GIVE A PINT OF BLOOD TO YOUR
RED CROSS

34TH YEAR RANGER, TEXAS, TUESDAY, MARCH 17, 1953 PRICE FIVE CENTS No. 103

Rangerites Urged to Give Blood Here on April 2

The American people still aren't giving enough blood to keep up with the demand.

That's the word passed along to men and women in the Ranger area today by James Townsend, president of the Ranger Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In January and February, Red Cross said, blood collections from all sources fell 110,000 pints short of quota.

Under the sponsorship of the Ranger junior chamber group a mobil unit of the American Red Cross will be in Ranger on April 2.

And Ranger citizens are urged to donate a pint of blood during the unit's one-day visit.

Members of the Jaycee organization have a supply of cards for prospective donors. And for the convenience of readers of The Times, a "Donor Card" blank is being published daily in this newspaper.

Pointing out the urgency of giving blood during the coming visit of the bloodmobile to Ranger, Townsend, after checking Red Cross reports, said that unless donations rise sharply, the Defense Department's emergency stockpile will suffer. By next year, the program of protecting children against polio with gamma globulin (GG) also may be cut back.

GG is a blood fraction which will be used on a wide scale for the first time this summer to fight polio. It is the only substance now available which helps prevent the crippling effects of the disease.

Because of the new GG program which aims to protect 1,000,000 children against polio this year and 2,000,000 in 1954, Red Cross has stepped up its blood quotas to 400,000 pints per month.

January Short

In January, only 320,000 pints were collected—an increase over a year ago but 80,000 pints below the quota. In February collections climbed to 370,000 pints.

Unless the 110,000 pints are made up later in the year, Red Cross will not reach its 1953 goal of nearly 5,000,000 pints—equal to the peak collections during World War II.

Right now Red Cross is getting enough blood to meet its immediate needs, but not enough to build up the reserve supply of plasma which the Defense Dept. believes necessary.

Plasma is stockpiled for three purposes—to provide a military reserve for use quickly if the Korean War expands, to build a supply for use in U. S. cities in case of an atomic attack, and to prepare for disasters such as the Texas City explosion.

GG Processed

In addition, Red Cross supplies whole blood for transfusions in civilian hospitals.

It is also, at the moment, providing enough blood to keep the half-dozen U. S. plants which process GG operating at full capacity.

But to do so, it is slighting the reserve build-up and using surplus supplies furnished by the Defense Dept.

A new GG plant being built by Armour & Co. at Kankakee, Ill., will be able to process 60,000 additional pints a month when it is completed in May.

Unless more blood is collected, this plant and others may not be able to run full time. If they don't some children who otherwise would be protected from polio may contract the disease.

Last Rites For W. G. Gammill Set Wednesday

Funeral services for Winford Gilmer Gammill, 64-year-old former Eastland County resident who died in Fort Worth Monday morning, will be held at the Killingsworth Funeral Home Chapel in Ranger Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Rev. H. D. Blair, missionary of the Cisco Baptist Assn., will officiate during the final rites, and interment will be in the Alameda Cemetery with Killingsworth Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Mr. Gammill, who had been a resident of Fort Worth where he had been employed as a hotel clerk since 1942, died of a heart attack. He was stricken while eating breakfast in a downtown restaurant in Fort Worth Monday morning.

Prior to moving to Fort Worth in 1942, Mr. Gammill, a bachelor, had resided in Ranger and the Eastland County area since 1905. He taught in the rural schools of Eastland and Stephens Counties for many years.

He was born at Cecil Ark., on March 19, 1890 and was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

Pallbearers at the funeral Wednesday afternoon will be Lloyd Bruce, Bud Blackwell, Howard Fraser and Ernest Calvert, all of Ranger; and Floyd Crawley and M. A. Ables of Eastland.

His survivors include one sister, Mrs. Estella Myrick Duncan, Rt. 2, Eastland; two brothers, Herman Gammill of Rochester, Texas, and C. A. Gammill of Lubbock; and a number of nieces and nephews.

SLASH IN INCOME TAXES DUE BY JULY 1, U. S. LAWMAKERS PREDICT IN WASHINGTON

According to early morning reports, several hundred Eastland Countians filed their income tax returns late yesterday just within the midnight deadline.

The county's 6,000 income tax payers got some comfort today, however, in a report from Washington which intimates that they're almost sure to be relieved of some of their burden this year.

In fact, according to the reports, a tax cut of about five per cent—effective July 1 on the last six months of 1953—is almost inevitable.

Chairman Eugene D. Millikin, R. Colo., of the Senate Finance Committee is known to agree with House Ways and Means Chairman Daniel A. Reed, R. N. Y., that the tax cut is coming. They should be able to swing it. The Eisenhower Administration opposes the reduction, with qualifications.

Short of a presidential veto, however, Republican leaders are convinced now that Reed's tax reduction bill cannot be smothered in the House and that it will have sufficient chance to pass the Senate. Some of them will bet you on that.

More Rain Due County Today And Tonight

Eastland Countians yawned early this morning and surveyed gloomy, overcast skies—but happily.

Because rain—more badly needed rain—appeared to be in prospect.

The early morning forecast of the U. S. Weather Bureau was optimistic.

"Cloudy to partly cloudy and mild," the morning communique from government weather observers said. "Possible showers today."

Continued mild weather was due to prevail, however, with the high temperature for today around the 80-degree mark.

For Wednesday, the mercury is slated to register about five degrees cooler.

"Tonight's low will be between 55 and 60 degrees.

The West Texas weather picture—"Considerable cloudiness and mild with widely scattered thundershowers Tuesday, Wednesday, partly cloudy and slightly cooler. Local thundershowers in the east and South Plains and east of the Pecos Valley Wednesday."

The rural division, headed by Mrs. Bill Tucker, reports a total of $249. There has been no report from Gorman or Risine Star.

Mrs. Love expressed appreciation for the fine work being done by volunteer solicitors and is confident that the county's $7,194 goal will be reached.

Ranger Cops Arrest 4 Men Over Weekend

Business wasn't exactly rushing, but there was considerable activity on the Ranger police front over the weekend, Police Chief W. G. Pounds reported early today.

Saturday night, a Ranger officer picked up a Californian who had "short-changed" a pay phone in a service station on U. S. Highway 80, East. The man, a resident of Los Angeles, Calif., made a long distance call to the West Coast and then failed to deposit 45 cents to cover an over-time period.

The operator called the police department, and a Ranger patrolman nabbed the Californian at the

Junior Mothers Meet To Plan Big Banquet

Mothers of Junior class members of Ranger High School are urged to attend a meeting Wednesday, March 18th, at 3:30 p.m. in Room 13 of the high school building, for the purpose of planning the Junior-Senior banquet. The banquet will be held on Thursday, April 23.

Student committees are being formed in the Junior class to help the mothers in every possible way to make this important event a success.

Honor guests for the banquet will be the class of 1953 and its sponsors.

Each mother who has a Junior boy or girl in Ranger High is requested to attend the meeting.

Ike Is Pleased Over Rains In West Texas Area

Texans aren't the only citizens vitally interested in the moisture situation here in the far flung Lone Star State.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower old a group of congressmen in Washington Monday he was "highly gratified" to hear of last week's rains in Texas.

Rep. Wingate Lucas said the president recalled that a friend recently asked him what wish he would like to have fulfilled more than any other.

The president said he replied that he knew nothing he would rather see than a good rain in West Texas," Lucas said. "He was pleased to hear that the situation was improved."

Lucas, one of a group of Democratic and Republican congressmen invited to luncheon at the White House, sat on the president's right.

Eisenhower also inquired about various friends in Texas, including Oil Man Big Richardson of Fort Worth, Lucas reported.

Those attending said the president was in a relaxed and friendly mood.

"He is a darned nice fellow," said Rep. Ken Regan of Midland, who also attended the luncheon. Some of the guests addressed him as general, and others called him Mr. President. But before it was over, we were about ready to call him Iafa old Ike.

The Holy Bible now rides aboard all Texas & Pacific passenger trains that roar through our Oil City.

Lounge car libraries have copies of the new Revised Standard Version, both in the familiar T&P narrow leather binders, gold-stamped "Holy Bible" and bearing the "eagle" insignia.

The innovation is in line with the T&P-sponsored program to put religion in the fore. In late month the T&P President W. G. Vollmer's article on "Our Four Great Faiths" has been advertised in pamphlets and newspapers urging "Faith in God, in Ourselves, in Our Fellow-men, and in Freedom."

Probably the T&P is the only American railroad or industry which has conducted a nation-wide advertising program based solely upon faith.

Melon Growers Are To Meet In Gorman Friday

Watermelon growers in the Gorman community will hold a meeting Friday night at the Fire Hall in that city. The meeting will begin at 7:30 and anybody in the area who is interested in the growing of melons, may attend.

Farmers do not plan to go into an exclusive watermelon business, but rather use the crop to supplement farm revenues. The soil is ideal and the cost of planting is nominal.

Just make arrangements to attend the meeting—you may be very much interested when you learn the truth.

CLEANING UP—A lift-truck, at right, moves shattered trees out of the way, as citizens of Knox City, Tex., begin to clean up debris and repair shattered homes, such as the one in background, after their city was hit by an early spring tornado. At least 17 persons were killed, and millions of dollars worth of damage caused by "twisters" in north Texas and central Oklahoma.

About four centuries before the Christian era Plato discussed the injustice of an income tax. The honest man, he predicted, pays a large amount; the dishonest man a small amount, even though they receive equal income. Apparently there were chiselers in Greece.

House Bill 388 Attacked By A. Z. Myrick, Cisco

"If House Bill 388 is passed by the State Legislature, farmers will lose one fourth of his refund on non-highway gasoline," is the statement made by A. Z. Myrick, president of the Eastland County Farm Bureau.

What the proponents of this Bill have not considered is that the refund does not actually belong to the state. It is a tax collected just as on gasoline, sent to the state office, and then returned to the tractor farmers.

Myrick went on to say that backers of this H. B. 388, were calling attention to the public school needs, as a clever strategy, by suggesting that this refund as one good source of revenue. Farmers pay their share of school taxes, he added, and this will be an added burden, and is not fair. If one fourth of the refund is taken away now, after a while the entire refund might be taken away.

He urged farmers to get in touch with their representatives and tell them their wishes on the refund issue.

"Right now is the time for farmers and ranchers to wake up and fight as never before."

CHURCH NEWS

S. S. Groups To Plan Revival Aid Wednesday

The Officers and Teachers meeting on Wednesday evening in the lower auditorium of the First Baptist Church reaches a new high this week with the accepting and signing of goals for the revival scheduled for the first week in April. The officers and teachers of all classes and departments will find a most profitable evening as they receive their challenges for the next three weeks according to Wilson Guest, Superintendent of the school.

The inspirational period begins at 6:30 with a general assembly and the planning of the general programs. The departmental meetings that follow still give to the individual classes and teachers their work and goals for the coming weeks.

The Bible discussion of the Sunday's lessons will be discussed in all departments. The adults will give special study to the theme, "In the Shadow of the Cross." The scriptures in this lesson looms large because of the memorials that Jesus left. The memory of Faith, the memory of sacrifice, and the memory of salvation.

The prayer meeting hour that has had a steady growth these past several weeks will continue to be devoted to prayer, praise, and Bible study. Choir practice will follow the close of the prayer service. Choir members who cannot attend the earlier services are urged to be present for the rehearsal.

All the members of the church are urged to be present for the closing night of this clinic. Especially are the Young People of Ranger invited to hear the panel discussion on their own questions and problems as they feel them. All services are being held in the lower auditorium and in the educational annex.

Clue To Origin Of Viruses Is Found

BERKLEY, Calif. — A clue as to how some virus diseases may originate has been suggested by findings of two University of California bacteriologists.

Dr. A. P. Krueger and Doris J. Ralston, a research fellow, discovered that when phages—viruses which prey on bacteria—passed from one host to another, they showed a tendency to mutate into new strains. Such mutation could create a deadly virus out of a harmless strain, or vice versa. Krueger said, however, that he has no evidence as yet that the host influences other types of virus than the staphylococcus phage with which he experimented.

"Dope Peddling" In Texas Must Be Abolished; Druggists Interested

The control of "dope peddling" in Texas is in sight if 3000 members of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association have anything to say about it, according to a statement today by Thurman Gholston of Amarillo, TPA president. Gholston announced today that the entire weight of his organization was being placed in support of narcotic legislation pending before the 53rd Texas Legislature. "The druggists of Texas," the TPA president stated, "have long been aware of the serious problem of illicit traffic of narcotics within the state, especially in our large cities, and we feel that it is about time we have a law giving the state's law enforcement officers the power to prosecute unscrupulous 'dope peddlers' who prey on our youth and children, and put them in the penitentiary where they belong."

Gholston strongly recommends passage by both houses of the legislature of House Bill 71 and House Bill 44.

House Bill 71 amends the present Uniform Narcotic Drug Act, states Gholston, and closely follows the federal law, the Harrison Act of 1916, in setting up regulatory measures that are workable regarding narcotics. "The new law, if enacted," he said, "has some teeth in it and provides for severe penalties for offenders, especially those who sell to or utilize minors in the illegal traffic of narcotics."

"The druggists of Texas," Gholston continued, "are likewise deeply interested in House Bill 44, an appropriations act, which will permit the Texas Department of Public Safety to operate a central clearing bureau where records will be kept on offenders and those suspected of illegal traffic of narcotic drugs."

One significant change in the existing law, Gholston pointed out, is the broader definition of narcotics which will enable law enforcement agencies on every level wider coverage of offenders.

Another important addition to the law is the authority, he said, for sheriffs, chiefs of police and members of the State Department of Public Safety to fingerprint and photograph any person immediately upon arrest for any violation of the narcotic law.

Finally, the TPA president stated, each court in the state is bound by the law to report the disposition of any narcotic case to the Texas Department of Public Safety where records will be kept of arrests and offenders, thereby ensuring the efficiency of a state-wide enforcement program. "Narcotics," stated Gholston, "are and have always been a great boon to mankind when used as intended for the relief of suffering pain. But, in the hands of unscrupulous individuals, they are likewise a curse. This is the reason we need strong and effective narcotic laws. As natural custodians of narcotics and as members of the family of healing professions, Texas pharmacists are strongly in support of any legislation which safeguards the health and welfare of our citizens."

Making Your Own Will Is Usually A Simple Matter

Making your own will is simple and, done properly, will make a fight over your property unnecessary. That's the advice of Albert Woodruff Fray, New York attorney, in February Farm and Ranch.

"Anyone 21 years or older can make a simple will for the disposal of his property at death," the lawyer says.

Although newspapers report court contests over wills, such controversies are rare, according to Fray. For one legal battle over a will, thousands of wills are accepted as valid without question, he points out.

Gray presents the form of a simple will adapted for use in any state, and recommends these steps in preparing it:

1. Decide to whom you wish your property, money, land, or other possessions to go after your death. List the name, address, or relationship of each and the amount of money or description of property you would give each. Should you wish to leave money to a church or charity, get legal advice. Some states limit the amount or manner in which money or property can be left to churches, hospitals and like institutions.
2. Make some bequest, no matter how small, to each of your children, to any child who might be born after your death, and to your wife or husband.
3. Name a "residuary legatee" to receive property left after the amounts for which you have made specific provision are paid.
4. Name for executor someone in whom you have confidence—wife, husband, son, daughter, friend, or a bank. Use your discretion as to whether you wish your executor to file a bond as security for his or her honesty.
5. Ask three acquaintances, or friends who will not receive any money or property under your will to be witnesses.
6. When the will has been completed, give it to your executor.

More Room For Beef Animals Cuts Coccidiosis

Beef producers who want to avoid coccidiosis troubles and get more profitable gains may simply need to give their young animals more room, a spokesman for the American Foundation for Animal Health reported today.

The Foundation cited the fact that calves have much less coccidiosis infection on the range where they have lots of room.

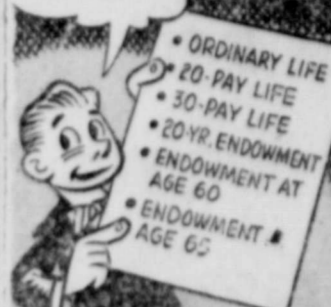

"Crowding the animals into small lots or pastures increases the danger," the report said. "Small feedlots become quickly contaminated and cattle can become severely infected."

The cause of coccidiosis is a tiny parasite similar to the one which infects chickens. However, the disease cannot be transmitted from chickens to cattle, nor can chickens get it from cattle.

The Foundation said farmers should be alert for such coccidiosis have a rough hair coat, drooping ears and sunken eyes. Feedlots should be cleaned as often as possible to avoid trouble. Elevated feed and water containers, designed to prevent contamination, should be used because coccidiosis usually is spread by dirty feed and water.

The Foundation said prompt diagnosis is important. Herd treatment by a veterinarian will protect the rest of the calves and may help cattle already showing symptoms of the trouble.
