AUSTIN — Pres. Lyndon Johnson's holidays would exhaust most ordinary mortals. The President arrived in Austin on Christmas Eve, his homecoming delayed by a congressional crisis over the $3,000,000 foreign aid bill. Abandoning his announced schedule, he went to the Governor's Mansion for a 30-minute visit with Gov. John Connally.

Stopping his party's helicopter at the ranch of another close friend, A. W. Moursund, the President joined Moursund in an hour of deer hunting, before he finally got home to hang up his Christmas stockings. There he spent a happy time with his family and relatives and numerous close friends.

Christmas Day at the LBJ Ranch also found the President confronted with problems. He expressed concern over the fighting in Cyprus, penned messages to Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders and General Cemal Gursel, President of the Republic of Turkey.

Then he took newsmen on a tour of his ranch, handed them ashtrays as presents, and explained a cut he had just ordered in federal employment. All this he did before settling down to his Christmas dinner and the opening of presents under the tree.

Before dawn the next day, he and former Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee left "The Little White House" on a deer hunt. Both bagged bucks.

The President was back at the ranch house, working in his office, before noon and conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk by telephone, repeatedly, on the Cyprus crisis.

Later, he named a nine-member committee of experts to evaluate foreign economic and military aid programs and recommended how to strengthen them.

In doing his homework for the important Erhard visit, Johnson conferred in person with these distinguished government officials at the ranch: Secretary Rusk, Under Secretary of State George W. Ball, Special Ambassador Christian Herter, Agriculture Secretary Douglas Freeman and McGeorge Bundy, special assistant for national security affairs.

Thodore Sorensen, special White House counsel, has summoned to assist in preparation of the new President's first state of the union message. It will be delivered before the Congress on January 5.

Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, and John A. McCone, Central Intelligence Agency director, were among others called to confer with the President, in addition to regular staff members.

Press members from Washington and foreign countries, as well as the native Texans of the State capital, were invited back to talk and eat with the President on Friday. In addition to official talks, there was a program of fun for Chancellor Erhard, a portly ex-professor. He toured Fredericksburg, home of many German-speaking Texans, and attended church at Bethany Lutheran Church there Sunday. More than 200 turned out for a barbecue licenses will be suspended unless both operators and owners of cars in accidents coming under the law can prove adequate liability insurance coverage.

Minimum requirements are $10,000 covering liability for one person; $20,000 for two or more persons; and $5,000 property damage. Otherwise they must establish financial responsibility, if they are at fault.

Suspensions of licenses and registration will be for a period of two years unless requirements of the safety responsibility act are fully met.

George Washington laid the corner stone of the Capitol in Washington in 1793.

A SAD STORY

Behind many "For Sale" signs there is a sad story: A family borrowed more than they could afford to pay for a home, or payments and interest rates were too high; the home had to be sold, often at a loss. This tragedy could often be avoided if the families would seek help from a home loan specialist, such as our Association.

We work with you to arrange for a loan that's as easy to handle as monthly rent.

Farm And Ranch Operators Sought In Record Plan

As a farm or ranch operator, would you like to join as a select group of cooperators with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in a mail-in-record keeping project?

The Service's farm management specialists, with Rex Kennedy serving as coordinator, have issued a call for 300 volunteers who would like to participate in the year-long record project. Kennedy says for the past two years about 50 cooperators have been under the program and that results have been good. The program utilizes the electronic computers at Texas A&M University and makes it possible for the specialists to do a faster and more thorough job.

Kennedy points out that the results of the past two years clearly indicate weaknesses in management operations; especially as they relate to costs, yields, machinery and labor utilization. He adds that the past experience has caused the specialists to strongly recommend enterprise accounting, although it is not mandatory for the new cooperators.

Here's what the new cooperators will furnish the specialists at Texas A&M—a beginning inventory, monthly expense and income records mailed in each month, and an ending inventory. At the end of the year, the specialists will supply the cooperator with a detailed analysis of the year's record. This analysis will be provided in time for use in connection with tax reporting, Kennedy says.

The material submitted by the cooperators will be treated as confidential information and only summaries or averages without identification of individuals will be used by the specialists in their work. Summaries of the records will be available on request any time during the year, says Kennedy.

If you would like to participate in this mail-in-farm or ranch accounting program, the size or type of your operation makes no difference, you are advised to contact the local county agent at once. He can supply detailed information and the selection will be largely on a first come basis, Kennedy adds.

The Greeks Didn't Even Have a Word For It—

Nor did the Romans. It was many centuries later that insurance, as we know it today, came into being.

Like so many good things of this day and age, we take insurance and the protection it provides, for granted.

To many, an insurance policy is just a piece of paper, to be tucked away in a desk drawer and forgotten until something happens.

If something does happen, we suddenly realize that this piece of paper may save us from ruin.

That is why it is important to buy your insurance through an experienced agent who represents strong and long established companies.

Don't Shovel Snow If You're Not Too Young

Snow shoveling requires a lot of energy and muscle. Pushing a stalled auto out of a snow bank is even more demanding.

Once again, the American Medical Association reminds men of middle age and beyond, especially those who are overweight and lead otherwise sedentary lives, to take it easy in clearing away the snow from the walks and driveways.

If you're in reasonably good health, snow shoveling may actually be good exercise — if you take it easy. This could mean getting up 15 minutes earlier on the mornings of a fresh snow fall, to allow time for leisurely shoveling, with frequent brief rest periods. The frantic, hurried approach to clearing the drive in an effort to get to the office on time most definitely is not good for health.

Most common serious health result of overexertion from snow shoveling is a heart attack. If your physical condition is such that you are already prone to heart trouble, the extra exertion can hasten an attack. If your heart is sound, it likely won't be damaged.

Unless you have had a recent checkup, however, you cannot be certain that you aren't a likely candidate for heart trouble.

Don't be ashamed to invest in a machine that blows or scrapes aside the snow with the power of a small engine substituting for muscle power. Or don't hesitate to hire the neighborhood lad from down the street to shovel your walks.

It's hard for the American male to accept, but the chances are that the lady of the house is in better physical condition than her office worker husband. An hour or two daily pushing mop and broom keeps milady in good shape for shoveling.

Snow shoveling can be good for you, if you use a little common sense. Light exercise and fresh air in the winter both are important to maintaining health. Just don't overdo it.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Guess and sons had Christmas dinner with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham of Morton Valley over the weekend guests in the Guess home include her mother, Mrs. Graham and her brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs.

Navy Combat Art Exhibit For Showing At Abilene Library

"Operation Palette," a traveling exhibit of original paintings and on-the-scene drawings by official U.S. Navy combat artists, will be on exhibition to the public without charge in Abilene at the Abilene Public Library from January 6 to January 11.

Widely acclaimed in New York, London, and other large cities where they have been shown, these eye-witness records are a graphic portrayal of the Navy's role in war on the seas, on the beaches, and in the air. Many paintings in the group have become familiar to the public through reproduction in Life, Time, The National Geographic, and such books as "The Navy at War" and "Victory at Sea."

Brought to Abilene by the Navy Department, under the local sponsorship of Abilene Museum of Fine Arts, the exhibition represents 120 of the outstanding works of combat artists who are nationally known painters in private life. A special mobile unit will bring "Operation Palette" here. This exhibit has been shown throughout the United States, and has been seen by more than 50 million persons.

Carefully selected from the million-dollar Navy art collection, these works depict highlights of the ocean wars on canvases painted at Normandy, Iwo Jima, the Philippine Sea, at Midway and Okinawa, to name a few of many places. Famous paintings in the collection are Shepler's "Fox Green Beach", Jamie's "Realistic work made from oils and volcanic ash at Iwo Jima, entitled "Sovereigns", and Draper's "Inferno-Saipan". Cabot's "Walking Wounded" and other works, Hahn's vivid paintings of carriers in action have been added from the Korean collection as have paintings by Genders of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean and the Chinese Nationalist evacuation of the Tachen Islands in 1955.

"Our purpose," said John A. Deffebach, of the Museum of Fine Arts, "is to give as many people as possible an opportunity to see this unusual collection in the original. The Navy combat artist has made a permanent contribution to our national culture, but what is more important, he has given us a realistic impression of the consequences of war. The combat artist has painted the more intimate side of military life from the viewpoint of the fighting man."

Combat artists have not indulged in experimental techniques or abstractions, nor have they viewed war from a distance. Their purpose was to paint in a simple graphic medium, the story of the Navy in action. No phases of their subject matter were left to memory. They landed on the beaches with the first troops, lived in sub-zero climates, underwent strafing and bombing attacks and sweltered in jungles, doing their work at the same time. Here is an accurate record of what war means to men who do the fighting, painted on canvas by the brushes of outstanding American artists.

pearance at the intersection of Main Street and Highway 80. The flower beds on both sides of the entrance to Main Street will be a visible improvement to the city for years to come.

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR NEW RJC BUILDINGS

Ranger Junior College awarded a contract to the Haney Construction Company of Abilene based on their bid of $281,163.00.

The construction of the buildings began immediately with the scheduled completion date the first week in August, 1964.

One interesting aspect of the new construction will be the ceiling beams for the new gym. The beams are made of laminated wood and will be hauled to Ranger by police escorted truck. The huge roof structures are manufactured in Arkansas.

LOOKING BACK AT SPORTS

In the Spring Ranger Junior College held a number of track and field events. Among these events was the Featherlite Relays. The Rangers won this event with 167 1/2 points.

Their success in track was not reflected in their football season, however, as the Rangers came up on the short end of the won-lost column.

Injuries played a large part in the Ranger's lack of wins. Getting off to a good start, making a good showing against Cisco in the Peanut Bowl and against Blinn in a home game, the team looked as though it could take any team on any given day. Then both fullbacks were injured and remained on the injured list for almost all of the remaining season. With out the punch on the fullback to give them the necessary yardage in the crucial moments, the team suffered on their offense. Defensively, they were outstanding all season.

THE BULLDOGS

The Bulldogs fared somewhat better in the football season than did their college counterparts, coming out second best in district play. Losing a hard fought battle to Albany, the Bulldogs went on to win their final game with a decisive 36 to 5 victory over Baird.

LAKE LEON

Lake Leon played an active part in the sportsman's life during the past summer. Always a favorite fishing and boating spot for locals, and many outsiders alike, it was the site of a fishing rodeo and a ski tournament.

The fishing tournament attracted over 100 two-man teams to compete for the largest single bass and the largest string of bass awards. Most of the teams came from Fort Worth.

In the field of sports, the city can look for many bright things to come in 1964.

How Creep Feeding may help your cattle profits

Lots of cattlemen in this area have found it pays to creep feed their calves. Helps the calves, and their mamas, too.

Here's proof from work with 2800 head of cattle where calves were fed Purina Creep Rations:

1. 34% more choice and good grade calves.
2. Heavier calves. Every 10 calves creep-fed Purina returned weight equal to one extra cow. (No extra cow to breed, feed and care for, either.)
3. Better cow condition. Cows suckling creep-fed calves carried 44 lbs. of extra condition.
4. This extra condition meant 16% more calves the following season.

That's a big return for just a little outlay in creep feeding the Purina Way. Come in and let us talk over your operation. Prove to yourself Purina feeding can cost you less.

Texas Farm Export Outlook for 1964

Recent internal problems of the European Common Market have been capturing the economic headlines as 1963 draws to a close. Whether the problems are temporary or the splits become permanent will be a matter of vital concern to all of us in the new year, especially Texas agricultural interests.

Western Europe buys some 500 million dollars worth of U. S. farm commodities each year. But what few people realize is that our own state of Texas supplies a whopping 10 percent of these goods — or $50 million worth. It is this $50 million annual income to Texas that we not only hope to maintain but also to expand in the immediate future.

In September, a Texas delegation appointed by Governor Connally was sent to Europe to study the coming prospects for Texas exports to the Common Market. It was an eye-opening experience.

Common Market officials were unanimous in their demand for "quality, not just quantity" in future U. S. exports. The day is past, they repeatedly said, when the U. S. could expect to unload inferior commodities on European markets. "Don't expect us to eat what you won't eat, yourselves," was their terse way of putting it.

It is true that we have been guilty of this, to some degree. Yet, we produce enough high quality foodstuffs to supply our foreign markets without having to scrimp ourselves. Some of our export merchants will have to revise their thinking, however, on the quality and cleanliness of farm commodities destined for Europe and other parts of the world.

Still another export pitfall is that we sometimes forget that foreign trade is rapidly becoming a broad superhighway, demanding heavy traffic in BOTH directions. We cannot expect to be too restrictive in our own imports and hope to sell in large volume abroad. The power of an economically united Europe was demonstrated in a small measure by the "chicken war" earlier this year. This crimp in our poultry exports to Europe was a graphic illustration that the Common Market can retaliate severely if we only want to "sell" instead of "trade".
