Ranger FFA Boys Enter Stock In County Show

Approximately 10 animals will be shown by the chapter. Beverly Dudley Jr., vocational agriculture teacher at Ranger High School, is sponsor for the boys.

The chapter has a squeeze chute that is used for de-horning or for de-horning and clipping of animals. The chute was constructed several years ago by third year members of the chapter. Each boy is taught how to operate the chute and how to place the animal in it for different purposes.

All members of the Ranger Chapter have access to the chute to be used for their personal animals. They also lease out the chute to anyone that may want to use it. Lease fees are 25c per head or $5.00 a day. All money derived from lease fees are used by the chapter.

And according to information sent to County Tax Assessor-Collector J. C. Allison from the Highway Department, any application received for re-registration on April 2, or thereafter, must be accompanied by an affidavit that the vehicle has not been used or the 20 per cent penalty provided in the statutes will be collected.

Lone Star to Store Gas Underground In County

Lone Star Gas Company has started construction of a new underground natural gas storage project in Eastland County.

The underground reservoir is located in the Hill Lake field some seven miles north of Cisco. Lone Star engineers estimate the reservoir has a capacity of about 11 billion cubic feet of natural gas.

The Hill Lake project is included in the $2.3-million budgeted by Lone Star to reinforce the company's transmission system and implement utilization of its storage facilities in the West Texas area during 1962.

With addition of the Hill Lake facility, Lone Star will be in a position to purchase and store in West Central Texas some 50 million cubic feet of gas daily in excess of its customer's normal requirements during low demand days of the summer, a company official said.

The Hill Lake reservoir will give Lone Star a total storage capacity of about 70 billion cubic feet on its system in Texas.

Hill Lake is Lone Star's sixth field to be utilized in this important phase of maintaining ample, year-round gas supply for customers, the company spokesman said.

Gas stored in the Hill Lake reservoir will be available for use beginning the winter of 1963-64. The gas will be utilized in Lone Star's transmission pipeline system which now measures some 8,885 miles in length.

Two 1,100-horsepower compressors will be installed at the storage project to pump gas into the reservoir which has an average depth of approximately 3,600 feet.

Lone Star will transport the gas purchased from producers in the Abilene area and Eastland, Stephens, Erath and Palo Pinto counties.

Natural gas injections are expected to begin sometime in June, the Lone Star spokesman said. The field will have five injection wells and five withdrawal wells.

Lone Star has two other storage reservoirs in the West Central Texas area. They are located in the View field in Taylor County and the Leary field in Stephens County.

A plant construction crew from Lone Star's transmission division is installing the compressors and related equipment. A company pipeline crew will handle installation of necessary pipelines.

She read the club prayer, then called the roll, each one telling what she saw from her favorite window. There was a brief discussion on the repair of the club house walls, but no decision was made except to take precedence to the draperies.

The vice president then turned the program over to the Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Suzanne Monk, who gave a lesson on Window Treatments discussing the history of windows, different kinds, and the kinds of draperies for the different ones. She illustrated the lesson with posters.

An announcement was made that the regular social for the community had been changed from April 13 to April 6.

Refreshments, contributed by Mrs. Robert Jackson, were served after the demonstration. They consisted of pineapple cake and punch.

Minus 20 And Counting—NIKE ZEUS, the U. S. Army's anti-missile missile all set for launching at Point Mugu, Calif. FIRE!—on its way to a successful intercept of an electronically simulated target traveling at the speed of an intercontinental ballistic missile. This was done by feeding ICBM characteristics into the ZEUS system's target intercept computer. This test firing, another step in the continued progress of the NIKE ZEUS development program, is further proof of the ability of the nuclear capable NIKE ZEUS to provide active defense against ballistic missile attack on the United States.

by an approved sampling agent to the proper classing office, says Elliott. At least 15 days are required to process applications and deliver sampling supplies.

Application forms for these services may be obtained from county agents, cotton classing offices of the Cotton Division of the AMS, or from the area office in Dallas.

Dairy Cattle Need Salt Too

Dairy cattle, like humans, need salt in their food. In fact, they can develop a salt deficiency if they do not get enough in the ration, says a dairy specialist at Tyler.

Continuous use of a salt deficient dairy ration will cause loss of body weight, failure of appetites, decline in milk production and will eventually result in death of the animals.

Some cows will consume more salt than others, point out Carpenter. A cow producing 50 pounds of milk per day will need about two and one-fourth ounces of salt per day. This would require her to eat 14 pounds of a grain ration containing one percent salt to get her daily salt requirement.

The herd at the Tyler Experiment Station is fed a grain mix containing one percent salt and also provided loose salt in a protected box. This allows the cows to eat as much as they need.

Research shows that more salt is consumed when it is fed in a loose form, but adequate amounts will be eaten when it is provided in block form, he says.

A good rule of thumb for figuring salt for the dairy cow is 3/4 ounce for body maintenance and 1/4 ounce per gallon of milk produced, says Carpenter.

Local county agents can supply additional information on feeding salt to dairy cows, advises the specialist.

Classing Available

Growers who wish to have their cotton classed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture under provisions of the Smith-Doxey Act should apply for these services as soon as their cotton is planted, says Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

The Smith-Doxey Act provides for one free classification for each eligible bale of cotton. Samples must be submitted by a bonded sampler or by a public warehouse which issues negotiable receipts, explains Elliott.

Each cotton improvement group, except those in southern Texas, must file an application with the cotton classing office serving its territory not later than August 1. Those in counties south of a line from Dumas to Kazes to Matagorda must file an application by June 1.

Prompt application filing is necessary because time is needed for each group to arrange for submitting samples

Field Exercise Schedule For 49th At Fort Polk

FORT PORK, LA.—Hard-trained Texas National Guardsmen of the 49th Armored Division tackle the unit's most extensive field problem in history May 1-15 when Exercise Iron Dragon sweeps some 1,200 square miles of Western Louisiana.

The Texas division called to active duty during the nation's defense buildup last fall, will be the central unit of the 45-day maneuver. Some 30 support units from 10 posts in three U. S. Army areas are pegged to participate.

Iron Dragon will be the largest maneuver at Fort Polk since Operation Sage Brush in 1955 and the largest slated in the six-state Fourth U. S. Army area this fiscal year. It will involve some 20,000 troops.

In addition the 150,000 acres on the reservation, officials are negotiating for maneuver rights to an additional 600,000 in parishes adjacent to the military installation.

The maneuver sets the stage for a simulated and limited war situation overshadowed by the threats of a general war. The Iron Dragon climaxes the second major training cycle for the Texas division. It originally underwent a 13-week intensive combat training program culminated with a four-day maneuver, Operation Anvil, in February.

Its members immediately launched Operational Readiness training to re-train on weak
