

The Best of Texas is My Best

BETWEEN US...

Spencer Lee

Saint Peter was taking a new arrival on a tour of Heaven.

"What," asked the stranger in the land of Eternal Glory, "is that building with the bars on the windows?"

"That's the jail," replied Saint Peter. "We keep all the Texans in there. The fools all want to go back home!"

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas' own wheel horse and distinguished legislator serving his state and his Nation in the U. S. Senate, is proud of the Democratic party and keenly aware of its future responsibilities.

During the recent Jefferson-Jackson dinner held in New York City, Sen. Johnson delivered a short but dynamic address which was heartily received by Democrat leaders over the nation.

The outstanding party leader said:

"As a political party, we have lost a national election. But we have not lost our determination to serve the American people. With that will and determination, even if we are a minority, we are an undefeated party."

"In the last campaign, we presented to our fellow Americans a candidate who stirred millions of people by 'talking sense,' in words that will never be forgotten.

"Behind those great Americans—Adlai Stevenson and John Sparkman—the Democratic Party mobilized for a clean and honorable fight. We lost—and under world conditions probably it was inevitable. But we have maintained, and we will maintain our place in the hearts of the people as the one truly national party."

"For more than a century and a half, the Democratic Party has occupied a special position in American life. It has been the one party big enough and strong enough to untie Americans from all the shackles of life and from all sections of the United States.

"Even today, the Democratic Party can be found vital and aggressive, in every part of America. North, South, East and West—in the strongest bulwarks of Republicanism—Democrats are actively at work rallying the people."

"It is only in periods when the Democratic Party appears to lose its character as a national party that it suffers setbacks. It is only when the voices of a few pressure groups drown out all other voices that the Democratic Party loses."

"The American people will never long tolerate a political party dominated exclusively—nor one that appears to be dominated—by any special group—be it labor, capital, farm, North, South, East or West."

"All are entitled to proper representation. None are entitled to complete control.

"In the Senate, we have done our job by welding together experience and youthful vigor, seniority and new talent. The Senate Democrats have established themselves NOT on the basis of sectionalism but on the basis of working for the whole Nation.

"As a minority, we now face new problems. We also face new temptations.

"There are two courses open to a minority party. It can indulge in the politics of partisanship, or it can remain true to the politics of responsibility."

"The first course is tempting to the weak, but ultimately would be rejected by the American people. The second course is difficult, but is the one road upon which we can offer leadership to the American people that will be accepted.

"As Americans, we are facing grave problems.

"The clouds of economic distress are forming on the horizon. Already our farmers feel the pinch of recession. The issues of war or peace—and therefore of life and death—loom larger and more menacing with every passing day.

"The politics of partisanship may entice some to trade upon the distress of the American people. Against such partisanship, we must firmly close our ranks.

"Our dedication must be to the politics of responsibility—to a statesmanship which is based upon the realization that we cannot survive unless our country survives.

"No course will be successful unless that thought becomes our guiding star."

"The role of a minority party is to hammer out a program that will solve the problems of America—not just to obstruct the work of the Majority party. The American people will place their confidence in a party which seeks honestly to serve them.

"There is before us a great opportunity.

"It is to work for America—to be a constructive opposition, not an obstructive minority—to act as statesmen dedicated to the national welfare, instead of political opponents."

Court Bill Action Is Postponed

Ranger Daily Times

54TH YEAR RANGER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1953 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 188

Rep. Omar Burkett Offers Motion Halting Vote On Controversial Measure By House Members

The aroused citizens of Eastland county have won at least a temporary victory in the move to abolish the 91st District Court, Omar Burkett, State Representative from this County, who had introduced House Bill No. 269 to abolish the Court, Thursday requested the House of Representatives to postpone consideration of the Bill until next Monday.

BRECK LAWYER ATTACKS BILL TO KILL COURT

Stephens County lawyers want no part of a proposed legislative bill to abolish Eastland County's 91st District Court.

That was the word Ben Dean, veteran Breckenridge attorney and former 90th District Court prosecutor, gave the Lions Club in Breckenridge at its luncheon Friday noon, according to a report in the Saturday morning edition of The Abilene Reporter-News.

Rep. Omar Burkett of Eastland has introduced a bill to abolish the 90th District Court, which embraces only Eastland County, and add that county to the 91st.

The 91st, of which Floyd Jones is judge, takes in Stephens and Young Counties.

Dean discussed Burkett's bill and asked the Lions—citizens and not as a club—to interest themselves in the issue and work for its defeat.

Dean told the Lions that the Texas State Bar has made studies looking toward some judicial re-districting, and that Stephens County lawyers know that a bill dealing with the entire state will be introduced. But he said they objected to a single-shot bill that would alter in any way the 90th District as it now exists.

"The local bar wrote to our senator (Wagonell) and representative (Black Allison) of Mineral Wells asking to be heard and advised if any bill affecting the local bar was introduced," Dean said.

Then the local lawyers learned through the press of Burkett's bill, and missed the hearing in which a House committee reported it out favorably. Dean said Rep. Allison was vice chairman of this committee.

Dean insisted that Judge Jones has enough litigation now to keep him busy 85 per cent of the time and the other 15 per cent is taken up with his duties as presiding judge of an administrative judicial district. In that post, it is his responsibility to provide a judge to sit in any court when the regular jurist is ill, disabled, or disqualified for cause. Often Jones himself has to try these extra cases, Dean said.

"I don't know what's behind this bill, but it's a local situation down in Eastland County and the while high scores for the losing Bulldogs was Forward Chico Mendoza who canned nine tallies.

Jackets Win Title, 33-32!

The Maroon & Whites, desperately playing to win and grab another victory chance in a third playoff game, opened the hardwood encounter with a burst of scoring power and led 12-6 at the end of the initial canto. By the end of the half, the RHSers had stretched their margin to 17-10.

Put the Jackets took fire in the last half and during a spirited comeback in the third stanza they had whittled the Ranges' lead down to a short 24-21.

Then in the finale chapter, the protégés of Coach Murphy, really set the hardwood ablaze as they evened the score at 32-32 with only 60 seconds to go before the game's end.

Starting for the Bulldogs in their final game of the year: Roddy Carcer and Chico Mendoza at the forwards, Tommy Hinds at center, and Bill Brazda and Scott Forney at guards.

In 60 tense, thrill-packed seconds which wound up a sensational schoolboy cage clash here at the Recreation Bldg. in downtown Ranger Friday night, Coach Mike Murphy's Stephenville High Yellow Jackets edged by the Ranger High Bulldogs, 33-32, and won the 1953 District 10-AA basketball championship.

Coch Sam Aill's Bulldogs, out front all the way until the home stretch fourth quarter, were stunned as Maxie Montgomery of Stephenville sank a free toss to break a 32-32 deadlock and give his Yellow Jacket mates a one-point victory—and the coveted 1953 title.

The Stephenville quint was paced by Eric Looney who hit the mesh for 12 all-important points,

Balmy And Mild Weather Due Over Weekend

"Well, it was a doggone short winter!"

That's what Eastland Countians are due to be saying Sunday if the Saturday morning forecast of the U. S. Weather Bureau proves to be accurate.

A brief cold wave which kept Eastlanders shivering for only about 36 hours was due to evaporate Saturday with fair skies and rising temperatures heralding the return of mild, balmy weather which has marked this unusual winter season.

Saturday's high was scheduled for the mid 50s, but the low for Saturday night and early Sunday morning was scheduled around freezing or below in this area, the Weather Bureau report said.

Sunday, however, the mercury is slated to zoom up into the warm 60s during the afternoon hours.

The West Texas forecast: Generally fair, warmer Sunday and in Panhandle Saturday.

REFUSES TO ANSWER—Navy-Secret Howard Fast, appearing before the Senate investigating committee, refused to tell the committee whether he would fight for the United States against Communist Korea. He testified he received slightly more than $3,000 salary from the OWI in World War II but refused to say whether he was a Communist then or now.

Farm Bureau To Sponsor Regular 'Queen' Contest

The Texas Farm Bureau will give recognition to the beauty, charm and vivaciousness of farm and ranch girls this year by sponsoring a state-wide Queen Contest, according to President J. Walter Hammond.

Top prize for the winner who will be selected in November at an annual convention in Mineral Wells is an all-expense paid trip to the national convention in December in Chicago. The Farm Bureau will also pay the expenses of a matron escort.

The board announced that the contest will be an "honest-to-goodness" Queen Contest and not just a bathing beauty competition. The entrants will be judged on three main points: (1) appearance, (2) poise and (3) personality.

The purpose of the contest is to give the young ranch and farm girls and other young people an opportunity to become better acquainted with the principles of the Farm Bureau organization.

After County Farm Bureau Queens are chosen they will compete in district eliminations. One girl from each district will compete at the state convention for state beauty crown.

Here are the rules as approved by a special Queen Contest committee: To be eligible a girl must be: (1) daughter or sister of a Farm Bureau member, (2) single, (3) sixteen years of age by Sept. 1, 1953, and not over 22 on Sept. 1, 1953. Counties must have over 25 Farm Bureau members, and must sponsor a contest before a girl from the county can enter the district eliminations.

Daughters of state directors, employees, county officers and county directors are not eligible to enter this contest.

District winners will receive beautiful watches and an expense-paid trip for the girl and attendant to the state convention.

An important session of the Ranger Quarterback Club has been called for Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the office of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce, Price Crawley, president, announced Saturday morning.

Purpose of the meeting, Crawley said, will be to discuss plans for a special banquet and to map the club's 1953 membership drive.

Crawley also stated that the new clock for the electric scoreboard at Bulldog Stadium has been received. Complete details relative to the progress of this important project will be presented during the Monday night session.

The Ranger Quarterbacks actively support the athletic programs of Ranger High School and Ranger Junior College.

Other officers of the important group include Morris Neimham and Shorty Wallace, vice presidents, Art Arterburn, treasurer, and M. P. Myers, secretary.

INCREASE IN PRICE OF OIL IS NEEDED IN AREA TO AID DRILLERS AND PRODUCERS

An increase in the price of oil is needed in this area to increase exploration and keep the stripper wells of this territory in operation, Lester Clark, Breckenridge, president of West Central Texas Oil & Gas Association said today.

Other oil men over Texas quoted recently in press reports appeared to agree and disagree on this matter. But they spoke for the state in general.

Clark said "a lot of wells in this territory are being plugged prematurely, and for deep exploration we have got to have more money. Oil is the only commodity I know of that has not gone up."

There are still controls on pipe and pipe has gone up and a permit is necessary to get pipe. It now appears that pipe controls will go off on June 30, die of its own accord, but oil men believe that an emergency regulation be set up. This to enable the president to act in case materials grow scarce and prices skyrocket, Clark said.

Meanwhile Robert E. Windfohr, Ft. Worth, president of the Mid-

Continent Oil And Gas Association is quoted as believing that the removal of price controls on crude oil will spur exploration and development in the Lone Star State.

Windfohr said the end of price controls will give Texas oil and gas operators a "more realistic background for making decisions."

"The Texas producers' dilemma right now is that of having too much available oil for the current market," Windfohr said.

"This situation has been brought about to a great extent by federal government pressure for a larger 'cushion' of productive capacity between what we need for a peacetime economy and what would be needed in case of a national military emergency."

In Houston, a spokesman for a major oil company said he thought the price of gasoline would remain about the same, unless the price of crude shot up.

He said he thought, with crude as plentiful as it is here, the law of supply and demand would keep prices at about the same level.

Bumper Strips Aid Motorists—

'Scotchlite for Safety' Launched By Jaycees

The "Scotchlite for Safety" program, sponsored by the Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce, is now under way in Ranger, local Jaycee officials said Friday.

The campaign, goal of which is to place luminous adhesive safety strips on all motor vehicles in Rath and the surrounding territory, was launched locally in conjunction with a nationwide Jaycee auto safety drive.

The strips, installed on automobiles at Morris Campbell's Humble Station and at Lee Cantrell & Sons Texaco Service Station, cost only $1.

The Ranger JCC leaders point out many advantages offered by the "Scotchlite" strips, and label them as outstanding safety devices because:

The tape can be seen at least a half-mile away.

The tape protects vehicles from traffic approaching from rear under any of the following conditions:

When parked on open highway and residential parking. Traveling on open highway. Tail lights burned out. Car broken down in middle of highway.

This tape can be seen up to 75 per cent quicker than the average tail lights. It completely outlines the rear of the car and enables the approaching motorist to know in advance where the car is located and how much of the highway it occupies.

This tape can be seen just as clearly under all types of adverse weather conditions as it can be on a clear night.

The angle of reflection from the average auto tail light is never over 15 degrees; whereas, the angle of reflection of this tape is up to 90 degrees.

Protects front of car at all times (silver tape only on front bumper): When parked on any condition. When meeting a one-eyed auto, the unlighted side would be outlined with the Scotchlite—thus enabling you to tell exactly where that oncoming one-eyed car is located in the road. No glare would be suffered here from the Scotchlite, at all.

Scientific tests made at the Driving Laboratory, Industrial Science Research Institute, Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, under the supervision of A. R. Lauper, Professor of Psychology, show conclusively that reflectorization helps the night-driving motorist. His safe movement depends in the main on his ability to see and accurately discriminate the motion and distance of a vehicle ahead. A series of extensive tests, both on the highway and in the laboratory were made to determine the important factors affecting perception of these quantities. These results were based on trucks, but same would hold true for autos.

The Ranger Jaycees point out that the results of these investigations show:

By use of reflecting materials, which give good visibility and are easy to use, motorists can determine more quickly and more easily the speed and position of trucks ahead.

Four times as many errors of judgment were upon seeing a truck having four tail lights only as when seeing a truck with four tail lights combined with reflectorized backs.

A wide variation in pattern can be made without affecting the motorist's ability to see and judge the motion of a vehicle ahead. For best results, however, an outline pattern is preferred.

Evidence is against the fact that any confusion will be caused by reflectorization of truck backs.

For all speeds and lighting conditions, much less time—hence shorter distance traveled—is required for a motorist to detect the motion of a reflectorized truck, than a painted one.

Dr. James T. Carlyon To Preach At First Methodist Church Sunday

Dr. James T. Carlyon, renowned radio speaker, minister, writer, and professor in Perkins School of Theology, Dallas, will preach the sermon on Sunday morning, Feb. 22, at the local Methodist Church. The rank and file of humanity in this section of our great state, of all churches and of no church at all, will remember Dr. Carlyon best for his "Five Minute Sermonettes" over WFAA.

Dr. Carlyon was chosen by Greater Dallas Ministerial Association for his outstanding work in this field of service. For more than 15 years, his messages went into homes, shops, places of business, automobiles on the highways, etc., to the inspiration and joy of the great masses of people.

"This is our opportunity to see and hear this man of God in our own town and community," states the local pastor. In addition to preaching the sermon at 10:30 a.m., Dr. Carlyon will address members and their friends during the church school hour in the Hall's Bible Class. He will also teach a course in the District Training School in Clark, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 and Monday and Tuesday evenings at 7:30. He will teach the course "Toward Understanding the Bible."

Dr. Carlyon will speak on the subject: "The God We Worship" at the morning preaching hour. "We are expecting a great crowd on Sunday morning, and by making available the Sunday school rooms adjacent to the sanctuary, we hope to take care of the people who will want to hear Dr. Carlyon," states the pastor.

Church School will begin as usual at 9:45 a.m. with the General Assembly for the Adult Division, meeting in the sanctuary. At the morning worship, the Chancel Choir will sing two anthems: "He Watching Over Israel," by Mendelssohn, and the other popular

'Church Without Christ' Is Sunday Sermon Subject

"A Church Without Christ" is to be the subject of the sermon at the 10:45 worship service this Sunday at the Church of Christ meeting at 225 So. Rusk Street. It is possible, and actually happens, that a church can claim to be Christ's church and be wholly against Christ. Could such an institution be trustworthy? Certainly not; but how can it be determined whether it is so concerning any church? This will be discussed in this sermon.

You are cordially invited to attend this service as well as the rest of the services of the church. Bible study for all groups begins at 9:45. The young people meet at 6:00 p.m. Sunday evening worship begins at 7:30. The ladies Bible study class is at 2:00 p.m. on Wednesdays. Mid-Week services are at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday. The men's training class meets at 7:30 p.m. on Monday.

Although every attempt possible is being made to insure your comfort while attending these services and we desire that you shall be happy you attended and will want to attend regularly, the Church of Christ is not interested in just entertaining its visitors. There is far more important good to be had from the services of the Lord than mere entertainment and we believe that honest, sincere and conscientious people appreciate that fact and are anxious to associate with those who sincerely try to provide it. All the services are being well attended and especially the ladies Bible study class which had 59 in attendance last Wednesday. Come and you will come again.

The Peacock Path

THE STORY: A fortune in missing bonds from the stockbroker office of Warner Cravath seems to be linked with the murder of Anne Warburton, his junior partner, at Cravath's home. Jim Orlis, private detective, summoned after attempts on Cravath's life, has learned that the murdered man went in the night to check the bonds the day before his death. Warburton's death is believed by officials to be an accident, but Sally Cravath insists Orlis to persuade her uncle Warner to call the police. Instead, Orlis has hired an investigator to work on a New York angle in the case.

As I parked my car on the grass just off the driveway at Windover, I met a character with whom I'd had very few dealings since coming to this place. It was that little animated wiener Fritzie, the dishwasher. I'd seen him all over the house and grounds, of course, but he didn't give the gentry too much of his time. He hung out in the vicinity of the kitchen where, from his viewpoint, life was more salubrious and satisfying.

Now he wagged his tail complacently, as if he'd just settled the affairs of nations. I looked at him closely to see why he was so enamored of himself. He advanced cautiously, leered at me, then dropped a golf ball out of his mouth. He followed that triumphant gesture by lowering his whole underslung self to the ground, but kept the ball between extended forepaws. His attitude suggested that I might look at the ball, and marvel. But let me make one move to possess it, and Fritzie, plus loot, would be in the next county.

"Gimme that," I said, but without sternness.

Fritzie must have interpreted the remark as an invitation to gambol. Snatching up the ball again, he bounced to his feet and frisked gleefully and unhelpfully around my ankles.

That dog had evidently been cooching from the putting green

Chatterbox

I didn't feel. "What'll I use for a club?"
"Oh, we'll trade off with mine. Unless you want to run up to the house and get another putter."
"Nope. Yours will do."
He gave me that challenging faintly-hostile look of his. "How about a little something up? Just to make it interesting."
"Anything you like," I said carelessly. A play kiddie cuffed up in Bermuda ought not to haggle.
"Dollar a hole?" Dave suggested blandly.
"Pretty high stakes for just a secretary. Either he's good or he's backing an opinion that I'm not."
"Okay," I said, and debated the legitimacy of putting this on my expense account in the event of loss.
He handed me his putter. "Well, your honor. You're by way of being the visiting freeman."
He won first two holes handily. This began to look not so good.
"Peculiar stance you've got," Dave remarked. His eyes a trifle amused.
"Maybe," I said, controlling myself. "But I've always used it. Sometimes it works, too."

MERE braggadocio, that. But Klismet made it slick. Going for the third, Dave laid his first shot a foot from the little flag. He tendered me the putter as if there were no real need for me to take my licks.
I don't mind losing, but it suddenly occurred to me that I didn't like losing to Sladen.
I took the club and called on the gods who, once, had served me well down at Coney Island and on a certain memorable occasion when I'd really gone to town at miniature golf in Asbury Park. The gods responded.
They permitted me to stroke the ball truly, and with authority. It rolled across the grass, caught the rim of the cup, ran around it once and dropped.
"Like now," I couldn't help saying, over Sladen's surprised gasp. "I'm just getting the feel of this course."
I did get it too. Not that I best him. Far from that he took me for plenty, as it turned out. But I didn't disgrace myself.

There were no arrests, not even for drunkenness over the weekend stretch, the RPD head said.

Phonograph Production Increasing But Fewer Combined With Radio, TV

Although production of phonographs last year reached the highest figure since 1947, fewer of them are being sold in TV and radio receivers, according to Electronics, McGraw-Hill publication.

Only 10 per cent of all tv models now on the market are equipped with record players. Percentage of tv sets produced with phonographs dropped from 14.1 per cent in 1947 to 6.2 per cent in 1951. Fewer radio sets also now incorporate phonographs. The magazine says. In 1950, 277,100 table model radio-phonographs were produced compared to 235,177 in 1951. Console radio-phonographs declined from 844,100 in 1950 to 468,713 in 1951.

The trend is continuing in new lines just introduced, but the sales of self-contained phonographs are more than making up the slack, the magazine says.
