

EFFORT TO SECURE MRS. SPECK'S STORY

COUNTY ATTORNEY LATTIMORE BELIEVES THAT IT WILL NOT REACH JURY IN JOE LAWRENCE'S TRIAL NEXT WEEK.

SHROPSHIRE TAKES OTHER VIEW

Attorney for Wolf and Lawrence Analyzes Some of the Evidence Against His Clients and Against the Pair That Occupied Room on Hemphill Street—Some More New Testimony

"I do not believe that Colonel Shropshire will be able to get his new testimony before a jury," said County Attorney Lattimore this morning in discussing the telegram's exclusive interview with Mrs. John H. Speck of 105 Hemphill street, which appeared in last night's paper. The interview threw much and valuable new light on the Wilson murder mystery and tended to show that Joe Wolf and Joe Lawrence may not be guilty of the crime of which Wolf already stands convicted.

The testimony of Mrs. Speck is not new to the police, but it is new to Colonel Shropshire and the defense and the general public. Up to yesterday the only news in connection with Mrs. Speck's statement that had ever appeared in a Fort Worth paper was a rumor printed a day or two after the murder that the police had a clew on the south side in which two men were captured who had under their arms the day before the murder and had disappeared the night of the murder.

With the appearance of Mrs. Speck's mysterious case became keener than ever. The facts against Wolf and Lawrence and the facts against the two men who occupied the room at 105 Hemphill street were weighed and balanced against one another; some stuck to their opinion that Wolf and Lawrence are the right men, while others were strong in their belief that the right men will not be captured until the two men who vanished so completely from the Hemphill street residence that night and since have baffled the police in their efforts to apprehend them, are in the toils.

OFFICERS DO NOT AGREE The case is made all the more interesting by the differences between the sheriff's office on one side and the county attorney's office on the other side, which grew out of it. Sheriff Honea and the men who have worked on the case with him are firmly convinced that Wolf and Lawrence had nothing to do with the killing of Wilson. The county attorney and Marshal Ross firmly believe that Wolf and Lawrence are the right men.

"It's all moonshine," said Chief Rea this morning. "We followed that Hemphill street clew as far as we could, but we never able to get any testimony connecting the two men that lived there with the murder of Wilson. I sent a photograph of a man who was under suspicion onto Mrs. Speck. Mrs. Speck and her husband did not agree as to whether he was one of the two men who had been there the week of the killing. I had in El Paso and he proved to me that he had not been in Fort Worth for some months."

It is clear from this statement of Chief Rea that the man whom he found in El Paso was not one of the men who stopped at the Speck home. Mrs. Speck and her husband say that they could identify the two men who stopped with them or either of them and that their identification would be positive. Mrs. Speck further says that the photograph carried off her by an officer was, according to the officer, four years old.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 26.—To secure his mother's picture, P. H. Smith, a young man, who on Monday morning was released from the penitentiary at Chester, Ill., braved the law, and after eight hours' liberty was arrested for violating his parole by leaving the state, and was returned to prison to complete a ten years' sentence, fifteen months of which he had already served.

Young Smith was apprehended by Detectives Cosgrove and Williams Monday night near the Union Station while he was on his way to take a train for his former home in Louisville, Ill. In his possession was found the photograph, to recover which he had risked his liberty. Charles Doyle, parole officer, came from Chester to St. Louis for the prisoner, and done," said Colonel Shropshire. "To exclude this testimony would be working a great injustice upon Wolf and Lawrence, because this testimony, and it is absolutely unimpeachable, goes a long way toward establishing a reasonable doubt as to the guilt of the two prisoners. On the night that the officers knocked on the door at 105 Hemphill street and awakened Mrs. Speck and questioned her, she told the same story that she tells now, and at that time she did not even know that a murder had been committed. It was not until just a couple of days ago that she caught in this Hemphill street clew. I never heard it even whispered except as a rumor without names or addresses, which had passed out of the minds of most people long ago. In fact, if I ever heard even the rumor, I probably thought it had been ferreted out and found to be a worthless one. I fail to see how the police can claim that there is anything in it when they have failed to capture the men.

"These two men are connected with pistols, with cleaning them and getting ready to commit a big crime. The crime was committed and they disappeared. Wolf and Lawrence are not connected with the case either by pistols or the stolen property. They were seen at the Adams street crossing on the night of the killing an hour and a half after the killing. This is right in the neighborhood in which Wilson was killed. Do you suppose they would have remained in that neighborhood on the night of the crime? They were not hiding from any crime that night nor were they hiding when they were caught. They simply walked into an express office and one of them called for a package and was sent to him by his mother and was promptly arrested. They were not suspected until after they left town. They never hid at any time during the trip to El Paso, except from trainmen. The two Hemphill street men have been in hiding from the night of the Wilson killing until the present time, and are still in hiding. It is the writer's belief that they are captured will be means of tracing the stolen diamonds and of placing the crime of the murder of Jim Wilson at their doors, where it properly belongs."

A council of all the leading statesmen was held at the palace today and it is rumored that as a result thereof the government intends to address a protest direct to St. Petersburg. Other information, which may be considered more reliable, says the Japanese government is awaiting the outcome of the negotiations at Peking and if they prove injurious to the interests and rights of Japan, the government will not shrink from the necessary measures. THIS BLIND TIGER CANNOT BE CAUGHT

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 26.—Although the people of Henryville and Monroe township, Indiana, have voted in favor of prohibiting saloons from operating there and the board of commissioners of Clark county have denied several persons license to sell, the thirsty souls who visit the booming little town need not remain thirsty, as an abundance of liquid refreshments can be had at two, and perhaps three, "blind tigers" that are operating on the principal street of the place.

TEXAS MILLERS MEET IN CITY

RE-ELECT MANAGERS OF MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

Wheat Crop of the State Is the Topic for Discussion—Yield Is Proving Larger Than Anticipated—Quality Is Excellent and Price Is Good

Five of the nine members of the board of directors of the Millers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Texas met at the headquarters offices on Sixth street this morning and re-elected the former management of the company—namely, Glen Walker and L. B. Kohle—Glen Walker being retained as the company's manager. The business of the company was looked over and its future policy discussed.

The board of directors met in Fort Worth recently and elected the officers of the company, the action regarding the management being deferred until the present time.

A HANDSOME INCREASE

The Millers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Texas is an institution of which Fort Worth, its headquarters, may well be proud. Although only five years of age, some interesting statistics are given in the reports of its officials. The increase in business the past year was 22 per cent and the saving made for the five years has averaged 41 1/2 per cent. The company carries some of the best business not only in the state, but is rapidly spreading out into a larger field, even as far as Canada.

DIRECTORS PRESENT

The directors present at the meeting this morning were E. R. Neal of Dallas, M. P. Bewley of Fort Worth, J. C. Whaley of Gainesville, J. N. Rayzor of Denton, H. Dittlinger of New Braunfels.

TALK OF THE WHEAT CROP

Besides the company business discussed at the meeting this morning, the wheat crop of Texas came in for its share of comments. The Telegram has previously given the estimated yield at from 22,500,000 to 25,000,000 bushels. The crop which is now being rapidly harvested and threshed gives assurance that these figures are not misleading and that the crop has not been overestimated.

One miller from the panhandle who could not be in attendance at the meeting said among other things in his communication that the wheat crop in his country now being thrashed is yielding far more than had been anticipated. Thus far the smallest number of bushels per acre is nineteen and a half, and from

SAYS HONORA SWORE TO FIRST COMPLAINT

As a reply to Sheriff Honora's interview, in which the sheriff declared that he was convinced of the innocence of Joe Wolf and Joe Lawrence in the Wilson case and had held that view from the start, Assistant County Attorney Cummings today said:

"If Sheriff Honora always held that opinion why did he sign and swear to the complaint charging Wolf and Lawrence with the Wilson murder? He did sign it and we have it on record here."

Mr. Cummings thereupon produced the complaint, which was sworn to before John L. Terrell, and reads as follows:

"Before the undersigned authority personally appeared John T. Honora, who being duly sworn, states upon oath that Joe Wolf and Joe Lawrence in the county of Tarrant and state of Texas heretofore on the 5th day of January, A. D. 1903, did unlawfully and with malice aforethought then and there kill and murder one Jim Wilson, by then and there shooting said Jim Wilson with pistols, from the effects of which the said Jim Wilson died," etc.

The complaint was subscribed and sworn to on January 15, and bears the signature of Sheriff Honora.

YOUNG MAN'S PLEA IN COURT SAVES HIM

When the case of P. F. Kelly, charged with sleeping in a public place, was called in the corporation court this morning, a neatly dressed, well spoken young man stood up from among the motley crew in the prisoners' dock and pleaded guilty.

"May I speak a word in explanation, your honor?" he asked.

"Being given permission by Judge Frewett, he said:

"Your honor, I landed in Texas yesterday from Chicago, looking for any sort of employment. When I came back I visited a number of drug stores looking for work. I then visited the employment agencies and announced myself ready for any sort of employment. I was engaged to ship out with a gang of railroad men. We were to go at 6 o'clock last night, but when that time approached I was told to come back at 11 o'clock this morning as the train would not depart until that time. I had no money and after wandering around town for a while I went to the depot. I was very tired. It is not a crime for a man to sleep in a public place in Chicago and I did not know that it was a crime here. I had just dozed off when an officer awakened me and took me to jail. If I am permitted to go I will promise to either find work today or get out of the city."

The judge permitted him to go.

Jack Ballinger was in court for tethering a cow to a railroad track. His case went over until tomorrow.

Charles Strouse, who was arrested several days ago for violating the sanitary regulations, asked to have his case passed until Monday on account of illness in his family. His petition was granted.

Myrtle Schaefer and May Rogers asked the court to furnish juries in their cases, which will be tried tomorrow.

BEING WELL ATTENDED

Threatening Weather Does Not Keep Crowds From Revival

Excellent attendance has marked the revival service held every evening at the First Christian church, notwithstanding rain and many unfavorable nights. Last night there was an unusually good attendance and following a stirring sermon five persons united with the church. This swells the number of additions during the series of meetings to sixty.

There will be services this evening at 8 o'clock, but there will be no services Saturday night. Since Mr. Hamlin assumed charge of the First church, last March, there have been seventy-five additions to the membership of the church.

AN INDUSTRIAL ENTANGLEMENT

So much has been contained in the dispatches regarding the application for a receiver for the United States Shipbuilding Company, and yet so little real information has been given that the following editorial from the New York Financialist is valuable both in summing up the actual conditions and in pointing out a valuable lesson in organizing enterprises on unsafe foundations.

The disclosures made in the application before the United States circuit court at Trenton, N. J., for a receiver for the United States Shipbuilding Company are not only interesting but instructive, showing at least how one of the industrial enterprises, which has been recently formed, was organized upon an unsubstantial basis, and indicating also the possibility that other schemes which have been promoted from time to time have likewise had an insecure basis.

Did you ever notice how complete is the weather report furnished every evening to readers of The Telegram? The Washington forecast for the southwestern states, the forecast for Texas, the local forecast, the country's weather record for the preceding twenty-four hours, the cotton region bulletin for Texas stations and the reports from the district stations, are all given every evening, making for an evening report published by any evening newspaper in Texas.

It would appear from the complaint before the court and the statements which have been made public by both sides to the controversy in the shipbuilding case, that while the constituent companies, which were taken over in the formation of the new organization, were actively going concerns, it is alleged that there was more or less misrepresentation as to the current earnings of the companies and also as to the magnitude of the contracts for construction which they possessed.

The Galveston show the same timidity about being launched that is evidenced in the young college graduate who desires a professional career, while his father insists that he raise cotton.

Unfortunately a combination of unfavorable conditions operated to mar the scheme soon after its organization. The ship subsidy proposition raised to be acceptable to congress, new construction which was expected to be promoted by American steamship companies was diverted to English yards; the prices of material and labor advanced; the securities created by the new corporation did not hold a ready market, and the underlying syndicate which undertook to finance the concern therefore became embarrassed. It appears that at this juncture a proposition was made practically which had been thought by the president of the United States Steel Corporation, with the shipbuilding company, chiefly for the purpose of enabling the latter to obtain its material at cost, and partly in order to ally new financial interests with the shipbuilding concern.

The great contest has reached the twenty thousand mark. Road about it.

VIOLET ALLEN AND HER MORAL PLAYS

Miss Allen is peculiar among American actresses in that she has never played other than a leading role, and that, too, in a career of more than twenty years of professional activity. It was after "Esmeralda"—in its extraordinary run two years ago at the Madison Square theater in New York—had passed its three hundredth performance, and Miss Annie Russell had tired of playing its heroine that Miss Allen got her chance. An absolute novice, she stepped into the role and acted it throughout the country. Her father, C. Leslie Allen, was a member of the company and presumably suggested her. She was then a young girl, as was Miss Russell, probably being about 17 and certainly under 20. Her mother and father were actors and the latter is still a valued member of his daughter's company.

AINSLIE'S FOR JULY

The novel in Ainslie's for July is "The Ribboned Way," by S. Carleton, author of "The Highway Road." Other familiar names among the contributors are Justus Miles Forman, author of "A Bit of Grease Paint" and "Journeys End," Ella Wheeler Wilcox, Charles G. D. Roberts, Guy Wetmore Carryl, author of "The Lieutenant Governor," George Horton, Joseph C. Lincoln and Robert Loveman.

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN SHAMROCK AND RELIANCE

There are features of the racer hull that are yet in dispute, and it is for this reason that the races of the present year are to be of unusual interest. The new defender has a hull that is broad and shallow, the new challenger one that is relatively narrow and deep. The under-water body of the Reliance, if seen from a station directly astern, looks like a slice from the bottom of a very flat turnip, the top root of which, however, represents the fin keel rather poorly.

GORDON ON GETTYSBURG

The anniversary of the great battle of Gettysburg is marked in the July number of Scribner's Magazine by General Gordon's vivid descriptive paper, perhaps the most brilliant account of it that the Confederate side of the conflict has produced. General Gordon contributes his personal explanation of how the Confederates failed to seize Cemetery ridge, the key of the whole situation, on the evening of the first day's battle when the Federal troops were routed.

CURRENT COMMENT

Servia, about which there is so much talk, is a little more than twenty times the size of Tarrant county, and would fit into Texas fourteen times, with over six hundred square miles left over. So far as the territory he rules is concerned, the news is not so bad as it might seem.

"GALLEY 13"

TEXAS HUMOR

The following bit of delicious fun-making appeared in a recent issue of the Sherman Democrat. As a piece of exquisite humor it has seldom been surpassed in Texas newspaperdom. "Dallas has a new city directory, and the men who gathered the information also took a thorough examination of every citizen, every human soul that could be found, and they report something like 75,000. This would not surprise the Democrat, as Dallas has been and is growing rapidly. She has more than 200 manufacturing concerns and some of them are very large ones. Dallas is destined to be a large city and its growth will be very rapid from now on. Dallas will be the jobbing center for a large scope of country. Fort Worth will be to Dallas what St. Joseph is to Kansas City, a parking center about half the size of Dallas. Houston, Galveston, San Antonio and El Paso have their legitimate fields with varied interests. They will also grow and there will be one large town somewhere in the northwest between Oklahoma City and El Paso, Texline and Fort Worth. It may be Amarillo.

THE SPECIAL EDITION

The railroad, cotton and livestock edition of The Fort Worth Telegram was up-to-date—Seymour News. The Fort Worth Telegram's 56-page special edition Sunday, May 17, is quite a creditable piece of journalism. The Panther City is faithfully pictured and described in the special—Ferris Wheel.

GRAUSTARK GEORGE BARR MCCUTCHEON Copyright, 1901, by Herbert S. Stone

Grenfall had formed many chance acquaintances during his travels, sometimes taking risks and liberties that were refreshingly bold. He had seldom been repulsed, strange to say, and as he went to his section dizzily he thought of the good fortune that had been in his other attempts and asked himself why it had not occurred to him to make the same advances in the present instance. Somehow she was different. There was that strange dignity, that pure beauty, that imperial manner, all combining to forbid the faintest thought of familiarity.

He took out the coin and leaned back in his chair, wondering where it came from. "In any case," he thought, "it'll make a good pocketpiece, and some day I'll find some idiot who knows more about geography than I do." Mr. Lorry's own ideas of geography were jumbled and vague, as if he had had them by studying the labels on his hatbox. He knew the places he had been to, and he recognized a new country by the annoyances of the customs house, but beyond this his ignorance was complete. The coin, so far as he knew, might have come from any one of a hundred small principalities scattered about the continent.

Before the train reached St. Louis he made up his mind to change cars there and go to Washington. It also occurred to him that he might go on to New York if the spell lasted. During the day he telegraphed ahead for accommodations, and when the flier arrived in St. Louis that evening he hurriedly attended to the transferring and reaching of his baggage, bought a new ticket and dined. At 8 he was in the station, and at 8:15 he passed her in the aisle. She was standing in her stateroom door, directing her maid. He saw a look of surprise dit across her face as he passed. He slept soundly that night and dreamed that he was crossing the ocean with her.

At breakfast he saw her, but if she saw him it was when he was not looking at her. Once he caught Uncle Caspar staring at him through his monocle, which dropped instantly from his eye in the manner that is always self-explanatory. His spirits took a furious bound with the realization that she had deigned to honor him by recognition, if only to call attention to him because he possessed a certain coin. Once the old gentleman asked him the time of day and set his watch according to the reply. In Ohio the manning scowled at him because he involuntarily stared after his mistress as she paced the platform while the train waited at a station. Again, in Ohio, they met in the vestibule, and he was compelled to step aside to allow her to pass. He did not feel particularly jubilant over this meeting. She did not even glance at him.

Lorry realized that his opportunities were fast disappearing and that he did not seem to be any nearer meeting her than when they started. He had hoped to get Uncle Caspar into a conversation and then use him, but Uncle Caspar was as distant as an iceberg. "If there should be a wreck," Grenfall caught himself thinking, "then my chance would come, but I don't see how Providence is going to help me in any other way."

Near the close of the day, after they left Cincinnati, the train began to wind through the foothills of the Alleghanies. Bellaire, Grafton and other towns were left behind, and they were soon whirling up the steep mountain, higher and higher, through tunnel after tunnel, nearer and nearer to Washington every minute. As they were pulling out of a little mining town built on the mountain side a sudden jolt stopped the train. There was some little excitement and a scramble for information. Some part of the engine was disabled, and it would be necessary to replace it before the "run" could proceed.

Lorry strolled up the crowd of passengers who were watching the engineer and fireman at work. A clear, musical voice, almost in his ear, started him, for he knew to whom it belonged. She addressed the conductor, who, impatient and annoyed, stood immediately behind him. "How long are we to be delayed?" she asked. Just two minutes before this same conductor had responded most ungraciously to a simple question Lorry had asked and had gone so far as to instruct another inquisitive traveler to go to a warmer climate because he persisted in asking for information which could not be given except by a clairvoyant. But now he answered in most affable tones: "We'll be here for thirty minutes at least, miss—perhaps longer."

She walked away after thanking him, and Grenfall looked at his watch. Off the main street of the town ran little lanes leading to the mines below. They all ended at the edge of a steep declivity. There was a drop of about 400 feet straight into the valley below. Along the sides of this valley were the entrances to the mines. Above, on the ledge, was the machinery for lifting the ore to the high ground on which stood the town and railroad yards.

Down one of these streets walked the young lady, curiously interested in all about her. She seemed glad to escape quick! Wire them to hold her, or there'll be an order from headquarters for some ninety day lay offs." The agent stared at him, then turned to his instrument, and the message went forward. Lorry rushed out. On the platform he nearly ran over the hurrying figure in the tan coat. "Parlous me, I'll explain things in a minute," he gasped and dashed away. Her troubled eyes blinked with astonishment. "At the end of the platform stood a mountain coach, along the sides of which was printed in yellow letters, "Happy Springs." The driver was climbing up to his seat, and the cumbersome trap was empty. "What to make $10?" cried Grenfall. "What say?" demanded the driver, half falling to the ground. "Get me to P— inside of twenty minutes, and I'll give you $10. Hurry up! Answer?"

"Yes, but you see, I'm hired to—" "Oh, that's all right! You'll never make money easier! Can you get us there in twenty minutes?" "It's four mile, partner, and not very good road either. Pile in, and we'll make it or kill old Hip and Jim. Miss the train?" "Get yourself ready for a race with an express train, and don't ask questions. Kill 'em both if you have to. I'll be back in a second!" Back to the station he tore. She was standing near the door looking up the track miserably. Already night was falling. Men were lighting the switch lanterns, and the mountains were turning into great dark shadows. (Continued tomorrow.)

MISSING WORD CONTEST: ASSISTANT SECRETARY BRIGHAM, of the department of agriculture, has been telling this one the last week: An Irishman and a Scotchman had some words about which was the better man of the two. Both were persistent in taking a rather egotistical view of the subject, and each resented any suggestion to the contrary from the other side. Finally they decided upon a friendly bout to test the issue. It was agreed between them that when either had enough the one ready to give in should shout "enough." The bout began. It kept up with fluctuating tides of fortune and misfortune, until finally the Scotchman cried: "Suffice it, 'Suffice it," repeated the man from the "old country." "Suffice it, is it you say? Beorra, that's the dommed word I've been striving to think of for half an hour."—New York Tribune.

MEANT TO KEEP THEM: Edwin Markham has a small son rejoicing in the classic name of Virgil. The other day the boy wanted to be taken and complained that a playmate was making love to his marbles. "Don't be so selfish, Virgil," said his mother. "Let the child play with them for awhile." "But he means to keep them always, mamma! Oh, yes, I know he does, 'cause he's just swallowed one!" was the aggrieved reply.—New York Times.

MUST HAVE BEEN TRUST MADE: Attorney General Knox, who is as keen in the enjoyment of the pleasures of life as he is in the pursuit of the trusts, invited a well-known newspaper correspondent with a golf reputation to ride out to the Chevy Chase links behind the record-breaking trotting track and occupy the honored stalls in the K street stables of the attorney general. When the two were spinning along over the concrete roads the correspondent suddenly remembered that he had forgotten to fill his cigar case before starting. The needed smoke was supplied by the correspondent, who seemed to have a boundless supply. After the game and the bath, and the ride home had been nearly completed, the cigars having been constantly lit, the attorney general then discarded the remainder of the cigars and remarked: "Well, we have had a nice drive, a good game and a pleasant afternoon, and I haven't violated my physician's orders not to use tobacco, either."

TRIBUTE TO SHAKESPEARE: The late Luigi Arditl had only a poor acquaintance with the English language, and this falling sometimes led him into awkward verbal eccentricities. At a promenade concert in London he was selected upon to explain that a singer would be compelled to appear in a traveling costume because of railroad blockades. He did so and concluded thus: "So, ladies and gentlemen, Mile. De Lido is undressed, she will sing if you please!" Arditl once visited Stratford-on-Avon and was shown all the relics connected with Shakespeare. "Ah, I remember," he said, "Shakespeare, yes, Romeo a Giulietta, 'Macbeth,' 'Hamlet.' He was a great librettist."

AS HANDSOME DOES: "Horses are such beautiful creatures," remarked Alicia. "Have you ever seen a horse stop in the middle of a race and refuse to run?" We inquired casually. "She had never seen such a sight, but we have. We had five dollars on that identical horse, and we swear we never saw a more homely looking animal."

PARIS DEFEATED THE PANTHERS

THE VISITORS HIT BUCHANAN FOR SIXTEEN SAFE ONES

Walsh Was Star Batter, Putting Ball Over Fence for Three Home Runs—Fort Worth in Third Place—New Season Opens Today

The Paris team had their batting clothes on yesterday and slammed the ball to every corner of the lot, winning easily by the score of 8 to 1. Not only did they hit the ball safe, but four of the hits went over the left field fence. Although Buchanan pitched brilliantly at times, he did not have his usual efficiency, as 16 safe drives, for a total of 29 bases, were made off of his delivery.

The game was a hard one on the players, as the mud on the diamond was still soft, and although sawdust had been sprinkled about, the black mud stuck to the players' shoes as only Texas black mud can. The diamond looked more like a plowed field after the game than a baseball field. The soft going prevented any fast work on the bases or any quick fielding.

The star of the game was Walsh, the Paris shortstop. He put the ball over the fence for home runs the first three times that he came to bat, and the last time he was robbed of a three-base hit, or possibly a home run, by a magnificent running catch of Poindexter's of a line drive that he made to deep center. The first time he made the circuit of the bases on somewhat of a fluke, as the ball hit the fence coming down and then bounced over. Wolfe also made a home run for Paris. His hit was one of the longest that has ever been made on the grounds, the ball going over the fence far down toward center field and twenty feet higher than the top of the boards.

The game was remarkable in that the eight runs scored by Paris were all earned, as was the single one made by Buchanan. Sullivan tried another experiment in Verheyden as pitcher. He proved a puzzle to the batters, although he did not use much speed. Buchanan fouted the Paris batters at times and struck out eleven of them.

Combs was back to his old form, beating out a bunt, and also hitting the ball for a two-bagger in the eighth, but he died at second base as he could not hit the ball again. Ditch made a nice two-bagger in the first, but could not get any farther.

This game ended the old series, and as Dallas won yesterday, it puts Fort Worth in third place. Paris, or Waco, as it is now, wins first place easily by 120 points. Dallas is second but one game ahead of Fort Worth, while Corsicana is a couple of games behind her in last place.

The new championship series starts today with Corsicana playing a series here and with the Waco team at Dallas. Fort Worth plays nine games at home before going away, and with the team playing as it is now they should be in first place when they leave. After the series with Corsicana, the Waco team comes for a three game series and after them Corsicana comes back again for three more. They come instead of Dallas, as Dallas and Fort Worth are considered the best towns for the fourth and so both are given home series at that time.

Dallas made it three straight from Corsicana yesterday and shut them out for the second time in succession. The score was 3 to 0.

MOVING BIG MONOLITHS

The Gigantic Task of Transporting Great Stones Begins

NEW YORK, June 26.—Two of the giant columns which are to be placed on the inner edge of the choir of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, on Morningside Heights, are now being prepared for shipment here at the quarry from which they were cut at Vinalhaven, Fox Island, Penobscot bay, Maine, and will start on their sea voyage to this city by steamer lighter some time within a week.

Each will be shipped in two parts. Each will be fifty-four feet high and six feet in diameter. The lower, and larger part will be thirty-six feet long and will weigh about eighty-five tons, while the upper part will be just half that length—eighteen feet—and will weigh about forty tons. The trip to this city should not take more than two or three days. The pier at which they will be landed on the North river has not yet been decided on, but it will probably be near One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street.

The transportation of the monoliths from the pier up the steep grade to the summit of Morningside Heights will be directed by Tommie Brothers of Boston. An immense wood and steel truck has been specially constructed about fifty feet long and ten feet wide with wheels having a tire tread of twenty inches. An engine at the top of whatever street may be chosen will haul the truck to the top. Two great sticks of Oregon pine 100 feet long will be used to support the load. The truck will be pulled by a cable and then they can be raised and set where they are wanted.

Excepting the shielick in Central park, there are no monoliths in this country, equaling in size and weight the lower sections of these pillars.

NEGRO PREACHER DEAD

Ridiculed the Late John Jasper, v-ho Said "the Sun Do Move"

RICHMOND, Va., June 26.—The funeral of Rev. Richard Wells on Sunday was attended by 7,000 colored people, 2,000 of whom were communicants of his church. Negroes packed the streets around the entire block on which Ebenezer church stands. The church service lasted four hours, and the eulogies were delivered by colored preachers and two tributes by white divines. Fifty carriages were followed to the cemetery by long lines of organizations, headed by brass bands.

Rev. Richard Wells preached all over the south. His fame was widely added to by reason of his rivalry to the late Rev. Jesse B. Semple, who made a declaration that "the sun do move" and gained the latter's lifelong enmity. Ever afterward, when Jasper preached his famous sermon, he was often, he preceded his discourse with a terrific arraignment of "Brother Wells," always devoting ten minutes to a severe criticism of his alleged lack of faith in the scriptures.

MANIFEST THEIR GRIEF

Friends Pay Last Tribute of Respect to Little Erwin Girl

The remains of Ota May Erwin, the 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. R. A. Erwin, who was killed in a street car accident in North Fort Worth Wednesday evening, were laid to their final rest in Oakwood cemetery this morning.

The funeral services attendant on the burial were conducted by Rev. Luther Little, pastor of the First Baptist church, and were attended by a large number of friends of the deceased, especially children. Many floral offerings told of the sorrow and sympathy of the friends. The funeral was at the home of Mrs. Erwin, near the parking-house.

Ota May Erwin was an unusually bright and attractive little girl for one of her age. The suffering which one of her tender years was compelled to endure in her taking away, had caused the profoundest grief.

OARSMEN TO RACE TODAY

Intercollegiate Contest Between Eastern Schools Will Take Place Before Thousands This Afternoon

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.—All arrangements for the intercollegiate association shell races, which take place here this afternoon, had been completed by the regatta committee at 11 o'clock this morning. The morning trains and boats from New York brought thousands of visitors and elaborate arrangements for their convenience were made. The observation train of fifty cars was waiting below Highland station, the flags had been fixed on the bridge; ferry boats were busy between the city and the west side of the river, and big yachts were getting into place about the finish line.

The races today are scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock, the indications having been that there would be a good tide then. The program laid out is as follows: At 4 o'clock—University four-oared shells. Distance two miles. Entries, Columbia, Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania.

At 4:45 p. m.—Freshman eight-oared shells. Distance two miles. Entries, Cornell, University of Pennsylvania, Syracuse University and the University of Wisconsin.

At 5 p. m.—University eight-oared shells. Distance four miles. Entries, Columbia, Cornell, Georgetown, University of Pennsylvania, Syracuse and University of Wisconsin.

As usual, the chief interest centers in the university eight-oared race. In the large amount of betting done this forenoon Cornell ruled the prime favorite. The critics base their judgment on the fact that the Ithaca crew won the race last year and that several of last year's crew have been displaced for seemingly better men. The Cornell crew has also made an excellent showing in its practice work here and in endurance is believed to be superior to the other contestants. Second place in popularity seems to be the University of Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, both being considered excellent crews.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW YORK, June 26.—The annual open golf championship tournament, under the auspices of the United States Golf Association, began today on the links of the Balmoral Golf Club, near Short Hills, N. J. Judging from the auspicious manner in which the play began, the large number and representative character of the entries, and the promptitude of officials and players, this year's championship contest will go on record as one of the most successful affairs of its kind that has ever taken place in the history of the game in this country.

NEW YORK, June 26.—E. R. Thomas will dispose of his stable of thoroughbred race horses at public auction at Sheepshead Bay next week, according to the Herald.

Disappointment, following the continuing defeat of the great $50,000 Hermitis, who has lost in each of the four races in which he started, is said to be the cause.

Among the thoroughbreds in the string are Yard Arm, Buttons, Omatas, Pentecost, Vagary, Dimple and St. Valentine. He also owns a half interest with Madden in Pulsus, a 2-year-old.

WEEKLY CROP SUMMARY

Review of Conditions Throughout the Country for Past Week

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions follows: While still too cool in the districts east of the Rocky mountains, the temperature conditions of the week ended June 22 were somewhat more favorable in the central valleys and southern states, but over portions of the lake region and middle Atlantic states and in New England it was colder than in the preceding week. Heavy rains in the two last named districts interrupted farm work, but in the Ohio and upper Mississippi valleys and Gulf states the conditions were very favorable for cultivation. Rain is now needed in the Dakotas, northern Minnesota and in portions of the central and east Gulf districts. The conditions on the Pacific coast were generally favorable, but in the coast sections of Oregon work was delayed by rain, while rains are needed in the eastern portions of both Oregon and Washington.

A general improvement in the condition of corn in the central valleys is indicated, especially over the western portions. In the lake region, New England and middle Atlantic states little or no improvement in this crop is noted. In all northern and central districts corn continues very late, but is in a good state of cultivation, except in the middle Atlantic states. In the southern states early corn is largely laid by, and is nearing maturity in Texas.

Winter wheat harvest has made favorable progress and is now general in the central portions of the winter wheat belt, with disappointing yields, especially in the southern portions of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. In the middle Atlantic states a general improvement is indicated. Harvest is general in California, with nearly average yields in most sections. In Oregon and Washington some improvement is noted, but the crop is in need of rain in the eastern portions of these states.

Spring wheat is suffering for rain in North Dakota and portions of South Dakota and is affected by rust quite generally in Nebraska. In the two last named states, however, the crop, as a rule, is doing well, and in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Iowa continues in promising condition. In Washington the crop has improved where moisture has been sufficient, but will be materially shortened in central counties and also in eastern Oregon unless rain comes soon.

The outlook for oats is less promising in the Dakotas, Nebraska, northern Minnesota, Missouri and southern Illinois. In Wisconsin, Kansas, on uplands in Iowa and in northern Illinois a good crop is promised. An improvement is reported from Michigan, the Ohio valley and middle Atlantic states.

Cotton continues small, but its general condition is somewhat improved. Cultivation has made good progress, and fields are clean, except in portions of eastern districts. In Texas plants are healthy and have made rapid growth, but the crop continues two or three weeks late. Boll weevil are spreading in Texas, but so far have done little injury. Lice are causing damage in the Carolinas, Arkansas and Missouri.

In New England tobacco needs warmth and sunshine, but elsewhere the crop has made favorable progress, except in North Carolina and portions of Virginia. Tobacco is growing well in Tennessee and Ohio valley, a marked improvement being reported from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Transplanting is about finished.

In Missouri, Arkansas, Illinois, Indiana and Pennsylvania apples are unpromising, but the outlook continues favorable in Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan and Kentucky. In New York the prospects vary from poor to good. In the Virginias and Ohio an improvement is reported.

Recent rains have caused a marked improvement in grass in New England and the middle Atlantic states, but the crop will be light in these districts and also in the upper Ohio valley. A good crop is being secured in the central valleys.

DEWEY RANCH IS WELL EQUIPPED

Managed by a Young Man Whose Trial for Murder Is Now Attracting the Entire State of Kansas—Has 50,000 Acres

Writing from Colby, Kan., a correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean says: "Oak ranch, which has been mentioned more or less within the past ten days in connection with the killing of Daniel Berry and his two sons by Chauncey Dewey and some of his cowboys from the ranch, is thought to be one of the largest ranches in the West owned and operated by a single individual. C. P. Dewey, the owner, is a millionaire who makes his home at Chicago, Ill., and Eureka Lake, a private summer resort, which he built near Manhattan. The younger Dewey, who is implicated in the killing, and against whom a charge was returned by the coroner's jury, has been managing the ranch for the past six years from 32,000 to probably 50,000 acres of land in Cheyenne, Rawlins, Sherman and Thomas counties. Dewey owns in the neighborhood of from fifty to sixty sections of land in these four counties and has been buying more in an effort to get all his possessions in one body. Some purchases were made from settlers, but a large portion of the land was secured by tax title.

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR THE SOUTH

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 24.—The progress in Southern industrial development for the week just closed, as reported by The Tradesman, includes a large number of very significant transactions, indicating general activity along all lines.

"It Takes the Cake"

is the usual favorable comment on the superb laundry work turned out at The Fort Worth Steam Laundry. The best of linen and other materials are easily ruined by careless and indifferent laundering. We cannot and do not hope to yawn and an out feeling comes even before the chill.

SIX THOUSAND CATTLE

The ranch was started about four years ago, and now in some places it is seventeen miles from one end to the other. Within the past two years Mr. Dewey has endeavored to buy adjoining farms, but the farmers are opposed to his accumulation of such enormous tracts of land in that vicinity, and for this reason there has been a bitter feeling existing between the Dewey and the farmers for some time. The latter refused to sell their lands to Dewey or any of his kinsmen agents, but real estate dealers from the East on the pretext of being settlers, managed to buy up a large share of the land for him. Oak ranch is a cattle ranch, and the present time there are about 6,000 cattle on the entire premises.

TWO HUNDRED MEN

There are 200 men employed on the ranch, most of whom are from the East. The ranch has eight headquarters connected by telephone with the main office, or division headquarters, as it is called. It is here where Chauncey Dewey has an office, and from where he gave his orders by phone to the assistant foremen every morning at 7 o'clock.

OWN POSTOFFICE

The ranch has its own mechanics, blacksmiths, harness makers, carpenters and painters, all of whom are employed on salaries. The ranch has its own postoffice, where all the mail for the ranch management and employees is sorted and distributed by messenger carrier to the different divisions. There are a large number of horses on the place, and an employe stated that probably seventy-five teams could be harnessed on short notice. If required, most of the provisions for the place are purchased direct from the wholesale houses at Dallas. Nothing is too good for the Dewey employes, and the cowboys stand by the management through thick and thin.

Summary of Them for the Benefit of Telegram Readers

The new Texas game laws are not generally understood as yet. The laws differ in some respects from the old ones, and the seasons and the protection of the birds: There are many people that know that certain birds or animals can be killed at certain seasons, but their knowledge is limited. Others know nothing at all about the same seasons and there are some who know all about certain parts of the laws, but do not know whether it is lawful to shoot deer at all or not.
