Man Charged With Brutal Campbell Slaying Is Arrested In Fort Worth

Ranger Postal Receipts Gain

Postal receipts of the Ranger Post Office increased sharply during 1952, A. K. Crawley, postmaster, reported today.

The year-end totals for the recently-ended 12 months period showed a marked increase in the total amount of money orders issued, and stamps sales during the year also showed a considerable gain over 1951.

Receipts of the Ranger post office during the past decade—1942 to 1952—have shown a terrific increase, Postmaster Crawley said. Revenue of the local postal branch over the 10-year period, he reports, has increased well over 25 per cent.

Stamps sales for 1952 were $34,644.91, contrasting sharply with a lesser $34,271 total for the previous year.

Money orders issued during the past year totaled $232,788.42—a whopping gain over the total of $206,616.71 reported for the identical span in 1951.

Fees on money orders during the past year totaled $2,640.92—a substantial increase over the $2,536.38 for 1951.

The Ranger post office is expertly manned by experienced personnel, thus affording the city and its environs the most efficient postal service the year round.

In addition to Postmaster Crawley, the Ranger staff includes Max Oler, Charles V. Ashcraft, W. C. Nichols and Mrs. Wilson, clerks; L. N. Bryan and O. M. Franklin, city carriers; and B. C. Singleton, C. B. Oatene and J. E. Bryan, rural carriers.

Substitute workers are Garrett Hise and Wes Poyner.

Homer Gray is labor foreman, and Frank Oakley is chairman.

Postmaster Crawley has been associated with the Ranger post office since 1924 and has been postmaster for the past 14 years.

GOES ON TRIAL—Former Government economist William Remington went on trial in New York on charges of lying when he denied he passed Government secrets to a Soviet agent and never paid dues to the Communist Party.

BULLDOGS IN FINAL DRILL FOR OPENER

Coach Sam Aills Maroon & White basketballs, gunning for the 1953 District 10-AA hardwoods title, wind up rugged preparatory workouts at the Recreation Building in Ranger this afternoon from 3 until 5, readying their offensive and defensive techniques for their crucial conference opener against the highly touted Cisco High Lobos here Friday night.

The Bulldog-Lobo duel is slated to open at 7 p.m. with a prelin skirmish between the "B" teamers of both schools, and the main event, featuring the varsity hardwoodsmen of Coach Aills and his rival, Coach Buck Overall, Cisco tutor, is due to be unraveled about 8 p.m.

The contests will be waged on the court of the Recreation Building and tickets for the double-bill are being sold at 25 cents for students and 35 cents for adults.

During daily drills this week, Coach Aills has been brushing up on his offensive strategies and also strengthening his defense. Aills' big headache Friday night will be a gent named Webb, 6-foot-4-inch tree-topping center and spectacular shooting point-maker who's a big cog in the Cisco hardwoods machine.

"If we can stop Webb," Coach Aills said early today, "then maybe we'll have a chance to win."

But stopping Webb, the RHS mentor added, is "easier said than done."

The Lobos, currently rated No. 1 favorites to cop the 1953 District 10-AA cage championship, has been terrifically impressive in their pre-conference combat with a record of 11 wins out of 14 starts.

WENT FOR WALK — Georgiana Fenton, 5, hugs "Bootsie Girl" her pet mongrel dog whose barks helped searchers find the child in an abandoned chicken house one mile from her Ft. Worth home. Georgiana was missing for four hours when she followed the dog which "went for a walk."

Chest Meets Friday

Officers and directors of the Ranger Community Chest will meet in an important special session Friday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce office in Ranger, according to W. C. Whittle, president of the civic and charity fund-raising group.

All officers and directors are urged to attend the meeting, President Whittle said, declaring that main business of the session will be a review of the recently-ended campaign to raise needed funds for eight civic and charity agencies serving Ranger and the surrounding area, determining allocation of the funds collected during the drive, and discussing a complete reorganization of the local Community Chest set-up.

Mrs. Marjorie Maddocks, treasurer of the group, announced this morning that total funds collected and pledged during the past campaign are $6,945.29—several hundred dollars over the goal.

BROWN DENIES KNOWLEDGE OF TORCH KILLING

Donald Hawkins Brown, charged with the brutal New Year's Eve torch slaying of Joe Campbell, 24-year-old Dallas finance company and former resident of Ranger, was arrested Wednesday night in Fort Worth.

Brown, accompanied by his wife and their two small children was picked up by Fort Worth officers last night at 7 p.m. at a taxidermist establishment following a telephone "tip."

The arrest, ending a wide-spread 10-day nationwide manhunt, was made by Detectives Marvin Fletcher, Paul Jones, Tom Hoot, and Marshall McMahon and Officers G. A. Erto and J. H. Barry of the Ft. Worth police department.

Brown was jailed in Fort Worth and a short time later Detectives D. O. Climer and M. K. Tucker of the Dallas Police Department took the prisoner to Dallas.

Immediately after his arrest by the Fort Worth officers, Brown denied any knowledge of Campbell's murder.

"It's all wrong!" he protested when questioned.

However, Brown admitted that he knew Campbell "by name" and that Campbell handled his account of the 1947 Buick in which he was arrested.

"I guess I was about three payments behind on the car," the fiery-thatched former bus driver said.

Ironically, Brown's arrest bore out a statement made 10 days ago by Dallas Homicide Capt. Will Fritz to this reporter: "We're banking on grabbing Brown through that automobile. You know, he seems to think a lot of that car—hasn't wanted to give it up, even though he's three payments behind. We're hoping that Buick will trap him."

Brown told officers he had moved to Fort Worth from Dallas about two weeks ago and was living in a small apartment at 3012 DeCatur in that city. He said he had "been working on a farm near Lake Worth."

When asked by a Star-Telegram reporter if he "remembered" where he was on New Year's Eve, Brown "dry-washed" his manacled hands and studied the floor.

"No, I don't," he finally said.

Brown, in denying any knowledge of the brutal slaying of the ex-Rangerite, declared that he neither read nor heard of the murder of the loan company employe.

His wife with him at the time of his arrest, also denied knowing "anything" about the New Year's Eve crime with which her husband is charged by Dallas detectives.

A Fort Worth newspaper quoted her as saying: "I don't know why we are here. These men (she was referring to the arresting detectives and officers) came up and told us to come with them to police headquarters."

As Mrs. Brown talked, 1 1/2 newspaper reporters, she held an 8-month-old daughter. Her other daughter, 2, was busy scribbling on a pad with a pencil which Fort Worth detectives had given her.

Officers searched the Ft. Worth apartment occupied by Brown and his family but failed to find the New Year's Eve murder weapon—a .25-caliber automatic which had spewed four bullets into Campbell.

Brown also was unarmed at the time of his arrest.

Brown, until last October, a street car and bus operator in Dallas, had been sought by police and law enforcement officers over the Southwest and the nation since a warrant for his arrest for the killing was issued on Monday, Jan. 5, by Homicide Capt. Will Fritz of the Dallas Police Department.

The fugitive, a husky red-haired man in his mid-twenties, is charged with murder in the bizarre death of Campbell, 24-year-old finance company collector of Dallas, whose body—beaten, riddled with four

Maryland Club Ad Campaign Launched Today

A new advertising campaign, plugging popular Maryland Club coffee, a product of the Duncan Coffee Co., is underway and sparkling with convincing sales text and eye-catching photography.

Emphasized in the Maryland Club advertisements is the statement that housewives—addressed as "smart shoppers"—get "10 to 15 more delicious cups out of every pound." That powerful sales phrase is backed up by a certified test conducted by the Southwest Laboratories.

Through this more abundant brew from every pound, the advertising messages points out, the "smart shopper" can save up to 25 cents per pound.

And very catchy is this phrase: "Maryland Club is the coffee you'd drink if you owned all the coffee in the world!"

The first in this new series of dynamic advertisements appears in today's Ranger Daily Times.

Two More Tests Are Announced For County Area

Two more locations for Eastland County oil tests were announced today.

Standard Carbon Co. has staked the No. 1 E. D. Putty as a Desdemona Field try one mile north of Desdemona.

The proposed stab is 3,900 feet from the west and 869 feet from the north lines of SA&MG Survey 13. It is scheduled for a depth of 3,900 feet with cable tool.

The other location is that of Don H. Penker, et al, and is set eight miles northeast of Cisco in Eastland County.

Slated depth is 1,300 feet with cable tool.

Site of the test is 150 feet from the south and east lines of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of Section 39, Block 4, H&TC Survey.

County Council Of P-TA Meets At Ranger Friday

The County Council of Parent-Teachers' Association groups of Eastland County will meet at the Young School in Ranger Friday morning at 9 a.m.

Mrs. W. S. Kemp of Brownwood, district president of the P-T-A, is scheduled to be the featured guest speaker of the county-wide session of parents and teachers.

Especially urged to attend the meeting are the members of Ranger's Hodges Oak Park P-T-A, the Young School P-T-A, and the P-T-A Child Study Group.

Between 1826 and 1830, students at Bowdoin College included Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Nathaniel Hawthorne and Franklin Pierce.

Highway Work Well Underway; Progress Made

Work on the new Ranger-Eastland highway is progressing very nicely at this time, and while the project has just been started, contractors have been making "a good show."

Only shelling crews have been working, but they are moving a lot of dirt, filling in low places and cutting down hills.

The new highway, when completed will look very similar to the Eastland-Cisco highway, though because of soil formations, it may be a more durable road. Rock and clay foundations prevail. A visit over the new road shows that much rock, even boulders, are being encountered.

Another thing that is noticeable is that all crooks and bends are being eliminated. The distance will be shortened to some extent, but people will gain more time because of the straight, smooth road.

STATE LEGISLATIVE PLANS ARE DISCUSSED BY COUNTY FARM BUREAU DIRECTORS

Members of the Eastland County Farm Bureau board of directors met in Eastland at the Christian Church annex Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. with thirteen of the twenty-four directors present. The other visitors included members of their families and the guest speaker, Billy Joe Gist, District 7 director from Abilene.

The president, A. Z. Myrick of Cisco, told the group of an important District Conference in Brownwood on Jan. 20, for the purpose of discussing issues expected to arise during the Texas legislature meeting in Austin.

Members of the co-legislative, the co-resolutions and the service committees as well as the president and reporters will attend, and as many of the farm bureau members as can, are urged to go. The group will assemble at the Brownwood Hotel from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. to hear such leaders as C. H. DeVaney, vice president; Leon Lane, state field representative; Bill Hoover, information director; O. R. Long and R. G. Arnold of the American Farm Bureau, who will speak during the conference.

Mr. Gist assured the group that state president Will Hammond was now improved and was able to attend the state board meeting in Waco recently.

Gist, who is interested in the peano; growing counties of this district, which includes Eastland, Comanche and Mason, alerted the group of pending legislation and asked that a key contact man in Eastland County whom he could reach immediately, be named. Ray A. Norris, Flatwood, was listed as Eastland County's contact man.

Beaver Traps Trapper Who Traps Beaver

SALEM, Ore. — A beaver trapper was "trapped" by a beaver on an island in the middle of the North Santiam river east of Salem.

A. W. Fredericks was in a boat that struck a tree felled by a beaver. The boat overturned and he was thrown into the swift waters. After floating half a mile downstream, he managed to get ashore on a small island. There he was trapped for nine hours until state police came out in a boat to rescue him.

Freezing Weather Is Due To Invade Area Tonight

Eastland County's long spell of mild-balmly, spring-like weather is due to end late today.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reported this morning that cold fronts were closing in on Texas from two sides and forecast a "hard freeze" for tonight with the mercury due to plummet down into the chilling 20s.

The new northerly hit the upper Panhandle region this morning and nippy, mercury-dropping winds are moving southward across the state.

The new cold wave is scheduled to blow into the Eastland County area late this afternoon following usual mild and warm temperatures today which are predicted to be in the upper 60s or lower 70s—along the pattern of warm weather of recent weeks.

However, arrival of the new cold front will send the mercury into a dive, and it's slated to go far below the 32-degree freezing mark—around 10 degrees or so, anyway, weathermen say—before dawn Friday.

And for Friday, U. S. weather observers say it'll be cold and clear with highest temperatures for tomorrow due to the shivering 40s.

No rain is expected to accompany the cold air mass except in the Eastern and South central parts of the state.

Strong west winds are scheduled to switch into northerly gales by late this afternoon.

The forecast for the West Texas area: Mostly cloudy and milder in the Panhandle, South Plains and upper Texas Valley eastward and partly cloudy and colder elsewhere Thursday. A few snow flurries in the Panhandle Friday, partly cloudy and milder.

Three monkeys sat in a coconut tree, discussing things as they are said to be. Said one to the others, now listen you two, there is a certain rumor that can't be true, that man descended from our noble race, the very idea is a disgrace.

No monkey ever deserted his wife, starved her babies or ruined her life. And you have never known a mother monkey to leave her babies for another to bun. Another thing you will never see, a monkey build a fence around a coconut tree, starvation would force you to steal from me.

Here's another thing a monkey won't do, go out at night and go on a stew, or use a gun, a club or knife, to take some other monkey's life. Yes, man descended the monkey race, but brother he didn't descend from us.

Libraries Will Be Discussed At Abilene Meet

Librarians, library trustees, friends of libraries, press and radio representatives will meet at McMurry College, Abilene, Saturday, January 17, 1953, to discuss in workshop fashion library development in Texas, and West Texas in particular, and media of communication between libraries and their public.

The featured speaker at 11 o'clock will be Fred Folmer, Associate Librarian at the University of Texas. Mr. Folmer is a member of the Library Development Committee, Texas Library Association. He will tell the Texas library story, pointing up the present status of and plans for library development being made by the Texas Library Development Committee of Texas Library Association and the representatives of area librarians and citizens in a Texas library development program.

Dr. Pen G. Stensland, Director, Ford Foundation Adult Education Program, Texas Technological College, Lubbock, will preside for the discussion forum following a luncheon on the McMurry campus. Dr. Stensland came from Sweden ten years ago, where he had worked in adult education in Stockholm. He came to America because he was interested in the great educational opportunities offered here and is at present working on an adult education project with headquarters in Lubbock.

Discussion consultants will include Thomas J. Gibson, III, State Librarian; Lamar Wallis, President, TLA; Mrs. Lucille B. Wilson, Director of Extension, Texas State Library; Fred Folmer, Library Development Committee, TLA Executive Board; Mrs. Leddy Jones, President, Texas Friends of the Library, Dallas.

Exchange of ideas of local radio and press representatives, librarians, and citizens should be stimulating and informative to those interested in library development in this West Texas trade area. All persons interested in library development—school, college, and public—are invited to attend this meeting. Reservations for the luncheon should be made with Miss Perma Rich, Librarian, McMurry College.

Dr. Cox Warns Against Teeners' Drug Addiction

Drug addiction is not in itself a crime but a disease, declared Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. It is viciously and deadly in that once the victim can no longer overcome his desire for drugs, he will resort to any illegality to obtain money to purchase the satisfaction of his craving. Increase in drug addiction is paralleled by crime increase.

Because of the increase of addiction among "teen-agers," parents would do well to understand the habits of their offspring. No matter what the age, an addict takes on a sly, underhanded attempt to concealment. And it is only when the "teen-age" victim becomes embroiled in some police involvement, that the shame is brought to the parent.

Boys and girls must be taught that it is not smart or sophisticated to use drugs in any of their narcotic forms, and they should understand the dangers involved. Once the habit is formed, it is difficult to overcome. While it is estimated that at least five per cent of narcotic addicts become so by means of repeated dosages of drugs to alleviate pain, the proponderance of addicts fall among those persons, normal in every respect, who seek adventure, and are oftenally unstable persons who cannot face the realities of every day life.

Indications of drug addiction vary according to the method and the type of drug used. Among them are a strained expression, glossy stare of the eyes, trembling hands, swelling or redness in the partition of the nostrils; apparent puncture marks on the skin from hypodermic needles. Symptoms include running of the nose or tearing of the eyes; excessive yawning and sneezing; constant itching of the skin of the arms and legs and dilation of the pupils of the eyes.

While it has been said that a "little knowledge is a dangerous thing," there can be no doubt that public-mind consciousness of the drug-addiction problem will do more to curb the situation. The prevention of addiction is a community problem. Once the habit is formed, it becomes a medical one. Do your part to prevent an addiction. Your child may be the next victim.

Rules Differ in Dividing Separate, Community Estates
The death of an intestate person (one who has made no will) may give rise to many problems regarding distribution of his separate estate. Last week we investigated the manner of dividing the community estate upon the death of a husband or wife. Now we shall see that, where separate property is involved, a completely different set of rules applies in determining heirship and apportioning the estate among the rightful claimants.

As a basis for our search of the law, it may be well to recall that the separate estate of a husband or wife includes property owned by either before marriage, and that which is acquired after marriage by gift or inheritance. Any other property acquired after marriage is presumed by law to be community property until the contrary is clearly proved.

Now let us get on with the problem. Here is a general idea as to how your separate property will be divided if you do not make a will with contrary provisions prior to your death.

If your husband or wife survives and if, in addition, there are surviving children or descendants of previously deceased children, the children and their descendants immediately obtain a full (fee) title in two-thirds of the real estate involved. The surviving spouse receives a life interest in the remaining one-third of the real property, which passes on to the children and their descendants upon the death of the spouse.

The rule for distributing personal property — cash, stocks, bonds, furniture, or any other items not constituting real estate — is different. Here the surviving spouse gets full ownership of one-third, and the children and their descendants inherit the balance.

Now, suppose your husband or wife survives, but there are no surviving children or their descendants. In this case the surviving spouse inherits all of the personal property involved.

With regard to real estate, the survivor obtains full title to one-half, and the other half is divided between your mother and father, if both survive you, if only one of the survivors, he or she receives only half of this portion, and the other half (or one-fourth of the entire real estate) will be divided among your brothers and sisters (and their descendants) who survive. If there are no surviving brothers and sisters and their descendants, then the one surviving parent inherits the full one-half.

Where no parent survives, but there are brothers and sisters and descendants, the full one-half is divided among these survivors.

And, if there are no parents or brothers and sisters (and their descendants) surviving, then the surviving husband or wife inherits all of the real estate.

South Texas coyotes, sassy or not, are turning from raw meat to garden vegetables, according to a report from John E. Hearn of Cotulla, predator control supervisor for the Game and Fish Commission.

"The once trackless brush areas are being gradually cleared and converted to agriculture," states the magazine. "The shrinkage of the wilderness has shrunk the natural prey of the coyotes and they have turned to farm products.

good for the coyote for his numbers have dropped in recent years," according to Hearn.

The Predator Control Supervisor points out that the coyotes still relish fresh meat and that this characteristic craving has been used to help curb their depredations.

The magazine article goes on:

"Hearn said that after one rancher complained that coyotes were raiding his 70-acre melon patch, and, incidentally were choosing the largest melons, they shot two jackrabbits. They made 16 baits, poisoned them and left them around the melon patch.

"The coyotes ate every one of the baits. Three dead animals attached to the effectiveness of the system. Hearn suspected that others had died after escaping from the scene."

There seemingly prevails a confidence on the part of many in Washington, as well as the people back home, that considerable changes will be brought about. I share in that feeling. Likely it will take considerable time for the new Administration to get into the proper gear and organize itself into smoothly operating machinery. Therefore, we should not expect immediate results, but rather an orderly change which consumes time.

It is my purpose and my pledge to support the new Administration in every effort to clean up those places where graft, corruption, and subversiveness have come to light and to reduce extravagance in the handling of public funds.

I hope this will be the first order of business on the part of General Eisenhower and his new Administration.

There are many other problems facing the new Administration and the new Congress, both domestic and international. On the domestic side are taxation, labor laws, immigration laws, economic controls, the agriculture program, public lands, banking and currency, veterans' legislation, communications, transportation, military preparedness, and many more vital and fundamental issues.

From the international standpoint, the Korean war, of course, is our immediate concern. The price of peace can be too high, but peace must always be our goal.

In my opinion, our entire foreign policy and foreign relations should be over-hauled and re-established on a more realistic basis. We greatly need to improve our world position, and it cannot be purchased by American dollars. We've tried that already.

There is much to be done in the new Congress. I am looking forward to accomplishments in matters of certain legislation which have not been possible in the past. For instance, I hope we can secure early consideration of the Tidelands question. It was my privilege to introduce the first Tidelands Bill in the first minutes of the new Congress. The measure would absolutely return the so-called Tidelands to the States and settle the matter once and for all.

'CONSIDERABLE CHANGES' DUE IN WASHINGTON UNDER GOP REGIME, BURLERSON DECLARES

By OMAR BURLERSON
Member of Congress

This is the first of a series of newsletters which I hope will appear in this paper each week from now on. This column will take the form of a report from Washington by your Congressman. Every effort will be made to advise you of my activities in the Congress and also an objective appraisal of the happenings in the federal government.

It is hoped that the readers of this column will look for it each week and become habitual in reading it. Your suggestions and criticisms will be welcomed.

The Eighty-third Congress has opened with the Republicans in charge. As you know, the new president will be inaugurated on January 20, after which time the new Republican Administration will assume the full responsibility of government policy.

There seemingly prevails a confidence on the part of many in Washington, as well as the people back home, that considerable changes will be brought about. I share in that feeling. Congo Biggest Diamond Source

BRUSSELS—The Belgian Congo, long noted for the high quality of its uranium ore, is also the largest producer of diamonds, according to a review published by the Flemish Economic Union.

M. A. Molaert, one of the nation's leading diamond experts, wrote that the Congo now produces about 62 per cent of the world's diamonds. He claimed that in 1951 the Congo produced 10,564,677 carats of diamonds while world production was 17,025,587 by "accurate estimate." In 1950 the Congo produced 10,147,571 carats.

The nearest rival, the Union of South Africa, produced only 2,122,911 carats in 1950.

Congolese diamonds come mainly from the workings at Kasai, which furnish about 30 per cent of the stones used in jewelry, and from the Lubilash, which furnishes 98 per cent of the industrial diamonds.

Nebraska's first state capital was erected in Omaha in 1855 at a cost of $3,000.

bullet and burned—was discovered in a blazing automobile in a South Dallas residential section on New Year's Eve.

Capt. Fritz filed the murder charge after he and other Dallas officers found a pair of blood-stained bus driver's trousers in the attic of the apartment house where Brown had lived with his wife and two small children at the time of the crime—located just a block and a half from the spot where Campbell's corpse was found in a blazing automobile.

Brown and his family disappeared from the South Dallas rooming house a few hours after the brutal slaying.

Detectives allege that Brown, following an argument on a three-months past due account on his 1947 Buick sedanette, beat the finance company collector, shot him four times with a .25-caliber revolver, drenched his body with gasoline and set his car, a 1951 Ford sedan owned by the Pacific Finance Company, afire in the 3400 block of Guster across the street from a Dallas funeral home.

The victim, raised in Ranger and a graduate of Ranger High School, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Campbell of Ranger.

South America Joined Africa

ALGIERS, North Africa—A University of Cincinnati geology professor has announced new findings on an old question: Were South Africa and South America ever joined by a strip of land?

Dr. Kenneth E. Carter told the International Geologic Congress here that his years of study have convinced him that the two continents, although never a single body of land as suggested by some, were once joined by a belt of earth. He said the strip probably was alternately below and above the water's surface during the course of geologic history.

of its claims that air travel is safer than rail travel.

"The claim of superior safety is not correct even as to the 12 months selected. The reported fatality rate of domestic scheduled airlines in those 12 months was 0.38 for each 100,000,000 passenger miles flown.

"This is approximately three times as high as the rate of 0.13 on the railroads for the same 12 months.

"In every year for which comparative figures are available, rail travel has been from two to 20 times safer than air travel.

"Official reports to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board show that the airline fatality rate in the past 5 years, 1947-1951, was 1.57 per 100,000,000 passenger-miles, or six times the rail rate of 0.25.

"Averaging the past 13 years, 1942-1951, the airline fatality rate was 1.65, about seven times higher than the rail rate of 0.24 for the same years."

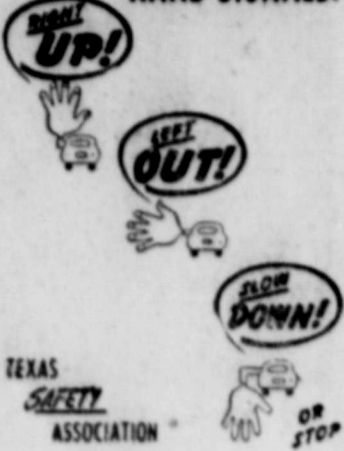

In Korea, an Eastland County soldier had received a letter from home and was telling his buddies about it. "It's from my wife," he said proudly, "and she tells me that I'm the proud father of an eight pound baby boy!"
