MRS. NELL HOSKINS AND SON ARE GONE

THEY DEPART FRIDAY NIGHT FOR PARTS UNKNOWN AND THEIR INDICTMENT BY THE GRAND JURY FOLLOWS ON YESTERDAY

HOW THE BOY SHIELDED MOTHER

Dr. Walker Turned His Operating Room Into Torture Chamber During Tests That Finally Made Young Hoskins Admit He Was Shamming - Wanted His Mother to Escape to Mexico - County Attorney to Probe Case to Bottom

Mrs. Nellie Hoskins and her son, Oran, jointly accused of conspiring to perpetrate one of the greatest swindles against a railroad company on record, both of whom were indicted yesterday by the Tarrant county grand jury, are no longer in Fort Worth.

Exposed in an hour when the big prize for which they played—a judgment for $35,000 against the Frisco railroad—was almost within their hands, they are missing.

Oran Hoskins after duping the ablest physicians in the city and convincing them that when they looked upon him they saw a mindless piece of clay that would require nurses and guardians all its days, Oran Hoskins, after wearing the mask of idiocy for a period which practically every person in Fort Worth believes continued from the time of the accident until the day last week when mental and physical torture broke down the clever actor and made him confess the sham, is gone.

Mrs. Nellie Hoskins whose part was that of the heart-broken mother faded during her declining days to gaze helplessly upon the wreck and ruin of her only son—she too is gone.

When the blow fell and the law knocked at the door of the pleasant home at 901 East Belknap street, with warrants for mother and son, and they were taken away to the justice court, Charles P. Rowland in the court house, they were prepared.

Mrs. Nellie Hoskins whose part was that of the heart-broken mother faded during her declining days to gaze helplessly upon the wreck and ruin of her only son—she too is gone.

They left Fort Worth Friday evening. During Friday Oran Hoskins appeared on the streets. He was chipper and gay. His nine months in bed rather enfeebled him but he was a hero; everybody was talking about him; he was in the public eye—he went about on the streets and in the hotel lobbies where the curious might gaze upon the man whom the doctors called a better actor than those whom the world is accustomed to call great.

Dr. Walker was nearly at the end of his wits when the young man finally broke down. It is even stated that the gentle physician held young Hoskins' nose and mouth so that he could not breathe and that Hoskins held his breath while under the doctor's hands for two and one-quarter minutes and until his eyes were popping out and the blue had spread from his lips all over his face.

After the long siege in bed, the successful deception of distinguished physicians and the winning of the scheme for prize, his right hand went up and he surrendered.

WILL FIGHT A CASE TO TEST THE LAW

HILLSBORO, Texas, May 23.—Some developments are looked for in the enforcement of the Sunday law. The officers have learned that some tobacco and cigar stores have decided to close on Sunday to test the law.

County Judge Hill, Mayor Pitts and Esquire Frazee have all privately expressed the opinion that druggists could sell anything they carry in stock on Sunday. If they dismiss the cases the matter is to be carried to the court of appeals on the construction of the law.

All the doctors in the case testified in favor of the plaintiff except one, and his testimony was not strongly against the plaintiff. He did not claim that the boy was not seriously hurt, but said that he was not hurt as badly as he—the boy—himself thought. He seemed to incline to the opinion that the boy was seriously hurt, but that his mental and vocal functions were not affected as much as was apparent.

The effect of the injuries on the boy's mind is to make him think these functions are impaired and so he makes no attempt to bring them in to use. It is about the way I summed up this one physician's testimony.

"Opposed to this was the testimony of the other physicians who said the boy was incurably affected. The one doctor whose opinion I have quoted told us that there was no understanding of the workings of the brain in injury cases, for as fast as one theory was established it was knocked out. He said that all the books written on the subject were practically useless, as a blow that would affect one person in one way might have an entirely different effect on another.

The testimony showed that during this time he would require a nurse during the day and one during the night. The doctors testified that the injury was not likely to shorten his life an hour. It was on this basis that we figured out the $35,000 verdict.

"We saw the boy and we thought he was an idiot. We had the doctors to back us up; the testimony showed that the door fastening was defective. What else could the jury do but return the verdict as it did?"

GILLESPIE TALKS O. W. Gillespie, member of the firm of Carlock & Gillespie, returned to Fort Worth from New Orleans yesterday and issued the following statement:

"In view of the recent disclosures in the Oran Hoskins case, I desire to make the following statement: "Prior to leaving Fort Worth for the New Orleans reunion last Sunday evening, Mr. Carlock and myself had agreed with Mrs. Hoskins and Dr. Walker to turn Oran Hoskins over to Dr. Walker, to be dealt with exclusively by the latter, without any interference on the part of Mrs. Hoskins, or even without her presence, if so desired, or the presence of Oran Hoskins' attorneys, or anybody under their control or interested in the case, our purpose being to give Dr. Walker free scope in the matter, that he might thoroughly test the question as to whether Oran Hoskins was genuinely idiot, or was pretending to be hurt."

"Before leaving for New Orleans at the time above stated, Oran Hoskins, in carrying out this understanding, had been taken to Dr. Walker's sanitarium. "It is needless to state that we had a confident belief that after all these tests should be applied to Oran Hoskins, it would practically demonstrate that he was not pretending to be hurt, but was hurt really and in fact."

"While in New Orleans I received a telegram from Mr. Carlock, about 11 o'clock on last Thursday, stating in substance that serious complications had arisen in the Hoskins case; that the report of the physicians was adverse. I left New Orleans upon the first train possible after receiving this telegram, and reached Fort Worth at 12:30 o'clock yesterday morning."

"Upon going to my residence, I found my family in possession of all that had come out in the newspapers, and for the first time, through this means, learned what developments had taken place, and what action Mr. Carlock had taken with reference to the case. I wish to state that Mr. Carlock's action in promptly announcing the withdrawal of our firm from the case met my hearty approval, and certainly the course I would have advised had I been present."

TRAPPED IN IRON CAGE

FOUR ARE KILLED AND THIRTEEN INJURED BY FALLING WEIGHTS

ARE HORRIBLY MUTILATED

BODIES OF VICTIMS CRUSHED BEYOND RECOGNITION BY THE MASS OF METAL

TWO ARE YET UNIDENTIFIED

Unknown Woman Lies at the Morgue and Unknown Man Is Unconscious at a Hospital—Coroner Summons a Jury and Starts a Rigid Investigation.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 23.—It was almost daybreak this morning before any of the victims of last night's frightful elevator accident at the Donnelly building, during the Electro-Mechanical institute ball, were identified, and at 10 o'clock the crushed and mutilated remains of a woman were still lying at the morgue unknown and unclaimed.

Large crowds surrounded the entrance of the morgue all night awaiting information as to the identification of four bodies that had been taken there from the scene of the accident.

The bodies were so badly disfigured and distorted that thorough identification was only possible through marks on the clothing worn, and as some had no marks on their clothing identification was impossible until friends inquired for them because they were missed from their homes.

The unknown woman is thought to have come from some suburban town, and the remains will likely be identified during the day.

The casualty list furnished by the coroner and others from the hospital is as follows: Dead: MISS MATTIE CURTIN, 18 years old, Hazelwood, Pa. MISS SUSIE FLANNIGAN, 19 years old, Allegheny, Pa. RAYDEN F. FLOORER, 28 years old, McKeesbrook. WOMAN about 19 years of age. The injured: ALBERT MEYERS, 23 years old; fracture of right leg. HARRY LIPSON, 22 years of age. MISS KATIE FLANNIGAN, 27 years old. MISS LULU POSTELWAITE, 46 years old. MISS MARGARET POSTELWAITE, 17 years old. CHARLES BLONDEE, 18 years old. FANNIE SIMOND, 29 years old. JOHN MORRISON, 35 years old. FRANK S. AMROCK, 28 years old. L. N. GILLIS, 49 years old. MRS. L. W. GILLIS. PAUL GILLIS, 3 years old. UNKNOWN MAN about 24 years of age, bruised and cut; is unconscious at Mercy hospital.

The injured are all suffering from cuts and bruises, but with the exception of the unknown man it is thought all will recover.

The coroner at the earliest possible moment sent out a summons for a jury to inquire into the accident and fix the responsibility.

This jury met in the court room of the morgue building at 10 o'clock this morning and a rigid investigation was at once started.

SAGE OF CONCORD'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVED CHICAGO, Ill., May 23.—Ministers of all denominations have been invited by Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, general secretary of the Congress of Religion, to observe tomorrow as the 100th anniversary of the birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson and to preach sermons reflecting the thought appropriate to the occasion.

In his appeal for a general observance of the anniversary Dr. Jones says in part: "The influence of Emerson has long since become the heritage of all reading and thinking people. First and always, as Matthew Arnold called him 'the friend and savior of those who live in the spirit,' we cannot fail to realize with gratitude the great and beneficent influence upon our present moral and religious conceptions of Emerson's thought."

TEXAS GIRL WINS A MEDAL IN ART SCHOOL

HILLSBORO, Texas, May 23.—Rev. J. G. Lane is in receipt of a letter from the National Academy of Design, in New York, stating that his daughter, Miss Mary, who entered the school last September, has been awarded the Suydam medal in bronze for the best work done in the antique class, and her picture will be hung on the walls of the academy permanently. There are forty students in the class, most of whom have been there two years. The award was made by distinguished art critics of New York.

ROUTINE WORK OF GENERAL ASSEMBLY

LINCOLN, Va., May 23.—The third day's session of the Southern Presbyterian general assembly was called to order by Moderator Dr. Hopkins, and opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. A. S. Moffett of Lebanon, Tenn.

Rev. J. L. Caldwell of Pine Bluff, Ark., delivered the sermon.

Communications were received from Dr. Hahnway, secretary of the American Sabbath Union, asking the southern assembly to adopt the union, as the northern society had done so, and inviting the assembly to attend the meeting at St. Louis in 1904.

Reports were also heard from the Presbyterian Historical Society of Philadelphia, Pa., selecting the historical records of churches for exhibition.

Resolutions from the American Anti-Slavery League were referred to a special committee, consisting of Dr. Graham, Dr. Webb and Judge Mann, with instructions to report at a future session.

An invitation was received from Lee Jackson camp of the Confederate Veterans, to participate in the memorial exercises this afternoon, which was accepted, after which the assembly took a recess until evening.

AN OKLAHOMA TALE

Story of Buried Treasure Like Adventures of Captain Kidd NEAR SALT FORK RIVER Buried There By American Soldiers Trying to Escape Indians

GUTHRIE, Ok., May 23.—The finding of $2,000,000 buried treasure is reported from Vining, a small town located on Salt Fork river in western Oklahoma. The treasure was unearthed on the farm of Charles Moreland, who gave his com- plexion to a mysterious stranger digging on his land, provided he would give Moreland one-tenth of the treasure discovered.

The farmer received $200,000 and the mysterious stranger immediately disappeared. He came into the neighborhood recently, presumably from the east, bringing a map describing the location of the treasure.

A walnut box was struck twenty-eight feet under the ground which contained the money. Stories of buried treasure on Salt Fork have been rife for years in western Oklahoma. The treasure was supposed to have been buried by a band of American soldiers during the Mexican war. The story is that Washington Lindsay, a private in the 13th Ohio infantry, with eleven of his companions became detached from his regiment and fell in with friendly Indians. From the Indians they learned of much wealth secreted by them and guarded from whites.

The twelve soldiers secured some of the treasure and started for the east with three Spanish wagons laden with wealth. They were overtaken by the Indians and a battle ensued. Lindsay escaping with many wounds. Advised of the approach of the Indians the soldiers buried the treasure. Lindsay was picked up by a government train and taken back to Ohio.

PRISONERS THREATEN BOYD-WILDER'S LIFE

"BUSTER" MILLER THINKS "CONFESSOR" HAD A HAND IN MURDER OF HIS BROTHER, WALTER, THREE YEARS AGO

BLOODY FIGHT IN COUNTY JAIL

Boyd-Wilder Inflicts Beating on Joe Lawrence Who in Conjunction With Joe Wolf, Is Accused of Murdering Jim Wilson - Wolf is Implicated in the Miller Murder By Boyd - Wilder's Confession - How Much, If Any, of His Story Is True—Developments

One of the many court sensations that have thrilled the people of Fort Worth in the last few weeks, and by no means the least of them, is the J. Boyd-Wilder "confession."

Boyd-Wilder sprung his statement last Wednesday evening and during Thursday and Friday he occupied the witness chair in Justice of the Peace John L. Terrell's office at the preliminary examination of Charles Melton, one of the three men implicated by him in the murder of Walter Miller in the Rock Island yards in Fort Worth on September 11, 1900.

Boyd-Wilder's story is sensational for many reasons. At the conclusion of the hearing Justice Terrell held Melton for the grand jury in the sum of $500 which was promptly furnished by eight bondsmen. Miss Sue Cunningham and Miss Lizzie Melton were held in the sum of $100 each and permitted to go on their own recognizances in the same case.

Three men are named by Boyd-Wilder as the murderers of Miller, Willie Stone, his foster brother, is being searched for by the police, Melton's hearing has been held and he has been bound over to await action of the grand jury which is now in session, and Joe Wolf, the third member of the party, is now in jail awaiting trial in connection with Joe Lawrence, on the charge of murdering James M. Wilson in this city on the evening of January 3.

Three men are named by Boyd-Wilder as the murderers of Miller, Willie Stone, his foster brother, is being searched for by the police, Melton's hearing has been held and he has been bound over to await action of the grand jury which is now in session, and Joe Wolf, the third member of the party, is now in jail awaiting trial in connection with Joe Lawrence, on the charge of murdering James M. Wilson in this city on the evening of January 3.

MYSTIFYING CASE This case is so mystifying that it is safe to say there is not a person who was present at the preliminary hearing of Melton that is able to see through it. The law of Texas is through it a hide-bound instrument that it is difficult to go deeply into theories in a case such as this and so speculation and argument are dangerous things in a newspaper.

Boyd-Wilder is a self-admitted bigamist and forger—that is, in response to the latter charge he pleaded guilty and was given two years by the jury, although sentence has not been passed as yet, and in regard to the former charge he says that he was forced into a bigamous marriage through a girl's threat to expose the very case which he now himself claims to be exposing. So far as the forgery case is concerned Boyd-Wilder says that another man drew up the bogus check and he cashed it.

YESTERDAY'S SENSATIONS These sensational developments in this case yesterday when it leaked out that in a fist fight between Boyd-Wilder and Joe Lawrence in their cell in the county jail two days ago Boyd-Wilder beat Lawrence nearly to death and had to be dragged off him. Lawrence is a much bigger man than his opponent in this fight and it is said that the other prisoners let the fight proceed because Lawrence has been playing the part of a bully for a long time, and they were glad to see him pummeled. It is understood that the fight did not arise out of Boyd-Wilder's charges against Joe Wolf who is accused along with Lawrence of killing Jim Wilson.

Another development yesterday was a well authenticated report that at least two prisoners now in jail with Boyd-Wilder yesterday morning made threats to kill him. Boyd-Wilder is now under guard as the officers do not propose to have a murder committed in the jail.

"BUSTER" MILLER'S THREAT "Buster" Miller is now in the county jail awaiting trial on the charge of assault to murder. He was a brother of Walter Miller who was murdered three years ago. When he heard yesterday morning that Boyd-Wilder had confessed that he was a witness to the murder of Walter Miller he at once jumped to the conclusion that Boyd-Wilder was one of his brother's murderers and nothing that the officers could say had any effect toward changing his mind. He is declared to have the Rock Island yards where he was at the first opportunity. Another prisoner is said to have made the same threat, for another reason, so that the guards are taking all precautions to prevent another sensation—the murder of a man in jail—from coming to pass.

YESTERDAY MORNING Boyd-Wilder told his lawyer that he did not mean the Joe Wolf who is now in jail when he said that a man named Joe Wolf had a part in the murder of Miller, but later he told the county attorney that he simply made the statement in order to save his life as he feared the friends of Joe Wolf would kill him, such threats having reached him. He told the county attorney that the Joe Wolf who is now in jail is the one he meant.

Boyd-Wilder's story of the killing of Miller, which was told under oath, on the witness stand last week, is as follows: He and Miller had been acquainted for about ten years. They came to Fort Worth together about September 8, 1900. Boyd-Wilder had $168 in cash, the savings of about a year, on his person. Miller sold his horse and saddle before coming to the city, and had $115 or $120 in cash when he arrived here. The men spent several days together here, visiting resorts in the Acree and having a good time. On the evening of the 11th of September they accepted an invitation of Boyd-Wilder's foster brother, Willie Stone, to visit some girls on the east side near the Rock Island yards. They borrowed a buggy from Mrs. Kittie Bayles that night, bought a quart of whisky and started out. Near the yards they encountered Joe Wolf and Charles Melton; the moon was shining. Boyd-Wilder says that he saw and recognized both Melton and Wolf. Melton denies that he knew Boyd-Wilder at that time and says that to this day he does not know Joe Wolf.

HEARD PISTOL SHOT To resume Boyd-Wilder's story, his foster brother, Stone, called Wolf and Melton to the side of the buggy and it was agreed that Miller and Stone should alight and walk across the railroad yards to the house they were headed for, while Boyd-Wilder took the horse and buggy around by the road. He was less than 100 yards, or about that distance, from the party of four when he heard a pistol shot and heard Miller cry out. He looked back and saw the four men scuffling. He left the buggy and started back to the scene of the fight. When about 30 or 40 steps from the place where the fight occurred he was met by his foster brother and by Wolf and Melton who told him in answer to his question that something had happened and that he would better not go back to find out about it, but would do well to accompany them and keep his mouth shut. Miller, he says, was lying on the ground. He says that Melton was carrying Miller's pistol, which he describes, when he met the three men coming from Miller's body. He says that Miller had about $100 on his person the night of the killing. A $20 gold piece was the only money found on Miller's person when the body was searched. A gold watch was found near the scene. Boyd-Wilder says that his brother, Willie Stone, lost his watch during the fight with Miller. The watch that was found had the name "Turner" on the inside case.

PROTECT STONE Boyd-Wilder says that he did not reveal the identity of the murderers because he desired to protect his foster brother, Willie Stone. He says that after the crime the men remained together for some time. They departed from Wolf at the Texas and Pacific depot and left Melton at the home of the lady on the south side near the Sixth ward school house. He says that Melton's shirt was bloody and his coat was cut and that a girl at the house where they stopped on the south side got a clean shirt for him.

Boyd-Wilder says that Lizzie Melton told him that she heard the particulars of the killing of Miller from Joe Wolf, and that she forced him to elope with her to Dallas, while knowing that he had a wife living, and that the pressure she used was her knowledge of his foster brother's connection with the killing of Miller. The girl pronounces this whole story false and says that she will have no difficulty proving it. Miss Sue Cunningham testifies that Boyd-Wilder wanted to marry her and that she refused to have him, and that he was ordered away from

GRAND CAMPAIGN IN BEHALF OF FORT WORTH

They Predict Great Things For This City and Give Reasons on Which They Base Conclusions—Their Recent Pamphlets on Fort Worth

Family cares and duties do not weigh down the well woman, and the children are never in her way. But when the womanly health fails, and there is a constant struggle with weakness and pain, household duties are a burden almost past bearing, and children are a ceaseless annoyance and worry.

Weak women are made strong and sick women are made well by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries disagreeable drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

"I had been ailing some time, troubled with female weakness," writes Mrs. Wm. H. Johnson, of Avonida, Chert Co., Pa. "Every month I would have to lie on my back. I tried many different medicines and nothing gave me relief until I began Dr. Pierce's medicine, using two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines have cured me. When I began your treatment I was not able to do very much, but now I do the work for my family of nine, and feel better to-day than I have ever felt before. I thank you, doctor, from the bottom of my heart, for well do I know that you are the one who cured me."

"Favorite Prescription" has the testimony of thousands of women to its complete cure of womanly diseases. Do not accept an unknown and unproved substitute in its place.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the best laxative for family use.

WHEAT PROSPECTS OF DENTON COUNTY

DENTON, Texas, May 23.—It can now be safely estimated that the wheat crop in Texas was never better than it will be this year, if ever before as good, basing the estimate for the whole state on the crop in the banner wheat county (Denton) in Texas. It is now claimed by men who know what good wheat is when they see it, that the crop of 1900, which was the best crop in recent years, and which was probably equal to any previous crop the state ever had, will be laid in the shade in Denton county by the present crop. The straw is tall and rank and the grains are filling out well. That part of the county lying northwest, west and southwest of the city of Denton, which is the best part of the county for wheat, has an unusually large acreage sown, relatively larger compared to former years. As the acreage sown in wheat in the parts of the county least adapted to its production has decreased, which seems to be the case, it has increased in the parts most adapted to its growth. This shows that farmers are looking more at the commercial side of farming than they formerly did. As they better learn what products they can most profitably produce in the diverse soils in the county, they become more ambitious to make farming a paying pursuit.

CITY SCHOOLS CLOSE WITH WEEK'S END

The present school year will come to a close with this, the thirty-sixth week. The time this week will be mainly taken up with examinations—the testing up, really, of accounts. In order to show that the work has been well done an examination is required. If one has something to tell he should be able to tell it.

The blanks for all reports will be ready tomorrow morning at the High school. The principals are expected to have the teachers help make them out.

Promotion cards, punctuality cards and all data pertaining to the work of the season will be ready tomorrow morning.

The committee of principals, in connection with the principal of the High school, should meet as early as tomorrow afternoon to arrange for the seventh grade entertainment.

The flag staff will be raised and the flag unfurled at the High school some time this week. The day and hour will be given, and all parents, mothers and fathers, too, will be cordially invited to give this occasion the evidence of their patriotism.

The attendance last week showed a gain over the preceding week and the season so far has been one of success.

MEXICAN KILLED NEAR THURBER, TEX.

LYRA, Texas, May 23.—Anioto Sandobal, a Mexican who was visiting here from Thurber, started home Thursday night, intoxicated, and while walking along the Texas and Pacific track near here it is supposed he fell asleep and was struck by a passing train.

His body was horribly mangled and death must have been instantaneous.

The remains were taken to Thurber. Sandobal was 25 years old and was well liked by his fellow countrymen here.

REV. S. J. YUNDT IS TO PREACH HERE

It will interest those persons who have contributed to the establishment and support of the Church of the Holy Innocents, in the Union Depot addition, and indeed the community at large, to learn that the Rev. Samuel J. Yundt, rector of Grace church, Galena, Ill., has arrived to spend several weeks in this city. Mr. Yundt comes to Fort Worth as a missionary, upon the invitations of the rector of Trinity parish and the people of the Holy Innocents, this church being a mission of Trinity parish.

Mr. Yundt was ordained from the Nazareth (Wis.) Seminary. Some of the people of Fort Worth are familiar with his book, entitled "The Blessed Dead in Christ." His opening services here will take place at 4 p. m. this afternoon at the Church of the Holy Innocents, Josephine and Virginia streets.

Fort Worth has additional reasons for self-congratulation on the possession of the Armour and Swift packing houses because of the energetic manner in which those two great corporations are advertising the city. The Armour and Swift companies are great friends of Fort Worth and they are spending money unostentatiously in extolling its virtues, enterprise and energy.

About a month ago the Swift Company issued a beautiful pamphlet advertising the city in general and the Swift plant in particular. This pamphlet described the buildings erected here by Swift and gave statistics in regard to the killing capacity, the cost of the various structures, amounts of materials, reasons why Fort Worth instead of some other point was selected, the advantages of this market and the faith of Swift & Company in this city's future.

This pamphlet was extensively noticed in The Telegram at the time. At the time that the Swift pamphlet was issued Armour & Company had a little booklet, somewhat along similar lines in press. This is now out and it is a beauty. Like the Swift pamphlet, it is being distributed broadcast over the world.

SOME STATISTICS

It sets forth that 15,000,000 brick and 12,000,000 feet of lumber were used in the construction of the Armour buildings here, and incidentally mentions the several train loads of machinery and the trainloads of cement and other materials that went into the buildings. It sets forth the daily capacity at 1,500 cattle, 2,000 hogs and 1,500 sheep and says, strikingly, that a year's killing of cattle, sheep and hogs at the Fort Worth plant, standing in a single line would reach all the way from this city to San Francisco, or from here to New York, or if formed on the border of Texas would extend four-fifths of the way around the state. It says that 1,500 men are required to operate the plant, but the following general matter will be found of even more interest.

"This plant has been in operation only a short while and in its infancy compared with what will be made of it with the co-operation of the Texas and Southwestern stock raisers, the public in general and the railroads. We have room to grow and we will add various other departments and increase the capacity as necessity demands. This plant is a Texas institution. While we expect to draw our supplies in part from outside sources, yet the slaughtering within its walls will be for the most part of Texas production. The meats we send to market will, we hope, be consumed largely by people in the Southwest. Heretofore live stock grown in the great Southwest have been shipped hundreds of miles to distant markets or from four to six days further away from the point of shipment than Fort Worth. This has meant a loss in weight to the stockmen by shrinkage and an outlay of hundreds of thousands of dollars yearly for freight. Fort Worth is within easy reach of the entire Southwest and live stock will arrive here in better condition, appear better, and will sell at relatively higher prices.

PROFITABLE MARKET

"Our equipment is complete for utilizing in the most profitable way the offal and other parts of the animal, which usually go to waste in small abattoirs. This means but one thing: Fort Worth will also afford Texas stockmen a better and more profitable market than any other point in the state of Texas.

"The stockman, therefore, has a decided advantage in sending his stock to the Fort Worth stock yards. It means dollars and cents in his pocket and as a second consideration he will aid in the building up of a packing industry within his own territory that will afford him a convenient, permanent, and profitable market.

"There is no reason why Fort Worth should not become one of the great live stock centers and with the necessary assistance we intend to do what we can towards accomplishing this end. Already the Southwest is a great cattle raising district. While hogs are raised extensively, yet this branch of farming industry is still in its infancy compared with what can and will be accomplished. With a market close at hand hog raising will, of course, become more profitable and within a few years we believe that it will be necessary for us to increase the capacity of our already large hog killing department."

DOCTOR ON FOOD

Experimented on Himself. A physician of Galton, O., says: "For the last few years I have been suffering from indigestion and although I have used various remedies and prepared foods with some benefit it was not until I tried Grape-Nuts that I was completely cured. "As a food it is pleasant and agreeable, very nutritious and is digested and assimilated with very little effort on the part of the digestive organs. As a nerve food and restorer it has no equal and as such is especially adapted to students and other brain workers. It contains the elements necessary for the building of nerve tissue and by so doing maintains an equilibrium of waste and repair.

"It also enriches the blood by giving an increased number of red blood corpuscles and in this way strengthens all the organs, providing a vital fluid made more nearly perfect. I take great pleasure in recommending its use to my patients for I value it as a food and know it will benefit all who use it." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CLOSE TO NATURE.

The American Farmer the Greatest Man in the World.

THE American farmer is the greatest man in the world to-day because he is master of the soil—he is gaining in intelligence quite as rapidly as his products are increasing in magnitude. Our recent combines of capital in United States measure in money are enormous, yet such figures sink into insignificance when compared to the money, brain and brawn invested in agricultural industries. For instance, the farmers of Minnesota and Dakota have received $500,000,000 for their products in a single year. The farmer knows what Nature will bring forth for him from his experience in the past. He knows if certain seeds are planted and properly cared for that Nature will take care of the rest. In the same way you are master of your own destiny.

Take proper care of your own body and all will be well—but allow the weeds to grow and you will reap a crop of sickness. Ella Wheeler Wilcox well says: "If you come into the world with weak lungs or anemic blood it will require more effort for you to become robust than for some well born virile child who has only to breathe or frolic to keep in health." "Fear nothing," says Dr. Pierce, "providing your blood is in good order—keep your mind on the fact that you were meant to live and it only needs a little effort on your own part to keep healthy and strong—rid your body of the poisons that are apt to accumulate and your system is ready to ward off the attack of the germs of disease." Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes rich, red blood—by increasing the number of red blood corpuscles. There is no alcohol in this great tonic to shiver up the red blood corpuscles. An alterative, extract, made only of herbs and roots it goes about its work in nature's way. Only good can come from its use as it stimulates the liver into proper action, and feeds the worn-out nerves, stomach and heart on pure blood.

Used for over a third of a century it has sold more largely than any other blood medicine in the United States. More bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are sold to-day than ever before—that is the true test of its medicinal value after thirty-seven years of deserved popularity. Have you ever thought that it is probable that the earth supplied us with the means to keep our bodily vigor, our health, if we only knew it? The animals know by instinct what is good for them and will search until they find in some plant what they need for correcting indigestion or constipation, etc. Is it therefore, not possible that there are roots and herbs supplied by nature which will cure the diseases that afflict human kind? That is why Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has such faith in his "Medical Discovery." Years ago, when he was in general and active practice, he found that a combination of certain herbs and roots made into an alterative extract without the use of alcohol would always put the stomach into a healthy condition, nourish the tissues, feed the blood and nerves and put healthy tone into the whole system.

There are some people who can lose fat to advantage, but the loss of flesh is one of the accepted evidences of failing health. As flesh-making processes begin in the stomach, so naturally when there is loss of flesh we look first to the stomach for the cause. And the cause is generally found to be disease of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and digestive and nutritive tracts, resulting in loss of nutrition and consequent physical weakness. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery purifies the blood and entirely eradicates the poisons that breed and feed disease. It thus cures scrofula, eczema, erysipelas, boils, pimples and other eruptions that mar and scar the skin. Pure blood is essential to good health. The weak, run-down, debilitated condition which so many people experience is commonly the effect of impure blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery not only cleanses the blood of impurities, but it increases the activity of the blood-making glands, and it

WEDDING TROUSSEAU MADE IN AMERICA

CLEVELAND, O., May 23.—The trousseau of Miss Ruth Hanna will not be made in London or Paris, but in the United States. Mrs. Hanna has announced that in accordance with the wishes of Senator Hanna the order for the trousseau was given to New York dressmakers. The wedding gown is to be costly and elaborate and will be of peau de soie with lace and a wedding veil.

The details of the ceremony of Miss Hanna's marriage to Joseph Medill McCormick on June 10, have been arranged and among the attendants appear the names of society people of Chicago, Pittsburg, Washington and this city.

FINDS BENEFACTION SAPS INDEPENDENCE

LONDON, May 23.—According to Principal Story, of the University of Glasgow, the Carnegie trust is not an unmitigated boon to the students. The number of students who pay their own way is rapidly growing less, and the learned principal suggests that the young men are becoming demoralized, and are likely to have their honor and their independence sapped. He declares that instead of paying fees, some portion of the money ought to be devoted to the enlargement of the staff of professors.

COTTON CHANGES DEPRESS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 23.—Quite heavy liquidation has been accomplished in the stock market this week. Part of it was supposed to be to make good the losses on the cotton market. The cotton speculation was also a depressing factor in stocks by reason of the general effects the trade which are feared. Labor troubles and an under tone of apprehension of the general business situation have combined to induce large selling of stocks. The sharpness of the declines has kept alive expectation of an upward reaction, with several false starts in consequence. The underwriting of the Pennsylvania new stock issue steadied the market at the week end.

VIADUCT IS SOON TO BE ACCEPTED

The work of repaving portions of the viaduct is still in progress. As has been reported in The Telegram several times, this was necessitated by the swelling of the beds of the creeks when they became wet. The iron railings along both sides are receiving new coats of black paint, and it is understood that the structure will be officially accepted by the city soon.

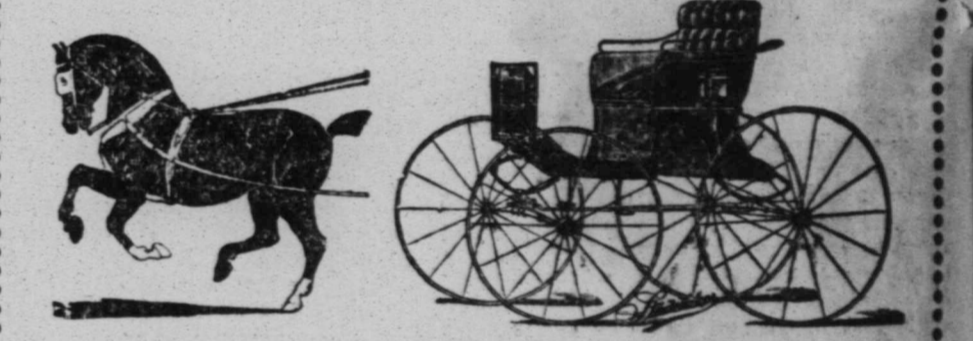

ENRICHES THE BODY WITH AN ABUNDANT SUPPLY OF PURE, RICH BLOOD.

"I consider Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the most wonderful blood remedy that a sick man can use," writes Mr. P. Schug, 651 Lake Street, Appleton, Wis. "Nine bottles changed me from a physical wreck to a well man within a few short weeks. Some two years ago, through complications in sickness I became blood-poisoned which spread through the entire system, making me very miserable. Skin became yellow, eyes glassy, and my step slow and heavy. A general falling off of flesh followed the loss of appetite, and I became thin and emaciated. I felt much worried, as the doctor's prescriptions did not help me any, but after I had taken only one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I felt that I was on the road to speedy recovery, so I continued taking it regularly for ten weeks, and am glad to say that at the end of that time the poison was eliminated from my system and I was in wonderfully good health and strength."

"Our little boy, Ray M. Cronk, age five years, is taking the Golden Medical Discovery," having had typhoid fever last April," writes Mrs. T. D. Cronk, Redfield, Oswego Co., N. Y. "He had a four weeks' run of the fever, then took cold and had a relapse which put him back five weeks and left him in a weakened condition. He has taken three bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and three vials of our 'Little Boy's' and is getting to be a nice fat little boy, for which we are very thankful. Mr. Cronk is going to have his photo taken soon and send you one, also little Ray's, so that you can see two more whose lives your wonderful medicines have saved. Our dealers are selling your medicines faster than ever before, since my husband's recovery, as every one gave him up to die, except myself. I had great faith in your wonderful medicines and knew they would help and cure him and I was not disappointed."

A BOOK OF COMMON SENSE—FREE. Dr. Pierce's "Medical Adviser" will be sent on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

LOTS SELLING WITH A RUSH IN BEAUTIFUL WASHINGTON HEIGHTS!

NORTH FORT WORTH

THIRTY-THREE WERE SOLD LAST WEEK. These lots were first put on the market Monday last. That day three were sold. On Tuesday five, on Wednesday seven, on Thursday four, on Friday six, on Saturday eight. At this rate the entire 100 lots will be sold in a short time. Don't wait another day. You may be too late to get a lot. The reason for this rush is plain enough. Washington Heights is a desirable place to live. It is convenient to the great Armour and Swift packing houses. It is high, dry and healthful. It is thoroughly drained, and commands a fine view of the city and country. Lots there are selling at $250 to $400. If this latter assertion is not true, we will deed you a lot in Washington Heights free. $10 cash and $10 a month will buy a lot. In addition to your lot, you will receive a certificate entitling you to participate in the distribution of

$2,500 IN GOLD AND LOTS FREE

There will be one gift of $500 in gold, one of $300 in gold, one of $200 in gold, two corner lots worth $400 apiece, and two corner lots worth $350 apiece.

NORTH FORT WORTH

North Fort Worth has two of the greatest packing establishments in the United States south of Kansas City. Armour and Swift are city builders. They made Kansas City and Omaha, and in a few short years added 50,000 to the population of St. Joseph. It is well known that two other large firms of packers are now figuring on sites for the erection of big packing houses in North Fort Worth. Fortune knocks but once at every man's door. Take advantage of the present opportunity and get a lot in Washington Heights before they are all sold. They are now selling at only $200. When there are 15,000 to 20,000 people in North Fort Worth you could not get one for $1,500.

North Fort Worth is a town of intense activity these days. The great packing houses are slaughtering and shipping a thousand or so cattle every day, and many more hogs and sheep. Business and residence houses are going up on every hand. As an example of the demand for homes, we mention the fact that on Monday John C. Ryan & Co. put on the market 100 lots in Washington Heights, addition to North Fort Worth, and Mr. Ryan says already he has sold 33 lots. Some of the buyers of these lots, with whom The Telegram reporter talked, were elated with their purchases, considering that they had got some real bargains in dirt that would be worth double the money in a short time.

A LITTLE EARLY RISER
now and then, at bedtime, will cure certain biliousness and liver troubles. Dr. Witt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectively, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by all druggists.

Do not always mean over charge and dishonest dealing. A business man who follows this method ALWAYS fails. Large profits are realized only by selling the BEST QUALITY at such a small margin of profit as to insure continued trade. Ten per cent of our customers business for a whole year is a larger profit than one hundred per cent on an unsatisfactory sale.
Consider the logic of this: customers stick to us and we want your trade. Come and see us.

SUPT. GRANT TOURING ELEVENTH DIVISION

Fort Worth was visited last week by Alexander Grant, assistant general superintendent of the railway mail service, who was in this city in company with S. M. Gaines, superintendent of the Eleventh division. The two are making a tour of the division visiting points at which an increase of the service has become necessary. They were in Kansas City yesterday. The Eleventh division is growing about twice as fast as any other division in the service.
Mr. Grant entered the service in 1872. There were at that time only 1,500 railway postal clerks. Today there are 11,000.
Ten years ago congress passed a law allowing actual expenses for postal clerks when away from their designated positions. No effort was ever made to collect any part of the allowance until recently. At Kansas City 113 postal clerks turned their claims over to Svend Schilbby, a railway clerk who is also a lawyer. Mr. Schilbby is instrumental in promoting suits against the government for traveling expenses of postal employees. Recently he was directed by Second Assistant Postmaster General Schallenberger to show cause why he should not be dismissed.

Mr. Grant, when his attention was called to the Schilbby case, refused to discuss the matter for publication.
The position of the postal department is that the designated position of these clerks is the route on which their runs are made and not the city or town where they may happen to live. The matter, it is understood, will be taken before the court of claims at Washington, D. C. A decision in favor of the clerks would mean that the government would have to pay out more than $100,000.

The late Mr. Vardman was a member of the Missionary Baptist church for about seventeen years. Previous to his death he had been in ill health about three and a half years.
He was an old settler in Texas, having lived on his farm in Denton county thirty-eight years. He was a veteran of the late war and was known and respected throughout Denton county and many parts of North Texas.

WEALTHY POOLROOM MAN IS CONVICTED

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 23.—The poolroom men in Westchester county have been again startled by the conviction of Joseph Canepi, Jr., of Yonkers, for having conducted a poolroom.
Canepi is a young man with a fortune in his own right. He conducts several saloons in Yonkers. The young man nearly collapsed when the jury, after two hours' deliberation, brought in a verdict of guilty.
He was released on $2,500 bail, pending the argument on a motion made by his counsel for the arrest of judgment on the ground that the trial court admitted improper evidence.

KINDERGARTEN COLLEGE
If the Fort Worth Kindergarten College becomes the thorough and permanent organization that it promises to be, the mothers of Fort Worth will have an opportunity to educate, here at home, their daughters in a broad and most profitable manner in all the womanly virtues. For not only does the kindergarten fit the young girl to teach small children as they should be taught, but its plays and games develop the bodily grace and ease of manner not excelled by the best gymnastic training. Its songs and music train the voice into gentle harmonious tones. Its handwork skills the hands to all the finer uses, and trains the eye to proportion and harmony of color; but best of all, the heart is trained to feel the helplessness of childhood, its many needs, and the dignity and beauty of administering to those needs.

QUESTION OF RIGHT TO USE LANGUAGE
Declared That Act of Hawaiian Legislature Since 1900 Are Illegal Because Native Tongue Was Used in That Body HONOLULU, May 23.—A serious question, involving the validity of all legislation enacted in the Hawaiian Islands since 1900, has been brought to light by the superintendent of public works, Henry E. Cooper, who refuses to act under the regulations recently adopted by the country's government act, on the ground that the act is unconstitutional. Cooper claims that the act is invalid by the fact that the legislature was permitted to use Hawaiian language during its deliberations, which Cooper holds is prohibited by congress in the territorial government act.

Women need not Suffer

Three years ago, when the gripe was epidemic in Chicago, I was in a very weak, nervous condition and suffered with female trouble. I was taken sick with the gripe, suffered severely, then had a relapse, and was given up by the doctors and my friends. My stomach was in such a weak condition that I refused food, and my menses stopped for five months, and the blood flowed from my mouth and nose at times. In this trouble Wine of Cardui was tried, and I was glad to find that it helped my appetite. I began slowly but surely to mend. I would use no other medicine, and although the doctor me so I kept on taking it, and to take his prescriptions, I felt Wine of Cardui was helping and within four months I felt better and stronger than I had ever done in my life. I cannot say too much in its favor.

SECOND STRAIGHT VICTORY AT PARIS

FORT WORTH WINS SAME BY SCORE OF 9 TO 6

Buchanan Let His Opponents Down With Seven Hits, But Four of Them Were Hard Swats—Combs Knocked Out by a Pitched Ball in Third Inning

PARIS, Texas, May 23.—By out-playing Paris all around, and especially at the bat, Fort Worth won the game today by a score of 9 to 6. Schuetzke and McMurray led the batting for Fort Worth, each getting four hits out of five times at the bat. Buchanan allowed only seven hits, but four of them were hard ones, which accounts for the six runs. Welter got a homer, Mulkey and Bateman triples and Walsh a double. McMurray, Poindexter and Schuetzke swatted out doubles.

In the third inning Combs, while at bat, stopped a swift one from Bateman and was knocked unconscious. The ball hit him on the left cheek bone. He took the full count and then came home. When he revived he was sick and dizzy and so Dewey took his place at third. Poindexter went to center and Lockhead to right.

Paris accumulated errors and Fort Worth offended the same number of times. Paris' errors were not of the costly sort, while Fort Worth's helped the locals to some runs. The hard, steady hitting of the visitors decided the game in their favor.

Paris started off in the lead by scoring one, which Fort Worth got back in the second. In the third Paris chalked up two, but Fort Worth came back with four, making the score 5 to 3 in her favor. In the fourth the score was tied at 5 to 5. In the fifth Fort Worth pulled another brace out of the fire. Paris gained one in the seventh, but Fort Worth, playing steadily, tacked on two more in the eighth and then blanked the locals in the ninth and the game was at an end.

The batteries were Buchanan and McMurray and Bateman and Wolf. Today's victory for Fort Worth makes the second straight and local fans are in the air. The visitors are putting up a harder game than when they were here before, while Paris seems to be slacking up. Today's defeat is due to the fact that the local team was out-played from start to finish; there was no luck about it—simply better playing.

JUDGE HIMES WINS

CHICAGO, May 23.—The racing season at Hawthorne was inaugurated this afternoon with the $10,000 Hawthorn stake, which has become an annual event in local racing circles. Although 21 horses were announced as possible starters, the field dwindled down to a dozen. G. C. Bennett & Co.'s Little Scout was made the favorite at 5 to 2. The winner turned up in Judge Himes, who finished first after being fifth into the stretch. Jockey H. Booker brought him through in clever style. He carried 100 pounds and was 12 to 1 in the betting. Flavourous was second and Little Scout third. The time for the mile and one-eighth was slow—2:03.

WIFE STANDS BY CARLYLE

TWO OFFICERS OCCUPY ROOM WITH THE COUPLE

CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

SAID POLICE HAVE INFORMATION CONNECTING HIM WITH MURDER

INTERVIEWER IS BARRED

Alleged Wife No. 2, Who Has $1,000 Sewed Up in Skirt, Spent One Night in Jail at His Side—Then Officers Relented and Permitted Them to go to Room

In room 24, Hyde Flats, an interesting situation prevailed last night. There are two beds in room 24. One of them was occupied by Sheriff Love of Kingsbush, Ok. The other was occupied by Dr. Robert E. Carlyle, alleged bigamist, and a pretty young lady who, according to the officers, is wife No. 2.

Carlyle was the sheriff's prisoner and as a favor to the man the sheriff permitted him to go to Hyde Flats for the night instead of remaining behind the bars. The awkward arrangement was necessary, but Carlyle and his wife readily agreed to it.

Mrs. Carlyle did not wish to pass such another night as Friday proved to be. Her husband spent Friday night in the city calaboose. She sat in the corridor, just outside the bars, and pleaded with the officers to be allowed to go behind them with her husband.

Sheriff Love became sleepy during the evening and, at his request, Officer Joe Henderson was assigned to room 24. He occupied an easy chair while the sheriff from Oklahoma paid court to Morphon in the bed just across the room from the one occupied by Carlyle and wife.

CLOUDS GATHER. Clouds, according to the police, are thickening about the head of Carlyle. He was first arrested on a charge in which a sum of money was involved. Then the police were informed that he had a wife living in Paducah, Ky.

A dispatch was received from King Fisher, Ok. last night which brought the news that wife No. 1 arrived there yesterday and declared she would prosecute Carlyle. Another dispatch, it is said, brought news of still another statement to Mrs. Carlyle. The latest alleged Carlyle wife is said to have been in Nashville, Tenn.

It is reported that the police had received information connecting Carlyle with a more serious charge—that of murder in New York city.

A telephone reporter went to Hyde Flats to obtain a statement from the prisoner, but the officers would not admit him and said that the prisoner would not be admitted until today.

COTTON SENSATION

W. P. Brown Leader of the Bulls Is Discovered Absent

NOW IN NEW ORLEANS

Stated That He Has Been Swinging the Market With $5,000,000

NEW YORK, May 23.—As a result of the most sensational tragedy in cotton ever known in the world, W. P. Brown, the new king of cotton, left New York secretly Friday night for New Orleans. This fact became known in Wall street ten minutes after the market closed today and threw speculators into a blaze of excitement.

Had the information been available earlier, the day would have been a spectacular one, for Mr. Brown's secret journey was interpreted as a confession of weakness.

All that the cotton traders knew during market hours was that Mr. Brown was not on the floor. Daniel J. Sully was absent also, being at his home in Providence. Mr. Sully, who is trying to regain control of the cotton market, called original margins on Mr. Brown's trades wherever they happened to be in the brokerage houses of his friends, and thus in a few days had the financial measurement of the New Orleans king.

He discovered that Mr. Brown, instead of having the $20,000,000 cash which he had been credited, was at the head of a pool that had only $5,000,000 cash.

Armed with this knowledge and having first tied up practically all of this $5,000,000 in original margins, Mr. Sully and the McFaddens made a raid on the market. Although Mr. Brown did not explain in detail the object of his trip to New Orleans, where his Hibernian National bank is located, he did give notice that he feared the consequences to the market if his absence from the exchange became known while trading was in progress. Mr. Brown will be in New Orleans among friendly bankers when the market opens Monday, so that he can manage his battle.

It is admitted by brokers for spot dealers that they have sold contracts for thousands of bales to Mr. Brown for July delivery, and that they intend to deliver the actual cotton to him.

This will force him to raise many millions of dollars besides what he has on hand.

Under ordinary conditions this money will be forthcoming, as cotton is acceptable collateral, provided the banks are not interested to the speculative end of the deal as New York banks nearly always are. Heavy shipments of cotton are planned for Monday, and the bears intend to break the record for that day if possible.

DOCTORS INTERESTED. When he entered this afternoon Dr. Lorenz became the center of interest, for every pair of eyes in the operating room. The doctors present were from all over Texas. Some of them had seen his work at New Orleans, but the majority had only read of the marvelous results he has attained and were eager to see just how they were accomplished.

The first case was that of the six-year-old daughter of Ed. Fray, a Newland county ranchman. The little girl had suffered from congenital hip dislocation. For one hour the surgeon's hands were busy with the patient, while he explained in technical language the various steps taken in order to restore the dislocated bone to its proper position. At the end of that time he announced the operation as successful and no physician present dissented.

SECOND CASE DIFFICULT. The five-year-old daughter of Mrs. A. L. Wright of Corpus Christi came next. Congenital hip dislocation was also the trouble in this case. Doctor Lorenz worked twenty minutes, at the end of which he said the operation was not so successful as the first one he had performed, but said that the affliction would be much cured.

CLUBFOOT CURED. The five-year-old son of H. B. Carter of Austin was the third child on whom the doctor operated, and he was suffering from a club foot and when he left the table it was with the assurance that he would be able to walk as other boys, the operation having been regarded as very successful.

STAYS TILL MONDAY. Dr. Lorenz will continue his operations tomorrow. The names of his other patients were not announced, and it was stated he will perform a number of private operations while here. He will leave Monday for Chicago to resume the treatment of Lolita Armour, whose case was the first he had in America and the success of which made him famous throughout the entire United States.

BANQUET IN HIS HONOR. Tonight the faculty of the Dallas University tendered Doctor Lorenz a banquet and prominent citizens responded to toasts. Already while here, Dr. Lorenz has examined nearly a hundred cases submitted, but only a limited number can be treated.

BELL FILES SUIT IN SAN ANTONIO. SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 23.—Attorney General Bell has filed suit in the district court against the Hugo & Schneider Company, for forfeiture of their charter, alleging a breach against public trust in this city.

OBJECT OF MARKET HALL. A meeting of the directors of the market hall has been held at the high school here last night. The directors have decided to have the market hall built on the site of the old market hall, and to have it built on a permanent basis.

LORENZ IN DALLAS SAY WHEELER WAS HURT BY SLIGHT

DALLAS, Tex., May 23.—In the midst of a circle of nearly five hundred Texas physicians and surgeons, Dr. Adolph Lorenz, the Austrian surgeon, stood in the clinic room of the University of Dallas this afternoon and demonstrated by three successful operations for congenital dislocations the success of the theories, by the adoption of which he has become famous throughout the entire civilized world.

Two little girls, suffering from birth, and a boy not five years old lay in turn on the operating table and in turn felt the grip of the doctor's big, strong, yet flexible hands, by the use of which alone he performs his operations. Two of the operations were announced completely successful. The third did not wholly satisfy Dr. Lorenz, but he declared it would result in much benefit to the patient, a little girl who was suffering from hip dislocation.

When he entered this afternoon Dr. Lorenz became the center of interest, for every pair of eyes in the operating room. The doctors present were from all over Texas. Some of them had seen his work at New Orleans, but the majority had only read of the marvelous results he has attained and were eager to see just how they were accomplished.

FURNITURE DEALERS FORM AN ASSOCIATION. The furniture dealers of Fort Worth held a big meeting at the store of the W. T. Ladd Trading company Friday night and organized themselves into an association for mutual benefit and protection. They elected Lee Fleming to be secretary-treasurer and decided that other officers would not be necessary at this time. Another meeting will be held in the near future at which rules and regulations by which the association shall be governed shall be adopted.

He denies in toto everything said by Boyd-Wilder that tends to connect him with the killing of Miller. It is a remarkable case, any way you choose to look at it. It is very evident that Boyd-Wilder knows something about the murder of Walter Miller. A jury will be required to sift the story to the bottom and judge how much he knows about it, whether his story is all true, or all false, or where the truth ends and the fiction begins. Those who know Charles Melton have no hesitation in expressing their belief in his innocence.

SECOND CONCERT CITY PARK THURSDAY. As the first band concert given at the City park last Thursday evening proved such a big success the ladies who had the arrangements in charge are very enthusiastic and have already begun working to make the concert next Thursday evening still greater. Local lumber companies have donated 3,000 feet of lumber and the band stand and additional seats, more electric lights and better street car service will be ready by Thursday.

TEXAS EDITORS SEE FORT WORTH

WILL WRITE COLUMNS ABOUT THE PACKING HOUSES

A Pleasant Termination of One of the Most Successful Meetings of the Texas Press Association—Will Visit Other Towns in Texas.

The fact that editors do not sleep accounts for the bright, alert condition of the members of the Texas Press association upon their arrival in Fort Worth yesterday morning, after a night's pleasure before at Waxahachie.

The twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Association of Texas Editors closed in that city Friday evening. The attendance was one of the largest in the history of the society.

Following the business sessions the members were tendered a reception by the Shakespeare club and the ladies of Waxahachie at the Elks' hall, after which a banquet was served by the city at the armory.

Not satisfied with this generous display of hospitality, a ball was given at the Trumpet Corps' hall, where the festivities were continued well into the morning.

Soon after daylight the party was bound Fort Worthward in two special cars of the H. & T. C. From the time they arrived, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, until 11 o'clock last night, they were dined and feted at the hands of a generous Fort Worth committee, presenting a hospitable city glad of the honor of entertaining such a representative gathering of the state press.

The visit to Fort Worth was the first step in a tour of the state, which is being made as a fitting close of the annual meeting of the association.

The delegation, headed by the retiring state president, Clarence Ousley of Houston, was met at the Santa Fe station by members of the local press and a number of representative business men of the city.

A street car ride in the morning was followed by a visit to the brewery and ice manufacturing plant of the Texas Brewing company, where a luncheon was served.

At 2:30 p. m. the entire party further enjoyed the hospitality of the Northern Texas Traction company, and on special cars visited the stock yards and packing plants of Swift & Co. and Armour & Co.

At 5 o'clock the Fort Worth Stock Yards company served an elegant banquet at the Exchange Cafe, where the editors were formally extended a welcome and made to feel that their visit was a pleasure and appreciated.

In the evening the members of the association accepted the invitation to attend the performance at the roof garden.

THE BANQUET. Next to subscriptions editors enjoy a banquet and the one prepared for them at the Exchange Cafe was of the variety on which an editor readily stamps his "O. K."

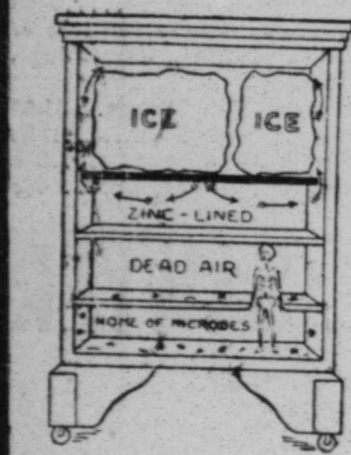

A. B. Castleman, manager for H. H. Peters & Co., proprietors of the Exchange Cafe, had been previously informed as to what editors would expect, and this is what they found announced on their menu:

POSTPRANDIAL EXERCISES

Capt. B. B. Paddock presided as toastmaster, first introducing Col. G. T. Walker of the Fort Worth Morning Register, who said he was glad to welcome so many members of the association to Fort Worth. The colonel admitted that while the city is pleased at the opportunity of entertaining the members of the Texas Press association, yet it had somewhat of a selfish motive when the invitation was extended to its members. Fort Worth is proud of the advancement it is making, and it knew the members of the press association, when they came and witnessed what is being accomplished by the city, would return to their respective homes and write columns about it.

PRESIDENT YANTIS TALKS

R. E. Yantis, editor of the Review at Athens, and the newly elected president of the association, said that before his coming to Fort Worth he had formed some conception as to the greatness of the packing industries so recently established in Fort Worth, but since he had passed through the plants, even in his hurried inspection, he more than ever realized that "the half has not been told."

Mr. Yantis said he appreciated the importance of the industry to Texas, as well as to Fort Worth, and he assured Colonel Walker that there was not a Texas editor present but that would return home and devote columns to the packing industries in Fort Worth, because, he said, they can do it from a selfish motive—for what it means for Texas.

In attempting to forecast the termination of the enterprise which he witnessed in Fort Worth, President Yantis said he realized that what little strife there is existing between Fort Worth and Dallas at present, will soon be wiped out and there will be but one great city and that will be Greater Fort Worth.

"Seriously," he continued, "I believe the time is coming when the country between Fort Worth and Dallas will be built up whether it is Greater Fort Worth or Greater Dallas, or, as newspapers do when they merge, Fort Worth-Dallas."

Mr. Yantis complimented the citizens of Fort Worth on the great packing industries, and especially the beautiful exchange building in which the editors were entertained. He thanked the Fort Worth Stock Yards company and the local members of the press, on behalf of the association, for the entertainment accorded them.

WILL LOVE FORT WORTH IF HE WISHES

"Farmer" Bill Shaw of Dallas was introduced by Captain Paddock as a "horny handed son of toil," who would speak on the subject of farming and stock raising.

"Farmer" Shaw had once before told the members of the Texas Press association what he thought of Texas and Fort Worth, when he spoke at the plant of the Texas Brewing company in the morning. But in the evening he elaborated on the great possibilities of the state, whose future, he said, one dare not predict because of the magnitude of its opportunities, which will eventually be opened to it through its ports and with its business to Mexico and Central America.

As to its capacity, he said there is no limit. "The state," he said, "is coming to the front in every way. Stock, cotton, grain and fruit. And Fort Worth, Captain Paddock can't kick me if I want to love Fort Worth. God bless her, she is a live town."

under the management of Mr. Hunter and his brother for 24 years.

One of the veteran members of the profession in the party yesterday was F. B. Baillo of Dallas, representing the Western Newspaper Union. Colonel Baillo is acquainted with more newspaper men in Texas and the United States in general than any other one man. He was until a little less than two years ago editor of the Johnson County Review, and his many friends will be pleased to know that he expects to again be in the harness "before snow flies." He has not yet decided just where he will locate. There are plenty of good fields in Texas. Colonel Baillo has the distinction of having been not only president of the Texas Press association, but has also been honored with the presidency of the National Editorial association, and was the only man ever chosen for that office by acclamation.

B. C. Murray, editor of the Sunday Gazetteer of Denison, is one of the oldest editors in Texas in point of years of service in that profession. He was one of five persons who founded the Austin Statesman, and has been engaged in the newspaper business continuously since 1870. He is accompanied on the present trip by his daughter, Miss Dulce.

Longview, Jacksonville, Rusk, Palestine, Houston, Beaumont, Orange, and Bay City are the other places included in the itinerary of the Texas editors' excursion. They will leave Fort Worth on the Cannon Ball at 7:45 this morning, going to Grand Saline, where they will stop over an hour and then continue their journey to Longview on a slower train.

A group photograph of the members of the association was taken by a local photographer in front of the Stock Exchange building last evening after the banquet. The usual command on the part of the photographer, "look pleasant," was unnecessary.

Metal stars, with the compliments of the Fort Worth Stock Yards company, were given as souvenirs. On the side of the star bearing the complimentary clause with a letter in each point of the star was the word Texas. On the reverse side was a design of a panther, with the word awake arranged with a letter in each star point. The members of the association were provided with neat badges bearing the inscription, "Twenty-fourth Annual Session, Texas Press Association, Waxahachie, May 21-22."

LONG STRIKE IS AT LAST AT AN END

NEW YORK, May 23.—John McNeil, grand president and organizer of the Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders of America, in a statement issued today, says the strike of boiler-makers on the Union Pacific, inaugurated June 19, 1902, has been settled, the men having granted a substantial increase in wages and other questions arranged satisfactorily to both parties. A sympathetic strike was ordered on the Southern Pacific, when, through the influence of E. H. Harriman, a conference was arranged and conducted in this city during the last few days.

BOER LEADERS ARE NOW IN EL PASO

EL PASO, Tex., May 23.—Gen. J. D. Joubert and Capt. W. S. O'Donnell, promoters of the Boer colony at Tamulipas, Mexico, are here after closing the contract with the syndicate that furnishes supplies for the colony. This is the second Boer colony to be planted in Mexico. The Boers will occupy 83,000 acres. A syndicate in Mexico will bring the people from Africa, let them have implements and livestock, and give them credit at their stores. The settlers will pay for the land at the rate of 15 shillings per acre for a number of years.

The land is one hundred miles north of Victoria, Mexico, and has a frontage on the Vignale river. A railroad will be built through the tract.

REEL

The death of Mrs. L. W. Reed at St. Joseph's Infirmary on the morning of the 20th was a shock to her numerous friends of the city, most of whom knew her as Miss Stella Blair, an amiable and lovely girl, whose many graces won for her the admiration and esteem of all.

Since her marriage to Mr. Reed four years ago she had lived at Marble Falls, and later at Beaumont. Her husband, mother and brothers, with other relatives, were with her during her illness.

The funeral was conducted from St. Patrick's church, and she was buried beside her father, the late F. M. Blair.

THE SOCIAL SEASON

Last Wednesday the prettiest and airiest gowns of the season were brought forth to compliment Mrs. W. J. Bailey...

The olive green and gold library offered a low toned background for the gay lavender and pink sweet peas in there...

The guests, thirty-eight in number, were seated at small tables. Two tables seating six each, were in the parlor with their golden candlesticks...

In each room the color scheme was carried out in basket and flower. A beautiful place card in folder shape done in water colors of sweet peas...

"Here are sweet peas on tip too for a flight. With wings of gentle flush o'er delicate white."

On the inside was found a charade, also in the gold lettering, written by a Wednesday club woman:

"My first, is the fate that all mankind befall, when the serpent for Eve wove his sorrowful spell—'Woe.'"

"My second, a biped that walks on both feet, who sometimes to live eats, sometimes lives to eat—'Man.'"

"My third, is derived from an old heathen god—'Wotan.'"

"My fourth, when we wake comes, but leaves when we nod—'Day.'"

"My fifth, cynics say, has brought into the world, more grief and contention than Beelzebub hurled—'Club.'"

My whole deeply cherished in everyone's heart which we joy when we meet with, and greet when we part."

Which proved a pretty compliment to the Woman's Wednesday club. The first lady to announce her solution was Mrs. Hyde Jennings...

Wednesday being Mrs. F. L. Jaccard's day at home, having as her guests Dr. and Mrs. MacAdam and being desirous of having many of this charming couple's friends give them a welcome back to Fort Worth...

Friday evening Miss Mildred Bennett had a few friends in to play whist, it was informal and therefore Miss Root, the honoree, enjoyed it all the more.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Lederman had with her the Progress Whist club. Mrs. Brann has to show for her skill a cut glass nappy...

Miss Annie Binyon entertained the Marguerites and a number of her friends with a Finch party Thursday afternoon. Pink and white roses held sway and with their sweet fragrance made redolent the air of the card suite...

Miss Bessie McLean who has a charming guest, Miss Carr of Nashville, is fortunate in having such aid to entertain her as Dr. Barber and Mr. Kolp...

Miss Bessie McLean who has a charming guest, Miss Carr of Nashville, is fortunate in having such aid to entertain her as Dr. Barber and Mr. Kolp...

Quite a number of the clubs have ceased their strenuous study for the summer months. The '33 club finished the study of English landscape artists under the able direction of Miss Howard...

The Jewish Women's council held a social meeting Monday evening with Mrs. Jas. Mayer and Mrs. Alexander at the home of the latter.

The Children of the Confederacy met Wednesday afternoon at their room in the court house in the usual business session, the roll call being responded to with the names of Confederate Generals.

SPENDS VACATION AT HOME ON FARM

How the Ruler of France Takes a Simple Rest at the Home of His Old Peasant Mother—Paris Gossip

BY MAX O'RELL (Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst) PARIS, May 23.—President Loubet has had a week of well deserved rest in the old farm house at Montlaur...

had to be followed the very same day by the official visit of King Edward to Paris. The love of President Loubet for his mother is touching as his pride in her, a peasant woman, shows that his exalted position has not made a snub of him...

It is no joke in Great Britain to be obliged to entertain royalty, and the expenditure involved on hosts in entertaining royalty is always heavily increased when the visit is connected with a state entry to an adjacent city. Thus the Duke of Buccleuch's expense in putting Dalkeith palace at their majesties' disposal may be gauged from the fact that between thirty and forty rooms at the palace were furnished by a London firm.

The majority of Austrians are against the Archduke Francis, who contracted a morganatic marriage and thereby lost his rights to the inheritance. For this reason the Austrians, especially the proud aristocracy, are in favor of Archduke Otto. Francis, however, is the candidate preferred by the immense majority of the Hungarians, who see no difference between a morganatic marriage and any other, and also because, by the constitution of Hungary, the woman who marries the king becomes queen, to whatever station of life she may belong.

near the new water works where refreshments were served. To end this delightful evening a dance was given at the Elk club rooms, which was enjoyed by Messrs. Tarlton, Stimping, Daisy Evans, McCarthy, Terrell, Bennett, Hunter, Beall, Ella Hogsett, Bradley, Littlejohn, Boland, White and Young of Marshall; Messrs. Fain, Littlejohn, Nuse of Atlanta; Offutt, Renn, Archer, J. Andrews, Karlton, Hoffman, Elliott, Elkies, Wood, Kolp, Drs. Chilton, Loving, Follock and Barber. The children were Mr. and Mrs. Burch and Mr. and Mrs. Davis.

Luther Higby, well known as a famous host, will tender his friends a picnic at Handley on June 2. The Dallas singing club as well as the home music clubs will be present and any of his friends having gift of talent will be expected to assist in entertaining.

The As You Like It club was entertained with six-handed euchre by Mrs. Berny Anderson Thursday afternoon. The house was artistically decorated with the native wild flowers, arranged in baskets and vases, serving as a pleasing contrast to the bouquets of regal roses, glowing sweet peas and nasturtiums and a typical southerner, the Magnolia, brought by admiring friends. The score was kept by Mrs. Covert and resulted in Mrs. Jere Ellis winning the club prize, Miss Newlin the guest prize and Miss Evans the consolation. Mrs. Anderson was assisted by Mrs. White in serving a tempting luncheon to Mrs. Nell P. Anderson, Edgington, Will Edgington, Beard, Ben O. Smith, McDonald, Morris Berny, Stephens, Beard, Schenker, Massie, Winnell

Scott, Olive E. Scott, James Davis, Scott Wilson, B. R. Ramare, Jere Ellis, Richard Van Zandt, Kaufman, J. B. Gray, Ben Tillar, McNatt, J. P. King, Misses Nash, Belden, Newlin, White, Terrell, Anderson and Evans.

Mrs. George Beggs opened her hospitable home last Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of All Saints' Hospital. Sweet peas in all their many hues and daintiness reigned throughout the reception suite and gave with Mesdames Beggs, Chamberlain, Barnes, Clayton and Anderson a welcome to the many ladies that called for sweet charity's sake, to help in the efforts they have made and almost accomplished. Quite a nice sum was realized. The young ladies who assisted Miss Christina, the daughter of the house, in the dining room, were Misses Vogel, Hornby, Connell and Vogel. Mrs. Thornhill recited. Mr. Pease favored the guests with several songs, and Miss Downing also sang.

The Elk clubrooms were again thrown open to the "deers" and their friends on Saturday afternoon, when high five was the game and Mesdames O. R. Menfer, Robert McCart, I. P. Bird, L. L. Hawes, D. R. Cobb, C. E. Shalvire and M. Roy were the hostesses. Delicious punch was served during the game by these young ladies, who also scored: Misses Rainey, Byers, Laneri, Boland, Lucile White and Louise Blair. At the conclusion of the games an ice sherbet was served to the twenty-five tables. Mrs. E. W. Taylor, in a cut with Mesdames Fosdick and Hubbard, won first prize, a rose picture in water colors. Mrs. Elbert Rall winning the second prize, a pink and green Japanese picture. Miss Bessie Anderson won a fan for the consolation. An artistic score card was a souvenir of this delightful afternoon.

Friday morning Miss Mary Terrell informally entertained, for her guest, Miss Young, with three tables of whist. Miss Minnie Nash has a Gibson picture as a trophy of the morning. A three-course luncheon was served.

Progressive flinch and fun, merry maidens, gallant beaux and such a charming host and hostess as Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Matlock, assisted by Miss Annie, are an assurance of pleasure. Thursday Miss Matlock of Denton was tendered such a party. Score cards with bunches of sweet peas as souvenirs were given to the players, who were the Misses Garrett, Smithy, Peacock, Ella Peacock, Yeates, Diboll, Hyman, Chestnut, Boory, Fairs, Sallay, Fender, Nash, Mrs. John Van Zandt, Mrs. Matlock, Mrs. Burt Smith, Mrs. Bob Fender, Messrs. Matlock, Tuley, Regoz, Jack Stephens, Walter King, May Raynor, Hyman, Joe Hyman, Reeves, Robert Fender, Ernest Fender, Parker, Bowley, Tipton, Cowan, Van Zandt.

The house was elaborately decorated with vines, palms, roses and sweet peas. Miss Fender won the ladies' prize, a dainty water color sketch. The gentlemen's prize went to Mr. May. To Mr. Joe Hyman was awarded the consolation, a beautiful bunch of sweet peas. A two-course luncheon was served.

A musical treat and evening of fun was that of Friday, when the Peak Sisters of Alaska came to the city hall under the able directorship of Mrs. Boyd Clark, to whom the ladies of the Kindergarten association are so greatly indebted. A most enthusiastic audience greeted these twelve happy, funny old maids, who charmed and delighted their audience. Professors Bauer and Belling rendered a delightful piano and violin solo, which added greatly to the pleasure of the evening. Miss Mildred Bennett recited "A Telephone Girl," and Miss Edgington sang "Under the Bamboo Tree." The Messrs. Winchester Belden and Hamner tendered a luncheon at the Worth hotel to the graduating class and faculty Saturday at high noon. The table was dainty and lovely in its decorations of green and white. Place cards were in the class colors of red, white and black.

The present occasion will long be remembered by the following participants: Georgia Booby, Lella Chalk, Myrtle Davy-nport, Mary Harrison, Florence Hollingsworth, Vera Hoey, Kitty Belle Jenkins and Lela Stone.

Miss Marion Zane-Cetti was at home to a few friends Friday afternoon. These merry little maidens played cards quite informally, after which Mrs. Zane-Cetti served dainty refreshments, assisted by Misses Emma and Louise Zane-Cetti.

The Imperial club danced informally last Friday night at Mrs. Croom's ball. Those present were Misses Beall, Jenkins, Hunter, McCarthy, Pendleton, Larimer, Schaffer, Florence Hollingsworth, Ludolph of Dallas and Coom; Messrs. Hicks, Guthrie, Clements, Joyce, Hardwick, Montgomery, Mendel, Stark, Martin, Adams and Bauer. They were chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Cramer.

CLUBS

Mrs. Saunders, general chairman for the State Federation meeting which is to be held in Fort Worth, has appointed the following chairman: Finance, Mrs. E. H. Carter; place of meetings and decorations, Miss Howard; home for delegates, Mrs. J. D. Covert; reception, Mrs. Jno. M. Adams; social entertainments, Mrs. Winfield Scott; luncheons, Mrs. E. C. Rhome; ushers, Mrs. W. J. Bailey; local transportation, Mrs. R. M. Wynne; badges, Mrs. R. E. Buchanan. Other committees are to be appointed later.

The art department met with their director, Miss Melton, Thursday morning and the members were profitably entertained by her with a short history and exhibition of famous paintings by Millais, Michael Angelo and other famous artists. This was followed with a discussion by the club. Plans were perfected for a sketching club, who will work this summer in still life and nature under the director, Miss Melton. The alternate art work, art needlework, will be given next week at the home of Mrs. W. E. Sterley, who is the director of the embroidery class.

The Penelope club will hold its regular meeting next Tuesday at their rooms in Prof. Heathcote's studio and will conclude their study of Hamlet. The next meeting will be an open meeting to be held on June 3.

On Wednesday afternoon the Rector's Aid of Trinity met with Mrs. Heathcote. The eighteen members present listened with delight to the report of Mesdames Adams and Dickinson, the delegates to the Diocesan convention of Woman's Auxiliary, at Dallas. The society accepted an invitation for a luncheon to be given by Miss Torbett, principal of St. Mary's. After dainty refreshments were served the ladies adjourned to meet next month at the home of Mrs. Cotton.

The History club will meet Monday with the director for the next year, Mrs. H. W. Williams, to arrange their program for next year's study.

The Better Halves met with Mrs. A. A. Hunt at the home of her mother, Mrs. Steinfeld. The usual chatter and stitches were exchanged, varied somewhat by the presence of some junior members. After a luncheon of salad and ices the club departed with many expressions of delight at the pleasant time spent, which is to be repeated next week at the home of Mrs. Sam Triplett. The guests present were Mrs. Harvey Cole and son, Mrs. Fred Martin, Stanley, Parks, Triplett, Malcolm Brown, Hoete, Hubbard and daughter, Walton, Klein and daughter and Miss Ida Steinfeld.

Mrs. Bacon Saunders, the general chairman for the State Federation meeting which is to convene in Fort Worth on November 19 to 23, next, called the chairman of the several committees together

Saturday morning. The reason for the ladies getting to work so early is the earnestness of their purpose of having all plans perfected before the heat of summer, so in the fall the plans so matured can be executed with dispatch.

All musical clubs of the city will be called upon to assist in entertaining and are requested in their practice to keep this in view. At this time it is the desire to have a musical evening given by local talent entirely.

Mrs. Denizen, the national president, and Mrs. Pennybacker, the state president, will be here, with about three hundred delegates--women from all parts of Texas, women of culture and brains. Fort Worth's club women wish to make this the best federation meeting the state has had, and at the same time to honor its talented daughters.

The merchants will be asked to decorate. The Christian Tabernacle will be the place of the meeting, which will be suitably decorated. Lunches will be served there each day to the delegates and visitors to the convention.

On Thursday, which is the third day of the convention, no business or public entertainments will be given, as Mrs. Pennybacker desires to be enabled to visit the public schools and kindergartens and the domestic science room, and have the club women of the state see the workings of these different institutions. This will be the only day for private entertaining. Hostesses for this day must notify Mrs. Winfield Scott, chairman of the entertainment committee. The state secretary will send notices regarding all hotels, boarding houses and their rates.

The Children of the Revolution held a meeting with the president, Mrs. Klein, on Thursday afternoon and discussed ways and means to make the work of the society interesting. They will give a series of entertainments and it is hoped that all who are eligible will attend the next regular meeting to be held the third Thursday in June.

Yesterday evening at their home on Cannon avenue, Miss Mary and C. C. French, Jr., were delightfully surprised by thirty-five of their young friends, who took possession and were entertained with flinch and other games. Miss Mary and brother leave this week for Missouri to visit their uncle, W. C. Bronaugh, at his country home near Clinton, and the party, which was a complete surprise, was arranged by Miss Virginia Logan as a means of bidding their host and hostess farewell and wishing them a pleasant trip. At the flinch table Virginia Rossington won first prize for the girls, which was a beautiful and dainty fan, and Will Stripling won the first prize for the boys, a game of flinch.

Jaws

Tightly Locked From Nervous Spasms. Physicians Could Not Prevent Fits. Dr. Miles' Nerve Cure My Wife.

Dr. Miles' Nerve Cure has been successfully tried in thousands of cases of nervous disorders, but never has it made a better record than when used in the treatment of fits or spasms. Thousands of testimonials prove this, and in nearly every instance the writer has stated that the fits ceased after the first dose of Nerve Cure was given. The statement is repeated in the following:

"Seven years ago my wife commenced having spasms or fits and I called in my home physician and he said she was paralyzed. He rubbed her with salt water and gave her calomel and she eventually got some better, but in a short time she had another attack. She was confined to her bed for three months and the doctor could not help her. She had fits frequently, sometimes very severe. Her hands would cramp so we could not open them and she finally got so her jaws would become locked. Finally I saw the doctor was doing her no good and ordered a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve. She received so much benefit from the first bottle that I got some more. She has taken a number of bottles but has never had a fit since taking the first dose. She also thinks very highly of Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and is never without them. If there is any way of making this testimonial stronger do so because of the good the Dr. Miles Restorative Nerve did my wife."—WM. Y. ALLEN, P. M., Elkville, Miss.

wherefore dost thou weep?" to which the victim replied, "I weep when I think of poor uncle, who died only a few weeks ago."

There was silence for a time between these two Redskins, and the general talk of the dinner continued. The Indian who had seen his brother weep, and had been noticed that he had taken a large spoonful of this yellow mixture, followed his example and swallowed a quantity of it. He, too, like his brother, showed no signs of pain, but he could not help the water coming to his eyes. The first Indian saw him take the mustard, and was waiting to see if his brother would suffer as he had done, and was not surprised to see the tears come. But, however, he said, "Brother, wherefore dost thou weep?" and the other replied, "I weep because thou didst not die when thy uncle did."

PECULIAR BUT FATAL.

The following coroner's verdict was recently rendered in one of the bountiful cases of the city. The body, seen, heard and inspected the evidence adduced in the premises, I do find that the true and lawful name of said person is, as above given, to wit: Andrew Mitz, that his age at the time of his death was fifty-three years, five feet and ten inches high, black hair and dark complexion, and that he came to his death as follows: After having the proper witnesses, which was a son of his gone, I find that on the 14th day of February, A. D. 1903, and about 3 o'clock p. m. Mr. Mitz having seen some water in his cellar thought he would walk out to the end of the cellar drain, which was perhaps a hundred yards away. After seeing the water coming out of the tile apparently alright, upon looking around he saw a rabbit sitting and went to the house after his gun. So he went back and just before entering the house thought he would take the loaded shell from the gun, when by some means the gun went off. It kicked back and the stock of the gun hit him in the groin causing a severe morerage. He managed to get into the house and took his bed and died from the effects about 30 hours later. The accident was peculiar but fatal.

WHY AN INDIAN WEPT.

Many years ago in Philadelphia William Penn gave a large dinner, which was attended by a number of Indians. In the middle of the dinner a Redskin, seeing a large pot of yellow mustard before him, and not knowing what it was, put his spoon in it and swallowed a whole spoonful.

It is well known that it is against the Indian nature to show any sign of pain or discomfort, and, consequently, got a muscle in his face moved. But, however, the effects of the mustard made tears come to his eyes and trickle down his cheeks. Seeing this, an Indian on the opposite side of the table said, "Brother, the effects of the mustard made tears come to his eyes and trickle down his cheeks. Seeing this, an Indian on the opposite side of the table said, "Brother,

PEACE'S PRESENCE MAKES THINGS GAY

No Sign of War Will Make the Present London Season One of Brilliant Gayety—Rainy Spring Mars Beauty of West End—Famous Men Have Bright Daughters

BY PAUL LAMBETH (Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, May 23.—With the beginning of May, the "London season" starts in earnest, and society people are now flocking back to town in ever-increasing numbers.

The opera and the great art exhibitions have opened their doors, and are crowded daily and nightly by all that is noblest, smartest and wealthiest among the population of Great Britain. The weather was only decent, instead of being dull and damp when it isn't pouring torrents, the appearance of the West End of the town would be as bright and animated as it always is during the season, when the streets are filled with carriages and motors, lords and ladies in bright raincoat promenade in the park, and the mansions of the great are decked with flowers on every window sill and balcony.

The season of 1903 will be a brilliant one, for more than one reason. In the first place, it is the first one free from the incubus of war.

Secondly, though taxation is still heavy, the concession made by the chancellor of the exchequer to the wealthy class in taking four pence of the income tax will doubtless cause a freer circulation of money.

West End tradesmen are looking forward to the season's business in a more hopeful spirit than they have for the last three years.

Miss Ellen Terry's recent appearance after a long absence from London and a venture of her own independent Sir Henry Irving, has directed fresh interest to her personality.

Her unique hobby of collecting cottages or other people collect stamps or coins is one of the most remarkable manifestations of her artistic temperament.

When in the course of her travels she comes across a picturesque country cottage for disposal, Miss Terry acquires it.

Her various country homes are with the exception of her cottage at Winchester, Sussex, which has been in her possession nearly twelve years, comparatively new acquisitions.

Vine Cottage, Kingston Vale, only seven miles from Hyde Park corner, was bought in 1899, and during the summer Miss Terry drives down there from the theater of her own night.

Another of her favorite homes is a farm house at Small Hythe, Kent. It is one of the finest examples of homely Tudor architecture in England and has been rescued from decay and turned into a fascinating dwelling house.

PAINTERS' DAUGHTERS. "The remarkable Daughters of Famous Men," would make a good magazine article.

There are plenty of examples to be found, and the subject is a fascinating one. Miss Dorothy Menpes, the 15-year-old artist's daughter, who writes the text for her father's books of drawings, has already been mentioned in these letters.

Another painter's daughter who is making a name for herself with her pen is Miss Laurence Alma-Tadema. She is a strikingly handsome girl, as was shown by a fine portrait of her by the Hon. John Collier exhibited at the Royal Academy a year or two ago.

She has just published a new book of verse, dealing with child-life and child-thoughts in a way that has gained for her the good opinions of the reviewers.

Some clever short stories have also appeared in the magazines from her pen, and she has also developed the dramatic gift in a remarkable degree.

EMPLOYER'S UNION

Movement Among Those Using Union Labor Growing In Strength

WATSON AT WASHINGTON They Will Keep Men to Look After Their Interests in All Legislative Matters

NEW YORK, May 23.—A meeting of the executive committee of the national commission of Manufacturers has been held in this city, but beyond announcements of the selection of committees to arrange for the furtherance of the objects of the association in its fight against labor, no formal statement has been made of what is done. It is known, however, that sub-committees representing widely diversified industries were appointed to go to work systematically all over the country to watch employers' that special steps are to be taken to engage eminent legal boys and the activity of walking delegates, while at the same time none but cordial men will be expressed for the laboring men themselves.

RESOLUTION. Resolved, That the secretary of this association be empowered to develop sources of information by which he shall be enabled to keep in the closest touch with all proposed legislation affecting the interests of manufacturers in the several states, and that he be given discretionary power to call this to the attention of employers and manufacturers in any state if in his judgment the rights and interests of such employers and manufacturers shall be affected by such proposed legislation.

TO WATCH WASHINGTON. This was understood to signify that the sharpest sort of watch is to be maintained at the national capital at Washington as well as at the different state capitals.

MAKING A HERO OF THE NEGRO ORATOR. NEW HAVEN, May 23.—Will Pickens, the Yale student who won the Ten Eyck prize in the leading oratorical contest of the year, has received an offer of financial assistance from Mrs. Douglas Robinson of New York city, sister of President Roosevelt. Pickens went to Newport to speak last week and after his oration Miss Lucy Giles, a millionaire's daughter, was so deeply affected that she stuck a diamond pin in his coat.

BIG FIRMS INTERESTED. Besides these firms the executive committee at large as represented through these concerns among others: The United States Glass company of Pittsburg, by Daniel C. The Sons' Ball At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, May 23.—The auditorium of the fair grounds was given over to the sons tonight for their ball in honor of the heralds, sponsors, maids of honor, and to which were invited the veterans and all visiting daughters and friends. The result was an attendance that staggered even the resident of New Orleans accustomed to crowds. It is said that there are one hundred and fifty thousand visitors here. Of that number the management of the ball believe 149,999 were in the auditorium. There were no ropes around the floor and all the thousands began to make themselves at home wherever there was room to stand. When the hour for the grand march arrived the problem of getting the thousands from the floor became not a problem, but a desperate condition. The young chairman mopped his brow, he called upon his assistants and they set up a series of sh's that might have conquered Banquo's ghost but had no apparent effect on the crowds who continued to talk and stand where the commander-in-chief should lead.

Continued orders for every body to get off the floor only brought out more perspiration from the chairman's brow.

Finally he came upon the scene with a squad of policemen and then the grand march got under way very much like a familiar procession moving up Main or Houston street with the mounted police to clear the way.

There were few handsome gowns worn by the women. The jammed corridors of the St. Charles hotel, the street cars, streets and restaurants had suggested to the owners of handsome frocks that a battle for dancing space at this function (a committee of clever women decided that this was a function) would not add to the attractiveness of the garment in its future career. Therefore simple frocks were the rule.

This was the first opportunity the visiting girls had to meet the New Orleans men. There had been several enquiries as to the whereabouts of the local beaux, or sons. Many sponsors and maids of honor of states and divisions as well as important camps were left to see the sights in groups of themselves, unattended, unescorted.

The conspicuous absence of the New Orleans man might have been depressing were it not that the new girl, even the sponsor girl, can find much in herself to entertain in lieu of beaux.

FILIGREE BALL

"As pretty a tale of detective work as ever was written."

If you have anything particular to do at a certain hour—such as catching trains, &c.—and you still have a little while left on your hands, don't read THE FILIGREE BALL. If you do, you'll miss that train.

But at the Sons' ball there were lots of men and many of them were trying with all their might and main to dance.

The girls were angels and took them according to their intentions rather than their achievements.

Some handsomely gowned and evidently popular women came carrying long stemmed American beauties or bride roses. As the dance got under way all over the hall these bouquets held up high over the heads of the dancer, were eloquent comments on arrangements that were well just to think about, but not for publication.

The grand march was led by Commander-in-Chief Stone with Miss Randle, the chief sponsor.

Robert E. L. Costan, who has been appointed on staff of commander-in-chief, was next in line.

Miss Van Zandt, sponsor for the Trans-Mississippi Department, was commented on as one of the striking beauties on the floor. She wore a white chiffon with shirred skirt and bodice.

Miss McLean, sponsor for Texas, General Van Zandt's staff, was one of the popular sponsors, having always a large following of gallants, young and old. She wore a mousseline embroidered all over in pinks; decollete with ropes of pearls.

Miss Scott of McKinney, a brunette of pronounced type, wore a dream of a frock, white shirred chiffon over pink taffeta with decollete of chiffon roses.

Miss Sims, Waxahachie, a robe of Brussels lace over white taffeta; decollete; pearl necklace.

Miss Elizabeth Tarlton, white point d'esprit with silver sequins, horizontal folds of peau de soie; corals.

Miss Eva Mae Scott, dotted chiffon with Oriental lace bodice, hip yoke and skirt panels; colonial coiffure; pearls.

Miss Frances Yeates, point d'esprit tucked with chiffon ruchings, Duchesse bertha and pearls.

Miss Virginia Ball, white mousseline de soie with escurial lace flounce and bodice.

Miss Carrie Keller, embroidered net over taffeta, flowing sleeves, decollete.

Mrs. W. P. Lane, white chiffon with American beauty sash and bodice trimmings.

NUDE BOY FOUND ON OIL MAN'S ESTATE

Discovery of Unknown Lad Is Surrounded With Mystery—Boy Loses Consciousness When Found by the Police.

LARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 23.—A boy apparently about 10 years old, nude and asleep, has been found on the Rockefeller estate. He is a foreigner and so far no one has been able to understand him. His body was badly blistered from the sun, to which it appears to have been exposed for hours.

William Hutton of Sleepy Hollow first saw the boy and promptly notified the police. Soon after they arrived the boy lost consciousness. There was no clothing anywhere around, and what became of the lad's garments the police cannot imagine. They sent word to the Tarrytown hospital, and he was taken there, where he was revived. Nobody has been reported missing.

BULL MOOSE OUT FOR A MERRY TIME

Starts to Paint the Town of Sangerville, Maine, and Succeeds Reasonably Well in His Purpose.

SANGERVILLE, Me., May 23.—The big bull Moose, which has been prowling around this neighborhood, has made a call in this village. Fences were knocked down, lawns torn up and henrocks were scattered through in a way which looked as if a cyclone had struck town. Bunches of Moose hair were found which he left behind, which now are held as souvenirs by Nimrod's future use.

The Moose made his first appearance Thursday afternoon in the field of G. W. Morgan near the main traveled road from Gifford to Foxcroft, where he was seen by persons driving by. Their appearance giving no concern, as it is the closed season and he seemed to know if, for he stared them out of countenance. Some think the forest fires in the upper part of the country drove him this way.

CLOCK

Four Hundred Years Old Keeps Good Time

A clock four hundred years old keeping good time and with a pipe organ attachment that plays eight different airs, none of which has ever been heard before by any living musician, is in the possession of a gentleman in New York city. The instrument requires more care than any piece of mechanism and death is often the result of some simple mistake because the symptoms are misunderstood. Dr. Burkert's Vegetable Compound will expel the poisons from the system and fill the veins with rich, red, healthy blood. You can get thirty days' treatment of this great medicine at any drugstore for 25c.

THE EXPENSES OF A BRITISH OFFICER

The Commission which has been inquiring into the question of the private expenditures of subalterns in the British army has made its report, and with its report has made several recommendations which may or may not be adopted. It finds that under present conditions, the initial outlay for a subaltern in a regiment of the line averages $1,000. The annual charges which he must meet average $750, to meet which he has $450 pay, leaving a balance of $300 to come out of his private income. In the cavalry these figures become, respectively, $3,000, $1,400 and $500. It is pointed out, however, that in the infantry many officers reduce the initial outlay to $500, while in the cavalry it is more often $5,000. From year to year an infantry officer needs from $500 to $750 private income, and the cavalry, at the most conservative estimate, $1,500. Of course, some regiments, owing to the scale in which their living is pitched, are much more expensive than others. In the "crack" cavalry regiments a private income of from $2,000 to $3,500 is absolutely essential to the subaltern. The Commission has recommended that the war of face field kit, furniture for home stations, at a nominal rent, contribute toward mess, support the bands and in the cavalry supply the chargers. This would mean a saving to infantry subalterns of $500 in the initial expense and $45 or $40 a year. In the cavalry the government's supplying chargers, saddlery, stable gear and grooms would mean a saving of $1,500 in the initial expense and about $900 a year.

Actresses Should Not Marry

By Max Orell

(Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)
(Great Britain Rights Reserved.)
"ARE you married?" once asked an English magistrate of an actress who had been summoned for assault. She had flung a pot of cold cream in the face of her manager. "No, sir," replied the lively lady, "nor do I wish to be."
"That is fortunate for your husband," remarked the Judge, who probably had Irish blood in his veins. The actress, I do not mean the mere woman on the stage, is made by her profession unfit for matrimony. If she is fit for it, she is not and never will be a great actress.
I know that you will at once tell me that Mr. and Mrs. Kendal and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude (Winifred Emery) have been married a good many years and lived most happy lives together. I even easily imagine that you may be able to name others; but I will still maintain that they are only exceptions, and you will please remark that in the exceptions I have named, the husbands have, as actors, quite as high a reputation as their wives, which may be the very explanation of those exceptions.

The actress is a heroine, partly owing to the roles that she plays, and partly to talent which she displays in them, and no heroine can be a good wife to a man unless he be a hero himself. A woman can never drop her love, and she never does; so she gives it only to a man she can look up to.
But there are a great many other reasons.
An actress wants freedom of action. She cannot be bothered by household duties, hampered by the bringing up of children, mindful of the attentions required, or at least expected, by a husband.
Her soul and her very nervous system have to be stirred by the whole gamut of sentiments, sensations and even passions, or she will never be able to stir

The actor may be a hero to the susceptible matinee the soul of her audience.
Can you imagine Lady Macbeth, Camille, Fedora, Phedre, La Tosca, Brunnhilde, played by young, innocent maids, or by attentive and devoted wives who mend their husband's stockings and make their own puddings? Perhaps you will tell me that Mrs. Kendal does all that.
Since we have mentioned the name of that great actress, I will quote her and repeat what she said to me one day: "It is a general rule with me never to engage married couples in my company; whenever I have done so I have had trouble. I want both men and women to act in my plays without having to mind what their wives or husbands may look like in the wings while they are making love on the stage."
The husband of an actress is nine times out of ten an intolerable bore. He is jealous when she rehearses, he is jealous when she plays, he is jealous when the audience applauds her, he is jealous when she receives bouquets, he is jealous and suspicious if the manager increases her salary, he is jealous during the intervals, he makes scenes to her when she returns home, and if he does not, he sulks, which is worse, because the man who consumes his own smoke is far less bearable than the one who "has it out" and has done with it. Even if he is not all that, he has that feeling, which we can quite easily understand, that his wife belongs to the authors of the play, to the manager of the theater, to the public, to the critics, in fact, to everybody except himself.

No, actresses should certainly not marry, unless they marry actors; but as a rule they do not and will not marry actors.
The girl, who sees in him Othello, Hamlet, Romeo, Henry

V. D'Artagnan or some other romantic swashbuckler; but he is no hero to the woman who dwells in the dressing room next to his, and who knows that he is putting on his wig, smearing his face with grease paint, making up his eyes and covering his face with violet powder with a puff, which he handles in lady-like manner.
I have never met an actress of standing who had admiration for actors as men, much as they might praise them as members of their profession.
Another thing. The public takes a greater personal interest in a woman who is not married than in one who is. Actresses know this so well that, when they are married, they insist on having their names put on the bills as Miss So-and-So. When they do not, managers make them do it.
For art's sake, for her own sake, and remembering the remark of the magistrate, I will add, for her husband's sake, an actress should not marry.

The Dog: His Periodicity: His Waywardness By Ambrose Bierce

(Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)
(Great Britain Rights Reserved.)
THE voice of the mad dog is heard in the land, the moan of his victim is borne upon the breeze. This forehanded animal has begun early this year. Commonly, he times his activities with an intelligent reference to the hoary tradition that the star that rules his destiny is Sirius, the "dog star," and that he goes mad only when it is in apparent conjunction with the sun. Now, however, he seems, like death, to have all seasons for his own, and to like it better that way. Anyhow, the newspapers that bloom in the Spring are full of his exploits. All the days of the calendar are dog-days. It cannot be too frequently repeated that the dog is man's best friend, albeit his friendship, like other good things, comes high. In this country alone more persons every year are killed and wounded by dogs than fell in the battle of Gettysburg. True, they are mostly women and children.

With due deference to cynophile sentiment, it is submitted that the mortality is excessive. If it could be reduced, even at the cost of the lives of a few dogs, there are few, it is thought, who would clamor for its restoration to the present rate, and these could probably be pacified by a judicious distribution of political preferments. Your true caniolator is zealous, but not unreasonable.
In deference to the mad dog, it may be said that in comparison with the ravages of his distinguished brother, the dog not as yet mad, his own are trivial and unimportant. His bite is of a superior quality, but delivered with so blind and random a ferocity that it falls to effect the maximum of evil. A lamp post, a horse, even another dog, is about as likely to incur it as the toothsome babe, the opportune woman or the fat citizen absorbed in contemplation of his identity. With the compositus dog it is different. He wastes no virus and miscees no possibility of badness. Moreover, he is not content with a single bite, knowing that it is seldom fatal. He "mangles" as he preys, and his victim rests in pieces. His is altogether the finer performance, and it supplies the advocates of canine free will with a plausible argument against the curmudgeon theory that all anthropophagous dogs are mad; and if not mad, why restrain them?

Even so these amiable gentlemen will, it is hoped, admit that their fanged friends do sometimes go too far. A few days ago the newspapers were reporting without expressed approval the case of a man in an adjacent town who was set upon, to his surprise, no doubt, by a wandering band of twenty five (25) dogs, and but for the intervention of his neighbors would indubitably have been killed and eaten. As it was, he escaped with terrible wounds, the dogs with none at all. It was stated that the other men of that town had sworn to exterminate all objectionable dogs within their jurisdiction, which means, probably, that each man favored extermination of every dog except his own.

The significance of the incident is found in its hint of a new departure in methods of the chase. This is the age of combination. Apparently the domestic dog has learned that in union there is strength. The possibility is disquieting. It will do us no good to declare that such combinations as harassed the luckless gentleman mentioned are "in restraint of trade." It is doubtful, indeed, if they are, for it is not seen that they create a monopoly in human fat and lean, or subtract anything from the power and liberty of the individual snapdog doing business on his own account.

The Evolution of the Sleeve By Max O'Rell

(Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)
(Great Britain Rights Reserved.)
WHEN I was a little boy, women wore crinolines. They were so proud of them that men began to hope that the fashion would last six months at least. The women, in fact, declared that the crinolines gave such a fine opportunity for the display of shawls and mantels that they would never get out of fashion. However, they did, and were replaced by crinolineettes in the shape of bells. Six crinolines on one side of an omnibus was a sight for the gods. In the ballroom men could not get at their partners. Yes, there were many drawbacks, but still it was fashion and women murmured not. Women are docile creatures. They do not obey their husbands, but if a dressmaker persuades them that the new fashion is to wear a deformity, they obey and look pleasant.

I remember the bustle. Oh, the bustle! What became of the divine figure of women? Why, if any child had been born like that, he would have been straightway sent to some orthopedic hospital to have his hip bones reset and put in the right place! But the evolution of the sleeves for the last ten years! What phases they have gone through! First of all we saw them go straight up each side of the head. Not unlike wings from the front. No picture eats in those days! The hats had to be narrow, so as not to interfere with the tops of the sleeves.

After that we saw the narrow sleeve that could be taken off with as much difficulty as an umbrella sheath. Then we saw the balloons. I saw them on an interesting occasion. It was at a women's-rioters' meeting, presided over by Mrs. Devereux Blake. War was declared against men. The women assured their hearers that they were going to stand no more nonsense, that at last they were prepared to stand shoulder to shoulder. "How are you going to do it?" cried a voice, evidently not in sympathy with the object of the meeting: "look at your sleeves!" The audience looked at the occupants of the platform and roared.

This year the width is at the bottom of the sleeves. Is it pretty and graceful? No, but it is the fashion, and you have to wear your sleeves like that or run the risk of looking as if you were wearing a dress which you wore last year, which would be almost enough to make you boycotted by all your friends and acquaintances.

Next year, I am told, the width will be in the middle. It will be uglier still, but you, will hear no objection on the part of the women. They will wear them without a smile, and in duty bound. One day some fashionable dressmaker will discover that the arm of a woman is a thing of beauty, and will make sleeves that will show it in its delicacy and gracefulness of lines.
I thought I heard some of my readers exclaim that women are frivolous. Not a bit of it.

IT IS THE ROCKY ROAD THAT LEADS TO THE MOUNT OF SUCCESS!

(Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.)
THE young man about to begin his life's career sees before him two roads—the one steep, rocky and uninviting, the other smooth, easy and attractive.
Which way lies success?
One road says: "Take me. I am wide and straight, with no hills to climb, with no stones to bruise the feet. The sunshine falls upon me, and flowers bloom along the way."

The other says nothing; but grim and silent, leaves you to make your own choice.
Take care, young man, and make the choice that shall be wise!
The way of sunshine and flowers is open to you, but what you want is success; and it is not that way that success lies.

Take that road, and by and by, at the end of the way, you will find yourself empty-handed and sorrowful.
You will have had much pleasure, perhaps; but the prize you started out to win will be missed.
It is along the other and less inviting way that success is to be found.
Is that way full of difficulties? Those difficulties, if bravely met, will make you strong.

Out of those difficulties, if you have the right sort of timber in you, you will coin your fortune.
Push on! and the stones in your path will turn to gold.
Push on! and out of your weariness shall come the joy of victory.
Weariness? Victory means weariness, over and over again.

Bruises? Disappointments? They are the price that you have to pay for success.
The great ones of the earth have reached their greatness only after much hard climbing.
It was the climbing that made them great.
The easy road ends in failure. It is the rocky road that leads to the Mount of Success.

The THEATER

Perhaps the most astonishing thing to a stranger in New York is the prevalence of general interest in theatrical affairs. In other cities, the theater is an intrinsic and powerful part of the life of the people. This is undoubtedly because the metropolis is the home of almost all of the stage celebrities, who only pay occasional and short visits to other cities. Here, too, the great amusement enterprises have their inception, are boomed and enjoy prolonged "runs."

Owing to the predominance of musical comedy on the stage at present, there is, perhaps, no more interesting place in New York than the reception rooms of one of the big music publishers. Here one sees people of whom he has hitherto only caught an occasional, hazy glimpse over the foot-lights or in the pages of the magazines. At this time of the year the music publishers are very busy in connection with the new spring productions, for he it understood that this publishing has evolved from the mere publishing of songs and instrumental numbers into one of the most important factors in the theatrical world, for it is really in these homes of harmony that the germ-idea of the great musical productions are nurtured into shape and beauty.

Interesting observer may enjoy in these offices an unheated and impromptu performance of celebrities. In one room, you may see Victor Herbert, the famous director of the Pittsburgh orchestra, excitedly discussing plans for his new extravaganza, "The Babes in Toy Land" with Manager Handlin, the young manager of the Chicago opera house, and Julian Mitchell whose name stands for everything that is bright, original and progressive in stage direction.

There, too, Joe Weber and Lon Field, the famous exploiters of burlesque, may be seen exchanging witticisms with Gustav Luders, who has probably dropped in to talk about the business affairs of the "Prince of Pilsen," which he leaves in his publishers' hands during his absence abroad.

In the ladies' parlor one may, perhaps, see Lottie Gilson, Paula Edwards, of Fay Templeton who has come for some extra verses for the popular "Dugaboo Man" song.

In this cosmopolitan crowd one may notice Bert Williams, the famous "Jonah Man," talking with some dignified "legitimate" star, who has dropped in to hear the incidental music composed for a new dramatic production.

It gives the stranger a pleasing shock of surprise to have pointed out to him composers who have written songs of world-wide popularity, such men as John Bratton, whose "Sunshine of Paradise Alley" and "I Love You in the Same Old Way" are known wherever there are voices to sing them.

There "the cat" may look unrebuked "at the king" of musical comedy productions, Henry Savage, while he is engaged in earnest conversation with Henry W. Blossom, the author of the famous book of "Checkers," who has written the libretto of a musical comedy called "The Lieutenant Commander" with Alfred Robyn of "Answer" fame which Mr. Savage is shortly to produce.

At the piano, most probably, a dainty little sourette can be heard "carolling some popular song like "White the Moon Rhines Bright," with her eyes turned often in the direction of the great manager whom she wishes to impress. While at another piano, a matinee idol is posturing through "I'm Yours, Sweetheart, Forever," or some such sentimental ballad.

A feeling of good fellowship pervades the whole place, and the stranger who is so fortunate as to have been guided to this theatrical rendezvous, can spend a most interesting morning, and is liable to go away patting himself on the back at having seen an all-star performance entirely free of charge.

MISS DALE

Who appeared as "Infelice" at Wheat's Roof Garden the past week, and won much praise for her excellent portrayal of this difficult part.

WHEAT'S ROOF GARDEN
The past week amusement lovers received a surprise at the Roof Garden, where they had the pleasure of enjoying two plays that for artistic merit would be hard to duplicate. The Curtiss Comedy Company presented for the first half of the week the sensational comedy, "In His Power," and for the last three nights they produced the four-act society drama "Infelice."

The Curtiss Comedy Company thus far has exceeded all expectations, and many who went to the Roof Garden just to see what was "doing" came away highly satisfied that Manager Wheat has secured a company of players that will make the garden a popular resort during the warm months.

Miss Dale, who played the part of Infelice last week, is one of the most pleasing women on the stage. She is very popular and the many floral tokens given her the past week proved that her acting has secured her many admirers.

W. S. Hamner, a Texas boy, is winning praise at each performance. Mr. Hamner is one of the most accomplished actors ever seen with a popular priced organization, and many artists that hold higher positions are not as capable of giving satisfaction. His work in every play so far presented has been of the most pleasing nature, and his appearance as Ned Porter in Infelice won all sorts of admiration.

The balance of the company is also entitled to praise.
Tomorrow night the entire company will be seen in the great sensational melo-drama, "A Gambler's Wife." This play has been accorded unstinted praise elsewhere and it will be sure to give entire satisfaction here. New specialties will be introduced between the acts, and Mr. Morrison will sing some of his best songs.

DISCOURTESY ON THE SONS' PART

Two Unpleasant Incidents of the New Orleans Reunion Excite Comment—Other States Jealous of Texas

(By Staff Correspondent.)
NEW ORLEANS, May 20.—The Sons of Veterans have today given illustration of the new Southern manhood. It may or it may not be in keeping with the new South and its newer ideals.

In a meeting of the representatives of the organization, delegates from Louisiana, Alabama and Maryland refused to listen to a song by the chief sponsor, even after she had been introduced by the commander in chief and the band had begun the accompaniment. The incident has few parallels, certainly none will be found in the records of the fathers whose deeds these sons proudly claim as inspiration for emulation.

CAUSE SLIGHT.
It was caused by so small a matter that amusement is added to condemnation. A vote had been taken on a motion for each camp to pledge a definite sum for the memorial to the Confederate woman.

The motion originated with the Fort Worth camp, was supported by other Texas camps. It was opposed by Louisiana, most vociferously by Beauregard camp, the representative of New Orleans. The vote was lost and was so announced by the commander-in-chief. The Beauregard representatives it seemed, did not hear it. At this point the chief sponsor for the Sons was introduced by Commander Stone as having come to favor the convention with "The Bonnie Blue Flag." The representatives of Beauregard camp, followed by members from Alabama and Maryland, sprang to their feet and with incredible vigor shouted that nothing should take place until the result of the vote was heard.

Bedlam took possession of the hall, the young lady retired from the stage, the chair once more announced the vote lost, Beauregard camp still could not hear the result and continued its clamor. The third announcement of the vote satisfied Beauregard camp and the chief sponsor was allowed to sing "The Bonnie Blue Flag."

ANOTHER INCIDENT.
In less than fifteen minutes these same militant sons refused to accept a donation of $250 from Mrs. Rosenberg of Galveston, who desired in this way to honor her mother and sisters who with herself had been prisoners of the Federal authorities during the war.

The logic of the refusal was that the memorial was to be an offering of love and veneration from the sons, that the money should be raised by the sons, and that they should not allow the memorial to be built by the women whose virtues, trials and sufferings it was designed to honor.

The public can take any view of the attitude of the sons, but it should be said that the camps that howled loudest when the chief sponsor was trying to sing, were the camps that protested to the extent of vehemence against allowing the sons to let down the bars of self respect by accepting from women contributions to the memorial fund.

JEALOUS OF TEXAS.
The preponderance of Fort Worth and Texas in votes is not looked upon with favor by the other states. It will take time to get the rest of the world to realize that Texas has to be reckoned with on many counts besides mere size. And after the realization comes reconciliation, a matter of still greater difficulty.

WE FURNISH ONE-TENTH OF INTERNATIONAL COMMERCE
That the $400,000,000 worth of manufactured goods which the United States annually contributes to the commerce of the world constitutes one-tenth the total amount of manufactures entering into international commerce is the estimate of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics, which places the total at $4,000,000,000.

The rapid growth in the exportation of manufactures from the United States has led to the preparation of some most interesting statistics on the subject. It is shown that the exportation of manufactured goods has increased more than 100 per cent since 1895. The United Kingdom supplies $1,000,000,000, or 25 per cent; Germany supplies 20 per cent, France about 12 per cent, the United States 10 per cent and Netherlands about 6 per cent. Exportation of manufactures exceeds importation of manufactures in the United Kingdom, Germany, France, the United States, Austria-Hungary, Belgium and Switzerland, respectively, while in all other countries of the world importation of manufactures exceeds exportation of manufactures. Manufactures form 80 per cent of the exports of Switzerland, 78 per cent of the exports of the United Kingdom and Germany, respectively, 62 per cent of those of France, 50 per cent of those of Belgium, 48 per cent of those of Austria-Hungary, 47 per cent of those of Japan, 41 per cent of those of Sweden and 30 per cent of those of the United States.—New York Tribune.

PARADE CLOSERS REUNION
NEW ORLEANS, May 22.—The last feature of the Confederate reunion was the great parade held this afternoon and which was scheduled to start promptly at 2 o'clock from the intersection of St. Charles and Canal streets. The entire line of march was five miles in length and as the parade was conducted beneath the hot sun a few of the veterans found the way long. The great majority, however, finished the march.

The escort was formed by the National Guard of Louisiana, Gen. J. B. Levee acting as chief marshal.

ELECTRIC STORMS NEAR CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, May 22.—Reports today show how much damage was done last night in different parts of the Ohio valley by cloudbursts and lightning. No lives were lost and nobody was seriously injured but many people were snooked by the lightning that struck houses, bars and telegraph poles. All electric lines are still badly disabled. A car on the Millcreek Valley line was struck by lightning and set on fire at Carthage and the passengers narrowly escaped death, all being unconscious for a short time. Another car was set on fire. There was much damage done at Delhi, Home City and Fearbank. Many telephone and trolley poles are down.

RETIRED GENERAL KILLS A FARMER

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., May 21.—A special to the News from Jasper, Tenn., says: General W. E. Donaldson, former attorney general of this circuit, shot and killed Thomas Cheat, a farmer residing in Marion county, Tenn., near Graham's Crossing yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The men were returning home from Chattanooga when it is alleged Cheat became very insulting in his actions and General Donaldson pulled his revolver and shot him three times, all shots taking effect in vital spots. Donaldson is one of the prominent men in this section. He is about sixty-three years old.

Some Easy Exercises That Will Add Grace to Any Form

ADVICE TO... THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am fifteen years old and considered very good looking. For the last year I have "kept company" with a young man about two years older. He is very homely. I know he thinks a great deal of me, but in spite of his good qualities I cannot overcome my aversion to his looks.

Now what do you think I had better do? Break off the match, as my parents advise, or continue to go with him.

"DOLLY," I think you are a very vain little girl, far too young to be thinking of love and marriage. When you are a few years older you will realize that looks are not everything.

The young man in question may be a very fine character in spite of his appearance. But love and lovers out of your mind for a few years and then, perhaps, you will be more sensible.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am in love with a young man who tells me he dearly loves me and that he intends to marry me. He has very nice ways and manners. He has promised me twice to take me to a theater, but has disappointed me on both occasions. For my birthday he gave me $1 but borrowed it back again before he went home that night. In fact he has promised me several presents, but none of them have as yet come to light. To offset all this, however, he tells me the nicest things, and apparently is as sincere in his love for me and gives me such reasonable and logical excuses for not holding to his promises, that I can't but forgive him. Now kindly tell me what you think of it. I appeal to you, as I have no parents to turn to for advice.

MAGY HUGHES: I think he is a very unreliable young man, and if I were you I would not let myself get too much interested in him. Actions as well as words are necessary to prove friendship and love. He seems very fine so far as mere words go, but falls off woefully when it comes to deeds. My advice would be to have as little as possible to do with him; he is entirely too uncertain.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been keeping company with a young lady for three years, and in that time we have had a number of pleasant times together up to about a year ago, when I was called away to Chicago. When I returned I noticed that she had grown cold. When I told her about it she said it wasn't so. I have a good position and every intention of making her my wife, but what I want you to tell me is should I marry her if she remains so cold to me?

H. L. K.: If the girl remains cold in her manner to you I most certainly would come to a perfect understanding with her before I married her. Perhaps it is only your imagination, but in any case do not marry until you are satisfied she really loves you. A loveless marriage is a sure harbinger of unhappiness.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a young man seventeen years old and I am deeply in love with a young girl of fifteen. We both know of each other's love, but her parents do not like me. Of course I cannot see her as much as I could if I was on good terms with her parents, therefore I am handicapped. Will you please tell me some course to pursue to get on the right side of her parents?

Both you and the girl are entirely too young to be thinking of love for some years yet. Her parents probably are of this opinion, and that may be the reason why they object to your going to the house. The way to get on the right side of her parents is to drop love-making and be satisfied with a healthy boy and girl friendship.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been keeping company with a young man for the past three years and have promised to marry him. But last summer I met another gentleman who I think a great deal more of and would be much happier with, but I do not know what to do. I have no reason at all to give him up, as he does everything in his power for me, only that I love the other one and that he is equally as good. Please do not think me fickle.

DOUBTFUL: I am afraid that I do think you a little bit fickle. You should have been sure of your mind when you accepted the first one; you evidently accepted him without really loving him. The only thing for you to do is to tell your fiance that you do not love him well enough to marry him. But this time be sure of yourself before you enter into an engagement.

Household Hints

A small square of asbestos kept on the ironing board will save the ironing sheet. Two or three tablespoonfuls of kerosene oil in a rainfall of hot water will render easy the washing of mirrors or windows.

Fried fish will be much improved by the addition of a teaspoonful of lemon juice to the fat in which they are fried.

It is said that bleached cloth on account of the sulphur used in whitening it, discolors silver. Eggs for holding silver should be made of unbleached cotton.

Rancid tartare is merely a mayonnaise dressing to which have been added a tablespoonful of capers, a tablespoonful of chopped olives, or pickles, and a tablespoonful of onion juice to a cupful of the liquid.

A cook famous for the snowy appearance of his rice washes the uncooked grains until not a trace of sulphur is left in the water. To two cups of rice he adds a quart of water and cooks it slowly for an hour without stirring.

Health and Beauty

BY LOUISE CHAPPELLE.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I have been thinking of you recently. During the past few months I think a great deal of you. I hope you are well and happy. I have been thinking of you very much lately. I hope you are well and happy. I have been thinking of you very much lately. I hope you are well and happy.

DEAR MISS CHAPPELLE: There are two things I would like very much to have you discuss for the benefit of myself and a few of my friends who asked me to write to you, knowing by experience that you always give the best advice. Please tell us the best manner of steaming the face and the best treatment for rough arms, or goose flesh.

A. G. P.: For steaming the face the most effective and convenient method is the application of cloths wrung out in very hot water, laying these gently over the face when they are steaming hot. The cloths should be replaced frequently, fresh ones quickly replacing those that have cooled a little.

After using the hot cloths massage the skin with a good skin cream. This will aid the relaxing and help distend the ducts.

A glove known as the friction glove is very useful for making rough arms smooth and giving them a healthy, satiny glow. Use the glove immediately after a warm bath.

Goose flesh may be effectively treated by the use of one of these friction gloves in connection with the following ointment, prepared especially for this affection of the flesh:

Boric acid, power, 30 grains; glycerin, 2 fluid ounces; distilled water, 2 1/2 fluid ounces; lanolin anhydrous, 1 av. ounce; paraffin white, 14 av. ounces; oil of roses, 5 drops.

Heat the first three ingredients together until solution is effected. Melt together the lanolin and paraffin; incorporate the solution, by rapid and constant stirring. Then put in all the oils and mix again.

After friction with the glove apply a little of the ointment. Rub it in until no oily substance is left on the surface of the skin.

"Doctor," said the shrewd-looking man, "how many feet of gas does it take to kill a man?"

"That's rather a queer question," said the doctor. "Why do you wish to know?" "One of the guests of my hotel uses enough of it to kill himself, and I want to send in a proper bill to his executors." — Philadelphia Press.
