

Pilate's Report

(Editor's note: The following account is purported to be the report of Pontius Pilate regarding the incidents that led up to and followed the crucifixion of Jesus. Its historicity we leave to the judgement of our readers. Pilate's report is a chapter of a 250 page book entitled "Historical Records concerning Jesus The Christ Messiah—Records copied from the Official Manuscripts and Scrolls, made by the Senatorial Courts of Tiberius Caesar, and by the Sanhedrim—in the days of Jesus, entitled Christ found in the Libraries at Rome in a Constantinople. This is part one in a four part series.)

To Tiberius Caesar, Emperor of Rome.
Noble Sovereign, Greetings: The events of the last few days in my province have been of such a character that I will give the details in full as they occurred as I should not be surprised if, in the course of time, they may change the destiny of our nation, for it seems of late that all the gods have ceased to be propitious. I am almost ready to say, Cursed be the day that I succeeded Velleius Paterculus in the government of Judea; for since then my life has been one of continual uneasiness and distress.

On my arrival at Jerusalem I took possession of the praetorium and ordered a splendid feast to be prepared to which I invited the tetrarch of Galilee, with the high priest and his officers. At the appointed hour no guests appeared. This I considered an insult to my dignity and to the whole government which I represent. A few days after the high priest designed to pay me a visit. His department was given grave and deceitful. He pretended that his religion forbade him and his attendants to sit at the table of the Romans, and eat and offer libations with them, but this was only a pretence, for his very countenance betrayed his hypocrisy. Although I thought it expedient to accept his excuse, from that moment I was convinced that the conquered had declared themselves the enemy of the conquerors; and I would warn the Romans to beware of the high priests of this country. They would betray their own mother to gain an office and a luxurious living. It seems to me that, of conquered cities, Jerusalem is the most difficult to govern. So turbulent are the people that I live in momentary dread of an insurrection. I have not soldiers sufficient to suppress it. I had only one centurion and hundred men at my command. I requested a reinforcement from the praefect of Syria, who informed me that he had scarcely troops sufficient to defend his own province. An insatiable thirst for conquest to extend our empire beyond the means of defending it, I fear, will be the cause of the final overthrow of our whole government. I lived secluded from the masses, for I did not know what the priests might influence the rabble to do; yet I endeavored to ascertain, as far as I could, the mind and standing of the people.

Among the various rumors that came to my ears there was one in particular that attracted my attention. A young man, it was said, had appeared in Galilee preaching with a noble unctious a new law in the name of the God that had sent him. At first I was apprehensive that his desire was to stir up the people against the Romans, but my fears were soon dispelled. Jesus of Nazareth spoke rather as friend of the Romans, than of the Jews. One day in passing by the place of Siloe where there was a great concourse of people, I observed in the midst of the group, a young man who was leaning against a tree calmly addressing the multitude. I was told it was Jesus. This I could easily have suspected, so great was the difference between him and those listening to him. His golden-colored hair and beard gave to his appearance a celestial aspect. He appeared to be about thirty years of age. Never have I seen a sweeter or more serene countenance. What a contrast between him and his hearers, with their black beards and tawny complexions!

Unwilling to interrupt him by my presence, I continued my walk, but signified to my secretary to join the group and listen. My secretary's name is Manlius. He is the grandson of the chief of the conspirators who encamped in Etna in wait for Cataline. Manlius had been, for a long time an inhabitant of Judea, and is well acquainted with the Hebrew language. He was devoted to me, and worthy of my confidence. On entering the praetorium I found Manlius, who related to me the words Jesus had pronounced at Siloe. Never have I read in the books of the philosophers anything that can compare to the maxims of Jesus. One of the rebellious Jews, so numerous in Jerusalem, having asked Jesus if it was lawful to give tribute to Caesar, he replied: "Render unto Caesar the things that belong to Caesar, and unto God the things that are God's."

It was on account of the wisdom of his sayings that I granted so much liberty to the Nazarene; for it was in my power to have had him arrested, and exiled to Pontus; but that would have been contrary to the justice which has always characterized the Roman government in all its dealings with men; this man was not a man of war.

Chicago, Ill., where he was taught the use of a polygraph. He also attended a police school in Dallas where the uses of a lie detector were taught.

The polygraph has proved itself to be a most effective method of criminal interrogation. Many police departments over the nation are now using the polygraph.

Experts consider the lie detector to be over 99 per cent perfect. They say you can't fool the machine, but can fool the operator. In a number of police departments, the use of a polygraph has cleared more suspects than guilty discovered.

The polygraph is used on voluntary subjects only. The instrument measures the pulse, breathing and perspiration, as questions are asked by the operator. As the answers are given, moving pens make lines on a chart, whereby the operator can determine if the answers given are true or false.

In a polygraph examination properly conducted in accordance with the latest techniques, which provides a means of actively and reliably recording variations in pulse-blood pressure, pneumographic or breathing patterns and electrodermal variations and responses, conclusive means of determining the truth or deception of a subject's reply is possible, according to the Keeler Polygraph Institute.

Petitions Asking For Ranger Beer, Wine Vote Circulated

Petitions are being circulated in Ranger to call an election to determine if voters want to legalize the sale of beer and wine in that city.

An application for petitions was filed in the County Clerk's office Wednesday at 4 p.m., and six petitions were issued Thursday.

The application carried 10 signatures.

Signers are being sought for the petitions which ask the County Commissioner's court to call an election to give the following choice:

FOR the legal sale of beer and wine; and AGAINST the legal sale of beer and wine.

The law requires the petitions be returned within 30 days after the date of issue, which would mean that the six petitions would have to be returned by May 5. This is also the date of the Democratic Primary.

How many signers are necessary to call the election?

The law says that the court must be petitioned by 25 per cent of the qualified voters who voted for a governor in the last presidential election.

There were 1,135 votes cast in the 1960 presidential election from the Ranger voting precinct.

However, this includes an undetermined number of voters who vote in the Ranger voting precinct, but who do not reside within the corporate limits of Ranger.

Twenty-five per cent of that total is approximately 284, indicating that at least that number will be necessary before the election can be called.

Each of the six petitions provide space for 75 signers. A native Ranger resident,

Harry Henry Gives Merits Of Seat Belts

Harry Henry of Ranger, fleet supervisor for Lone Star Gas Co., is a strong advocate of seat belts for automobiles. Following is a story published in the company's monthly publication, "The Blue Blaze", in which Henry tells of how seat belts possibly saved his life: "I firmly believe that I am on the job today because I had a safety belt in my Company vehicle and was using it on July 1, 1959," stated Henry. Due to a physical condition which is now under control, Mr. Henry "blacked out" while driving near Duncan, Oklahoma. There were no witnesses, but a return visit to the scene with Neiman Smith and observations of what happened left Mr. Henry with the firm conviction he would have been killed, or at least seriously injured if he had not been using a vehicle safety belt.

"I was driving from the Duncan Production yard to downtown Duncan when I 'blacked out,'" Mr. Henry relates. "I would estimate my speed at about 45 mph. A visit to the scene indicated that I must have had my foot on the accelerator, since the distance traveled would not have been likely under similar circumstances even at 55 mph. "My vehicle left the roadway to the left. It traveled down and across a muddy ditch containing some water for 150 feet before hitting a roadside sign and a a hard, vigorous campaign, but will not resort to smear tactics." Gibbens proposed a 10 point program for the new 63rd Dis-

- trict and Texas:
- 1) Revision of the state Sales Tax to remove all the inequities and to lower the cost of administration and remove the burdens of collection.
 - 2) Enactment of Small Loan

Legislation to rid Texas of the name, "Loan Shark State."
3) Legislation to implement and aid law enforcement in Texas including, for example, a juvenile parole system to aid local authorities in the rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents.
4) Water conservation measures to develop the water resources of our area and passage of a stringent, but uniform water pollution law.
5) Protection of every Texan's guarantee to the right to choose his job and where he works, by fighting the proposed "Work Law. The labor Lobbyists who are supporting my opponent have made this their NUMBER ONE PROJECT.

6) Unemployment compensation legislation to better provide for those families whose breadwinners are honestly out of work, by slashing from this program all those who are unable to work and will not accept a job when made available.
7) "Equal rights" for women by removing those gross inequities placed in the law years ago.
8) Economy measures such as the one that Gibbens co-sponsored during the last session of the Legislature which would have saved Texas taxpayers $26,000,000.00 by eliminating waste, extravagance and duplication in our too-many bureau and agencies.

9) Continued support of a school program which will give to the youth of our state the best educational opportunity available in our nation, with particular attention to junior colleges.
10) Continued legislative attention to the needs and problems of our senior citizens and particular attention to our state hospital program, so as to provide for the blind and handicapped.

In addition to the above, Gibbens stated that if re-elected he would not introduce or pass any controversial game or wildlife bills for any county without providing for a local vote of the people in the county.
Gibbens concluded his formal statement by saying, "I believe that the best government is that government which governs least."

"I will sincerely appreciate your vote and influence in my race for a second term as your representative, and I will endeavor to carry out my platform and give the people of my district the best government possible with the least amount of state and federal control and intervention."

Pilate's Report -

ther seditious nor rebellious; I extended to him my protection, unknown perhaps to himself. He was at liberty to act, to speak, to assemble and address the people, and to choose disciples, unrestrained by an praetorian mandate. Should it ever happen (may the gods avert the omen!), should it ever happen I say,— that the religion of our forefathers will be supplanted by the religion of Jesus, it will be to this noble toleration that Rome shall owe her premature death, while I, miserable wretch, will have been the instrument of what the Jews call Providence, and we call destiny.

This unlimited freedom granted to Jesus provoked the Jews not the poor but the rich and powerful. It is true Jesus was rev- erend on the latter and this was a political reason, in my opinion for not restraining the liberty of the Nazarene. "Scribes and Pharisees," he would say to them, "you are a race of vipers; you resemble painted sepulchres; you appear well unto men, but you have death within you." At other times he would sneer at the alms of the rich and proud, telling them that the mite of the poor was more precious in the sight of God. Complaints were daily made at the praetorium against the insolence of Jesus.

I was even informed some misfortune would befall him; that it would not be the first time that Jerusalem had stoned those who called themselves prophets; an appeal would be made to Caesar. However, my conduct was approved by the Senate, and I was promised a reinforcement after the termination of the Parthian war.
