POPULIST PARTY OF TEXAS IS IN SESSION HERE TO NAME STATE TICKET

REGRET EXPRESSED AT THE SMALL ATTENDANCE

LESS THAN 100 HERE

SEVEN OF THE CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICTS ARE NOT REPRESENTED

REFORM TALK RUNS HIGH

Hope is Expressed That the Cause for Lack of Interest in the People's Party Can Be Found and Remedied

There are less than 100 delegates here in attendance upon the State Populist convention which convened this morning.

Some regret was expressed that no more interest had been taken in the reform movement, and State Chairman Park in his opening address urged that something be done to revive this spirit. In the appointment of the committee on credentials and order of business it was shown that the First, Second, Fourth, Sixth, Eighth, Tenth and Fifteenth congressional districts were not represented.

Mayor Powell made the address of welcome, and in responding Dr. G. B. Malcom of Henderson county, where he is the Populist nominee for judge, facetiously referred to Mayor Powell as being at the mourner's bench of Populism.

Editor J. M. Mallett of the Watchman at Cleburne, was made temporary chairman, and Bryan Barber of Palo Pinto, and A. M. Calwick of Hunt, secretary and assistant secretary.

Convened a Little Early
It was 15 minutes past 11 o'clock when State Chairman Park called the convention to order, announcing that conditions had seemed to allay the reform interest somewhat since the last gathering. The chairman last elected had moved from the stage and the executive committee meeting in Georgetown had chosen him to fill the unexpected term.

He said this was a gathering of those who "believed in equal rights of all men" and of the men "who earn their bread by the sweat of their faces."

He spoke of the mysterious movements in many localities to thwart the efforts of the People's party, and the work of this convention was to find a remedy. He urged that the deliberations be harmonious, that conservatism be the dominant sentiment.

Mayor Powell Gave a Welcome
When the applause which greeted Chairman Park upon conclusion of his address subsided, he presented Mayor Powell whom, he said, would give the BANDITS GET $4,000 FROM ARIZONA STAGE.

Tucson, Ariz., Aug. 12.—El Correo de Sonora brings an account of a daring hold up near Mazatlan, Mexico, by three masked men supposed to have been outlaws. The robbers secured $4,000 and made good their escape with the plunder.
Mariano Gordillo, the driver attempted to whip up the horses and was shot dead. The stage was full but the passengers were unharmed. A shipment of $4,000 to a bank at Mazatlan was the booty the robbers were after and when they secured this they allowed the stage to proceed. A posse was sent after the robbers but up to last reports their search was fruitless.

A PLATITUDE OF PLATT

A NEW YORK POLITICIAN SAYS THAT THE FEDERAL ISSUES ARE UP TO IOWA

New York, Aug. 12.—Senator Thomas C. Platt has clearly indicated, according to the Herald, that the Republican state platform this year will ignore Cuban reciprocity as advocated by President Roosevelt and endorsed by the Iowa state platform, and confine itself chiefly to state issues. When asked how the Cuban reciprocity issue would be treated in the state platform, Senator Platt said:
"I have not heard that matter discussed. I do not know that the state platform will deal with federal issues. We have issues enough of our own here in the state."
It was suggested that the Republicans of Iowa had taken a different view of the matter.
"As the Republicans of Iowa have about everything in the national government it is proper that they should take charge of federal issues," Senator Platt replied.

SUSPECTED AS AN ACCOMPLICE

An Associate of Minnie Strauss Held for Investigation
It is thought that Minnie Strauss, the negro woman of Acre fame, who was locked up yesterday on a charge of theft from person, had an accomplice in the job which she is charged with having perpetrated. Last night at 10 o'clock Detective Thomson locked up a girl, a mulatto, known in Acre circles as "Dude." The girl is suspected of having more or less to do with the job of relieving Minnie's victim. Furthermore, the officers have reason to believe "Dude" can be induced to turn up a sparkler or two under proper pressure.

A DOUBLE LYNCHING AT LEXINGTON, MO.

Lexington, Mo., Aug. 12.—Charles Salyers, white and Harry Gages, colored, were taken from the county jail here by masked mob early this morning and lynched. They were charged with the killing of George Johnson, a wealthy farmer, who surprised them at his hen house near town a week ago.
Before they were strung up Salyers made a statement to the mob saying that Gages fired the shot that killed Johnson.
Johnson was one of the wealthiest and most respected men in the community and the feeling against the two men was intense.

POPULIST PARTY IN SESSION HERE

speaker, "and nail the banner of reform high on the heavens, proclaiming the principles for which we must fight if we hope to accomplish anything. The other parties fight among themselves, one is as bad as the other. Now let me tell you, brethren, we must have harmony if we hope to get anything. A man who will tell another he is a d—n fool if he does not agree with him, is the d—nest fool of the two."

Organization and Committee

The speech of Dr. Malcom concluded the preliminaries, and Editor J. M. Mallett of Cleburne was made temporary chairman and Bryan Barber of Palo Pinto and A. M. Colwick of Hunt, were named secretary and assistant by acclamation.

Mr. Mallett said there was something the matter with the party in Texas, for he had seen the time when a call could have been issued and the city hall would not have been large enough to hold the delegates.

"There is quite a contrast in the convention of today," said he, "and the one I presided over here in May, 1900. It was boisterous then—very boisterous, but now it is going to be harmonious and conservative. We are here to find the cause of the lack of interest and remedy it."

Under the call for committees the following were named on credentials: Third district—Dr. G. B. Malcom, Henderson county.

Fifth district—P. B. Sprague, Dallas county.

Seventh district—B. F. Williams, Milam county.

Ninth district—W. H. Benton, Gonzales county.

Eleventh district—W. H. Crane, McLellan county.

Twelfth district—W. T. Bowman, Parker county.

Thirteenth district—Puckett, Denton county.

Fourteenth district—F. S. Taylor, Mills county.

Sixteenth district—J. W. Terrell, Palo Pinto county.

Adjournment was taken until 1:30 o'clock p. m.

Permanent Organization

The first action of the convention after dinner was the report of the committee on credentials by R. B. Sprague chairman. The report recommended the seating of all Populists present as delegates with rights to cast votes at their counties in this convention. The report was adopted.

Following the credentials committee the committee on permanent organization was selected as follows:

3d district, Dr. Malcom, Henderson county; 4th district, Jesse Adams, Raines county; 5th district, W. S. Hogue, Ellis county; 7th district, B. F. Williams, Milam county; 9th district, W. E. Foster, Gonzales county; 11th district, Wm. Summers, McLellan county; 12th district, T. E. Cross, Tarrant county; 13th district, C. C. Bearden, Wise county; 14th district, F. S. Taylor, Mills county; 16th district, John W. Baker, Scurry county.

Platform Committee

The reports from the congressional districts on the men selected brought to light the fact that there were present, delegates for only eight, as follows:

3d, Dr. Malcom, Henderson county; 4th, Newton Graham, Raines county; 5th, Buck Barry, Bosque county; 7th, Fred Williams, Milam county; 9th, W. H. Minton, Gonzales county; 11th, W. H. Roper, Coryell county; 12th, J. D. Griffin of Johnson county; 13th, A. Collins, Denton county; 14th, F. S. Taylor, Mills county.

"Stump" Ashby advocated rescinding the action appointing a platform committee from the members selected by the congressional committees, and appointing instead a platform committee of sixteen members from the body of the convention to draft a platform. He urged that such had been the practice in the past and said that to take those already named might be unfair to the districts not represented. C. C. Bearden believed that the names selected took the poor and argued the pros and cons of the action. Dr. Malcom, finally moved to delegate the selection of the committee by reconsidering the appointment of the platform committee. It was defeated. Then it was moved to appoint the eight already selected and to appoint eight others to make out the sixteen. This was done, the eight additional men chosen being as follows: "Stump" Ashby, Tarrant county; Milton Park, Dallas county; J. A. Parker, Dallas county; J. F. Wells, Parker county; Captain Sam Evans, Tarrant county; T. N. Lawson, Johnson county.

Platform Committee Works

When the platform committee met Milton Park was made chairman. "Stump" Ashby said he thought the convention should put out a state ticket entirely, that he had heard talk of doing otherwise and if a platform was adopted and no ticket nominated, that such action would occasion no end of difficulty.

The committee called on the convention and a motion was offered and carried that a full state ticket be nominated. Returning to the committee room the members began selecting an official name for the party. "Stump" Ashby said he was against fusion with anybody, but that this was a great "allied people's movement." "We are going to get the laboring people," he said, "and if we don't get them soon, they will be bound hard and fast." He suggested "Allied Party," or "Allied Reform Party of Texas."

B. H. L. Bonner of Smith county opposed the adoption of the name "Allied" for reason, he said, "to add a new fangled name would be to add confusion and our people would not know what to do."

It was decided by the committee on platform at a late hour to call the party the "Allied Reform Party of Texas."

The national platform of the Allied People's party was endorsed and will be presented to the convention for its adoption.

COL. BEARDEN COMES EARLY

Advocates Direct Legislation Through Initiative and Referendum

"Colonel" C. C. Bearden of Wise county, was the first delegate on the ground. He came in Sunday and has been acting as a committee of one on reception. He secured his military title when he debated with Reagan, Sayers and Cockrell, and other Democratic leaders.

"We are expecting a committee composed of J. E. Chambers, and J. H. Cook of St. Louis and Green of Springfield, representing the Public Ownership party," said the "Colonel," and who will be on the ground to harmonize the different elements. They came into the Allied People's party movement when re-organization was effected in Louisville. In St. Louis the Ownership party is in close touch with the Socialists and the trades unions.

"One of the matters which I look to be strongly advocated here will be the idea of direct legislation through the initiative and referendum."

NOT HERE TO SAVE COUNTRY

Old-Time Populist Leaders Fail to Attend Present Convention

Barnett Gibbs of Dallas, who once led the state Populist ticket for governor, is not to be here, so the leaders say. Mr. Gibbs was lieutenant governor under a Democratic administration, and later joined the People's party movement.

"He has gone back to the Democrats," said a delegate this morning, "although he is reported to still believe in numerous reforms. When we lost Barnett Gibbs we lost a good man and one who could have done much for the party if he would have remained in the middle of the road."

Cyclone Davis, once a congressional candidate, and a man of national reputation, is another of the reformers who will not be here. He is in South Texas making prohibition speeches.

Harry Tracy and a long list of those who led the fight in 1896 were also absent when the convention was called to order.

STOOD BY THE CONSTITUTION

Colonel Buck Barry of Bosque County Bravely Battled Alone

Col. Buck Barry, one of the oldest of the clan, is here as a delegate. He lives in Bosque county, and was elected to the Eighteenth legislature, better known as the "fence cutting legislature," on the Greenback ticket.

"There were 105 members of the lower house," said the colonel at the Richelieu this morning, "and a remarkable thing about the gathering was 105 of them violated their oaths. The constitution is as plain to me as the Ten Commandments, but when the bill came up to put the military in the field against the fence cutters, I was the only one who voted against it."

Colonel Barry is in his 81st year, and still vigorous.

PARKER OPENS HEADQUARTERS

Chairman of National Allied People's Party a Young Man

J. A. Parker of Louisville, Ky., chairman of the National People's party, is here and has opened headquarters in the Richelieu hotel, Sixteenth and Main streets. Scarcely more than 30 years of age, slender of build, he stands in marked contrast with Chairman Milton Park of the State committee, who tips the scales for 200 pounds.

Mr. Parker is the youngest National chairman any party ever had. He is in Texas looking after harmony, and doing some organizing this fall.

"I have been in the newspaper business since I was 16 years of age," said he, "and have always been a worker for reform. I am interested with Mr. Park in the Mercury in Dallas, and regard Texas my home as much as I do Kentucky."

"I am in favor of putting a full ticket in the field, but do not know what the convention will think of it. There are many people in Texas who believe in reform movements, and especially do the Democrats. They believe in what we do, but most of them are afraid to come out and so say."

HAS TOO MUCH BUSINESS NOW

"Honest John" Veatch Says He Has No Time to Take the Stump

"Honest John" Veatch of Johnson county, the only man spoken of for a state office, was an early arrival this morning. Mr. Veatch was a nominee for the legislature in Johnson county in 1896, and made a big lead on the opposition.

"I know I have been spoken of for governor," said Mr. Veatch at the convention hall, "but do not believe I could accept it if it was offered. I have so much in business, it requires my entire time and the man who takes the nomination must go out and make a fight for the party."

IS UNIQUE AMONG HIS FELLOWS

John W. Baker Represents the Only Populist County in Texas

John W. Walker of Scurry county, who represents the only Populist county in Texas, as he says, is one of the characters around the headquarters. He is chairman of his county and was responsible for the landslide for the Populist county ticket there two years ago.

"Our lowest majority was 81," said he, "and we are in shape to repeat the dose this fall. It is the intention of the reformers of Scurry county to put out a full legislative ticket in addition to the county one, and we will stand a good chance of electing it."

"STUMP ASHBY" IS ON HAND

Comes to Take Part in the Populistic Deliberations

"Stump" Ashby has arrived. He drove in from his home near Smithfield this morning to see the convention and participate in its deliberations.

Mr. Ashby has just returned from a campaign in Lamar county, where he did the talking for the anti-prohibitionists.

"They put it to us in Houston and Limestone counties, but we were the people in Lamar," said Mr. Ashby this morning. "I am here to see what is done, and am in favor of putting an independent ticket in the field."

TARRANT COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Called to Meet in City Hall on Next Saturday Afternoon

The Tarrant County Republican executive committee will meet in the city hall in Fort Worth on next Saturday afternoon in response to a call made by Chairman Lon M. Barclay. The purpose of the meeting of the executive committee is to arrange a call to be made for a county convention to be held preparatory for the State convention to be held in this city on September 9 next.

DOYEN DEMONSTRATES NEW CURE FOR BOILS

WILL TAKE PLACE OF FIG TREATMENT AND IS SAID TO ACT MORE QUICKLY THAN JOB'S CURE

New York, Aug. 12.—Dr. Doyen of Paris, has demonstrated that the inflamed tumors designated under the names of boils or furuncles, and anthrax may be successfully submitted to the serum treatment says the Paris correspondent of the Herald.

The doctor has brought to the notice of the academy a medicine an albuminous liquid which has been administered in doses of five to ten cubic centimetres is efficacious against the staphylococcus microbe which engenders those affections. The serum employed has such a powerful effect that in two or three hours after the injection all pain caused by the inflammation ceases. The results vary a little according to the manner in which the injection is made and the amount of decaying tissue in the center of the eruption.

The largest carbuncles cure without any incision or cauterization, yielding to a simple emollient and aseptic dressing.

The injections, about two hundred in number made by Dr. Doyen, and fully specified by him, have never produced an abscess.

SEAT OF THE MIND.

Evidence That It is the Front Part of the Brain.

The exact seat in the brain of the highest intellectual faculties has been a moot point in science since the functions of the organ of mind began to be investigated with accuracy, says a writer in the London Chronicle. The general consensus of opinion localizes what we term "mind" in the prefrontal lobes of the brain, but by another school of thinkers the hinder lobes have been credited with performing our highest cerebral duties. The balance of evidence, I should say, is decidedly in favor of the former view, and recent researches and observations by Dr. Phelps, an American investigator, would appear to assist in strengthening the opinion that the most important portion of the brain is its anterior region. In the course of the investigations in question some 235 cases of brain injury and disease were examined. In all save two it was noted that interference of extensive nature with the prefrontal region resulted in serious disturbances of the mental faculties. Less severe injury produced less marked effects. These facts parallel the researches of other investigators, and they are further substantiated by what is observed in cases of idiocy connected with a want of development of the frontal lobes of the brain.

As to the relative importance of the two lobes or halves of the cerebrum or chief brain mass most of us know that each half governs the opposite side of the body and that, as we are right handed, so we may be called left brained. The superiority in functional importance of our left brain is not questioned, and it is therefore interesting to find Dr. Phelps insisting from the results of his investigations that our left brain lobe is really the intellectual half. The right half, it is added, is capable of sustaining severe injury without marked mental effects supervening, and cases are quoted in support of this fact. Indeed, such cases have frequently puzzled physiologists, seeing that the disturbance of the intellect has in no sense been commensurate with the injury to the brain.

On the notion of the greater importance of our left brain and on the theory that severe injuries which do not produce utter mental breakdown really involve the right lobe, the puzzling constitution of the brain may be explained in part at least. But the last word has not yet been said concerning the brain's ways and work. Injuries of the left half do not always produce serious effects as regards the mental life, while we have had some physiologists insisting that we have really two brains and that, while the left lobe is the Jekyll of the intellect, the right, on occasion at least, is apt to play the part of Hyde. A fascinating theory this, but one to which sober science is not likely to append its imprimatur.

Shield For Target Markers.

Captain Lawrence has invented a safety shield and signal for the protection of the markers stationed behind the targets at rifle contests. The markers are stationed in a bullet proof house at the side of the target where there can be no possibility of injury, but if they should leave this shelter for any purpose whatever a signal is automatically shown over the face of the target. The signal is operated electrically by the movement of the door of the shelter.

CORSICANA TAKES GAME

THE FORT WORTH LEAGUE DEFEATED YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Good Hits and Good Base Running Responsible for the Victory—Dallas Loses to the Paris Aggregation

It was an excellent game that was played by the league teams of Fort Worth and Corsicana in Corsicana yesterday afternoon.

Fort Worth was the loser in a score of 6 to 5. As usual the Panthers did the leading when the game neared its finish. Bunching hits and good base running was responsible for Corsicana's victory.

Paris Wins from Dallas

A few hits in the sky made by Paris on their own diamond yesterday put Dallas to the bad, and lost them the game. One Paris man knocked a home run and the next inning when the bases were full sent a high one to the field. Three runs were scored on errors made by the rattled Dallas players. The score: Paris, 4; Dallas, 2.

HIS HOPE IS DEFERRED

BETROTHED OF YOUNG ROMANIAN GIRL WAITS LONG FOR HIS WEDDING DAY

New York, Aug. 12.—Geise Rabinovic and his six children are being held a second time at Ellis Island by the immigration authorities. The man and his family, who are Romanians arrived here several weeks ago and were deported because they had no money. The eldest daughter had come to marry a young man, who objected strenuously to her being sent back to Europe. This time the father of the family brought with him six hundred marks and now the authorities are holding them to find out how they got so much money in so short a time.

WHEN COL. JOHN MOSBY RAN

New York Post: Col. John F. Mosby sent word to the remnant of his old guerrilla band who held their annual reunion at Leesburg, Va., this week, that the pressure of public duty would prevent his joining them. If Mosby's memory remains active, the recent death of Colonel Tichenor of the board of general appraisers at New York, must have reminded him of an occasion when the pressure of private—extremely private and personal—duty caused his absence from a place where he was very much wanted. He has sometimes mentioned it, in these latter years, as the "closest call" he ever had in his life.

Tichenor, who was a Union officer in the civil war, had been sent out one night with a company in advance of the army to skirmish and establish a picket line. Before he had gone very far he stumbled upon three men on horseback and cried "Halt!" Who goes there? Two of the men wheeled instantly, galloped away and escaped; the third hurried forward, throwing up his hands and screaming: "I surrender! I surrender!"

Tichenor was much annoyed. He could not shoot a man who had voluntarily made himself a prisoner of war, and the direction taken by the others was such that he should have risked hitting his prisoner if he fired upon the two fugitives; so he had to let them go and bring his one prize into camp. The captive proved to be a local preacher who knew the country so well that the Confederates had pressed him into the service as a guide, and he revealed the fact that one of his companions was a Confederate officer, and the other the guerrilla Mosby, who in the then state of feeling within the Union lines, would undoubtedly have been given short shrift and hanged.

Mosby afterward met Tichenor and told him that he did the liveliest running that night of any time in his adventurous career.

SUCCESSOR APPOINTED

JUDGE HOLMES GIVEN JUDGE GRAY'S PLACE

A PROMINENT JURIST

New Member of Supreme Court a Son of Oliver Wendell Holmes the Author—Now Chief Justice in Massachusetts

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 12.—President Roosevelt has appointed Hon. Oliver Wendell Holmes, son and namesake of the late Dr. Holmes, the poet, chief justice of the supreme court of Massachusetts, to be an associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, vice Justice Gray, resigned.

The resignation of Justice Gray was due to ill health. Several months ago he suffered a stroke of apoplexy, which some time later was followed by another. He has not appeared on the bench since he was stricken the first time. His advanced age—74 years—told against his recovery with serious force. Realizing that he probably never would be able again to assume the place which he so long had filled with distinguished ability and honor, he decided a short time ago to tender his resignation to the president. With the exception of Justice Harlan, he has served on the bench of the United States supreme court longer than any of his present colleagues. He was appointed an associate justice by President Arthur on Dec. 19, 1881. His service extending, therefore, through a period of nearly twenty-one years.

Judge Holmes, whom the president has selected as Justice Gray's successor, is one of the most distinguished lawyers and jurists of Massachusetts. His career on the bench, particularly as chief justice of the Massachusetts supreme court, has attracted wide attention. Like Justice Gray, he is a native of Massachusetts.

Sketch of Judge Holmes.

Boston, Aug. 12.—Judge Holmes, who has been honored by an appointment to the United States supreme court bench, was born in Boston March 8, 1841, and graduated from Harvard University in 1861. He served in the Twentieth Massachusetts regiment in the Civil war, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel. Later he served as aide to Brigadier General H. G. Wright, commanding the first division, sixth corps. In December, 1865, he became a law student in the office of P. M. Morse and graduated from Harvard law school in 1866. He was admitted to the Suffolk bar in 1867, and afterward began active practice of law with his only brother, Edward Jackson Holmes. On December 8, 1882, Governor Long appointed him an associate justice of the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts and on July 23, 1899, the late Governor Wolcott appointed him chief justice.

Judge Holmes, in addition to his eminence in law matters, has achieved prominence as a writer and lecturer on legal subjects upon which in many instances he is a recognized authority. At Harvard university he taught constitutional law in 1870 and 1871, and was university lecturer on jurisprudence in 1871 and 1872. He received the degree of LL. D. from Yale and Harvard in 1895. On June 17, 1872, Chief Justice Holmes married Miss Fanny Dixwell, daughter of Epes Sargent Dixwell of Cambridge.

Passed Gravel Stone as Large as a Pea.

Royersford, Pa., April 19, 1902.

Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Gentlemen—I had been a sufferer from kidney trouble for about 8 years with pain in side, back and head, about 6 or 8 months ago I concluded to try a bottle of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. To my surprise I experienced a decided relief before I had taken half of the bottle, and one morning passed a gravel stone as large as a pea, which I still have in my possession and will be pleased to show to any one who doubts the efficacy of this wonderful remedy. One month ago, finding some of the old symptoms returning I purchased a 50c bottle of Swamp-Root at Dr. Morey's Drug Store, and before I had taken one-fourth of it I found in the vessel which I had voided during the night, a teaspoonful of small gravel stones and sand, the passing of which was immediately followed by relief.

JESSE S. BUTTERFIELD. I am well acquainted with Mr. Butterfield and know that the above statement is true in every particular.

DUEL ENDS IN DEATH

FATAL SHOOTING ON ARANSAS PASS TRAIN

WM. DONOVANT DEAD

W. T. Eldredge Uses His Revolver With Deadly Effect—Claiming Self-Defense—Dead Man a Well Known Planter

Houston, Aug. 12.—A delayed train on the Aransas Pass road arrived here Monday night, bringing in two men who had been parties to a deadly shooting at Simonton, on that road. Captain William Donovan was upon a mattress and was considered badly wounded. W. T. Eldredge was in the custody of W. T. Wade, deputy sheriff of Fort Bend county. Captain Donovan was conveyed from the train to the Houston infirmary, where he died at 11 o'clock Monday night.

It seems that Eldredge was on the Aransas Pass train coming to Houston. He got on at Eagle Lake. At Simonton, the first station this side, Captain Donovan was entering a coach to come to Houston when the shooting occurred. As he entered the coach which was occupied by Eldredge the latter stood and the shooting started. The men were close together and the first ball took effect. The sheriff or deputy of Bexar county was near by and when the pistol was pulled for the second time he knocked it up and the ball went wide of the mark. Four other cartridges were discharged and were treated in the same way.

Mr. Eldredge stated that when they met Captain Donovan attempted to draw his pistol and that brought the shooting on. On the 19th of July they had a little trouble. At Galveston during the state convention they also had some trouble.

Captain Donovan was a large sugar and rice planter near Eagle Lake and was one of the best known men in this part of the state. He was owner of a large rice mill, a sugar mill and an irrigation plant near Eagle Lake. He was a gallant Confederate soldier and lost one arm in the Confederate war. His home was in this city, where he lived with his sister, Miss Adella Donovan.

The bodies of Mrs. Frank Schlupinsky and two children of Houston, and Mrs. Fowler and her grandson of Houston, have been claimed by relatives and will be taken to Houston.

The identified victims are: Mrs. J. C. Landon, San Angelo. B. Hendricks, commercial traveler, Waco.

BOLL WORM IN FANNIN COUNTY

Crops of Two Weeks Ago That Were Fine Are Now Destroyed Bonham, Tex., Aug. 12.—The one theme for discussion among farmers now is the boll worm. Reports are coming in from every part of Fannin county of the depredation of the worm. Some crops that two weeks ago were not harmed are now but little damaged. It is a safe estimate, judging from the volume of reports, that the cotton crop in Fannin county is damaged 50 per cent.

Three Women Shot.

Louisville, Aug. 12.—James D. Cook, a carpenter, shot Mrs. Louisa Jones and Mrs. Mary Sberline of 1842 Eighth street and Mrs. Francis Rasner of 1838 Eighth street. Cook says family troubles are responsible for his act.

Almost a Race War.

Paris, Tex., Aug. 12.—A war of races, caused by a fight between a white boy and a negro on the depot platform, was narrowly averted at Hugo, I. T., Sunday night. Two hundred men appeared on the streets armed with Winchester, shotguns and revolvers, but there was no bloodshed. The white citizens are talking of forming a vigilance committee.

ARE RAIDING THE FARMS

FARMERS IN STRIKE DISTRICT ARE THREATENED

ARE IN ACTUAL WANT

Soldiers Giving Surplus Food to the Women and Children of Strikers—Battle Between Deputies and the Strikers

Shenandoah, Aug. 12.—Complaint has been made to brigade headquarters that strikers were foraging in the rich agricultural district of the Catawassa valley, which spreads its broad and fertile length along the other side of the mountains north of this city. The life of one farmer has been threatened because he attempted to protect his property, and the raids have reached such serious proportions that the farmers are preparing to take some concerted action to stop further depredations. The complaints reached headquarters Monday, and it is not unlikely that the cavalry will be sent into the district. Farmers are drawing petitions asking for protection.

Soldiers in camp are daily feeding several hundred women and children. They come there saying they are hungry, and as there is more than enough food in the camp to supply the wants of the men, the officers permit the soldiers to give something to the needy applicants. The number that came last week was small, but it is increasing daily. Some of the women and all of the children come to the camp in their bare feet. Many of them bring baskets to carry the food home. It is a common sight to see some of the women and children take scraps from the leavings of the soldiers. Colonel Hoffman of the Eighth regiment, was asked if all these persons were foragers, and he replied that a good many belonged to the English-speaking classes.

The officials of the Mine Workers' union deny there is any actual want. They maintain the local unions are well able to take care of all classes of distress.

Deputies and Strikers Fight.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 12.—A lively battle occurred Monday night between deputies and strikers at Throop an isolated mining village, six miles north of here. Scores of shots were exchanged but as far as is known no one was hit. The one colliery in the village is operated by the Pencoast Coal company. Last Tuesday the washery was started under the protection of armed deputies. There has been some stone throwing at the deputies and clubbing of workmen. On several occasions the deputies discharged their guns to frighten away the boys who pelted the washery with slingshots. The four deputies guarding the companies pumping station located on the river bank were driven to cover by a volley of shots from the other shore. They returned the fire and silenced the attack. When darkness fell the attack on the pump house was renewed. The company anticipated it and had a big force of deputies on hand. The firing lasted an hour.

ORPHON BOY CHARGES CRUELTY

Story Told by Inmate of Orphan Home at Corsicana

(Special to the Telegram.) Corsicana, Tex., Aug. 12.—Ange Morris, aged 14, and an inmate of the State Orphan home, charges the management of that institution with extreme cruelty and as proof of his claim shows stripes and welts over his body. The boy appeared before his mother Wednesday morning at the home of T. J. York, where she is housekeeper, and told her that because one of the girls at the home had accused him of swearing at her he was whipped unmercifully. The mother appeared before Justice Roberts in effort to get complaint against one of the managers, but Justice Roberts refused on the grounds that the home was under state direction. The boy is a paralytic, one side being paralyzed so that he cannot move his arm and can barely get around. There is no evidence, but the boy's story.

Latest Disease That is Charged to the Pesky Insect

Lake Charles, La., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Elauson Clark, living south of the city, was bitten on the ankle by a mosquito a week ago and was inoculated with charbon from the bite. Her life was in danger for several days, but she is recovering. Some of her husband's stock died of charbon and it is supposed the insect carried the inflammation from the animals. Charbon has also appeared within a mile of town, a horse belonging to Captain Fitzreiter dying of the disease.

Young Physician Suicides.

Muskogee, I. T., Aug. 12.—Dr. M. F. Vance, a young physician at Cecotah, twenty miles south of this place, committed suicide by blowing out his brains with a revolver. He was 27 years old and had a good practice and a good business besides. No cause can be assigned. He went into the kitchen before daylight and lay down on the floor and then fired the shot. It went through his head and on through the floor. He had a young wife.

Corpses Washed Away.

Madison, N. J., Aug. 12.—A cloudburst Sunday night caused devastation in Hillside cemetery. About seventy-five baskets were uncovered by the rushing waters and many of them were swept from the graves. Coffins were found strewn about in all directions. Some of the bodies were found a mile from the cemetery and it is believed that others were washed into the Passaic river. Forty bodies have been recovered.

FORT WORTH, TEXAS, AUG. 12, 1902

WELCOME POPULISTS.

The Telegram does not agree with the politics of the men who are in Fort Worth today holding a state convention for the purpose of placing in nomination a ticket for their fall campaign. These men represent the Populist faith. But aside from their political belief they are men just like other Texans who are pleased to call themselves Democrats or Republicans or who have no political affiliations whatever. The Telegram has more faith in the men who compose a great political party than it has in the party itself. Men, not issues, are the makers of our commonwealth. And men who are sincerely working for the good of their country and their state, will, regardless of the party in power, make good and useful citizens. It is needful that there be more than one political party. The sterling worth of one man, on the ticket of a party in many respects inferior, has often won the victory for that party at the polls, but the final result could not be but of bad effect. The Telegram believes, however, the Populists in convention here are going through a useless task, except that the highest usefulness of placing the best men on any ticket, is an inspiration to the stronger parties to be actuated by similar motives and it is thus that the most good to the largest number results.

The Telegram extends a hearty welcome to the delegates and visitors at the Populist convention. Fort Worth is theirs to see and the city is glad to extend to them greeting that they may return to their homes full of her praises.

Mr. Bryan is still talking. Some of these days the redoubtable William J. will become discouraged and let go his hold on the earth, and the doomed planet will disappear utterly from the scheme of the universe.

A GOD-LIKE DEED.

There died in one of the big hospitals in Philadelphia a few days ago a little girl named Celia McCann. It was one of those cases of which by reason of the obscure positions of the individuals concerned, the world hears little. She was fatally burned while trying to speed, with oil, the fire for the noonday meal. Hands with love and hands with pity and skill in them did what they could to make her going easy, but the flames had eaten deep, and their labor was ill repaid. Yet to the last, through 24 hours of such suffering as cannot even be imagined, she thought only of others. That had been her little life; it became her death.

For six of the 11 years which rounded out her service in Philadelphia had been devoted to the care of the little home, and the mothering of two children younger than herself. The real mother, widowed and compelled to go out and work for the support of her three children taught this elder child such of the art of housekeeping as a baby head like hers could and that divine instinct of the woman which is shown so often in the child led her on in the task that befell her. At 9 o'clock she was the cook. She was the woman then. And when, on a Monday morning she for the first time disregarded her mother's warning and took down the oil can to hasten the children's dinner, there burst forth a sudden a mass of flames which enveloped her so quickly that she had no time to save herself; then the Christ of the young woman shown through the fire and with her blazing breath she begged the two children to keep away from her. She had to run away from them. The neighbors heard her screams and came. They put out the fire and sent the child-mother to the hospital. There ended the last chapter of the little heroine's life.

The world is full of heroism like this—heroism of the best and truest and noblest kind. There are thousands of men and women, and even children, like this young woman, whose lives are patiently devoted to others, and in the end painfully given in the same cause. Yet because we cannot see much of these, because the public prints hesitate at the trouble of hunting them up and telling them, they pass unseen by the great throng. But they exist. The sin and shortcomings of men, which are paraded before us are met and more than vanquished by the God-like deeds of an unknown multitude. When you feel the burden of the former think of Celia McCann.

Would it were in our power to say something worthy of that deed! When we stand face to face with such heroism we feel the frailty of human speech. All we can say is lost in the music of her doing. But one praised her as was her due when he said: "Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

There are communities in Texas where there will be considerable interest manifested as to whether some of the Populist delegates who are here in convention will be still thirsty when they get back home.

BOERS AND THEIR TASK.

The Boers have returned to their lands. They have found them devastated by the army of invasion. Their homes are destroyed and their cattle have been used by the commissary of the English army. But these men are returning to their task with a will and in a short time will have regained much of the wealth in houses and improved lands which they lost during the stubborn war. They fought well; they will as vigorously set about their tasks of peace.

Because of their resistance to the British arms they have gained the admiration and the respect of the world. They, too, have advertised to the world that in their country they have something of special value worth fighting for. Men have been attracted from all parts of the world to South Africa and in a short time the population there will be wonderfully increased.

Increased respect for the Boers has been developed by the prolongation of the war and the terms of peace granted to the men in the field were more liberal than the English cabinet would have dared to grant a year ago.

One interesting provision is that which sets apart a sum of $375,000,000 to be loaned to the people of the Transvaal and the other districts for the upbuilding of their industries. While this sum will be inadequate to repair the damages done during the war, it will go a long way toward causing a quick revival of the industries. On account of the lack of transportation facilities it is said that building operations are expensive. It may be that the statement that a house costs $2500 is an exaggeration, but at any rate materials are high priced.

The brave and patriotic resistance which the Boers showed to England demonstrates that they are a hardy people. In a few years they will overcome all the difficulties now presented in the devastation and losses caused by the war.

SCISSOR ETTES

Chicago Live Stock World: As regards your business, don't talk to anybody, man or woman, regarding your plans or projects, or anything connected with them unless you are perfectly sure they wish for your success. Don't talk to people who hear you out of politeness. If your aim is for right and justice you will be led to those you can trust.

El Paso News: Scientists say that the earthquake which destroyed several houses at Los Alamos, Cal., yesterday, and cracked the earth in the valley and hills of Santa Barbara county, was due to a slip of earth through contraction where internal fires are cooling.

Austin Tribune: Let us hope another slip won't occur and swallow up Fort Worth before the Populists have a chance to meet and do something towards saving the country.

Chicago Live Stock Journal: The cowmen over most of the ranges in New Mexico are feeling easier at present than they have for two or three years past. Last year the drought caused heavy losses, and this year it began to look as if they would be utterly ruined, but during the past few weeks there has been an abundance of rain in nearly every part of the country except a few localities in the north central part of the territory. The Pecos valley suffered immensely from the drought last year, and more heavily this year, only about 50 per cent of the calf crop being saved, but the continuous rains of a few weeks since were sufficient to bring the grass out and provide an abundance of water, and plenty of grass for the winter is assured.

Atlanta Journal: Mr. Beveridge now arises to deny the report that he will stump a Texas district for a Republican candidate. Probably he couldn't find a suit of armor small enough to fit him.

Denison Herald: Texas will develop much more rapidly when the people of the state make up their minds that they have a right to develop her industries, and put Texas money into them. There is sufficient money in the state now to proceed with such development if the people would only get a start at it.

Kansas City Star: Edward is a real King at last.

Chicago Record-Herald: It is several months since any European power has warned the Sultan. Why this neglect?

THUMB NAIL SKETCHES

Ex-Speaker Thomas B. Reed tells a story at his own expense of the late William M. Everts.

"I met Senator Everts in the capitol at Washington one day," Mr. Reed relates, "when I was speaker, and he said to me:

"Mr. Speaker, I half suspect that you believe that a deliberative body is a woman—if it deliberates it is lost."—New York Times.

The Philadelphia Times says: A small headstone in a cemetery in the western part of the state is pointed out to visitors as one of the sights of the neighborhood. It was placed over the grave by a widower, who, while not lacking in love for the departed one, was nervous to a degree. He ordered a small stone because it was cheap, and told the mason to engrave on it this inscription:

"Sarah Hackett. Aged 90 years. Lord, she was Thine."

The stone cutter said there was too much inscription for so small a surface, but was told to go ahead and "squeeze it on somehow." Here is the inscription as squeezed:

"Sarah Hackett. Aged 90. Lord, she was Thine."

Ex-Governor Hogg, of Texas, who went to England to sell oil wells and became the lion of the season in London society, attributes his popularity among the aristocracy to his refusal to wear knee breeches at the King's levee and to his big soft Texas hat.

At lunch one day in the mansion of a distinguished Earl the Ex-Governor of Texas met a Duchess who became so highly interested in his picturesque personality that she asked him to accompany her to a reception for which she was bound so he could tell her more stories about his oil wells. Hogg politely declined, explaining that he was going to devote the afternoon to seeing the town from the top of a 'bus.

"Better come along too, Ma'am," he said.

After some hesitation the lady consented and the Governor gently helped her to a seat on the roof of the 'bus, pulling his own huge proportions up after her. Together they had a long ride and got a good look at the city.

"Governor," she said, "I can almost imagine myself in Texas. I never before rode on the top of a London 'bus."

Governor Hogg said that Londoners get a lot of ideas from us though we have yet some things to learn from them.

At the close of a fashionable dinner in London, the Ex-Governor found himself at the door of the mansion beside a handsome woman who had sat opposite him at the table but whose name he had not caught. She awaited her carriage but was unescorted.

"Surely you are not going home alone, Madam?" said the polite Governor to the lady.

"Thank you, Governor," she said, "but I'm perfectly safe. My carriage is below now."

"But, Madam," he persisted, "in Texas we never permit a lady to go home alone from a party. I should esteem it a great favor to be allowed to escort you to your house."

"I won't trouble you, Governor," she replied cordially, "but you may see me to my carriage."

This rejection of his company set Governor Hogg thinking that he had committed an error and he proceeded to consult Ambassador Choate.

"They do things differently over here," explained the Ambassador gravely. "It was not quite the right thing for you to do to offer to take the lady home, but don't worry. That was the famous Duchess of C—, one of the brightest and most practical women in London and she'll not think the worse of you for your mistake."

The Ambassador smiled reassuringly.

"Choate," said the Ex-Governor, "wasn't it clever of me to pick out such a sensible and fine-looking lady as the Duchess of C— to make that Texas break up?"—Every Day.

CASE 113 By... Emile Gaboriau

to rifle his own money safe, had every reason to tremble, to hurry, to hastily withdraw the key, which, slipping along the lock, scratched the varnish. Resolved to unravel by himself the tangled thread of this affair, the detective determined to keep his conjectures to himself. For the same reason he was silent as to the interview which he had overheard between Madeleine and Prosper. He hastened to withdraw attention from the scratch.

"To conclude," he said, addressing the commissary, "I am convinced that no one outside of the bank could have obtained access here. The safe is intact. No suspicious pressure has been used on the movable buttons. I can affirm that the lock has not been tampered with by burglar's tools or false keys. Those who opened the safe knew the word and had the key."

This formal affirmation of a man whom he knew to be skillful ended the hesitation of the commissary.

"That being the case," he replied, "I must request a few moments' conversation with M. Fauvel."

"I am at your service," said the banker.

Prosper foresaw the result. He quietly placed his hat on the table to show that he had no intention of attempting to escape and passed into the adjoining office. Fanferlot also went out, but not before the commissary had made him a sign and received a response. The sign signified, "You are responsible for this man." The detective needed no admonition to make him keep an attentive watch. His suspicions were too vague, his desire for success was too ardent, for him to lose sight of Prosper an instant. Therefore he seated himself in a dark corner of the room, and, pretending to be asleep, he fixed himself in a comfortable position for taking a nap, gaped until his jawbone seemed about to be dislocated and finally closed his eyes. Prosper seated himself at the desk of an absent clerk. The others were burning to know the result of the inquiry. Their eyes shone with curiosity, but they dared not ask a question. Unable to restrain himself any longer, little Cavillon, Prosper's defender, ventured:

"Well, who is the robber?"

Prosper shrugged his shoulders. "Nobody knows," he replied.

Was this conscious innocence or hardened recklessness? The clerks observed with surprise that Prosper had resumed his usual manner, that sort of icy laughtiness that kept people at a distance and made him enemies in the bank. Never would a stranger entering the room have supposed that this young man, idly lounging in a chair and playing with a pencil, was resting under an accusation of robbery and was about to be arrested. He soon stopped playing with his pencil and drew toward him a sheet of paper, upon which he hastily wrote a few lines.

"Ah, ha!" thought Fanferlot the Squirrel, whose hearing and sight were wonderfully good in spite of his profound sleep. "Eh, eh! He makes his little confidences on paper, I see. Now we will discover something positive."

Having written his note, Prosper folded it carefully in the smallest possible size and, after furtively glancing toward the detective, motionless in his corner, threw it to little Cavillon with a simple word:

"Gipsy?"

Fanferlot was confounded and began to feel a little uneasy.

"The young man has more pluck and nerve than many of my oldest customers. This, however, shows the result of education."

Yes, innocent or guilty, Prosper must have been endowed with great self control and power of dissimulation to affect this imperturbable calmness and presence of mind at a time when his honor, his future happiness, all that he held dear in life, were at stake. And he was only thirty years old. Either from natural deference or from the hope of gaining some ray of light by a private conversation the commissary determined to speak to the banker.

"There is no doubt, monsieur," he said as soon as they were alone, "this young man has robbed you. It would be a gross neglect of duty if I did not secure his person."

This declaration seemed to distress the banker. "Poor Prosper!" he said. Prosper was now called in with Fanferlot, whom they had much trouble to awaken, and with the most complete indifference listened to the announcement of his arrest.

In response he calmly said: "I swear that I am innocent."

M. Fauvel, much more disturbed and excited than his cashier, made a last attempt.

"There is still time, poor boy," he said. "In the name of heaven, reflect!"

Prosper did not appear to hear him. He drew from his pocket a small key, which he laid on the mantel, and said:

"Here is the key of your safe, monsieur. I hope for my sake that you will some day be convinced of my innocence, and I hope for your sake that it will not come too late." Then, as every one was silent, he added:

"Before leaving, here are the books, papers and accounts necessary for my successor. I must at the same time inform you that, without speaking of the stolen three hundred and fifty thousand francs, I leave a deficit in cash. There is a deficit of three thousand five hundred francs on my cash account, which has been disposed of in the following manner: Two thousand taken by myself in advance of my salary and fifteen hundred advanced to my fellow clerks. This is the last day of the month. Tomorrow the salaries will be paid, consequently—

The commissary interrupted him. "Were you authorized," he demanded, "to draw money whenever you wished to to make advances?"

"No, but I knew that M. Fauvel would not have refused me permission to oblige my friends. What I did is done everywhere. I have simply followed my predecessor's example."

The banker made a sign of assent. "As regards that spent by myself," continued the cashier, "I had a sort of right to it, all of my savings being deposited in this bank—about fifteen thousand francs."

"That is true," said M. Fauvel. "M. Bertomy has at least that amount on deposit."

This last question settled, the commissary's errand was ended, and his report might now be made. He announced his intention of leaving and ordered the cashier to prepare to follow him. Usually this moment, when stern reality stares us in the face, when our individuality is lost and we feel that we are being deprived of our liberty—this moment is terrible. At this fatal command, "Follow me," which brings before our eyes the yawning prison gates, the most hardened sinner weeps and begs for mercy. But Prosper lost none of that studied phlegm which the commissary secretly pronounced consummate impudence. Slowly, with as much careless ease as if going to breakfast, he drew on his overcoat and gloves and said politely:

"I am ready to accompany you, monsieur."

The commissary folded up his pocketbook and bowed to M. Fauvel, saying to Prosper:

"Let us go."

They left the room, and, with a distressed face and eyes filled with tears that he could not restrain, the banker watched their departure.

"Good heaven!" he exclaimed, "Gladly would I give double the sum stolen to regain my old confidence in poor Prosper and be able to keep him with me!"

Fanferlot had resolved to obtain possession of Prosper's note, which he knew to be in Cavillon's pocket. To obtain this written proof, which must be an important one, appeared the easiest thing in the world. He had simply to arrest Cavillon, frighten him, demand the letter and, if necessary, take it by force.

Fanferlot began talking with an office boy and, after a few apparently idle questions, had discovered that the Fauvel bank had no outlet on Victory street and that consequently all the clerks were obliged to pass in and out through the main entrance on Province street. From this moment the task he had undertaken no longer presented a shadow of difficulty. He rapidly crossed the street and took up his position under a carriage gate.

After awhile Cavillon appeared at the door of the bank, but before stepping on the pavement he looked up and down the street hesitatingly. He soon decided, entered the Faubourg Montmartre and walked up Notre Dame street so rapidly, utterly regardless of the grumbling passersby, whom he elbowed out of his way, that Fanferlot found it difficult to keep him in sight. Reaching Chaptal street, Cavillon suddenly stopped and entered the house numbered 39. He had scarcely taken three steps in the narrow corridor when he felt a touch on his shoulder and, turning abruptly, found himself face to face with Fanferlot.

He recognized him at once, and, turning very pale, he shrank back and looked around for means of escape. But the detective, anticipating the attempt, barred the passageway. Cavillon saw that he was caught.

"What do you want with me?" he asked in a voice tremulous with fear.

"You will be kind enough, my dear monsieur," said Fanferlot, "to excuse the great liberty I take. It is only about a trifling matter, and you will overwhelm me with obligations if you will do me the honor to accept my arm and step outside for a moment."

What could Cavillon do? He took Fanferlot's arm and went out with him.

"What I wished to say is, my dear monsieur," began the detective, "that M. Prosper Bertomy threw you a note this morning. I am sure you will be kind enough to give it to me. Believe me, nothing but the most absolute necessity!"

"Never!" exclaimed Cavillon. And, believing the moment favorable, he suddenly attempted to jerk his arm from under Fanferlot's and escape.

But his efforts were vain. The detective's strength was equal to his suavity.

"Don't hurt yourself, young man," he said, "but take my advice and quietly give up the letter."

"I am in your power," said Cavillon, then suddenly drew from his pocketbook the unlucky note and gave it to the detective. Fanferlot's hand trembled with pleasure as he unfolded the paper. Yet, faithful to his habits of fastidious politeness, before reading it he bowed to Cavillon and said, "With your permission." Then he read:

Dr. J. W. McIntosh Says All Chronic Diseases May Be Cured.

Editor Telegram: "During the past year I have treated in Fort Worth and vicinity many hundreds of patients suffering from chronic diseases of nearly every variety, and not in a single instance have I failed to effect a cure where my advice has been followed to the end. This leads me to believe nearly all chronic maladies can be cured. So well satisfied am I of this fact that I will give a written guarantee of a positive cure to every patient I treat, or in case of failure I will forfeit the entire fee. To those who are ailing and whose cases have baffled others, this will be glad news, so I would be pleased to see it published in your columns.

"The maladies which prevail in this section and which I am most often called upon to treat are catarrh and catarrhal deafness, male and female weakness, varicocele, blood and skin diseases, gonor, cancer, rupture and all diseases of the rectum, also the opium habit." Scores of representative citizens who have been cured by me will bear evidence of this fact."

WILL SAVE THEM MILLIONS

BIG PACKERS TO BUILD THEIR OWN YARDS

ECHO OF THE MERGER

Kansas City Company Been Practicing Hold Up Game Against Shipper and Buyer Alike—Complaint Been Common for Years

New stock yards and packing houses across the Missouri river from Kansas City are said to be assured now as an indirect result of the recent merger of the big packing interests. The former has been in contemplation for some time owing to the gigantic hold-up game the company has been practicing on buyer and shipper alike. Complaint has been a common thing for years. The move towards establishing these yards was forced by the refusal of the Kansas City Stock Yards other holders of merger stock for a company stockholders to sell out for less than $12,000,000, which the latter consider too much.

When the packer's merger first took form the eastern holders of Kansas City stock were asked to make a price on their holdings. They fixed the value of the Kansas City yards at $12,000,000 and refused to take less. Then it was that the other stockholders looked for another site and are now said to own the Theodore Bates holdings including the uncompleted bridge, the property along both sides of the river, and 3000 acres in Clay county, Mo. near Harlem.

Railroads are said to be in with the packers and some of them have anticipated the move by buying terminals in Clay county. The Burlington, Wabash, Great Western, Milwaukee and Orient lines already own terminal property in the county and the Rock Island is said to have been interested in the deal with Bates and will come out of the negotiations with its own line from Cameron to Kansas City, and with freight yards near Harlem. The project includes the building of a railroad from Harlem to Omaha. Three new bridges are promised for Kansas City, the Rock Island already having received its charter from congress. The Great Western and Orient lines have both announced that they will span the Missouri.

By owning their own stockyards the packers will save millions of dollars annual profit, which has heretofore gone to the Stock Yards company. The only expensive part of the change is the moving of the plants, which however is not impossible, and will likely be done, using all of the old material.

TO LOOK FOR BROTHER-IN-LAW

Chief Rea Leaves Tonight for Durant, Indian Territory

Chief William Rea of the police department, will leave tonight for a trip to Durant, I. T. He goes to assist in making an investigation as to the probable whereabouts of E. Blue, mentioned in Monday's Telegram as having mysteriously disappeared from his home near Sherman on the night of August 2.

Mr. Blue is a brother-in-law of Chief Rea, and the latter speaks of him as a good man, and he is unable to account for his going and prolonged absence, unless it be because of a sudden weakness of mind which he (Chief Rea) had formerly known nothing about. However, Chief Rea has learned through correspondence since Mr. Blue's mysterious disappearance that such condition of mind is probable, as a result of a severe spell of sickness not so very long ago.

The missing man has a brother living near Durant, I. T., and had spoken of paying him a visit. Information from the Territory brother, however, states that he has not shown up there, and Chief Rea will go to assist the brother in his efforts to ascertain, if possible, if his missing relative has been in that section of the country.

Chief Rea says that his brother-in-law's family relations were in every way satisfactory, there not being the slightest jar during the 15 years of married life so far as he has been able to ascertain. The chief further thinks it more than probable that Mr. Blue suddenly decided to visit his brother in the Territory and has in some way wandered off the line.

INDIANS AT ST. LOUIS FAIR.

Government Approval of the Proposed Congress of Red Men.

The department of the interior at Washington has given its consent to the proposal of the management of the St. Louis world's fair to hold a red men's ethnological congress on the exposition grounds, says the New York Evening Post. The invitation to take part will be passed around the several reservations, and it is the desire of the department that, as this will probably be the last gathering of its kind—the tutelage of the Indians being now generally so far on its way toward dissolution—as large a proportion as practicable of the older generation of Indians shall be present. They are the element who retain the traditions of the old and characteristic tribal life and traits. The later generations, it is hoped, have got to the point where they will speedily merge into our population.

The appropriation set apart for this feature is believed to be large enough to permit several hundred Indians of both sexes to come to St. Louis. A space will be assigned to the congress apart from the government building, with a stockade around it, so that the white guardians sent with the red men from the reservations can keep them continually under their eyes.

TALE OF BOER COURTESY.

How a British Soldier's Letter Was Sent to His Mother.

From Aldershot comes a pleasant story of Boer courtesy, writes the London correspondent of the Philadelphia Times. On Dec. 8, 1900, Mr. Barker, who had come from Aldershot with the mounted infantry, wrote to his mother from Krugersdorp, inclosing a postal order. Sent off suddenly out to Nootgedacht, he lost his haversack and the letter too. A few days ago his mother received it, with this addition from Dr. Pameijer:

"Inclosed letter came into my possession after the battle of Nootgedacht, Dec. 13, 1900. The war now being over, I send you this letter and the postal order, possibly a remembrance from your Charlie, so much the dearer to you if he was killed."

He was not killed, but home again at Aldershot and able to meet the doctor's postscript. "Please will you answer me."

IOWA EDITOR TRIES HIS CASE IN HIS OWN PAPER

Editor C. R. Clingman, in the Montrose (Ia.) Journal, makes this unique contribution to freak journalism:

My wife has applied for a divorce, and will get one, or at least this act of hers means that we, who became husband and wife on August 5, 1900, for better or worse, are to separate from the sacred ties of matrimony forever. We must live apart and under different shelter. We never have lived as one, but that was her fault.

I do not wish to mention her faults, but I do believe that there is not a man in the state of Iowa with mind and body, that could live with a woman of her disposition. She always had her own way and never gave me a fair chance. She was willing for me to take the buzzard and her the turkey, or her the turkey and me the buzzard, and that had to end it, and generally did. She took for her motto, "Heads I win, tails you lose," and never deviated from it. She never smiled—she never cheered me and always pulled in an opposite direction.

When we got married she had a mother and daughter, who, with herself, turned against me, but, like the foolish ass, I bore the burden with only an occasional bray. My load was heavy and my work was burdensome. I had 24 hours to do my day's work in and on more than one occasion I have worked every hour of the 24. I realized that it was a "long lane that has no turn," and I was looking for "turns." Finally, my wife's mother was called to the other shore; then her daughter got married, leaving my wife, my little son and myself in the family. The turn had come sure enough. My wife turned against her daughter and renewed her enmity against me, and there was not a ray of hope in the Clingman family—things had gone from bad to worse and had continued so.

If Mrs. Clingman had weighed all matters on the scales of justice instead of lumping them off with eyes of prejudice, she would have learned to love instead of hate the husband who so faithfully slaved for her that she might live in luxury. She never wanted for clothing, medicine, food or fuel, and on the very day she filed her papers for divorce the cellar was filled with fruit, the flour bin was filled with flour, the henhouse, with eggs—and there were groceries enough on hand to supply an ordinary family a fortnight. She had every obtainable luxury at her command. Her railroad fare was paid from one end of the line to the other; she went and came as she pleased. She bought what she pleased, and "Clingman paid the freight," and the bills too—(and did, the cooking while she was gone).

As she goes through life with her soul burning with revenge and spite, they will cease when she arrives at a point where the paths appear to meet—she will think fast, and recall the hours I have spent rubbing her aching head and back with ointment, trying to displace diseases she was heir to. The form of "Regret" will suddenly rise before her, from whom she can never be divorced by any court this side of heaven.

Mrs. Clingman has severed her connection with the Journal, and it is doubtful if work from her pen will ever find a place in its columns again. As for myself, I will continue in the work and will exert every effort to make the Journal the best local paper in the Mississippi valley.

I have just received a photograph of Mrs. Clingman, taken a few weeks ago. She is smiling and never looked more beautiful. If she had smiled at her husband just once in the 12 years of married life as she did at the camera, no judge could ever grant her divorce on good and sufficient ground.

TWO RUNAWAYS, ONE YOUTHFUL. They Are Held By the Police Pending Arrival of Relatives. Officers Howard and Moss last night picked up a pair of runaway boys who claimed to be en route to Hill county. They hailed from Commerce, one a carpenter's son and the other a farmer's son. They gave their names as Joe Mangum, aged 13, and H. T. Pate, aged 13. Both have the appearance of farmer boys, and said they were going to relatives in Hill county. They came in on a friendly freight train last night, and the only excuse they gave for running away from home is "Joe's cause."

PEOPLES' PULPIT

Editor The Telegram:

Proceeding on the theory that all just governments have for their foundation and very mudsills the consent of the governed, those invested with the power and authority of administering and enforcing the rules and laws formulated and promulgated for the guidance and government of the subject (the citizen) should proceed slowly and cautiously, fearlessly and yet fairly, intelligently and honestly, with an eye single to the attainment, by legal methods, of the end and object sought, ever remembering and bearing in mind that the public officer is the servant of the public, and not, as too many seem to think, the master, whose duty it is and whose object and purpose it should be, to conduct the affairs of government to the best interest of all concerned. This theory—and it certainly must be, by some who are wrapped up and clothed in the judicial ermine, regarded only as a "theory"—has been distorted and perverted and rehabilitated and by innovations by certain federal judges, abrogated.

The merest tyro in the legal profession will tell you that the writ of injunction, like that of mandamus, is an equitable remedy and writ, pure and simple. Not only are we taught by judicial decree and ascertainment that an injunction is an equitable remedy, but we are told that it is the "strong arm of equity," and that it should never be granted except in a clear case of "irreparable injury," and with a full conviction, on the part of the court, of its "urgent necessity." Not only so, but the honest judge will never grant the writ of injunction until it appears and is shown to him that the applicant therefor hath not his remedy at law.

During that golden period of our country, when the basic principles upon which this government was designated to rest, were honored, respected and cherished in all their equitable and legal "purity and simplicity" during the time when such brilliant legal luminaries as Chief Justice Marshall and his honored associates adorned the bench of the United States supreme court, which has been so sadly befouled in the interests of trusts, combines and corporations—the "strong arm of equity"—that instrument designed and intended for the accomplishment of honest and equitable ends, was regarded with reverence and applied for and granted only in proper cases, and not to assist and enable the silver-shod steed of corporate power to trample and tread upon the brawny neck of labor, that labor, too, to the mussel and sinew of which the multi-millionaire of America of today is indebted for his countless moneys.

Government by Injunction

Since "government by injunction" is regarded as and known to be the progeny of the dominant political party and power of our government which has been so universally denounced and condemned by the party of the people, we had hoped, at least, that it would be confined to that power and party, until such time as the people, exasperated and outraged, and goaded to that extent and desperation when they can no longer bear, with resignation and forbearance, the iniquitous, galling burdens imposed upon them by such misgovernment, will rise in their righteous indignation and might and majesty and demand reform and deliverance from such thralldom and oppression; but it seems, from recent signs, that "government by injunction" is becoming both popular and contagious and it now rests and remains for grand old Texas, "the land of the free and the home of the brave," that land and country baptised and made sacred by the blood of the heroes and martyrs of the Alamo—to follow in the unholy footsteps of those corporate tools and minions who have so flagrantly ignored and perverted every principle and precedent of equity jurisprudence, by invoking the "strong arm of equity" to restrain the violation of the revenue laws of the state. And for what? Can it be consistently alleged in a petition or application for the writ of injunction, by the law officer of the state, that Texas, with her coffers and treasury overflowing with money and to spare—with every one of her many funds groaning under the weight of wealth—will suffer "irreparable injury" if the poor lawyer is suffered to follow and pursue an occupation which is necessary to the administration and support of society and which strengthens and adorns it? Can it be seriously insisted that it was ever intended by the framers of our organic law that any honorable and useful occupation should be subjected to a penalty? Is it not more reasonable to conclude that the occupation tax was intended as a penalty denounced against such occupations as were legalized, notwithstanding their demoralizing and baleful effects on society? Surely such a conclusion but seems in perfect consonance and harmony with the genius and theory of such governments as ours. Can it be seriously said and urged that the great state of Texas is without legal remedy to enforce the payment of all just and legal taxes, when, in addition to a penal statute,

A Cure for Cholera Infantum.

"Last May," says Mrs. Curtis Baker, of Bookwalter, Ohio, "an infant child of our neighbor's was suffering from cholera infantum. The doctor had given up all hopes of recovery. I took a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy to the house, telling them I felt sure it would do good if used according to directions. In two days' time the child had fully recovered, and is now (nearly a year since) a vigorous, healthy girl. I have recommended this Remedy frequently and have never known it to fail in any single instance." For sale by N. E. Grammer, druggist.

we have a civil action for all such cases?

With the most profound regard and sentiments of esteem and kindness for the officer of the law who conceives it to be his duty to invoke the aid of the writ of injunction to restrain the lawyer, who refuses to pay a tax which he regards as unjust and inequitable and unfair, from pursuing his occupation for the maintenance and support of his wife and children, we must say that we regard the statute (act of leg. 1888) upon which he seems to rely and to base his right to the writ of injunction, as in direct, palpable violation of and obnoxious to every principle and precedent of law and equity—the rules enunciated and laid down by elementary law writers as well as by courts of last resort of the states and the supreme court of the United States of America, pertinent to and governing the issuance and use of the writ of injunction, and far short, when thus tested and measured, of authority, much less of duty, for such a course of conduct as has been threatened.

So far as the dollars and cents involved is concerned, it is a matter of little or no consequence or moment; but there are other considerations and principles at stake which, we trust, may not be overlooked and lost sight of in the premises. L. P. WILSON.

A YOUNG LADY'S LIFE SAVED.

At Panama, Colombia, by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Dr. Chas. H. Utter, a prominent physician of Panama, Colombia, in a recent letter states: "Last March I had as a patient a young lady sixteen years of age, who had a very bad attack of dysentery. Everything I prescribed for her proved ineffectual and she was growing worse every hour. Her parents were sure she would die. She had become so weak that she could not turn over in bed. What to do at this critical moment was a study for me, but I thought of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and as a last resort prescribed it. The most wonderful result was effected. Within eight hours she was feeling much better; inside of three days she was upon her feet and at the end of one week was entirely well." For sale by N. E. Grammer, Druggist.

Look Pleasant, Please.

Photographer C. C. Harlan, of Eaton, O., can do so now, though for years he couldn't because he suffered untold agony from the worst form of indigestion. All physicians and medicines failed to help him till he tried Electric Bitters, which worked such wonders for him that he declares they are a godsend to sufferers from dyspepsia and stomach troubles. Unrivaled for diseases of the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, they build up and give new life to the whole system. Try them. Only 50c. Guaranteed by Guthrie & Guthrie's, druggists, 502 Main street.

The estimate comes from the Eastern centers and was figured upon information secured by postal inquiry.

EXPRESS CONTRACT OF INTERURBAN LINE

Manager Haines Will Sign Document Conveying Express Privileges to William McVeigh of This City

The transfer of the baggage business and the right to handle express on the Interurban line between Dallas and Fort Worth and at intermediate points will take effect at once by the signing of a contract by Manager F. M. Haines of the Northern Texas Traction company, conveying express and baggage privileges to William McVeigh of this city.

Negotiations have been under way for some time and it is expected that Mr. McVeigh will begin operating within a short time. The right to handle express and baggage is included in the company's charter, and according to General Manager Haines' statement, and while the baggage has been handled by the company, no attempt has been made to handle the express business. It is expected that the express business will be well patronized all along the line, by parties sending produce to the two terminal cities. On the other hand the express can be taken advantage of by the merchants in delivery of their goods.

NO MORE WIRES INTENDED

General Superintendent Cook of Western Union Is in Denver

T. P. Cook, general superintendent for the Western Union's western division, is in Denver making an inspection. He has made a statement that the Western Union now controls the wires on every road in Colorado and a majority of the roads doing business in the West. The Colorado and Southern and the Fort Worth and Denver wires went to the Western Union under the recent reorganization.

It is not intended, Mr. Cook says to string an additional wire between Texas and Denver.

PUNCHES AND NOT POWDER

EXPLOSIVE NOT USED IN FAMOUS SAFE JOB

Safe Expert Warren Says the Work was Easily Done and Could Have Been Finished in Fifteen Minutes

A drill, a punch, a hammer and a cool nerve were used to open the safe at the Famous shoe store Sunday morning when the burglar or burglars secured $225 for a little easy work. This is the opinion of Oliver B. Warren, a safe expert of Jennings avenue, who examined the wrecked safe yesterday.

"A cigarette paper full of powder, if properly placed in a quarter-inch hole, would have wrecked the safe down there," said Mr. Warren to the Telegram.

"But no powder was used. What would have been the use of drilling two holes if powder was to have been used? Besides the holes were clean and without any powder stain. The burglar drilled his first hole in the strong part of the lock and was unable to break it by means of a punch and hammer, so he drilled another a little to one side, and was able to force the lock in. The blow also broke in the iron covering on the inner part of the safe door."

Mr. Warren showed a duplicate of the Famous' safe lock, and showed where the cam attached to the tumblers rested above the bolt. When the bolt is in place, the cam cannot drop, and the tumblers cannot be thrown. To let the cam drop, the bolt under it was pushed out of the way by means of the punch and hammer and then the rest was easy.

"With a single brace, drill, hammer and punch, I could open a safe like that in 15 minutes," said Mr. Warren, and it is likely the burglar did not waste much more time, except to drill an extra hole. Mr. Warren thinks it was the work of one man, helped probably by a pal who watched outside.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that Contain Mercury

As mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

CARNEGIE'S GIFT TO MORLEY

Features of Acton Library Presented to the British Statesman.

The library which Lord Acton collected at Aldenham park, in England, and for which he had, some thirty years ago, a special addition to his house built, is so complete as a storehouse of modern secular and ecclesiastical history that it is surpassed by few public institutions and is equalled by no private library in Europe or America, says the New York Times.

In one respect indeed the library is unique. A large number of the volumes were annotated by Lord Acton. That great scholar, whose learning has been proverbial in England for the last quarter of a century, wrote very little, but his enormous stores of information were used in amplifying the volumes in his possession. Doubtless it is this fact that has induced Mr. Carnegie to present the books to the Right Hon. John Morley, for Mr. Morley is perhaps the one man in the world best equipped to utilize the knowledge which is contained in the Acton books and the annotations which Lord Acton made.

The subjects which chiefly interested Lord Acton, such as the history of the papacy and that of modern Europe, especially Germany, France and Italy; the Jesuits and the evolution of political opinion and of political economy are most of them subjects on which Mr. Morley is an authority. The library is rich in volumes on these subjects and is particularly rich in Indices Librorum Prohibitorum, Jesuitica, collections of letters in Italian, Latin and French, books relating to the council of Trent and the massacre of St. Bartholomew, Italian, French and German local histories and histories of Protestantism in the several French provinces.

One remarkable feature of the library is that it contains no rarities as such without other qualities of value. Every book that Lord Acton bought was bought because he desired to read it. The fact that a very large proportion of his books were extremely rare and in some cases unique was only incidental.

Mr. Morley has so often expressed the wish that just such a collection as he now possesses should be available for public purposes that it may be expected that the library will eventually be added to some public institution.

IT MATTERS NOT

How Sick You Are or How Many Physicians Have Failed to Help You.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy Will Cure You if a Cure is Possible.

Doctors are not infallible and there are many instances where they have decided a case was hopeless and then the patients astonished everyone by getting well and the sole cause of their cure was Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. A case in point is that of James Lettuce of Canajoharie, N. Y., who writes:

"Some years ago I was attacked with pains in my back and side that were fearful in the extreme. I could not control my kidneys at all and what came from them was mucous and blood. I was in a terrible state and suffered intensely. The partner of Dr. Vanderveer of Albany, N. Y., decided that an operation was all that would save me. I dreaded that and commenced to take Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. I felt better almost instantly. When I had taken about two bottles, the flow from the bladder was much clearer, the pain stopped, and I was saved from the surgeon's knife and am now well."

Dr. W. H. Morse, the famous physician of Westfield, N. J., has this to say of this great medicine:

"I have known it to cure chronic inflammation of the kidneys, where the attending physician pronounced the case incurable."

No form of kidney, liver, bladder or blood disease, or the distressing sicknesses so common to women, can long withstand the great curative power of this famous specific. "A small quantity of this wonderful medicine has more curative power than barrels of other remedies," says a prominent New York physician. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere.

Though coal oil and its compounds have not been so widely heralded and have not so impressed the popular imagination as electricity, their uses seem almost as endless. The gasoline and petroleum engine is well known, but the endless number of uses to which gasoline and petroleum are daily being put constitute one of the remarkable developments of the age. In the accompanying cut, says the Philadelphia Times, is shown a device originally used for another purpose—to wit, lighting. The tanks here shown carry coal oil, which is put under pressure.

ADJUSTING TIRES BY PETROLEUM FLAME

sure by hand pumps, which, being released, carry the oil out in volatized form through a spraying jet, where it is ignited to fine advantage, making a brilliant light. In the case at hand, however, instead of being burned for light, the oil is burned for combustion. The heat generated by this combustion is used to heat a locomotive tire, which is then taken off the driving wheels without taking the engine down. The convenience of this can be imagined when it is said that the heating takes but fifteen minutes. The tires can be either removed or put in place by this method.

In the case in point the flame is hooded—that is to say, is generated inside a cover or hood—so as to prevent undue loss of heat into the open air.
