk to the nearest exit!" Mr. Canning nodded but he didn't say any more."

"And no one mentioned Duggan?"

"Of course not." Charlotte's tone gently rebuked the idea that anyone would be guilty of such a breach of decorum. "But I suppose Duggan must have been in everyone's mind at first," she admitted. "I could see when we got there that Mrs. Mann was working hard to put everyone at ease. And Dr. Zimmer, too. He was all things to all men, even discussing metre and infection with Stephen Lawrence. I heard them when they were standing beside the fireplace just before dinner, and I was quite entranced, ignorant as I am of such things. Dr. Zimmer listened so intently, one hand on the mantel, looking down at the fire. It needed poking, but he didn't touch it until Mr. Lawrence had finished what he was saying. Toward the end of the evening everyone seemed much more comfortable. Resuming these dinners as if nothing had happened is probably the best way to lay the ghost of poor Duggan. Mrs. Mann told me that Dr. Zimmer asked her to point that out to each of his patients in her invitation and he's probably right. Next time we will have forgotten all about Duggan now we've broken the ice."

"So there is to be a next time?"

"Of course." Charlotte was mildly disconcerted. "We're all dining there again next Friday."

"Was Mr. Shaw one of the uneasy ones?" Basil asked.

"Oh, no. He was in very good form. And seemed really quite attentive to me."
