

NEWMAN IS BOUND OVER

FAILED TO FURNISH FIVE THOUSAND DOLLAR BOND

The County Court Holding the Crowd Today — Pleas of Guilty Entered—Interesting Case On

The examination of A. M. Newman, one of the men charged with complicity in the cause of death of O. N. Wartenbee, the railroad conductor found dead in the river bottom last Friday morning, was held before Justice Terrill yesterday afternoon. The result of the examination was to bind Newman over to await the action of the grand jury, the amount of bond being $5,000. Defendant failed to give same and was remanded to jail. Defendant was represented by W. D. Shropshire. The state did not put on the stand all of its witnesses, but a sufficient number to make what Mr. Lattimore thought a good case.

The examination of Perry, alias Logan, will not be held this week.

The evidence brought out nothing in addition to that which has been made public through The Telegram from time to time since Newman's arrest.

In County Court
Will Jones, colored, plead guilty to aggravated assault and was fined $25 and costs.

The case of aggravated assault pending against Ed. Driskill was dismissed.

The jury at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon was still out in the Mrs. Mary Pate case, charged with adultery.

A rather sensational case has occupied practically the time of the court and a jury all of today, styled the State vs. Charles H. White, assault. It appears that White has an office and represents the United Moderns, also some insurance business. He had in his employ a young lady stenographer, Miss Marie Crossland she charged that White used too much familiarity toward her, and complained to her father. The father caused a charge of assault to be made against White. The defendant had a large number of witnesses on the stand, and at the noon hour both sides rested, and the case is now in the hands of the jury.

Marriage Licenses
Marriage licenses were today issued to W. C. Rutherford and Miss Ethel McGee, A. M. Vinson and Miss Dora Owens, Mat Black and Lena Carlisle, (colored).

Notes About the Court House
There was no court in Justice Mullins' department today, the judge having gone to Cleburne with the congressional bunch.

Justice Terrill's court presented an abandoned appearance today, not a case being on trial.

The artesian well at the jail is now down 225 feet. The contractors expect to have to go 350 or 400 feet.

No suits filed in the district court up to 1:30 p. m.

Absolute quiet prevails about the sheriff's office.

City Assessor and Collector Day sells one piece of city property for delinquent taxes daily in order to follow out the letter of the law, saying sales should commence September 1. On next Monday he will increase the sales list.

REFUSED TO LET HER CHILDREN GO

Mrs. Corlee Balks on Letting Her Daughter Go to Rescue Home, San Antonio

Rev. I. Z. T. Morris had all arrangements made for the 13-year-old Corlee girl, who is soon to become a mother, to go to the Rescue Home at San Antonio, and for her younger sister to go to the Orphans' Home here. The mother had agreed to the proposition, in order that the children might be properly cared for. It is all off for the present, however, for the mother has pointedly refused to part with her children.

Mrs. Corlee resided in rooms in the block west of the court house, but has been "fired" out, so Mr. Morris says, and is now living "over in the bottom, in a disreputable location." Mr. Morris and Constable Maben propose taking the matter before the court and representing that the mother in her present condition and surroundings is not the proper person to have charge of the girls.

FAIR WEATHER COMES OUT OF THE NORTH

WINDS FROM THAT DIRECTION MAKE LIFE BEARABLE

Fleecy, billowy clouds floated easily in the upper air this morning instead of the overhanging and sullen thunder caps that have been about the city for the past two days.

Observer Reeder's prediction came true and fair weather was Fort Worth's for today at least.

Thin-blooded people shivered early this morning when the thermometer registered only 68, the lowest by four degrees since July. The precipitation for the last 24 hours was one hundredth of an inch an hour or .24 inches in all.

Huron, Mich., came the nearest having the first freeze of the season last night. The thermometer showed only 2 degrees above freezing point. At Bismarck it was 38 and at Davenport, Ia., 44. Light frosts are reported in the Dakotas.

Fair weather, probably a little warmer, is promised for tomorrow.

RAILROAD NEWS

Small Towns Afraid
Houston, Tex., Sept. 4.—A number of towns along the proposed right of way on the Rock Island's gulf line are afraid because of reports to the effect that the way chosen is to be the shortest possible and there is a likelihood of their being left to one side. It is said the surveyors are trying to make as straight a line as possible even where a slight deviation would carry the road to a town.

Crew Callers Winners
Houston, Tex., Sept. 4.—Two train crew callers of the Southern Pacific quit work suddenly Monday night, demanding that they be given an increase of $10 per month each. The demand was refused and efforts were made to get other boys to take the place of the strikers. The efforts proved unavailing, the freight business was badly crippled, and finally the raise was granted, and the two boys returned to work and everything runs smoothly once more.

Kidney Disease Kills. Its Victims Numbered by the Hundreds of Thousands.

Kidney disease should be attended to at once, for almost 90 per cent of our unexpected deaths of today are from that cause. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the only sure cure known for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation. It is marvelous how it stops that pain in the back, relieves the necessity of urinating so often at night, drives away that scalding pain in passing water, corrects the bad effects of whisky and beer and shows its beneficial effects on the system in an incredibly short time.

George L. Smith, foreman of the Holley Manufacturing Company's Works, Lockport, N. Y., says in a recent letter:

"I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with the most beneficial results. I was troubled with gravel and kidney complaint very severely; it bothered me a great deal, and have found great relief from its use, and cheerfully recommend it."

CLEBURNE CONVENTION

DEMOCRATS ARE HOLDING AN ADJOURNED SESSION TODAY

Mayor Powell of Fort Worth Gets Greeting of Tumultuous Applause Urges Decision at This Time Gillespie Ahead

(Special to the Telegram)
The adjourned session of the Twelfth district Democratic Congressional convention convened at 2:30 o'clock today, the morning session having been waived in the absence of the Tarrant and Parker county delegations.

Contrary to the usual rule of opening the adjourned sessions with prayer, Rev. Joseph F. Little of Cleburne asked divine guidance.

The attendance is the largest since the first day in Weatherford, many ladies being present.

A band furnished music. Chairman Barry of Parker said he still had no suggestions to offer, but it was apparent to him that a sacrifice of personal interest and feeling for party fealty was necessary to make a nomination.

He introduced W. F. Ramsey who gave the address of welcome and the chairman appointed Mayor Powell of Fort Worth to respond.

Ramsey drew prolonged applause at the mention of Gillespie's name.

The band played "Dixie" amid cheers.

Mayor Powell occupied the floor for five minutes. He urged that the time had arrived for a nomination of one of the three candidates and also the time for some patriotism to be displayed.

Mason Cleveland, Cleburne, and S. J. Thomas, Comanche, chosen secretaries. The first ballot was number 6071 and resulted:

Gillespie 28, Riddle 22, Poindexter 12.

Sentiment is growing in favor of turning the candidates loose and starting out dark horses.

GLOOM OVER STRIKE REGION
Coal Companies Say They Have Named Only Settlement Terms (By Associated Press)
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Sept. 4.—President Baer's declaration that the miners' strike cannot be settled except on the terms before stated by the coal companies has cast a gloom over the entire strike region.

President Mitchell of the Mine Workers, has denied the report that he had received a communication from J. P. Morgan, asking him to state the best terms upon which he would settle strike.

THE VIADUCT IS GROWING

BIG FORCE OF MEN AT WORK SHAPING THE STRUCTURE

Delayed Material Arrived and Arriving —Street Car Company Laying Track to South Approach—It Looks Good

Contractor Leversedge will soon place the punter on the bench by reason of the fact that he is actually pushing work on the viaduct, a large force of workmen now being engaged in putting together and up a delayed car of "missing links," delayed since August 3. This car is one of four shipped over one month ago. Three of the lot arrived, but were no good without this one. It came in Labor Day, after all systems of tracing had failed to locate it.

A quantity of multiplex steel is being placed in position, too, for the flooring over which is to be placed asphalt, the cement for same having been here for some days. The brackets for the sidewalk runners are being put in position, and bents are ready to raise from the center to the south side approach.

The street car company is grading and laying rails on the south side approach, and preparing the rails which are to be used on the viaduct, boring holes by which they are to be bolted.

There are but two or three cars of stuff yet to arrive, and information from the starting point is to the effect that these are en route and are being kept trace of.

Mr. Leversedge says now there is no occasion to doubt but that the work will be completed without further delay.

Raised from the Dead
C. W. Landis, "Porter" for the Oriental Hotel, Chanute, Kas., says: "I know what it was to suffer with neuralgia, dead I did, and I got a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment and I was 'raised from the dead.' I tried to get some more, but before I had 'deposited' of my bottle, I was cured entirely. I am tellin' de truth too." 25c, 50c and $1.00 at H. T. Pangburn & Co's.

HIS TOUR IS COMPLETED

PRESIDENT IS BACK AT OYSTER BAY AGAIN

LUCKY BUT SAD END

Yesterday's Accident at Lenox Comes Just as Finishing Touches Were Being Put on the Long Trip Through New England

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Sept. 4.—President Roosevelt returned here at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday night after his thrilling experience near Lenox, Mass. His right cheek is swollen, there is a black bruise under his right eye and his mouth is slightly swollen. Otherwise he shows no effects of the accident.

He will go south the latter part of the week, according to the original schedule and will be accompanied by Secretary Cortelyou who, while considerably shaken up, expects that his injuries will not incapacitate him from duty. Mr. Cortelyou's nose is badly bruised, there is a lump on the back of his head and bruises behind his left ear and on his body.

The president says he may have to make his first public appearance with a black eye and a swollen face, but the accident has not interrupted his work for ten minutes and it will not interrupt his southern trip. The president is pledged to attend the annual conference of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen at Chattanooga, Tenn., next Monday, and he would not on any account disappoint the brotherhood. It is a well known fact that the president holds railroad men in very high regard and he anticipates great pleasure in meeting the brotherhood of firemen next week.

The president was sincerely attached to Craig, the secret service man who lost his life yesterday, because of Craig's personality and because of the attachment the children felt for him, and he is sincerely grieved at Craig's death. Apart from that event the president is not affected by his experience. The president feels that the conduct of the motorman of the car that wrecked the carriage was criminal, unless the trolley had gotten beyond his control and the president can hardly believe this was the case, because as soon as the car struck the carriage it stopped.

The president did not allow the accident to interfere with the carrying out of the pre-arranged program except that he made no speeches. Mrs. Roosevelt had arranged in advance to meet the president in Bridgeport, and this she did, going there in the Sylph, accompanied by two of the children and Assistant Secretary Loeb. When Mrs. Roosevelt learned of the accident she telegraphed Mrs. Cortelyou, who was at Hempstead to come to Sagamore Hill and meet Mr. Cortelyou. This she did and Mr. and Mrs. Cortelyou dined with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, leaving on a late train for their summer home at Hempstead.

Joe Copeland Dies From Revolver Shot In Hands of John Crain (Special to the Telegram)

Paris, Tex., Sept. 4.—In a shooting affray at the southeast corner of the square Wednesday morning at 1 o'clock Joe Copeland, a well known sporting man, was fatally wounded by John Crain, another sporting man. Five or six shots were fired in the fight, but only one took effect in Copeland's right side and passed through, touching the liver and producing a wound from which he died about 7 o'clock. Crain was not hit. He was placed under arrest at the Kimball hotel a few minutes later. He admitted his participation in the shooting and claimed to have acted in self-defense. When taken in custody his revolver showed only one empty shell, and he claimed that one shot was all that he fired.

FAMILIES MIX UP IN FIGHT

Shooting Affray Follows an Old Feud Near Houston (Special to the Telegram.)

Houston, Sept. 4.—There was a shooting Wednesday night down the Harrisburg road. The parties to it were Joe Weiss, Sr., and Joe Weiss, Jr., and Mrs. Weiss, on one side, and McNermott, wife and daughter on the other. The latter used a sixshooter, firing 18 or 20 times, and the former a shotgun loaded with small shot. The sixshooter did not hit the enemy, but killed two hogs. The Weisses used effectively the shotgun and McNermott was shot in the face, but is not seriously hurt. An old feud cause of the fight. Several arrests have been made.

CONDITION OF COTTON.

The Average Is Lower in Texas Than for Many Years.

Washington, Sept. 4.—Sixty-four points, the present unprecedented low average of the condition of cotton, which is two-tenths of a point lower than the condition on Sept. 1, 1896, is due mainly to the reports from Texas and Alabama, in both of which states the prevailing conditions are nothing less than disastrous.

The average for Texas is 3 points lower than at the corresponding date in 1895 and 1901, and is the lowest ever reported for that state. In Alabama also the crop is the poorest ever known. Georgia reports 9 points below its ten year average; the condition figures are 1 point below the corresponding average in 1899 and 1900. The condition in Louisiana is the same as in September, 1900, or 6 points below its ten years average. Mississippi reports 7 points below its ten year average, but its condition is still 8 points above that at the corresponding date in 1900; South Carolina is within 1 point of its ten year average and North Carolina, Tennessee and Arkansas are 2 points, 7 points and 1 point above their respective ten year averages.

There are general complaints of the premature opening and imperfect development of bolls, and from South Carolina, a state whose reports are far from being among the most unfavorable, the statement is made on the authority of ginners that about 14 per cent more seed cotton is required for a 500 pound bale than in an average year.

patch should have stated that before beginning its freaks, the lightning encountered Mr. Sifzick's name.

WILLOW AND LAUREL.
The soothing fingers of the hand of time, heal at last all wounds. Breaches and heart sores that seem beyond the skill of any physician, all yield to the magic treatment of the great surgeon whose only cure is forgetfulness.

And so when Commander-in-Chief Torrance of the Grand Army of the Republic writes a letter calling on the members of his organization to aid financially and by their influence, a movement to found a home for the shelter of needy veterans who fought under Lee, it brings a burst of approbation from both north and south. There is a kindling of fires of brotherly love that shows again the old breach is being forgotten and that, aided by time, there is being twined together a wreath of willow and laurel to lay alike on the graves of those who fought on both sides of the greatest struggle in the country's history.

The Spanish-American war, the policies of the late lamented President McKinley, did much to bind together the younger generation whose members know only by tradition. Commander Torrance is trying to bind together the very participants in the conflict. The movement is praiseworthy and it will meet the support of veterans on both sides. It is time for something of the kind to be done in the north. It is hoped that the movement will not die with the letter, but advance until its gracious purpose is accomplished.

A NEW COLLEGE.
The corner stone for a new college building at Polytechnic college grounds was laid yesterday. As was said by speakers at the occasion it marks the beginning of an era of prosperity for the institution.

The Northwest Conference of Texas had no assurance the college would be a success when they authorized its founding at Fort Worth a few years ago. The erection of the new building in so short a time, is a tribute to their far-sightedness as to the needs of the future.

The location of the college such as to remove the city's temptations from the student body and yet be near enough to afford Fort Worth's railroad facilities, is sufficient to warrant the prediction that Polytechnic college will be the coming center of education for the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in the entire southwest.

The new building will offer added facilities for all branches of learning. The faculty is composed of earnest, sincere men. There is a mind to teach, and when the scholars have to mind to be taught the results cannot but be effective. It is no small tribute to the school that in the time since it has been organized, a majority of the students came to the school with little thought of religion other than for themselves, but went out of its halls trained and effective Christian workers. The influence of the school throughout the southwest in this respect cannot easily be measured.

The new building of the college will cost about $25,000, most of which was subscribed by members of the conference and a part of which is given by citizens of Fort Worth. A college is a good investment and none of those who have helped make a new building possible for the institution will regret it.

More than even the contributions, the college needs the interest of the public. Fort Worth has the best kind of educational institutions and it costs little to mention them when speaking of the city to a friend. A commendatory word written in a letter may yield a direct return of a student to any one of the schools of the city and thus help strengthen them. The business advantages resultant from Fort Worth's present prosperity are apt to be emphasized to the loss of its finer and more intellectual institutions.

The great southwest has the brain, the brawn, the foundations as it were, of a great commonwealth of intellect. Time was when New England furnished the major part of the literature, the newspapers, the culture for the country. Just now Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and even as far west as Kansas, are coming forward with contributions. All that the southwest needs to equal its rivals in literature and culture is more education. Why cannot Fort Worth be the leader in the movement?

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

I may as well admit it at the start, I'm from the north. Please do not lay it up to the north, for it is a good country after all. The north is where the fashionable dress for ladies out shopping is a white duck skirt lest the weather may get too hot, and a seal skin jacket and boa lest it get too cool. I have not seen anyone wearing a seal-skin jacket since I came down here.

And because I come from somewhere else there are things that strike me strangely. Do not misunderstand me, that is a northern expression, and I do not wish it thought I have already been in any fights.

I mean there are some things that jar me rather hard, that is till I get used to them. Haven't you always found that to be the case with the ground after having fallen? There are some things that I do not at first understand, I'll admit, and some things that don't shine through me quite clearly yet.

For instance, I'm rather tall, not lonesomely tall, but just tall enough to see over a theater hat comfortably, and I don't see why all the trees in this town are trimmed so low. The other night I went home after dark. Strange to go home after dark at night isn't it? As I went I encountered a row of sycamore trees. There was a man in the Bible who once climbed a sycamore tree in order to see better. The trouble in my case was not that I didn't see better, but that I didn't see the tree. And I started to climb it with my head. My chin got hooked over one of the lower branches and I thought about a young man named Absalom. The trouble in the comparison was that I didn't have any hair on my chin so I knew I wouldn't be hanged. Therefore I sighed, unchained myself, and finally got home without being further hurt. I wear crottoplaster on my chin even yet and I haven't found out from anybody why the trees in Fort Worth grow so near to the ground.

Another thing that has jarred me, is the Polychromatic street car line. It is called "Polychromatic" because it makes you black and blue to ride on it, I guess. At least that is the way it affected me. A ruse on it jarred me a good deal.

You see I was new and some of the boys in the office thought they would play a trick on me. Up north I had never ridden on anything worse than a rail and I guess I made a good deal of fun about some of the street cars here. So the boys fixed up a job and told me that a man had been found dead in a corn field near the end of the Polychromatic street-car line and that I had better go out there. I suppose now they meant it was me that would be found dead after I got out there, but then I didn't know, so they gave me two street-car tickets and sent me out.

I got out on the Cottonwood car all ride to the place where you get off and get in the Polychromatic. When we got started I thought right away about having seen a big churn, called a casting-box in a foundry up north, into which they dumped four or five hundred castings and then turned it real fast by an engine. The noise was very loud, but it was good for the castings. I felt like a casting in that churn all the time I was in the Polychromatic car and the worst part about it was that they made me pay another fare. When I got out to the end of the line, I fell out, got up, went over and kicked the car on one side, and then turned scornfully and walked all the way into town. If you don't believe it I can show you the other street-car ticket I have yet.

A PANAMA CAUSED TROUBLE

Safe Expert Called to Open Vault in Washington
"Please sent a safe expert down here at once. This is the office of the assistant attorney general of the Postoffice Department. Some one shut the big vault. It has not been closed in five years and we don't know the combination. Please rush a man, because there is something in the safe that must come out right away. Hurry up."
The above message was received over the phone at the Treasury Department, says the Washington Times. A messenger rushed around and found an expert on safes. The expert gathered his tools and rushed to the assistant attorney general's office. He found half a dozen men grouped around the big vault in the back room, one of them looking first at the closed vault and then at the clock on the wall.

The expert knew that it must be something very important and did his best, with the result that in a few moments the massive doors swung open. The safe was empty save for a packet of dust covered papers in a compartment and a new Panama hat on one of the shelves.

The man who had been fidgeting and looking at the clock gave a cry of delight, grabbed the hat and thanked the safe expert, glanced again at the clock and rushed out of the room. Everybody except the safe expert laughed.

The expert was about to make a few rude remarks about the man who had telephoned for him when a clerk took him aside. The clerk explained that a few days before the man who had grabbed the Panama hat had walked into the office and told the assistant attorney general and all the clerks within hearing that the hat had cost only ninety-eight cents and that it was a wonderful imitation, made by a new process and not to be told from the original. He named the store where he had purchased it and said there were only a few more left.

As a result, every official and clerk who had examined the hat took a few moments off that day and went to the store in question and asked for a ninety-eight cent Panama. And each of the prospective purchasers was very much astonished when the man behind the counter pulled out a slip of paper, asked the name of the prospective purchaser and checked it off on his list.

Then the salesman explained that it was all a joke and that a bet was on to see how many people would take a $40 Panama for a lineoleum imitation on the mere say so. During the day about two hundred officials and clerks in the postoffice department tried to buy $40 hats at ninety-eight cents apiece.

I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of this same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by N. E. Grammer.

CASE By... Emile Gaboriau

At last it had come—the dreadful day had come! Vainly for years she had added falsehood to falsehood. Vainly she had sacrificed herself and others. All was now discovered.

"Pardon, Andre! I conjure you, forgive me!"
At these heartbroken tones the banker trembled. This voice brought before him the twenty years which he had spent with this woman, who had always been the mistress of his heart, and who by a look could make him the happiest or the most miserable of men. "Unhappy woman!" he said. "Unhappy woman! What have I done that you should act thus? I have loved you too deeply."

Raoul, who listened with attention, saw that if the banker knew something he certainly did not know all. He saw that erroneous information had misled the unhappy man and that he was still a victim of false appearances. He determined to convince him of his mistake.

"Monsieur"—he commenced.
But the sound of Raoul's voice was sufficient to break the charm. "Silence!" cried the banker, with an angry outburst. "Silence!"

The stillness was only broken by the sobs of Mme. Fauvel.
"I came here," continued the banker, "with the intention of killing you both, but courage fails me to kill a woman, and I will not kill an unarmed man."

Raoul once more tried to speak. "Let me finish!" interrupted M. Fauvel. "Your life is in my hands. The law excuses the vengeance of an injured husband, but I refuse to take advantage of it. I see on your mantel a revolver similar to mine. Take it and defend yourself."

"Never."
"Defend yourself!" cried the banker, raising his arm. "If not!"
Feeling the barrel of M. Fauvel's revolver touch his breast, Raoul took his own pistol from the mantel.

"Place yourself in that corner of the room, and I will stand in this," continued the banker, "and when the clock strikes, which will be in a few seconds, we will both fire."

They took the places designated. But the horror of the scene was too much for Mme. Fauvel to witness any longer without interposing. She understood but one thing—her son and her husband were about to kill each other before her very eyes. Fright and horror gave her strength to start up and rush between the two men, with extended arms.

"Have pity, Andre!" she cried, wringing her hands in anguish. "Let me tell you! Don't kill!"

This burst of maternal love M. Fauvel took for the pleading of a criminal defending her lover. He seized his wife by the arm and thrust her aside. But she would not be repulsed. Rushing up to Raoul, she threw her arms around him and said to her husband: "Kill me, and me alone, for I am the guilty one!"

At these words M. Fauvel glared at the guilty pair and, deliberately taking aim, fired. Neither Raoul nor Mme. Fauvel moved. The banker fired a second time, then a third. He cocked the pistol for a fourth shot when a man rushed into the room, snatched the pistol from the banker's hand and ran to Mme. Fauvel. It was M. Verduret.

"Thank God," he cried, "she is unhurt! Do you know who that man is that you attempted to kill?"
"Her lover!"
"No; her son!"

The banker looked wildly from Raoul to M. Verduret, then, fastening his haggard eyes on his wife, exclaimed: "It is false! You are all conspiring to deceive me! Proofs!"
"You shall have proofs," replied M. Verduret. "But first listen."

And rapidly, with his wonderful talent for exposition, he related the principal points of the plot he had discovered. The true state of the case was terribly distressing to M. Fauvel, but nothing compared with what he had suspected. His throbbing, yearning heart told him that he still loved his wife. Why should he punish a fault committed so many years ago and atoned for by twenty years of devotion and suffering? For some moments after M. Verduret had finished his explanation M. Fauvel remained silent. So many strange events had happened in the last few days, culminating in the scene which had just taken place, that M. Fauvel was incapable of thinking. If his heart counseled pardon and forgetfulness, wounded pride and self respect demanded vengeance. If Raoul, the hateful witness, the living proof of a faroff sin, were not in existence, M. Fauvel would not have hesitated—Gaston de Clameran was dead—he would have held out his arms to his wife and said:

"Come to my heart! Your sacrifices for my honor shall be your absolution."

Let the sad past be forgotten."
But the sight of Raoul prevented. "So this is your son," he said to his wife—"this man who has plundered you and robbed me!"

Mme. Fauvel was unable to utter a word in reply. Happily M. Verduret was there.
"Oh," he said, "madame will tell you that this young man is the son of Gaston de Clameran. She has never doubted it. But the truth is—"
"WHAT?"
"In order to rob her he has perpetrated a gross imposture."

COMMISSION FIXES DATE

HEARING OF TANK CAR CASE TO BE HELD THE 16TH

Proposed Rules Governing Handling Tanks Loaded With Fuel or Crude Petroleum by the Railroads

September 16 is the date fixed by the State Railroad commission for a hearing to consider the adoption of proposed rules to secure the prompt handling of oil tank cars by railroad companies. The hearing will be held at Austin and the rules considered will cover the reception, movement, and delivery by railroads in Texas, of tank cars loaded with crude and fuel petroleum and also empty tank cars; also to fix car mileage or per diem charges to be paid by railroad companies to the owners of tank cars.

The Proposed Rules
Regarding cars loaded with crude or fuel petroleum, it is first proposed to rule that every railroad company operating a line in Texas shall receive every tank car loaded with crude or fuel petroleum at a station on its line when tendered to it by a shipper for consignment to another point on its line or to a point on any connecting line. Having received such car or cars the companies shall haul the consignment to the designated point without necessary delay. The same rule is also to be applied in case of a railroad's receiving consignment from any connecting line either for a point on its own line or for another junction point. Regarding empty tank cars it is proposed to rule that railroads shall haul them without unnecessary delay whether between points on its own line, or to a point on a connecting line either when consigned by a shipper or received from a connecting railroad.

Further rules to be discussed are as follows: Railroad empty tank cars are to be returned, have way bills made for such cars, showing to what point the cars are to be returned, and also the name of consignee, whether a railroad or other company or person. And the original and tissue impressions of such way bills shall be preserved and kept in the same manner as are other way bills.

Railroad companies shall pay to the owners of tank cars used in the transportation of crude and fuel petroleum $1 per day for the time such cars, whether loaded or empty, are on their tracks and in their possession; it being understood that time consumed by shippers in loading or consigning in unloading, also the time actually required in making repairs, shall not be considered in computing such charges.

All persons interested in the matters above set forth are requested to present to the commission on or before the day of the hearing, their views in regard to the same.

TODAY'S BUSINESS IN CORPORATION COURT

Fined for Displaying a Gun and Using Rough Language — Over 400 Cases During August

Judge Stewart of the corporation court had but one important case before him this morning aside from a number of drunks and yags. This special case was that of the city vs. Charles Leeper, a locomotive fireman, switching in the North Fort Worth yards. He was charged with carrying a pistol and using abusive language. In the former he was fined $30 and costs, and in the latter $5 and costs, all amounting to $62.90, which he paid, took a receipt and returned to work. His defense was that the man who caused the complaint to be made had threatened to kill him or make him leave town, and had "laid for him" with a knife. Leeper pleaded guilty to the charges, but claimed he did it in self-defense, and asked the court what protection he had against such men. The court suggested that he could swear out a peace warrant, but emphasized the fact that he did not intend that suggestion as advice.

The docket in the corporation court shows that over 400 cases were made by the police officers during the month of August—a record breaker for any one month.

JOHN W. GATES IS TO BLAME

Some Doubt As to What the "W" Stands For

A failure of John W. Gates to answer a letter has caused embarrassment in the home of a reporter for one of the afternoon papers says the New York Times. This reporter recently secured an exclusive interview with the steel magnate and as a reward his salary was raised. Gleeefully he went home and told his wife, who on the same day added to his good fortune by presenting him with a nine pound boy. "We will name the baby after Mr. Gates," declared the reporter, and it was so ordered.

Then the reporter wrote Mr. Gates, explained the circumstance and impatiently waited for the answer that Mr. Gates would send. He and his wife even made estimates on the amount of the expected check and planned how to invest the money.

But neither the letter nor check came and now the reporter says: "I have named the baby 'John W. Gates' and I have no idea what the 'W.' stands for. I don't know whether Mr. Gates' middle name is William, Wesley, Walter, Whiskers, Watermelon or Warwhoop, and of course, I don't know what my own baby's name is."

HERE ON A SAD MISSION

FAMILY BROKEN UP BY A WRECK ON SANTA FE TUESDAY

Sat. by Telegraph Instrument and Heard it Tick off the News of His Mother's Death and Sisters' Injury

Tears that could not be kept back coursed down the cheeks of W. M. Humphrey of Houston, as he sat anxiously waiting in the office of the Western Union Telegraph company at the union depot this morning, and told how the family of which he is the eldest son, had been broken up and by the wreck which occurred on the Santa Fe near Brownwood, Tuesday night. Every member of the family had been injured in the wreck, except the aged father and himself. As he sat nervously waiting for some definite news, the message was slowly ticked off by an instrument at his side, telling him that his mother was dead.

"My sister Alice has been sick a long time with fever and I am afraid she will not get over the shock of the accident if mother goes," he said before the message telling of her death came. "I don't think father will last long, as he is very feeble. We were all to have been together at Brownwood next week for the first time in years. We have been scattered all over." And then he broke down and cried as only a man cries.

The message telling of the mother's death, said that the three sisters were getting along well. It was signed by one of the boys who was evidently the least injured in the party. Mr. Humphrey, who came to Fort Worth from Dalhart as soon as he heard of the wreck at Brownwood, left for there this afternoon, where the funeral of his mother will take place.

The Humphrey family consisted of Mr. R. M. Humphrey, who is about 70 years old and in feeble health; his wife, who was about 56 years of age; W. M. Humphrey, who has been working at Dalhart; two younger boys and three daughters—Alice, Kate and Agnes. The family had formerly lived at Houston and were moving from there to Brownwood, where the father had gone in advance to prepare a home for them.

When 16 miles from their journey's end the wreck occurred and mother, sons and daughters were all injured, the mother so badly that she died this morning.

FOR EDUCATION

Advantages That Are Offered Through the Y. M. C. A. Lyceum

Every citizen who is interested in the education of the masses appreciates the work being done by the Young Men's Christian association through its educational department. No small part of this is the work accomplished through the popular lyceum.

The coming season will surpass all others in its far-reaching influence, because of the fact that by far the most interesting program has been arranged embracing eleven of the strongest attractions ever brought to this city and that a larger number of people can be comfortably seated in the hall, and the further fact that they are given almost free. The prices offered are simply unheard of in the history of the lyceum.

Think of course prices being such as to enable patrons to hear such men as Bob Taylor and companies like the Boston Ladies Symphony Orchestra for nine cents each.

This is certainly bringing it within the reach of all. The great advance sale of tickets will take place at 9 a. m. Friday, at which time 1009 course tickets will be sold at prices ranging from 99c to $2.

It must be remembered that these prices can only be had by securing tickets at this sale. Those who attend the course without buying course tickets at this sale will pay from 50c to $1 for each entertainment. The course will be opened Oct. 13 by Jehu DeWitt Miller in his great lecture "Uses of Ugliness." This will no doubt be interesting and helpful to a great many people in Fort Worth.

Take a dose of PRICKLY ASH BITTERS at night when you go to bed and you will feel bright and vigorous next morning. It will insure you a copious and healthy passage of the bowels, improved appetite and digestion and increased energy of body and brain.

It beats stimulating drinks because its relative influence is natural, hence permanent.

TENT MEETING A BIG SUCCESS

Methodist Revival at Boax Street Is Doing Good

The Methodist revival which is being conducted under a tent on Boax street is doing a world of good. The meetings have been going on now for nearly two weeks and not a meeting is held that there are not conversions. Two meetings are held daily, one in the evening at 8:30 o'clock and the other in the afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. G. S. Wyatt of Weatherford, is conducting the services and is being assisted by Rev. W. T. Gray of Bono, Texas. The conversions to date have numbered thirty-five. The services will be continued daily at the hours mentioned throughout this week and likely into next week as well. Members of the Peach street church are highly pleased with the results of the revival.

THEY MEET AFTER MANY YEARS

Interesting Meeting of Cousins at Ranger on Wednesday

(Special to the Telegram)
Ranger, Tex., Sept. 4.—Some 35 years ago two little children, a boy and a girl, cousins, attended school together. They were as devoted to each other as brother and sister. Yesterday the same parties met at the depot in the persons of Judge Sam Tankersley of Deatur, Tex., and Mrs. Dr. C. E. Frost of Ranger, Tex. They were accompanied by their daughters, Miss Ida Tankersley, and Miss Bonnie Lenore Frost. The girls were en route to Sherman, where they enter Kid Key college, Miss Tankersley for her last term and Miss Frost for her first term. The parents have not met since childhood until yesterday.

REBELS HAVE LOST GROUND

FORTNIGHT BRINGS REVERSES TO VENEZUELAN

Government is on the Defensive and Revolutionists Are Scattered With Roads to Build and Other Vexations to Overcome

(Associated Press Correspondence.) Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 27.—During the past fortnight the Venezuelan revolution has lost time and ground. The insurrection was a short time ago in undisputed possession of Carupano, Camano, Barcelona and Guirica, that is to say all the eastern coast of Venezuela, but owing to the ability and skill of General Veintini, a Corsican of extraordinary intelligence, a large commercial port has been wrested from them.

General Castro is at San Casimiro, his vanguard being at Camatague. He is awaiting reinforcements in order to attack the revolutionists who are at present at Alta Gracia de Oritouca. His army which is estimated at 5,000 men is well armed and disciplined. Castro's first lieutenant, General Leopoldo Bacta, is at Villa de Cura with 2000 men and General Aranco has an army of 3000 men garrisoned on the frontier of the state of Triguillo. Such are the available forces of the government.

Troops Disseminated The troops of the revolution are much disseminated. It is impossible to diagnose its present condition. It seems to suffer from a general indisposition impossible to analyze but it is clear that although very powerful on the first of July it has since developed both moral and physical weakness.

General Matos, the revolutionary leader, has during the past two months been inactive at Zaza zar, surveying the arrival of his 5,000,000 cartridges which reach him slowly. To those unacquainted with Venezuela, it may seem strange, may incredible, that it requires so long to mobilize an army, but it is both natural and inevitable.

Roads do not exist, the rain falls in torrents, and the mules, which are the only means of transport, sink daily up to their shoulders in the mud, and as each mule carries only 2,000 cartridges that is to say, four boxes of 500 cartridges each, it is necessary to employ 2,500 mules to transport the 5,000,000 cartridges of the revolutionists. But to find this number of mules not ruined by the four years of revolution it is not only difficult but almost impossible, the revolutionists have, moreover, been obliged to construct bridges and that without adequate tools or engineers.

Government on Offensive In a word in spite of the towns which they occupy and the thousands of men whom they have under arms, they are so scattered that if not a negligible quantity they are very difficult to get at. The revolutionists were dangerous before the government went out to attack them but now their ability to attack the government has become problematical. It is no longer a local war which they will be constrained to carry on, but an invasion.

This decision means that the revolution will lose strength but General Castro is now in a position to defend himself. He will nevertheless have lots to do to emerge from the struggle victorious, because the revolutionists, in addition to Matos' army have about 3,000 men at Alta Gracia under the orders of Domingo Monagas, Rolando and Penalosa.

Generals Luciano Mendoza, Riora and Sologni are near Barquisimeto and Dumava. The environs of Valencia are overrun with revolutionists; Los Teuces is also in their power and over 1400 are lodged in the mountains between Caracas and LaGuira. Nevertheless the government lives, commands, makes itself obeyed and is feared, which proves that it is not abolished.

Big Battle Expected A great battle is expected to take place within four or five weeks either at Alta Gracia de Oritouca if Matos can bring over his ammunition and advance his army or between Araguai and Santa Lucia, a valley by which revolutionists will probably attempt to pass in order to reach Caracas.

From a financial point of view President Castro has regained his lost prestige through the arrival of the million francs (worth about twenty million dollars) in silver brought to him by the New Philadelphia.

sum has enabled him to face the pressing engagements and to go to his adversary's camp, where he has found in the coming of silver, even with 50 per cent profit, certain legal resources which will avoid the necessity of having recourse to forced loans.

"I spend very little time at home now as it is my earnest desire to become as thoroughly familiar as possible with the actual industrial conditions and vast resources of this great state. In this connection, by the way, I would like to say to a large number of correspondents that as I am so seldom at home I am unable to as promptly reply to the letters received as is my custom and desire. Among other places, I wish to visit all of the different public institutions first. I shall also make several campaign speeches in Southern Texas. While I have been on the go nearly all of the time since the convention, there are time still a large number of counties that I have not had the pleasure of visiting but whose citizens I am anxious to meet. I have been in Texas a long time, yet there remains a great deal for me to learn but this is the task I have set myself."

"Have you decided upon your executive appointments when you are elected governor?" was asked. The answer was emphatic; he said:

A MURDER IN WEST TEXAS

A WELL KNOWN ERATH COUNTY ATTORNEY ASSASSINATED

Was at One Time County Attorney, Then Engaged in Merchandising and Later in Ranching—Circumstantial Particulars

The news of the death of J. W. Jarrott, who is supposed to have been assassinated in Lubbock county recently, was received by friends and acquaintances here with sincere regret. Mr. Jarrott was a prominent attorney, member for many years of the Stephenville, Erath county, bar, and during the Populist reign in that county served two terms as county attorney, having been elected on the People's party ticket. Later he stood for county attorney on the same ticket and was defeated by ex-Senator L. N. Frank, Democrat, who is now serving his second term and is the nominee for the third.

As soon as Mr. Jarrott was out of politics, actively, he engaged in mercantile business, conducting a large dry goods and millinery establishment in Stephenville. His health conditions were not the best and he closed his mercantile interests and engaged in ranching out west, and during the past few months had been engaged with a surveying party in securing and locating for various parties from the school lands in Cochran county over which there had sprung up much hard feeling.

The story comes from Lubbock that he was murdered on Wednesday of last week, but was not found until Friday evening. The funeral was conducted in Lubbock on Monday of this week.

The finding of Mr. Jarrott's body and the suspicious circumstances surrounding his death is told in the following story which comes from Lubbock:

On last Friday morning a young man named John Doyle, formerly with the county clerk's office at Stephenville, but whose home is now in Hockley county, he having been connected with Mr. Jarrott in the Cochran county land locating scheme, arrived at Lubbock. Learning that Mr. Jarrott had left Lubbock on the Wednesday morning before, he became suspicious of foul play and with other parties started at once to investigate. About dark the body was found lying with face downward in a lake of water about 30 yards from its edge. From the testimony of witnesses given Monday evening a report may be summarized about as follows:

Mr. Jarrott left Lubbock Wednesday morning of last week about 9 o'clock in a two horse wagon with provisions for his ranch in Hockley county. When he reached the Old N U N headquarters, about 22 miles southwest of Lubbock, he drove up to the windmill to water his team. A man standing by the tower shot him with a Winchester rifle. This shot seems to have caused the team to whirl suddenly to the left, as was shown by the wagon tracks. Blood was found on the right rear wheel, and Mr. Jarrott was either thrown out or jumped out at the first shot. Traces of blood and tracks were found leading to the lake in which he was found. Two empty shells were found near the water tower, and two near the edge of the lake, indicating that at least four shots were fired, the last and perhaps the fatal one, taking effect in the small of his back. It is believed that Mr. Jarrott ran into the lake, was chased by the assassin and fell at the last shot. It is supposed that the shooting grew out of some trouble over contest claims during the late rush for school land in Cochran county, Mr. Jarrott having taken an active part in securing claims for different parties.

A reward of $1000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of the assassin or assassins.

SLEEPY YOUNG MAN FROM MEMPHIS RETURNS HOME

Anxious Father Fant Arrived This Morning in Search of His Son and Then Hurried Back to Catch Him

Very fantastic were the doings of H. W. Fant, a young man of Memphis, who stopped in Fort Worth this week to see the elephant. Sobered in spirit and melancholy because of the loss of his money, like a chastened infant the young man hurried back home in time to pass his anxious father who was heading for Ft. Worth in search of his son. Father Fant arrived this morning shortly after 6 o'clock. At 8:50 o'clock he departed for his home in Memphis full of wondering at his son's fantasies.

The police don't understand it yet. Agent Adams of the Cotton Belt hardly knows whether it was a joke or a tragedy, but this is the way it happened:

H. W. Fant is a young man who lives in Memphis, Tenn. Memphis has a river and several other attractions, but evidently has no parking houses or elephants. So when young Fant bade his father goodbye and with his ticket safely tucked away and his baggage checked through to Clifton, Bosque county, the sudden determination to visit Fort Worth seized him.

He got here Thursday or Friday of last week.

Saturday morning he floundered into the office of the Cotton Belt on Main street and asked for enough money to telegraph his father. He was beginning to get visions of the trunk line animal even then and showed indications of growing worse. Mr. Adams didn't see it proper to advance the young stranger any money, but he kindly offered to wire the road's agent in Memphis to find Father Fant and get a ticket and some money. The young man agreed.

He told an incoherent story of having lost all his money after being drugged, but where or when, or how, he couldn't fancy. So they told him to come back again.

The police spent several busy hours with him Saturday trying to find the place where he was drugged, but Fant couldn't find it, so he finally gave up. Sunday, Fant, made history.

Monday morning he again showed up at the Cotton Belt office and this time he was only fairly strange. Lack of money is a good bromo-seltzer. They told him to come back again in the afternoon as the money and ticket would probably arrive then.

The authority for issuing the ticket and $15 did come Monday after dinner, but Fant failed to appear.

In a glimmer of consciousness, he had met his uncle on Main street, and bidding his faithful overcoat goodbye, had raised $2. That night the police gathered him in. His fine next morning was $15. He went out with the rest of the prisoners to work under the hot Fort Worth sun, unconscious of the suitor that awaited him at the city ticket office. Finally relief came in the form of Agent Adams, who learning of the young man's difficulty, paid the fine and he was let go.

"Hadn't I better pay you this money tonight after you get on the train?" asked Mr. Adams, as Fant stood nervously in the office waiting his longed-for transportation.

"No," was the answer. "I've had enough and I'm (he almost sobbed) goin' home."

Home he went and this morning the father arrived in search of the son. Fant, senior, said that his son had money with him but did not say how much.

Croup

Usually begins with the symptoms of a common cold; there is chilliness, sneezing, sore throat, hot skin, quick pulse, hoarseness and impeded respiration. Give frequent small doses of Ballard's Horehound syrup (the child will cry for it), and at the first sign of a croupy cough apply frequently Ballard's Snow Liniment externally to the throat. 50 cents at H. T. Pangburn & Co's.

THE CLEBURNE DELEGATION DELAYED

A Tardy Train Over the Santa Fe Held the Crowd Back Two Hours—Those Who Went

The train to take the Twelfth district congressional delegations to Cleburne convention over the Santa Fe today was near two hours late. The Weatherford delegation came in on the 6 o'clock Texas and Pacific passenger, and jollied around at the Santa Fe station and about the city with the Fort Worth and Tarrant county delegation, making and breaking slates to while away the time.

The Weatherford delegation was composed of Messrs E. Putman, A. D. Stokes, John Switzer, B. M. Alexander, J. M. Richards and Hiram Martin.

The Fort Worth delegation included Messrs Joe C. Terrell, E. W. Taylor, M. B. Harris, W. D. Williams, Hyde Jennings, Robt. Carlock, Sam B. Canty, O. W. Gillespie and County Commissioner Hightower, Mayor T. J. Powell, Chief of Police William Kea, Senator W. A. Hanger, M. A. Spooner, Morgan Bryan and Judge Irby Dunklin. Others from Fort Worth are figuring on going down tonight and tomorrow—unless something "happens" closing the contest at Johnson's capital this afternoon.

Judge Will Oxford represented the Erath county delegation. Comanche county was represented by J. H. McMillin, J. A. Presler and S. J. Thomas.

Dan Cogdell came in from Granbury and joined the Riddle forces.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

The agony you suffer after eating, that feeling of fullness, flatulence (wind on the stomach) and belching is caused by decay of undigested food which forms a gas that distends the walls of the stomach and exerts a pressure against all the internal organs. The eating of more food forces out part of this gas and causes belching. Just take a little KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE. It will relieve you at once. It never fails to permanently cure the worst cases of indigestion and dyspepsia. I suffered untold pains from indigestion which were always worse after eating. Two bottles of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE made me a well man and life now seems worth living. Peter Sherman, No. Stratford, N. H.

THEATRICAL

The Greenwall opera house is to open its season Monday night, Sept. 8, with the Peruchi-Beldini company. Matinees daily except Monday. The opening bill Monday will be "Slaves of Russia." Popular prices to prevail at all performances. The Galveston Tribune, speaking of the company said:

The Peruchi-Beldini company opened its week's engagement at the Grand with "Young Mrs. Winthrop" given at a matinee yesterday afternoon. A new and higher and a better standard has been set for 10-20-30-cent repertoire companies. The piece was not only well staged, well presented, but was also set off with handsome scenery. All the members of the cast are clever, and capable, too. There is not a stick nor an incompetent among them. In fact a better balanced or a better all around company would be hard to find. In the last act of "Young Mrs. Winthrop," the work of Mr. Crosby, Miss Beldini, and Mr. McDonald was of the very highest order. "Slaves of Russia" was the bill last night and made a big hit. Big houses witnessed both performances.

The specialties were good and far above the average seen with cheap priced companies. The singing of Master Lee was exceptionally sweet, his head notes being beautifully liquid and clear. The Carlton sisters have improved considerably since they were last seen here and are deservedly favorites. In fact there is nothing cheap about the Peruchi-Beldini save the price of admission, and that is out of all proportion to everything else.

"At the Stroke of One" will be the bill tonight. This piece was presented here last summer at the Auditorium under the title of "The Iron Wheels."
