Attorney of That City Says That Where the Applicant for Divorce Has Actually Remained in the State for Six Months, the Holding of Supreme Court Cannot Have Weight

(By Associated Press.)
SIOUX FALLS, S. Dak., Jan. 20.—The decision handed down by the United States Supreme Court holding that the South Dakota divorce decrees granted Charles S. Andrews of Massachusetts is void has not created any particular sensation at Sioux Falls. One of the most prominent attorneys in the state declares the decision will not affect the validity of South Dakota divorces in general. The decision, may, of course, render void decrees granted in cases where only a semblance of a residence has been maintained within the boundaries of the state for the six months required by the statute.

PREPARE TO RESIST CUBAN SOVEREIGNTY

AMERICAN CITIZENS ON THE ISLE OF PINES ASSERT THAT THE CUBAN GOVERNMENT IS LEVYING OPPRESSIVE AND UNLAWFUL TAXES AND ASK THAT THE ISLAND BE MADE TO COME UNDER THE AUTHORITY OF THIS COUNTRY

(By Associated Press.)
HAVANA, Cuba, Jan. 20.—Three hundred American citizens, property owners and residents of the Isle of Pines, are preparing to resist forcibly, if necessary, any further exercise of sovereignty there by the Cuban government.
Formal demand has been made upon Minister Spillers for the protection due to American citizens on American territory, and Mr. Spillers is conferring with President Palma.
American residents on the island say they own and occupy more than two-thirds of the land there. They assert that the Cuban government is levying oppressive and unlawful taxes in the Isle of Pines and spending the proceeds in the island of Cuba. Administration of justice in the Isle of Pines is said to be unreliable.
The protesting Americans say they have settled in the island with their families and mean to stay. Before investing their money in the purchase and improvement of real estate they received official assurances from Washington that the Isle of Pines was territory of the United States. They refuse to pay further taxes to the Cuban government and ask that a government be taken to establish a government in the island under American authority.
The situation is becoming serious and an open rupture is likely to occur if President Palma sends rural guards to the Isle of Pines to enforce collection of taxes.

A dispatch from the Port of Spain says that one hundred blockade runners have been captured since the blockade was established.

First named threw out two republicans and seated two democrats to give a democratic majority on joint ballot. On the other hand the republicans threw out seven democrats, thereby gaining a majority. The oath of office was administered to the seven republicans, but they were refused admission to the senate chamber.
Then it was that Peabody called out the militia to disperse the crowd.

Seventy-five tons of coal are stored in the bins of the company and it is thought that the bomb was set off so that attention could be diverted from the men who were stealing the coal.

PLAYED PART OF HERO AT MORNING BLAZE

W. H. Turner, Who Plays David Harum Usually, Assumes Fireman's Role

W. H. Turner, who plays David Harum when on the stage and who will appear this evening, played a new role at Corsicana early this morning. There is a saloon near the opera-house in Corsicana, and just after the performance last evening was over a small fire broke out in the building. Over the saloon there are a number of Italian families, and hearing their frightened cries Turner became excited, and thinking that the town was in danger of burning up, rushed upstairs, kicked in the door and started passing out the terrified Italians to the other male members of the cast who had arrived on the scene. Turner not only insisted on saving the Italians, but started carrying out their household goods to the street and was only persuaded that he was entirely too strenuous as a fireman and that he should adopt the modern method of subduing the emotions in exciting scenes, when the firemen became extinguished and the little blaze was over.

PRISONERS ARE IN COUNTY JAIL

CHIEF REA AND SHERIFF HONEA RETURN FROM EL PASO

J. E. Lawrence and Joe Wolf are in custody, being held as suspects in connection with the murder of the late James M. Wilson—How Arrest Was Made

Chief of Police William Rea and Sheriff John T. Honea arrived in the city this morning from El Paso, they brought with them J. E. Lawrence and Joe Wolf, both of this city, who were arrested in El Paso Thursday, Jan. 15, at the instigation of Chief Rea.

Both prisoners were at once taken to the county jail on their arrival here, being incarcerated on the charge of complicity in the murder of the late James M. Wilson.

Chief Rea this afternoon related the story of the arrest of the two men while they were trying to get their grips in El Paso, the grips having been forwarded from here by express. Regarding the guilt or innocence of the prisoners, Chief Rea will express no opinion, stating that the evidence is so largely circumstantial that abundant proof is necessary for conviction.

Sheriff Honea, who went to El Paso last week, accompanied Chief Rea to this city. The prisoners gave no difficulty during the trip. Owing to the vigorous search made in El Paso, which was made to locate the two men after Chief Rea's arrival, and the failure to even catch sight of either, the chief is of the opinion that both spent their time across the line, only returning to El Paso to get their grips. It was then they were arrested.

BE A CLAM

Wherein 'Tis Well to Emulate the Taciturn Bivalve

Some years ago a man made himself famous by advertising the sentence, "Don't be a clam." This was, indeed, a very funny sentence, but let us look at the clam and see what there is about him to admire instead of scorn.

In the first place, the clam mends his own business, keeps his mouth shut and grows to be the biggest of his kind—and this is all any one can do. He owns his own house and does not have to pay rent; he asks no favors and attends strictly to business.

There is no better advice for those who are starting a new business this year than BE A CLAM.

Talk about everything except your business.

Above all, be clammy about what kind of advertising pays you best.

If you can't be a clam, then do not, at least, talk about your competitors. Men (and women) like mystery and the more you tell about your business, the less people think of you.

There are two ways of telling people you are successful and yet keep your mouth shut:

First, by advertising. Second, by paying his promptly. The man who advertises continually is looked upon as successful.

The man who pays his bills promptly has no need of explaining his business to anyone. He does not have to submit to the thumb screws of hungry creditors.

The man who emulates the clam has no occasion to encourage others to be jealous of his success—he can be as happy as a clam and he certainly deserves to be.

Jealousy is to the business world what the serpent was to the firm of Adam and Eve. To what, then, talk about the weather—about anything except your business. In short, BE A CLAM!

A WOMAN PLUNGER AT NEW ORLEANS TRACK

There is a woman plunger in New Orleans that understands the business quite as well as any one, who does not hesitate to put up a small roll of $2,000 to $5,000 on a race. She is the owner of the horse Barbara Frichette on which she is said to have bet $5,000 recently, winning as calmly as if it were only a few dollars. She is a native of the state of California and attends the races accompanied by a colored maid and makes no outward sign when her horse is defeated or victorious. There are many women who make themselves evident at the race tracks nowadays and who are reputed to be large winners. One woman is said to have won $50,000 off the races in the last four years.

He is charged with stealing $42 belonging to B. F. Hart, July 10 last. The case of Ben Wash, accused of burglary, is now on trial before Judge Smith.

Early last evening Granville Riggs was given a sentence of two years in the penitentiary for burglary. The Forty-eighth district court is still engaged on the trial of the suit for damages brought by B. E. Anderson against the Cameron Mill and Elevator Company.

An injunction suit has been filed by John S. Hagler to prevent the blocking of a public road by W. H. Easton. The County Court Judge E. Garrison was tried before Judge Milam, charged with the theft of a ring from Al Levy's second-hand store. The jury found him not guilty and he was discharged.

The case of Will Warren, accused of theft, is with the jury. S. D. Presley was held to the grand jury on bonds of $700 each on two charges of forgery. THE TEXAS AUTOMOBILE

Instructions How to Use the Speedy But Treacherous Machine C. J. Glidden of Boston, who is well known throughout the country as an automobile enthusiast, received as a Christmas present a sedan looking broncho, which was shipped to him from Texas, accompanied by the following set of instructions:

This automobile runs on four wheels. They are always tired. The two rear wheels have more motion than those in front, and care should be observed in approaching them.

Never remove any of the wheels; remove yourself in preference. This machine is a hay burner, but thistles will keep it running.

The proper place for the chauffeur is in the seat above the rear wheels and face to the rear.

The two projections at the head of the machine are indicators. They indicate the condition of the auto. Both erect, good; one up, caution; both down, bad, get away from behind.

The handle depending from the rear of the wheel is the starting bar, and the starter must be on board before touching it.

To stop the machine drop the starting bar, grasp the indicators and pull backward. If this fails, get off. This is not often necessary; it will generally stop if its own accord.

THE TEXAS AUTOMOBILE. Manufactured by A. CACTUS & ALKALI WATERS, at San Antonio de Bexar, Tex. Patents applied for. Infringers will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. To Charles J. Glidden. Notice to the public: Don't monkey with the handle bar.

PREDICTS TRUSTS' DOWNFALL

Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst. Charles T. Yerkes recently put the trusts on the griddle. This is what he said of them in an extended interview:

"Within a short time twenty separate systems will own all the railroads in this country, which will be an impressive lesson to the development of socialism."

"A few years ago it cost ten to fifteen cents to travel ten miles in New York City. Now it costs a nickel. This shows the benefits of wise combination."

"There will be no sudden crash in property; there will be a gradual decline in prices in trust products; then they will forego the large dividends."

Number 15

A row of Union soldiers stood in line within the walls enclosing a prison yard. A Confederate officer approached and, standing some twenty paces from them, thus addressed them: "Three Confederates taken in what your Yankee general over there (pointing) calls illegitimate warfare are to be shot this evening at sunset. In retaliation I am ordered to shoot three of your number. You will begin to count from right to left, and every fifth man will step four paces to the front."

A shudder passed along the line. All understood that those men who were to step to the front must die. "Begin, you man on the right there," said the officer.

A young girl emerged from a door leading from the commandant's quarters and came toward the soldiers. She wore an apron and a cap, denoting that she was a nurse. She had made both herself, for in those days there were no uniformed nurses. Lucia Clarke was a northern girl who had gone south to find her brother, Allen Clarke, who was an invalid prisoner of war. Having gained permission to nurse him, she had devoted herself to the sick in the hospital attached to the prison, including Confederates, for in this case the blue and the gray were mingled, till she had won the admiration of all and the love of the Confederate commandant. She came forward with a quick step. She had just heard of the order and knew what was going on.

"One," "Two," "Three," "Four." No. 5 said nothing, but tottered forward. "Six," "Seven," "Eight," "Nine." No. 10 stepped forward with as steady a tread as if ordered to meet a human enemy.

"Eleven," "Twelve," "Thirteen," "Fourteen." "While the men had been counting Lucia Clarke had glanced ahead and seen that her brother Allen would be the fifteenth man. He had only been discharged from the hospital the day before and now, infirm and with one in five chances of death before him, could scarcely stand.

A feminine voice rang out firm and clear. Lucia, who had wedged herself in between No. 14 and her brother, stepped four paces to the front. Allen, seeing what his sister had done, moved forward to contest the place with her, but, overcome by his infirmities, fell on the ground behind her. Lucia stood rigid while two Confederate attendants carried him away.

As Major Clarence Fitz-Hugh, the commandant, looked at the girl standing there in the rank of death his eye was wet with sympathy. "Miss Clarke," he said gently, but firmly, "all must appreciate the sacrifice you would make, but it cannot be permitted."

"Then I will die with my brother if I cannot die for him."

"I will stand before him when he is shot, and the same bullet will end this fearful struggle for us both."

"Sergeant," said the officer, "march the prisoners back. Separate those who are to be shot from the rest."

"You on the dead line," said the sergeant, "right face!" The five men and the woman turned to the right.

"Miss Clarke," said the major, "you can't die to the men's prison."

"I will," she said firmly. "I take my brother's place. Where he would go I go."

A vexed look crossed Major Fitz-Hugh's face. "Sergeant," he said, "send Miss Clarke to my office under the care of a corporal and two men." With this he turned and went into the building. A few minutes later Lucia Clarke was escorted into his presence. He directed the men who brought her there to withdraw. Then he said to her: "If I promise you that when your brother is led out to die you shall be notified and permitted to go out with him, will you go to your room and remain there till you are called?"

"Yes."

"Very well; you have my word." Lucia left the office and, going to her room, threw herself on her couch and buried her face in a pillow. Gradually her sufferings gave place to a sort of stupor. How long she was there she did not know. She was roused by a knock at the door, and Major Fitz-Hugh's orderly told her to come. She started up with a moan, but gradually mastered strength to go with a firm step to the prison yard with her guide. There, standing in line, were the three men who had been drawn by lot for execution, among them her brother.

When Major Fitz-Hugh called to her to wait. Then, drawing a paper from his pocket, he began to read: "Special Order No. —: "In recognition of the services of Miss Lucia Clarke in hospital and her kindness to many sick and wounded Confederates, the lives of those Union prisoners drawn for execution in retaliation are spared."

"Sergeant," added the officer, "march the prisoners back."

When the sergeant and the three men entered the prison and the door closed behind them, the major turned to the girl, who stood mute beside him. "Lucia Clarke," he said, "it was the happiest moment of my life when I secured that order from the general commanding."

"How can I show you my gratitude?" asked the girl after several unsuccessful efforts to speak.

"By permitting me reverently to love you."

The girl stood as if swayed by the wind. Then, extending her hand, she said: "Come to me with the return of peace."

BAILEY OPPOSES BILL Claims That Other Senators Interfered With a Texas Matter

Washington, Jan. 20.—Bailey of Texas as objected to consideration by unanimous consent of all bills from the Republican side on the ground that the senators from New York had interfered with a matter purely local to the state of Texas. A discussion arose which was terminated by Mr. Cullom moving an executive session to consider the Cuban reciprocity treaty. After half an hour in executive session the doors were reopened and Mr. Foraker, at 4 o'clock concluded his remarks favoring statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

Mr. Bailey of Texas objected to the consideration of all bills by unanimous consent. When a bill reported by Mr. Culberson changing the times for holding court in Virginia was read Mr. Lodge (Mass.) objected, saying that an objection seemed to be confined to the bills from the Republican side he would object which brought from Mr. Bailey the statement that the senators from New York had interfered in a matter pertaining to the state of Texas which was a purely local one.

Mr. Depew denied that the making of Port Arthur a port of entry was a local question.

A Caustic Reply. Brunetiere, the French critic, was recently asked for a contribution to a symposium, the questions being, "What do you think of the intellectual influence of Germany?" and "Is that influence still existent and justified by its results?" M. Brunetiere made this scorching reply: "I am not a slot machine from which by dropping your penny you get a package of cigarette papers, a cake of chocolate, a matured opinion on Shakespeare or a criticism of Bismarck. I admire those machines, but am not one. Go to them and get your penny's worth."

A Novel Hint on Breathing. "Two Sided Nasal Lung Breathing" is the title of a work by Dr. Eugen Jonas, who stoutly puts forward his theory of the benefits of training oneself to breathe independently through either nostril. He looks upon his method as a preventive of lung complaints and as generally beneficial to the whole system.

Dr. Jonas contends that it is just as easy to breathe through one nostril as through two and that every one should be able to do this at discretion.—New York Mail and Express.

MINE WORKERS' CONVENTION

Opens at 10 O'clock Monday in Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Jan. 20.-The United Mine Workers' fourteenth annual convention opened in Tomlinson hall promptly at 10 o'clock Monday morning. When President Mitchell arrived about 600 delegates were in the hall. When he appeared on the stage he received a great ovation. John L. Feltman, representing President Geo. Custer of the Indianapolis Central Labor union in behalf of the organized labor of Indianapolis delivered a short address of welcome. Mayor Bookwalter made a short address of welcome made a very short response and the preliminary work of convention organization, the report of the committee on credentials was then taken up.

Following the response of President Mitchell, while the convention was awaiting the arrival of Secretary W. B. Wilson to read the call for the convention, Delegate Ryan asked for unanimous consent for Vice President Lewis to address the convention in behalf of the city. Mr. Mitchell on behalf of the Amalgamated Woodworkers of America, permission was granted and Mr. Lewis presented to the president on behalf of the woodworkers, a gavel which will be used at the convention.

Secretary Wilson then announced the call for the convention. After the reading of the call, the committee on credentials made its report. The committee on rules and the general order of business was appointed with instructions to report at once.

It was found that many delegates who were present were not reported on favorably for the reason that the locals they represented had not paid all of the assessments which had been made against them. The report was unsatisfactory to many delegates and a motion that the committee on credentials be instructed to seat all delegates whose locals are not in arrears for more than two months of 1902 was carried.

The question arose over the anthracite workers. On account of the great strike of last summer and fall many of the locals were not able to pay their assessments.

After work was resumed many of the dues were paid but they did not reach national headquarters in legal time to be credited. This will be settled.

INDICTMENTS OF COAL MEN

Details of the Finding of the Chicago Grand Jury

Chicago, Jan. 20.-A true bill was returned again forty-five coal operators and retailers charging conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade. The indictments are against both corporations and individuals doing business in Illinois and Indiana. Bail was fixed at $15,000.

Accompanying the return of the indictments was an explanatory report setting forth the grounds upon which the jurors based their action. The shortage they declare they found due "primarily and principally to the recent great strike in the anthracite coal fields."

The jury finds that there existed in the city of Chicago and in Illinois and neighboring states "certain combinations which it deems conspiracies or combinations in restraint of trade within the meaning of the statutes" as follows: The Northern Illinois Coal association, the Retail Dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin, a certain combination of Indiana coal operators with the Crescent Coal and Mining company. While not differing in character and scope from similar combinations in other lines of business the jurors deemed it their duty to present the foregoing indictments. Other associations of operators and coal dealers were found to exist and to have more or less effect in the fixing of prices and restriction of competition, but against whom the evidence did not warrant action.

They are the Chicago coal exchange and the Chicago Track Dealers' association.

MUCH SORROW FOR GONZALES

HUNDREDS OF TELEGRAMS POUR IN ON THE FAMILY

TILLMAN SAYS NOTHING

When the News of His Victim's Death Was Carried to Him in Prison He Gave No Expression of Emotion One Way or the Other-Coroner's Jury Will Hear Testimony Thursday

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 20.-After four days of suffering death came shortly after noon Monday to Marcisso Gener Gonzales, editor of the Columbia State, who was shot last Thursday by Lieutenant Governor James H. Tillman. He was unconscious when the end came. His wife, his three brothers, his sister, members of the editorial staff of the State and the surgeons were present.

Surgeons attribute the death of Mr. Gonzales as shown by the autopsy to "profound septic inflammation from gangrenous condition tissue, consequent upon bullet wounds."

Coroner Green empanelled a jury, with Allen Jones, a prominent business man, as foreman. Most of the other members are well known business men also.

The jury viewed the body after which the inquest was adjourned until Thursday at 8 p. m., when testimony will be heard in the county court room. The body was then taken to the residence of Mr. Gonzales, in Henderson street. Attorney Coleman L. Blease, who is said to be one of Colonel Tillman's lawyers, was present when the jury was at the hospital, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Soon after the death of Mr. Gonzales a telephone message carried the news to Captain Sligh, the county jailer, and he apprised Tillman. It is stated that the latter received the intelligence without any expression or betokening any emotion one way or the other. He was asked if he would make a statement and replied through his brother-in-law, Judge Buchanan, that he had nothing to say.

When the news that the end had come was bulletined to Charleston the flags on the buildings of the News and Courier and Charleston Post were at once placed at half mast.

Throughout Monday morning hundreds of telegrams of sympathy had poured in not only from communities, newspapers and citizens from all over South Carolina, but from many American cities, north and south. Among them were expressions from Hugh S. Thompson of New York, ex-governor of South Carolina, and Gonzalo de Quesada, the Cuban minister at Washington.

THE HOUSE KEEPS BUSY

Transacts Considerable Business at Washington, Monday

Washington, Jan. 20.-The house transacted considerable business Monday. Several miscellaneous measures were passed, among them the senate Hawaiian fire claims bill. The consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, the third of the regular budgets, was passed and fair progress was made with the District of Columbia appropriation bill. During consideration of the diplomatic bill, Mr. McClellan of New York, precipitated a discussion concerning our diplomatic and consular service which took a wide range and led to some rather scandalous charges against our consular representatives in Mexico by Mr. Slayden of Texas. Mr. McClellan submitted figures to show that our consulates, compared with those of other first-class countries were under paid, but overmanned. Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio, declared the charges against our consular officials were unjustified, maintaining that was the opinion of European publicists that we had the most efficient consular service in the world.

This was committee suspension day in the house and after the reading of the journal the speaker recognized several members to move the passage of bills under suspension of the rules. A bill was passed to grant a right of way through the Fort Hill military reservation to the Oklahoma and Western railroad.

House passed consular and diplomatic appropriation bill.

KING COAL IN CONGRESS

LIKELY TO HOLD THE BOARDS FOR SOME TIME

HOUSES MEAN BUSINESS

Senator Stewart and General Grosvenor After Facts—Massachusetts to the Front—Senators Roundly Scored—Mr. Tongue's Successor—The Successor of Land Commissioner Hermann

Washington, Jan. 17.—[Special.]—Old King Coal has been holding the boards in congress as well as throughout the country and bids fair to keep it up. For some time past the subject has been discussed in both houses, and two investigations are on, each intended to bring out facts as to the shortage.

Massachusetts to the Front. The old Bay State has been in the coal discussion from the first. It was Governor Crane of that state who came to Washington to urge President Roosevelt to take some action.

Roasted Senators. Some of the men who are anxious to have three new states admitted become very exasperated with the senators who are standing in the way.

Even the candy boy slept before the curtain went up at Greenwall's last night. The fortunes of war and late trains delayed the Haverly minstrels and they did not reach the city till nearly 10 o'clock.

George Wilson and Bert Swor are the life of the show. Of the two last night, Bert was the picture of happy-go-lucky content which he keenly enjoyed because he did not have Wilson's responsibility on his hands.

David Harum which comes to Greenwall's Opera House, tonight is said to owe its remarkable success to the fact that it sticks to the book from which it is taken and furthermore that it is full of actual, concrete, real human nature.

Anna Held, "The Little Duchess" A very familiar figure in the windows of picture dealers is that of a young woman neatly clad in black fencing costume the sombre tone of skirt, gloves, sleeves and stockings relieved by a snowy white blouse ornamented with a single heart.

"Lover's Lane" Everybody has heard of "Lover's Lane," the most famous of the Wm. A. Brady's production, which comes to Greenwall's Opera House, Thursday matinee and night, Jan. 22.

"Pennsylvania" Thousands journey to the coal mine districts to see the interior of the mines, the most important part of which is the bottom of the shaft, where the carts are loaded and hoisted to the surface.

Catarrh Is Found Everywhere Catarrh is at home anywhere and everywhere. While more common in cold, changeable climates, it is by no means confined to them.

Dr. McVerney advises catarrh sufferers to use a new preparation, sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because actual analysis has shown these tablets to contain certain antiseptic qualities of the highest value and being an internal remedy, pleasant to the taste, convenient and harmless, can be used as freely as required, as well for children as for adults.

An attorney and public speaker, who has been a catarrh sufferer for years says: "Every fall I would catch a cold which would settle in my head and throat and hang on all winter long and every winter it seemed to get a little worse. I was continually clearing my throat and my voice became affected to such an extent as to interfere with my public speaking."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets deserves to head the list as a household remedy, to check and break up coughs and colds, because unlike many other catarrh and cough cures these tablets contain no opiate, cocaine or any injurious drug.

THE Mississippi Bubble

A NOVEL BY EMERSON HOUGH.

(Copyright, 1902, by the Bowen-Merrill Company.)

(Continued from yesterday.) For the ladies, witness the attire, for instance, of that Madame de Tencin, the wonder of the wits of Paris.

Philippe smiled blandly. The remark was not ill-fitted to the actual case. Though the regent counted his sweethearts by scores, he dismissed the one with the same air of interest as he welcomed the other, and, indeed, ended by retaining all as his friends.

Madame de Tencin, in admiration there can be no degrees," said he. "In love there can be no rank."

"Why, then, do you place as your chief guest this other, this unknown?" pouted Mademoiselle Aisse, as she seated herself, turning upon her host the radiance of her large, dark eyes.

"Not so fair as you, my lovely Haidee, that I may swear, and safely, since she is not yet present. Yet I announce to you that she is tres interesting, my unknown queen of beauty, my belle sauvage from America. But see! Here she comes. 'Tis time for her to appear and not keep our guests in waiting."

The stranger was enveloped in a wide and undefining garment, a sweeping robe fit for any duchess of the realm, whose flowing folds showed a magnificent tissue of silver embroidery covered with golden flowers, below the plum color and green.

And all of these, as they advanced into the room, paused as they met, coming from the head of the apartment, the imposing figure of their host, Philippe de Orleans, his powdered wig drawn closely into a half-bag at the nape of the neck, his full eye shining with merriment and good nature, his soft yet not unmanly figure appearing to good advantage in his well-chosen garments, advances with a certain dignity to meet his guests.

"Welcome, my dear ladies," exclaimed Philippe, advancing to the head of the board and at once setting all at ease. If any there needed such encouragement, by the grace and good feeling of his air. "You do me much honor, ladies. If I be not too careful, fair Adrienne will become jealous, since I fear you have deserted the pomp of the play full early for the table of Philippe. Ladies, as you know, I am your devoted slave. Myself and the Vicomte de Bechamel have labored, seriously labored, for your welfare this day. I promise you something of the results of those painstaking efforts, which we both hope will not disappoint you. Meantime, that the moments may not lag, richelieu—but we may not wait. Again, ladies, the glasses, or Bechamel will be aggrieved. And finally, though I perceive most of you have graciously unmasked, let me say that the moment has now arrived when we make plain all secrets."

He turned his gaze upon the woman at his right. As though at a signal she half rose, unclasped the circlet of gems at her throat and swept back across the arm of her chair the soft garment which enveloped her.

A sigh, a long breath of amazement broke from those other dames of Paris. Not one of them but was sated with the blaze of diamonds, the rich red light of rubies and the fathomless radiance of sapphires. Silks and satins and cloth of gold and silver had few novelties for them.

As she stood at the regent's right, calmly and composedly looking down the long board as she arranged her drapery before reseating herself, this new favorite of the regent appeared in the full costume of the American native! A long soft tunic of exquisitely dressed white leather fell below her hips, intricately embroidered in the native beadwork of America, and studded with great blotches of colors—dove blue, sprightly yellows and deep blues. Down the seams of this loose-fitting tunic depended little waving fringes. The belt which caught it at the waist was wrought likewise in beads. Beneath the level of the table, as she stood, the inquiring eyes might not so clearly see; yet the white leggings, fringed and beaded, and covered by a sweeping blanket of snowy buckskin, might have been seen to finish at the ankle and blend in texture and ornamentation with tiny shoes, which covered the smallest foot yet seen in Paris—shoes at the side of which there dangled the little bells of metal whose tones had told her coming.

Here and there upon the beadwork of the native artist, who had made this attire at the expense of so much patient effort, there blazed the changing rays of real gems, diamonds, rubies, emeralds—every stone known as precious. As the full bosom of the scornful beauty rose and fell there were cast about in sprays of light the reflection of these gems. Bracelets of dull, beaten metal hung about her wrists. In her hair were ornaments of some dull blue stone. Barbaric, beautiful, fascinating, savage she surely seemed as she met untruffed the startled gaze of these beautiful women of the court, who never, at even the most fanciful bal masque in all Paris, had seen costume like to this.

"Ladies, la voila!" spoke the regent. "Ma belle sauvage!" The newcomer swept a careless courtesy as she took her seat. As yet she had spoken no word. The door at the lower end of the hall opened.

"His grace le duc de Richelieu," announced the attendant, who stood beneath the board. There advanced into the room, with slouchy, ill-bred carriage, a young man whose sole reputation was that of being the greatest rake in Paris, the Duc de Richelieu, half-gamin, half-nobleman, who counted more victims among titled ladies than he had fingers on his hands, whose sole concern of living was to plan some new impassioned avowal, some new and pitiless abandonment. This creature, meeting the salute of the regent, and catching at the same moment a view of the regent's guest, found eyes for nothing else, and stood, wholly dumb, at the face of her whom Paris knew for the first time and under no more definite title than that of "Belle Sauvage."

"Pray you, be seated, Monsieur le Duc," said the regent, calmly, and the latter was wise enough to comply.

A WICKED HUSBAND; A TRUSTING WIFE

ACCORDING TO MRS. WISE, CLIFF FORD WAS A BAD MAN

He Took All Her Jewelry, Borrowed Most of Her Money and Sold All the Furniture, She Claims—Divorce Sought on Grounds of Cruelty, Granville Riggs Arraigned—Court News

The champion mean man has at last been found, if the allegations in a bill for divorce filed by Mrs. Jennie Wise in the Seventeenth district court are true. She asks for the severance of the marital ties which bind her to Clifford F. Wise and submits testimony to show that he regarded the sacred estate of matrimony as a huge condescension game, with himself as the sole beneficiary.

Took Her Jewelry In her bill Mrs. Wise sets forth that they were married Oct. 13, in Dallas, and lived together until Dec. 31, following, when the husband "skipped out" after promising to restore her diamonds and jewelry, which he had purloined. Since then he has not been seen or heard from.

Mrs. Wise recites that her husband wanted the wedding kept a secret and that he had large interests in Emporia, Kan., which turned out to be worthless. Immediately after the marriage she says, he borrowed $25 of her salary and the day following $15. About ten days later, she claims, he asked for $125 more.

A Good Borrower In order to get to Dallas to collect wages due him he is said to have borrowed a $10 bill. Late at night, Mrs. Wise alleges, he returned with wonderful stories about the engine breaking down and loaning money to friends, which they had not repaid.

Sold the Furniture He afterwards took all her furniture, she claims, sold it and converted the money to his own uses. She gave him money to pay the taxes on her property, which he kept, it is alleged. In conclusion Mrs. Wise asserts that her husband told her a falsehood about the jewelry being locked up in a bureau and losing the key in order to shield himself, but promised to restore it as a holiday gift, and also to purchase for her a seal chain necklace.

Mrs. Wise was overjoyed and in the exuberance of her happiness purchased her husband a $50 watch chain, which she presented to him on Christmas. He kept putting off the return of the jewelry on various pretexts and finally when the time came to return these valuables he failed to materialize.

Summed Up as "Cruelty" Cruelty is the charge upon which the suit is based. Mrs. Wise states, in her bill, that she is capable of earning a salary of $125 per month, and she asks for a legal separation from her husband, whose real name, she has good reason to believe, is not Clifford F. Wise, in order that he may not have any right or share in her income, should he return.

Walked Over from Dallas and Was Resting When Pinched - Gets a Chance to Study up on Law - An Appeal to the Court's Experience Fails to Make a Touch

J. J. Simmons is a walker. He is also ignorant of the law. Arrested last night on a charge of vagrancy, he pleaded ignorance in corporation court this morning and said he had walked over here from Dallas yesterday and was arrested when resting in a restaurant.

"Judge I'm plum green about the law," said Simmons. Somebody whispered "green Simmons" and everybody's mouth puckered, but Simmons was calm. In the face of prosecuting testimony, however, Simmons mellowed and said he reckoned he was guilty in so far as he knew about it.

Appreciating his fine sense of recognition, the court fined him only $2.00 and costs and he was sent to the city prison to study law.

Fellow Feeling Lacking "Judge I only got drunk a couple of times since I've been here," pleaded Luther Taylor, "You know how it is."

"Oh, but I don't," said the court sharply. "$2.00 and costs." Taylor said he was a thresholder by trade. Testimony said he loafed. He will forget how to loaf for the next few days.

NEGRO MINSTRELS BURN THE MIDNIGHT OIL

After an Unseasonable Performance at Greenwall's They Are Entertained by the Elks and Leave for Cleburne Haverly's minstrels were not in the city long, but they improved the time while here. Many incidents were crowded into their brief sojourn. It is likely that they carried away the impression that this is a wide-awake town. The train on which they attempted to make a long "jump" from Denver to Fort Worth should have reached this city early last evening, and if it had been on time, there would have been no delay in the performance at Greenwall's opera-house, which did not begin until after 11 o'clock.

Owing to a hot box the regular train reached Texline four hours late. There a special was made up to accommodate the minstrels, which reached the city thirty minutes ahead of the through train. An hour and forty minutes was made up between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth and the Mastodons reached here at 9:45, tired and travel-worn. They were met at the depot by a committee of Elks, headed by C. W. Connery. Headed by a band, they marched to the opera-house, where a delegation of thirty members of Fort Worth lodge, No. 722, R. P. O. E., occupied boxes.

The performance did not conclude until 1 o'clock. After the show the minstrels put in a night of it at the Elks' hall, where a "stag" was held in their honor. Music and good things to eat and drink kept the merry-makers from slumber until the dawn of day. This morning the minstrels were ticketed for a two weeks' trip over the Katy by Agent T. T. McDonald. They will visit points as far south as Galveston and leave the state at Denison. Their first stand is at Cleburne tonight.

HEAD OF AN IMMENSE COAL MINING COMPANY

From proprietor of a Fort Worth coal and fuel yard to the head of a million-dollar mining company of New York is in brief a synopsis of the advancement made in a few years by Gilbert T. Potter, formerly of this city and now of New York.

A number of years ago Mr. Potter resided in Fort Worth, coming here from Chicago with his wife, who is a daughter of Judge W. W. Stewart of this city. After being in business here a number of years Mr. Potter became interested in coal fields in the Indian territory. In company with Z. W. Tinker of St. Louis Mr. Potter leased 5,000 acres of land from the government for a period of thirty years. On this valuable property they now have two coal shafts and 150 coke ovens. The business has been so successful that in order to enlarge their field Mr. Potter and Mr. Tinker investigated the Prairie Creek Coal Company's fields in Sebastian county, Arkansas. They found that the coal yielded was of a valuable quality and they therefore bought the fields outright.

Analysis of the coal produced at the Prairie company's fields shows a high percentage of carbon, which results in great heat with little smoke. Messrs. Potter and Tinker decided to form a company for promoting their new acquisition and the American Smokeless Coal Mining Company was incorporated with $1,000,000 capital and $300,000 in gold bonds. The stock has already been subscribed and the bonds nearly all taken, indicating that the capitalists who are interested are anxious to develop the property.

Judge Stewart of this city received word of the formation of the new company yesterday in a long letter from his son-in-law, giving details of the transactions.

counter. It was early last night. Atkinson is alleged to have snatched the money from a farmer who was in the saloon. The charge against him this morning was vagrancy, otherwise, gambling.

Atkinson had a hard luck tale of illness that was worse than a patent medicine catalogue. He talked like he had been reading a pocket almanac and memorandum book, breaking in on the testimony at intervals of every two minutes with a story of his diseases.

"I'll fine you $10.00 and costs," said the court after hearing the officer's story.

Always Plead Guilty "Funny thing about Mexicans," said an officer as a swarthy chile vendor took his seat in the prisoner's dock this morning. "They'll always plead guilty, no matter what the charge."

The trial of a Mexican in corporation court is as tame as a show that is supposed to be naughty.

"Send for Zimmerman," is the court's first order when a "Mexicano" appears. Officer Zimmerman is found after a little. He comes in and addresses the prisoner in such caressing accents that the latter always pours out his heart in a confession of guilt.

One Rodriguez, aged and almost blind, answered to the charge of being drunk this morning. "Tell him about it, Zimmerman," said the court.

There was an interchange of colorful syllables and then the officer answers, "He says he was a little drunk, your honor."

"We'll give him a little fine then," said the court. "$1.00 and costs."

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF FORGING CHECKS

Police Capture a Man Whom They Believe Is a Valuable Prisoner—Checks Secured as Evidence

A bundle of checks, apparently signed by Brown & Dabney, the contractors who are paving the Jennings avenue viaduct, and two checks signed by the same firm, said to have been passed, all of the checks being for small amounts, are part of the evidence the police have against S. D. Pressly who was arrested last night. Officers Clark and Compton and Detective Zimmerman made the arrest.

The checks found on Pressly are on the First National bank and the name attached is "Brown & Dabney." One check for $8.50, indorsed by a local firm, was refused at the bank and this led to the arrest of Pressly. The check refused and the checks found on Pressly appear to have the same signatures and the police are confident they have a strong case.

SAYS THE TOWN IS SURPASSING DALLAS

A Veteran Traveling Man Believes Fort Worth's Prosperity Is Greatest in State

"While there may be more improvements on Main street in Dallas," said M. W. Parker of Ennis, who was in the city today on his way to Oklahoma, "I believe, taking it generally, Fort Worth is improving more than Dallas, or any city in the state, for that matter."

Mr. Parker is a traveling man who has been working the southwestern territory for the past twenty-five years, representing the National Molasses company of St. Louis at present. "I haven't been in Fort Worth in four months," said Mr. Parker, "and the town has improved greatly even in that little time."

FOOD VS. DRUGS

A Drug Man's Wisdom That Counts. It's a shrewd man who, while in the drug business, learns that although drugs are all right in their place, the use of proper food will make medicine unnecessary in the majority of cases.

"Traveling through various towns," writes a drug salesman from Lancaster, Pa., "drinking different waters to which I was not accustomed, eating strangely-prepared meals at irregular hours, I contracted dyspepsia, accompanied by nervousness, loss of sleep and consequently loss of energy. I often had the blues, that indescribably low feeling which makes one look on the dark side of every picture, and see the shadows of life rather than the substance, imagine the thousand calamities that were never in existence, and so render life almost unbearable. Many thousands of men under the circumstances would have resorted to stimulation from drugs or liquor.

WANT MONUMENT FOR FORT WORTH

SONS OF CONFEDERATE VETERANS TAKE IMPORTANT ACTION

They Appoint a Committee to Solicit Funds, in Expectation of Securing Memorial Shaft to Commemorate Deeds of Southern Women During the War—it May Be Erected in Fort Worth

At its meeting held last night Robert E. Lee camp, No. 239, United Sons of Confederate Veterans, took action toward securing for Texas the monument to commemorate the heroic deeds of southern women during the civil war. If they are successful in raising the necessary funds their efforts are likely to have a far-reaching effect. Fort Worth has the largest camp of Veterans and Sons in the south, while Julia Jackson chapter of the Daughters ranks very high in membership and influence.

The monument project is one which originated with the Sons of Veterans, who have already accumulated a fund of $10,000 toward the erection of the proposed shaft, which, it is intended, shall cost between $50,000 and $100,000. In view of the fact that the Texas division of the Sons is the largest in the south and that the Fort Worth camps of both the Veterans and Sons are the largest in the state, the contention that the monument should be built in this city is not unreasonable.

N. R. Tisdal and Walter P. Lane were appointed as a committee to devise ways and means for raising a fund sufficiently large to secure the monument for Texas and Fort Worth if possible. An address to the public along these lines will shortly be printed.

Last night's meeting was presided over by Commander O. W. Gillespie. It was decided to change the time of meeting to 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in conformity with a motion introduced at a previous meeting. Discussion of "The Moral and Legal Right of the South to Secede" was deferred until the next meeting, when W. R. Booth, L. J. Stockett and N. R. Tisdal will be the principal speakers. Mr. Booth has been challenged to debate this subject with a prominent lady of this city at some future date, and announces his intention to accept.

MORRIS HOME GETS BOX OF MONEY

Was Intended For Patrons of Furnishing Store, But Man With Key Didn't Show Up

The key which was to unlock the box of money in the window of Stone-street and Davis' furnishing store has not yet turned up. It is in possession of some customer, or else has been lost and forgotten. The "grand opening" was to have taken place Christmas, but the man with the right key failed to put in an appearance and the ceremony was deferred until New Year's with a similar result. Despairing of ever getting the right key, the members of the firm opened the box this morning and presented the entire contents, $35.00 to Rev. I. Z. T. Morris home for waifs.

Mr. Morris is very thankful for the donation, which, he says, will encourage him to expect aid from other friends of the work which, though well established, has only just begun.

WILL EXPERIMENT TO PRODUCE "WOOL FAT"

A canny Scotchman on the slopes of Wyoming is going to experiment with a small herd of sheep to produce what is commonly known as "wool fat," or oleic acid. Sheep, when left alone without a provision of food made, will eat their own wool to keep them from starving. The wool when taken into the system will furnish a small amount of nourishment and will generate a large amount of heat which will produce the quality of fat desired. With this idea in view the Scotchman will isolate a herd and so expose them to starvation and cold that they will be compelled to eat their own wool in order to sustain life. Carrying this idea to the extreme, he is in the hopes that a new breed can be produced which will produce the wool fat in the largest possible quantity and of the best quality. Wool fat is now worth medical purposes and is used for 75c per pound, which the herder hopes to raise to $2 a pound owing to its pure quality.

THIRTY YEARS A FRONTIER SCOUT

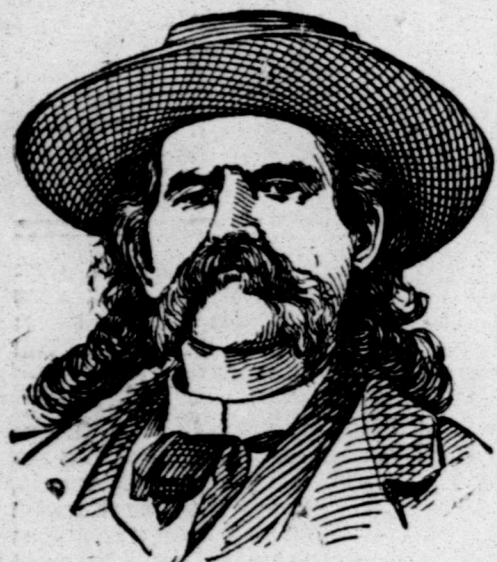

CAPTAIN WILLIAM F. DRANNAN VISITS HERE FOR FIRST TIME

One of Three Survivors Who Went Out With the Famous Fremont and Clarke Expedition—Adopted as a Boy by Kit Carson. He Has Spent His Life on the Plains and in the Mountains

"Chief of scouts," is the title earned by more than thirty years of service with such men as General John C. Fremont, James Beckwith, General Crook, Colonel Elliott, General Wheaton and others who have made the frontier fit for the entrance of civilization.

The title is modestly worn by Captain William F. Drannan, who is in the city this week for the first time, telling the story of his life and adventures as written by himself and entitled "Thirty-one Years on the Plains and Mountains."

A Picturesque Figure
Tall and erect in spite of his seventy-one year, with hair still black and eyes as bright as those of a boy; clad in a simple buckskin suit and wearing a frontiersman's broad-brimmed hat, Captain Drannan presents a picturesque appearance. But his unusual garb is by no means unbecoming, for a buckskin suit looks as natural on Captain Drannan as overalls would on a farmer. One forgets the scout's dress when looking into a pair of eyes that are of the purest blue, eyes that look back unflinchingly.

Cares Little for Publicity
One forgets that he is talking to a pioneer who left home when a boy of 15 and who has spent all the rest of his life on the plains, with never a day in a school of any kind, when he hears Captain Drannan talk. The old scout's words are few and sometimes when he does not care to speak he

DYSPEPSIA

"Having taken your wonderful 'Cascarets' for three months and being entirely cured of stomach catarrh and dyspepsia, I think a word of praise is due to 'Cascarets' for their wonderful composition. I have taken numerous other so-called remedies but without avail and I find that Cascarets relieve more in a day than all the others I have taken in a year."

falls back on a French ancestry and shrugs his shoulders, but his meaning is always expressed.

The lack of desire for publicity has kept Captain Drannan from before the public for years. The following little anecdote will show something of his modesty.

"I got that picture taken the day I captured Black Jack alone," said Captain Drannan, pointing to the half-tone photograph of himself which forms the frontispiece of his book.

"You had pretty good reason for getting a photograph taken," was suggested.

"Oh, I didn't get it taken," was the simple answer. "After I'd brought Black Jack in I knew the war was over and was riding away when General Wheaton called me back and said: 'There's an artist here today, and I want to get your picture taken. So he had that picture take of me, and one with me lying down beside my favorite horse, Black Bess. Of all the horses I ever had she was the best. I kept her until she died of old age and for the last three years of her life she never had a saddle on her. That's her picture,' and the captain turned over a page and pointed to the photograph of his favorite mare, as if getting a horse's picture taken was a great deal more wonderful even than his capturing one of the most dangerous Indian renegades that ever led a massacre."

With General Fremont
Perhaps the best service he ever performed was that of acting as one of the scouts in the famous expedition of Colonel (afterward General) John C. Fremont, in the latter's trip across the continent to find if possible a better route to California. Though then but 16 years old, young Drannan acted on almost equal terms with the other guides employed. General Fremont offered to take the young guide back to St. Louis with him on the return trip and there give him an education, but the offer was refused and the boy stayed by the plains.

Goes to World's Fair
As one of the three survivors of the Fremont expedition Captain Drannan will have an honored place at the coming Louisiana Purchase Exposition in St. Louis. He has been appointed by the World's Fair commission to secure as many of the famous Indians of the northwest for the World's Fair as he can obtain and as he has fought most of the old Indians of the northwest who are now living he is the best judge of those who will be of interest at the fair.

Days of disposing of his autobiography, and with the receipt of a letter from the World's Fair commission to begin his work of selecting Indians for the coming exposition. He will be in charge of the Indian village at the fair.

Race With Geronimo
There is no man living today better acquainted with the history, character and ways of that crafty old Indian Geronimo, than is Captain Drannan. A few months ago, while in Oklahoma City, Captain Drannan challenged Geronimo to a foot race and, although several years older, the Indian was successful.

"That's not any worse than one other time I beat you," said the aged Indian when he had been declared victor. "Only you weren't running then." Scores of thrilling adventures could be gotten from Captain Drannan if he could be prevailed to tell them. He carries scars and wounds, but through-out his career he has apparently borne a charmed life.

"Of eighteen good men as ever straddled a saddle and with whom I worked, all are gone and I am the only one left," said the old scout last night.

As a type of the frontier scout of the class of clean-minded, sturdy and honest frontiersmen, of whom Kit Carson was the undoubted head, Captain Drannan remains today as the last of his race, and as such is a man of unique and interesting position.

"I'll see you at the St. Louis exposition, if I live," said the captain, in speaking of his going to the World's Fair.

"You've been saying 'If I live,' a good many years now, haven't you?" was asked.

"Yes, I guess I have," was the answer, "but, then, you never know when your turn will come."

CATTLE DIE IN COLORADO FROM INHUMAN NEGLECT

The cattle are dying on the ranges of Colorado, but not all of them from lack of water and feed. According to the report of the humane society of Colorado, a case has just been discovered where the cattle were dying from sheer neglect. A case was reported to the society for investigation on a range about 150 miles from Denver. On reaching the range and inspecting the conditions, the cattle were found to be dying of thirst, notwithstanding the fact that there were four windmills on the ranch. The men were in the cabin toasting their feet by a fine fire of back logs, too lazy to repair the windmills that were out of order. Many of the cattle were dead, and what were remaining were sick and had collected around the haystacks where their dead comrades lay. The herd was gathered and sold and the price brought paid for the cost of investigation.

MEXICO WILL NEVER COMPETE

WILL NEVER BECOME BIG PRODUCER OF FAT CATTLE

OBSTACLES ARE TOO MANY

Nature Has Not Been Kind to That Country, Terrible Spring Droughts Being an Annual Occurrence There. But the Climate is Dry and Mild and It Will Make an Admirable Breeding Ground

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 20.—Mexico is not likely to become a successful competitor of the United States in the production of fat cattle. Capt. Britton Davis, of Chihuahua, successfully corrected any existing impression of that nature in an address made before the convention the other afternoon. Instead of developing into a competitor of the United States, he asserts that Mexico will become an auxiliary, breeding the stock to be matured by the United States graziers and feeders. He pictured Mexican ranch lands as greatly inferior to northern Texas ranges, fifty acres being needed in many localities to graze a single steer. He said:

"It is a common belief among those who have not given the matter careful study that reciprocal duties with Mexico would flood the American markets with cheap Mexican beef, to the detriment of the American cattle interests in general and the range business in particular."

"The southern republic should never become a serious factor in the export beef trade. Unless a contrary policy is forced upon her, the balance of trade in live stock and live stock products will be always against her, her importations of blooded stock, hogs, wool and manufactured beef products exceeding in value her cattle exports."

Can Not Develop Cattle
"That Mexico is not naturally beef cattle is a fact discouragingly evident to Mexican cattle breeders. In the United States it is customary to carry cattle for slaughter through the winter on farm raised feed, turning them on the spring grasses in April and May. In this way their continued growth and full development, at a minimum expense, are secured. At most, cattle of the United States have but three and a half to four months of more or less severe weather and retarded growth to contend with, followed by eight or nine months of conditions favorable to development."

"To Mexico nature has not been so kind. The worst spring droughts known to Kansas and the middle west are an annual occurrence in Mexico. Farm products barely suffice for the needs of the people themselves; winter rains and early grasses are practically unknown."

Will Be Useful to Us
"To say that Mexico is not adapted to the production of a good article of beef does not necessarily imply that it is without interest to the cattle man. On the contrary, natural features and conditions which handicap beef production make the republic all the more valuable to the American rancher and packer as a producer of raw material—calves—and a consumer of manufactured beef products."

"The climate is dry, mild and healthful. Cattle diseases are practically unknown and losses to live stock almost nil." The bulk of the calf crop is dropped in June, July and August, but young calves in considerable number may be seen at any time of the year. Fully 90 per cent of all calves branded reach the age of maturity. An average annual charge of 3 per cent on stock cattle will cover all losses other than death from old age.

"While the long drought is detrimental to the development of the older stock, the mild, rainless winter and spring even temperature and rare occurrence of storms makes of Mexico the breeding ground par excellence of the North American continent."

Needs a Market for Calves
"If a market can be established in the United States for the young stock bred on Mexican ranges, Mexico receiving in return its beef products from the northern farms and packing houses, no argument is needed to set forth the benefits such an exchange would bring to the American farmers, packers and railroads. Some fear has been expressed that such a reciprocal trade would be detrimental to a portion of the cattle breeders of the United States, by bringing Mexican calves into competition with those bred on the ranges of Texas and the southwest, resulting in lower prices for the American product. I do not apprehend such a result. The price paid for a raw commodity is fixed not so much by the cost of its production as by the demand and price for the manufactured article. Any tendency towards depreciation of prices on American bred calves will be more than counterbalanced by the stimulating effect of a steadily growing market in Mexico for live stock products."

"The American people stand today the greatest manufacturing nation on earth. Much of their raw material is drawn from abroad. For the greatest of our industries, steel, iron is still imported."

"To supply a population of thirteen million people with better beef, canned and dressed, better leather and fatter hogs, than they can produce at home. To take from them in part exchange cheaper raw material—calves—than you can grow upon your own ranges."

Says Venezuela Will Not Remunerate Him

Charleston, S. C., Jan. 20.—Minister Bowen said that he was going to Washington to represent Venezuela on the commission which would prepare the plan for arbitration of the differences between that country and the European powers. He was not an attorney for Venezuela, he explained, and was not to be remunerated for his services by the Venezuelan government. He said he was acting at the request of and from courtesy to the Venezuelan government and at the desire of the United States government in the hope that his undertaking would bring about an early settlement of the troubles. Mr. Bowen said that the Venezuelan government had allowed $5000 for the expenses of his mission which he would account for in the usual form.

REMARKABLE CURE OF CROUP A Little Boy's Life Saved... I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I can not praise it enough.

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L. L. D. Waverly, Tex., writes: "Of a morning, when first rising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm, which produces a cough, and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound Syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over."

One Hundred Dollars a Box is the value H. A. Tisdale, Summertown, S. C., places on De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says: "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and medicines, but all failed except De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me."

AN EPISODE OF THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

Many were the daring plans during the reign of terror in Paris to save some patrician who was about to be led to the guillotine. Among them that which was conceived for the young Marquise de la Fayette was probably the most pathetic in its results. Jean Truville was an idealist. Though of good but not noble family, he joined the revolutionary forces simply through a desire to better the condition of the lower classes.

In drawing the duke's will Jean had noticed that provision was made for the return of a son and heir to the estate who had gone to America with Lafayette to take part in the American Revolution and had been reported missing after one of the battles in which the French troops were engaged.

"What proof have you of the truth of what you say?" asked the citizen judge. "I may easily be identified from portraits of me in the Chateau Fayette. Besides, my father must have left a will. In that will he surely made provision for my return, for he had no proof of my death."

One morning a soldier entered the conciergerie and read the names of a number of persons there who were to be taken out for execution. One of them was Citizen Fayette. Louise, who supposed that the man had made an error in reading citizen instead of citizenship, was trying to get up from her chair to go to her death when she saw a young man rise and take his place among the condemned.

When the batch was completed and the prisoners were filling out, Jean, passing Louise, whispered in her ear: "I die for you because I love you."

After the restoration of the Bourbons the Duke de la Fayette returned to France. He had been left for dead on a battlefield, taken by a trapper westward and captured by a tribe of Indians in the then wilderness of Ohio.

Louise de la Fayette never married, considering herself the wife of the man who had died for her. So long as she lived she made pilgrimages to the cemetery of Pere la Chaise to place flowers on the grave of Jean Truville, and when she died she was laid beside him.

LAURA EGERTON.

THE PRESIDENT Of the City Council, Wilkesbarre, Pa., Cured of Rheumatism.

Col. Wm. J. Harvey, a president of Wilkesbarre's city council, who will long be remembered for his great work for the city, was once a mere physical wreck, torn in every muscle and nerve from the frightful pains caused by rheumatism. He consulted the best physicians, went abroad, took mud baths, and almost every known treatment for the disease.

Nothing could be more direct or more to the point than this simple statement. Rheumatism is but another name for uric acid poisoning which is caused primarily by diseased kidneys. Cure your kidneys and the rheumatism disappears.
