Mr. White has closed a contract with Zach Woodall of some famous 101 Ranch in Oklahoma, for a band of twenty-five rough riders, broncho busters and Cheyenne Indians, squaws and papooses, who will take part in all parades. Negotiations are on for another band of forty-seven Kiowa Indians, who were featured at the Omaha exposition.

Dr. C. A. Hickman, dentist, over Haddaway's drug store. School supplies at Haddaway's drug store. Yesterday the children of the north side were all busy getting books and making preparations for the coming session of the public schools which open tomorrow.

Superintendent Trimble looks for a large enrollment and in speaking of the methods and rules upon which the school will be conducted, said: "Our discipline will not be so rigid as to drive away pupils who can be controlled by kindness or reason, nor so kind as to retain in school criminals to the detriment of the whole body. A public school is not a reformatory and we will place our pupils under such restraints and require such obedience as we deem necessary to secure a maximum of work and to develop the highest type of manhood and womanhood. We believe strongly in placing pupils upon their honor, if they prove to have honor; but at the same time we believe it the duty of the faculty of any school to exercise all possible care to make themselves familiar with the general conduct of the students entrusted to them.

SCHOOL BOOKS AT HADDAWAY'S Mr. M. Stone has resigned his position with the Haddaway Drug Company and will leave today for Dougherty, I. T., where he goes for a short visit. Mr. Stone has been a citizen of the north side only a few months, but in that short time has gained many friends, who will regret to hear of his departure.

SPOILS GOOD STORY. (Special Cable to Telegram. Copyrighted, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, Sept. 12—Lloyd's Agency has spoiled one of the most engaging sea stories that has found currency in years. This yarn was, in effect, that the czar, steaming of $300 tons, plying between Europe and America, was "manned" by women in men's clothes, from captain down to scullion.

In French waters many fishing sloops have female crews, women being employed because they are capable, satisfied with smaller returns than men and eat less. But Lloyd's declares that the premium for insuring an ocean-going vessel under such conditions would be so heavy that no owner would even dream of getting women to "man" a vessel.

There is a steamer named the Czar, of 4,500 tons burden, but she has never entered American waters, trading only between Ouessa and Alexandria, and is actually on that trip at the present time.

Her captain's name is Herberovich, and his vessel is owned by the Russian Steam Navigation and Trading company.

IMPROVED ORDER OF REDMEN Last Thursday morning all the representatives to the great council of the Improved Order of Redmen met at Dallas to go in a body to Atlantic City, where the great council will convene. The representatives are George B. Ogden of Houston, W. C. Henderson of Beaumont, Sam T. Howland of Palestine, Billy Sims of San Antonio and J. H. Shunkin of Paris.

Last Friday night at the viewman adjourned meeting of the Redmen, No. 92, was held, when nine pale faces were passed upon and admitted to membership. The degree team donned their costumes and put on the work to the complete satisfaction of the other Redmen. It is a tower of strength when it comes to degree work, and with his assistance before many moons have waned Oneto tribe, No. 92, will have a degree team which will stand favorable comparison with the best in the reservation. Next Monday night will be their regular meeting, and it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance, composed not only of the old members, but those who have been recently initiated and also those whose names are on the list but have not yet been initiated. The main business of the evening will be the initiation of new candidates, the election of officers, election of a degree team captain and the selection of good material to make up the first team. Oneto tribe now has a membership of about 125 good active members, and expects within the next three months to double it.

Ward has been received from Brother Sedgwick and Kharrette, who are at present organizing a new tribe at Bowie, Texas, that they are meeting with unbounded success. These two brothers are about the best in Texas, and they are the start out to organize a tribe there in no such a thing as failure known to them.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 12.—The following marvelously interesting letter has just been received by the state health officer, Dr. George E. Tubor, and through his courtesy The Telegram correspondent has been permitted to copy it. It is written from Linares, by a person now confined in a Mexican jail, and while he is withheld from fear of calling down on his unfortunate head still harsher treatment. The writer is a prominent editor in Mexico, and the letter reads like the communications of Stephen F. Austin, while confined in a dungeon in the City of Mexico, or Ellis P. Bean while languishing in the dungeon at Acapulco, or the Texas prisoners in Castle Proctor.

As long as he retained the French flag Spain, by reason of a certain treaty, could object to any encroachment upon territory in northern Africa. Hence he has adopted the Liberian flag.

IDEA OF QUARANTINE Now as to the idea of conception these people have of the quarantine. In 1898 there was a case of yellow fever here, and made a big noise in my paper, even however, told by Reyes to be quiet, and had the principal people to come together to establish a quarantine. I got one man so excited that he offered to go on a railway bridge so that trains could not come from Victoria (Tampico). But he was the only one on whom I made an impression.

Then these followed the rest, and when all had gone a white faced servant came up and told her what had happened. The police had been quick with their reach, but the man they wanted had been quicker. He had left the house ten minutes before they arrived.

That Mr. Theodore Shelf had made his own exit and brought about his wife's social downfall most dramatically even the worst bit of his victims could not admit. The police with exquisite trouble had traced him to Paddington station and found that he had taken a first class ticket to Liverpool, and after using the wires they had returned to bed with the firm conviction that Shelf and his associates would meet the gentleman at Lima street. Of course they could not possibly guess that he had a wire halted for terrier dog had changed their route to Monmouthshire and had arrived in Newport in ample time to go on board one of his own steamers which had just finished coaling there.

CHAPTER XX. DECISIONS. When Campbell arrived back at the Port Edes, he found Captain Kettle sitting in the chairroom with a ring gripped between his teeth and a rhyng dictionary in his hands surrendering his reluctant treasures. On the mahogany desk in front of him was a sheet of much corrected manuscript, with a capital letter at the commencement of every line. And beyond, in a jam pot, was a bunch of waxen leaved magnolia flowers, with two coral pink magnolia cones, set around with a fringe of sherry leaves.

Only two men came up to her, and of the few who cast her a glance, half scorned, half curious, none added the smallest ghost of a bow. Of all that wondrous crowd, only two men came up to her before they went. One said, "Good night, Mrs. Shelf." The other said, "Good night, Laura. I'm very sorry."

IRRIGATION CAUSES ROSWELL TO BLOOM

(Special Correspondence)

ROSSELL, N. M., Sept. 11.—It was a pleasure to reach this little city and to traverse its streets lined with green shade trees, after a tiresome journey from Amarillo, an all-day trip across the glaring plains and a portion of the dusty, unwatered valley of the Pecos.

I see no reason why it is not within the power of nearly every Texas town and city, with an adequate water supply to have as beautiful streets. It is the best advertisement for a community, as it makes a lasting impression upon the stranger.

I have heard so much on the subject of irrigation, so much about the plenty and prosperity of an irrigated region, that I have desired to see for myself and learn from the men who have actually engaged in the work. I selected Roswell as the proper place, as it lies in the same latitude as a large portion of Texas, where several irrigation plants are being built and completed.

No other farming combination can beat alfalfa, kaffir corn and hogs, and I predict that this will be the principal business on the irrigated lands in Texas near Fort Worth.

You have no doubt heard of a country blossoming as the rose. It is a stock phrase with nearly every community under the sun. But when you hear of a country blossoming as the alfalfa, it is sure to be a country far better than any average, and perhaps better than any of which you have ever heard.

The growth of alfalfa, together with its varied and diversified uses, is the principal industry about Roswell. The alfalfa fields begin where the city homes end. No land is considered too valuable for the growth of this wonderful plant.

The alfalfa is now in full bloom, covering the fields with a glorious purple verdure, the blossoms emitting a fragrant odor, far sweeter to the busy bee and thrifty farmer than the finest and most costly extract of the attar of roses.

I must get down to the practical points of what I have seen. The first entrance into the irrigated district is apt to make one think of fairland and its great practical and profitable points are momentarily forgotten.

MAKES GOOD HAY Alfalfa makes the best hay under the sun, as well as the most profitable pasture; it has to be planted only once on suitable ground and will last indefinitely; under irrigation it never falls or affords pasture practically the year round and to make four or five crops of hay annually.

It possesses wonderful fattening qualities for cattle and swine; its value is without an equal for beef and poultry; and alfalfa butter and honey command the highest prices and quickest sales in the markets of our country.

No one ever sees a more contented-looking lot of kinds of live stock than those that graze upon the alfalfa fields. These alfalfa-fed cattle, sheep and hogs are the aristocracy of the animal world, and each looks as if it feels its immense importance. There is but one other member of the animal kingdom in all this part of the world who is really happier, and that is the good-natured farmer who is the possessor of such fine stock.

If the city of Roswell and its irrigated fields were as favorably located to the Swift and Armour packeries, the two greatest packers in the world, as some of our Texas towns and cities are located to Fort Worth. I do not feel competent to predict the wonderful profits to be derived, especially from the hog business. While the Roswell people are seriously handicapped by their great distance from market, nevertheless they are making more money from their hogs and alfalfa than the hog raiser without irrigation, though he be within sight of the packeries at Fort Worth.

JOHNSON GRASS CONQUERED That aggressive and bothersome plant, Johnson grass, has become the pest of irrigation, that makes an attempt to grow in an irrigated district. Alfalfa is the conqueror and it is the one master that controls Johnson grass absolutely.

Many of the alfalfa fields around here were Johnson grass meadows. After a start in the valley, alfalfa became so valuable that all available ground was used, and there was nothing left to do but to tackle the Johnson grass fields. These fields were turned under and alfalfa is planted thereon, which plant is a very rapid, hardy grower. The cutting of alfalfa is done five times each year, and the few bunches of Johnson grass that appeared in the fields from going to seed, whenever a plant is prevented from setting or seedling, it loses its vitality.

Alfalfa is a winter grower; on the other hand, Johnson grass is very susceptible to the cold. The latter plant is in no manner able to cope with a winter of our climate.

Some garden truck is raised for home and local use. The vegetables are large and juicy and on account of their freshness and quick growth by irrigation are far superior to the often stringy and stunted products of the unirrigated truck patch of other countries.

The Roswell vegetables would command a ready sale in the markets of the thickly settled communities of the town and other states. However, I was surprised that practically none of this garden truck was shipped away. Upon reflection, the reason is self-evident, as Roswell, with its fine railroad line, is too remote from the cities of Texas and other states for the profitable shipment of perishable products.

It has occurred to me that Roswell's location from the rest of the world would cause her people to make strenuous efforts to secure a broom factory, a canning factory and other similar institutions that would constantly use a large quantity of the raw products that can be so successfully raised upon irrigated lands.

Every roadway leading into Roswell is a shady country lane, along both sides of the road an irrigation ditch extends. Cottonwood, elm, willow and other trees line the banks of these ditches. The trees are large and tall and in many instances meet overhead. The farmer and his team drive from miles around into town, with but a touch of the sun's rays now and then.

Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonderful things in an irrigated district. Those of our readers who are affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age should go and see these things for themselves, and more than likely return home with newer and better ambitions to avail themselves of the splendid opportunities of irrigation in their own state of Texas.

PROSPEROUS CITY OF WICHITA FALLS

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, Sept. 12.—Not many years ago where the lake is now situated and makes Wichita Falls famous the Indian hunted the buffalo on the plains of Texas.

Civilization has, however, in its onward march driven the latter from the plains, and the former has gradually looking lot of kinds of live stock than those that graze upon the alfalfa fields.

Wichita Falls is now a prosperous little city of from 3,500 to 4,000 inhabitants. Its citizens are prosperous, progressive and energetic. It has a canning factory, a successful broom manufacturing plant, two of the largest flouring mills in the state, four elevators holding a large amount of grain and all of them full, and many industries are projected for the town and district and it is hoped to secure a large sugar beet factory. This year this section will market approximately 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and 600,000 bushels of oats, while from the irrigated lands adjoining the town, although this year purely an experiment and with the inexperienced irrigation farmer, the yield is fifteen cars of cantaloupes have been sent to Northern and Eastern markets, which in quality rivaled the celebrated Rocky Ford melon. Onions, beets, potatoes and other crops on a small scale have been grown with the best of success and the final outcome of the irrigation scheme is assured.

It was the pleasure of the writer this morning to visit the irrigation lake and a finer artificial body of water does not exist in the Sunny South than is owned and used at Wichita Falls.

William H. Taff

William H. Taff, who is to be the next secretary of war, has made such a success as civil governor of the Philippines that he is now considered a likely candidate for future presidential honors.

IT FALLS. It covers some 3,000 acres of land to an average depth of seven feet, and although through ignorance the water has been allowed to go to waste, the lake has only been lowered about one foot during the entire summer.

The soil is peculiarly adapted to irrigation and it only needs experienced irrigators to demonstrate the fact. Outside of irrigation Wichita county offers equal inducements to the home-seeker, stock raising and small grain showing the best results demonstrated so far outside of irrigation. There is now along the irrigation ditch a crop of Mexican June corn, the stalks of which are, without exaggeration, eighteen feet high, and one or two experimental crops of cotton which, the estimation of the writer, will raise two bales per acre.

Without any intention of being too optimistic the writer believes that this excellent condition, many of them being to the farmer equal to any other section of the state. The banks are today anxious to loan their money, their coffers being filled to an unusual extent 95 per cent of which is to the credit of the farmers. There are here two banks with approximately a half million dollars in assets, in a county with less than 10,000 population.

The public schools of the city are in fine condition, occupying a thoroughly modern brick building, a large and efficient corps of teachers are employed, who are paid by an independent school district embracing about twenty-five square miles.

The merchants are successful and prosperous and there has not been a failure among them for many years. Here is a thoroughly organized commercial club composed of the representative business men of the town who are pushing the best interests of the town with vim and fireless energy. There is a splendid water works system, with supply derived from the irrigation lake, and the millions of gallons of water, a volunteer fire department of about fifty men. The fire record is and has been for several years very low. The sewerage problem remains yet to be solved, but it is expected that a thorough system will be installed in the near future.

The streets and county roads are in excellent condition, many of them being graded and macadamized with natural cement gravel found along the waters of the big Wichita river and which no other section can use without great expense in the matter of freight rates, almost if not quite equaling asphalt in its service.

The cultivation of cotton in this section is as yet very limited, but what has been raised has proven very profitable, and the boll weevil has never made his appearance.

The crop in this year yielded from fifteen to thirty-five bushels per acre, not half of the crop having been marketed as yet, being held by farmers in their granaries.

The University opens Tuesday

Program Which Will Be Carried Out After Students Are Enrolled and Graded

The three months of earnest work during vacation at Fort Worth University are apparent to every observer in the condition with which the school awaits its opening day. The paths are newly cut, outlined and graded. The campus is neatly cut and trimmed, the tennis courts are laid, the athletic field prepared, while the interiors are fresh and clean and many newly furnished.

The students are turning up unusually early, while the members of the faculty are without exception present and preparing for their year's work. Dr. MacAdam is determined that the school's advertisement and commendation shall be the work done with the student and that the excellent record of the past in this direction shall, if possible, be exceeded in the future.

Next Tuesday will be entrance and enrollment day, and from 9 in the morning until evening the entire time will probably be occupied in registering and grading students, assigning rooms, etc. The opening will occur Wednesday morning, with a brief but very interesting program in the university chapel, to which the citizens are cordially invited. The exercises will begin at 8:45 and will include the following:

Male quartet—Robert Ferrer, John Bradley, R. M. Pease and Bert E. Clifton. Address—Mayne P. Powell. Vocal solo—Miss Pruitt. Address—George E. Nies. Solo—Professor R. M. Pease.

THE LATEST IN RAILROAD NEWS

DALLHART, Texas, Sept. 11.—Considerable gossip has been afloat through this section about the Santa Fe railroad coming to Dallhart from Hobbs, Kansas, over the Rock Island tracks. If the proposed road comes to this place it will extend to Llano, N. M., and will build a cut-off from Llano to a new Albuquerque making a direct line from the east to the Pacific coast, 225 miles shorter than any other.

It is further claimed that the Santa Fe will make this the division point. If this is done the roundhouse force will be doubled and the monthly pay roll increased accordingly. The present pay roll of the Rock Island is $100,000 per month. The Dallhart Commercial Club has been in correspondence with the officials of the road and is making a great effort to get the scheme through. Nothing has been asked by the road in the way of a bonus.

COTTON MOVING SLOWLY It was shown yesterday that the movement of cotton from northern Texas points over one division of railroad into Fort Worth is very small in comparison with the movement last year during the same period, which includes up to date. The number of cars that passed over the division referred to last year up to date was 5,000. This year for the same length of time the number is 100.

However, this is no indication of the extent of the crop in the locality mentioned but simply indicates the lateness of the crop. Trainmen said that when

ARREST OF NEGRO FOR WIFE MURDER

Bob Brown, a negro, was jailed last night at 6 o'clock on a warrant charging him with murder. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Hamill Scott. The negro is accused of killing his wife.

Before Justice Rowland, who held an examining trial just after Brown was arrested, the negro told his story which in effect was that he gave his wife a dose of medicine, from the effects of which she died.

Brown told the court that his wife looked all day Friday and was very tired and later became sick. He left the house and on his way to town met a white man who engaged him in conversation, during which the subject of his wife being sick came up. The white man, whose name the negro did not know, took from his vest pocket three capsules and directed that they be given her. He returned, according to his story, the court and gave the medicine as he was directed by the white man. In two hours the woman was dead.

The mysterious death was reported by the neighbors to the sheriff's office and immediately a warrant was sworn out for his arrest and placed in the hands of Officer Scott who found the negro at his home.

The dead woman was a delegate from a colored church in Fort Worth to the national gathering of colored people to be held soon at Philadelphia and intended to leave for that city in a day or two.

At the examining trial last evening the negro waived and was remanded to jail.

Van Buskirk, general master mechanic, and wife; W. F. Stepler, general freight agent; H. Chilton, chief clerk in general passenger and ticket agent; Gilsen's office; J. H. Kelley, traveling engineer; J. A. Murphy, J. G. Nash, J. B. Brandenburg, Paul Jamison, J. L. Terry, Leo Friedman, J. H. Chamberlain, H. B. Sperry, J. E. H. Allen.

Mr. Scott replied to the presentation and said it was gratifying to him to know that his old associates and employees held him in such high esteem.

RATE CLERKS TO MEET The semi-annual meeting of the passenger rate clerks of Texas lines will be held at Fort Worth Sept. 14, and the clerks of the Fort Worth roads left here today to be present. An effort will be made to have future meetings of the association held at either Houston or Dallas. There is some opposition to the move and it is not likely that it will carry. There will be no meeting to be considered at the Rockport meeting other than a modification of the rate sheet.

TEXAS GIRL APPOINTED Miss Helen Gould has selected as her private secretary Miss Tony Young of Palestine. She is the daughter of C. E. Young, right-of-way agent of the International and Great Northern railroad. Miss Young has gone to New York on the summons of Miss Gould, whom she met during the latter's recent visit to Texas.

W. E. Maxfield, road foreman of engines of the Texas and Pacific, was in Fort Worth yesterday for a few hours. Texas and Pacific freight engine No. 205, which has been overhauled and repaired in the Fort Worth shops, was run out for its initial run yesterday.

THE KING IS GOLF THEME Transcendent Importance of Edward of England Is Again Dwarving That of William of Germany

BRITAIN'S RULER IS POWERFUL IN WORLD Much Interest Shown in the Meeting Between the Two Monarchs Which Is to Be at Vienna—Germans to Fight Their Own Battles

Special Cable to The Telegram. Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst. BY MALCOLM CLARKE BERLIN, Sept. 12.—The transcendent importance of King Edward of England again dwarfing that of the Kaiser—as during Edward's royal tour of Europe—is indicated by the eager interest of Germans and Austrians in all that befalls Edward at Marienbad and elsewhere as the Vienna meeting of the emperors becomes imminent.

Ordinarily, the presence of the German emperor at the army maneuvers in Saxony and the particulars of that grand military function would be the main topics. But people were only mildly interested on Monday to learn that the Kaiser had bivouacked with his soldiers, and that 80,000 men in full equipment had fought sham battles in a temperature of 120 degrees in the sun. One feature of the maneuvers, to be sure, caused considerable comment—owing to the fierce heat, so many German soldiers were struck by the ambulances and field hospitals were nearly as busy as during a real and sanguinary engagement.

But when the news concerns Edward of England there is great pricking up of ears. The Germans do not think of Britain's ruler as "strenuous" in the sense that their Kaiser is, but they feel that he is powerful—powerful as a material fact and powerful in his world-wide influence. What will he do and say at Vienna? Will he greet the Kaiser cordially, and satisfy the world that German interests are in his mind? Or will he by his potent manner of polite indifference show that so far as he is concerned, the Germans are to fight their own battles? These are the questions that engross German minds.

Meanwhile they read with delight the court gossip of Marienbad. The young Austrians of fashion who are there have not failed to notice that King Edward has worn a red tie every day since his arrival, and that his cravats are to be the fashion at Vienna this season, and will be known as "King Edward ties."

His majesty is having his portrait painted by the artist, Arthur Kurtz. The king desired a ring set with diamonds which the late queen gave him to be worked into the portrait and worn it round his tie. The more prominence would be given to it than if worn on his finger. The king's new pet terrier has been presented at the sittings, and Herr Kurtz will paint its picture as well as the king's.

Also there has been an old-fashioned lively act. While Edward was driving in the direction of Eger, he overtook an old peasant woman staggering along under the weight of a huge bundle of chopped wood. Perceiving the difficulty with which she plodded along, the king's motor stopped, and he asked her where she wanted to go. In being told, the king invited her to jump into his motor car.

She, however, seemed to regard the offer with suspicion, and said she had never been in such a thing in her life. "Never mind," said the king, "now's your chance." But she still objected, and said she was too dirty to sit among fine gentlemen.

The king would have no refusal, and having overcome her scruples she climbed into the car, and was whirled to her destination without the least mishap to the man who had befriended her. As the king set her down he pressed a gold piece into her hand.

More seriously interesting is the news that Emperor Francis Joseph has so plainly manifested his annoyance over King Leopold's treatment of his daughter, who is now the Countess of Flanders, that his Belgian majesty is literally afraid to go to Vienna.

King Leopold wished to put an end to the strained relations and announced he intended to visit Vienna, but the emperor, not wishing to meet him, postponed his stay at Budapest, although the conference on the Hungarian crisis was at an end.

King Leopold, finding that his visit to Vienna would prove abortive, changed his program and will now go to Zurich.

The coming week is expected to develop important events in Vienna, though it does not now appear that the three emperors who will meet there have any intention of taking any decisive concerted action in Macedonian waters.

KING EDWARD IS MUCH BETTER Very Thorough in Taking the Treatment of Medical Baths at Marienbad, Reducing His Weight

TOO MUCH ATTENTION FROM ALL VISITORS He Is the Most Popular Man in All Europe—Is Called Edward the Peace-maker—As Great a Favorite on Continent as in England

BY PAUL LAMBETH. (Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, Sept. 12.—Those who have seen King Edward since he left Vienna have all remarked that he seems to be in better health than he was three weeks ago. He is said to have been very thorough in his application to the curative process, taking medical baths as well as the waters internally, and as a result has reduced his weight by several pounds.

The one drawback to his complete comfort has been the too flattering attention of the other visitors at the place. They did not spare his majesty in their anxiety to get a near view of the "peace-maker," as he is beginning to be called, and this proved too trying, even for his inexhaustible good humor.

There is no doubt that King Edward VII is the most popular man in Europe today, and on the continent he is almost as great a favorite as among his own subjects, and all the hostility to everything English, including the royal family, that was rampant throughout Europe a year or two ago is disappearing before the irresistible geniality and tact of Britain's present sovereign.

The latter part of his stay at the Tyrolean watering place King Edward spent with his brother-in-law, King George of Greece, who is now at the villa in the town of Garmisch, and his majesty emerged from his incognito as "Duke of Lancaster" and entered Vienna in state on a visit to Emperor Francis Joseph, which he enjoys very much.

ENGLAND AWAITS CABINET MEETING

(Special Cable to The Telegram. Copyright, 1903, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, Sept. 12.—England is eagerly awaiting news of Monday's cabinet meeting. The war scandals and the Macedonian situation will be discussed, but the most absorbing topic will be Chamberlain's proposition for the adoption of a modified form of protection.

lected it will strengthen the free trade opponents of Chamberlain, giving the keynote of the sentiment of the people. There is a belief that Balfour is prepared to throw Chamberlain overboard being incited thereto by the Duke of Devonshire.

Chamberlain continues preparing for the battle in the autumn, when begins the campaign of education against free trade. It is believed the cabinet will discuss the Balkan situation and the advisability of dropping the support of Turkey.

SPECIAL CABINET MEETING LONDON, Sept. 12.—A special meeting of the cabinet has been summoned for September 14, and the political atmosphere is thick with rumors. These include reports that a general election will break up and that a general election will be held, or at least that the cabinet will be reorganized.

EXHIBITS COMING FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR

Agent T. Graham of the World's Fair commission who has been in South Texas for the purpose of making collections of rice, tobacco, cotton and sugar cane, returned home yesterday sick and was unable to complete his work in that part of the state. He succeeded in making a general inspection of the various fields and is satisfied that he will be able to secure an exceptionally fine exhibit of the products of that part of the state. He discovered that the exhibits are not yet matured and on this account, also, there will be delay in getting the stuff to Fort Worth. It will be several weeks yet before the displays from that part of Texas will be ready to be shipped to Fort Worth.

at the St. Louis fair. He is very anxious to impress upon the farmers generally the importance of making a creditable showing and to do this they must come to the front with their products.

It is the desire of the Texas commission to make an extraordinary exhibit of diversified crops, and the showing from the Panhandle will especially be good.

Every day something is received at headquarters and those in charge of the place report that while some sections are a little slow in sending in exhibits as a general proposition the work is being carried on very satisfactorily.

The dry forage display that will go from Texas to the fair will probably be the finest to be seen from any other state in the union. It will include milk maze, Kaffir, June and Jerusalem corn, which is especially adapted to dry country. The headquarters have some very fine samples.

BOLL WEEVIL BOARD MAKES A REPORT

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 12.—The board appointed by the governor to test the merits of remedies submitted in competition for the prize of $50,000 offered by the state for the destruction of the boll weevils have submitted the following report of remedies and tests to the governor.

no demonstration could be made at this meeting. The board they adjourned to the place selected by Mr. Mebane, where the tests could be made. This was on a farm owned by Frank Johnson, about one and one-half miles from San Marcos.

The planter everywhere exhibited the keenest interest in these experiments—large numbers being present and watching all that was done, showing conclusively the belief among our farmers generally that, as dangerous as this pest may seem to be, some plan will be discovered by which we will be enabled to make a cotton crop.

Many of these devices or machines were so imperfectly constructed that we could hardly form a just estimate of their value. Your board is bound to report that none of the machines or remedies examined would meet the requirements of the law under which we were acting, but from those investigations we are inclined to the belief that some plan will be devised that will in a large measure overcome the losses sustained by the farmers from this destructive insect.

We believe that some good has been accomplished from these gatherings of farmers to witness the experiments and in the exchange of experiences.

After the meeting at Brenham it was the conclusion of this board of practical farmers that no further experiments should be undertaken this year, and that notice might be given to all those who desired to do any further proof of the value of their discoveries as to meetings that will be held after the planting of the crop for the next year.

The number of claimants for the reward offered by the state for the destruction of boll weevil up to time of making this report is one hundred and sixty-two. The number of affidavits filed is thirty-nine. Quite a number of these claims are based upon cultural methods and present many similarities. Those remedies that propose to treat the plant with some form of poison or fumigation are also subject to the same description. Respectfully submitted, JEFFERSON JOHNSON, Secretary.

KINDERGARTEN WORK

This has been made possible by the happy cooperation of many influential citizens.

The private kindergarten at 1119 Lamar street, in charge of Miss Martin, begins its session tomorrow. The free kindergarten in the Third ward, directed by Miss Hammers, also opens tomorrow, Sept. 14, at 9 o'clock. It is expected that the kindergarten will reach the limit of their capacity at an early date.

THE COTTON CRISIS

The Fort Worth office of R. G. Dun gives out the monthly trade review, in which the cotton crisis is discussed. The review says:

"Of all farm products the most artificial condition prevails in the cotton market. Statistical reports, together with the lateness of the crop, unquestionably warrant high prices, but it is impossible to eliminate the factor of speculation, which occupies the position of greatest prominence. Cotton goods have advanced moderately in price, and were the raw material within the bounds of reason there would be no difficulty in securing abundant orders for goods. But whenever mill stocks of cotton become exhausted, unless contracts are imperative, there is a cessation of work pending the marketing of the new crop. A recent canvass of the mills disclosed the fact that about 2,375,000 spindles were idle, throwing 35,000 employes out of work, and these figures are steadily increasing. But the contract stocks of cotton are under control of a clique, which absorbs all offerings in order to maintain quotations. In an ordinary season the new cotton would now be moving in sufficient abundance to affect prices, but the crop is so tardy that the speculative factor is omnipotent. Thus far buyers of goods have been able to delay making purchases in any considerable quantity, and the contest is between consumer and speculator. Meanwhile the manufacture is demoralized, and it will take many weeks of normal conditions to restore anything like a natural movement or healthy markets. More cargoes have been returned from Europe for delivery against short contracts, and the stock at New York fails to show a seasonable reduction. News from plantations indicate that a large yield will be secured provided early frost does not appear. This is the only drawback to a late crop, which may reach large dimensions. Planters continue to secure benefit from the high level of prices by selling options against their prospective harvest, but in the long run the injury done by the cotton corner of 1903 cannot fail to largely outweigh any benefits."

In the cotton-growing country the high prices are welcomed, and today the producer is getting more for his product than since the war. Why should this be considered such an injury? That mills have shut down is distressing, and the loss to employees is disastrous, but at the same time it has brought a better price to the man who raises cotton than he has had in years, and he is entitled to it. The "corner" does not prevent the crop moving, as the review of trade appears to think, but on the other hand the ardness has helped the corner. Do not make so much noise because cotton growers are getting full value and a little more.

The Telegram this morning publishes a second installment of the story about salt water in the oil wells at Beaumont. A great many have laughed at the statement, saying it is absurd, and other have discussed it as probable. The Telegram gives it for what it is worth, and gives its authority. There is one thing which must be admitted—the Standard Oil Company would do all that is charged if it is possible. They propose to choke all competition when they can, by fair means or foul.

The police committee did not find that the charges made by former Alderman Tucker are true, therefore the officers are exonerated. A few investigations like that held yesterday, however, will have a healthy effect on the police department, and it would be well to keep the committee in readiness for the meeting, when complaints are made.

DETAILS OF A TRAGEDY AT SEA

Coasting Schooner Strikes a Submerged Rock, Partly Fills With Water and Turns Turtle in Open Sea

NO FOOD AND WATER FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Seventeen Persons Cling to the Bottom of the Overturned Craft—Nine of the Victims Slide Into the Sea—Rescue Comes After Five Days

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 12.—The details of a sea tragedy in the West Indian waters have been reported by the schooner W. S. Fielding, which has just returned to this port.

Nearing Port-au-Prince on her outward voyage, the Fielding ran her on a dark object, which was found to be an overturned boat with seven men and one woman clinging to it and striving with the little strength that was left in them to hold on to the slippery bottom.

The coasting schooner, name unknown, to which they belonged had struck a rock, partly filled and then had suddenly "turned turtle."

The crew of seventeen persons had all managed to get upon the bottom of the craft.

Days of starvation and thirst ensued, during which nine of the seventeen died. On the fifth day came the rescue of the eight survivors.

The Fielding was about twelve miles from the island of Gonaves when the wreck was sighted.

Captain King altered his ship's course and ran close to the wreck. A life line was thrown and was caught by two men and a woman. These three were so weak that the captain decided to bring the others aboard by boat rather than risk their being held of the line.

The survivors were soon transferred to the Fielding. They had been without food or drink four days and nights, but slowly recovered under careful nursing.

SOME INCIDENTS OF CONFEDERATE CAMP

The week at the Confederate park that closed yesterday has abounded in primitive joys and friendly associations. It has been distinctively an attraction for the citizens of the adjoining communities and smaller towns. The distance of ten miles that appalls the Fort Worthites and stirs him to recount his deeds of prowess in driving along a gravelled road for two hours is a small matter to the man and woman of the farm and village. They came to the camp by the hundreds, they brought all kinds of wholesome country cooking with them and listened with absorbed interest to the speakers, favorite of the meeting. They can play "Dixie" and "Bonnie Blue Flag," "Old Folks at Home" and "Old Black Joe."

COLONEL CHENOWETH'S TALK
Colonel J. Q. Chenoweth, superintendent of the Confederate home at Austin, sent to speak at the hour set apart for his address. He justified the admission that has been his always. He paid his respects to the man who was a "soldier by conscription and a veteran by age." He told many stories full of the wit and

Davis being quoted in illustration. Not the least interesting story told by Colonel Chenoweth was in regard to a correspondence with a member of the Julia Jackson chapter, Fort Worth, Daughters of the Confederacy, soon after assuming charge of the Confederate home. He announced that comfortable rocking chairs for the inmates of the home would add to their comfort. In response the express companies were soon congested with rockers. One was a handsome leather upholstered Morris chair, much larger than would be convenient in any of the rooms occupied by the inmates. He therefore wrote to the donor and suggested that she permit the chair to sit in the office of the superintendent. In reply he got this letter:

"Dear Sir: The state of Texas is rich enough to purchase all the chairs needed for the office of the superintendent of the home. The chair was sent for the use of an inmate of the home. Nothing the recitations and the songs that were arranged for their entertainment. Then after the night's program they drove the way homeward, and not one was heard to plume himself on his strenuousness.

the invitation. Captain Freeman of Fort Worth looked after their interests and comfort. When the tent for the Daughters of the Confederacy failed to arrive the old gentlemen from the home, with the aid of long poles, insisted that the ladies have the tent set aside for them. Meanwhile the Kentuckians would sleep under the open sky.

These gentle-mannered, courteous old gentlemen were, worn by age and the ravages of disease. One had not had any kind of outing in more than nine years. Another had been an invalid for many years and was able to get around for the first time in many months.

In the twilight, sitting by the booth of the Daughters, one of them told of the kindness that had been shown him by friends and strangers since he had been an invalid.

"My health was broken while in prison," said he. "I was first sent to Rock Island and the severe winter, without clothing, fire or proper shelter and lack of sufficient food undermined my constitution to such an extent that I have never been a well man since. Each man was allowed a small piece of meat and a pound of bread a day, but the bread was water-soaked to add to its weight, and the meat was often tainted. One quart of beans was allowed five men for every week. But it was scant food clothing and lack of fire that caused us the greatest suffering. The wind and cold came through the cracks, and we were unaccustomed to such a climate."

He joined his companions, and together they walked feebly to the pavilion. The woman who had heard him had a lump in her throat and before the story was ended was sobbing in a paroxysm of sorrow. Her father had been one of the sufferers of that Rock Island prison for many long months, and only with Lee's surrender had he been released. His home-coming had for companion the shadow of death. In a few short weeks they met and continued the journey together.

ORGANIZER OF CLERKS TALKS OF HER WORK

Mrs. Emma Lanphere, the national organizer of the Retail Clerks' Protective Association, who has been in the city some days in the interest of her work, said today that she was meeting with much encouragement in her work, and expected to see a substantial increase of the local membership which is now about 150. She says there are about 600 clerks in Fort Worth, and an effort will be made to get them all into the union.

She will conduct a meeting in Laker Temple next Monday night, at which matters of interest to the clerks and others will come up. On that night Mrs. Lanphere will organize a woman's union label league, the object of which is to get the women of the city interested in unionism, what is demanded by unions and the benefits to be derived from organized labor.

Mrs. Lanphere has been connected with the national order of clerks for four years, and has seen the order grow from 16,000 when she first associated herself with the organization, to 60,000. The clerks have unions in every state and quite a few in Canada. There are now three national organizers in the field.

Mrs. Lanphere arrived in Texas several weeks ago and made her first stop at Amarillo, where there was a union. She assisted the officers there in creating a deeper interest in the work, after which she came on to Fort Worth, where she has been some days and during her short stay here has done much work for the cause of labor. She not only organizes among the clerks, but takes an active part in the formation of other crafts.

Mrs. Lanphere, when she concludes her work in this city will visit Denison, Sherman, Paris and Dallas, where she will enthrone the clerks to more effective work. From the latter city she will go to South Texas and continue the work of organization. She will be in the state until December 1.

Mrs. Lanphere has been in many of the big labor strikes in this country. She took part in the great anthracite coal strike in 1900, the Bridgetown, N. J., glass bottle blowers' strike, where hundreds of children were implicated. This latter, she says, was the most interesting to her. There were children in these factories doing manual labor. Children who were from 6 to 14 years of age and the fight was made on the management to do away with child labor. Many of these had been working in the factories for four years. When the fight had been ended the union people had won a victory as they succeeded in having only those who were below the age limit employed.

Mrs. Lanphere was also in the great Reading, Pa., strike. This was the trouble in which the Reading Coal and Iron Company was interested, and resulted in a great fight. President Baer was at the head of the company and he made a heroic defense of what he termed his rights, but lost.

Mrs. Lanphere has had a very interesting career in her fight for the principles of unionism, and delights in relating them. She especially invites the ladies to be present at the Monday night meeting.

YOUNG FOLK DANCED

The young folk found no end of fun at the dancing platform, where an old-time fiddler and veteran played "Money Musk," "Weavily Whoot" and other inspiring tunes. There were no two-steps nor other modern fantasies, but "Do-so-do," "Swing or cheat," "Cheat him if you can," "Ladies out and gentlemen in, three hands up and go it again," were heard during the afternoons and far into the night.

WORK OF THE DAUGHTERS

The Daughters of the Confederacy worked with unceasing zeal in furnishing sandwiches, coffee and ice water to the hungry and thirsty. They will have a snug sum to turn into the coffers of the charity fund of the camp. Mrs. L. J. Clayton, president of the Julia Jackson chapter, was in camp and Mrs. Frank L. Jordan, the secretary, made a reputation for her office. She managed the canteen and business with consummate judgment. The officers were assisted by Mrs. B. M. Harding, Mrs. North, Mrs. Stanbery and Miss Ellis.

Mrs. Duke Goodman was called away on Monday by the death of a sister, and was greatly missed by both Daughters and visitors.

WOMEN WORK TO OUST REED SMOOT

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—The Record Herald today says: "If it be found that he is a polygamist we ask that he be expelled from the senate as a violator of the laws of his own state."

There is ample ground for expelling, according to the women, whether he is a polygamist or not. The petitions will read:

MYTHS FIGURE IN DIVORCE CASE

A dummy divorce suit was filed in the district clerk's office yesterday afternoon. Its title is E. O. R. Justice vs. D. O. Justice, and it never will come to trial for the simple reason that there are no such persons as those named in the petition.

All in due form the cruel E. O. R. Justice is accused of having abandoned his lovely and charming marital partner, D. O. Justice, who treated him with forbearance and kindness and conducted his household affairs with economy and prudence, and in every way endeavored to carry out his sacred obligations she took at the altar.

The purpose behind the filing of this suit is interesting. The attorneys paid the initial costs for filing and docketing and for the court house, amounting to a total of 50 cents, and the case was duly filed in the Seventeenth district court. Then the lawyers filed another suit, the only difference between the two being that the second one is real and deals with real live persons.

The title of the second suit is O. C. Von Hofe vs. G. E. Von Hofe for the divorce. Under the rules this suit goes into the Forty-eighth district court, the non-jury docket of which is still open. Therefore, it will come up next month for action. If the suit had been filed in the Seventeenth district court it would not have gone on the docket for this term, and, therefore, would have gone over for the September term in the Seventeenth district court will be taken up by Judge

Don't Neglect Your Health.

1468 Second St., LOUISVILLE, KY., April 14, 1903.

I have been weak and sickly for the past four years, caused by irregularity and carelessness regarding the laws of health, but about five months ago my condition became very serious. I had severe backache and suffered a constant dull pain in my head. I lost my appetite and became extremely nervous and irritable. I spent weary, painful days, and miserable, restless nights. The doctor told me that I must have patience as I had a serious case of inflammation of the bladder and uterus and he prescribed an injection as well as a tonic.

His medicine did not, however, give me even temporary relief and as I had been told of the curative qualities of Wine of Cardui I decided to try it.

I found that it relieved me of pain. As my general health improved my other troubles were gradually diminished and after five weeks' use of the Wine of Cardui I was once more a well and happy woman.

WINE of CARDUI

How can a woman who is fully aware of the danger and inevitable consequences hesitate for a moment to seek relief when her menstruation begins to be painful or irregular? Wine of Cardui is a certain cure for these dangerous irregularities. It regulates the menstrual flow, banishes headaches, backaches and bearing-down pains. Severe headaches, bearing-down pains, indigestion, loss of appetite and nervousness are very sure symptoms of female weakness and should be given prompt attention. If you are troubled with menstrual irregularities, do not let them run on. They will certainly grow into dangerous and chronic troubles. Get a bottle of Wine of Cardui and begin treatment at once. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

EAGLES' WINNING EARLY RETURNS

They Tell How Easily They Captured the Big Cash Prize at the Grand Lodge Meeting in New York

BRING NEWS OF BERT AND JOHNNY SWOR

Two Fort Worth Boys Succeed Montgomery and Stone in Leading Parts in "The Wizard of Oz," and Are on Top Wave of Success

Eight members of the victorious degree team of Fort Worth Aerie, No. 42, F. O. E., which won the $500 cash prize at New York one week ago today, returned to Fort Worth last night. They include Sam Gray, W. H. Miller, Joe Tifford, Louis Cella, Tom Browne, George Hutzell, W. H. Walton and Gus Arnold.

The local Eagles report that they won the big prize easily. "Minneapolis, Kansas City, Boston and Cincinnati sent degree teams on to New York to compete, but were put on first and when we finished the other teams withdrew. They all declared that they could not hope to equal our showing and the New York Aerie requested us to draw up a full statement of our work for it, as it wishes to get in line with a fast team for the next grand lodge meeting," said one of the returned Eagles today.

BERT AND JOHNNY SWOR Perhaps the most interesting news brought back is that in regard to Bert and Johnny Swor, two Fort Worth boys, who were seen here last year with a big minstrel company.

"These two well-known Fort Worth boys are now on the top wave of success in New York city," said Sam Gray today. They have the two leading comedy roles in "The Wizard of Oz," and will be seen in Fort Worth in the show this year. Bert is the scarecrow and Johnny is the tin man. Montgomery and Stone had these parts, but quit after a disagreement with the manager. Nearly all the big comedians in New York applied for the places of Montgomery and Stone, but the manager of the comedy happened to see Bert and Johnny work at a theater in Philadelphia and at once offered the places to them. They took up a two-year contract with the minstrel. They have made New Yorkers forget Montgomery and Stone. The manager of the company told me he was going to take them to England with the show for a long run, after the tour through this country."

Letters to The Telegram

To the Editor of The Telegram. Knowing that the press is a power for good and reaches all classes of people and, as I have handled coal oil for the last eighteen years, I feel constrained to write the following warning. We read the papers and see day by day where fires are lighted with coal oil, and the most dangerous and senseless use of the oil can itself. As sure as the sun shines in the heavens the person who pours oil in the stove or on the fire with the coal oil can will eventually have an explosion, be burnt to death or maimed for life. The best advice that I can give is condensed in a word of four letters. Don't. This is the only absolute safety. If you are going to use it anyway, get a small pan, fill it full of ashes and saturate the contents with oil, out in the yard, and then get a large spoon, place those ashes under the kindling and you will have enough oil to start your fire. If you value your life and your property let oil cans, cups, cans and anything from which you throw oil directly on the fire alone. If you have to start your kindling with oil take it out in the yard, never in the house. As the fire lighting season is near I feel that this warning is not inappropriate at this time. W. E. H.

LAUNCHING OF THE MARYLAND

The New Fifteen Thousand Ton Armored Cruiser Takes the Water at the Newport News Yard

FASHION AND LIFE OF THE CITY PRESENT

This Boat Represents Much of Improvement in Naval Construction—Compares Favorably With the Best Vessels of Foreign Powers

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Sept. 12.—There was launched from by ways at the big plant of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock company today the latest addition to Uncle Sam's new navy—the fifteen thousand ton armored cruiser Maryland. The launching was in some respects the most notable in the history of the city; it was, moreover, one of the most beautiful and imposing. There was something indescribably majestic in the sight of the tremendous bulk of gracefully assembled steel descending with rapidly increasing speed down the long greased ways to the bright river, in which so many splendid ships have been christened. There was something curiously inspiring in the scenes—the mountain of molten metal rushing riverward, heading down the ways, the fluttering of thousands of handkerchiefs and the cheers from thousands of throats, the music, the ceremony.

The available space about the ways was packed with enthusiastic humanity. The school children were present in thousands. Work was suspended in the yard, and thousands of brawny workmen mingled in the crowd. From the city came everybody who could spare the time. All the fashion and life of the city was there. From Baltimore, Annapolis and other points in Maryland came big crowds by special and regular trains. Washington sent a large contingent. Richmond was represented and many hundreds of other persons came from intermediate points. On the launching stands were parties of distinguished visitors, including Governor Smith and party of Maryland and numerous naval officers and others from Washington.

The hour for the launching arrived the block was sawn apart at the big ship's bow, and she started on her journey down the ways. It was an instant after the ship began to move that Miss Jennie Scott Waters, daughter of General Waters of Baltimore, flung the christening bottle against the shapely vessel's prow. In less time than it takes to tell the ship was riding gracefully on the bosom of the James. As she came to anchor in midstream a renewed cheer went up from the assembled thousands while the countless tugs and other craft on the river added to the general din with deafening screeches from their whistles.

The cruiser Maryland was authorized by congress along with the West Virginia, the Colorado, the South Dakota, the Nebraska and the California. The vessels represent a long step ahead for the navy. Practically no advance was made after the Brooklyn and New York were built by the Cramps. The new ships have the invulnerability of a battleship, with the speed of a first-class cruiser, and compare favorably with the best vessels of foreign powers.

The principal dimensions of the Maryland are as follows: Length on load water line 592 feet, extreme beam 69 feet, 4-2 inches draft on normal displacement of 13,575 tons, 24 feet 1 inch full load displacement, ammunition and stores aboard, 15,104 tons, designed indicated horsepower, 23,000, speed 22 knots, coal supply 1,550 tons, complement of officers 47, complement of seamen, marines, etc., 782.

The ship will be propelled by two sets of twin screws, vertical inverted triple expansion, direct acting engines, designed for 3,000 collective horsepower, having a stroke of four feet and running at 125 revolutions a minute. Each engine will be placed in a separate watertight compartment, and will have cylinders 28 1/2 inches, 52 1/2 inches and two 74 inches in diameter. Steam at 220 pounds pressure to the square inch will be supplied from 16 water tube boilers of the most improved marine type. The boilers will be arranged in six watertight compartments, the total grate surface being 1,500 square feet, and the total heating surface 70,944 feet. There will be four funnels standing fore and aft.

The main battery will consist of 4 8-inch breech loading rifles and four ten six-inch rapid fire rifles. The eight inch guns will be mounted in pairs in two electrically controlled elliptical balanced turrets of the Highhorn type, placed on the middle of the ship, one forward and one aft, each having an arc of train of at least 270 degrees. On the upper deck at the corners of the superstructure the ship will be 4 six-inch guns, mounted in sponsons, one in each corner, and having either a bow or stern fire, with an arc of train of at least 145 degrees. There will also be the gun-deck battery of 19 six-inch rifles, forming a broadside, five on each side, the arc of fire of each being not less than 110 degrees, or at least 55 degrees forward and 55 degrees aft the beam, except in the case of the forward pair, which are so arranged as to be capable of direct ahead fire.

MORE LIGHT ON OIL WELL TRICK

George C. Hutchings of Fort Worth Tells of Standard Oil Oil Company's Alleged Salt Water Scheme

WHO BUYS WELLS IN WHICH WATER APPEARS

One Company Takes Them All, Caps Them and Put Them Out of Business—What Happened When One Well Pump Broke Down

In last Sunday's Telegram was printed an article concerning salt water in the Beaumont oil wells. The story simply reported the statements of a Fort Worth man, who charged that the Standard Oil Company was responsible for the salt water which appeared in certain of the wells, and that the salt water was introduced through the pipe line from the gulf by simply reversing the pumps—in other words by pumping water from the gulf to the wells instead of pumping oil from the wells to the gulf. The article appeared exclusively in the Telegram and the statements of the Fort Worth man were given simply for what they were worth. It was a grave charge to lodge against the Standard Oil Company, but even if true the swindle would not compare with some other stupendous shady operations of that company. The purpose of the company in thus leading the Beaumont independent oil well owners to believe their wells were worthless was to so reduce the price of them that the agents of the Standard Oil Company could buy them in at a cheap price.

WIDESPREAD PUBLICITY On the two days following the publication in the Telegram, the story appeared in every newspaper of importance in the United States and was the topic of wide comment. McCutcheon, the famous Chicago cartoonist, drew a picture for his paper which represented his idea of the Beaumont situation. The cartoon represented Rockefeller weeping for humanity, his tears splashing into a large funnel which led to an oil well. The idea was that it was not real salt water in the wells, but Rockefeller's tears for humanity. Strong statements have been issued from New York giving denial to the story, but, strange to say, even the Beaumont papers reprinted the Telegram's article and announced that they proposed to investigate it.

WHAT HUTCHINGS SAYS There are many things which go to confirm the belief that there is more truth in the report than would be supposed at first glance. George C. Hutchings of Fort Worth, the man who is here a large fire department supply manufacturer, before departing for St. Louis last night on a visit to his family, threw some additional light on the story. "I was reading about ten days ago," he said, "and while there I heard not one man, but half a dozen men, discussing the matter. It is accepted as a fact down here by those who have investigated and I was surprised that the papers of that district were not first to get hold of the report.

"Before I left Beaumont detectives had been put to work investigating, and it was firmly believed that as a result of their investigations somebody would go to the penitentiary. It probably would be impossible to 'stick' the Standard Oil Company through any of its leading officers for complicity in such a swindle, because that company protects itself in every way possible. I was not here to investigate, but I was surprised that the papers of that district were not first to get hold of the report.

ONLY IN CERTAIN WELLS "But, regarding this salt water story, I may be able to give you a few facts. For instance, is it not strange that salt water should appear in some of the wells and not in all of them? It is perfectly well known that the oil at Beaumont comes from the large reservoir that supplies all the wells. Professor Hill, the government expert, suspected that something was wrong when the salt water first appeared in some of the wells, for he issued a bit of advice to the owners of the Beaumont wells, advising them to hold on to their property. Here's an incident that first aroused suspicion. One well had been showing a large amount of salt water; one day the connecting rod between the pump beam and the plunger in the well broke and pumping stopped. A few minutes later the plunger blew out of the well, which thereupon began to gush pure oil again. This looked so peculiar that an investigation was made which led to other peculiar facts being learned.

WAY THE PLAN WORKED "It is peculiar that during all the salt water sensation one company, which to a 'dead moral certainty' is Standard Oil Company, did not lose confidence in the value of the wells, whereas those that were showing salt water. When a well showed salt water the owner usually was anxious to get it off his hands, or the company controlling it was anxious to dispose of it as quickly as possible. This company, which is believed to be the agent of the oil monopoly, would make an offer for the well, the offer would be accepted and then the new owners would promptly quit pumping from it, cap it, and, in fact, retire it from business. Well after well was disposed of in this manner, notwithstanding the advice of the government expert, who said that he was entirely unable to account for the presence of the salt water in the wells, and that its presence was an unnatural condition which he never encountered before.

SCENE FROM "THE CHRISTIAN"

The theatrical season has opened at last in full blast, with some good attractions booked for this week. The beginning of the season, comedy, drama and legend-drama to reign supreme. The gala week opens Monday matinee and night with Herrmann the Great, with everything new, marvellous and bewildering illusions. Herrmann this season is assisted by the Laskys, the military musicians. Tuesday night only, engagement of the comedian Harry Corson Clarke and company in Sidney Rosenfeld's screaming comedy, "His Absent Boy." Thursday night, the greatest success in dramatic history, Hall Calme's powerful play "The Christian," and to close the week Friday night we are to have Broadhurst and Currie's big musical comedy, "Mr. Jolly of Joliet," with Edward Garvie in the leading role.

HERRMANN THE GREAT

Herrmann the Great, the wonder worker of the twentieth century, pays his annual visit to Greenwall's opera-house Monday matinee and night, Sept. 14. His entertainment this season will prove a surprise even to his warmest admirers. In his program includes, in addition to a number of new sleight-of-hand tricks, some of the most startling illusions ever produced in this country. He carries an entirely new equipment of scenery, an increased company and a very attractive vaudeville feature in the Laskys, the celebrated exponents of military music. Herrmann has virtually palmed himself into the heart of the play-going public, and now that he is there, the magician and illusionist is polished and brilliant enough to maintain his place. His bouquet of tricks wins for him ovations and he proves himself such a master of palming that the audience, though afforded every opportunity for close observation, sees less than ever before. The critical world has given Herrmann the credit of being the greatest of all palmists, and he deserves the prestige, for the sharpest eye is tricked by the trained hands of the magician. He holds the spectators thrilled by his experiments in legend-drama, his parlor magic winning him splendid applause. In concluding this bit of wonderful work Herrmann offers "The Bride Elect." This illusion is helped by the comedy Marie Herrmann. The lady is placed in full view of the audience before a mirror and for a second or so a screen is held between the beautiful figure and the glass, then the "presto" is shouted and—well, Marie Herrmann has disappeared. Ask the wizard to explain; no one else can. In the second part the Laskys are introduced. Mr. and Miss Lasky are touring with Herrmann as military musicians and they are a clever team. Their act in brass music is excellent and they make a decided hit. "The Princess Mahomeda" is another of Herrmann's creations. He is greatest in this illusion, for Marie Herrmann is lifted on the air waves—that is, Herrmann says so, and since no observant eye finds proof for dispute, it is best to believe the wizard. Then the "Queen of Flame" is another illusion which mystifies completely. Miss Lasky is placed within a round skeleton-like cage, which is covered with silk paper. The curtain of the cage is pulled down for a moment and fire brands stick to the paper. There is a sheet of flames, a whiff of smoke and then the skeleton frame is exposed. Where is the lady? Well, she has disappeared, and Herrmann bows his good night to the mystified audience.

HARRY CORSON CLARKE

It is a matter for hearty congratulation that Manager Greenwall has been able to secure a visit of that most popular of present-day comedians, Harry Corson Clarke, who will then present his own selected company in Rosenfeld's best comedy, "His Absent Boy," at Greenwall's opera-house Tuesday night, Sept. 15. Mr. Clarke is a comedian of worldwide reputation, and his name at the head of a company is sufficient guaranty of an evening's entertainment over which neither money nor time has been spared to make it in every way on a par with the best that can be desired both in company and production. Mr. Clarke has never believed in "one-man" companies, but has ever gone on the policy that what the public wants is an even and well-balanced performance. For this reason he has staged nothing in order to surround himself with actors and actresses who will keep up the high standard he has set for himself. It is his pride, too, that his productions are ever to be remembered for their costly mountings and the magnificent gowns of the ladies. And this year he has fallen short in no respect of his previous endeavors. His play gives him, it is said, a greater opportunity than any vehicle he has ever had. He has in it a role that fits him admirably, and that gives him a chance to appear once again in the character of a gay old boy of about 50 years. This central figure round whose misfortunes the story of the play revolves is one Fennie, whose domestic troubles are the source of the fun. Himself a lover of gaiety, Fennie suffers from a wife who is strong-willed and who rules the house and all that are in it. She even allows her husband just so much pocket money, and he, in order to increase the amount, has invented for her benefit a story of an absent boy, the offspring of a former marriage, whom he has supported, and so has obtained an extra hundred dollars each month. The play is taken up with the incidents that occur when the wife bids him invite the boy to come home, and he seems to be on the verge of discovery. There is perhaps nothing so comical as comical despair, and Harry Corson

EDWARD GARVIE, WITH "MR. JOLLY OF JOLIET"

Clarke is a past master at the art of depicting it. The part fits him like a glove, and he gets plenty of opportunity for the display of that fund of quaint, dry humor that has given him prominence in all parts of the country. Clever and pretty Margaret Dale Owen heads the support as the shrewish wife, and sustains her high position to the fullest advantage. In fact the whole production is pleasing, even to the most captious of critics, and is of an order that is rarely seen on the road today. None who enjoy hearty laughter in any quantities can afford to miss so sterling an attraction, which will be seen here for one night, Tuesday, September 15.

"THE CHRISTIAN"

The principal topic among local patrons of the drama is the coming engagement of "The Christian" at Greenwall's opera house, when this wonderful play is presented for Thursday night, September 17. It is with good reason that the public evinces such widespread interest, for no other dramatic offering of the current season will be so important locally. The play is one of the best ever written and is of such a quality that it appeals to all classes.

by accepting conditions as they are thrust upon him. Of course, much of the humor is in the people and what they do, but the lines are often bright and witty. In one scene the prospective bridegroom questions his father-in-law about his character before he consents to take the daughter. Garvie portrays the flip, slangy, ever-ready element of vaudeville in a very humorous and very energetic fashion. At times he is very funny, particularly when he makes up as the old woman. He has a careless, hearty way about him that is very taking. In addition, he sings a song and is clever in odd kinds of specialties.

Mollie Thompson, who plays the female Jolly, does the tough girl in rather the orthodox fashion, but she is bright and amusing, and also plays on musical instruments, and that of all sorts.

The production carries a good and amusing quartet, Jack Marshall is humorous as Peter Pimple, and Ter is above the average in some specialty work. Some of the girls of the chorus are pretty. They all look well in their dresses. As a whole, the farce is good for many laughs.

The story tells of the love of Glory Quayle and John Storm and the obstacles to their happiness, raised by English noblemen and music hall managers. John Storm believes that he has a mission in life, and that this mission is to save souls of unfortunate by supplying their bodily wants. It is not a religious sermon, but the plot portrays a moral that is soul-stirring and convincing. Miss Courtiss, who assumes the leading role, is a Texas woman.

"MR. JOLLY OF JOLIET"

Edward Garvie, the star of Broadhurst & Currie's musical comedy, "Mr. Jolly of Joliet," was almost arrested one Sunday in New York for going into a temperance hotel and asking for an oyster cocktail. He explained that these cocktails were made without spirituous liquors. "Mr. Jolly of Joliet" comes to Greenwall's opera house Friday, September 18.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat said: Edward Garvie is stout, but nimble and energetic; fat and funny. "Mr. Jolly of Joliet" could not have been much jollier, unless he had been jollying.

Broadhurst & Currie generally put on productions at which it is natural to laugh, and consequently a laugh is expected out of Mr. Jolly.

The play is a farce with a number of clever turns. Mr. Jolly is a vaudeville artist in distress. He is mistaken as a father of a young man about to be married, and starts the complications

WEEK CLOSES MARKET STEADY

Receipts During Week Were Lighter and Prices Show a Slight Gain

NORTH FORT WORTH, Sept. 12.—The week closes with all markets steady. Lighter receipts having caused prices in the cattle market to advance about 10c and to keep that gain until the close.

The hog market is steady and active. This morning brought $6.25, and they were a mixed lot at that. The outlook for receipts next week is uncertain, but they will probably be as heavy or heavier than they have been for the past six days.

While there is a good deal of talk of the present low prices of cattle, figures show that the markets today are no worse than they were at the beginning of the year, and in some respects they show improvement over the conditions that prevailed during the first three months of 1902.

Four bulls, averaging 1,070 pounds, sold today for $1.85. The calf market is steady and closes with the week's gain of 25c retained. Light calves, averaging 200 pounds, brought $2.25.

IN GRAIN PITS WEATHER EFFECT

Opinion Is That Much of the Grain in Shock Will Not Come to Market

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—Wheat—Wretched weather conditions in the northwest have the dominating factors in today's trading. Heavy rains and lower temperatures were general throughout the spring wheat belt, and there is no promise of any let-up. The situation can hardly be worse for the grain in the fields, thrashing and movement. One wire says: "This wet weather will be heard from a long way off. It is certainly in shock will never come to market."

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 12.—The market for spot cotton was steady. Middlings were in limited demand at 6.40c. Receipts, 3,000 bales of which 2,700 bales were American cotton.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Demand for spot cotton in Liverpool was a good tone today, but not particularly for the near positions, and there was a distinctly better feeling here this morning.

THERE IS OPPOSITION
Advance in East-bound Rate is Not Favored

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—Serious opposition has developed to the proposed advance in east-bound grain and flour rates, and the indications are that the rates will not be put up on October 1 as intended.

The chief traffic officials of the eastern railroads are in session here considering the matter, and a large majority of the roads appear to think the advance would be a serious mistake. A dispatch was sent to the eastern trunk line asking them to give their consent to the present rates being continued.

One of the obstacles in the way of the advance is the objection of the Chicago & North Western to the four rate on the Atlantic seaboard. Their consent is necessary to make the new rate effective.

The representatives of the Wisconsin Central and of one or two other western lines were emphatic in their declaration that under no circumstances would they consent to an advance in the four rate. Such advance, they said, would be disastrous to the milling interests at Minneapolis and other northwestern points, because they would not be able to compete with the western millers who are finding a cheaper outlet for export flour via the gulf lines.

The gulf competition, however, is mainly responsible for the feeling that the rates on grain and flour to the Atlantic seaboard should not be advanced. While the traffic officials seemed to be unanimous in the opinion that the rates to the coast should not be advanced, the rates to the northwest through the port of New Orleans still have no advance if no advance in the east-bound rates is made. The corn movement at places at 50 per cent and of four 30 per cent.

Jaws

Tightly Locked From Nervous Spasms.
Physicians Could Not Prevent Fits.
Dr. Miles' Nervine Cured My Wife.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has been successfully tried in thousands of cases of nervous disorders, but never has it made a better record than when used in the treatment of fits or spasms. Thousands of testimonials prove this, and in nearly every instance the writer has stated that the fits ceased after the first dose of Nervine was given. The statement is repeated in the following:

"Seven years ago my wife commenced having spasms or fits and I called in my physician and he said she was paralytic. He rubbed her with salt water and gave her calomel and she eventually got some better, but in a short time she had another attack. She was confined to her bed for three months and the doctor could not help her. She had fits frequently, some times very severe. Her hands would cramp so we could not open them and she finally got so her jaws would become locked. Finally I saw the doctor was doing her no good and ordered a bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. She received so much benefit from the first bottle that I got some more. She has taken a number of bottles but has never had a fit since taking the first dose. She also thinks very highly of Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills and is never without them. If there is any way of making this financial stronger do so because of the good the Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did my wife."—WM. Y. ALLEN, P. M., Edinville, Miss.

THE LOVE OF LULU AND LEANDER.

1. LULU: "Why, Charley Onthespot! I'm delighted to see you. We are going down to see the charming Leander is building for us to live in after we are married. Oh, Charley, do come with us and have a look at it. It is just too sweet for anything."

2. LEANDER: "Well, Charley, what do you think of it? I haven't spared expense to make it perfect. I tell you what, I am proud of it, old man."

CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "Leander, you certainly ought to be a happy man. Such a beautiful home and such a queen to share it with you."

3. LEANDER (as the hod carrier accidentally drops a brick): "W-e-o-w! You beast! You ruffian! You scum of the earth! I'll have you discharged for that! Come down here! I'll pound the life out of you!"

4. THE HOD-CARRIER: "Beast am I? Ruffian is it? Scum of the earth, eh? Have me discharged, will you? Pound the life out of me? Well, go ahead."

5. THE POLICEMAN: "It's no use to make any explanations to me. Talk to the judge, that's what you can do! My jooty is to arrest you for fighting! Come on!"

6. CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "Of course you know, Lulu, I couldn't interfere with an officer in making an arrest."
 LULU: "Certainly not. It was all Leander's fault. That poor man didn't intend dropping that brick. Leander called him such awful names the man couldn't help resenting it. Look at my new gown—completely ruined. Leander has no tact at all!"
