Puzzle

(of sorts)

What is it that: Runs errands...saves time... reaches friends ... gives protection ... wins business ... and is one of the biggest bargains you buy?

Clue: A man named Bell invented it.

He invented a better way of living...electrical living!

Thomas A. Edison, whose birthdate each year signals the observance of National Electrical Week, brought electricity out of the laboratory and into practical use for the benefit of mankind. His invention of the first practical incandescent lamp, and his many other inventions in the field of electric power generation and distribution, created a new way of life and a new industry. Edison foresaw great things for electricity and for the electric industry he founded. And today business-managed electric companies, like Texas Electric Service Company, are making his vision come true . . . constantly planning, building and working to provide more and better electric service . . . for continued progress and for better living.
