King Alexander and His Queen Together With Her Brother and Sister, Members of the Ministry and Royal Guard Murdered in Palace at Belgrade

ARMY TAKES POWER IN ITS OWN HANDS

Scandals That Have Stirred the Little Kingdom for Years Are Smothered in Swift and Sudden Outburst by the Soldiers Who Slay All Living Members of Reigning Dynasty and Proclaim a New King

BELGRADE, Servia, June 11.—A military revolution broke out here last night. The troops who revolted under the leadership of Major Angiekovich, surrounded the palace, assassinated King Alexander and Queen Draga and the latter's sister and brother, Niekodem; Premier Markovitch, Ministers Petrovitch and Tudorovics, General Pavlovitch, former minister of war, and some members of the royal guard.

The streets are thronged with the populace, whose actions seem to approve the coup d'etat. M. Protex, the new minister of the interior, was loudly cheered as he drove to the ministry. A. Vakumovics, new prime, belongs to the independent liberal party.

END OF DYNASTY COLOGNE, June 11.—Further telegram from the same source says: The career of Obrenovitch dynasty was crossed in the early hours of this morning. The same day of the year on which Prince Michael was murdered thirty-five years ago, in the park of the Topshider, near Belgrade. Today requiem mass is being sung in memory of Prince Michael, and now the last of his race, together with all connected with the dynasty by his unfortunate marriage, lies in a bier in the palace at Belgrade.

years. He was born in Belgrade in 1846 and married in 1882 to the Princess Zorka, daughter of Prince Nicholas of Montenegro. She died in 1890.

CAUSES LEADING TO THE OUTBREAK

LONDON, June 11.—The Servian minister here said there were many causes leading to the revolution. A large number of the people were greatly dissatisfied with the tendency of King Alexander to eliminate the radical element from the government and by the constant rumors of his intention to appoint Queen Draga's brother, Junjevitza, heir apparent.

In addition to this, the queen was disliked by the people, who were also intensely outraged at the recent suspension of the constitution.

The minister said he did not anticipate that the changes would result in internecine strife or in any real dangers to the country. He pointed out the original

LONDON HEARS NEWS

LONDON, June 11.—Dispatches were received here this morning, confirming the assassination of King Alexander and Queen Draga of Servia, and that three ministers of King Alexander, together with several aide de camps, and Queen Draga's brother, have also been murdered.

SAYS KING SHOT QUEEN

BERLIN, June 11.—The Frankfort Zeitung, in its version of the tragedy at Belgrade last night, says that when the troops entered the royal bedroom King Alexander seized a revolver and shot the queen and then killed himself.

SERVIA'S MURDERED KING

ALEXANDER I. OF SERVIA. Ruler of Servia, who, together with Queen Draga, members of her family and several of his ministers, was assassinated in the palace at Belgrade shortly after midnight by the soldiery.

Karageorge was not a prince. He was a rich mineowner. The father of the new king was made a prince in 1842.

The minister also related a curious incident. He said that a month ago he was present at a clairvoyant's seance, at which a letter written by the murdered king was handed to the clairvoyant, who immediately became violently agitated and proclaimed that King Alexander would be assassinated very shortly and then depicted the scene which appears to have been enacted at the palace in Belgrade during the night.

KINGDOM OF SERBIA

Servia is situated in the Balkan peninsula in southern Europe and contains about twenty thousand square miles. The people are a branch of the Slavonic family. The country became Christianized in the ninth century and became independent in the eleventh. At one time its sovereign conquered nearly all of the Balkan peninsula and threatened Constantinople, but in 1389 the country lost its independence and disappeared from history until the early part of the nineteenth century.

FIRST REPORT

BELGRADE, Servia, June 11.—King Alexander and Queen Draga were shot to death in the royal palace during last night. The deed was carried out by the army. Besides the king and queen, Premier Markovitch and General Petrovitch and former Minister of War Povolitch were shot.

JUST AFTER MIDNIGHT

COLOGNE, June 11.—A private telegram from Belgrade, Servia, states that the army last night proclaimed Peter Kragorogevitch to be king of Servia. The troops immediately surrounded Komar and forced their way into the royal palace, where they assassinated King Alexander and Queen Draga. It is rumored that all of King Alexander's ministers during the past century, is not regarded in diplomatic circles in London as likely to lead to civil war. Stress is laid on the unpopularity of King Alexander since his marriage to Queen Draga. King Alexander's successor, Peter Karageorgevitch, is the son-in-law of the prince of Montenegro, and is regarded as being most acceptable to the people. The universal anxiety of the governments of Europe for peace is advanced as a reason why the Servian situation is not likely to lead to complications. Should, however, these unexpectedly arise, official circles think an Austro-Hungarian army will immediately march into Servia and restore order. This even, however, is considered improbable.

NEWS FROM SERBIA CAUSES GREAT STIR

PARIS, June 11.—The startling announcement of the assassination of the king and queen of Servia has caused a deep sensation here, particularly in governmental circles. The foreign office received early advices from the French minister at Belgrade confirming the Belgrade press dispatches and adding that the city is comparatively quiet this morning, people seeming to accept the proclamation of Prince Karageorgevitch as king. Foreign Minister Delicasse communicated his advices to President Loubet and officials of the foreign office says it is too soon to indicate clearly the effect the situation in Servia will have on the European situation.

Servia's dire disaster has been long impending, the present uprising being due to the antagonism growing out of the propaganda of the pretender, Karageorgevitch. It will be recalled that when the Karageorgevitch dynasty secured a brief rule in 1858 the European powers introduced and established a protectorate and thus terminated that dynasty. Whether there will be similar action by the powers at this time the officials are unwilling to predict, saying the shock of the tragedy is principally occupying attention. It is generally believed the assassinations are a sequel to the king's coup d'etat two months ago when he suspended the con-

BELGRADE, June 11.—As the morning advanced excitement in the streets grew steadily. In spite of the pouring rain thousands of people gathered in the vicinity of the palace. The soldiers have discarded their cockades bearing the late King Alexander's cipher and substituted for it flowers, green twigs and leaves. Bands of young men parade the streets waving flags and shouting "Long live Karageorgevitch!"

HUSBAND'S ELOQUENT PLEA

Such scenes as transpired at 315 East Second street yesterday afternoon are not often written in books and when they are written they seem unreal. It was a drama in real life that had its beginning at Jackson, Miss., May 21, and its culmination in Fort Worth yesterday and all the necessary characters, including the villain, the injured husband, the erring wife, the deserted children, the lawyers, and the stern officers of the law, who melted into tears at the last, were portrayed.

On May 21, Mrs. C. O. Allwood, wife of a prominent Mississippi railroad man, and mother of two children, a boy and a girl, aged 10 and 8, respectively, ran away from her home in Jackson, Miss. At the same time Aubrey Landis, a young engineer, who had been taking his meals with the Allwood family, disappeared. He and Allwood were employees of the same railroad and were warm friends and the husband had not the faintest suspicion that a warm attachment was forming between Landis and Mrs. Allwood until the final blow fell and all Jackson knew that the wife, a beautiful woman of 26, who was married when she was 15, had run away with the young engineer.

Then Allwood swore that he would neither eat nor sleep until he found his wife and brought her back home. He had no intention of giving her up.

On last Sunday Detective Jim Thomason arrested Aubrey Landis in Fort Worth. The Telegram contained an account of the arrest and noted that the charges against Landis were seduction and embezzlement.

Word of the arrest and of the additional fact that Mrs. Allwood was in Fort Worth was wired to Jackson, and Allwood started at once for this city.

He arrived here yesterday morning and went at once to police headquarters. He was emaciated and excited to the verge of nervous collapse. He declared he had neither taken food nor slept since his wife left him and his appearance did not belie him. He was carrying a pistol, which the officers immediately took from him, as he vowed that he would kill Landis before he left the city. None but the officers and the attorneys for Landis, McLean & Scott, knew the whereabouts of Mrs. Allwood, so the husband had to conduct himself as the officers directed, as his first wish was to see her and obtain her consent to return with him to Jackson.

The attorneys, looking after the interests of their client, agreed to use their best efforts to bring about a reconciliation between husband and wife, providing the charges against Landis were quieted and this arrangement finally was made.

Then Walter Scott, Detective Thomason and Assistant Chief Jim Allen started for 315 East Second street where Mrs. Allwood was residing, Mr. Allwood accompanying them.

Allwood became more and more agitated as they neared the house and when they entered the hall and were directed to the room occupied by Mrs.

Allwood, he jumped ahead of the officers and rushed into the room. Mrs. Allwood, very quiet but pale, arose to meet him. Allwood broke down completely as he embraced her. She did not respond to his embraces. He began urging her to return with him and as she remained unresponsive he pleaded harder and harder. Finally she said:

"I have taken the step; it is too late, now, I cannot go back to Jackson." He assured her that it would be all right. "The best people in Jackson told me that they would meet us at the train and welcome you, if you would come back," he said.

Allwood fell upon his knees and prayed. All through his prayer she sat apparently impassive and unmoved. He even took the blame for the elopement, saying that he had not given her evidence of his devotion; that he had neglected her, that he swore and drank and stayed out sometimes at night. He forgave her freely for what she had done. Still she declined to return to Jackson with him. Then Mr. Scott urged her to go back with her husband. And then, when it looked like a hopeless case, Allwood finally struck the right key.

"Think of little Kate, and our boy," he said. "What shall I tell them? They only know you have gone away on a visit, and I told them when I left that I would bring you back with me."

Assistant Chief Allen says that Jim Thomason began to whimper at this stage, but Thomason firmly declares that he did not shed a tear until he saw Mrs. Scott crying. Mr. Scott says that tears did not come to his eyes until Chief Allen blubbered out loud.

"What shall I tell Kate in the years to come when she asks about her mother? What shall I tell her now, when she cries for you?" Allwood went on.

And then Mrs. Allwood cried, too, and put her arms about her husband's neck, and the officers withdrew and left them together.

Last night they departed for Jackson, all smiles and sunshine after the tears.

MANY CHILDREN WHO CONVERSE BY SIGNS

Missouri, Kansas and Texas train No. 15, which is due in Fort Worth at 8:10 a. m., today brought in almost a car load of unusual passengers. As the train stopped there flocked from the cars many boys and girls, the boys dressed in gray school uniforms and the girls in blue dresses, with mother-board caps on their heads. The children showed joy and expectancy on every line of their faces, but, strange to say, they made no noisy demonstrations so common to childhood. They were children from the deaf and dumb asylum at Austin on their way home for the summer vacation. Each had a tag tied to a button hole in coat or

PAST OVERFLOWS OF THE MISSOURI

The Great Stream Carries Off Same Volume of Water As Formerly

THE GREAT FLOOD SIXTY YEARS AGO

Entire Bottoms Were Submerged and Steamboats Took Shortcuts

An erroneous impression prevails that the Missouri river does not carry off the same volume of water it did in former years, says a correspondent of the Kansas City Journal. The laws of nature never change. There is the same fall of snow in the Rock Mountains, taking a period of years, that there was a hundred years ago, when Lewis and Clark first crossed the divide. And there is, one year with another, the same precipitation along the watershed of the lower river. It is the same treacherous, ugly and dangerous stream that it was when first known to the white man two centuries ago.

The floods are always caused by heavy and continuous rains in the lower watershed, falling at a time when the annual spring rise, from the melting of the snows in the mountains, reaches that part of the river. The melting of the snow without the rains never causes any damage, but goes off gradually. Neither does an unusual precipitation cause an inundation except at this particular time. As an evidence of this fact overflows are unknown above the mouth of the Platte. It is the immense volume of water pouring into the Missouri from its lower tributaries—the Kaw, Grand river, Osage, Gasconade and other streams that swell it to undue proportions and causes it to overflow its banks.

There have been many great freshets in the Missouri since it was known to the white man. The first of which we have any account in the annals of that stream occurred in 1785. There were no settlements on the river at that day, hence the only accounts possessed are those which have come down by tradition from the Indians and the early French voyageurs. The American bottoms on the Missouri, opposite St. Louis, were entirely submerged and great damage was done in the French villages of Cahokia, Kaskaskia and Chartres, all located on the Mississippi below St. Louis. The freshet marked an era among these early settlers, and the year was ever after known as the "year of the great flood." The water, it is said, came out of the Missouri.

AN EARLY FRESHET In the spring of 1811 the waters of the Missouri rose to an unprecedented height. The first settlement had been made in the Boon Lick country—opposite Boonville, Mo., the previous year, hence there were no farms to be injured or crops to be destroyed. We have no means of knowing how high the water reached that year, but that it overflowed the entire bottom, in the lower part of the river, and caused great damage to the settlements on the Mississippi is attested by the early records.

In the spring of 1826 a very singular overflow occurred at the mouth of the Kaw. There are two or three persons now living in Kansas City who were living here then; for it was the previous year (1825) that the Indian title to the land where the city now stands, was extinguished and the pioneers crossed the Blue. In that year the annual June rise was very high, and the Missouri was flowing bank full. It so happened that just at that time there came down from the Kaw a tremendous rise, like a solid wall of water. This tremendous wave, when it reached the Missouri, could not escape, but was slumped up and thrown back over the West bottoms, which is submerged ten or twelve feet. The entire bottoms was then, of course, a primeval forest, and where now stands the immense warehouses of a city, were dense thickets of pawpaw and grape vines. The same concurrence of circumstances may never take place again, but nature sometimes repeats her strange freaks.

But by far the most destructive flood that ever occurred on the Missouri river was in 1844. It is remembered as the "great flood of '44," and will never be forgotten by those who witnessed its terrible results. It was caused, as usual, by continuous rainfall on the lower river coming on top of the annual June rise. The month of May had been attended with unusual rains and for weeks previous to the 10th of June the precipitation had been unprecedented. The downpour began the 5th of June the water began to overflow the banks, and the river continued to rise until the 18th, when (at Jefferson City) it came to a stand and began to recede. The entire bottom from the Kaw to the mouth of the Missouri was completely submerged, and from bluff to bluff the river presented the appearance of an inland sea. The destruction of property, considering the sparse population, was enormous, and much suffering ensued. The channel of the river was covered with driftwood, and houses were frequently seen floating down stream with people clinging to the roofs. Steamboats no longer confined themselves to the channel of the river, but ran the cutoffs through the woods and across cornfields.

One marked peculiarity of the flood of '44 was the fact that it was confined entirely to the lower river. It did not extend above Kansas City, and the river above that point during the entire season was unusually low. Captain Joseph La Barge took the steamer Omega to the mouth of the Yellowstone that year, and had great difficulty in ascending the river above St. Joseph on account of the low stage of the water.

In 1845 and again in 1851 there was unusual high waters in the river, and all the second bottoms and low sloughs were submerged. The damage to the farms, however, was slight, and nothing to be compared to the destruction of 1844.

The next most destructive flood in the Missouri river was in 1881. It was not, however, near so destructive as the great flood of '44, and did not overflow the entire bottoms. The second bottoms and low places were all under water, and considerable damage was done, especially in the lower reach of the river. This flood differed from any that had preceded it in that it occurred in March and the first part of April, and before the mountain rise had arrived in the lower river. It was caused solely by the unusual rainfall, and not from the melting of snow in the Rockies.

RUSH OF FREIGHT ON NEW RAILROAD

Trainmen coming in from Deming report that the Santa Fe has at that point several hundred car loads of freight for the El Paso and Southwestern which the latter line is unable to receive, owing to the heavy rush of business which has been taxing the strength of the motive power for some time.

Since the line has been opened it has greatly surprised the officials with the amount of business it has been transacting. The prospects are good for this rush of business to keep up for some time, as there are continually new developments being made in the mines tributary to the line. The cattle business along the line has also developed wonderfully. It is stated on good authority that several shipments of cattle had to be driven to other lines during the past three months, owing to the inability of the company to furnish transportation.

When the through line went into operation it was thought the engine service was large enough to keep the line from being blocked, but five engines, three rented from other lines, have been placed in service, and as many more could be easily used if they could be had.

The field along the El Paso and Southwestern is one of the best tributary to El Paso, as the merchants along that line buy heavily in El Paso. Then, too, a large percentage of the pay rolls of the company, especially the transportation department, come directly to El Paso.—El Paso Times.

TEXAS YOUNG MAN HONORS IN MANILA

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 11.—Geo. R. Harvey, a young man who was born and reared in Ellis county, has won distinction in the Philippines. His father, J. C. Harvey, who now lives near Ennis, has received a newspaper from Manila which contains the notice of his son's appointment as assistant attorney general for the government of the Philippines. George Harvey was raised on a farm. He attended the public schools and the state university, studied law and was admitted to the bar. About ten years ago he located at El Paso and in 1898 was elected county attorney for El Paso county. Some eighteen months ago, with his wife and children, he went to Manila, believing his opportunities there would be better than in Texas.

EYES SPEAK

Volumes, at times, of woman's happiness or misery. The dull, sunken eye, with its dark circles almost surely speaks of womanly ill-health, and its attendant suffering. With the dull eye goes usually the hollow, sunken cheek, the drawn mouth, the shrunken form—the whole glory of woman's beauty marred by the effects of disease.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the diseases which undermine the health and mar the beauty of women. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Fort Worth Telegram will be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given at the office, 1010 and 1012 Houston street, Fort Worth.

During the trying days of the past few weeks the Kansas City Star had the courage to call attention to the rich men of the city who were withholding their wealth and falling to contribute to the public need. This selfishness on the part of the city's rich men was particularly emphasized by the greater need at the time of the flood, yet it existed at other times as well. Public spirit is ever a thing hard to create and public spirit that loosens the purse strings even in the time of crying need is still harder to produce. The men who are lacking in this respect doubtless have some punishment in their own selfishness, yet the community owes to itself that they be made to feel that they are respected not according to their degree of richness, but as they are valuable as citizens to the community in which they reside.

The great lesson of the floods that seems to be coming home to the entire country is the need of more irrigation and the wisdom of building more storage reservoirs for conserving the immense volume of waste water from the spring overflows and then using the water thus gained for the benefit of the farmers in the valleys and plains. The New York World has pointed out that the floods this spring alone have caused damage amounting to more than would the cost of building reservoirs that might have prevented them. Not only that, but the benefits from the irrigation that would follow an execution of the plan would yield millions to the farmers and incidentally enrich the whole country.

An indication of southwestern progress is perhaps more strongly emphasized to the exchange editor than to the average newspaper reader is the number of "Vol. I's" noted on the newspapers which are being issued. It would seem at the rate of one a week. As in railroads and every other line of development, the southwest is establishing a record for new newspapers unequalled elsewhere in the country.

Among the latest news items that have appeared during the past few days may be mentioned the discovery of the fact that John Wilkes Booth is dead and the enlightenment of the public as to why General Robert E. Lee fought with the south. Our grandchildren may yet live to learn why the United States fought Spain and the real cause for the eruption of Mont Pelee.

One of the purposes of Charles M. Schwab's trip to Europe for his "health" has just leaked out in the announcement of the purchase by the steel trust of the richest iron ore tract in the world for a consideration of $50,000,000. And yet when he left for abroad they said that his mind was getting weaker.

If the distinguished senator from Ohio was given a glimpse in advance of the hills in connection with the nuptials of his daughter, the dazed way in which he submitted to the indorsement of Roosevelt at the republican convention has at last been explained.

Another rude jar has been given a cherished tradition that brilliant men's sons never amount to anything in the announcement that the son of General Arthur MacArthur stood at the head of this year's graduating class from West Point.

At a local hotel the other evening one of the courses was salad and when the waiter brought on a bottle labeled "fresh olive oil, bottled by Smith & Jones, purveyors to her majesty, the queen," nobody even cracked a smile, but several felt like it.

THINGS TO EAT AND THEIR PRICES

Bewberries are now off the market and blackberries and strawberries are not very plentiful, the strawberries all being shipped in from the north. Cherries are scarce, but are selling at reasonable prices. Peaches are finding much popularity and plums are getting plentiful. Pineapples have dropped to 25c and green apples have made their appearance and are easily bringing 60c per peck.

In the vegetable line asparagus has about dropped out and cabbage is small and green, nothing but the new crop being offered now. Peas are scarce, while beans are plentiful. Green corn sells readily at 35c, with plenty of mustard greens at 5c.

Poultry remains firm at last week's prices, while butter has declined 5c. Other prices rule as follows:

DAILY SHORT STORY

TWO GIRLS AND A SCARF PIN.

BY VERA SERKOFF. (Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst, Great Britain. Rights Reserved.)

"Oh, Connie, you must come to us for Christmas. You surely can't refuse me." And little Lady Towers clasped her hands, and looked imploringly at her old friend and playmate. "I have no heart for gaiety, and no suitable dress," replied Constance Carlisle, rather curtly. "But, dear, there will be no gaiety. Roland's mother is so recently dead that my gaiety is out of the question. There will be the father and all the boys. You would like to see the boys again, wouldn't you?" "Yes, I should like to meet your brothers again," admitted Constance. "And if there really will be no other guests—"

"Well, Mabel Huntley invited herself, and I couldn't refuse her. The boys will be furious." "We all disliked her as children," remarked Constance. "The boys always called her a coward and a sneak. I didn't like her any better when she grew up. I saw a great deal of her two years ago, just before—before you know, Flossie." Flossie nodded. She knew Constance referred to her father's death, just after the loss of his entire fortune. The two years which had passed since then had exactly reversed the positions of the two friends. Flossie, the doctor's penniless daughter, and general servant to her seven brothers, was now the petted wife of the wealthy Sir Roland Towers, and the mother of his heir. Constance, the isolated only child and heiress of a merchant prince, now earned her bread as typist in a merchant's office.

"What a lovely girl Miss Carlisle is!" remarked Sir Roland Towers to a large, handsome blonde, as they stood looking over some views together. "Do you think so?" she drawled. "She has no color, you know. Do you admire that dead-white skin, Mr. Leigh?" The young man was staring intently at the group round the fire. Constance in a plain black evening dress, with white roses at her breast. "She always looks to me like a pure white rose," he said, dreamily, and Mabel tossed her head, an angry light in her blue eyes.

The evening passed like a happy dream to Constance. All was so different from her lonely evenings in her dreary lodgings. Flossie went with her to her room when bed time came. "It is lovely to have you, darling," she exclaimed. "But how serious you look. Has Mabel been disagreeable?" "Flossie," said Constance, abruptly, "why did you not tell me that Vincent Leigh was to be here?" "Because I didn't know," was the prompt reply. "Roland asked him this morning. But why should you mind? You were always such friends. Do you?" Flossie stopped, for her friend was weeping bitterly.

"Oh, let me cry," she gasped, as Flossie overwhelmed her with caresses and questions. "Let me cry, or my heart will break." Flossie stood helplessly by while Constance sobbed and moaned, as if indeed her heart were broken. At last the girl raised her head from the couch, where she had flung herself in her outburst of grief. "I will tell you about it, Flossie," she whispered. "Only do not look at me. I feel so deadly, deadly ashamed of myself."

"I am quite sure there is nothing to be ashamed about," said Flossie, briskly. "Have you quarrelled with Vincent? You were so cold to him tonight. Two years ago, I thought—" Constance checked her by a gesture. "So did I," she said, in a choked voice, "and that is just what is torturing me. I—I had hoped never to see Vincent Leigh again."

"But he adored you as a child," cried Flossie. "As a child, yes. And that was what misled me. He petted and played with me, I worshipped him. When I was 12 and he 17 I gave him a scarf pin as a Christmas gift. I had it made to my own design. He used to call me his little white rosebud, and I had a silver pin made, a rosebud with a tiny pearl set in it forming the head. The words 'I love you' were engraved on it. We quarrelled on Christmas day, and I snatched the pin out of his hand, crying, 'I do not love you now, and you shall not have it back till I love you again.' Next day he was called away by his father's sudden death, and we did not meet again till seven years later, when he came to spend Christmas with us."

"I remember," nodded Flossie. "Mabel Huntley was with us too, and I saw he admired her, but I thought—oh, fool that I was—that that really love me, and was trying to make me jealous. On Christmas eve we were to have a dance." "Yes, it was there Roland proposed," Flossie interrupted. "I know. That morning Vincent and I were alone in the conservatory, and he seemed so kind and loving to me. We were talking over old childish days, and he reminded me of the scarf pin again. I was too excited to speak, and he went on to remind me that I used always to give him a buttonhole to wear every evening when he used to stay with us long ago, and to ask me to do so again. Then he said again, 'May I not have the pin again?' You know you promised—"

Just then Mabel Huntley interrupted us, but I thought—oh, fool, fool that I was," and Connie's slender body writhed with shame—"I thought he was serious, and Flossie, Flossie, I did give him the pin." "Well," cried Flossie, eagerly. "I made him a buttonhole of a white rose and spray of maidenhair fern, stuck the pin through it, slipped into his dressing room, and put it on his table. When he went into the bathroom Mabel wore it." "Nonsense!" exclaimed Flossie. "She did." Constance went on, tears streaming down her cheeks. "I asked her where she got the pin, and she said from Vincent. She said she laughed very much over it, and said a little simper had fallen in love with him, and given him that as a love token, so he passed it on to her."

"But I don't understand—" began Flossie. "Oh, it's plain enough. He had not meant anything and was quite scared when he saw I took it seriously. He knew if he gave Mabel the pin, I should understand. Fancy accepting the man before he asked me." And Constance laughed feebly. "I believe there is something under this," said Flossie. "That was a caddish thing to do, and not like Vincent. He does not even like Mabel, though she is always running after him. And one thing I noticed tonight, the priest's room, as I speak to you unless she was at your elbow. She seemed afraid of what you might tell him."

"If Lady Towers noticed Mabel's efforts to keep the one-time lovers apart that evening, she observed them even more clearly next day. It was Christmas eve, and real Christmas weather. All day the snow had been falling and the cold was piercing. No one could go out. Mabel had perseveringly stuck to Constance all day. Even when their hostess asked Vincent to show Constance the priest's room, as the secret chamber was called, Mabel instantly begged leave to accompany them, although she was a notorious coward, and had declined to go with the others on a previous visit, on the ground that she "hated dark and uncanny places." For the priest's room was said to be haunted. So Lady Towers decided to make the fourth. The secret room was in the picture gallery, and Vincent held back the heavy sliding panel, while the ladies stepped daintily within, holding their skirts from the dust and cobwebs. They had hardly made two steps forward when Mabel, with a loud scream of "The monk! the monk's ghost!" fell heavily to the ground.

Vincent rushed to her help, and the panel sliding to, they were imprisoned in the darkness. Mabel's screams grew frantic. "Don't be silly," said Flossie, disgusted. "Roland and the boys know where we are, and when we don't turn up in a reasonable time they'll soon look us up." "Not in time to save my life!" moaned Mabel. "I've cut my head open, falling, and I'm bleeding to death."

"It does seem a bad cut," said Vincent in an alarmed tone. "I can feel the blood soaking my coat as I hold her." "I'm dying, I know, E-m," gasped Mabel. "The ghost of the monk came to warn me. I can't die without confessing. Constance, Vincent didn't give me the scarf pin you gave him. I heard what he said to you that day in the conservatory, and I saw you put the button hole on his table. I took it, and I told you, you gave it to me because you wanted the man who gave it to you to understand you didn't care for him. And I told you he gave it to me. I thought he would turn to me and grow to love me, but he didn't, and I'm breeding to death, and I can't die with a guilty conscience. And oh, the monk! the monk!" Here Mabel went off into a series of piercing yells, which relieved her hearers' fears as to the danger of her dying from exhaustion, and speedily procured their release.

Mabel was led off by her hostess to have her wound, which turned out to be a mere flesh cut, attended to, and Vincent turned to Constance, and took both her hands in his. "Is that true, Connie? Did you mean to give me back my pin?" The dark soulful eyes met his steadfastly. "I did, and when I thought you despised me, and had given it to Mabel, it nearly broke my heart." "And she told me you had laughed at me, and loved another fellow. My darling, when you were a child, you said, 'I will give you the pin back when I love you again.' If you had it still would you give it me now?" The love-light shone in the beautiful eyes still raised to his, and the sweet, tremulous voice thrilled him with rapture as she answered: "I give it you back two years ago, Vincent. I would give it to you again now, for I love you, dear."

And she clasped her to his breast he could only murmur in his deep joy, "My little white rosebud."

LITTLE STORIES OF THE STREET

Odd things happen every day but there is a peculiar little twist to the following yarn that makes it worth while. The story is told by the keeper of a news stand whose place of business is on Main street between Fifth and Sixth. Prominent among the periodicals displayed on this stand is the last Judge Quarterly, which, if you haven't noticed, bears on its front cover a large likeness of Raymond Hitchcock, as King Dodo. This rising young comedian appeared in King Dodo here last winter and those who did not witness the performance were familiarized with his features as Dodo, by the bill boards and newspaper cuts. In the picture in the Judge Quarterly which is in colors, Hitchcock wears a niggardly smile that will be remembered by those who saw him here; he is innocent of eyebrows and hair, his face is long and thin and a coronet, hooked on one side of his bald head appears at an angle of about 45 degrees. According to the story, a prominent Catholic matron of Fort Worth and her 10 year old daughter, stopped at the news stand yesterday. The lady made several purchases and they were departing when the little girl caught sight of the King Dodo picture. "O, mamma," she said, "do buy this picture. He looks so happy in this picture."

"Who looks happy, daughter?" asked the mother, staring. "Why, mamma," said the little girl, shooed, "don't you recognize it? It's the pope."

THINK THAT BERLIN HAS JACK THE RIPPER

BERLIN, June 11.—The Tagesblatt commenting on the recent increasing number of horrible murders of little girls in Berlin, expresses the opinion that the city harbors a fiend like "Jack the Ripper." It points out the similarity in the methods of the perpetrators of the murders and that the Berlin miscreant, like his London prototype, disappears into impenetrable mystery.

CAN'T PROVE THEY ARE BORN

Kansas City Journal: No vital statistics are kept in this state. It is practically the only commonwealth in existence of which this is true. We can prove we were married; the records in the office of the recorder of deeds can be brought into requisition for that purpose. But only the family Bible can be depended on to show when and where we were born, and it is no longer the fashion to have a family Bible in every household, and as for death, the tombstone may be presented as evidence.

DON'T GET IN A SWEAT

Perspiration—"sweat" is what the Bible and we common people call it—is a way nature has of driving out of the body refuse that has no business there. We sweat more in summer, because, in the overheated bowels, undigested food ferments more quickly than in winter and produces irritating acids and gases. The bowels, overworked, try to relieve themselves by violent convulsions, causing terrible gripes and colics, and diarrhoeal discharges so acid as to make you sore, and leaving the intestines weak and worn out. Nature assists body-cleaning by sending the filth out through the pores of the skin. It is not safe to stop perspiring altogether but most of the impure matter should be sent out by natural movements of the bowels, and the offensive, ill-smelling, linen-staining sweat done away with. Keep your bowels strong all summer with the pleasant, candy cathartic CASCARETS, that clean the system and don't allow the excrement to be sweated out through the pores. Take a tablet every night, before going to bed. They work while you sleep and make you feel fine and cool all day.

PANTHERS SLIDE INTO LAST PLACE

TOBOGGAN APPEARS TO BE WELL GREASED

Fort Worth Had Yesterday's Game Won 10 to 3, up to the Sixth. When Paris Tallied Eight Runs—Corsicana Here Tomorrow

For the fifth straight time the Panthers walked around in the murky pool of defeat yesterday and the recording angels for the fifth day in succession inscribed victory after the name of the Paris steers.

Lockhead's pitching was again easy for the Sullivan sluggers and they picked off seventeen swats. Fort Worth's hitting and fielding departments were weak. The hard luck of the club in the matter of injuries to its members, seems finally to have demoralized it. Its ginger seems to have oozed out; it needs an injection of hot sand and cayenne pepper.

The score was 15 to 10. Fort Worth had the game won 10 to 3 up to the sixth, in which inning Paris scored eight times.

Dallas and Corsicana did not pay and therefore Fort Worth with a mushy splash skin to that of a large plank falling into a muddy gutter, soured into the last ditch. Now that it is in the last ditch it should begin to scrap like people in that place are supposed to do. Tomorrow Corsicana opens a three-game series here.

Here are the barrowing details of yesterday's game:

DEATHS AT DENTON

DENTON, Texas, June 11.—Three funerals have occurred in Denton in the last two days, that of Mrs. Fannie Belle Shabby, wife of John Ashby; R. A. Crowder, 41 years of age, and Edgar Withers, son of ex-City Tax Assessor and Collector John Allen Withers.

THAT'S THE TIME

When Proper Food is Necessary. Proper food is never more necessary than when recovering from a wasting sickness, when over-eating would be fatal and yet the body needs nourishment and plenty of it.

WHEN PROPER FOOD IS NECESSARY

At this time the condensed food Grape-Nuts is shown to be one's most powerful friend. Four teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream will sustain a healthy man for half a day and a less quantity in warm milk will build up the convalescent wonderfully. No stomach is too weak to digest and relish Grape-Nuts. It was taken sick with typhoid fever and everyone who has had this disease knows how weak and lifeless a person feels when beginning to recuperate.

From the very first meal of Grape-Nuts I began to improve, strength came to me and I was able to eat and sleep and to get on my feet. I had to be very careful about my diet and could eat only very light food. These did not seem to nourish me and instead of getting better every day I was just at a standstill and everyone began to fear a relapse. One day while I was in bed very much discouraged my sister who was reading to me from the paper read an article about Grape-Nuts and we decided to try it for a package.

ONE BARBER'S VIEWS

W. A. Cragoe, one of the barbers who remained at work notwithstanding the union's order that he should quit at 7 p. m., said today:

"It has been inferred that it is on account of the desire of the bosses of the big shops to compel their men to work long hours that this dispute arose. This is not true. We proceeded illegally to get shorter hours, and finding our mistake we, at the last regular meeting, annulled all that was illegal and not according to the rules and regulations of the union, and now we stand legally as we were before, opening at 7 a. m. and closing at 8 p. m. We are going to proceed in a proper way to get shorter hours and in due time the barbers will be working shorter hours with no regrets from the bosses.

"In local No. 111, one side wishes to go without supper and close at 7 p. m.; the other to establish twelve hour shifts, twelve hours to constitute a day's work. The local adopted the opening and closing hours of 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. when it was organized, and in order to change these hours the by-laws say it requires a two-thirds vote. The bosses in the large shops are willing to work the men in twelve-hour shifts, but Sims and the men supporting him won't agree to this and desire to close the shops at 7 p. m."

The work of grading the Texas and Brazos Valley will be completed during June, and track laying will be rapidly pushed. Alderman H. S. Wilson states that Messrs. Baker and Thomson will put first-class terminals and improvements here as they are favorably impressed with Cleburne.

Following is the report of crop conditions in Texas for the past week issued from the office of the weather bureau at Galveston under the direction of the department of agriculture:

CROP CONDITIONS

There was some clear weather during the middle of the week through partly cloudy conditions prevailed generally; good to heavy showers generally except over the coast district and portions of the north central, southeastern and south central districts, where it is becoming dry and rain is urgently needed in the coast district. The average temperature for the state was four or five degrees below the normal, which retarded crop growth, especially cotton, but the last two or three days were much warmer and in the central and northeastern portions, where there was sufficient moisture, crops of all kinds made very rapid growth.

CORN—In the southern portion of the state corn is being cut and laid by. In localities in the north central and south central portions this crop is being very seriously injured by drought. Elsewhere it is doing fairly well and is making rapid growth in the central and northeastern portions of the state.

COTTON—The growth of cotton was retarded very materially by the unusually low temperature the greater portion of the week, but where there was sufficient moisture the warmer weather at the close of the week produced a marked improvement. The dry conditions existing over the north central, eastern and south central portions are retarding growth very materially. Damage by web worms is reported generally from the northern portion and by cut worms and boll weevil in the central and south central portions. Some fields in the southern portion are putting on squares.

WHEAT AND OATS—The harvesting of these crops continues, and rapid progress is being made under favorable weather conditions.

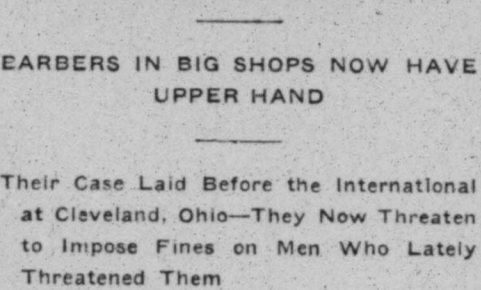

RICE—The sowing of rice still continues. Flooding of that which is sufficiently advanced has begun.

SUGAR CANE AND BORGHUM—These crops made good progress during the week.

"The orthodox Russian priests have done their duty. It is your turn Roumanians to persist. Raise the cross and begin the battle here against the wretched Jewish horde, which has brought the Roumanian people to beggary and your reward in heaven will be greater."

Excess Of Smoking Affected My Heart So I Had To Sit Up To Breathe. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure Cured Me.

There is nothing that has a more deleterious effect upon the cardiac or heart nerves than the excessive use of tobacco. Pain and tenderness around the heart, an oppressive feeling in the chest, choking sensation in the throat, discomfort from sleeping on the left side and smothering spells at night when the sufferer has to sit up in bed to breathe are the most common symptoms of a weak heart. Smokers who feel these symptoms and who do not understand their meaning should be warned in time, by the following experience: "I was greatly troubled with an affection of the heart, due to excessive smoking. On writing to you for advice I was directed to begin a course of treatment which included Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, Dr. Miles' Nerve and Brain Tonic, Dr. Miles' Kidney and Bladder Tonic, Dr. Miles' Nervine and Dr. Miles' Restorative. I faithfully followed the directions given and am pleased to say that my cure is complete and permanent. Before beginning the use of your remedies I was so nervous I could not keep my hands still and suffered greatly from severe pains around the heart. Many times at night I would be forced to assume a sitting posture to get my breath, and for the time being it would seem as though my heart had stopped beating. From the splendid results achieved in my case I can cheerfully recommend Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, Restorative, Nervine and other remedies to all sufferers from heart or nervous troubles."—Yours truly, ELIJAH HALL, Dothan, Ala.

ALL IN INTEREST OF STATE OF TEXAS

RAILROADS TO SYSTEMATICALLY ENCOURAGE IMMIGRANTS Meeting in Fort Worth Yesterday Afternoon in Interest of the Enterprise—Address by Captain James W. Steele, of St. Louis

Texas is already the wonder state of the union in regard to the rapid development which it has made in an agricultural way during the past few years, but it is quite evident that its interests are to be further advanced by the immigration movement inaugurated recently at St. Louis by the southwestern railway lines. Captain James W. Steele of St. Louis, representing the southwestern lines, addressed a number of gentlemen in Fort Worth at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon, at which he outlined the plans which have been made for carrying on this work.

FARMERS' LETTERS COUNT Representatives of various railroads were present, as were also farmers from this section of the state. The plan is to hold meetings along the various lines of railroads and from every locality have individual residents tell of their state and its advantages. The farmer who is now prospering on a little farm which he has succeeded in accumulating from the smallest beginning is the one who will be able to relate with telling effect on his brother farmer of the north, what the possibilities of Texas really are.

Letters from farmers all over the state to be published in the paper printed at St. Louis and circulated by the thousands among the farmers of the northern states. It is expected will result in enlightening more than any other source those whom it is expected to interest in Texas agricultural matters.

AN IMPORTANT MOVEMENT Captain Steele's remarks yesterday were preceded by a short talk by B. B. Faddock, secretary of the Board of Trade, who said he considered the present movement in the interest of Texas the most important one since the surrender of Santa Anna to Sam Houston.

The main purpose is to gather and disseminate information relative to the southwest. The railroad companies appreciate the advantage of having the country more densely populated. He said that he was representing something new in the manner in which it was to be done. The railroads, he continued, had by a concerted effort, agreed to advertise the southwest. That as a matter of fact the advertising heretofore had been done in the northwest and that so far as the southwest was concerned the work would have to be commenced at the bottom; make it a kindergarten, so to speak, and systematically place the advantages of Texas before the farmers of all states north of the Ohio river. It is the first time, he said, that a concerted effort had been made by the southwestern lines to try and induce immigration into Texas. Nothing could be accomplished, he maintained, without the thorough interest of well-informed citizens in different sections of the state.

HAVE WRONG IDEA He continued by saying that no man, no matter how versatile, could thoroughly describe the greatness of Texas, but it was a fact that the very farmers the colonization bureau was now interested in seeing located in Texas were men who had very erroneous ideas of the state; that they believed Texas was even yet uncivilized, was wild and woolly, with out churches, schools or doctors, and that to bring their families to the state meant that their children would be raised in ignorance and that they would have to bring their own farm tools with them, thinking that even farm tools could not be bought in this state.

A PERPETUAL CONTRIBUTOR The railroads recognized the fact, he said, that the farmer is a perpetual contributor to it and that they were willing to stand the expense of the undertaking, and all they asked of men interested in seeing the state develop was to aid in furnishing and having furnished reliable data, facts, etc. The railroads, he said, didn't want any money from Texas people, but wanted literature.

EXCURSIONS COMING LATER The program is to have the excursions on the different lines from the north follow these meetings, the railroads agreeing to give reduced rates. Several enthusiastic speeches setting out the advantages of different sections of the state were made.

QUICK RELIEF FROM AGONIZING INDIGESTION AND TORPID LIVER

The Rev. Benj. F. Hall of Fishkill-on-Hudson, N. Y., writes: "Let me add to your many testimonials an offering of sincere gratitude by asserting the good effects of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy—even in one bottle—in an obstinate case of agonizing indigestion—the quick relief and restful ease from it has led me to suggest it to others."

There is no question that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the best and surest medicine for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia, chronic constipation and the sicknesses peculiar to women. It quickly relieves and cures inability to hold urine and the necessity of getting up a number of times during the night, and puts an end to the scalding pain when passing urine.

COST OF PAVING A VALID CLAIM

LAWYERS SO ADVISE THE PARKER-WASHINGTON COMPANY

Work on Houston Street as a Result of This Investigation of the Law Will Soon Begin—Conclusion Far-Reaching in Effect

The lawyers employed by the Parker-Washington Paving Company to ascertain whether under the laws of Texas and the ordinances of Fort Worth the costs of paving in front of property, when ordered by the city, would stand as a lien against the property, after a painstaking investigation have decided that such a claim against property would be valid and collectable.

This decision was announced Tuesday and the news was at once forwarded to the headquarters of the company at Kansas City by H. K. McCulloch, the representative of the company at present in this city.

It is likely that as soon as the matter can be gone over at Kansas City the material and machinery necessary to put down the paving on Houston street will be shipped to this city and the work inaugurated.

But the conclusion arrived at by the lawyers means much more than the paving of one street. It is far-reaching in its augury for beautiful cities in Texas. Other investigations have led to the same opinion, but the preceding investigations usually, if not in every case, have been made by the city attorneys, whereas this was an independent one.

The conclusion reached by the lawyers does not apply to property that constitutes a homestead. It does apply to all business property.

There is only 700 feet on Houston street between Belknap and Tenth that is unassigned for by property owners, and of this all but one lot is held by non-resident property owners who now will be forced by the city to pave whether they like the idea or not. Paving in Fort Worth has been delayed heretofore by people residing in England, New York city and other foreign parts, but heretofore the failure to gain the consent of non-resident property owners should not be permitted to stand in the way of progress.

JUDGE PARKER'S FINE IS STAYED

TESTIMONY IN DISTRICT COURT THIS MORNING

Justice Terrell Declares That He and Parker Are Friends and That He Will Not Press the Matter Further—Many Witnesses

The habeas corpus proceedings brought by Judge Parker to avoid going to jail for declining to pay the fine of $25 imposed by Judge Terrell yesterday for contempt of court, was heard this morning in the Seventeenth district court before Judge M. E. Smith and resulted in favor of Judge Parker. Judge Shropshire represented Parker and throughout the trial he endeavored to prove that, although his client had actually stood up first, he had done this more in the idea that he was going to be attacked by J. M. Boyd-Wilder, with whom he had grappled in the justice court, and that he would have been at a great disadvantage if he had remained sitting in his chair, and that he would have been injured before he could make any resistance.

LADIES AND CHILDREN INVITED

All ladies and children who cannot stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups, cathartics, etc., are invited to try the famous Little Early Risers. They are different from all other pills. They do not purge the system. Even a double dose will not grip, weaken or sicken; many people call them the Easy Pill. W. H. Howell, Houston, Texas, says nothing better can be used for constipation, sick headache, etc. Bob Moore, Lafayette, Ind., says all others grip and sicken, while DeWitt's Little Early Risers do their work well and easy. Sold by all druggists.

TANSY PILLS (Dr. Carter's) NEVER FAIL. Sore or swollen throat, cough, croup, whooping cough, influenza, colds, etc. Sold by all druggists.

spring upon Judge Parker just before the scrimmage took place. The other witnesses testified that Boyd-Wilder had stepped farther forward than Parker and that the two met quite a little nearer Parker's chair. All gave the same opinion that Judge Parker had struck first, although his blow had not reached its mark. Judge Parker himself took the stand near the last and gave his side of the case. He admitted getting up first, but contended that it was to protect himself from what he thought was an assault. Judge Smith dismissed the case and so freed Judge Parker from liability of imprisonment for refusing to pay the fine. After the case Judge Terrell said that it was, as the dignity of his court had been sustained by the fine, and, although there were other ways of procedure for collecting a fine, he would not take them up, as he and Judge Parker were friends.

WINNERS IN THE LIBRARY CONTEST

The two prizes offered some time ago by the Carnegie library for the best composition on nature were yesterday awarded to Lewis D. Wall and Frank O. Harrison. Lewis Wall's paper on "Plants and their Uses" showed many evidences of originality and close observation, according to the judges, and he was given first prize. Frank Harrison's paper on "Birds" shows a careful study of ornithology and a close observation and careful attention to the lectures delivered at the Carnegie library for the benefit of the children. The judges were Mrs. Mary R. Walton and Mrs. James W. Swayne.

TWO WEDDINGS AT HILLSBORO, TEXAS

HILLSBORO, Texas, June 11.—John T. Guthrie and Miss Ollie Turk were married at the Methodist church last night at 9 o'clock. The wedding was a very swell affair. The attendants were Misses Ola Smith of Abilene, Lucile Maddox of Hillsboro, Lillian Story of Ennis, Ruby Patterson of Hillsboro, Johnnie Nesmith of Dallas, Amanda Brook of Hillsboro, Clara Turk of Hillsboro, and Messrs. S. R. Hughes, A. T. Vaughan, F. E. He-Carty, G. E. Pace or Quannah, George Works of Ennis, Ed Freeman of Dallas, Dickens Anderson of Waxahachie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jerome Duncan, assisted by F. J. Vaughan. The bride's parents gave a reception at their residence after the marriage, at which there were 100 invited guests. They will make their home in Ennis. County Judge L. C. Hill has appointed Misses Ellen Varnell and Annie Harper to scholarships in the Girls' Industrial school at Denton. This is three that have been appointed from this county. W. O. Collins and Miss Edith G. Saunders were married last night at the residence of Walter C'Vollins by Rev. O. W. Dean of Alvarado.

NEWSPAPER GROWTH THROUGHOUT SOUTH

There are 2,250 daily newspapers in the United States. They increase in number slowly. Pennsylvania has the largest, Wyoming has the smallest number. New York has only eight more newspapers than Illinois. In the south, where daily newspapers are least numerous, an obstacle to their increase in number, because it hinders their more extensive circulation, is the absence in use of small coins. A 5-cent piece is the smallest coin in ordinary use and 6-cent daily papers in the south have not, generally, according to the northern standard, been "worth the price."

Recently there has been a clearly marked period of newspaper consolidation in the south. Richmond, one of the oldest southern capitals, has consolidated four dailies into two—one morning and one evening paper; Atlanta has only one morning paper, as have Charleston and Columbia, in South Carolina; Savannah, Macon and Augusta, in Georgia; Montgomery, Mobile and Birmingham in Alabama, and Memphis and Nashville, in Tennessee. In Memphis there were two morning papers. These were consolidated. Then a new one was started. It was absorbed and there is a sole successor of three morning papers in that city.

Tennessee had prior to this consolidation fifteen daily newspapers. Kentucky has fifteen, Mississippi fifteen and Alabama twenty-one. A state which has a disproportionately large number of daily newspapers is Texas. It has ninety-one. California has 112.

The increase in the population of southern cities in the last ten years has been favorable to southern dailies published in them. In the ten years preceding 1900 Louisville increased in population 27 per cent, Memphis 58, Savannah 25, Atlanta 27, Norfolk 33, Houston 51, Augusta 18, Birmingham 46, Galveston 29, Little Rock 48, Knoxville 45, Montgomery 38, Jacksonville 65, Fort Worth 15 and Lexington, Ky., 22.—New York Sun.

AB. DEAN FINED IN POLICE COURT

CHARGED HE KEPT SALOON OPEN ON SUNDAY

Willie Davis and Orville Finney, Who Were Charged With Galloping Their Ponies Too Swiftly, Turned Loose on Probation—Day With Judge Prewett

There was a little man and he had a little jag. And when he was jagged he was horrid.

But when he awoke (if you'll stand a little gag)

He had a bad ache in his forrid. Alexander Pope Stuart was a part of the flotsam and jetsam washed into jail by the beer flood last night. He pleaded guilty in police court today and was fined $1 and costs.

Three negroes, Earl Williams, Ott. Holman and "Tootsie" were charged with assault. They vehemently said "not guilty" and their cases were set down for tomorrow morning.

There was much merriment in court when the case against Henry Hill for Sunday selling was called. City Prosecutor Roy made out the complaint while sitting at his desk in court. An attorney sitting near who represents Hill in other cases took note of the proceeding and when the case was called he moved to quash because the officer had not sworn to the complaint. The officer meanwhile had departed. He was recalled and Mr. Roy with elaborate preparations set about making out a new complaint. Among the materials he dispatched officers for was a huge bottle of mudilage. When it appeared some one remarked that Mr. Roy was angry and was making all preparations to "stick" somebody.

When the complaint finally was fixed up and sworn to, the attorney for the defense announced "not ready" and under the rules the case went over.

AB. DEAN IS FINED

A case of "open on Sunday" against Ab. Dean resulted in a fine of $25 and costs being imposed. Dean conducts the Arizona saloon and rooming house.

The cases against Willie Davis and Orville Finney proved interesting. They are mere boys and were charged with galloping their ponies over city streets at high speed. Orville indulged in a good cry when the officer was testifying that he did not see the boy attempt to check the speed of the pony. "I couldn't help that horse from running away with me; I done all I could, judge," he moaned. In Davis' case Captain Frank Masengale testified that the boy had been reproved by his father and that he, the witness, had bought the pony. Judge Prewett filed the cases for a week, pending good behavior by the boys. Before the trial the Davis boy made a brilliant effort to induce himself into the good graces of Chief of Police Rea by telling him that he would help him out in the general effort to keep the city on its good behavior, by reporting all parties whom he found carrying pistols and committing other crimes.

Fatsy Donnelly did not respond when his name was called and his bond was declared forfeited. The forfeiture of Sam Hamilton's bond was set aside and a fine of $1 and costs imposed as a result of his plea of guilty to an attempt to create a panic in the booze traffic. Sam was reported as having been sick in bed on the day his bond was forfeited.

OLD PROPOSITION

John Read blinked gloomily at the judge as he was fined $1 and costs on the old barleycorn proposition. The name of "Cynthia" Adams, who is charged with vagrancy, was called. A large yellow man stood up. "That ain mah name; mah name's Corinthy," she said. The correction was duly made and then Corinthy asked to have her case passed until Saturday for a plea of guilty, which was done.

Josie Broomfield pleaded guilty to vagrancy and was fined $1 and costs. A similar case against Mittle Williams went over until Saturday.

ELABORATE SHIELD FOR STREET FAIR

Tomorrow evening the committee appointed by the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, to consider ways and means of holding a street fair October 5-10 will hold a meeting.

Elaborate designs for a silk flag and for a shield to be used in advertising the carnival have been drawn. The shield has on it various pictures emblematic of the things that are making Fort Worth greater, including a horse, a steer, a sheep, a hog, a locomotive, packing houses, sheaves of grain, cotton, a lone star and a panther. The flag will be of silk, with three cherry red horizontal stripes in a white field, and gold trimmings.

At tomorrow's meeting the desirability of adopting these two designs will be considered and committees appointed to take up various parts of the work.

In Every Age and Clime, In Every Place and Time DRINK Martin's Best! E. H. KELLER FAMILY HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT. E. H. Keller was badly injured in a street car accident last evening, from the effects of which he will be confined to his home for a few days. With his family Mr. Keller was driving on East Belknap street, when the carriage in which they were riding was struck by pavilion car No. 44. The car was running at a pretty high rate of speed and the force with which it struck the carriage damaged it considerably. Mr. Keller was pinioned under the vehicle and was thus injured. Mrs. Keller and the children sustained slight bruises. The nominees are scouring the city for votes. They will be to see you.

WHO DO YOU THINK IS THE MOST POPULAR LADY IN FT. WORTH

MISS MAGGIE BARTON MAKES ANOTHER REMARKABLE GAIN TODAY OF 11,900 VOTES AND STILL HOLDS FIRST PLACE WITH 48,900 TO HER CREDIT. MISS TAYLOR AND MRS. ANDREWS ARE CROWDING HER CLOSELY FOR FIRST PLACE. Thousands of votes were received yesterday from nominees and their friends and many important changes are to be seen in the list today. Mrs. Andrews, Miss Taylor and Mrs. Parker make perceptible gains today and are fighting hard for first place. Only four more days remain in which four votes will count for every cent provided on city subscription. Nominees should take advantage of this condition in the contest, for by so doing it will make their chances much better for winning. The contest editor is busy from early morning 'till late at night counting votes and never in the history of Fort Worth has a newspaper contest been so absorbing. The nominees are getting all their friends interested and they are working diligently to secure votes. It is rumored that many of the nominees at the bottom of the list are holding back votes to be sent in on the 15th and some surprises may be expected on that date. Who knows but one at the bottom of the list may make a great gain and go to first place. SUBSCRIBE FOR THE TELEGRAM AND HELP YOUR FAVORITE. DO IT NOW.
