

Boy Scout Week To Be Observed February 7-13

The 973 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers of the Northeast District of the Comanche Trail Council will observe the 52nd anniversary of the movement during Boy Scout Week, February 7-13.

Over 100 boys in Ranger are in some phase of scouting. They will join with nearly 5,200,000 other members of the movement in every part of the nation in recommitting themselves to the Scout Oath and Law on Thursday evening, February 8, the actual birthday of Scouting. The ceremony will take place at unit meetings. If the unit does not meet in Thursday night the boys will recommit to the Scout Oath and Law in their own homes in the presence of their parents.

Observed nationally by over 17,000 Scouting units in every city and town plus countless villages and hamlets as well, Boy Scout Week is the largest single bi-day observance by young Americans.

"This year," says Claude Roles of Eastland, District Scout Commissioner, "we will recognize the scouting families in our District. We feel that families make a great contribution both to Scouting and the American way of life. Throughout the Northeast District, which includes Scouting in Stephens, Eastland and Earth Counties plus Le Leon in Comanche County and Elsieville and Woodson, Scouting units will honor parents of Scouts at unit meetings. In numerous cases these will be not luck dinners. At these "family" dinners, Scouting families will be honored for their many years of activities in Scouting.

C-C Agriculture Meeting Held Thursday Night

Members of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee met with area farmers and ranchers Thursday night in the home of Richard Henderson and made plans whereby Ranger could be of help to the rural population of this area.

In leading the discussion, Henderson said that we need to take care of what we have, and stressed the fact to those present that it is the aim of the chamber of commerce to do just that. Many constructive ideas were brought out during the meeting. The general opinion of those present was that not enough attention is being given to the farmer and rancher by Ranger.

Award Winning Student Essays

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a series of essays written by students in Ranger High School which were published in the book, "Young America Speaks".)

Words by Charlotte Carlton

Words can be used in many different ways. Words may express love, hate, compassion, joy, and fear. Words that are used to express love reach out to enfold the loved one. Words of hate only hurt, and they don't help anyone. The angry words stick into people like knives in meat. Lovely words of compassion send lovely thoughts in the minds of people. Joyful words show that one is very happy. Words of fear enter into the minds of people and they can cause panic. Words should be said with careful thoughts; so they won't hurt or damage any one.

The Sky at Night by Gay Nell Blackwell

Shining brightly in the huge, lonely ocean of darkness are countless numbers of tiny lights. Some of these lights take shape and form. Many of these lights are very dim as though the ocean of darkness is closing in on them and smothering out their lights. These lights are like out-casts because they are so far back in the darkness they are hardly seen. These dim lights look very lonely and unhappy. Also in this ocean of darkness are some bright lights that shine like diamonds. These are the stars placed on a layer of rare people realizes that life has black velvet. These are the most outstanding lights which sparkle and twinkle as though they are very happy.

As they sparkle and twinkle they send out radiant glows of blue, green and yellow. On a clear night, you may enjoy observing this huge sea of darkness with its many tiny lights.

Roads by Bricia Baumgartner

Roads are long, twisting, curving, new ending journeys. Roads are like people traveling to faraway destinations but never really quite sure where or if they will get there. Eventually one will come to a fork in the road. I don't mean the common fork which divides into two roads, but the decision of which road in life one will take. Whether road one takes depends on one's own feelings, one's background and what one hopes to accomplish. If one takes the right road he will travel steadily and accomplish his goals. If one takes the wrong road he will travel a disaster. Eye one comes to this fork in the road at least once and usually more times in his life and must decide his future. Have you come to a fork in the road? If not, be prepared.

Maturity by Janey Adams

Maturity is one of those things which young people long and desire. If one takes the right path he will truly achieved it. A mature person aims high in life cause they are so far back in the darkness they are hardly seen. These dim lights look very lonely and unhappy. Also in this ocean of darkness are some bright lights that shine like diamonds. These are the stars placed on a layer of rare people realizes that life has black velvet. These are the most outstanding lights which sparkle and twinkle as though they are very happy.

As they sparkle and twinkle they send out radiant glows of blue, green and yellow. On a clear

Operating Budget For New Chamber Year Announced

An estimated operating budget for Ranger's New Chamber of Commerce has been compiled by Roy Plumley, new manager for the organization. The estimated budget will be the first budget that the chamber of commerce has had in several years.

The budget includes actual estimated expenses for the year and a few minor projects. The budget was made as of January 22, with an estimated income of $4328.00 from dues paid in by the 73 old members and 25 new members that have joined the new chamber during an intensive membership drive. The budget calls for expenditures amounting to $5817.55. In order to meet the necessary expenditures, more new members are needed.

Chamber work has been carried on by 78 members for the past few years. They have been very loyal in their support, but need the aid of everyone in order to carry out a sound program for the betterment of Ranger.

An equalizing of dues paid by old members is now in progress. At the present time, ten of the 73 original members have agreed to increase their dues. Others will be contacted in the near future and will be asked to increase their dues.

Funds for the major projects planned by your new chamber of commerce must be raised over and above the actual operating budget. The program outlined by your chamber of commerce can be attained through the active support and participation of each citizen in Ranger.

Directors of the new chamber of commerce feel that the year 1962 is a year of challenge for citizens of Ranger. They are of the opinion that the program can and will be accomplished if the entire town will support the chamber of commerce.

A meeting for the entire membership of the chamber of commerce and all other interested persons will be held Monday, Feb. 12 at 7:30 p.m. in the Ranger Junior College cafeteria.

The estimated operating budget for 1962 is as follows:

Salaries and expenses	$3800.00
Office rent	280.00
Utilities	220.00
Administration expenses	271.41
Advertising	25.00
Pecan Show	120.94
Bank Note (Due Feb. 1)	500.00
Minor projects	600.00
TOTAL	$5817.35
Estimated Income	4328.00

The Sales Tax 'Better Work' Its No. One Collector Believes

Tax-payers in Eastland County have probably wondered many times whether the complicated recently-enacted state sales tax will work or not.

These tax-payers might like to know that the State Comptroller, Robert Calvert, has said, "It had better work—or we'll get something else that will."

Speaking this week before the Texas Press Assoc. convention in San Antonio, Calvert explained why the tax is necessary, vaguely show it works; and that it is expected to bring $160 million a year in revenue for the state.

Local people would undoubtedly welcome the opportunity to meet with Mr. Calvert and ask some specific questions concerning their own tax-paying problems.

Some very interesting questions have come to the fore-front since the tax was made law last September. Since certain things are exempt, it makes figuring out the taxable items, a bit of a problem.

An important thing to remember, Calvert says, is that the new law is a "sales, excise and use tax."

And it applies to "tangible personal property," he pointed out, which should make it fairly easy to understand if a person will take time and weight the problems against these definitions.

The comptroller and the administrator of the tax and his office has been, and is still in the process of writing the rules under which the tax will be collected.

Retailers and others who collect the taxes from their sales are required to report and pay the taxes during the 30-day period following the close of the tax-paying quarter—that is, Nov. 15th, or by Feb. 15th for this quarter.

Calvert said the legislature had to pass the tax to meet the present state deficit and to meet the constantly increasing demands of the public.

He carefully outlined the state's expenditure of revenue in showing the need for more money: Education gets 53 per cent; highways, 39.3 per cent; public welfare, 15.75 per cent; elimination of institutions and prisons, 5.17 per cent; and other services which includes legislative, courts and departments, 8.35 per cent.

He theorized that the state's economy has moved from an agricultural based economy to one based on oil, and now the shift is to the consumer.

49th Armored Division Well Trained After 90 Days At Fort Polk, La.

Texas' 49th Armored Division, which includes men from Ranger and surrounding areas, is the first such National Guard division ever mobilized, has taken on the look of a well-trained, combat-capable Army division after 90 days of rigorous training at this southwest Louisiana post.

The division, organized in 1947 and made up of 95 units in 74 Texas towns, is deep into its 13-week intensive combat training program that is due to bring it to a high state of combat readiness.

As the division begins to devote its time almost exclusively to field work, "A high degree of competence, experience and professional efficiency is obvious at a glance, even to the casual observer."

This was the way Maj. Harley B. West, division commander, summed up the readiness of the unit.

Several units took to the field during Louisiana's most bitter freeze since 1900. They braved near zero to accomplish their training mission.

Pointing to the division's first three months on active duty, Gen. West explained:

"We've been through the frustrating shakedown period, finishing firing of individual weapons, obstacle courses and the like.

"Our newly assigned personnel have become integral parts of gun crews, armored rifle squads and tank crews.

"Now we're going to put all this to work out in the field."

Gen. West, a veteran of World War II, testified, "I've been observing field problems for 30 years. I've never seen as much interest and enthusiasm as is being displayed today on the part of the troops."

The more than 14,000 men of the armored division, 5,000 of which were reservists called to active duty to augment the unit, are presently undergoing their week of intensive combat training in the piney woods of Fort Polk.

A three-day division field exercise will climax their 13-week readiness program February 15.

That will not be all, though. After the initial training program, they'll start over on their weak points.

Lt. Col. Karl E. Wallace, the division's general staff officer in charge of training, pointed out that "then begins operational readiness training which will be composed of retraining where weakness have been noted."

Presently battalions-size units are carrying on field training exercises. Throughout these periods they are continuously harassed by aggressor forces made up of the reconnaissance battalions and other support units.

Col. Wallace said that this unit training involves weapons firing, battlefield tactics, camouflage and concealment procedures, medical evacuation practices and proper processing of prisoners.

Before the "operational readiness" training is over, 49ers will have completed their annual weapons qualifications as well as familiarized with the new M-14 rifle and the new M160 machine gun.

Three hundred of the new M-14 rifles, which makes every man a potential machine gunner, were received by the division for training purposes in December. Familiarization firing will begin later this month.

Many problems confronted the divisions when it closed Fort Polk from points throughout Texas in the waning days of October, 1961.

The post had been closed for more than two years. Barracks weren't in the best of shape. Grass needed cutting. Equipment and clothing had to be issued.

It whipped the post into livable conditions and dealt with the mountainous logistics problems created by entering active duty, the receiving of filler personnel and moving into a stripped-down deactivated Army post.

The colonel credited reservists assigned to the division as contributing extensively to the 49th's state of training. "The caliber of the filler personnel selected for their individual proficiency has been outstanding," he said.

Annuitants Bill Passed By Representatives

Representative Wayne Gibbons of Breckenridge has successfully guided through the House of Representatives a bill to set up tax relief for teachers and other school employees. Boards of Education could enter into agreements with their employees for the purpose of purchasing tax-sheltered retirement annuities for the employees.

The Annuities Bill had already been passed by the Senate under the sponsorship of Senators Hoffet and Aiken. It will now go to the Governor for his signature.

Under the provisions of the bill a teacher, at his discretion, may authorize the local Board of Education to use as much as 10% to 20% of his annual salary to purchase retirement annuities. The amount of money used to purchase the annuities is not then subject to the Federal Income Tax. Not until the teacher either retires or chooses to withdraw his money would the benefits become taxable, at which time the individual's income will be less and he, of course, will be in a lower income tax bracket.

Gibbons stated that the obvious advantage of the tax-sheltered annuity is that of reducing Federal taxes. Gibbons added that "not all teachers will want a like annuity."

"The 49th in completing its training mission, Wallace concluded, "and no matter what the future brings, we will be ready."

Army Reservists To Be Released From Active Duty

FORT POLK, La.—Some 530 recalled Army reservists assigned to the 49th Armored Division and other units training here are eligible to be released soon from active duty, Maj. Gen. Harley B. West, Division and Post Commander, announced Wednesday.

Those affected by the early release, approximately 50 officers and 480 enlisted men, are to be processed out of their units under a recent Army regulations providing for separations of men who meet certain specified conditions, notably that they have completed five years of honorable active and reserve service.

Only reservists who were recalled from a Ready Reserve control group (a "paper" outfit) and assigned to an active Army unit will be considered eligible for release. Their Ready Reserve obligations must have been satisfactorily completed prior to Oct. 1, 1961.

There must be no record in the soldiers' files showing they signed for additional Ready Reserve time after Oct. 2, 1960.

Members of units when units were mobilized, such as the 49th

Armored Division, will remain with their units until the entire unit is de-activated.

The length of time to process out the individuals under consideration for early release is not expected to take over one week.

Senior officers at Fort Polk have received no official word as to when their units will be sent home from active Federal service. There have, however, been indications that release might come prior to the end of the maximum one year specified in mobilization orders.

Rangers Defeat Weatherford, Lose To LeTourneau

The Ranger Junior College Rangers, with a last-second shot by Armando Cerna beat Weatherford Junior College 66-54 January 23 in a basketball game in Weatherford. Ranger experienced a cold first half, and after a free-for-all among the players of both teams, the Rangers went to the dressing room at half-time trailing 29-20.

The hustling and rebounding of Jerry Rench and Dean Richey, plus the shooting of Armando, soon put the Rangers back into the contest after the intermission period. With seven seconds remaining in the game, the purple and white lost the ball trailing by one point, and Weatherford called time out. However, this proved to be their downfall as this was their sixth time out and Ranger was given a technical free shot and the ball.

Cerna missed the free shot, but behind by one point with only a few seconds left, he made up for his earlier miscue by hitting a jump shot as time ran out. Although there was no time left on the clock, Weatherford again called a time-out, which penalized them with another technical foul. This time Cerna made good.

In losing to LeTourneau Technical Institution (99-66), here Friday night, the Rangers played well below their potential. The game was marred by floor mistakes, haphazard defensive play and coldness in their shooting.

LeTourneau took the lead early in the game, and although the Rangers stayed close with Armando Cerna puring through point after point, the opposition scored at will as the game progressed.

Cerna, the Rangers' leading scorer and top rebounder fouled out with less than five minutes remaining in the first half, and the Rangers' offense bogged down.
