FUNNY BUSINESS

"Don't forget, Pop, you gotta respect the buffer zone at my line of defense!"

OUT OUR WAY by J. R. Williams

BY GAYNOR MADDOX NEA Food and Markets Editor

MOST youngsters like to experiment with cooking. They like to set something they have fixed themselves.

So try giving them the ingredients, simple instructions, and turn the kitchen over to them. But if they are very young, keep your eyes on the stove.

These are some of children's favorite dairy foods, so let them start on some easy-to-do cheese cookery. They'll be getting sound nourishment, too. The nutrients in one ounce (one serving) of American cheese, for example, are equal to those in a glass of milk.

Crackers A La Pizza (Makes 8)

One-half cup grated American cheese, 1/4 cup chili sauce, 8 salted crackers.

Mix cheese and chili sauce thoroughly and spread on crackers. Arrange on cookie sheet and broil until cheese begins to melt (about 2 minutes). Serve with soup.

Banana Salad (Serves 4)

One cup cottage cheese, carrot slices, raisins, green pepper strips, lettuce.

Put the cottage cheese into 4 balls and arrange each on a lettuce leaf. Let the youngsters decorate their own salads, using raisins for eyes, carrot slices for a necklace and a nose, and green pepper strips for mouth.

Spice Spread

One package (3-ounce) cream cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon ginger bread.

Cream all ingredients together. Spread on bread; bake on cookie sheet in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 10 minutes.

MONDAY'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Ready-to-eat cereal with sliced banana, crisp bacon, buttered toasted English muffins, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Cottage cheese and vegetable salad, dressing, buttered whole-wheat toast, apple turnovers, tea, milk.

DINNER: Cold leftover broiled chicken, creamed new potatoes with chopped fresh parsley, corn-on-cob, buttered beans, buttered soft rolls, sliced tomatoes, left-over cake, coffee, milk.

In Our Time?

VI

COLONEL CARRINGTON thought he knew a George Custer of the Fifth Cavalry, although it had been the Third at Appomattox, and he called an orderly.

An orderly stepped in, saluting. "Bring me those files on regimental distribution, the new ones. No, have Sergeant Kelly look it up. I want to know where General George A. Custer is, Fifth Cavalry."

"Yes, sir."

While the orderly was gone, Carrington tried drawing me out. I told him it was useless, that the past for me had ceased at Appomattox.

"There's a Lieutenant Colonel Custer in the T. O. of the Seventh, sir. Would that be him?" The orderly had returned.

"Yes, of course. So Custer's finally been buried back, eh? He had a long ride. Last I heard he was still coasting on his war brevet, two stars, I think. And a new regiment, too. Well, that's the cavalry for you. All the cream, the blue-john's left for the infantry."

"Beg pardon, Colonel," I suggested. "I didn't get the location."

"Of course you didn't. Speak up, Simpson. Where is he?"

"Fort Riley, sir. Kansas."

Once out of sight of the fort, I suffered a twinge of that "Indian prejudice" which was rapidly becoming a part of my frontier character. I turned north, cutting across country for the Tongue valley. I told myself I wanted one last look at that big war camp before heading south.

By nightfall, I was 50 miles north of the fort, five due east of the string of camps along the Tongue. Leaving Hussein lethered in a thick alder copse, I struck out westward on foot, over the Wolf Mountains. I had little fear the horse would whicker even if mounted Indians passed close. Old Hussein was so used to having his nose pinched to keep him from betraying me on scouts into the Union lines, that I constantly expected him to beat me to it, reaching hooves up to grab his own nose when the occasion warranted.

FOUR hours brought me to a ridge overlooking the lodges of the Ogala Sioux. It was now midnight. To the south of the Ogala down river, ran the lodges of the Arapahoe and Cheyenne; to the north, up river, those of the Minniconjou, Hunkpapa, and Brule.

The Ogala lodges were pitched in a group of four villages, each village forming a corner of a large open square. Within this square an enormous bonfire was burning, throwing its light back onto the flanks of the hills in which I hid, a distance of 200 yards.

I had my old draw-tube, pocket scope on the scene.

A dance was in progress, probably had been for two days. This was not what shook me. But in the center of the ring of crazy wheeling figures was a tall pole, painted a vivid scarlet. From the top of this, sticks radiated in the manner of wheel spokes, a buckskin thong hanging from each of these spokes to within about eight feet of the ground. On each thong dangled a small, knotted object which at first lacked definition in the glass. The circling warriors gestured and jabbed at these objects with their lances, making them dance and jump wildly in the blazing firelight. Perhaps it was this motion which delayed me in identifying them, but suddenly my glance froze on one pairticular thong, drawn by the color of its burden, different from the rest.

It was bright red, not from paint or blood, but from nature, and it had once been the hair of Private James Halloran, Troop G, Fourth Cavalry. There were seven others.

In two hours I learned enough to put a price of 500 ponies on my scalp. The sign language of the plains Indian is simple. I knew enough of it to pick up and translate the pantomime and gestures coming to me through my eyes.

There would be war. . . . I would begin with the next sun. . . . The warrior societies would all choose new leaders before the moon sank. . . . They would move on the fort laying a trap for the pony-soldiers and walk-a-heaps to come out into. . . .

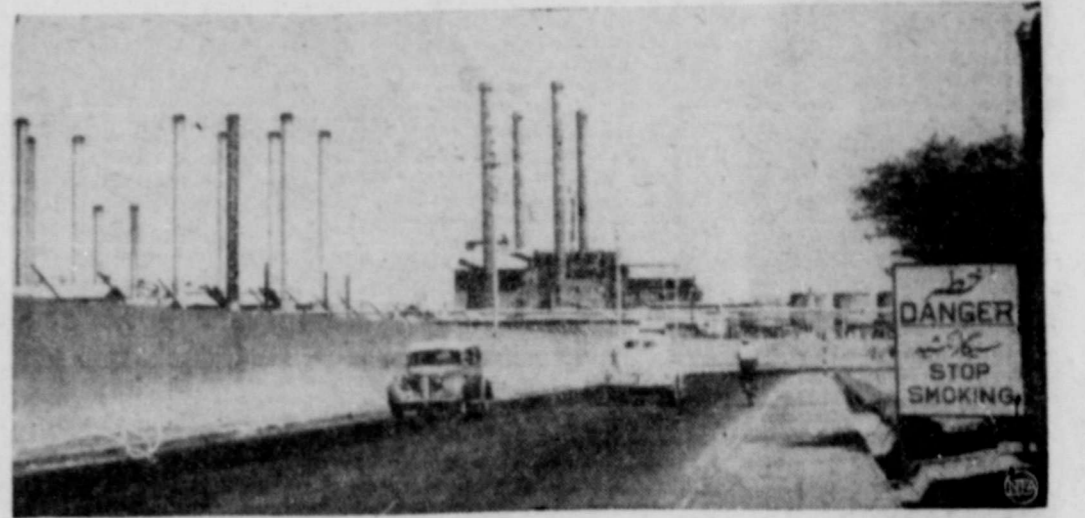

I could have learned more but there was no time. The moon, cold and blue as a cake of river ice, was already down; dawn, two hours away.

AS I was about to pocket the glass, a commotion arose on the outskirts of the dancers. Three lathered ponies dashed through the ranks, scattering squaws and yelping dogs in every direction. The warriors, Ogala Bad Faces, stopped in front of Crazy Horse, translating the hand wavings of the three scoots, the skin under my hair shrank like a squeezed sponge. . . .

Riding up a valley, east of the Tongue, returning from a scout of the fort, the fresh trail of an iron-foot horse. . . . Following trail, a pony calls out from the trees. . . . He was tethered there, the trail of a toes-out man, leaping away. . . . This way. . . . The horse is an evil one. . . . He screams and breaks the rope, lunges at Short Dog. . . . Short Dog is dead.

Tactically, my position was interesting. A mounted group was forming below to take the trail. Chance was they would not ride swiftly, knowing their quarry to be afoot, 50 miles from "home." My gamble was that Hussein would not abandon me, waiting rather in the vicinity in which he had been left.

SIGNIFICANCE OF SIGN CHANGES—Sign on the highway approach to the huge Abadan Refinery (rear), Abadan, Iran, proclaims "Danger". Sign was erected against smoking in the area, but seizure of the former British refinery by armed Iranian troops lent a more significant, ominous meaning to the road marker. (NEA Telephoto).

GUN-TOTING BIBLE STUDENTS CAUGHT AFTER 5-DAY SPREE

KEARNEY, Neb., Sept. 29 (UP)—A pair of gun-toting Bible students, who abducted five persons at pistol point before police bullets halted their wild flight through three states, today faced charges of kidnapping and auto theft.

Arnold L. Lingo, 15, wounded himself with his own gun when police captured him and his companion, Marvin A. Law, 16, Oak-kosh, Neb., near here yesterday.

The two youths were scripture students at the Colorado Springs, Colo., Bible School for three weeks before they went on their thrill-happy ride.

Lingo, who lives in San Antonio, Tex., shot himself in the stomach when he tried to draw his .22 caliber revolver on policemen. His wound was superficial, police said.

The pair was captured in the car of M. A. Wood, a Gibbon, Neb., grocer, who was the fifth hostage they had taken in two days. Police Chief R. T. Nelson, who led the capture, said that local authorities would prosecute on charges of kidnapping Wood and the theft of his car.

Thursday the youths held up taxi driver Harold Weir in Colorado Springs and robbed him of $18. They used his cab to take him 35 miles from the city, dumped him, and abducted another motorist.

They reportedly held the second man and then took his car to Goodland, Kan. There they forced a 27-year-old waitress, Leta Still, and salesman Keith Phillips into Phillips' car and sped to Holdrege, Neb., in an all-night ride.

They made the salesman take off his shoes before they forced him from his car and fired a shot in his direction. While they held Miss Still captive they fired a number of shots out the car's windows and threatened her.

"A libel suit would open this thing so wide, I doubt he'd ever file one," Link said.

2. Jeanette Boone, former Lithofold bookkeeper for Lithofold, was subpoenaed at St. Louis to testify here Wednesday. Link said she told him Boyle had received "well over" $1,250 from Lithofold. Boyle testified he got only $1,250 from Lithofold for legal services having nothing to do with RFC loans.

3. The possibility that Boyle might be "recalled" for further questioning was raised by McClelland. Link said he would give the committee staff information showing that Boyle conferred with R. J. Blauner, Lithofold president, at Blauner's Miami Beach, Fla., home.

4. A committee staff investigator in St. Louis was directed to question Tony Gilfoy, office manager of the printing firm. Link said Gilfoy told Lithofold bookkeepers how to record payments made to Boyle.

Link admitted yesterday that his stories were "libelous," if untrue. But he indicated that he is not worried about Boyle suing for libel.

"A libel suit would open this thing so wide, I doubt he'd ever file one," Link said.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Mary Eudy United With Aunt First Time In Four Score Years

News has been received here relating a very thrilling experience in the life of a 90 year-old aunt and her 84 year old niece when they were united in Wichita Falls during the week of August 12 for the first time in 84 years and 51 weeks.

Mrs. Mary L. Eudy of Ranger, the 84-year-old, whose hobby, is extensive traveling, went to Wichita Falls to visit with a daughter, Mrs. Florence Bauman. "It was the greatest thrill of my life," Mrs. Bauman related "to arrange the reunion between mamma and Aunt Rebecca."

The latter is Mrs. Rebecca J. Myers, a Wichitan since 1925, who celebrated her 90th birthday here July 4. She lives in a tiny house located at 903 Burnett Street between the homes of her son and grandson, Drs. Paul L. Myers and Paul L. Myers, Jr. Another son, Dr. T. H. Myers, also lives there at 2126 Avenue J.

Mrs. Eudy was born in 1867 in Bedford County, Tenn., just one week before Mrs. Myers and her family left that community. As time passed, the two families moved and moved again, the aunt and niece married and moved again. Strangely enough, both eventually came to Texas. Mrs. Eudy arriving in 1895 and Mrs. Myers about 1912. But they just never got around to doing any visiting.

Before moving to Wichita Falls, Mrs. Myers resided in Hillsboro and Waxahachie. Born in Shelbyville, Tennessee July 4, 1861, she later lived in Indiana where she met and married the late Mr. Myers. In addition to the two sons who reside in Wichita Falls, she has another son, Foster Myers, who lives in Waxahachie. The only daughter, Mrs. Martin Yager, makes her home in Texarkana, Ark. There are seven grandchildren.

Martha Dorcas Held Luncheon

The Martha-Dorcas Sunday School class of the First Methodist Church held their luncheon and business meeting in the home of Mrs. H. O. Woods Thursday at noon, with Mrs. Frank Williamson and Mrs. R. L. Willis as co-hostesses.

Rev. Garland Lavender offered the prayer of thanks and after the luncheon a business meeting was held. Mrs. J. A. Johnson, who has served as president for the past year, offered her resignation and Mrs. Dee Anderson was elected to serve. All other officers were re-elected and consented to serve. Mrs. Leslie Hagaman will be the teacher and Mrs. Leroy Pearson, assistant.

Those present were Mmes. M. P. Williams, Cicero Harris, J. S. McDowell, H. C. Henderson, J. L. Turner, G. O. Strong, Geo. Williams, R. B. Patterson, J. D. Nicholson, J. P. Killingsworth, H. G. Ramsey, Leroy Pearson, E. L. Dancley, Dee Anderson, Charles Ashcraft, S. Hightower, R. S. Balch, J. K. Dorris, L. E. Wolfe, S. B. Baker, Woods, Williamson and Willis. Rev. and Mrs. Lavender and Nancy and Mrs. Ted Sparlin were visitors.

Convention To Convene Oct. 4

The Royal Neighbors of America will be gathering from Graham, Breckenridge, Eastland, Antelope, Mineral Wells and Ranger for their convention, October 4, to be held here in the Elks Hall.

The meeting will open Thursday morning at 9:30 a.m. and continue throughout the day and an entertainment will be held during the evening session for the general public.

The local Royal Neighbors have been working hard making the necessary preparations for this event and Mrs. E. F. Arterburn, president, urges that all members be present Monday night for their regular meeting in order to see that everything is ready for the many guests who will be arriving Thursday.

These conventions are held twice each year and the local group counts it a great privilege to be host this year.

Bill Brada attended the football game last night. Killingsworth's ambulance service made it possible for him to be there and help the team win.

Bobby Justice, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Justice, underwent an appendectomy early Saturday morning in the Ranger General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Maberry are spending the weekend in Waco visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. Caroline Lindsey left Saturday morning to visit relatives and friends in Center for the week.

New Martin And Lewis Film To Show At Tower

That red hot comedy team of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis will bring their uninhibited capering to the screen of the Tower Theatre beginning today, when Paramount's "That's My Boy" sets up shop.

These versatile exponents of merriment, music and mayhem have top-drawer assistance in this howling account of life on the campus. Actress Ruth Hussey, temptress Marion Marshall, songstress Polly Bergen and a very funny fellow named Eddie Mayehoff lend their assorted talents in a side-splitting demonstration of what happens when a burly ex-football hero gets a scrawny weakling for a son.

The anemic college boy of the piece is Jerry. His eyes burn, his feet hurt and he gets allergies from just breathing. Jarring Jack Jackson, his very All-American father, wants him to put down his pills, pick up a football, and bull his way through the line.

Lewis, the irrepressible clown, mixes his wonderful nonsense with a real characterization that is additional proof of his unusual versatility. Martin gets an opportunity to display his unique vocal style, and pretty Polly Bergen assists him in song. Hal Walker directed this Hal Wallis production.

Rally Day For Methodist

Ranger Methodists will observe "Rally Day", Sunday, Sept. 30th with special services at both morning and evening hours. The Children's Division will present a special program at the regularly scheduled Church School hour. An attendance goal of 325 was set by the Worker's Council for the Church School, and every pew filled for the morning services.

The morning service will be held at the usual time—9:45 and 10:50 a.m. The choir will sing, "O Day of Rest and Gladness", by Wadsworth for the anthem.

The pastor will preach, using for his subject: "How much are you worth?", based upon Luke 12:15.

The change in time for the evening service will please be noted. Whereas the service has been held at 7:45 during the summer months, it will now begin promptly at 7:30.

Some Hunter May Get Off The Hook

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (UP)—Some fifty Texas sportsmen are about to be taken off the hook—they hope.

The Chief Clerk of the Game and Fish Commission tells all about it. The approximately half hundred persons are among the low priority applicants for the fall antelope season, October 1 to 9,

This year, on the basis of the 536 permits issued, it is estimated that something more than fifty will not make the trip. Under the antelope hunting proclamation, persons unable to use their licenses may turn them in to Austin headquarters of the Game and Fish Commission.

Small Furs Add Dash to Costume

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Fun fashions in fur are fine and they add a flip to any wardrobe. But they should be inexpensive. If they're done in rabbit, they are. And the smaller they are, the less they can cost.

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

A little shrug jacket in chin-chilla rabbit, the king of rabbit furs, is (left) mostly sleeves. Designed by Furbelows, it's dashing over a short white evening dress. Or, it can go over a suit or coat in place of a stole or even see service as the ultimate in luxurious bed jackets.

just for fun (right) by Harold Rubin turns out to be a practical fashion, too. A purple wrap-around skirt in rabbit fur is lined with turquoise wool jersey and worn over matching turquoise leotards. But the skirt can serve as a lap-robe for at-home lounging, as a robe in the car, as a knee-warmer at chilly spectator sports.

Texans Reminded Of New Laws

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (UP)—The Executive Secretary of the Games and Fish Commission reminded Texans of some extra state law license provisions for the new hunting season.

One is that all Texans over 16 years of age, planning to hunt waterfowl, must have the $2 Federal duck stamp regardless of whether they hunt in their home area.

Under the new state combined hunting license law, Texans must have the $2.15 license to hunt small game beyond their home county. All those hunting deer or turkey must have the state license, excepting those who hunt on the property of their residence and those who are under 17 years of age.

Those hunting deer or turkey on their home property or excused by youth, must obtain an "Exempt" license which is similar to the regular licenses. They are issued without cost, bear the regular two deer tags but have the word "Exempt" lettered in red across their face.

The Executive Secretary emphasized that, for the waterfowl season beginning November 9, only exemptions for the $2 Federal fee are persons 16 years of age and under.

Reports from the approximately 2000 state license agencies indicate that a normal number of Texans have bought the combined hunting license, as well as the $1.65 statewide fishing license. A few dealers already have asked for new supplies.

Bexar County's Famous Rat Dies

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28 (UP)—A ravenous appetite mixed with a peculiar taste for legal records last night led to the end of "The Baron", Bexar County's fabulous rat who probably has digested more legal decisions than most attorneys.

"The Baron" gained the fancy of clerks around the courthouse with his bold gallops through the alleys. They frequently left food in the Baron's haunts.

Several months ago the rodent began nibbling away at record ledgers in the district clerk's office. Deputy Clerk Jerry Magaña began to drive to exterminate "the baron."

Observed the deputy clerk: "So dies the rat who has certainly been living 'off the record.'"

Truman Signs New Bill

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (UP)—President Truman signed into law yesterday a bill authorizing an urgent $5,964,301,178 program of military construction.

Army, Navy and Air Force will build new bases and expand old ones in 44 states and in spots ever much of the rest of the world.

Included in the bill are secret plans for $1,000,000,000 chain of air bases in western Europe and the Mediterranean area—with in easy striking distance of Russia.

In signing the bill, Mr. Truman in effect killed his own veto of an earlier bill giving congress tight control over military real estate deals.

To get around the veto, House military construction measure which is so urgent Mr. Truman could not fail to sign it.

Liquor Agents Hit Jackpot

CHILDRESS, Sept. 28 (UP)—Erbert Bailey, about 50, of Childress was free on $1,500 bond today charged with being the owner of a cache of beer and whiskey found in "dry" Childress yesterday.

Newsprint Not Critical Now

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (UP)—The government has assured the newsprint industry that there should be no need for rationing of newsprint, even though it is scarce.

Following a meeting of the Newspaper Industry Advisory Committee yesterday, the National Production Authority (NPA) said publishers should get "adequate" supplies of newsprint barring an unforeseen change.

NPA added, however, that the industry is wasting newsprint by printing far more copies than it sells. It said it has reached an agreement with Boston publishers to "reduce such waste," and indicated it will try to reach a similar agreement with publishers in other cities.

Plankton are multiple billions of tiny plants and animals floating, swimming and pulsing through the seas—veritable pastures upon which all animal life in the oceans depends eventually for sustenance. While some species of plankton are easily seen by the naked eye, many others are microscopic in size. A bathtub of Gulf Stream water might well hold a million planktonic creatures—with plenty of room for more.

UT Student Found Shot In His Room

AUSTIN, Sept. 29 (UP)—A 24-year-old University of Texas student, identified by police as T. Finley Robinson of El Paso, was found shot to death yesterday in his boarding house room. The youth was a music student

A .38-caliber revolver was near the body.

A verdict in the death was with held by Justice of the Peace Travis Blakeslee pending completion of paraffin tests on the victim's hands by the department of public safety. These would tend to show whether Robinson had fired a weapon.

The body was found by a student who entered Robinson's room when he failed to answer the student's call.
